Executive and Planning Committee

Justice Richard D. Huffman, chair of the Executive and Planning Committee (E&P), reported that the committee met five times since the last council meeting.

On January 13, 2006, the committee, on behalf of the Judicial Council, extended the grace period by 12 months to February 1, 2007, for currently registered interpreters of newly certified languages to pass the certification examination. The committee also reviewed materials and made recommendations to be sent to the Chief Justice regarding vacancies on the Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions and the Governing Committee of the Center for Judicial Education and Research (CJER).

On February 1, 2006, the committee reviewed materials and set the agenda for the council business meeting on February 24, 2006. The committee discussed the meeting processes for educational meetings as well as other types of meetings and plans to report back to the council at a future meeting regarding that issue.

Also in February, the committee reviewed with staff Phase II of the Public Trust and Confidence assessment. Committee members discussed the study with AOC staff and the project's researchers, and offered suggestions aimed at ensuring that the project's product is reliable and accurately communicates needed information to the council.

On February 14, 2006, the committee reviewed additional materials and set the agenda for the council business meeting on February 24, 2006.

E&P began to undertake its process of reviewing the work plans for the advisory committees it oversees on Thursday, February 23 and is working to engage the committee chairs in a more meaningful dialogue regarding their work plans this year.

Committee members reviewed the work plans of the following committees: Judicial Service Advisory Committee, Governing Committee of the Center for Judicial Education and Research, Collaborative Justice Courts Advisory Committee, Court Technology Advisory Committee, Court Interpreters Advisory Panel, and the Court Executives Advisory Committee.

Justice Huffman also reported that the Chief Justice assigned oversight of the new Probate Conservatorship Task Force to the E&P. At its February 23 meeting, E&P met with staff of the task force.

Policy Coordination and Liaison Committee

Justice Marvin R. Baxter, chair of the Policy Coordination and Liaison Committee (PCLC), reported that the committee met twice since the last council meeting.

At the January 6, 2006, meeting, legislative proposals on probate conservatorships were brought before the committee.

On February 9, 2006, the committee took positions on a proposal concerning limited-term employees of trial courts and two proposals on conservatorships. The legislative deadline to introduce bills is February 24, 2006. Staff of the AOC Office of Governmental Affairs are now reviewing these bills. In future reports, Justice Baxter will keep members of the Judicial Council informed on the progress of bills of interest, including council-sponsored bills.

On Tuesday, February 28, 2006, the Judicial Council will host the 12th annual Judicial-Legislative-Executive Forum at the state Capitol. The Bench-Bar Coalition's day in Sacramento is also planned for Tuesday, February 28, 2006.

Administrative Director's Report

Mr. William C. Vickrey reported on the search conducted to fill the regional administrative director position vacated by Mr. Michael M. Roddy in the Northern/Central Region. Ms. Jody Patel was introduced as the new regional administrative director as of March 1, 2006. Mr. Ronald G. Overholt also commented on the search process and noted how pleased he was that Ms. Patel had accepted the position.

Mr. Vickrey reported on attending an education and orientation workshop for court interpreters in Southern California, held at the AOC Southern Regional Office.

Mr. Vickrey also announced the presentation of a joint resolution to acknowledge Presiding Judge William A. MacLaughlin and Assistant Presiding Judge J. Stephen Czuleger of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, on being named the Los Angeles Metropolitan News-Enterprise "Persons of the Year" for 2005, in recognition of their leadership in enhancing the Los Angeles County court's collaboration with the state judicial branch and other agencies involved in the justice process. (A copy of the resolution is attached to these minutes.)

Chief Justice's Report

Chief Justice Ronald M. George announced that resolutions had been prepared recognizing judicial branch individuals, courts, and organizations that made extraordinary efforts to provide relief following the hurricanes in the southern United States at the end of 2005. (A copy of the resolution is attached to these minutes.) Resolutions were presented to:

- Judge William C. Pate and the Superior Court of San Diego County

The Chief Justice noted that Judge Pate personally drove a truckload of surplus office furniture and supplies 2,000 miles to southern Mississippi. This was the first shipment other than federal aid to arrive to help courts rebuild in that region. With help from the county district attorney, the local bar association, the County of San Diego, and the Court of Appeal, Fourth Appellate District, Judge Pate and the superior court organized a second shipment of equipment to Mississippi—this time filling a semi trailer with three times the amount of supplies as the first trip. Including both trips, the court estimates that several copiers, a couple dozen desks, a couple dozen file cabinets, 3 conference tables, 30 computers, and 50 office chairs, along with miscellaneous office supplies, were delivered to the coastal courts in Mississippi.

The Chief Justice also mentioned a letter received from Chief Justice James Smith of the Supreme Court of Mississippi, praising the efforts of the Superior Court of San Diego County, and the Court of Appeal, Fourth Appellate District.

- Superior Court of Alameda County

The Chief Justice noted that staff from the Superior Court of Alameda County donated more than $15,000 to the American Red Cross relief effort.

Presiding Judge George C. Hernandez, Jr., received the resolution on behalf of the court. Council member Judge Barbara J. Miller was the presiding judge in the Superior Court of Alameda County at the time.

- Superior Court of Ventura County

The Chief Justice reported that staff from the Superior Court of Ventura County made a generous contribution of several thousand dollars and nearly 300 bags of clothing toward the relief effort.

Mr. Michael D. Planet, executive officer, received the resolution on behalf of the court.

- Superior Court of Riverside County

The Chief Justice noted that staff from the Superior Court of Riverside County donated several thousand dollars of funds to the American Red Cross relief effort.

Council member and Presiding Judge Sharon J. Waters received the resolution on behalf of the court. Chief Justice George mentioned that Ms. Sue Martin, who had been invited to accept the resolution, was unable to attend.

- Administrative Office of the Courts and Foundation of the State Bar

The Chief Justice reported that staff of the Administrative Office of the Courts and the Foundation of the State Bar of California worked to establish the Courts and Families

Hurricane Recovery Fund, which collected more than $5,000 from judges and staff in the superior courts and staff in the Administrative Office of the Courts.

Ms. Diane Nunn, Director of the AOC's Center for Families, Children & the Courts, and Ms. Leslie Hatamiya, Executive Director of the Foundation of the State Bar of California, accepted the resolution on behalf of their respective organizations.

- Chief Justice George noted that the actions mentioned in the resolutions were representative of many relief efforts undertaken by those in the court system, including those of court staff in Humboldt, Merced, San Bernardino, San Luis Obispo, Shasta, Siskiyou, and other counties. Resolutions will be mailed to these named courts.

The Chief Justice then briefly welcomed a Daily Journal reporter covering the work of the Judicial Council, Ms. Savannah Blackwell.

The Chief Justice reported that since the council's last meeting, he had several speaking engagements including the Chancery Club in Los Angeles, the Italian-American Bar Association, the Contra Costa County Bar Association, the Sonoma County Court, and the Sonoma County Bar. He noted that at these engagements he had emphasized the importance of the council's legislative agenda, particularly the need for new judgeships and to have courthouses included in the infrastructure bond measure.

The Chief Justice then reported that a groundbreaking ceremony was held for the construction of a new courthouse in Fresno for the Court of Appeal, Fifth Appellate District on January 5, 2006. The courthouse is expected to be complete by the spring of 2007.

Chief Justice George also reported that he attended a conference of the Chief Justices of the fifty States and territories. He noted that a primary concern at that meeting were recent manifestations of the continuing threat to the independence of the judiciary. Among such manifestations is a movement that is currently taking place in South Dakota which seeks to establish special grand juries to review judicial decisions. The organizers' intent is to implement a punitive process that would have repercussions for judges whose decisions have been reviewed and called into question. The movement began in Ventura, California, and if its organizers are successful in South Dakota, it is thought that they may try to establish a similar program in California.

The Chief Justice and Justice Marvin R. Baxter attended a meeting with the Sheriff's Association in an effort to work collaboratively in providing courthouse security.

The Chief Justice also reported regarding meetings with legislative leaders to discuss the need for new judgeships and courthouse facilities. He also noted the appointment of Justice Carol A. Corrigan to the California Supreme Court in January.

Chief Justice George then commented about the passing of Mr. James Pfeiffer, the husband of AOC staff member Ms. Bonnie Hough and founding executive director of the Foundation of the State Bar. He noted that Mr. Pfeiffer showed great commitment to improving the justice system through the foundation's law related grants, scholarships, education efforts, and outreach programs. Mr. Pfeiffer also successfully increased corporate sponsorships over the time of his service as director.

Additionally, Mr. Pfeiffer served as executive director of the California Supreme Court Historical Society, where he was dedicated to the recovery, presentation, and promotion of California's judicial and legal history. The Chief Justice concluded his comments by noting that Mr. Pfeiffer was admired and loved for his warm personality as well as his diverse interests and talents. He announced that the council would adjourn the day's meeting in Mr. Pfeiffer's memory.

The Science and the Law Steering Committee recommends approval of guidelines for judicial education on science and technology. Council action

The Judicial Council established a statewide judicial education plan on science and technology by:

1. Approving the following guidelines for judicial education on science and technology, congruent with the ethical standards applicable under the California Code of Judicial Ethics:

- A. Judicial education on science and technology should be made as widely available as possible to the California judiciary, including appellate justices, trial judges, subordinate judicial officers, and judges participating in the Assigned Judges Program, to assist them in their evaluation of scientific evidence and expert testimony, and to further the administration of justice.
- B. The focus of judicial education on science and technology should be on increasing the “science literacy” of jurists in subject-matter areas that arise in the courtroom and court administration, including, but not limited to, the following key areas:
  - (1) Computer Science and Digital Technology—education to assist in the evaluation of technological evidence, the presentation of evidence in the courtroom, and the use of computers in case and court administration.
  - (2) Medical Science—education to assist in the evaluation of medical evidence and physician testimony.
  - (3) Pharmacology—education on drugs to assist in the evaluation of addictive disorders and treatment issues.
  - (4) Genetics—education on DNA and related science such as biochemistry and molecular biology as it relates to identification, privacy, predictive behavior, and other forensics issues.
  - (5) Environmental Science—education to assist in the evaluation of environmental issues, including the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), land use, and water rights cases.
  - (6) Agricultural Science—education on agronomy, genetically modified foods, and agricultural engineering.
  - (7) Science and Business—education on commercial applications of science, such as biotechnology, nanotechnology, and other high-technology industries, as well as privacy issues implicated by certain applications.
  - (8) Physics and Engineering—education on science underlying failure analysis, accident reconstruction, and forensics.
- C. The educational framework for study of each of the key subject-matter areas should include the following components:
  - (1) Glossary and vocabulary builders.
  - (2) Primers for scientific literacy on the application of concepts and principles relating to life science, physical science, and technology.
  - (3) Explanation and analysis of the scientific method, such as the use of observational data and mathematics (e.g., probabilities and statistics) as it relates to judicial inquiry (e.g., admissibility, burden of proof) and legal issues that arise in cases (e.g., causation).
  - (4) Compendium of cases and statutes.
  - (5) Case management practices, tips, and techniques.

- (6) Judicial ethics and fairness colloquy.
  - (7) Codes of ethics and conduct for physicians, scientists, engineers, and other scientific professionals (e.g., bioethics and medical ethics).
  - (8) Case studies and applications for different court assignments (e.g., civil, criminal, juvenile, family, probate, and collaborative courts).
2. Directing the Science and the Law Education Committee, appointed by the Governing Committee of the Center for Judicial Education and Research (CJER), to:
- A. Establish an ad hoc panel of judges and scientists to identify and consult on emerging issues in science and technology.
  - B. Develop a process for identifying and recruiting educators in science and technology who are able to communicate balanced information in plain English.
  - C. Liaison with the Judicial Technology Education Committee on judicial education.
  - D. Adopt a blended delivery mechanism for judicial education on science and technology.
  - E. Develop an online Science and the Law resource and Web site to give the judiciary access to a wide variety of materials.
  - F. With guidance from the Office of the General Counsel, build partnerships with scientific organizations and institutes of higher learning to maximize beneficial educational opportunities. Key considerations include the following:
    - (1) Potential partners share values consistent with those of the courts.
    - (2) Partnerships are structured to avoid actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could result from partnering with an entity
      - (a) That currently is, or is likely to become involved, in litigation before the court;
      - (b) That does or seeks to do business with the court; or
      - (c) Whose interests or the interests of its funding sources currently are, or are reasonably likely to come, before the court.
    - (3) Ethical considerations under the California Code of Judicial Ethics for judicial officers attending co-sponsored educational opportunities.
  - G. Cooperate and coordinate with the federal judiciary on judicial education.
