I. Origin of the Family Wellness Court

The Family Wellness Court (“FWC”) was developed to better meet the needs of families in Humboldt County who come to the attention of the Hoopa Valley Tribe Children and Family Services (“HVT CFS”) and the County Child Welfare Services Division of the Department of Health and Human Services and where substance use is a contributing factor in the child abuse and neglect allegations.

In response to the opioid epidemic in Humboldt County, the Humboldt Superior Court and the Hoopa Tribal Court, through a joint powers agreement, have created the FWC as alternative to the juvenile dependency system. The FWC is presided over by two judges—a tribal court judge and a state court judge—and operates under California state law, Federal law, and Hoopa tribal law. The FWC embraces components of tribal healing to wellness and collaborative court approaches, and is informed by Hoopa traditions, culture, and Puhlik-la Justice. What we believe is that through introspection, reflection, and connection, we heal ourselves and each other. Wellness is achieved through a holistic approach to do what is right with the knowledge that together we will become stronger and more resilient to support the next generation. This approach is contrasted with the western justice approach as illustrated in the table below.

HOOPA	Native American Approach	Western Justice Approach

II. Vision and Mission of the Family Wellness Court

The FWC vision is: Children grow up in our community in safe, healthy, and culturally-grounded families.

The FWC mission is: The new court is committed to cultural humility and lifting the cloud of despair and pain of Hupa families, empowering them to make healthy decisions and breaks the cycle of addiction and child abuse & neglect by providing a path to recover, heal, and grow through:

- A coordinated and respectful family wellness team approach;
- Comprehensive, culturally competent, and community-involved services;
- Frequent monitoring; and
- A support system for family recovery and child well-being.

III. FWC Goals¹

The FWC has the following six goals:

1. Recovery Goals
 - Participants/Parents will enter substance use treatment more quickly, spend more total days in treatment, and complete treatment at a higher rate than the comparison group in the local juvenile dependency court
 - Participants/Parents who had a newborn baby exposed to substances in-utero and have another baby will not have another child born with a positive toxicology screen.
2. Remain at Home Goals (For families where children remain at home)
 - Children will remain at home at a higher rate than the comparison group in the local juvenile dependency court
3. Reunification Goals (For families where children are removed from home)
 - Children who were removed will be reunified within 12 months of FWC entry at a higher rate than the comparison group in the local juvenile dependency court
4. Reduction of Recidivism Goals
 - Parents who graduate from the FWC will not come to the attention of the county Child Welfare Services.

¹ Outcome measure data is obtained from Humboldt County Child Welfare Services, System Improvement Plan Annual Progress Report 7/29/16 <https://humboldt.gov.org/DocumentCenter/Home/View/60830> and University of California at Berkeley Center for Social Services Research website. URL: <http://www.childsworld.ca.gov/PG1358.htm>.

5. Re-entry Goals
 - Children who are living with their parents or an Indian custodian, or a relative or guardian will not re-enter foster care.
6. Enhanced Family Well-being Goals (See Section VIII. D. and E. Assessment and Treatment based on Social Determinants of Health)
 - Families have enhanced capacity to provide for their children’s needs as measured by critical needs identified at entry into the FWC and addressed by the family during their participation in the FWC, such as:
 - Children receive timely dental and physical exams
 - Children receive timely services to meet their social, emotional, developmental, and educational needs
 - Families will have an increase in cultural involvement, social support, and community connections at commencement as compared to when they first entered the FWC
 - Families will have fewer critical and other needs at commencement as compared to when they entered the FWC, such as:
 - (Education) Parents without a high school diploma will be enrolled and actively pursuing their GED within six months of entering Court, as deemed appropriate by the team.
 - (Employment) Parents will be actively employed or enrolled in an education program within twelve months of entering Court.
 - (Driving) Parents whose driving privileges have been revoked will actively go through the process of having their driving privileges reinstated.
 - (Warrants) Parents with old warrants will actively go through the process of having them cleared.
 - Eligible family members will actively pursue expungement of old criminal cases.

IV. FWC Approach

- A Focus on Returning to Harmony

We focus on healing the whole family. We view healing as a journey experienced through Positive Directed Intervention (for more detail, see Section VIII. C. Family Wellness Team). Participants/Families benefit from a multi-disciplinary team (the Family Wellness Team) that functions as an extended family and accompanies participants/families on their unique journeys. The judges, who are members of this team, have an active and intensive role in participants’/families’ process.
- Preserving Dignity and Promoting Respect and Respecting the Self-Determination of the Participants/Families

- We are mindful of where the court orientation and hearings are held, the seating arrangement, and other details because it is our job to preserve the dignity of families, promote respect, and motivate participants/families in their self-healing.
- Using a Peer/Extended Family Support Team Model
We use a model where participants/families benefit from the support of their peers and family (broadly defined) at hearings. Court hearings are closed to the public, but open to all FWC participants/families. Should they not want this peer support, the they can let us know and their court hearings will be held privately.
 - A Therapeutic Model
We use a therapeutic model where participants/families are held accountable for their behavior. We do this by creating opportunities for self-healing. We celebrate participants/families and recognize them for all (little and big) steps taken in their recovery and care for their children, because those victories help participants/families overcome shame and narrate new stories about themselves. We hold them accountable to themselves and others by supporting actions, which can be taken by participants/families to make things right. All self-healing opportunities are tailored to the unique needs of each family. We acknowledge the spiritual and holistic dimensions of healing as part of the path to wellness. We strive to be flexible and creative in how we offer these opportunities.
 - Active Engagement of the Community
We understand that families heal within communities, and that by actively engaging in our communities, we may learn cultural humility and develop community prevention strategies as we strive to deliver comprehensive parenting and child development, treatment, and other services tailored to meet the needs of our families.

V. Expectations for Families in the FWC

VI. Legal Eligibility

A family is legally eligible for the FWC if:

- One parent is a Hoopa Valley Tribal member;
- The parent has a child who is 5 years old or younger and is a Hoopa Valley Tribal member or eligible for membership;
- The parent is open to participating in the family wellness team and engaging in chemical dependency treatment and supportive services;
- A petition alleges facts that one or both parents have a substance use disorder; and
- After attorney advisement, both parents are willing to participate in the FWC or one parent is willing and the other is willing to sign a waiver.

VII. Initiating the FWC Process

A. Referrals

Anyone may refer a family to the FWC by contacting the county Child Welfare Services division of the Department of Health and Human Services in Humboldt County. Upon making a referral and within three business days (one business day if the children are in protective custody), the social worker schedules a family team meeting that will include both County and HVT CFS social workers. The County and HVT CFS social workers will make a joint risk assessment and will use structured decision-making to determine whether (1) the children are described by section 300 of the California Welfare and Institutions Code and (2) whether the children can safely remain in the home. The families may opt into the FWC at the initial hearing or at any subsequent hearing, right up to the dispositional hearing in the Humboldt Superior Court.

B. Non-Detained Petitions

➤ Petition and Service

If the joint risk assessment is that (1) the children should come within the jurisdiction of the court; (2) the children should remain in the home, and (3) the family is eligible and interested in participating in the FWC, the County and HVT CFS social workers will talk with the family to find out whether they are eligible and interested in learning more about the FWC.

If a family is eligible and interested, the county social worker:

1. Drafts a non-detained petition and initial court report;
2. Completes the FWC Eligibility Referral Form;
3. Files the non-detained petition, the initial court report, and the FWC Referral Form in Superior Court;

4. Serves copies of the non-detained petition, the initial court reports and orders, and the FWC Eligibility Referral Form on:
 - The parents;
 - Hoopa Tribal Court;
 - Hoopa Valley Tribe Child and Family Services;
 - Hoopa Tribal Attorney;
 - The FWC Court Coordinator; and
 - The Dependency Legal Group.

➤ Notice of Hearing and Appointment of Counsel

Upon receipt of the Petition and FWC Eligibility Referral Form, the FWC Court Coordinator (1) calendars an initial hearing in FWC within 15 days of the date the petition was filed; and (2) a date for orientation to FWC within seven days of the date the petition was filed.

On the same day of receipt of the petition, the court coordinator (1) obtains and sends a court order appointing Dependency Legal Group to represent the parent(s) and child(ren); and (2) emails notice of the initial hearing and FWC orientation to the following:

- Hoopa Tribal Court;
- Hoopa Valley Tribe Child and Family Services;
- Hoopa Tribal Attorney;
- Child Welfare Services;
- County Counsel;
- The FWC Court Coordinator; and
- The Dependency Legal Group.

Notice of the initial hearing and FWC orientation is mailed to the parents.

The court coordinator is responsible to secure the participation of all involved service providers, social workers, and/or other community support persons at the FWC orientation.

Upon receipt of the order of appointment and Notice of Hearing, Dependency Legal Services immediately assigns a separate attorney for each parent and an attorney for children.

➤ Informed Consent to FWC Jurisdiction

The Dependency Legal Services Attorneys meet with their clients as soon as possible after the order of appointment to review the petition and advise the family of their legal rights, the FWC program, and discuss advantages/disadvantages of opting into the FWC.

If their client opts to participate in the FWC, the attorneys counsel the client to complete and sign the waiver and consent forms that are required as a condition of participation in FWC.

The completed waiver and consent forms are due at the Clerk's office no later than 12 days after the date the petition was filed.

Copies of the forms must be served (via email) on:

- Hoopa Tribal Court;
- Hoopa Valley Tribe Children and Family Services;
- Hoopa Tribal Attorney;
- The FWC Court Coordinator;
- The Dependency Legal Group;
- Child Welfare Services; and
- County Counsel.

If the consent forms cannot be timely filed and served, the attorney for the party may contact the FWC court coordinator to request that the forms be filed at the initial hearing. If the family is still unsure whether to proceed in FWC at the initial hearing, their attorney may request that the FWC court coordinator calendar a Jurisdiction hearing in FWC. However, in no cases can receipt of the consent and waiver forms be deferred past the date of the jurisdiction hearing.

If the family elects not to proceed in FWC prior to the initial hearing, the attorney for the party must notify the court coordinator no later than twelve days after the petition was filed so that the initial hearing can be re-calendared in Superior.

C. Detained Petitions

➤ Petition and Service

If the joint risk assessment is that (1) the children should come within the jurisdiction of the court; (2) the children should be placed in protective custody, and (3) the family is eligible and interested in participating in the FWC; the County and HVT CFS social workers will talk with the family to find out whether they are eligible and interested in learning more about the FWC.

If a family is eligible and interested, the county social worker:

1. Obtains a protective custody warrant from the Juvenile Court (unless there are exigent circumstances to justify taking the children into protective custody without a warrant);
2. Serves the warrant and takes the children into protective custody;

3. Drafts a petition and detention report;
4. Completes the FWC Eligibility Referral Form;
5. Files the petition, detention report, and the FWC Referral Form in Superior Court;
6. Serves copies of the petition, any court reports and orders, notice of a detention/initial hearing, and the FWC Eligibility Referral Form on:
 - Hoopa Tribal Court;
 - Hoopa Valley Tribe Children and Family Services;
 - Hoopa Tribal Attorney;
 - The FWC Court Coordinator;
 - Parents/Guardians;
 - Substitute Care Providers; and
 - The Dependency Legal Group.

Upon receipt of the Petition and FWC Eligibility Referral Form, the FWC Court Coordinator, in consultation with the Superior Court Clerk, (1) calendars a detention/initial hearing in Superior Court on the next court date after the petition was filed and (2) sets the date for FWC orientation to trail the initial/detention hearing unless the family agrees to have their case heard in the FWC at this hearing.

➤ Informed Consent to FWC Jurisdiction

The Dependency Legal Services Attorneys meet with their clients as soon as possible after receiving notice of the initial/detention hearing and the FWC Eligibility Referral. The attorneys review the allegations in the petition with their clients and advise the family of their legal rights, the FWC program, and discuss advantages/disadvantages of opting into the FWC.

If their client opts to participate in the FWC prior to the initial/detention hearing, the attorneys counsel the client to complete and sign the waiver and consent forms that are required as a condition of participation in FWC and immediately notifies the FWC court coordinator that the family will agree to participate in FWC at detention.

If the parents have not had sufficient time to discuss the FWC hearing with their attorney, prior to signing the waiver and consent forms, they ask the FWC court to conduct a detention hearing the following day, and/or they may request (through counsel) that a jurisdiction hearing be calendared in FWC within 15 days of the date the Superior Court issues a detention order.

Copies of the waiver and consent forms must be served (via email) on:

- Hoopa Tribal Court;

- Hoopa Valley Tribe Children and Family Services;
- Hoopa Tribal Attorney;
- The FWC court coordinator;
- The Dependency Legal Group;
- Child Welfare Services; and
- County Counsel.

D. Initial Hearing

At the initial hearing, the HVT CFS Social Worker and the Chief Judge of the Hoopa Tribal Court will attempt to be present in person or via skype. The initial hearing can be continued for one day for families to decide if they want to participate in the FWC. After the initial hearing, if the family chooses to participate in the FWC, then all subsequent hearings are held in the FWC.

VIII. Orientation

Orientation is provided at a location close to where the family lives in a culturally sensitive space. The court coordinator conducts the family's orientation. The HVT CFS social worker and family mentor or other graduate of the FWC may participate in the orientation depending on the wishes of the family. During the orientation, the family is given an overview of the FWC and learns about the FWC expectations, the role of the family wellness team, the court phases, and commencement requirements. The court coordinator makes sure that the family is legally eligible for entry into the FWC and that all required court forms (See Appendix A. FWC Forms) are completed and signed.

IX. Court Hearings

At the first court appearance, the family will meet their Family Wellness Team, unless they have already met during the investigation. The judges will describe the FWC approach and confirm that the family's participation is voluntary and that the family is legally eligible for participation. Upon acceptance into the FWC, the participant/family agrees to cooperate with the Family Wellness Team and other agencies involved in their case, to discuss and exchange information during the wellness team meetings and court hearings that follow the treatment team meetings, and to agree to the family wellness team accompanying them on their healing journey. This Agreement is signed in court. (See Appendix A. Forms).

Attorneys are generally not present at court hearings. However, if a family prefers that their attorney be present nothing prohibits the attorneys presence at any hearing. California statute and rules 7.26 and 7.27 of the Humboldt Superior Court provide a mechanism for attorneys to be notified of nonstatutory hearings when a petition for modification of orders relating to new service plans/family wellness plans or placement changes are sought.

X. Wellness Team

Extended Family and Family Wellness Approach

The wellness team is a multidisciplinary team that functions as a part of the client's extended family. Its purpose is to empower the family to design and implement a family wellness plan that describes S.M.A.R.T. (specific, measurable, attainable, relevant, and timely) behavioral milestones and interventions that advance the strengths and personal power of the participating family.

Practice Model

The wellness team uses the Practice Model³, which is a set of values, practices and tools to guide staff in engaging families, tribal communities and extended networks in a way that is responsive to culture and trauma. The Practice Model is a system-wide change to improve the experience & outcomes of children, families and the communities in our region over generations. It is also a strength-based approach that builds on the following 5 protective factors:

1. Family Resilience- our families are managing stress and functioning in the face of challenges, adversity and trauma including historical, family, and community trauma
2. Social and Cultural Connections- our families may need supports forming positive relationships that provide emotional, informational, and spiritual support;
3. Knowledge of parenting and child development (physical, cognitive, language, social and emotional)- because children learn through play, trial/error, routines, nurturing and cultural connections, our families will gain this knowledge and skills to help their children thrive;
4. Concrete support in times of critical need- our families may need the basics such as food, housing, and adequate income; these will be identified and supports put in place to minimize the stress caused by these challenges. Without those stressors, our families can seek out additional supports to thrive such as spiritual, medical treatment, and mental health care; and
5. Social and emotional competence of children- our families may need support to develop their family and child interactions; when children develop the ability to clearly communicate, recognize and regulate their emotions, and establish and maintain relationships, they have the foundational skills critical to learn and enjoy emotional health and wellbeing.

Healing Journey

Participants/families will be empowered to direct their own recovery. Their voice and choice of participants/families on mutually agreed upon agencies for treatment will guide the family treatment team. Participants/families will be accorded respect and dignity throughout the process. Participants/families will always be encouraged to explain events from their perspective.

Each team member is committed to using these approaches and walks with the family on their own healing journey. This journey starts with a Family Wellness Plan tailored to the individualized needs of each family. The team uses collective case management of participant/family wellness plans that are closely and regularly monitored for progress and impediments. The team works to not only solicit and connect with treatment and other useful resources, but also to support and supervise the components of participant's/family's wellness plan. The team supports the family through advancement in the four court phases. The team makes recommendations and decisions regarding any action that should be taken with each participant/family.

Team Meetings

The team meets every other week before informal court hearings that are held immediately following team meetings. The team agrees to invite others to these team meetings and court hearings depending on the presenting family issues and identified needs. Attorneys generally will not be part of these pre-court meetings, unless the court is holding a statutory hearing, the children's safety in the home is at issue, or the one of the participants requests the presence of their attorney

Composition of Team

All team members will work to build a trusting relationship with families, talk directly and candidly, giving positive encouragement, and reinforcing positive behaviors. They have frequent contact with the family, staying apprised of how each family is doing through the family wellness team meetings.

Team members minimally include the participant/family, two judges, family mentor, social workers (Hoopa Valley Tribe Children and Family Services and Humboldt Department of Human Services), clinical case manager, representative from Alcohol and Drug Treatment, representative from Mental Health, Community Health Worker, Cultural mentor and/or tribal elder (participant/family-identified supports).

The FTW may also include other team members to be identified based on the specific circumstances of each family. For example, children’s mental health, public health nurse, education and employment service providers, Early/Head Start, Hoopa Valley Tribal health providers (nutritionist, traditional healer, K’ima:w Medical Center, Hoopa vocational rehabilitation, Hoopa TANF, Two Feathers, Warrior Institute, Wild Souls (equine therapy), Changing Tides (formerly Humboldt Child Care Council), parent mentors/partners, probation, housing, attorneys, tribal law enforcement, and FWC alumni and other community partners).

Role of Team Members

1. Participant/Family- actively participates in developing the Family Wellness Plan, identifying family recovery goals and support systems.
2. Judges- preside over the FWC with a focus on dual healing goals of family recovery and child well-being. The judges build a trusting relationship with families, talk directly and candidly, giving positive encouragement, and reinforcing positive behaviors. They have frequent court hearings, and stay apprised of how each family is doing through the family wellness team meetings.
3. Court Coordinators- manage any associated grants for the FWC (compliance, reporting), responsible for scheduling and conducting family orientations, in coordination with attorneys, they ensure families are legally eligible for the FWC), maintain family court case files, maintain all program agreements with all court-connected programs, convene and participate in the Family Wellness Team meetings, schedule all court hearings, set the agenda for and convene the monthly core operational team and quarterly steering committee meetings.
4. Social Workers- a HVT CFS social worker and County social worker are assigned to the family and have the following responsibilities: (1) coordinate the use of community-based services such as critical need services, treatment, and other services. to provide a strong foundation for recovery, family functioning, and child well-being; (2) contribute to the development of a Family Wellness Plan for each participating family; (3) The social workers (County and HVT CWS) will jointly complete the Structured Decision Making (SDM) tools as applicable for the continual assessment on safety, and for guidance on case opening, reunification, and case closure and (3) prepare court reports.
5. Clinical Case Manager- a County case manager is assigned to the family and has the following responsibilities: (1) meets with participants/families at least weekly; (2) ensures “warm hand off” to all appropriate assessments, treatment, and other services; (3) closely monitors progress on the participants’/families’ wellness plan; and (4) coordinates all supports to enable the participants/family members to achieve their goals and advance through the FWC phases.

6. Mental Health Clinicians – a mental health professional focusing on the parent and the child are responsible for conducting the clinical assessments and providing on-going clinical care.
7. Public Health Nurse – a public health nurse is responsible for partnering with the team for ongoing case management guided by the family’s wellness plan, refer and link to services based on the family’s needs as determined in the family wellness meetings, including identifying medical and psychosocial needs of each member of the family, and parenting needs. Target population is children birth to 5 years old with an emphasis on birth to 3 years.
8. Treatment providers- provide the interventions (wellness and aftercare supports) identified in the family’s wellness plan, attend Family Wellness team meetings as appropriate, and attend court hearings as appropriate.
9. Family mentors- responsible for making the Family Wellness Team aware of cultural events and traditional medicine opportunities that are available; provides traditional teachings; and at the family’s option, assists the family to learn more about their ancestry, and advocates for the family’s voice and choice in treatment and other interventions, translating when necessary between the family members and the other members of the family wellness team.
10. Attorneys- in coordination with court coordinators, they assist with FWC legal eligibility. They are responsible for legal advisement, advocacy, and representation of clients consistent with California Rules of Court, rule 5.660 and local rules of the Hoopa Valley Tribal Court and the Humboldt Superior Court. Appear on behalf of clients at all statutory hearings under the Welfare and Institutions Code, and may appear at informal court hearings at the request of their clients.
11. FWC alumni – After commencement, family members may be asked to serve as a mentor for new participants/families entering the FWC, group sessions, and/or perform public speaking as requested by the FWC.
12. Tribal elder mentors – Within local tribal cultures, elders occupy a respected position with acquired wisdom and experience; they advise, encourage and resolve disputes.
13. Community Health Workers- meet regularly with the families, ensure “warm hand-off” to all necessary resources, closely monitor families progress, and support families to successfully advance through FWC phases.

Training for Family Wellness Team Members

All team members will be cross-trained on a range of training to be identified by the Steering Committee. The training will include cultural competency training.

Case Planning- Short-term and Long-term Goals Around Safety, Recovery, and SDOH

The family treatment team will work together to support the participant/family to shape his/her/their behavior by being mindful to not place excessive demands on participants/families, which can overwhelm them and cause them to give up. These will be incorporated into the family wellness plan. The team, with the family, will identify short-term goals and long-term goals. Short-term behaviors are those that (1) participants/families are readily capable of engaging in and (2) are necessary for longer-term objectives to be attained. Examples may include attendance at counseling sessions or provision of urine specimens. Long-term behaviors are those that (1) are ultimately desired, but (2) may take time to accomplish. Examples may include earning a GED or obtaining gainful employment.

For participants/family members who are addicted to or dependent on drugs or alcohol—i.e., they suffer from severe cravings or withdrawal symptoms when they stop using the substance—abstinence should be conceptualized as a long-term goal. Substance use is compulsive for these individuals and they may be expected to require time and perhaps multiple relapses before achieving abstinence. In contrast, for those participants/family members who merely abuse or misuse drugs, abstinence should be conceptualized as a short-term goal. The focus will be on harm reduction and “meeting the participants/families where they are at” to achieve abstinence.

XI. Family Wellness Plan

The FWP has specific, measurable, attainable, relevant, and timely (S.M.A.R.T.) goals, objectives, and action steps that clearly identify the behavioral changes and the services needed to support the family’s desired changes. The FWP includes a specific step-by-step, task-oriented plan to meet each goal. It identifies who is responsible for each of the tasks within the FWP, how the task will be accomplished, who to consult when confronted with barriers, and a timeline for both the step-by-step tasks and the overall goals.

The FWP is strength-based, culturally responsive, and uniquely tailored for each participating family. They are created and updated regularly with the family using structured decision-making to identify barriers and to celebrate successes as each task is accomplished. The family’s progress in reaching behavioral milestones is recognized by the FWC. (See Section XV). The key components of a FWP are interventions and behavioral milestones tailored to meet the needs of each family.

Interventions

1. Culturally Appropriate Parenting and Child Development Services⁴

⁴ See National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges bench card and other materials <https://www.ncjfcj.org/Questions-To-Ask-Child-Welfare>

- A. Parenting courses that integrate culturally appropriate childrearing philosophies and practices. In addition, evidenced-based programs, such as the County's SafeCare program for adults with children ages 0 to 5 (stationed in Willow Creek, this program services all East County residents who learn how their parenting decisions and actions affect their child's growth and development) and Motherhood is Sacred and Fatherhood is Sacred curricula.
 - B. Services related to the child's physical health such as home nurse visits offered by the County and/or K'ima:w Medical Center
 - C. Services related to the child's social, emotional, developmental, and spiritual health (for example, 10-day bonding)
 - D. Services related to trauma and parenting (Fatherhood is Sacred and Motherhood is Sacred curricula)
 - E. Services related to the child's educational/child care setting
 - F. Services related to family time (child, parents, siblings, extended family time together) such as parent coaching
 - G. Services related to fetal alcohol spectrum disorders
 - H. Services related to domestic violence
2. Culturally Appropriate Treatment and Other Culturally Appropriate Services
- A. Individual counseling and coaching- focus is on concrete, real world challenges, such as strategies for how to avoid drug-using friends, how to apply for a job and what to say about an addiction problem, where to obtain drug-free housing
 - B. Therapies- focus is on interpersonal and intrapersonal problems with moods, impulse, and relationships. Most evidence-based therapies help participants/family members acquire specific skills rather than just insights or problem recognition. Many can teach useful skills such as relapse prevention, decisional balance, parenting skills, relationship skills, etc., within 24 weekly sessions or less. Some of these evidence-based therapies that will be available to participants/families include:
 - 1) Motivational interviewing and motivational enhancement therapy
 - 2) Positive reinforcement and recognition of recovery work accomplished
 - 3) Culturally appropriate therapy
 - 4) Community reinforcement and family training
 - 5) Contingency management
 - 6) Relapse prevention
 - 7) Multi-systemic family therapy
 - 8) Behavioral couples therapy
 - 9) 12-step facilitation therapy
 - 10) Medical Assistance Treatment (MAT)

C. Other Cultural Activities

- 1) Traditional Healer (Use Hupa word here)
- 2) Traditional storytelling and song sharing
- 3) Sweat lodge (Women- as part of purification ceremony; Men- 3-10 days with song and prayer)
- 4) Traditional Talking Circle (Use Hupa word here)
- 5) Ceremonial activities
- 6) Mindfulness activities- mediation, prayer, decolonized diet (no sugar, nonGMOs, low carbs), and activities that use both the hand and mind (such as beading, weaving)
- 7) Rite of passages for youth

D. Re-entry from Residential Treatment

- 1) Re-entry discussions will occur concurrently with inpatient treatment and will include the participant's/family member's counselor and case manager as part of the FWT.
- 2) The participant/family member, counselor and case manager will be invited to be part of the FWT and participate in regular FWT meetings in person or via conference call, Skype, etc.
- 3) On-going case management including monthly contacts and regular FWT meetings will occur during treatment to identify needs and develop a support for re-entry back into the participants/family members community.
- 4) The Re-entry plan will include natural helpers, community supports, and culturally appropriate intensive outpatient treatment, after care, support groups, structured activities, and participation in Hoopa services, events, and ceremonies.
- 5) On-going case management will also include identifying Social Determinants of Health needs for the family and identifying services to meet those needs. All referrals for these services will be completed prior to discharging from treatment to avoid gaps in services.

3. Trauma-Informed Approaches- focus on recovery, are client-driven, involve cultural humility, and provide trauma-specific services. A trauma-informed approach asks, "What happened to this person or this person's family?" and "What's strong with you?" rather than "What's wrong with this person?" and "What's wrong with you?" The FWT uses a trauma-informed approach, which emphasizes that trust is developed over time by making tasks clear and maintaining appropriate boundaries, steps are taken to ensure physical and emotional safety, the client's voice and choice in interventions is prioritized, the client's strengths and building of life skills is encouraged, and collaboration with the family is necessary (i.e. the FWT works together with the family on goals rather than in a top-down manner).⁵ Some of the trauma-informed services that will be available include:

⁵ Five Principles of Trauma-informed care, Creating Cultures of Trauma Informed Care (CCTIC)-Community Connections. See Indian Country Child Trauma Center \(ICCTC\) website for resources.

- 1) Trauma Informed Movement⁶
- 2) Trauma focused cognitive behavioral therapy (“CBT”)
- 3) Dialectical Behavioral Therapy (“DBT”)
- 4) Eye movement desensitization and reprocessing (“EMDR”)
- 5) Prolonged Exposure
- 6) Treatment for historical trauma e.g. Historical Trauma and Unresolved Grief (HTUG)

4. Addressing Critical Service Needs (based on social determinants of health and specific needs identified by the participants/families with their family treatment team)

The social determinants of health are the conditions in which we live, learn, work, and play.⁸ These conditions include a broad range of socioeconomic and environmental factors, such as air and water quality, the quality of the built environment (e.g., housing quality; land use; transportation access and availability; street, park, and playground safety; workplace safety; etc.), opportunities for employment, income, early childhood development and education, access to healthy foods, health insurance coverage and access to health care services, safety from crime and violence, culturally and linguistically appropriate services in all sectors, protection against institutionalized forms of racism and discrimination, and public and private policies and programs that prioritize individual and community health in all actions.⁹ Children who have their basic needs met, including love,

The following social determinants of health are listed here as a guide to the type of intervention services that may be available to families. The FWT will be responsible for ensuring that SDOH family needs are understood as part of the family wellness assessment and identifying services that a team member can provide by giving a “warm hand off” to the participant/family.

Relapse Prevention Plan ("RPP")

The family treatment team, with the family, will develop the RPP and continually monitor the effectiveness of the RPP. When there is evidence of problems in maintaining sobriety, or complying with the RPP, the family treatment team will work with participants to make changes in the RPP including a return to treatment or an increase in the level of care of an ongoing treatment. Family RPPs will be tailored to each family and address the following:

1. Identifying and managing relapse warning signs;
2. Understanding the "cues" that trigger craving and managing craving and urges;
3. Identifying, disputing and replacing patterns of thinking that increase relapse risk;
4. Anticipating high-risk relapse scenarios and developing effective coping skills;
5. Identifying and learning to manage emotional states;
6. Identifying and coping with social pressure to use;
7. Learning 'damage control' to interrupt lapses early in the process and return to treatment;
8. Improving interpersonal relationships and developing a recovery support system;
9. Developing parenting skills that address the everyday stressors;
10. Developing employment and financial management skills;
11. Create a relapse response and safety plan and include the family wellness team in the agreements and goals;

12. Creating a more balanced and structured lifestyle; and
13. Learning appropriate family advocacy skills.

Court Hearings and Wellness Plan

The FWP is reviewed at every court appearance, and revisions are made according to ongoing assessment and goals that have been achieved. The social worker submits the case plan with the court report to the FWC 10 calendar days before the disposition hearing and at status review hearings, and gives the court an update every two days before (nonstatutory) hearings that are held every other week in phase one.

Communication Among Family Team Members

The FWT agree to email and phone one another regularly to assure that families' care and supports are coordinated and seamless. The court coordinator will create a hard copy calendar for each family and team members agree to update this calendar with families to ensure that no one team member is expecting the family to do something which is not doable as part of their FWP. The FWT will meet or conference call to discuss families during the off-calendar court weeks as determined by the FWT during their post-court hearing debrief (see below). If the family has a set back, team members agree that they will email one another on the day they learn of the setback so that the FWT can wrap the family in supportive services.

Court reports will be compiled and filed by the court coordinator two days before each informal court hearing based on summaries provided by team members, who agree to send their summaries three days before each court hearing date. The court coordinator will attach the report to the court order and send them to the FWT members and attorneys. Court reports and order will be part of FWC file; Hoopa Valley Tribe Children and Family Services and County Child Welfare Services will maintain their own files, which will also include copies of same. The FWT agrees to meet after each informal court hearing for half an hour, also known as post-court debriefs. During these debriefings, the FWT will decide whether they need to meet on the off-calendar weeks. The court coordinator will convene these FWT meetings.

XII. Assessments

Purpose

Assessments are used to advance the health and healing of and supports to the families to do the right thing for their recovery and the health and welfare of their children. Findings and recommendations from the FWT based on these assessments will be considered by the social worker in preparing and updating the family's wellness plan.

Approach

The FWT focuses on building and maintaining trust with the families. These relationships are paramount to healing, and in conjunction with assessment tools, will be used for the best possible outcomes for participants/families. The person administering the assessment uses an interview format and strives for the assessment to feel like a supportive conversation, which is respectful of a family member's point of view, needs, and experiences. When beginning an assessment, the person describes the purpose of the assessment and respectfully checks in with the participant/family about how the process feels. The participant/family member is never required to fill out an assessment form and the person administering the assessment generally does not fill out forms in the presence of the participant/family member, however, may take notes so that later the assessment can be completed. This approach is respectful of the participant's time and aids in the goal of having the assessment process be a conversation.

Types of Assessments

1. *American Society of Addiction Medicine (ASAM)*¹¹ criteria are used to determine the participant's level of care needs;
2. *Cultural Connections*¹² of the participant/family;
3. *Family Wellness*¹³ domains based on social determinants of healthcare assessed during the first court phase, as close to entry into the FWC, and again upon advancement to phase 3 and at commencement (typically administered with the family by a family team member whom the participant trusts);
4. *Ages and Stages Questionnaire*¹⁴ of the child(ren), which screens infants and young children's development assessing development in five domains: communication, gross

The six indices are: withdrawal, medical, emotional/behavioral, readiness to change, relapse potential, and recovery environment.

¹² Practice and research from multiple disciplines have shown that culture is an important protective factor for families and promotes personal and community resiliency. Cultures and languages are protective factors against risk and contribute positively to health and wellness. See Mclvor, Onowa. Language and Culture as Protective Factors for At-Risk Communities, Journal of Aboriginal Health, November 2008, Vol. 5, Issue 1.

motor, fine motor, problem solving and personal social. It may be administered by Hoopa Head Start or the Humboldt County Office of Education;

5. Child Welfare Services assessments as required by the state; and
6. Other Screening for family needs (medical, mental health, behavioral health, and/or public health etc.) may be recommended by the family wellness team as these needs present themselves during the family’s healing journey.

Timing of Assessments

1. ASAM: as soon as possible upon entry into the FWC
2. Cultural Connections: during the first court phase and again repeated at commencement
3. Family Wellness based on Social Determinants of Health: upon entry into the FWC, repeated during phase 3, and at commencement.
4. All other assessments, including Ages & Stages and ACES, will be sequenced based on the needs presented by the family.

Training for Those Who Administer Assessments

The individuals who will administer the assessments will have required training in their field on the use of the tools as well as cultural training.

XIII. Testing

Standard

Mandatory periodic and random testing for the presence of any controlled substance or alcohol in a participant's blood, urine, or breath, *using to the extent practicable the best available, accepted, and scientifically valid methods.*¹⁵ Although the patch does not test for alcohol, the FWC will consider using it because it is the least intrusive testing method and is less stigmatizing.

Approach

The Hoopa Valley Tribe has a zero tolerance policy for marijuana and illegal substances. Humboldt County uses a harm reduction model and describes programs that reduce adverse consequences from alcohol and other drug use by separating those at risk from the means to harm themselves.¹⁶ FWC uses a harm reduction model, which means that the goal is abstinence and the FWT will work with the family to use strategies to meet those who are drug dependent “where they’re at,” addressing conditions of use along with the use itself. Because harm reduction demands that interventions and policies designed to serve families reflect specific individual and community needs, there is no universal definition of or formula for implementing harm reduction. Just as with assessments, the family treatment team is mindful of the power imbalance between the team and the family. Team members have honest and respectful conversations with the family about the purpose testing, its role in the family's healing journey, and how testing requirements are decreased as the participant advances through the court phases. If a participant is honest and explains that the test will be positive and is not covering up for relapsing on another substance, then the team will not require testing.

¹⁵ The FWC follows the 10 key components promulgated by the National Association of Drug Court professionals.

¹⁶ <https://humboldt.gov/2046/Alcohol-and-Other-Drugs-Prevention>

*Frequency of Tests*¹⁷

Phase One: 3 times per week (min. 3 random)

Phase Two: 2-3 times per week (min. 2 random)

Phase Three: 1 per week (random)

Phase Four: 1 or none per month (random)

Field testing is optimal

Test Results

Missed or positive drug tests will have prompt responses from the FWC and the participant will be required to take some action to make things right; drug-free tests are recognized at all court hearings as part of opportunities for self-healing (See section below). For participants/family members requiring MAT or other prescribed medication, baseline levels will be established through consultation with the prescribing physician to avoid false positive tests.

XIV. Opportunities for Self-Healing

Participants/Families will be celebrated each time they come to court. The judges will learn about participants'/families' success and accomplishments during family treatment team meetings and in written court reports. At all court hearings, the judges' demeanor and words will focus on opportunities for self-healing. Participants/families will be supported for work they are doing at each hearing, and upon significant milestone achievements and phase advancement, they will be recognized.

The FWC will give points for key behavioral milestones that are reached. The FWC will deliver points immediately, frequently,¹⁸ and consistently following clearly established rules. These rules will be developed by the court coordinator with input from stakeholders. Because an escalating schedule and allowing participants/families to choose and even create how they would like to be recognized reinforces self-healing and recovery, participants/families will be able to accumulate points and choose from a list of recognitions (see below) or instead, with their FWT, create one that they may be working toward.

¹⁷ In a multisite study of approximately 70 drug courts, programs performing urine testing at least twice per week in the first phase lowered recidivism by 38 percent. (Carey, Mackin, & Finigan, What works? The ten key components of drug court: Research-based best practices., 2012). The most effective drug courts perform urine drug testing at least twice per week for the first several months of the program. (Carey & Perkins, 2008).

Recognitions (akin to incentives¹⁹)

Some examples include: gathering and traditional preparation of foods, traditional doll making, jewelry making, basket weaving, gardening time, ride to dances, food baskets, traditional baby baskets, child care/babysitting help, fishing trips and fishnet making, invitation to participate with those who prepare the dances, raffles, gift cards (for example gas cards for Hoopa gas stations and gym membership), books (recovery or other), fun family activities (for example trips to zoo, movie, camping, the coast etc.).

Making Things Right by Meeting Unmet Needs of the Community²⁰ (instead of sanctions- the focus will be on what triggered the misstep, acknowledging good decisions in poor moments, and supports to manage personal challenges)

- Increased frequency of court hearings
- Return to earlier phase
- Community contributions (participants/families identify and create opportunities, which empower the participant/family and are restorative²¹)
- Create a relapse response and safety plan
- Other action

XVI. Commencement Requirements

- 6 months consecutive clean time or 6 months not meeting criteria for substance use disorder based on problematic use
- FWP goals achieved
- Advancement through the FWC phases
- Children returned and living at home for six months (or in other permanent

- placement, such as tribal customary adoption or guardianship)
- Successful discharge from a substance use treatment program
- Consistent attendance at a sober support program or community based support program documented
- Consistent attendance at court appearances and treatment appointments
- Stable living arrangement with clean and sober relationships
- Outstanding legal issues are resolved
- Support system established

- Community service project that was pre-approved by the FWT.

XVII. Commencement

Participants will be eligible for commencement from the FWC when they have successfully progressed through all four phases of the program. The FWT will determine when the participants are ready for commencement. At commencement, there will be a special ceremony and acknowledgement by the FWC.

XVIII. Wellness Court Alumni

This optional phase is available to participants who are living a life free from alcohol and other drug use but feel the need for continued support. This support could assist the participant to maintain a healthy lifestyle and/or reach established personal goals such as college education, long-term employment, etc. Since this is an optional phase, there are no duration limits. This is envisioned as a voluntary check-in for the participant/family with their family wellness team and the FWC. The number of check-ins would be up to the participant/family and the FWC judges.

XIX. Court Leadership

The core family team that staffs the court will also function as a Core Operational Team, convened by the co-court coordinators. It will meet monthly to address issues and concerns that arise in cases, examine data, and recommend court policies to improve court functioning. It will be empowered to invite others to join the team depending on the issues raised, and generally will not include the judges, so that they can talk freely about cases, however should systemic issues arise that need the judges, the team can call upon the judges. The members of the Core Operational Team include: the court coordinators, the social workers and case managers (HVT CFS and County representatives), alcohol and drug treatment providers, Hoopa Community Health and County Public Health representatives (County representative for data and Tribal Court Administrator)

The current Steering Committee will be adapted in its membership to serve as the policy and planning body for the joint jurisdiction court. It will make decisions on policy and procedures and meet quarterly for one to two hours. The members of the Steering Committee include: the judges presiding over the FWC, court coordinators, director or designee of K'ima:w Medical Center, director or designee of County Department of Health and Human Services, director of County First Five, and representatives from the Office of the County Counsel, the Office of the Hoopa Tribal Attorney, dependency attorneys, and others.
