I would like to thank the members of the SEC that worked so diligently to provide a thorough report. I'd also like to express my support for implementation of their recommendations. Without doing so, there is no possibility of regaining the public's trust in the judiciary and its ability to manage the enormous responsibility of prudently allocating public funds in a manner that ensures open and consistent access to courts for all.

Somewhere along the lines of "progress", it has become the public belief that judges work for the AOC. The bureaucracy has overshadowed the work that we have been entrusted to do. Reducing the AOC operations to its core statutory function is critical.
