Penal Code 1170.9

In the case of any person convicted of a criminal offense who could otherwise be sentenced to county jail or state prison and who alleges that he or she committed the offense as a result of sexual trauma, traumatic brain injury, post-traumatic stress disorder, substance abuse, or mental health problems stemming from service in the United States military, the court shall, prior to sentencing, make a determination as to whether the defendant was, or currently is, a member of the United States military and whether the defendant may be suffering from sexual trauma, traumatic brain injury, post-traumatic stress disorder, substance abuse, or mental health problems as a result of his or her service. The court may (request, through existing resources), an assessment to aid in that determination. (Emphasis Added)

Interactive Segment of Presentation

Family Recovery Program Dealing with Domestic Violence

- The Family Recovery Program follows the general program of STOP Domestic Violence,
- The key difference is that an awareness of PTSD related to combat trauma is interwoven in each session.
- Restoring the individual to already demonstrated functioning is a motivating factor for the program, providers and participants

Restorative Relief (H Motion)

Restorative Relief Factors for Consideration:

When determining whether granting restorative relief pursuant to this subdivision is in the interests of justice, the court may consider, among other factors, all of the following:

- The defendant's completion and degree of participation in education, treatment, and rehabilitation as ordered by the court.
- The defendant's progress in formal education.
- The defendant's development of career potential.
- The defendant's leadership and personal responsibility efforts.
- The defendant's contribution of service in support of the community.

Court Findings for Granting Restorative Relief:

- (A) He or she was granted probation and was at the time that probation was granted a person described in subdivision (a).
- (B) He or she is in substantial compliance with the conditions of that probation.
- (C) He or she has successfully participated in court-ordered treatment and services to address the sexual trauma, traumatic brain injury, post-traumatic stress disorder, substance abuse, or mental health problems stemming from military service.
- (D) He or she does not represent a danger to the health and safety of others.
- (E) He or she has demonstrated significant benefit from court-ordered education, treatment, or rehabilitation to clearly show that granting restorative relief pursuant to this subdivision would be in the interests of justice.
- (F) The defendant's contribution of service in support of the community.

Success

Healing from Great Bodily Injury - Treatment after attack of delivery man leads to sale of motorcycle and reconciliation with victim

Family Man from Domestic Violence - Family states he is the calmest person they know upon completion of VIC, following 5 deployments in 17 years service with Navy

Artisan from Cruelty to Animal - "I learned to talk civilian" saying "it took me a long time to understand why I did it" concluding "it takes more energy to do things wrong ...than do it right the first time"

Advancement from PTS - Active duty Marine promoted as he progressed in treatment, learned to address PTS and drinking, now reporting to CO

Teacher from Combatant - Play the tape, highlight negative consequences (striking officer), learned he is uniquely position to connect and understand students

Learn From Our Veterans

"The man who returns from combat and says, "I'm an animal" knows a certain truth about himself. The person who taunts him or cannot bear to hear his story is simply hiding from the same truth."

"Each has in some way reached out to become himself a healer of others. Redemption of their own lives has been intimately connected with being a bearer of healing and hope to other vets and to the country they love."
