Executive Summary

The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions has completed revisions and additions to the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI). This report addresses 74 instructions that have only the types of revisions that the Judicial Council has given the Rules and Projects Committee (RUPRO) final authority to approve—primarily instructions with changes only to the Directions for Use or to the Sources and Authority.

Recommendation

The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions recommends that RUPRO, effective December 16, 2016, approve for publication 74 revised civil jury instructions, prepared by the advisory committee, that contain changes that do not require Judicial Council approval. On RUPRO's approval, these instructions will be officially published in the 2017 edition of the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions.

The 74 instructions presented for final RUPRO approval are attached at pages xx–xxx. The committee in a separate report requests that RUPRO recommend to the Judicial Council for adoption 209 new and revised instructions and verdict forms.

Previous Council Action

At the October 20, 2006, Judicial Council meeting, the Judicial Council approved authority for RUPRO to:¹

Review and approve nonsubstantive technical changes and corrections and minor substantive changes unlikely to create controversy to Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) and Criminal Jury Instructions (CALCRIM).

Under the implementing guidelines that RUPRO adopted on December 19, 2006, titled Jury Instructions Corrections and Technical and Minor Substantive Changes, RUPRO has final approval authority over the following:

- (a) Additions of cases and statutes to the Sources and Authority;
- (b) Changes to statutory language quoted in Sources and Authority that are required by legislative amendments, provided that the amendment does not affect the text of the instruction itself;²
- (c) Additions or changes to the Directions for Use;
- (d) Changes to instruction text that are nonsubstantive and unlikely to create controversy. A nonsubstantive change is one that does not affect or alter any fundamental legal basis of the instruction;
- (e) Changes to instruction text required by subsequent developments (such as new cases or legislative amendments), provided that the change, though substantive, is both necessary and unlikely to create controversy; and
- (f) Revocation of instructions for which any fundamental legal basis of the instruction is no longer valid because of statutory amendment or case law.

Rationale for Recommendation

The Task Force on Jury Instructions was appointed in 1997 on the recommendation of the Blue Ribbon Commission on Jury System Improvement. The mission of the task force was to draft comprehensive, legally accurate jury instructions that are readily understood by the average juror. In July 2003, the council approved its civil jury instructions for initial publication in September 2003. The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions is charged with maintaining and updating those instructions.³

Overview of updates

Of the 74 revised instructions that are presented for final RUPRO approval:

¹ Judicial Council of Cal., Rules and Projects Committee, Jury Instructions: Approve New Procedure for RUPRO Review and Approval of Changes in the Jury Instructions (Sept. 12, 2006), p. 1.

² In light of the committee's 2014 decision to remove verbatim quotes of statutes, rules, and regulations, this category (b) is now mostly moot. It might still apply if a statute, rule, or regulation is revoked, or if subdivisions are renumbered.

³ See Cal. Rules of Court, rules 2.1050(d), 10.58(a).

- 60 have revisions under category (a) above only (additional cases or statutes added to Sources and Authority);
- 12 have revisions under category (c) above only (revisions to the Directions for Use); and
- 2 fall under both categories (a) and (c) (additions or changes to Sources and Authority and Directions for Use).

Standards for adding case excerpts to Sources and Authority

The standards approved by the advisory committee for adding case excerpts to the Sources and Authority are as follows:

1. CACI Sources and Authority are in the nature of a digest. Entries should be direct quotes from cases. However, all cases that may be relevant to the subject area of an instruction need not be included, particularly if they do not involve a jury matter.
2. Each legal component of the instruction should be supported by authority, either statutory or case law.
3. Authority addressing the burden of proof should be included.
4. Authority addressing the respective roles of judge and jury (questions of law and questions of fact) should be included.
5. Only one case excerpt should be included for each legal point.
6. California Supreme Court authority should always be included, if available.
7. If no Supreme Court authority is available, the most recent California appellate court authority for a point should be included.
8. A United States Supreme Court case should be included on any point for which it is the controlling authority.
9. A Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals case may be included if the case construes California law or federal law that is the subject of the CACI instruction.
10. Other cases may be included if deemed particularly useful to the users.
11. The fact that the committee chooses to include a case excerpt in the Sources and Authority does not mean that the committee necessarily believes that the language is binding precedent. The standard is simply whether the language would be useful or of interest to users.

The advisory committee has deleted material from the Sources and Authority that duplicates other material that is already included or is to be added.

Nonfinal cases and incomplete citations

Only two cases included in this release are not yet final. These are John Doe 2 v. Superior Court,⁴ included in CACI No. 1707, Fact Versus Opinion; and Aldana v. Stillwagon,⁵ added to CACI Nos. 555, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—One-Year Limit, and 556, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—Three-Year Limit. Petitions for review have been filed in both cases. Should review be granted or still be pending on the date of RUPRO approval, the excerpts from the case will of course be removed from the instructions. The instructions, however, will remain in the release because all three also have new excerpts from other cases that are final.

⁵ Aldana v. Stillwagon (2016) 2 Cal.App.5th 1.

Except for U.S. Supreme Court reports, all incomplete citations will be resolved before publication. Any temporary LEXIS citations will be replaced once the official citation is available.

Sources and Authority format cleanup

CACI format for case entries to the Sources and Authority requires that they be in the form of directly quoted material from the case. In some of the series, this format was not uniformly observed initially, and some excerpts are in the form of a legal statement with a citation rather than a direct quotation. Where found in instructions otherwise included, these out-of-format excerpts have been converted to direct quotations.

CACI format also orders statutes, rules, and regulations first; then case excerpts; and then any other authorities, such as a Restatement excerpt. Excerpts that were out of order have been moved to the proper location.

Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications

Because the changes to these instructions do not change the legal effect of the instructions in any way, they were not circulated for public comment.

Rules 2.1050 and 10.58 of the California Rules of Court specifically charge the advisory committee to regularly review case law and statutes; to make recommendations to the Judicial Council for updating, amending, and adding topics to CACI; and to submit its recommendations to the council for approval. The proposed revisions and additions are necessary to ensure that the instructions remain clear, accurate, and complete.

Implementation Requirements, Costs, and Operational Impacts

There are no implementation costs. To the contrary, under its publication agreement with the Judicial Council, the official publisher, LexisNexis, will print the 2017 edition and pay royalties to the council. The official publisher will also make the new edition available free of charge to all judicial officers in both print and HotDocs document assembly software. With respect to commercial publishers, the council will register the copyright in this work and will continue to license its publication of the instructions under provisions that govern accuracy, completeness, attribution, copyright, fees and royalties, and other publication matters. To continue to make the instructions freely available for use and reproduction by parties, attorneys, and the public, the council will provide a broad public license for their noncommercial use and reproduction.

114. Bench Conferences and Conferences in Chambers

From time to time during the trial, it may become necessary for me to talk with the attorneys out of the hearing of the jury, either by having a conference at the bench when the jury is present in the courtroom, or by calling a recess to discuss matters outside of your presence. The purpose of these conferences is not to keep relevant information from you, but to decide how certain evidence is to be treated under the rules of evidence. Do not be concerned about our discussions or try to guess what is being said.

I may not always grant an attorney's request for a conference. Do not consider my granting or denying a request for a conference as any indication of my opinion of the case or of my view of the evidence.

New December 2010

Directions for Use

This instruction is based on Model Instruction 1.~~18~~-17 of the federal Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. It may be used to explain to the jury why there may be discussions at the bench that the jury will not be able to hear, and why sometimes the judge will call a recess for discussions outside of the presence of the jury.

219. Expert Witness Testimony

During the trial you heard testimony from expert witnesses. The law allows an expert to state opinions about matters in his or her field of expertise even if he or she has not witnessed any of the events involved in the trial.

You do not have to accept an expert's opinion. As with any other witness, it is up to you to decide whether you believe the expert's testimony and choose to use it as a basis for your decision. You may believe all, part, or none of an expert's testimony. In deciding whether to believe an expert's testimony, you should consider:

- a. The expert's training and experience;
 - b. The facts the expert relied on; and
 - c. The reasons for the expert's opinion.

Directions for Use

This instruction should not be given for expert witness testimony on the standard of care in professional malpractice cases if the testimony is uncontradicted. Uncontradicted testimony of an expert witness on the standard of care in a professional malpractice case is conclusive. (Howard v. Owens Corning (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 621, 632-633 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 386]; Conservatorship of McKeown (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 502, 509 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 542]; Lysick v. Walcom (1968) 258 Cal.App.2d 136, 156 [65 Cal.Rptr. 406].) In all other cases, the jury may reject expert testimony, provided that the jury does not act arbitrarily. (McKeown, supra, 25 Cal.App.4th at p. 509.)

Do not use this instruction in eminent domain and inverse condemnation cases. (See Aetna Life and Casualty Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 865, 877 [216 Cal.Rptr. 831]; CACI No. 3515, Valuation Testimony.)

For an instruction on hypothetical questions, see CACI No. 220, Experts—Questions Containing Assumed Facts. For an instruction on conflicting expert testimony, see CACI No. 221, Conflicting Expert Testimony.

- Qualification as Expert. Evidence Code section 720(a).
- “Under Evidence Code section 720, subdivision (a), a person is qualified to testify as an expert if he or she ‘has special knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education sufficient to qualify him as an expert on the subject to which his testimony relates.’ ‘[T]he determinative issue in each case must be whether the witness has sufficient skill or experience in the field so that his testimony would be likely to assist the jury in the search for the truth ... [Citation.] Where a witness has disclosed sufficient knowledge, the question of the degree of knowledge goes more to the weight of the evidence than its admissibility. [Citation.]” (Lattimore v. Dickey (2015) 239 Cal.App.4th 959, 969 [191 Cal.Rptr.3d 766].)

- The “credibility of expert witnesses is a matter for the jury after proper instructions from the court.” (Williams v. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft (1986) 180 Cal.App.3d 1244, 1265 [226 Cal.Rptr. 306].)
- “[U]nder Evidence Code sections 801, subdivision (b), and 802, the trial court acts as a gatekeeper to exclude expert opinion testimony that is (1) based on matter of a type on which an expert may not reasonably rely, (2) based on reasons unsupported by the material on which the expert relies, or (3) speculative. Other provisions of law, including decisional law, may also provide reasons for excluding expert opinion testimony. [¶] But courts must also be cautious in excluding expert testimony. The trial court's gatekeeping role does not involve choosing between competing expert opinions.” (Sargon Enterprises, Inc. v. University of Southern California (2012) 55 Cal.4th 747, 771–772 [149 Cal.Rptr.3d 614, 288 P.3d 1237], footnote omitted.)
- “Generally, the opinion of an expert is admissible when it is “[r]elated to a subject that is sufficiently beyond common experience that the opinion of an expert would assist the trier of fact” [Citations.] Also, “[t]estimony in the form of an opinion that is otherwise admissible is not objectionable because it embraces the ultimate issue to be decided by the trier of fact.” [Citation.] However, “ ‘Where the jury is just as competent as the expert to consider and weigh the evidence and draw the necessary conclusions, then the need for expert testimony evaporates.’ ” Expert testimony will be excluded “ ‘when it would add nothing at all to the jury's common fund of information, i.e., when ‘the subject of inquiry is one of such common knowledge that men of ordinary education could reach a conclusion as intelligently as the witness.’ ” ” (Burton v. Sanner (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 12, 19 [142 Cal.Rptr.3d 782], internal citations omitted.)
- Under Evidence Code section 801(a), expert witness testimony “must relate to a subject that is sufficiently beyond common experience that the opinion of an expert would assist the trier of fact.” (New v. Consolidated Rock Products Co. (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 681, 692 [217 Cal.Rptr. 522].)
- Expert witnesses are qualified by special knowledge to form opinions on facts that they have not personally witnessed. (Manney v. Housing Authority of The City of Richmond (1947) 79 Cal.App.2d 453, 460 [180 P.2d 69].)
- “Although a jury may not arbitrarily or unreasonably disregard the testimony of an expert, it is not bound by the expert’s opinion. Instead, it must give to each opinion the weight which it finds the opinion deserves. So long as it does not do so arbitrarily, a jury may entirely reject the testimony of a plaintiff’s expert, even where the defendant does not call any opposing expert and the expert testimony is not contradicted.” (Howard, supra, 72 Cal.App.4th at p. 633, citations omitted.)

If the expert witnesses disagreed with one another, you should weigh each opinion against the others. You should examine the reasons given for each opinion and the facts or other matters that each witness relied on. You may also compare the experts' qualifications.

305. Implied-in-Fact Contract

In deciding whether a contract was created, you should consider the conduct and relationship of the parties as well as all the circumstances of the case.

Contracts can be created by the conduct of the parties, without spoken or written words. Contracts created by conduct are just as valid as contracts formed with words.

Conduct will create a contract if the conduct of both parties is intentional and each knows, or has reason to know, that the other party will interpret the conduct as an agreement to enter into a contract.

- “An implied-in-fact contract is based on the conduct of the parties. Like an express contract, an implied-in-fact contract requires an ascertained agreement of the parties.” (Unilab Corp. v. Angeles-IPA (2016) 244 Cal.App.4th 622, 636 [198 Cal.Rptr.3d 211], internal citation omitted.)
- Express and implied-in-fact contracts have the same legal effect, but differ in how they are proved at trial: “Contracts may be express or implied. These terms, however, do not denote different kinds of contracts, but have reference to the evidence by which the agreement between the parties is shown. If the agreement is shown by the direct words of the parties, spoken or written, the contract is said to be an express one. But if such agreement can only be shown by the acts and conduct of the parties, interpreted in the light of the subject-matter and of the surrounding circumstances, then the contract is an implied one.” (Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal.3d 660, 678, fn. 16 [134 Cal.Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106], internal citation omitted.)
- “As to the basic elements [of a contract cause of action], there is no difference between an express and implied contract. ... While an implied in fact contract may be inferred from the conduct, situation or mutual relation of the parties, the very heart of this kind of agreement is an intent to promise.” (Division of Labor Law Enforcement v. Transpacific Transportation Co. (1977) 69 Cal.App.3d 268, 275 [137 Cal.Rptr. 855]; see also Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 876, 888 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 892].)

- The formation of an implied contract can become an issue for the jury to decide: “Whether or not an implied contract has been created is determined by the acts and conduct of the parties and all the surrounding circumstances involved and is a question of fact.” (Del E. Webb Corp. v. Structural Materials Co. (1981) 123 Cal.App.3d 593, 611 [176 Cal.Rptr. 824], internal citation omitted.)
- “Whether an implied contract exists ‘ ‘is usually a question of fact for the trial court. Where evidence is conflicting, or where reasonable conflicting inferences may be drawn from evidence which is not in conflict, a question of fact is presented for decision of the trial court. ...’ [Citation.]’ ” (Unilab Corp, supra, 244 Cal.App.4th at p. 636.)

380. Agreement Formalized by Electronic Means—Uniform Electronic Transactions Act (Civ. Code, § 1633.1 et seq.)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that the parties entered into a valid contract in which [some of] the required terms were supplied by [specify electronic means, e.g., e-mail messages]. If the parties agree, they may form a binding contract using an electronic record. An “electronic record” is one created, generated, sent, communicated, received, or stored by electronic means. [E.g., E-Mail] is an electronic record.

[Name of plaintiff] must prove, based on the context and surrounding circumstances, including the conduct of the parties, that the parties agreed to use [e.g., e-mail] to formalize their agreement.

[[Name of plaintiff] must have sent the contract documents to [name of defendant] in an electronic record capable of retention by [name of defendant] at the time of receipt. An electronic record is not capable of retention by the recipient if the sender or its information processing system limits or prohibits the ability of the recipient to print or store it.]

New December 2012; Revised December 2016

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use if the plaintiff is relying on the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act (UETA, Civ. Code, § 1633.1 et seq.) to prove contract formation. If there are other contested issues as to whether a contract was formed, also give CACI No. 303, Breach of Contract—Essential Factual Elements.

The first paragraph asserts that electronic means were used to supply some or all of the essential elements of the contract. Give the third paragraph if a law requires a person to provide, send, or deliver information in writing to another person. (See Civ. Code, § 1633.8(a).)

The most likely jury issue is whether the parties agreed to rely on electronic records to finalize their agreement. Whether the parties agree to conduct a transaction by electronic means is determined from the context and surrounding circumstances, including the parties' conduct. (See Civ. Code, § 1633.5(b).)

The UETA does not specify any particular transmissions that meet the definition of “electronic record,” such as e-mail or fax. (See Civ. Code, § 1633.2(g).) Nevertheless, there would seem to be little doubt that e-mail and fax meet the definition. The parties will probably stipulate accordingly, or the court may find that the particular transmission at issue meets the definition as a matter of law.

If a law requires a signature, an electronic signature satisfies the law. (Civ. Code, § 1633.7(d).) The UETA defines an electronic signature as an electronic sound, symbol, or process attached to or logically associated with an electronic record and executed or adopted by a person with the intent to sign the electronic record. (Civ. Code, § 1633.2(h); see Gov. Code, § 16.5\(d\) \(digital signature\).) The validity of an electronic signature under this definition would most likely be a question of law for the court. If there is an issue of fact with regard to the parties' intent to use electronic signatures, this instruction will need to be modified accordingly.

UETA defines the term ‘electronic signature.’ Subdivision (h) of section 1633.2 states that ‘ “[e]lectronic signature” means an electronic sound, symbol, or process attached to or logically associated with an electronic record and executed or adopted by a person with the intent to sign the electronic record.’ (Italics added; see CACI No. 380 [party suing to enforce an agreement formalized by electronic means must prove ‘based on the context and surrounding circumstances, including the conduct of the parties, that the parties agreed to use [e.g., e-mail] to formalize their agreement ...]’ ” (*J.B.B. 408. Primary Assumption of Risk—Liability of Coparticipant in Sport or Other Recreational Activity

[Name of plaintiff] claims [he/she] was harmed while participating in [specify sport or other recreational activity, e.g., touch football] and that [name of defendant] is responsible for that harm. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] either intentionally injured [name of plaintiff] or acted so recklessly that [his/her] conduct was entirely outside the range of ordinary activity involved in [e.g., touch football];
2. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
3. That [name of defendant]’s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]’s harm.

Conduct is entirely outside the range of ordinary activity involved in [e.g., touch football] if that conduct can be prohibited without discouraging vigorous participation or otherwise fundamentally changing the [sport/activity].

[Name of defendant] is not responsible for an injury resulting from conduct that was merely accidental, careless, or negligent.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, October 2008, April 2009, December 2011, December 2013

Directions for Use

This instruction sets forth a plaintiff’s response to the affirmative defense of primary assumption of risk asserted by a defendant who was a coparticipant in the sport or other recreational activity. For an instruction applicable to coaches, instructors, or trainers, see CACI No. 409, Primary Assumption of Risk—Liability of Instructors, Trainers, or Coaches. For an instruction applicable to facilities owners and operators and to event sponsors, see CACI No. 410, Primary Assumption of Risk—Liability of Facilities Owners and Operators and Event Sponsors.

Primary assumption of risk generally absolves the defendant of a duty of care toward the plaintiff with regard to injury incurred in the course of a sporting or other recreational activity covered by the doctrine. (See Knight v. Jewett (1992) 3 Cal.4th 296, 320 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 834 P.2d 696].) Element 1 sets forth the exceptions in which there is a duty.

While duty is generally a question of law, there may be disputed facts that must be resolved by a jury before it can be determined if the doctrine applies. (See Shin v. Ahn (2007) 42 Cal.4th 482, 486 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 803, 165 P.3d 581].)

- “Primary assumption of risk arises where a plaintiff voluntarily participates in an activity or sport involving certain inherent risks; primary assumption of risk ... bar[s] recovery because no duty of care is owed as to such risks.” (Connelly v. Mammoth Mountain Ski Area (1995) 39 Cal.App.4th 8, 11 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 855], internal citations omitted.)
- “Although the doctrine is often applied as between sports coparticipants, it defines the duty owed as between persons engaged in any activity involving inherent risks. The doctrine applies to activity ‘done for enjoyment or thrill, requires physical exertion as well as elements of skill, and involves a challenge containing a potential risk of injury’” (Jimenez v. Roseville City School Dist. (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 594, 601 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 536], internal citations omitted; see also Bertsch v. Mammoth Community Water Dist. (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 1201, 1208 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 757] [“These factors certainly apply to skateboarding.”])~~“[A]n activity falls within the meaning of “sport” if the activity is done for enjoyment or thrill, requires physical exertion as well as elements of skill, and involves a challenge containing a potential risk of injury.’”~~ (Amezcuea v. Los Angeles Harley-Davidson, Inc. (2011) 200 Cal.App.4th 217, 229 [132 Cal.Rptr.3d 567].)
- “A coparticipant in an active sport ordinarily bears no liability for an injury resulting from conduct in the course of the sport that is merely careless or negligent.” (Ford v. Gouin (1992) 3 Cal.4th 339, 342 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 30, 834 P.2d 724].)
- “[W]e conclude that a participant in an active sport breaches a legal duty of care to other participants—i.e., engages in conduct that properly may subject him or her to financial liability—only if the participant intentionally injures another player or engages in conduct that is so reckless as to be totally outside the range of the ordinary activity involved in the sport.” (Knight, supra, 3 Cal.4th at p. 320.)
- “The Knight rule, however, ‘does not grant unbridled legal immunity to all defendants participating in sporting activity. The Supreme Court has stated that “it is well established that defendants generally do have a duty to use due care not to increase the risks to a participant over and above those inherent in the sport.” Thus, even though “defendants generally have no legal duty to eliminate (or protect a plaintiff against) risks inherent in the sport itself,” they may not increase the likelihood of injury above that which is inherent.’” (Distefano v. Forester (2001) 85 Cal.App.4th 1249, 1261 [102 Cal.Rptr.2d 813], internal citations omitted.)
- “In Freeman v. Hale, the Court of Appeal advanced a test ... for determining what risks are inherent in a sport: ‘[C]onduct is totally outside the range of ordinary activity involved in the sport (and thus any risks resulting from that conduct are not inherent to the sport) if the prohibition of that conduct would neither deter vigorous participation in the sport nor otherwise fundamentally alter the nature of the sport.’” (Distefano, supra, 85 Cal.App.4th at p. 1261.)
- “[G]olfers have a limited duty of care to other players, breached only if they intentionally injure them or engage in conduct that is ‘so reckless as to be totally outside the range of the ordinary activity involved in the sport.’” (Shin, supra, 42 Cal.4th at p. 497.)

- “[W]hether defendant breached the limited duty of care he owed other golfers by engaging in conduct that was ‘so reckless as to be totally outside the range of the ordinary activity involved in [golf]’ depends on resolution of disputed material facts. Thus, defendant’s summary judgment motion was properly denied.” (Shin, supra, 42 Cal.4th at p. 486, internal citation omitted.)
- “Although we recognize the Court of Appeal decisions specifically addressing the point are in conflict, we believe resolving this issue is not a matter of further defining [defendant]’s duty, which would be a question of law for the court. Rather, it requires application of the governing standard of care (the duty not to increase the risks inherent in the sport) to the facts of this particular case—the traditional role of the trier of fact. (See, e.g., Vine v. Bear Valley Ski Co., supra, 118 Cal.App.4th at pp. 591–592 [whether defendant’s design of snowboard jump increased inherent risks of snowboarding is question for jury]; Solis v. Kirkwood Resort Co., supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 365 [whether artificial jumps built by resort increased inherent risk of falling while skiing is question for jury]; Lowe v. California League of Prof. Baseball (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 112, 123 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 105] [whether distraction caused by activities of minor league baseball team’s mascot increased inherent risk of spectator being hit by a foul ball ‘is issue of fact to be resolved at trial’]; but see Huff v. Wilkins, supra, 138 Cal.App.4th at p. 745 [‘it is the trial court’s province to determine whether defendants breached their duty not to increase the inherent risk of a collision [in the sport of off-roading], and it should hold a hearing for this purpose before impaneling a jury’]; American Golf Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 30, 37 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 683] [‘[i]t is for the court to decide . . . whether the defendant has increased the risks of the activity beyond the risks inherent in the sport’]; see also Huffman v. City of Poway (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 975, 995, fn. 23 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 325] [indicating it is for the court to determine whether defendant’s conduct increased the risk inherent in participating in a particular sport, but that trial court may receive expert testimony on the customary practices in the sport to make that determination].) [¶] Our conclusion it is for the trier of fact to determine whether [defendant] breached his limited duty not to increase the risks inherent in the sport of volleyball finds solid support in the Supreme Court’s most recent sports injury, primary assumption of the risk decision, Shin v. Ahn, supra, 42 Cal.4th 482, a case that postdates the appellate court decisions suggesting the issue is one for the court to resolve.” (Luna v. Vela (2008) 169 Cal.App.4th 102, 112–113 [86 Cal.Rptr.3d 588].)
- “The determinant of duty, ‘inherent risk,’ is to be decided solely as a question of law and based on the general characteristics of the sport activity and the parties’ relationship to it.” (Griffin v. The Haunted Hotel, Inc. (2015) 242 Cal.App.4th 490, 501 [194 Cal.Rptr.3d 830].)
- “Admittedly, it is sometimes said that ‘[t]he existence and scope of a defendant’s duty of care in the primary assumption of risk context “is a legal question which depends on the nature of the sport or activity . . . and on the parties’ general relationship to the activity, and is an issue to be decided by the court, rather than the jury.”’ This statement of the rule is correct where there is no dispute about the inherent risks, and such cases may be resolved on summary judgment. [¶] However this statement is overly broad. Although the risks inherent in many activities are not subject to reasonable dispute (e.g., being hit with a baseball during a game), the risks inherent in some activities are not commonly known. In such cases, expert testimony may be required ‘for purposes of weighing whether the inherent risks of the activity were increased by the defendant’s conduct.’ Thus, it is not entirely accurate to say inherent risks of an activity always present purely legal questions, because sometimes the nature of an activity and its risks must be gleaned from the evidence.” (Jimenez, supra, 247

Cal.App.4th at p. 608, original italics.)

- “[Plaintiff] has repeatedly argued that primary assumption of the risk does not apply because she did not impliedly consent to having a weight dropped on her head. However, a plaintiff’s expectation does not define the limits of primary assumption of the risk. ‘Primary assumption of risk focuses on the legal question of duty. It does not depend upon a plaintiff’s implied consent to injury, nor is the plaintiff’s subjective awareness or expectation relevant.’ ” (Cann v. Stefanec (2013) 217 Cal.App.4th 462, 471 [158 Cal.Rptr.3d 474].)
- “A jury could find that, by using a snowboard without the retention strap, in violation of the rules of the ski resort and a county ordinance, defendant unnecessarily increased the danger that his snowboard might escape his control and injure other participants such as plaintiff. The absence of a retention strap could therefore constitute conduct not inherent to the sport which increased the risk of injury.” (Campbell v. Derylo (1999) 75 Cal.App.4th 823, 829 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 519].)
- “The existence and scope of a defendant’s duty depends on the role that defendant played in the activity. Defendants were merely the hosts of a social gathering at their cattle ranch, where [plaintiff] asked to ride one of their horses; they were not instructors and did not assume any of the responsibilities of an instructor.” (Levinson v. Owens (2009) 176 Cal.App.4th 1534, 1550–1551 [98 Cal.Rptr.3d 779], internal citation omitted.)
- “[T]he primary assumption of risk doctrine is not limited to activities classified as sports, but applies as well to other recreational activities ‘involving an inherent risk of injury to voluntary participants ... where the risk cannot be eliminated without altering the fundamental nature of the activity.’ ” (Nalwa v. Cedar Fair, L.P. (2012) 55 Cal.4th 1148, 1156 [150 Cal.Rptr.3d 551, 290 P.3d 1158].)
- “Whether a duty exists ‘does not turn on the reasonableness or unreasonableness of the plaintiff’s conduct, but rather on [(1)] the nature of the activity or sport in which the defendant is engaged and [(2)] the relationship of the defendant and the plaintiff to that activity or sport.’ It is the ‘nature of the activity’ and the parties’ relationship to it that determines whether the doctrine applies—not its characterization as a sporting event.” (McGarry v. Sax (2008) 158 Cal.App.4th 983, 999–1000 [70 Cal.Rptr.3d 519], internal citations omitted.)
- “[T]o the extent that “ ‘a plaintiff unreasonably undertakes to encounter a specific known risk imposed by a defendant’s negligence,’ ” he or she is subject to the defense of comparative negligence but not to an absolute defense. This type of comparative negligence has been referred to as “secondary assumption of risk.” Assumption of risk that is based upon the absence of a defendant’s duty of care is called “primary assumption of risk.” ‘First, in “primary assumption of risk” cases—where the defendant owes no duty to protect the plaintiff from a particular risk of harm—a plaintiff who has suffered such harm is not entitled to recover from the defendant, whether the plaintiff’s conduct in undertaking the activity was reasonable or unreasonable. Second, in “secondary assumption of risk” cases—involving instances in which the defendant has breached the duty of care owed to the plaintiff—the defendant is not entitled to be entirely relieved of liability for an injury proximately caused by such breach, simply because the plaintiff’s conduct in encountering the risk of such an injury was reasonable rather than unreasonable.’ ” (Kindrich v. Long Beach Yacht Club (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 1252, 1259 [84 Cal.Rptr.3d 824], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- “Even were we to conclude that [plaintiff]’s decision to jump off the boat was a voluntary one, and that therefore he assumed a risk inherent in doing so, this is not enough to provide a complete defense. Because voluntary assumption of risk as a complete defense in a negligence action was abandoned in Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal.3d 804, 829 [119 Cal.Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226], only the absence of duty owed a plaintiff under the doctrine of primary assumption of risk would provide such a defense. But that doctrine does not come into play except when a plaintiff and a defendant are engaged in certain types of activities, such as an ‘active sport.’ That was not the case here; plaintiff was merely the passenger on a boat. Under Li, he may have been contributorily negligent but this would only go to reduce the amount of damages to which he is entitled.” (Kindrich, supra, 167 Cal.App.4th at p. 1258.)
- “Though most cases in which the doctrine of primary assumption of risk exists involve recreational sports, the doctrine has been applied to dangerous activities in other contexts (see, e.g., Saville v. Sierra College (2005) 133 Cal.App.4th 857 [36 Cal.Rptr.3d 515] [training in peace officer takedown maneuvers]; Hamilton v. Martinelli & Associates (2003) 110 Cal.App.4th 1012 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 168] [training on physical restraint methods]; Aaris v. Estate of Marshall (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 1761 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 713] [injury to nurse's aide by nursing home patient]).” (McGarry, supra, 158 Cal.App.4th at pp. 999–1000, internal citation omitted.)

Directions for Use

This instruction sets forth a plaintiff's response to a defendant's assertion of the affirmative defense of primary assumption of risk. Primary assumption of risk generally absolves the defendant of a duty of care toward the plaintiff with regard to injury incurred in the course of a sporting or other recreational activity covered by the doctrine. (See Knight v. Jewett (1992) 3 Cal.4th 296, 320 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 834 P.2d 696].)

There are exceptions, however, in which there is a duty of care. Use the first option for element 2 if it is alleged that the coach or trainer intended to cause the student's injury or engaged in conduct totally outside the range of the ordinary activity involved in teaching or coaching the sport or activity. Use the second option if it is alleged that the coach's or trainer's failure to use ordinary care increased the risk of injury to the plaintiff, for example, by encouraging or allowing him or her to participate in the sport or activity when he or she was physically unfit to participate or by allowing the plaintiff to use unsafe equipment or instruments. (See Eriksson v. Nunnink (2011) 191 Cal.App.4th 826, 845 [120 Cal.Rptr.3d 90].) If the second option is selected, also give CACI No. 400, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements.

While duty is a question of law, courts have held that whether the defendant has unreasonably increased the risk is a question of fact for the jury. (See Luna v. Vela (2008) 169 Cal.App.4th 102, 112–113 [86

Cal.Rptr.3d 588] [and cases cited therein].) There may also be disputed facts that must be resolved by a jury before it can be determined if the doctrine applies. (See Shin v. Ahn (2007) 42 Cal.4th 482, 486 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 803, 165 P.3d 581].)

- “In order to support a cause of action in cases in which it is alleged that a sports instructor has required a student to perform beyond the student’s capacity or without providing adequate instruction, it must be alleged and proved that the instructor acted with intent to cause a student’s injury or that the instructor acted recklessly in the sense that the instructor’s conduct was ‘totally outside the range of the ordinary activity’ involved in teaching or coaching the sport.” (Kahn v. East Side Union High School District (2003) 31 Cal.4th 990, 1011 [4 Cal.Rptr.3d 103, 75 P.3d 30], internal citation omitted.)

- “Although the doctrine is often applied as between sports coparticipants, it defines the duty owed as between persons engaged in any activity involving inherent risks. The doctrine applies to activity ‘done for enjoyment or thrill, requires physical exertion as well as elements of skill, and involves a challenge containing a potential risk of injury’” (Jimenez v. Mammoth Community Water Dist. (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 1201, 1208 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 757] [“These factors certainly apply to skateboarding.”], internal citations omitted.)
- “Here, we do not deal with the relationship between coparticipants in a sport, or with the duty that an operator may or may not owe to a spectator. Instead, we deal with the duty of a coach or trainer to a student who has entrusted himself to the former's tutelage. There are precedents reaching back for most of this century that find an absence of duty to coparticipants and, often, to spectators, but the law is otherwise as applied to coaches and instructors. For them, the general rule is that coaches and instructors owe a duty of due care to persons in their charge. The coach or instructor is not, of course, an insurer, and a student may be held to notice that which is obvious and to ask appropriate questions. But all of the authorities that comment on the issue have recognized the existence of a duty of care.” (Tan v. Goddard (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 1528, 1535–1536 [17 Cal.Rptr.2d 89, internal citations omitted].)
- “[D]ecisions have clarified that the risks associated with learning a sport may themselves be inherent risks of the sport, and that an instructor or coach generally does not increase the risk of harm inherent in learning the sport simply by urging the student to strive to excel or to reach a new level of competence.” (Kahn, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1006.)

- “To the extent a duty is alleged against a coach for ‘pushing’ and/or ‘challenging’ a student to improve and advance, the plaintiff must show that the coach intended to cause the student’s injury or engaged in reckless conduct—that is, conduct totally outside the range of the ordinary activity involved in teaching or coaching the sport. Furthermore, a coach has a duty of ordinary care not to increase the risk of injury to a student by encouraging or allowing the student to participate in the sport when he or she is physically unfit to participate or by allowing the student to use unsafe equipment or instruments.” (Eriksson, supra, 191 Cal.App.4th at p. 845, internal citation omitted.)
- “That an instructor might ask a student to do more than the student can manage is an inherent risk of the activity. Absent evidence of recklessness, or other risk-increasing conduct, liability should not be imposed simply because an instructor asked the student to take action beyond what, with hindsight, is found to have been the student's abilities. To hold otherwise would discourage instructors from requiring students to stretch, and thus to learn, and would have a generally deleterious effect on the sport as a whole.” (Honeycutt v. Meridian Sports Club, LLC (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 251, 258 [179 Cal.Rptr.3d 473].)
- Coaches and sports instructors “owe students a duty ‘not to increase the risks inherent in the learning process undertaken by the student.’ But this does not require them to ‘fundamentally alter the nature of the sport and, in some instances, effectively preclude participation altogether’ Instead, ‘[b]y choosing to participate in a sport that poses the obvious possibility of injury, the student athlete must learn to accept an adverse result of the risks inherent in the sport.’ ” (Lupash v. City of Seal Beach (1999) 75 Cal.App.4th 1428, 1436–1437 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 920], internal citations omitted.)
- “The determinant of duty, ‘inherent risk,’ is to be decided solely as a question of law and based on the general characteristics of the sport activity and the parties' relationship to it.” (Griffin v. The Haunted Hotel, Inc. (2015) 242 Cal.App.4th 490, 501 [194 Cal.Rptr.3d 830].)
- “Admittedly, it is sometimes said that ‘[t]he existence and scope of a defendant's duty of care in the primary assumption of risk context “is a legal question which depends on the nature of the sport or activity ... and on the parties’ general relationship to the activity, and is an issue to be decided by the court, rather than the jury.”’ This statement of the rule is correct where there is no dispute about the inherent risks, and such cases may be resolved on summary judgment. [¶] However this statement is overly broad. Although the risks inherent in many activities are not subject to reasonable dispute (e.g., being hit with a baseball during a game), the risks inherent in some activities are not commonly known. In such cases, expert testimony may be required ‘“for purposes of weighing whether the inherent risks of the activity were increased by the defendant's conduct.”’ ... Thus, it is not entirely accurate to say inherent risks of an activity always present purely legal questions, because sometimes the nature of an activity and its risks must be gleaned from the evidence.” (Jimenez, supra, 247 Cal.App.4th at p. 608, original italics, internal citations omitted.)
- “Although we recognize the Court of Appeal decisions specifically addressing the point are in conflict, we believe resolving this issue is not a matter of further defining [defendant]’s duty, which would be a question of law for the court. Rather, it requires application of the governing standard of care (the duty not to increase the risks inherent in the sport) to the facts of this particular case—the traditional role of the trier of fact. (See, e.g., Vine v. Bear Valley Ski Co., supra, 118 Cal.App.4th at pp. 591–592 [whether defendant’s design of snowboard jump increased inherent risks of snowboarding is question for jury]; Solis v. California League of Prof. Baseball (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 112, 123 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 105] [whether distraction caused by activities of minor league baseball team's mascot increased inherent risk of spectator being hit by a foul ball ‘is issue of fact to be resolved at trial’]; but see Huff v. Wilkins, supra, 138 Cal.App.4th at p. 745 [‘it is the trial court’s province to determine whether defendants breached their duty not to increase the inherent risk of a collision [in the sport of off-roading], and it should hold a hearing for this purpose before impaneling a jury’]; American Golf Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 30, 37 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 683] [‘[i]t is for the court to decide ... whether the defendant has increased the risks of the activity beyond the risks inherent in the sport’]; see also Huffman v. City of Poway (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 975, 995, fn. 23 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 325] [indicating it is for the court to determine whether defendant's conduct increased the risk inherent in participating in a particular sport, but that trial court may receive expert testimony on the customary practices in the sport to make that determination].) [¶] Our conclusion it is for the trier of fact to determine whether [defendant] breached his limited duty not to increase the risks inherent in the sport of volleyball finds solid support in the Supreme Court’s most recent sports injury, primary assumption of the risk decision, Shin v. Ahn, supra, 42 Cal.4th 482, a case that postdates the appellate court decisions suggesting the issue is one for the court to resolve.” (Luna, supra, 169 Cal.App.4th at pp. 112–113.)

- “The existence of a duty of care is a separate issue from the question whether (on the basis of foreseeability among other factors) a particular defendant breached that duty of care, which is an essentially factual matter.” (Kockelman v. Segal (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 491, 498 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 552].)
- “[A duty not to increase the risk] arises only if there is an ‘organized relationship’ between the defendants and the participant in relation to the sporting activity, such as exists between ... a coach or instructor and his or her students. [I]mposing such a duty in the context of these types of relationships is justified because the defendants are ‘responsible for, or in control of, the conditions under which the [participant] engaged in the sport.’” (Bertsch, supra, 247 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1208–1209, internal citation omitted.)

(See Knight v. Jewett (1992) 3 Cal.4th 296, 320 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 834 P.2d 696].) There is, however, a duty applicable to facilities owners and operators and to event sponsors not to unreasonably increase the risks of injury to participants and spectators beyond those inherent in the activity. - “Although defendants generally have no legal duty to eliminate (or protect a plaintiff against) risks inherent in the sport itself, it is well established that defendants generally do have a duty to use due care not to increase the risks to a participant over and above those inherent in the sport. Thus, although a ski resort has no duty to remove moguls from a ski run, it clearly does have a duty to use due care to maintain its towropes in a safe, working condition so as not to expose skiers to an increased risk of harm. The cases establish that the latter type of risk, posed by a ski resort's negligence, clearly is not a risk (inherent in the sport) that is assumed by a participant.” (Knight, supra, 3 Cal.4th at pp. 315–316.)
- “Under Knight, defendants had a duty not to increase the inherent risks to which spectators at professional baseball games are regularly exposed and which they assume. As a result, a triable issue of fact remained, namely whether the [defendants]’ mascot cavorting in the stands and distracting plaintiff's attention, while the game was in progress, constituted a breach of that duty, i.e., constituted negligence in the form of increasing the inherent risk to plaintiff of being struck by a foul ball.” (Lowe, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 114, original italics.)

418. Presumption of Negligence per se

[Insert citation to statute, regulation, or ordinance] states:

If you decide

1. That [name of plaintiff/defendant] violated this law and
2. That the violation was a substantial factor in bringing about the harm, then you must find that [name of plaintiff/defendant] was negligent [unless you also find that the violation was excused].

If you find that [name of plaintiff/defendant] did not violate this law or that the violation was not a substantial factor in bringing about the harm [or if you find the violation was excused], then you must still decide whether [name of plaintiff/defendant] was negligent in light of the other instructions.

New September 2003; Revised December 2005, June 2011

Directions for Use

This jury instruction addresses the establishment of the two factual elements underlying the presumption of negligence. If they are not established, then a finding of negligence cannot be based on the alleged statutory violation. However, negligence can still be proven by other means. (See Nunneley v. Edgar Hotel (1950) 36 Cal.2d 493, 500–501 [225 P.2d 497].)

If a rebuttal is offered on the ground that the violation was excused, then the bracketed portion in the second and last paragraphs should be read. For an instruction on excuse, see CACI No. 420, Negligence per se: Rebuttal of the Presumption of Negligence (Violation Excused).

If the statute is lengthy, the judge may want to read it at the end of this instruction instead of at the beginning. The instruction would then need to be revised, to tell the jury that they will be hearing the statute at the end.

Rebuttal of the presumption of negligence is addressed in the instructions that follow (see CACI Nos. 420 and 421).

- Negligence per se. Evidence Code section 669.
- “Although compliance with the law does not prove the absence of negligence, violation of the law does raise a presumption that the violator was negligent. This is called negligence per se. The presumption of negligence arises if (1) the defendant violated a statute; (2) the violation proximately caused the plaintiff's injury; (3) the injury resulted from the kind of occurrence the statute was designed to prevent; and (4) the plaintiff was one of the class of persons the statute was intended to protect. The first two elements are normally questions for the trier of fact and the last two are determined by the trial court as a matter of law. That is, the trial court decides whether a statute or regulation defines the standard of care in a particular case.” (Jacobs Farm/Del Cabo, Inc. v. Western Farm Service, Inc. (2010) 190 Cal.App.4th 1502, 1526 [119 Cal.Rptr.3d 529], internal citations omitted; see also Cal. Law Revision Com. to Evid. Code, § 669.)

- “Under the doctrine of negligence per se, the plaintiff ‘borrows’ statutes to prove duty of care and standard of care. [Citation.] The plaintiff still has the burden of proving causation.” (David v. Hernandez (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 578, 584 [172 Cal.Rptr.3d 204].)
- “Where a statute establishes a party's duty, ‘ ‘proof of the [party's] violation of a statutory standard of conduct raises a presumption of negligence that may be rebutted only by evidence establishing a justification or excuse for the statutory violation.’ This rule, generally known as the doctrine of negligence per se, means that where the court has adopted the conduct prescribed by statute as the standard of care for a reasonable person, a violation of the statute is presumed to be negligence.” (Spriesterbach v. Holland (2013) 215 Cal.App.4th 255, 263 [155 Cal.Rptr.3d 306], internal citation omitted.)
- “[I]n negligence per se actions, the plaintiff must produce evidence of a violation of a statute and a substantial probability that the plaintiff's injury was caused by the violation of the statute before the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove the violation of the statute did not cause the plaintiff's injury.” (Toste v. CalPortland Construction (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 362, 371 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 522].)
- “ ‘The significance of a statute in a civil suit for negligence lies in its formulation of a standard of conduct that the court adopts in the determination of such liability. The decision as to what the civil standard should be still rests with the court, and the standard formulated by a legislative body in a police regulation or criminal statute becomes the standard to determine civil liability only because the court accepts it. In the absence of such a standard the case goes to the jury, which must determine whether the defendant has acted as a reasonably prudent man would act in similar circumstances. The jury then has the burden of deciding not only what the facts are but what the unformulated standard is of reasonable conduct. When a legislative body has generalized a standard from the experience of the community and prohibits conduct that is likely to cause harm, the court accepts the formulated standards and applies them [citations], except where they would serve to impose liability without fault.’ ” (*Ramirez v. 426. Negligent Hiring, Supervision, or Retention of Employee

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she] was harmed by [name of employee] and that [name of employer defendant] is responsible for that harm because [name of employer defendant] negligently [hired/ supervised/ [or] retained] [name of employee]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. [That [name of employer defendant] hired [name of employee];]
 2. That [name of employee] [[was/became] [unfit [or] incompetent] to perform the work for which [he/she] was hired/[specify other particular risk]];
 3. That [name of employer defendant] knew or should have known that [name of employee] [[was/became] [unfit/ [or] incompetent]/[other particular risk]] and that this [unfitness [or] incompetence/ [other particular risk]] created a particular risk to others;
 4. That [name of employee]'s [unfitness [or] incompetence/ [other particular risk]] harmed [name of plaintiff]; and
 5. That [name of employer defendant]'s negligence in [hiring/ supervising/ [or] retaining] [name of employee] was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New December 2009; Revised December 2015, June 2016

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the plaintiff alleges that the employer of an employee who caused harm was negligent in the hiring, supervision, or retention of the employee after actual or constructive notice that the employee created a particular risk or hazard to others. For instructions holding the employer vicariously liable (without fault) for the acts of the employee, see the Vicarious Responsibility series, CACI No. 3700 et seq.

Include optional question 1 if the employment relationship between the defendant and the negligent person is contested. (See Jackson v. AEG Live, LLC (2015) 233 Cal.App.4th 1156, 1185–1189 [183 Cal.Rptr.3d 394].) It appears that liability may also be imposed on the hirer of an independent contractor for the negligent selection of the contractor. (See Noble v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1973) 33 Cal.App.3d 654, 662–663 [109 Cal.Rptr. 269].) Therefore, it would not seem to be necessary to instruct on the test to determine whether the relationship is one of employer-employee or hirer-independent contractor. (See CACI No. 3704, Existence of “Employee” Status Disputed.)

Choose “became” in elements 2 and 3 in a claim for negligent retention.

In most cases, “unfitness” or “incompetence” (or both) will adequately describe the particular risk that the employee represents. However, there may be cases in which neither word adequately describes the risk that the employer should have known about.

On the negligent supervision and failure to warn claims, [plaintiff] will be required to show [defendant employer] knew or should have known of [employee]’s alleged misconduct and did not act in a reasonable manner when it allegedly recommended him to serve as [plaintiff]’s Bible instructor.” (Lopez v. - “Liability for negligent hiring and supervision is based upon the reasoning that if an enterprise hires individuals with characteristics which might pose a danger to customers or other employees, the enterprise should bear the loss caused by the wrongdoing of its incompetent or unfit employees. City of Los Angeles (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 1333, 1339–1340 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 525].)

- “Apparently, [defendant] had no actual knowledge of [the employee]’s past. - “A claim that an employer was negligent in hiring or retaining an employee-driver rarely differs in substance from a claim that an employer was negligent in entrusting a vehicle to the employee. Awareness, constructive or actual, that a person is unfit or incompetent to drive underlies a claim that an employer was negligent in hiring or retaining that person as a driver. (See Judicial Council of Cal. Civ. Jury Instns. (2011) CACI No. 426.) That same awareness underlies a claim for negligent entrustment. (See CACI No. 724.) In a typical case, like this, the two claims are functionally identical.” (Diaz v. Carcamo (2011) 51 Cal.4th 1148, 1157 [126 Cal.Rptr.3d 443, 253 P.3d 535].)
- “[I]f an employer admits vicarious liability for its employee’s negligent driving in the scope of employment, ‘the damages attributable to both employer and employee will be coextensive.’ Thus, when a plaintiff alleges a negligent entrustment or hiring cause of action against the employer and the employer admits vicarious liability for its employee’s negligent driving, the universe of defendants who can be held responsible for plaintiff’s damages is reduced by one—the employer—for purposes of apportioning fault under Proposition 51. Consequently, the employer would not be mentioned on the special verdict form. The jury must divide fault for the accident among the listed tortfeasors, and the employer is liable only for whatever share of fault the jury assigns to the employee.” (Diaz, supra, 41 Cal.4th at p. 1159, internal citations omitted.)

William S. Hart Union High School Dist.* (2012) 53 Cal.4th 861, 879 [138 Cal.Rptr.3d 1, 270 P.3d 699].)
- “[P]laintiff premises her direct negligence claim on the hospital’s alleged failure to properly screen [doctor] before engaging her and to properly supervise her after engaging her. Since hiring and supervising medical personnel, as well as safeguarding incapacitated patients, are clearly within the scope of services for which the hospital is licensed, its alleged failure to do so necessarily states a claim for professional negligence. Accordingly, plaintiff cannot pursue a claim of direct negligence against the hospital.” (So v. Shin (2013) 212 Cal.App.4th 652, 668 [151 Cal.Rptr.3d 257].)
- “[Asking] whether [defendant] hired [employee] was necessary given the dispute over who hired [employee]—[defendant] or [decedent]. As the trial court noted, ‘The employment was neither stipulated nor obvious on its face.’ However, if the trial court began the jury instructions or special verdict form with, ‘Was [employee] unfit or incompetent to perform the work for which he was hired,’ confusion was likely to result as the question assumed a hiring. Therefore, the jury needed to answer the question of whether [defendant] hired [employee] before it could determine if [defendant] negligently hired, retained, or supervised him.” (Jackson, supra, 233 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1187–1188.)

430. Causation: Substantial Factor

A substantial factor in causing harm is a factor that a reasonable person would consider to have contributed to the harm. It must be more than a remote or trivial factor. It does not have to be the only cause of the harm.

[Conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct.]

New September 2003; Revised October 2004, June 2005, December 2005, December 2007

Directions for Use

As phrased, this definition of “substantial factor” subsumes the “but for” test of causation, that is, “but for” the defendant’s conduct, the plaintiff’s harm would not have occurred. (Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1052 [1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872]; see Rest.2d Torts, § 431.) The optional last sentence makes this explicit, and in some cases it may be error not to give this sentence. (See Soule v. GM Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548, 572–573 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298]; Rest.2d Torts, § 432(1).)

“Conduct,” in this context, refers to the culpable acts or omissions on which a claim of legal fault is based, e.g., negligence, product defect, breach of contract, or dangerous condition of public property. This is in contrast to an event that is not a culpable act but that happens to occur in the chain of causation, e.g., that the plaintiff’s alarm clock failed to go off, causing her to be at the location of the accident at a time when she otherwise would not have been there. The reference to “conduct” may be changed as appropriate to the facts of the case.

The “but for” test of the last optional sentence does not apply to concurrent independent causes, which are multiple forces operating at the same time and independently, each of which would have been sufficient by itself to bring about the same harm. (Viner v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232, 1240 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046]; Barton v. Owen (1977) 71 Cal.App.3d 484, 503–504 [139 Cal.Rptr. 494]; see Rest.2d Torts, § 432(2).) Accordingly, do not include the last sentence in a case involving concurrent independent causes.

In cases of multiple (concurrent dependent) causes, CACI No. 431, Causation: Multiple Causes, should also be given.

In asbestos-related cancer cases, Rutherford v. Owens-Illinois, Inc. (1997) 16 Cal.4th 953, 977 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 941 P.2d 1203] requires a different instruction regarding exposure to a particular product. Give CACI No. 435, Causation for Asbestos-Related Cancer Claims, and do not give this instruction.

Sources and Authority

- “The test for joint tort liability is set forth in section 431 of the Restatement of Torts 2d, which provides: ‘The actor’s negligent conduct is a legal cause of harm to another if (a) his conduct is a substantial factor in bringing about the harm, and, (b) there is no rule of law relieving the actor from liability because of the manner in which his negligence has resulted in the harm.’ Section 431 correctly states California law as to the issue of causation in tort cases.” (Wilson v. Blue Cross of So. Cal. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 660, 671–672 [271 Cal.Rptr. 876].)

- “California has definitively adopted the substantial factor test of the Restatement Second of Torts for cause-in-fact determinations. Under that standard, a cause in fact is something that is a substantial factor in bringing about the injury. The substantial factor standard generally produces the same results as does the ‘but for’ rule of causation which states that a defendant’s conduct is a cause of the injury if the injury would not have occurred ‘but for’ that conduct. The substantial factor standard, however, has been embraced as a clearer rule of causation—one which subsumes the ‘but for’ test while reaching beyond it to satisfactorily address other situations, such as those involving independent or concurrent causes in fact.” (Rutherford, supra, 16 Cal.4th at pp. 968–969, internal citations omitted.)
- “The term ‘substantial factor’ has not been judicially defined with specificity, and indeed it has been observed that it is ‘neither possible nor desirable to reduce it to any lower terms.’ This court has suggested that a force which plays only an ‘infinitesimal’ or ‘theoretical’ part in bringing about injury, damage, or loss is not a substantial factor. Undue emphasis should not be placed on the term ‘substantial.’ For example, the substantial factor standard, formulated to aid plaintiffs as a broader rule of causality than the ‘but for’ test, has been invoked by defendants whose conduct is clearly a ‘but for’ cause of plaintiff’s injury but is nevertheless urged as an insubstantial contribution to the injury. Misused in this way, the substantial factor test ‘undermines the principles of comparative negligence, under which a party is responsible for his or her share of negligence and the harm caused thereby.’ ” (Rutherford, supra, 16 Cal.4th at pp. 968–969, internal citations omitted.)
- “The substantial factor standard is a relatively broad one, requiring only that the contribution of the individual cause be more than negligible or theoretical. Thus, ‘a force which plays only an “infinitesimal” or “theoretical” part in bringing about injury, damage, or loss is not a substantial factor’, but a very minor force that does cause harm is a substantial factor. This rule honors the principle of comparative fault.” (Bockrath v. Aldrich Chemical Co. (1999) 21 Cal.4th 71, 79 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 846, 980 P.2d 398], internal citations omitted.)
- “The text of Restatement Torts second section 432 demonstrates how the ‘substantial factor’ test subsumes the traditional ‘but for’ test of causation. Subsection (1) of section 432 provides: ‘Except as stated in Subsection (2), the actor’s negligent conduct is not a substantial factor in bringing about harm to another if the harm would have been sustained even if the actor had not been negligent.’ ... Subsection (2) states that if ‘two forces are actively operating ... and each of itself is sufficient to bring about harm to another, the actor’s negligence may be found to be a substantial factor in bringing it about.’ ” (Viner, supra, 30 Cal.4th at p. 1240, original italics.)
- “Because the ‘substantial factor’ test of causation subsumes the ‘but for’ test, the ‘but for’ test has been phrased in terms of ‘substantial factor,’ as follows, in the context, as here, of a combination of causes dependent on one another: A defendant’s negligent conduct may combine with another factor to cause harm; if a defendant’s negligence was a substantial factor in causing the plaintiff’s harm, then the defendant is responsible for the harm; a defendant cannot avoid responsibility just because some other person, condition, or event was also a substantial factor in causing the plaintiff’s harm; but conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct.” (Yanez v. Plummer (2013) 221 Cal.App.4th 180, 187 [164 Cal.Rptr.3d 309].)

- “A tort is a legal cause of injury only when it is a substantial factor in producing the injury. If the external force of a vehicle accident was so severe that it would have caused identical injuries notwithstanding an abstract ‘defect’ in the vehicle’s collision safety, the defect cannot be considered a substantial factor in bringing them about. [¶] The general causation instruction given by the trial court correctly advised that plaintiff could not recover for a design defect unless it was a ‘substantial factor’ in producing plaintiff’s ‘enhanced’ injuries. However, this instruction dealt only by ‘negative implication’ with [defendant]’s theory that any such defect was not a ‘substantial factor’ in this case because this particular accident would have broken plaintiff’s ankles in any event. As we have seen, [defendant] presented substantial evidence to that effect. [Defendant] was therefore entitled to its special instruction, and the trial court’s refusal to give it was error.” (Soule, supra, 8 Cal.4th at p. 572–573, original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted.)
- “The first element of legal cause is cause in fact The ‘but for’ rule has traditionally been applied to determine cause in fact. The Restatement formula uses the term substantial factor ‘to denote the fact that the defendant’s conduct has such an effect in producing the harm as to lead reasonable men to regard it as a cause.’ ” (Mayes v. Bryan (2006) 139 Cal.App.4th 1075, 1095 [44 Cal.Rptr.3d 14], internal citations omitted.)
- “If the accident would have happened anyway, whether the defendant was negligent or not, then his or her negligence was not a cause in fact, and of course cannot be the legal or responsible cause.” (Toste v. CalPortland Construction (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 362, 370 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 522].)
- “We have recognized that proximate cause has two aspects. ‘ “One is cause in fact. An act is a cause in fact if it is a necessary antecedent of an event.” ’ This is sometimes referred to as ‘but-for’ causation. n12-In cases where concurrent independent causes contribute to an injury, we apply the ‘substantial factor’ test of the Restatement Second of Torts, section 423, which subsumes traditional ‘but for’ causation. This case does not involve concurrent independent causes, so the ‘but for’ test governs questions of factual causation.” (State Dept. of State Hospitals v. Superior Court (2015) 61 Cal.4th 339, 354 [188 Cal.Rptr.3d 308, 349 P.3d 1013], original italics, footnote omitted.)
- “ ‘Whether a defendant’s conduct actually caused an injury is a question of fact ... that is ordinarily for the jury’ [C]ausation in fact is ultimately a matter of probability and common sense: “[A plaintiff] is not required to eliminate entirely all possibility that the defendant’s conduct was not a cause. It is enough that he introduces evidence from which reasonable [persons] may conclude that it is more probable that the event was caused by the defendant than that it was not. The fact of causation is incapable of mathematical proof, since no [person] can say with absolute certainty what would have occurred if the defendant had acted otherwise. If, as a matter of ordinary experience, a particular act or omission might be expected to produce a particular result, and if that result has in fact followed, the conclusion may be justified that the causal relation exists. In drawing that conclusion, the triers of fact are permitted to draw upon ordinary human experience as to the probabilities of the case.” ’ ... ‘ “A mere possibility of ... causation is not enough; and when the matter remains one of pure speculation or conjecture, or the probabilities are at best evenly balanced, it becomes the duty of the court to direct a verdict for the defendant.” ’ ” (Raven H. v. Gamette (2007) 157 Cal.App.4th 1017, 1029–1030 [68 Cal.Rptr.3d 897], internal citations omitted.)

- “[E]vidence of causation ‘must rise to the level of a reasonable probability based upon competent testimony. 435. Causation for Asbestos-Related Cancer Claims

A substantial factor in causing harm is a factor that a reasonable person would consider to have contributed to the harm. It does not have to be the only cause of the harm.

[Name of plaintiff] may prove that exposure to asbestos from [name of defendant]'s product was a substantial factor causing [his/her/[name of decedent]'s] illness by showing, through expert testimony, that there is a reasonable medical probability that the exposure was a substantial factor contributing to [his/her] risk of developing cancer.

New September 2003; Revised December 2007

Directions for Use

If the issue of medical causation is tried separately, revise this instruction to focus on that issue.

If necessary, CACI No. 431, Causation: Multiple Causes, may also be given. Unless there are other defendants who are not asbestos manufacturers or suppliers, do not give CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor.

Sources and Authority

- “In the context of a cause of action for asbestos-related latent injuries, the plaintiff must first establish some threshold exposure to the defendant’s defective asbestos-containing products, and must further establish in reasonable medical probability that a particular exposure or series of exposures was a ‘legal cause’ of his injury, i.e., a substantial factor in bringing about the injury. In an asbestos-related cancer case, the plaintiff need not prove that fibers from the defendant’s product were the ones, or among the ones, that actually began the process of malignant cellular growth. Instead, the plaintiff may meet the burden of proving that exposure to defendant’s product was a substantial factor causing the illness by showing that in reasonable medical probability it was a substantial factor contributing to the plaintiff’s or decedent’s risk of developing cancer. The jury should be so instructed. The standard instructions on substantial factor and concurrent causation remain correct in this context and should also be given.” (Rutherford v. Owens-Illinois, Inc. (1997) 16 Cal.4th 953, 982–983 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 941 P.2d 1203], original italics, internal citation and footnotes omitted.)
- “The term ‘substantial factor’ has not been judicially defined with specificity, and indeed it has been observed that it is ‘neither possible nor desirable to reduce it to any lower terms.’ This court has suggested that a force which plays only an ‘infinitesimal’ or ‘theoretical’ part in bringing about injury, damage, or loss is not a substantial factor. Undue emphasis should not be placed on the term ‘substantial.’ For example, the substantial factor standard, formulated to aid plaintiffs as a broader rule of causality than the ‘but for’ test, has been invoked by defendants whose conduct is clearly a ‘but for’ cause of plaintiff’s injury but is nevertheless urged as an insubstantial contribution to the injury. Misused in this way, the substantial factor test ‘undermines the principles of comparative negligence, under which a party is responsible for his or her share of negligence and the harm caused

- “[A] very minor force that does cause harm is a substantial factor. This rule honors the principle of comparative fault.” (Bockrath v. Aldrich Chem. Co. (1999) 21 Cal.4th 71, 79 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 846, 980 P.2d 398], internal citation omitted.)
- “Contrary to defendant’s assertion, the California Supreme Court’s decision in Viner v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232 [135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046] (Viner) did not alter the causation requirement in asbestos-related cases. In Viner, the court noted that subsection (1) of section 432 of the Restatement Second of Torts, which provides that ‘the actor’s negligent conduct is not a substantial factor in bringing about harm to another if the harm would have been sustained even if the actor had not been negligent,’ ‘demonstrates how the “substantial factor” test subsumes the traditional “but for” test of causation.’ Defendant argues that Viner required plaintiffs to show that defendant’s product ‘independently caused [plaintiff’s] injury or that, but for that exposure, [plaintiff] would not have contracted lung cancer.’ Viner, however, is a legal malpractice case. It does not address the explicit holding in Rutherford that ‘plaintiffs may prove causation in asbestos-related cancer cases by demonstrating that the plaintiff’s exposure to defendant’s asbestos-containing product in reasonable medical probability was a substantial factor in contributing to the aggregate dose of asbestos the plaintiff or decedent inhaled or ingested, and hence to the risk of developing asbestos-related cancer, without the need to demonstrate that fibers from the defendant’s particular product were the ones, or among the ones, that actually produced the malignant growth.’ ” Viner is consistent with Rutherford insofar as Rutherford requires proof that an individual asbestos-containing product is a substantial factor contributing to the plaintiff’s risk or probability of developing cancer.” (Jones v. John Crane, Inc. (2005) 132 Cal.App.4th 990, 998, fn. 3 [35 Cal.Rptr.3d 144], internal citations omitted.)
- “ ‘A threshold issue in asbestos litigation is exposure to the defendant’s product. ... If there has been no exposure, there is no causation.’ Plaintiffs bear the burden of ‘demonstrating that exposure to [defendant’s] asbestos products was, in reasonable medical probability, a substantial factor in causing or contributing to [plaintiff’s] risk of developing cancer.’ ‘Factors relevant to assessing whether such a medical probability exists include frequency of exposure, regularity of exposure and proximity of the asbestos product to [plaintiff].’ Therefore, ‘[plaintiffs] cannot prevail against [defendant] without evidence that [plaintiff] was exposed to asbestos-containing materials manufactured or furnished by [defendant] with enough frequency and regularity as to show a reasonable medical probability that this exposure was a factor in causing the plaintiff’s injuries.’ ” (Whitmire v. Ingersoll-Rand Co. (2010) 184 Cal.App.4th 1078, 1084 [109 Cal.Rptr.3d 371], internal citations omitted.)
- “Further, “[t]he mere “possibility” of exposure’ is insufficient to establish causation. ‘[P]roof that raises mere speculation, suspicion, surmise, guess or conjecture is not enough to sustain [the plaintiffs] burden’ of persuasion.” (Izell v. Union Carbide Corp. (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 962, 969 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 382], internal citations omitted.)
- “Plaintiffs may prove causation in an asbestos case by demonstrating that the plaintiff’s or decedent’s exposure to defendant’s asbestos-containing product in reasonable medical probability was a substantial factor in contributing to the aggregate dose of asbestos the plaintiff or decedent inhaled or ingested, and hence to the risk of developing asbestos-related cancer.” (McGonnell v. Kaiser Gypsum Co., Inc. (2002) 98 Cal.App.4th 1098, 1103 [120 Cal.Rptr.2d 23], internal citations omitted.)

- “[G]iven the long latency period of asbestos-related disease, and the occupational settings that commonly exposed the worker to multiple forms and brands of asbestos products with varying degrees of toxicity,’ our Supreme Court has held that a plaintiff ‘need not prove with medical exactitude that fibers from a particular defendant's asbestos-containing products were those, or among those, that actually began the cellular process of malignancy.’ Rather, a ‘plaintiff may meet the burden of proving that exposure to defendant's product was a substantial factor causing the illness by showing that in reasonable medical probability it was a substantial factor contributing to the plaintiff's or decedent's risk of developing cancer.’ ” (Izell, supra, 231 Cal.App.4th at p. 975, original italics, internal citation omitted.)
- “Many factors are relevant in assessing the medical probability that an exposure contributed to plaintiff’s asbestos disease. Frequency of exposure, regularity of exposure, and proximity of the asbestos product to plaintiff are certainly relevant, although these considerations should not be determinative in every case. [Citation.] Additional factors may also be significant in individual cases, such as the type of asbestos product to which plaintiff was exposed, the type of injury suffered by plaintiff, and other possible sources of plaintiff’s injury. [Citations.] ‘Ultimately, the sufficiency of the evidence of causation will depend on the unique circumstances of each case.’ [Citation.]” (Paulus v. Crane Co. (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 1357, 1363–1364 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 373].)
- “In this case, [defendant] argues the trial court's refusal to give its proposed instruction was error because the instruction set forth ‘the requirement in Rutherford that causation be decided by taking into account “the length, frequency, proximity and intensity of exposure, the peculiar properties of the individual product, [and] any other potential causes to which the disease could be attributed.” ’ But Rutherford does not require the jury to take these factors into account when deciding whether a plaintiff's exposure to an asbestos-containing product was a substantial factor in causing mesothelioma. Instead, those factors are ones that a medical expert may rely upon in forming his or her expert medical opinion.” (Davis v. Honeywell Internat. Inc. (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 477, 495 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 583], internal citation omitted.)
- “We disagree with the trial court's view that Rutherford mandates that a medical doctor must expressly link together the evidence of substantial factor causation. The Rutherford court did not create a requirement that specific words must be recited by appellant's expert. Nor did the Rutherford court specify that the testifying expert in asbestos cases must always be ‘somebody with an M.D. after his name.’ The Rutherford court agreed with the Lineaweaver court that ‘the reference to “medical probability” in the standard “is no more than a recognition that asbestos injury cases (like medical malpractice cases) involve the use of medical evidence.” [Citation.]’ The Supreme Court has since clarified that medical evidence does not necessarily have to be provided by a medical doctor.” (Hernandez v. Amcord, Inc. (2013) 215 Cal.App.4th 659, 675 [156 Cal.Rptr.3d 90], internal citations omitted.)
- “Nothing in Rutherford precludes a plaintiff from establishing legal causation through opinion testimony by a competent medical expert to the effect that every exposure to respirable asbestos contributes to the risk of developing mesothelioma. On the contrary, Rutherford acknowledges the scientific debate between the ‘every exposure’ and ‘insignificant exposure’ camps, and recognizes that the conflict is one for the jury to resolve.” (Izell, supra, 231 Cal.App.4th at p. 977.)

- “Nor is there a requirement that ‘specific words must be recited by [plaintiffs] expert.’ [¶] The connection, however, must be made between the defendant's asbestos products and the risk of developing mesothelioma suffered by the decedent.” (Paulus, supra, 224 Cal.App.4th at p. 1364.)

555. Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—One-Year Limit (Code Civ. Proc., § 340.5)

[Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff]’s lawsuit was not filed within the time set by law. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that before [insert date one year before date of filing], [name of plaintiff] discovered, or knew of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect, that [he/she] had suffered harm that was caused by someone’s wrongful conduct.

[If, however, [name of plaintiff] proves [insert tolling provision(s) of general applicability, e.g., Code Civ. Proc., §§ 351 [absence from California], 352 [insanity], 352.1 [prisoners], 352.5 [restitution orders], 353.1 [court’s assumption of attorney’s practice], 354 [war], 356 [injunction]], the period within which [name of plaintiff] had to file the lawsuit is extended for the amount of time that [insert tolling provision, e.g., [name of defendant] was absent from California].]

Directions for Use

Use CACI No. 556, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—Three-Year Limit, if the three-year limitation provision is at issue.

If the notice of intent to sue required by Code of Civil Procedure section 364 is served within 90 days of the date on which the statute of limitations will run, the statute of limitations is tolled for 90 days beyond the end of the limitations period. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 364; Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal.3d 315, 325–326 [279 Cal.Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455].) Adjust the “date one year before the date of filing” in the instruction accordingly. If there is an issue of fact with regard to compliance with the requirements of section 364, the instruction may need to be modified accordingly.

Give the optional last paragraph if there is a question of fact concerning a tolling provision from the Code of Civil Procedure. If so, the verdict form should ask the jury to find (1) the “discovery” date (the date on which the plaintiff discovered or knew of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect that he or she had suffered harm that was caused by someone’s wrongful conduct); (2) whether the tolling provision applies; and (3) if so, for what period of time. The court can then add the additional time to the discovery date and determine whether the action is timely.

Contrary to the otherwise applicable rule (see CACI No. 455, Statute of Limitations—Delayed Discovery), the defendant has been given the burden of proving that the plaintiff discovered or should have discovered the facts alleged to constitute the defendant’s wrongdoing more than one year before filing the action. (See Samuels v. Mix (1999) 22 Cal.4th 1, 8–10 [91 Cal.Rptr.2d 273, 989 P.2d 701] [construing structurally similar Code Civ. Proc., § 340.6, on legal malpractice, to place burden regarding delayed discovery on the defendant and disapproving Burgon v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1979) 93 Cal.App.3d 813 [155 Cal.Rptr. 763], which had reached the opposite result under Code Civ. Proc., § 340.5].) See also CACI No. 610, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—One-Year Limit.

Bowers Ambulance Serv.* (1999) 20 Cal.4th 928, 934 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 107, 978 P.2d 591] [Code Civ. Proc., § 352.1, which tolls statutes of limitation for prisoners, applies to extend one-year period of Code Civ. Proc., § 340.5].)
- “The implications of Belton’s analysis for our case here is inescapable. Like tolling the statute of limitations for confined prisoners under section 352.1, tolling under section 351 for a defendant’s absence from California is of general applicability [and therefore extends the one-year period of Code of Civil Procedure section 340.5]. (For other general tolling provisions, see § 352 [minors or insanity]; § 352.5 [restitution orders]; § 353.1 [court’s assumption of attorney’s practice]; § 354 [war]; § 356 [injunction].)” (Kaplan v. Mamelak (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 637, 643 [75 Cal.Rptr.3d 861].)
- “[A] plaintiff’s minority as such does not toll the limitations period of section 340.5. When the Legislature added the separate statute of limitations for minors to section 340.5 in 1975, it clearly intended that the general provision for tolling of statutes of limitation during a person’s minority (§ 352, subd. (a)(1)) should no longer apply to medical malpractice actions.” (Steketee v. Lintz (1985) 38 Cal.3d 46, 53 [210 Cal.Rptr 781, 694 P.2d 1153], internal citations omitted.)
- “Section 340.5 creates two separate statutes of limitations, both of which must be satisfied if a plaintiff is to timely file a medical malpractice action. First, the plaintiff must file within one year after she first ‘discovers’ the injury and the negligent cause of that injury. Secondly, she must file within three years after she first experiences harm from the injury. This means that if a plaintiff does not ‘discover’ the negligent cause of her injury until more than three years after she first experiences harm from the injury, she will not be able to bring a malpractice action against the medical practitioner or hospital whose malpractice caused her injury.” (Ashworth v. Mem'l Hosp. (1988) 206 Cal.App.3d 1046, 1054 [254 Cal.Rptr. 104], original italics.)

- “That legislative purpose [re: Code Civ. Proc., § 364] is best effectuated by construing section 364(d) as tolling the one-year statute of limitations when section 364(a)'s ninety-day notice of intent to sue is served during, but not before, the last ninety days of the one-year limitations period. Because the statute of limitations is tolled for 90 days and not merely extended by 90 days from the date of service of the notice, this construction results in a period of 1 year and 90 days in which to file the lawsuit. In providing for a waiting period of at least 90 days before suit can be brought, this construction achieves the legislative objective of encouraging negotiated resolutions of disputes.” (Woods, supra, 53 Cal.3d at p. 325.)
- “[I]f the act or omission that led to the plaintiff's injuries was negligence in the maintenance of equipment that, under the prevailing standard of care, was reasonably required to treat or accommodate a physical or mental condition of the patient, the plaintiff's claim is one of professional negligence under section 340.5. But section 340.5 does not extend to negligence in the maintenance of equipment and premises that are merely convenient for, or incidental to, the provision of medical care to a patient.” (Flores v. Presbyterian Intercommunity Hospital (2016) 63 Cal.4th 75, 88 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 449, 369 P.3d 229].)
- “[W]hile MICRA is not limited to suits by patients, it ‘applies only to actions alleging injury suffered as a result of negligence in . . . the provision of medical care to patients.’ Driving to an accident victim is not the same as providing medical care to the victim. A paramedic's exercise of due care while driving is not ‘necessary or otherwise integrally related to the medical treatment and diagnosis of the patient’, at least when the patient is not in the vehicle.’ ” (Aldana v. Stillwagon (2016) 2 Cal.App.5th 1, 8 [205 Cal.Rptr.3d 719], internal citations omitted.)

Directions for Use

Use CACI No. 555, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—One-Year Limit, if the one-year limitation provision is at issue.

If no tolling provision from Code of Civil Procedure section 340.5 is at issue, read only the first paragraph. Read the rest of the instruction if there is a question of fact concerning a tolling provision. If so, the verdict form should ask the jury to find (1) the date on which the alleged injury occurred; (2) whether the tolling provision applies; and (3) if so, for what period of time. The court can then add the additional time to the date of injury and determine whether the action is timely.

If the notice of intent to sue required by Code of Civil Procedure section 364 is served within 90 days of the date on which the statute of limitations will run, the statute of limitations is tolled for 90 days beyond the end of the limitation period. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 364; Russell v. Stanford Univ. Hosp. (1997) 15 Cal.4th 783, 789–790 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 97, 937 P.2d 640].) If there is an issue of fact with regard to compliance with the requirements of section 364, the instruction may need to be modified accordingly.

Unless the limitations period is so construed, the legislative purpose of reducing the cost and increasing the efficiency of medical malpractice litigation by, among other things, encouraging negotiated resolution of disputes will be frustrated. Moreover, a plaintiff’s attorney who gives notice within the last 90 days of the 3-year limitations period will confront the dilemma we addressed in Woods, i.e., a choice between preserving the plaintiff’s cause of action by violating the 90-day notice period under Code of Civil Procedure section 364, subdivision (d)--thereby invoking potential disciplinary proceedings by the State Bar--and forfeiting the client’s cause of action. In the absence of tolling, the practical effect of the statute would be to shorten the statutory limitations period from three years to two years and nine months. - “[I]f the act or omission that led to the plaintiff’s injuries was negligence in the maintenance of equipment that, under the prevailing standard of care, was reasonably required to treat or accommodate a physical or mental condition of the patient, the plaintiff’s claim is one of professional negligence under section 340.5. But section 340.5 does not extend to negligence in the maintenance of equipment and premises that are merely convenient for, or incidental to, the provision of medical care to a patient.” (Flores v. Presbyterian Intercommunity Hospital (2016) 63 Cal.4th 75, 88 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 449, 369 P.3d 229].)

- “[W]hile MICRA is not limited to suits by patients, it ‘applies only to actions alleging injury suffered as a result of negligence in . . . the provision of medical care to patients.’ Driving to an accident victim is not the same as providing medical care to the victim. A paramedic’s exercise of due care while driving is not ‘necessary or otherwise integrally related to the medical treatment and diagnosis of the patient’ (ibid.), at least when the patient is not in the vehicle. . . .” (Aldana v. Directions for Use

Use CACI No. 611, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—Four-Year Limit, if the four-year limitation provision is at issue.

The court may need to define the term “actual injury” depending on the facts and circumstances of the particular case.

If no tolling provision from Code of Civil Procedure section 340.6 is at issue, read only through the end of the first paragraph. Read the rest of the instruction if there is a question of fact concerning a tolling provision. If so, the verdict form should ask the jury to find (1) the “discovery” date (the date on which the plaintiff discovered or knew of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect that he or she had suffered harm that was caused by someone’s wrongful conduct); (2) whether the tolling provision applies; and (3) if so, for what period of time. The court can then add the additional time to the discovery date and determine whether the action is timely.

- “[T]he continuous representation tolling provision in section 340.6, subdivision (a)(2), applies to toll legal malpractice claims brought by successor trustees against attorneys who represented the predecessor trustee.” (Kelly, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at p. 951.)
- “[A]bsent a statutory standard to determine when an attorney's representation of a client regarding a specific subject matter ends, and consistent with the purposes of the continuing representation rule, we conclude that for purposes of ... section 340.6, subdivision (a)(2), in the event of an attorney's unilateral withdrawal or abandonment of the client, the representation ends when the client actually has or reasonably should have no expectation that the attorney will provide further legal services. ... That may occur upon the attorney's express notification to the client that the attorney will perform no further services, or, if the attorney remains silent, may be inferred from the circumstances. Absent actual notice to the client that the attorney will perform no further legal services or circumstances that reasonably should cause the client to so conclude, a client should be entitled to rely on an attorney to perform the agreed services and should not be required to interrupt the attorney-client relationship by filing a malpractice complaint. After a client has no reasonable expectation that the attorney will provide further legal services, however, the client is no longer hindered by a potential disruption of the attorney-client relationship and no longer relies on the attorney's continuing representation, so the tolling should end. To this extent and for these reasons, we conclude that continuous representation should be viewed objectively from the client's perspective ...” (Laclette v. Galindo (2010) 184 Cal.App.4th 919, 928 [109 Cal.Rptr.3d 660], original italics.)

- “In light of the Legislature's intent that section 340.6(a) cover more than claims for legal malpractice, the term ‘professional services’ is best understood to include nonlegal services governed by an attorney's professional obligations.” (Lee v. Hanley (2015) 61 Cal.4th 1225, 1237 [191 Cal.Rptr.3d 536, 354 P.3d 334].)
- “For purposes of section 340.6(a), the question is not simply whether a claim alleges misconduct that entails the violation of a professional obligation. Rather, the question is whether the claim, in order to succeed, necessarily depends on proof that an attorney violated a professional obligation as opposed to some generally applicable nonprofessional obligation.” (Lee, supra, 61 Cal.4th at p. 1238.)

1110. Affirmative Defense—Natural Conditions (Gov. Code, § 831.2)

A public entity is not responsible for harm caused by a natural condition of an unimproved public property. If [name of defendant] proves that [name of plaintiff]’s injury was caused by such a condition, then it is not responsible for the injury.

- Natural Condition of Unimproved Public Property. Government Code section 831.2.

- “The immunity provided by section 831.2 is absolute and applies regardless of whether the public entity had knowledge of the dangerous condition or failed to give warning. The legislative purpose in enacting section 831.2 was to ensure that public entities will not prohibit public access to recreational areas due to the burden and expense of defending against personal injury suits and of placing such land in a safe condition.” (Goddard v. Department of Fish & Wildlife (2015) 243 Cal.App.4th 350, 360 [196 Cal.Rptr.3d 625], internal citations omitted.)
- “The natural condition immunity applies even ‘where the public entity had knowledge of a dangerous condition which amounted to a hidden trap.’ As a consequence, courts have held there is no liability for failure to warn of a known dangerous condition when the danger is a natural condition of unimproved public property.” (Alana M. v. State of California (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 1482, 1488 [200 Cal.Rptr.3d 410], internal citation omitted.)
- “The statutory immunity extends to ‘an injury caused by a natural condition of any unimproved public property.’ The use of the term ‘caused’ is significant. Here, although the injury occurred on improved property, that is, the paved parking lot, it was caused by the trees, native flora located near—and perhaps superadjacent to—the improved parking lot, but themselves on unimproved property.” (*Meddock v. - “[T]o qualify public property as improved so as to take it outside the immunity statute ‘some form of physical change in the condition of the property at the location of the injury, which justifies the conclusion that the public entity is responsible for reasonable risk management in that area, [is] required to preclude application of the immunity.’ ” (Meddock, supra, 220 Cal.App.4th at p. 178 [162 Cal.Rptr.3d 796], original italics.)
- “It is also the rule that ‘improvement of a portion of a park area does not remove the immunity from the unimproved areas.’ ‘The reasonableness of this rule is apparent. Otherwise, the immunity as to an entire park area improved in any way would be demolished. [Citation.] This would, in turn, seriously thwart accessibility and enjoyment of public lands by discouraging the construction of such

- “It is now generally settled that human-altered conditions, especially those that have existed for some years, which merely duplicate models common to nature are still ‘natural conditions’ as a matter of law for the purposes of Government Code section 831.2.” (*Tessier v. - “The statutory immunity is fully applicable to manmade lakes and reservoirs. Moreover, section 831.2 has been broadly construed to provide immunity even where a natural condition has been affected in some manner by human activity or nearby improvements.” (Goddard, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at p. 361, internal citations omitted.)

- “Given the intent of the Legislature in enacting section 831.2, we hold that wild animals are a natural part of the condition of unimproved public property within the meaning of the statute.” (Arroyo, supra, 34 Cal.App.4th at p. 762.)

1123. Affirmative Defense—Design Immunity (Gov. Code, § 830.6)

[Name of defendant] claims that it is not responsible for harm to [name of plaintiff] caused by the plan or design of the [insert type of property, e.g., highway]. In order to prove this claim, [name of defendant] must prove both of the following:

- 1. That the plan or design was [prepared in conformity with standards previously] approved before [construction/improvement] by the [[legislative body of the public entity, e.g., city council]/[other body or employee, e.g., city civil engineer]] exercising [its/specifically delegated] discretionary authority to approve the plan or design; and
 - 2. That the plan or design of the [e.g., highway] was a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff].

New December 2014; Revised June 2016

Directions for Use

Give this instruction to present the affirmative defense of design immunity to a claim for liability caused by a dangerous condition on public property. (Gov. Code, § 830.6; see Martinez v. County of Ventura (2014) 225 Cal.App.4th 364, 369 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 880] [design immunity is an affirmative defense that the public entity must plead and prove].)

A public entity claiming design immunity must establish three elements: (1) a causal relationship between the plan or design and the accident; (2) discretionary approval of the plan or design before construction; and (3) substantial evidence supporting the reasonableness of the plan or design. (Cornette v. Dept. of Transportation (2001) 26 Cal.4th 63, 66 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 26 P.3d 332].) The first two elements, causation and discretionary approval, are issues of fact for the jury to decide. (Id. at pp. 74–75; see also Alvis v. County of Ventura (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 536, 550 [100 Cal.Rptr.3d 494] [elements may be resolved as issues of law only if facts are undisputed].) The third element, substantial evidence of reasonableness, must be tried by the court, not the jury. (Cornette, supra, 26 Cal.4th at pp. 66–67; see Gov. Code, § 830.6.)

In element 1, select “its” if it is the governing body that has exercised its discretionary authority. Select “specifically delegated” if it is some other body or employee.

The discretionary authority to approve the plan or design must be “vested,” which means that the body or employee actually had the express authority to approve it. This authority cannot be implied from the circumstances. (Castro v. City of Thousand Oaks (2015) 239 Cal.App.4th 1451, 1457 [192 Cal.Rptr.3d 376].)

Sources and Authority

- Design Immunity. Government Code section 830.6.

- “The purpose of design immunity ‘is to prevent a jury from second-guessing the decision of a public entity by reviewing the identical questions of risk that had previously been considered by the government officers who adopted or approved the plan or design. [Citation.]’ ‘ “[T]o permit reexamination in tort litigation of particular discretionary decisions where reasonable men may differ as to how the discretion should be exercised would create too great a danger of impolitic interference with the freedom of decision-making by those public officials in whom the function of making such decisions has been vested.” ’ ” (Martinez, supra, 225 Cal.App.4th at p. 369, internal citations omitted.)
- “Section 830.6 makes it quite clear that ‘the trial or appellate court’ is to determine whether ‘there is any substantial evidence upon the basis of which (a) a reasonable public employee could have adopted the plan or design or the standards therefor or (b) a reasonable legislative body or other body or employee could have approved the plan or design or the standards therefor.’ ” (Cornette, supra, 26 Cal.4th at p. 66.)
- “To prove [the discretionary approval element of design immunity], the entity must show that the design was approved ‘in advance’ of the construction ‘by the legislative body of the public entity or by some other body or employee exercising discretionary authority to give such approval or where such plan or design is prepared in conformity with standards previously so approved’ ‘Approval ... is a vital precondition of the design immunity.’ ” (Martinez, supra, 225 Cal.App.4th at p. 369, internal citations omitted.)
- “In many cases, the evidence of discretionary authority to approve a design decision is clear, or even undisputed. For example, ‘[a] detailed plan, drawn up by a competent engineering firm, and approved by a city engineer in the exercise of his or her discretionary authority, is persuasive evidence of the element of prior approval. [Citation.]’ When the discretionary approval issue is disputed, however, as it was here, we must determine whether the person who approved the construction had the discretionary authority to do so.” (Martinez, supra, 225 Cal.App.4th at pp. 370–371, internal citations omitted.)
- “[T]he focus of discretionary authority to approve a plan or design is fixed by law and will not be implied. ‘[T]he public entity claiming design immunity must prove that the person or entity who made the decision is vested with the authority to do so. Recognizing “implied” discretionary approval would vitiate this requirement and provide public entities with a blanket release from liability that finds no support in section 830.6.’ ” (Castro, supra, 239 Cal.App.4th at p. 1457.)
- “We conclude that the discretionary approval element of section 830.6 does not implicate the question whether the employee who approved the plans was aware of design standards or was aware that the design deviated from those standards. The issue of the adequacy of the deliberative process with respect to design standards may be considered in connection with the court’s determination whether there is substantial evidence that the design was reasonable. In addition, the discretionary approval element does not require the entity to demonstrate in its prima facie case that the employee who had authority to and did approve the plans also had authority to disregard applicable standards.” (Hampton v. County of San Diego (2015) 62 Cal.4th 340, 343 [195 Cal.Rptr.3d 773, 362 P.3d 417].)

1205. Strict Liability—Failure to Warn—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that the [product] lacked sufficient [instructions] [or] [warning of potential risks/side effects/allergic reactions]]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] [manufactured/distributed/sold] the [product];
2. That the [product] had potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions] that were [known/ or] knowable in light of the [scientific/ and] medical knowledge that was generally accepted in the scientific community] at the time of [manufacture/distribution/sale];
3. That the potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions] presented a substantial danger when the [product] is used or misused in an intended or reasonably foreseeable way;
4. That ordinary consumers would not have recognized the potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions];
5. That [name of defendant] failed to adequately warn [or instruct] of the potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions];
6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
7. That the lack of sufficient [instructions] [or] [warnings] was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[The warning must be given to the prescribing physician and must include the potential risks, side effects, or allergic reactions that may follow the foreseeable use of the product. [Name of defendant] had a continuing duty to warn physicians as long as the product was in use.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2009, December 2009, June 2011, December 2011

Directions for Use

With regard to element 2, it has been often stated in the case law that a manufacturer is liable for failure to warn of a risk that is “knowable in light of generally recognized and prevailing best scientific and medical knowledge available.” (See, e.g., Anderson v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1991) 53 Cal.3d 987, 1002 [281 Cal.Rptr. 528, 810 P.2d 549]; Carlin v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1104, 1112 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 162, 920 P.2d 1347]; Saller v. Crown Cork & Seal Company (2010) 187 Cal.App.4th 1220, 1239 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 151]; Rosa v. City of Seaside (N.D. Cal. 2009) 675 F.Supp.2d 1006, 1012.) The advisory committee believes that this standard is captured by the phrase “generally accepted in the scientific community.” A risk may be “generally recognized” as a view (knowledge) advanced by one body of scientific thought and experiment, but it may not be the “prevailing” or “best” scientific view; that is, it may be a minority view. The committee believes that when a risk is (1) generally recognized (2) as prevailing in the relevant scientific community, and (3) represents the best scholarship available, it is sufficient to say that the risk is knowable in light of “the generally accepted” scientific knowledge.

The last bracketed paragraph should be read only in prescription product cases: “In the case of prescription drugs and implants, the physician stands in the shoes of the ‘ordinary user’ because it is through the physician that a patient learns of the properties and proper use of the drug or implant. Thus, the duty to warn in these cases runs to the physician, not the patient.” (Valentine v. Baxter Healthcare Corp. (1999) 68 Cal.App.4th 1467, 1483 [81 Cal.Rptr.2d 252].)

To make a prima facie case, the plaintiff has the initial burden of producing evidence that he or she was injured while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner. If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove that the plaintiff’s injury resulted from a misuse of the product. (See Perez v. VAS S.p.A. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 658, 678 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 590] [risk-benefit design defect case].) See also CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification. Product misuse is a complete defense to strict products liability if the defendant proves that an unforeseeable abuse or alteration of the product after it left the manufacturer’s hands was the sole cause of the plaintiff’s injury. (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 56 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121]; see CACI No. 1245.) Misuse or modification that was a substantial factor in, but not the sole cause of, plaintiff’s harm may also be considered in determining the comparative fault of the plaintiff or of third persons. See CACI No. 1207A, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Plaintiff, and CACI No. 1207B, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Third Person.

Sources and Authority

- “Our law recognizes that even ‘a product flawlessly designed and produced may nevertheless possess such risks to the user without a suitable warning that it becomes ‘defective’ simply by the absence of a warning.’ ...’ Thus, manufacturers have a duty to warn consumers about the hazards inherent in their products. The purpose of requiring adequate warnings is to inform consumers about a product’s hazards and faults of which they are unaware, so that the consumer may then either refrain from using the product altogether or avoid the danger by careful use.” (Taylor v. Elliott Turbomachinery Co., Inc. (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 564, 577 [90 Cal.Rptr.3d 414], internal citations and footnote omitted.)
- “Negligence and strict products liability are separate and distinct bases for liability that do not automatically collapse into each other because the plaintiff might allege both when a product warning contributes to her injury.” (Conte v. Wyeth, Inc. (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 89, 101 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 299].)
- “The ‘known or knowable’ standard arguably derives from negligence principles, and failure to warn claims are generally ‘rooted in negligence’ to a greater extent than’ manufacturing or design defect claims. Unlike those other defects, a ‘warning defect’ relates to a failure extraneous to the product itself’ and can only be assessed by examining the manufacturer’s conduct. These principles notwithstanding, California law recognizes separate failure to warn claims under both strict liability and negligence theories. In general, a product seller will be strictly liable for failure to warn if a ~~warning was feasible and the absence of a warning caused the plaintiff's injury. Reasonableness of the seller's failure to warn is immaterial in the strict liability context. Conversely, to prevail on a claim for negligent failure to warn, the plaintiff must prove that the seller's conduct fell below the standard of care. If a prudent seller would have acted reasonably in not giving a warning, the seller will not have been negligent.” (Webb v. Special Electric Co., Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 167, 181 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 460, 370 P.3d 1022], original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted.) [F]ailure to warn in strict liability differs markedly from failure to warn in the negligence context. Negligence law in a failure-to-warn case requires a plaintiff to prove that a manufacturer or distributor did not warn of a particular risk for reasons which fell below the acceptable standard of care, i.e., what a reasonably prudent manufacturer would have known and warned about. Strict liability is not concerned with the standard of due care or the reasonableness of a manufacturer’s conduct. The rules of strict liability require a plaintiff to prove only that the defendant did not adequately warn of a particular risk that was known or knowable in light of the generally recognized and prevailing best scientific and medical knowledge available at the time of manufacture and distribution. ... [¶] [T]he manufacturer is liable if it failed to give warning of dangers that were known to the scientific community at the time it manufactured or distributed the product. Thus, in strict liability, as opposed to negligence, the reasonableness of the defendant’s failure to warn is immaterial.” (Anderson, supra, 53 Cal.3d at pp. 1002–1003.)~~

- “It is true that the two types of failure to warn claims are not necessarily exclusive: ‘No valid reason appears to require a plaintiff to elect whether to proceed on the theory of strict liability in tort or on the theory of negligence. ... [¶] Nor does it appear that instructions on the two theories will be confusing to the jury. There is nothing inconsistent in instructions on the two theories and to a large extent the two theories parallel and supplement each other.’ Despite the often significant overlap between the theories of negligence and strict liability based on a product defect, a plaintiff is entitled to instructions on both theories if both are supported by the evidence.” (Oxford v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2009) 177 Cal.App.4th 700, 717 [99 Cal.Rptr.3d 418].)
- “The actual knowledge of the individual manufacturer, even if reasonably prudent, is not the issue. We view the standard to require that the manufacturer is held to the knowledge and skill of an expert in the field; it is obliged to keep abreast of any scientific discoveries and is presumed to know the results of all such advances.” (Carlin, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 1113, fn. 3.)
- “[A] defendant in a strict products liability action based upon an alleged failure to warn of a risk of harm may present evidence of the state of the art, i.e., evidence that the particular risk was neither known nor knowable by the application of scientific knowledge available at the time of manufacture and/or distribution.” (Anderson, supra, 53 Cal.3d at p. 1004.)
- “[T]here can be no liability for failure to warn where the instructions or warnings sufficiently alert the user to the possibility of danger.” (Aguayo v. Crompton & Knowles Corp. (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1032, 1042 [228 Cal.Rptr. 768], internal citation omitted.)
- “A duty to warn or disclose danger arises when an article is or should be known to be dangerous for its intended use, either inherently or because of defects.” (DeLeon v. Commercial Manufacturing and Supply Co. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 336, 343 [195 Cal.Rptr. 867], internal citation omitted.)

- “California is well settled into the majority view that knowledge, actual or constructive, is a requisite for strict liability for failure to warn” (Anderson, supra, 53 Cal.3d at p. 1000.)
- “[T]he duty to warn is not conditioned upon [actual or constructive] knowledge [of a danger] where the defectiveness of a product depends on the adequacy of instructions furnished by the supplier which are essential to the assembly and use of its product.” (Midgley v. S. S. Kresge Co. (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 67, 74 [127 Cal.Rptr. 217].)
- Under Cronin, plaintiffs in cases involving manufacturing and design defects do not have to prove that a defect made a product unreasonably dangerous; however, that case “did not preclude weighing the degree of dangerousness in the failure to warn cases.” (Cavers v. Cushman Motor Sales, Inc. (1979) 95 Cal.App.3d 338, 343 [157 Cal.Rptr. 142].)
- “Two types of warnings may be given. If the product's dangers may be avoided or mitigated by proper use of the product, ‘the manufacturer may be required adequately to instruct the consumer as to how the product should be used.’ If the risks involved in the use of the product are unavoidable, as in the case of potential side effects of prescription drugs, the supplier must give an adequate warning to enable the potential user to make an informed choice whether to use the product or abstain.” (Buckner v. Milwaukee Electric Tool Corp. (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 522, 532 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 202], internal citation omitted.)
- “[T]he warning requirement is not limited to unreasonably or unavoidably dangerous products. Rather, directions or warnings are in order where reasonably required to prevent the use of a product from becoming unreasonably dangerous. It is the lack of such a warning which renders a product unreasonably dangerous and therefore defective.” (*Gonzales v. - “There is no duty to warn of known risks or obvious dangers.” (Chavez v. Glock, Inc. (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1304 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 326].)
- “[A] pharmaceutical manufacturer may not be required to provide warning of a risk known to the medical community.” (Carlin, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 1116.)
- “To be liable in California, even under a strict liability theory, the plaintiff must prove that the defendant’s failure to warn was a substantial factor in causing his or her injury. (CACI No. 1205.) The natural corollary to this requirement is that a defendant is not liable to a plaintiff if the injury would have occurred even if the defendant had issued adequate warnings.” (Huitt v. Southern California Gas Co. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 1586, 1604 [116 Cal.Rptr.3d 453].)
- “When a manufacturer or distributor has no effective way to convey a product warning to the ultimate consumer, the manufacturer should be permitted to rely on downstream suppliers to provide the warning. ‘Modern life would be intolerable unless one were permitted to rely to a certain extent on others doing what they normally do, particularly if it is their duty to do so.’” (Persons v. Salomon N.

Am. (1990) 217 Cal.App.3d 168, 178 [265 Cal.Rptr. 773], internal citation omitted.)

- “ ‘[T]he law now requires a manufacturer to foresee some degree of misuse and abuse of his product, either by the user or by third parties, and to take reasonable precautions to minimize the harm that may result from misuse and abuse. ... [T]he extent to which designers and manufacturers of dangerous machinery are required to anticipate safety neglect presents an issue of fact. ... [A] manufacturer owes a foreseeable user of its product a duty to warn of risks of using the product.’ ” (Wright v. Stang Manufacturing Co. (1997) 54 Cal.App.4th 1218, 1235 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 422].)
- “California law does not impose a duty to warn about dangers arising entirely from another manufacturer's product, even if it is foreseeable that the products will be used together.” (O'Neil v. Crane Co. (2012) 53 Cal.4th 335, 361 [135 Cal.Rptr.3d 288, 266 P.3d 987].)
- “The O'Neil [supra] court concluded that Tellez-Cordova [Tellez-Cordova v. Campbell-Hausfeld/Scott Fetzer Co. (2004) 129 Cal.App.4th 577] marked an exception to the general rule barring imposition of strict liability on a manufacturer for harm caused by another manufacturer's product. That exception is applicable when ‘the defendant's own product contributed substantially to the harm’ In expounding the exception, the court rejected the notion that imposition of strict liability on manufacturers is appropriate when it is merely foreseeable that their products will be used in conjunction with products made or sold by others. The O'Neil court further explained: ‘Recognizing a duty to warn was appropriate in Tellez-Cordova because there the defendant's product was intended to be used with another product for the very activity that created a hazardous situation. Where the intended use of a product inevitably creates a hazardous situation, it is reasonable to expect the manufacturer to give warnings. Conversely, where the hazard arises entirely from another product, and the defendant's product does not create or contribute to that hazard, liability is not appropriate.’ ” (*Sherman v. - “[L]ike a manufacturer, a raw material supplier has a duty to warn about product risks that are known or knowable in light of available medical and scientific knowledge.” (Webb, supra, 63 Cal.4th at p.

- [T]he duty of a component manufacturer or supplier to warn about the hazards of its products is not unlimited. . . . ‘Making suppliers of inherently safe raw materials and component parts pay for the mistakes of the finished product manufacturer would not only be unfair, but it also would impose and intolerable burden on the business world Suppliers of versatile materials like chains, valves, sand gravel, etc., cannot be expected to become experts in the infinite number of finished products that might conceivably incorporate their multi-use raw materials or components.’ Thus, cases have subjected claims made against component suppliers to two related doctrines, the ‘raw material supplier defense’ and ‘the bulk sales/sophisticated purchaser rule.’ Although the doctrines are distinct, their application oftentimes overlaps and together they present factors which should be carefully considered in evaluating the liability of component suppliers. Those factors include whether the raw materials or components are inherently dangerous, whether the materials are significantly altered before integration into an end product, whether the supplier was involved in designing the end-product and whether the manufacturer of the end product was in a position to discover and disclose hazards.” (Artiglio v. General Electric Co. (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 830, 837 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 817].)

1222. Negligence—Manufacturer or Supplier—Duty to Warn—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] was negligent by not using reasonable care to warn [or instruct] about the [product]’s dangerous condition or about facts that made the [product] likely to be dangerous. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of defendant] [manufactured/distributed/sold] the [product];
- 2. That [name of defendant] knew or reasonably should have known that the [product] was dangerous or was likely to be dangerous when used or misused in a reasonably foreseeable manner;
- 3. That [name of defendant] knew or reasonably should have known that users would not realize the danger;
- 4. That [name of defendant] failed to adequately warn of the danger [or instruct on the safe use of the [product]];
- 5. That a reasonable [manufacturer/distributor/seller] under the same or similar circumstances would have warned of the danger [or instructed on the safe use of the [product]];
- 6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
- 7. That [name of defendant]’s failure to warn [or instruct] was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]’s harm.

[The warning must be given to the prescribing physician and must include the potential risks or side effects that may follow the foreseeable use of the product. [Name of defendant] had a continuing duty to warn physicians as long as the product was in use.]

New September 2003; Revised June 2011, December 2012

Directions for Use

Give this instruction in a case involving product liability in which a claim for failure to warn is included under a negligence theory. For an instruction on failure to warn under strict liability and for additional sources and authority, see CACI No. 1205, Strict Liability—Failure to Warn—Essential Factual Elements. For instructions on design and manufacturing defect under a negligence theory, see CACI No. 1220, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 1221, Negligence—Basic Standard of Care.

To make a prima facie case, the plaintiff has the initial burden of producing evidence that he or she was injured while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner. If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove that the plaintiff's injury resulted from a misuse of the product. (See Perez v. VAS S.p.A. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 658, 678 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 590] [strict liability design defect risk-benefit case].) See also CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification. Product misuse is a complete defense to strict products liability if the defendant proves that an unforeseeable abuse or alteration of the product after it left the manufacturer's hands was the sole cause of the plaintiff's injury. (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 56 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121]; see CACI No. 1245.) Misuse or modification that was a substantial factor in, but not the sole cause of, plaintiff's harm may also be considered in determining the comparative fault of the plaintiff or of third persons. See CACI No. 1207A, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Plaintiff, and CACI No. 1207B, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Third Person.

The last bracketed paragraph is to be used in prescription drug cases only.

Sources and Authority

- “[T]he manufacturer has a duty to use reasonable care to give warning of the dangerous condition of the product or of facts which make it likely to be dangerous to those whom he should expect to use the product or be endangered by its probable use, if the manufacturer has reason to believe that they will not realize its dangerous condition.” (Putensen v. Clay Adams, Inc. (1970) 12 Cal.App.3d 1062, 1076–1077 [91 Cal.Rptr. 319].)
- “Negligence law in a failure-to-warn case requires a plaintiff to prove that a manufacturer or distributor did not warn of a particular risk for reasons which fell below the acceptable standard of care, i.e., what a reasonably prudent manufacturer would have known and warned about.” (Chavez v. Glock, Inc. (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1305 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 326], internal citation omitted.)
- “Negligence and strict products liability are separate and distinct bases for liability that do not automatically collapse into each other because the plaintiff might allege both when a product warning contributes to her injury.” (Conte v. Wyeth, Inc. (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 89, 101 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 299].)
- “The ‘known or knowable’ standard arguably derives from negligence principles, and failure to warn claims are generally ‘rooted in negligence’ to a greater extent than’ manufacturing or design defect claims. Unlike those other defects, a ‘warning defect’ relates to a failure extraneous to the product itself’ and can only be assessed by examining the manufacturer’s conduct. These principles notwithstanding, California law recognizes separate failure to warn claims under both strict liability and negligence theories. In general, a product seller will be strictly liable for failure to warn if a warning was feasible and the absence of a warning caused the plaintiff’s injury. Reasonableness of the seller’s failure to warn is immaterial in the strict liability context. Conversely, to prevail on a claim for negligent failure to warn, the plaintiff must prove that the seller’s conduct fell below the standard of care. If a prudent seller would have acted reasonably in not giving a warning, the seller will not have been negligent.” (Webb v. Special Electric Co., Inc. (2016) 63 Cal. 4th 167; 181 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 460, 370 P.3d 1022], footnote and internal citations omitted.)[F]ailure to warn in strict liability differs markedly from failure to warn in the negligence context. Negligence law in a failure to warn case requires a plaintiff to prove that a manufacturer or distributor did not warn of a particular risk for ~~reasons which fell below the acceptable standard of care, i.e., what a reasonably prudent manufacturer would have known and warned about. Strict liability is not concerned with the standard of due care or the reasonableness of a manufacturer's conduct. The rules of strict liability require a plaintiff to prove only that the defendant did not adequately warn of a particular risk that was known or knowable in light of the generally recognized and prevailing best scientific and medical knowledge available at the time of manufacture and distribution. Thus, in strict liability, as opposed to negligence, the reasonableness of the defendant's failure to warn is immaterial.” (Anderson v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1991) 53 Cal.3d 987, 1002 [281 Cal.Rptr. 528, 810 P.2d 549].)~~

- “It is true that the two types of failure to warn claims are not necessarily exclusive: ‘No valid reason appears to require a plaintiff to elect whether to proceed on the theory of strict liability in tort or on the theory of negligence. ... [¶] Nor does it appear that instructions on the two theories will be confusing to the jury. There is nothing inconsistent in instructions on the two theories and to a large extent the two theories parallel and supplement each other.’ Despite the often significant overlap between the theories of negligence and strict liability based on a product defect, a plaintiff is entitled to instructions on both theories if both are supported by the evidence.” (Oxford v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2009) 177 Cal.App.4th 700, 717 [99 Cal.Rptr.3d 418].)

1244. Affirmative Defense—Sophisticated User

[Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/it] is not responsible for any harm to [name of plaintiff] based on a failure to warn because [name of plaintiff] is a sophisticated user of the [product]. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that, at the time of the injury, [name of plaintiff], because of [his/her] particular position, training, experience, knowledge, or skill, knew or should have known of the [product]’s risk, harm, or danger.

New October 2008; Revised December 2014

Directions for Use

Give this instruction as a defense to CACI No. 1205, Strict Liability—Failure to Warn—Essential Factual Elements, or CACI No. 1222, Negligence—Manufacturer or Supplier—Duty to Warn—Essential Factual Elements.

In some cases, it may be necessary to expand this instruction to state that the plaintiff knew or should have known of the particular risk posed by the product, of the severity of the potential consequences, and how to use the product to reduce or avoid the risks, to the extent that information was known to the defendant. (See Buckner v. Milwaukee Electric Tool Corp. (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 522, 536 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 202].)

Sources and Authority

- “A manufacturer is not liable to a sophisticated user of its product for failure to warn of a risk, harm, or danger, if the sophisticated user knew or should have known of that risk, harm, or danger.” (Johnson v. American Standard, Inc. (2008) 43 Cal.4th 56, 71 [74 Cal.Rptr.3d 108, 179 P.3d 905].)
- “The sophisticated user defense exempts manufacturers from their typical obligation to provide product users with warnings about the products’ potential hazards. The defense is considered an exception to the manufacturer’s general duty to warn consumers, and therefore, in most jurisdictions, if successfully argued, acts as an affirmative defense to negate the manufacturer’s duty to warn.” (Johnson, supra, 43 Cal.4th at p. 65, internal citation omitted.)
- “Under the sophisticated user defense, sophisticated users need not be warned about dangers of which they are already aware or should be aware. Because these sophisticated users are charged with knowing the particular product’s dangers, the failure to warn about those dangers is not the legal cause of any harm that product may cause. The rationale supporting the defense is that ‘the failure to provide warnings about risks already known to a sophisticated purchaser usually is not a proximate cause of harm resulting from those risks suffered by the buyer’s employees or downstream purchasers.’ This is because the user’s knowledge of the dangers is the equivalent of prior notice.” (Johnson, supra, 43 Cal.4th at p. 65, internal citations omitted.)
- “[T]he defense applies equally to strict liability and negligent failure to warn cases. The duty to warn is measured by what is generally known or should have been known to the class of sophisticated users, rather than by the individual plaintiff's subjective knowledge." (Johnson, supra, 43 Cal.4th at pp. 65–66, internal citations omitted.)

- “[A] manufacturer is not liable to a sophisticated user for failure to warn, even if the failure to warn is a failure to provide a warning required by statute.” (Johnson v. Honeywell Internat. Inc. (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 549, 556 [101 Cal.Rptr.3d 726].)
- “The sophisticated user defense concerns warnings. Sophisticated users ‘are charged with knowing the particular product’s dangers.’ ‘The rationale supporting the defense is that “the failure to provide warnings about risks already known to a sophisticated purchaser usually is not a proximate cause of harm resulting from those risks suffered by the buyer’s employees or downstream purchasers.” [Citation.]’ [¶] [Plaintiff]’s design defect cause of action was not concerned with warnings. Instead, he alleged that respondents’ design of their refrigerant was defective. We see no logical reason why a defense that is based on the need for warning should apply.” (Johnson, supra, 179 Cal.App.4th at p. 559, internal citations omitted.)
- “The relevant time for determining user sophistication for purposes of this exception to a manufacturer’s duty to warn is when the sophisticated user is injured and knew or should have known of the risk.” (Johnson, supra, 43 Cal.4th at p. 73.)
- “Johnson did not impute an intermediary’s knowledge to the plaintiff, or charge him with any knowledge except that which had been made available to him through his training and which, by reason of his profession and certification, he should have had. In contrast, [defendant]’s proposed instruction is not based on the theory that [plaintiff] had the opportunity to acquire any knowledge of the dangers of asbestos, let alone the obligation to do so. Instead, it contends that its customers ... knew or should have known (from public sources) of the dangers of asbestos, and that its duty to warn [plaintiff] is measured by the knowledge [the customers] should have had. It is apparent that such a theory has nothing to do with Johnson.” (Stewart v. Union Carbide Corp. (2010) 190 Cal.App.4th 23, 28–29 [117 Cal.Rptr.3d 791].)
- “Thus, in actions by employees or servants, the critical issue concerns their knowledge (or potential knowledge), rather than an intermediary's sophistication. [¶] This conclusion flows directly from [Restatement Third of Torts] section 388 itself. Under section 388, a supplier of a dangerous item to users ‘directly or through a third person’ is subject to liability for a failure to warn, when the supplier ‘has no reason to believe that those for whose use the [item] is supplied will realize its dangerous condition.’ Accordingly, to avoid liability, there must be some basis for the supplier to believe that the ultimate user knows, or should know, of the item's hazards. In view of this requirement, the intermediary's sophistication is not, as matter of law, sufficient to avert liability; there must be a sufficient reason for believing that the intermediary's sophistication is likely to operate to protect the user, or that the user is likely to discover the hazards in some other manner. The fact that the user is an employee or servant of the sophisticated intermediary cannot plausibly be regarded as a sufficient reason, as a matter of law, to infer that the latter will protect the former. We therefore reject [defendant]’s contention that an intermediary's sophistication invariably shields suppliers from liability to the intermediary's employees or servants.” (Pfeifer v. John Crane, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 1270, 1296–1297 [164 Cal.Rptr.3d 112].)

- “In order to establish the defense, a manufacturer must demonstrate that sophisticated users of the product know what the risks are, including the degree of danger involved (i.e., the severity of the potential injury), and how to use the product to reduce or avoid the risks, to the extent that information is known to the manufacturer.” (Buckner, supra, 222 Cal.App.4th at p. 536.)
- “Under the “should have known” standard there will be some users who were actually unaware of the dangers. However, the same could be said of the currently accepted obvious danger rule; obvious dangers are obvious to most, but are not obvious to absolutely everyone. The obvious danger rule is an objective test, and the courts do not inquire into the user's subjective knowledge in such a case. In other words, even if a user was truly unaware of a product's hazards, that fact is irrelevant if the danger was objectively obvious. [Citations.] Thus, under the sophisticated user defense, the inquiry focuses on whether the plaintiff knew, or should have known, of the particular risk of harm from the product giving rise to the injury.’ [Citation]” (Moran v. Foster Wheeler Energy Corp. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 500, 511 [200 Cal.Rptr.3d 902].)
- “[S]peculation about a risk does not give rise to constructive knowledge of a risk under the ‘should have known’ test.” (Scott v. Ford Motor Co. (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 1492, 1501 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 823], original italics.)

1700. Defamation per se—Essential Factual Elements (Public Officer/Figure and Limited Public Figure)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] harmed [him/her] by making [one or more of] the following statement(s): [list all claimed per se defamatory statements]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove that all of the following are more likely true than not true:

Liability

1. That [name of defendant] made [one or more of] the statement(s) to [a person/persons] other than [name of plaintiff];
2. That [this person/these people] reasonably understood that the statement(s) [was/were] about [name of plaintiff];
3. [That [this person/these people] reasonably understood the statement(s) to mean that [insert ground(s) for defamation per se, e.g., “[name of plaintiff] had committed a crime”]]; and
4. That the statement(s) [was/were] false.

In addition, [name of plaintiff] must prove by clear and convincing evidence that [name of defendant] knew the statement(s) [was/were] false or had serious doubts about the truth of the statement(s).

Actual Damages

If [name of plaintiff] has proved all of the above, then [he/she] is entitled to recover [his/her] actual damages if [he/she] proves that [name of defendant]'s wrongful conduct was a substantial factor in causing any of the following:

- a. Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s property, business, trade, profession, or occupation;
- b. Expenses [name of plaintiff] had to pay as a result of the defamatory statements;
- c. Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s reputation; or
- d. Shame, mortification, or hurt feelings.

Assumed Damages

Even if [name of plaintiff] has not proved any actual damages for harm to reputation or shame, mortification, or hurt feelings, the law nonetheless assumes that [he/she] has suffered this harm. Without presenting evidence of damage, [name of plaintiff] is entitled to receive compensation for this assumed harm in whatever sum you believe is reasonable. You must award at least a nominal sum, such as one dollar.

Punitive Damages

[Name of plaintiff] may also recover damages to punish [name of defendant] if [he/she] proves by clear and convincing evidence that [name of defendant] acted with malice, oppression, or fraud.

[For specific provisions, see CACI Nos. 3940–3949.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2008, June 2016, December 2016

Directions for Use

Special verdict form CACI No. VF-1700, Defamation per se (Public Officer/Figure and Limited Public Figure), should be used in this type of case.

Use the bracketed element 3 only if the statement is not defamatory on its face (i.e., if the judge has not determined that the statement is defamatory as a matter of law). For statutory grounds of defamation per se, see Civil Code sections 45 (libel) and 46 (slander). Note that certain specific grounds of libel per se have been defined by case law.

An additional element of a defamation claim is that the alleged defamatory statement is “unprivileged.” (Hui v. Sturbaum (2014) 222 Cal.App.4th 1109, 1118 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 569].) If this element presents an issue for the jury, an instruction on the “unprivileged” element should be given.

Under the common-interest privilege of Civil Code section 47(c), the defendant bears the initial burden of showing facts to bring the communication within the privilege. The plaintiff then must prove that the statement was made with malice. (Lundquist v. Reusser (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1193, 1203 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 776, 875 P.2d 1279].) If the common-interest privilege is at issue, give CACI No. 1723, Common Interest Privilege—Malice. The elements of CACI No. 1723 constitute the “unprivileged” element of this basic claim. If some other privilege is at issue, an additional element or instruction targeting that privilege will be required. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 47(d); J-M Manufacturing Co., Inc. v. Phillips & Cohen LLP (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 87 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 782] [privileged publication or broadcast].)

- “ ‘ “If no reasonable reader would perceive in a false and unprivileged publication a meaning which tended to injure the subject's reputation in any of the enumerated respects, then there is no libel at all. If such a reader would perceive a defamatory meaning without extrinsic aid beyond his or her own intelligence and common sense, then ... there is a libel per se. But if the reader would be able to recognize a defamatory meaning only by virtue of his or her knowledge of specific facts and circumstances, extrinsic to the publication, which are not matters of common knowledge rationally attributable to all reasonable persons, then ... the libel cannot be libel per se but will be libel per quod,” requiring pleading and proof of special damages.’ ” (*Barker v. - “A slander that falls within the first four subdivisions of Civil Code section 46 is slander per se and requires no proof of actual damages. A slander that does not fit into those four subdivisions is slander per quod, and special damages are required for there to be any recovery for that slander.” (The Nethercutt Collection v. Regalia (2009) 172 Cal.App.4th 361, 367 [90 Cal.Rptr.3d 882], internal citations omitted.)
- “With respect to slander per se, the trial court decides if the alleged statement falls within Civil Code section 46, subdivisions 1 through 4. It is then for the trier of fact to determine if the statement is defamatory. This allocation of responsibility may appear, at first glance, to result in an overlap of responsibilities because a trial court determination that the statement falls within those categories would seemingly suggest that the statement, if false, is necessarily defamatory. But a finder of fact might rely upon extraneous evidence to conclude that, under the circumstances, the statement was not defamatory.” (The Nethercutt Collection, supra, 172 Cal.App.4th at pp. 368–369.)
- “[T]he jury was instructed that if it found that defendant published matter that was defamatory on its face and it found by clear and convincing evidence that defendant knew the statement was false or published it in reckless disregard of whether it was false, then the jury ‘also may award plaintiff presumed general damages.’ Presumed damages ‘are those damages that necessarily result from the publication of defamatory matter and are presumed to exist. They include reasonable compensation for loss of reputation, shame, mortification, and hurt feeling. No definite standard or method of calculation is prescribed by law by which to fix reasonable compensation for presumed damages, and no evidence of actual harm is required. Nor is the opinion of any witness required as to the amount of such reasonable compensation. In making an award for presumed damages, you shall exercise your authority with calm and reasonable judgment and the damages you fix shall be just and reasonable in the light of the evidence. You may in the exercise of your discretion award nominal damages only, namely an insignificant sum such as one dollar.’ [¶] ... [¶] ... [T]he instant instruction, which limits damages to ‘those damages that necessarily result from the publication of defamatory matter,’ constitutes substantial compliance with [Civil Code] section 3283. Thus, the instant instructions, ‘if obeyed, did not allow the jurors to “enter the realm of speculation” regarding future suffering.’ ” (Sommer v. Gabor (1995) 40 Cal.App.4th 1455, 1472–1473 [48 Cal.Rptr.2d 235], internal citations omitted.)

- “In defamation actions generally, factual truth is a defense which it is the defendant’s burden to prove. In a defamation action against a newspaper by a private person suing over statements of public concern, however, the First Amendment places the burden of proving falsity on the plaintiff. As a matter of constitutional law, therefore, media statements on matters of public interest, including statements of opinion which reasonably imply a knowledge of facts, ‘must be provable as false before there can be liability under state defamation law.’ ” (Eisenberg v. Alameda Newspapers (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1359, 1382 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 802], internal citations omitted.)
- In matters involving public concern, the First Amendment protection applies to nonmedia defendants, putting the burden of proving falsity of the statement on the plaintiff. (Nizam-Aldine v. City of Oakland (1996) 47 Cal.App.4th 364, 375 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 781].)
- “Publication means communication to some third person who understands the defamatory meaning of the statement and its application to the person to whom reference is made. Publication need not be to the ‘public’ at large; communication to a single individual is sufficient.” (Smith, supra, 72 Cal.App.4th at p. 645, internal citations omitted.)
- “[W]hen a party repeats a slanderous charge, he is equally guilty of defamation, even though he states the source of the charge and indicates that he is merely repeating a rumor.” (Jackson v. Paramount Pictures Corp. (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 10, 26 [80 Cal.Rptr.2d 1], internal citation omitted.)
- “At common law, one who republishes a defamatory statement is deemed thereby to have adopted it and so may be held liable, together with the person who originated the statement, for resulting injury to the reputation of the defamation victim. California has adopted the common law in this regard, although by statute the republication of defamatory statements is privileged in certain defined situations.” (Khawar v. Globe Internat. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 254, 268 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 178, 965 P.2d 696], internal citations omitted.)
- The general rule is that “a plaintiff cannot manufacture a defamation cause of action by publishing the statements to third persons; the publication must be done by the defendant.” There is an exception to this rule. [When it is foreseeable that the plaintiff] “ ‘will be under a strong compulsion to disclose the contents of the defamatory statement to a third person after he has read it or been informed of its contents.’ ” (Live Oak Publishing Co. v. Cohagan (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 1277, 1284 [286 Cal.Rptr. 198], internal citations omitted.)
- Whether a plaintiff in a defamation action is a public figure is a question of law for the trial court. (Reader’s Digest Assn. v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal.3d 244, 252 [208 Cal.Rptr. 137, 690 P.2d 610].)
- “To qualify as a limited purpose public figure, a plaintiff ‘must have undertaken some voluntary [affirmative] act[ion] through which he seeks to influence the resolution of the public issues involved.’ ” (Rudnick v. McMillan (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 1183, 1190 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 193]; see also Mosesian v. McClatchy Newspapers (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 1685, 1689 [285 Cal.Rptr. 430].)

- “Characterizing a plaintiff as a limited purpose public figure requires the presence of certain elements. First, there must be a public controversy about a topic that concerns a substantial number of people. In other words, the issue was publicly debated. Second, the plaintiff must have voluntarily acted to influence resolution of the issue of public interest. To satisfy this element, the plaintiff need only attempt to thrust himself or herself into the public eye. Once the plaintiff places himself or herself in the spotlight on a topic of public interest, his or her private words and acts relating to that topic become fair game. However, the alleged defamation must be germane to the plaintiff’s participation in the public controversy.” (Grenier, supra, 234 Cal.App.4th at p. 484, internal citations omitted.)
- “The First Amendment limits California’s libel law in various respects. When, as here, the plaintiff is a public figure, he cannot recover unless he proves by clear and convincing evidence that the defendant published the defamatory statement with actual malice, i.e., with ‘knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not.’ Mere negligence does not suffice. Rather, the plaintiff must demonstrate that the author ‘in fact entertained serious doubts as to the truth of his publication,’ or acted with a ‘high degree of awareness of ... probable falsity.’ ” (Masson v. New Yorker Magazine (1991) 501 U.S. 496, 510 [111 S.Ct. 2419, 115 L.Ed.2d 447], internal citations omitted; see St. Amant v. Thompson (1968) 390 U.S. 727, 731 [88 S.Ct. 1323, 20 L.Ed.2d 262]; New York Times v. Sullivan (1964) 376 U.S. 254, 279–280 [84 S.Ct. 710, 11 L.Ed.2d 686].)
- The New York Times v. Sullivan standard applies to private individuals with respect to presumed or punitive damages if the statement involves a matter of public concern. (Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc. (1974) 418 U.S. 323, 349 [94 S.Ct. 2997, 41 L.Ed.2d 789].)
- “California ... permits defamation liability so long as it is consistent with the requirements of the United States Constitution.” (Melaleuca, Inc. v. Clark (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 1344, 1359 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 627], citing Brown v. Kelly Broadcasting Co. (1989) 48 Cal.3d 711, 740–742 [257 Cal.Rptr. 708, 771 P.2d 406].)
- “Actual malice under the New York Times standard should not be confused with the concept of malice as an evil intent or a motive arising from spite or ill will. ... In place of the term actual malice, it is better practice that jury instructions refer to publication of a statement with knowledge of falsity or reckless disregard as to truth or falsity.” (Masson, supra, 501 U.S. at pp. 510–511, internal citations omitted.)
- Actual malice “does not require that the reporter hold a devout belief in the truth of the story being reported, only that he or she refrain from either reporting a story he or she knows to be false or acting in reckless disregard of the truth.” (Jackson, supra, 68 Cal.App.4th at p. 35.)
- “The law is clear [that] the recklessness or doubt which gives rise to actual or constitutional malice is subjective recklessness or doubt.” (Melaleuca, Inc., supra, 66 Cal.App.4th at p. 1365.)

- To show reckless disregard, “[t]here must be sufficient evidence to permit the conclusion that the defendant in fact entertained serious doubts as to the truth of his publication. Publishing with such doubts shows reckless disregard for truth or falsity and demonstrates actual malice.” (St. Amant, supra, 390 U.S. at p. 731.)
- “ ‘A defamation plaintiff may rely on inferences drawn from circumstantial evidence to show actual malice. [Citation.] “A failure to investigate [fn. omitted] [citation], anger and hostility toward the plaintiff [citation], reliance upon sources known to be unreliable [citations], or known to be biased against the plaintiff [citations]—such factors may, in an appropriate case, indicate that the publisher himself had serious doubts regarding the truth of his publication.” ’ ” (Sanders v. Walsh (2013) 219 Cal.App.4th 855, 873 [162 Cal.Rptr.3d 188].)
- “ ‘ “[Evidence] of negligence, of motive and of intent may be adduced for the purpose of establishing, by cumulation and by appropriate inferences, the fact of a defendant's recklessness or of his knowledge of falsity.” [Citations.] A failure to investigate [citation], anger and hostility toward the plaintiff [citation], reliance upon sources known to be unreliable [citations], or known to be biased against the plaintiff [citations]—such factors may, in an appropriate case, indicate that the publisher himself had serious doubts regarding the truth of his publication. [¶] We emphasize that such evidence is relevant only to the extent that it reflects on the subjective attitude of the publisher. [Citations.] The failure to conduct a thorough and objective investigation, standing alone, does not prove actual malice, nor even necessarily raise a triable issue of fact on that controversy. [Citations.] Similarly, mere proof of ill will on the part of the publisher may likewise be insufficient. [Citation.]’ ” (Young v. CBS Broadcasting, Inc. (2012) 212 Cal.App.4th 551, 563 [151 Cal.Rptr.3d 237], quoting Reader's Digest Assn., supra, 37 Cal.3d at pp. 257–258, footnote omitted.)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] harmed [him/her] by making [one or more of] the following statement(s): [list all claimed per quod defamatory statements].

Liability

To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove that all of the following are more likely true than not true:

1. That [name of defendant] made [one or more of] the statement(s) to [a person/persons] other than [name of plaintiff];
2. That [this person/these people] reasonably understood that the statement(s) [was/were] about [name of plaintiff];
3. That because of the facts and circumstances known to the [listener(s)/reader(s)] of the statement(s), [it/they] tended to injure [name of plaintiff] in [his/her] occupation [or to expose [him/her] to hatred, contempt, ridicule, or shame] [or to discourage others from associating or dealing with [him/her]];
4. That the statement(s) [was/were] false;
5. That [name of plaintiff] suffered harm to [his/her] property, business, profession, or occupation [including money spent as a result of the statement(s)]; and
6. That the statement(s) [was/were] a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

In addition, [name of plaintiff] must prove by clear and convincing evidence that [name of defendant] knew the statement(s) [was/were] false or had serious doubts about the truth of the statement(s).

Actual Damages

If [name of plaintiff] has proved all of the above, then [he/she] is entitled to recover if [he/she] proves it is more likely true than not true that [name of defendant]'s wrongful conduct was a substantial factor in causing any of the following actual damages:

- a. Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s property, business, trade, profession, or occupation;
- b. Expenses [name of plaintiff] had to pay as a result of the defamatory statements;
- c. Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s reputation; or
- d. Shame, mortification, or hurt feelings.

Punitive Damages

[Name of plaintiff] may also recover damages to punish [name of defendant] if [he/she] proves by clear and convincing evidence that [name of defendant] acted with malice, oppression, or fraud.

Directions for Use

Special verdict form CACI No. VF-1701, Defamation per quod (Public Officer/Figure and Limited Public Figure), should be used in this type of case.

Presumed damages either are not available or will likely not be sought in a per quod case.

An additional element of a defamation claim is that the alleged defamatory statement is “unprivileged.” (Hui v. Sturbaum (2014) 222 Cal.App.4th 1109, 1118 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 569].) If this element presents an issue for the jury, an instruction on the “unprivileged” element should be given.

Under the common-interest privilege of Civil Code section 47(c), the defendant bears the initial burden of showing facts to bring the communication within the privilege. The plaintiff then must prove that the statement was made with malice. (Lundquist v. Reusser (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1193, 1203 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 776, 875 P.2d 1279].) If the common-interest privilege is at issue, give CACI No. 1723, Common Interest Privilege—Malice. The elements of CACI No. 1723 constitute the “unprivileged” element of this basic claim. If some other privilege is at issue, an additional element or instruction targeting that privilege will be required. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 47(d); J-M Manufacturing Co., Inc. v. Phillips & Cohen LLP (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 87 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 782] [privileged publication or broadcast].)

- “ “If no reasonable reader would perceive in a false and unprivileged publication a meaning which tended to injure the subject's reputation in any of the enumerated respects, then there is no libel at all. If such a reader would perceive a defamatory meaning without extrinsic aid beyond his or her own intelligence and common sense, then ... there is a libel per se. But if the reader would be able to recognize a defamatory meaning only by virtue of his or her knowledge of specific facts and circumstances, extrinsic to the publication, which are not matters of common knowledge rationally attributable to all reasonable persons, then ... the libel cannot be libel per se but will be libel per quod,” requiring pleading and proof of special damages.’ ” (*Barker v. - “If [a] defamatory meaning would appear only to readers who might be able to recognize it through some knowledge of specific facts and/or circumstances, not discernible from the face of the publication, and which are not matters of common knowledge rationally attributable to all reasonable persons, then the libel cannot be libel per se but will be libel per quod.” (*Palm Springs Tennis Club v. - “The question whether challenged statements convey the requisite factual imputation is ordinarily a question of law for the court. - “In the libel context, ‘inducement’ and ‘innuendo’ are terms of art: ‘[W]here the language is ambiguous and an explanation is necessary to establish the defamatory meaning, the pleader must do two things: (1) Allege his interpretation of the defamatory meaning of the language (the “innuendo,” ...); (2) support that interpretation by alleging facts showing that the readers or hearers to whom it was published would understand it in that defamatory sense (the “inducement”).’ ” (*Barnes-Hind, Inc. v. 1702. Defamation per se—Essential Factual Elements (Private Figure—Matter of Public Concern)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] harmed [him/her] by making [one or more of] the following statement(s): [list all claimed per se defamatory statement(s)]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

Liability

1. That [name of defendant] made [one or more of] the statement(s) to [a person/persons] other than [name of plaintiff];
2. That [this person/these people] reasonably understood that the statement(s) [was/were] about [name of plaintiff];
3. That [this person/these people] reasonably understood the statement(s) to mean that [insert ground(s) for defamation per se, e.g., “[name of plaintiff] had committed a crime”];
4. That the statement(s) [was/were] false; and
5. That [name of defendant] failed to use reasonable care to determine the truth or falsity of the statement(s).

Actual Damages

If [name of plaintiff] has proved all of the above, then [he/she] is entitled to recover [his/her] actual damages if [he/she] proves that [name of defendant]'s wrongful conduct was a substantial factor in causing any of the following:

- a. Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s property, business, trade, profession, or occupation;
- b. Expenses [name of plaintiff] had to pay as a result of the defamatory statements;
- c. Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s reputation; or
- d. Shame, mortification, or hurt feelings.

Assumed Damages

If [name of plaintiff] has not proved any actual damages for harm to reputation or shame, mortification, or hurt feelings but proves by clear and convincing evidence that [name of defendant] knew the statement(s) [was/were] false or that [he/she] had serious doubts about the truth of the statement(s), then the law assumes that [name of plaintiff]'s reputation has been harmed and that [he/she] has suffered shame, mortification, or hurt feelings. Without presenting evidence of damage, [name of plaintiff] is entitled to receive compensation for this assumed harm in whatever sum you believe is reasonable. You must award at least a nominal sum, such as one dollar.

Punitive Damages

[Name of plaintiff] may also recover damages to punish [name of defendant] if [he/she] proves by clear and convincing evidence that [name of defendant] either knew the statement(s) [was/were] false or had serious doubts about the truth of the statement(s), and that [he/she] acted with malice, oppression, or fraud.

Directions for Use

Special verdict form CACI No. VF-1702, Defamation per se (Private Figure—Matter of Public Concern), should be used in this type of case.

For statutes and cases on libel and slander and on the difference between defamation per se and defamation per quod, see the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 1700, Defamation per se—Essential Factual Elements (Public Officer/Figure and Limited Public Figure).

Use the bracketed element 3 only if the statement is not defamatory on its face (i.e., if the judge has not determined that the statement is defamatory as a matter of law). For statutory grounds of defamation per se, see Civil Code sections 45 (libel) and 46 (slander). Note that certain specific grounds of libel per se have been defined by case law.

An additional element of a defamation claim is that the alleged defamatory statement is “unprivileged.” (Hui v. Sturbaum (2014) 222 Cal.App.4th 1109, 1118 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 569].) If this element presents an issue for the jury, an instruction on the “unprivileged” element should be given.

Under the common-interest privilege of Civil Code section 47(c), the defendant bears the initial burden of showing facts to bring the communication within the privilege. The plaintiff then must prove that the statement was made with malice. (Lundquist v. Reusser (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1193, 1203 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 776, 875 P.2d 1279].) If the common-interest privilege is at issue, give CACI No. 1723, Common Interest Privilege—Malice. The elements of CACI No. 1723 constitute the “unprivileged” element of this basic claim. If some other privilege is at issue, an additional element or instruction targeting that privilege will be required. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 47(d); J-M Manufacturing Co., Inc. v. Phillips & Cohen LLP (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 87 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 782] [privileged publication or broadcast].)

Sources and Authority

- “Defamation is an invasion of the interest in reputation. The tort involves the intentional publication of a statement of fact that is false, unprivileged, and has a natural tendency to injure or which causes special damage.” (Smith v. Maldonado (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 637, 645 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 397].)

- “The question whether a plaintiff is a public figure is to be determined by the court, not the jury.” (Stolz v. KSFM 102 FM (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 195, 203–204 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 740], internal citation omitted.)
- A private plaintiff is not required to prove malice to recover actual damages. (Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc. (1974) 418 U.S. 323, 347-348 [94 S.Ct. 2997, 41 L.Ed.2d 789]; Brown v. Kelly Broadcasting Co. (1989) 48 Cal.3d 711, 742 [257 Cal.Rptr. 708, 771 P.2d 406].)
- “[I]f the issue was being debated publicly and if it had foreseeable and substantial ramifications for nonparticipants, it was a public controversy.” (Copp v. Paxton (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 829, 845 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 831].)
- “[T]he jury was instructed that if it found that defendant published matter that was defamatory on its face and it found by clear and convincing evidence that defendant knew the statement was false or published it in reckless disregard of whether it was false, then the jury ‘also may award plaintiff presumed general damages.’ Presumed damages ‘are those damages that necessarily result from the publication of defamatory matter and are presumed to exist. They include reasonable compensation for loss of reputation, shame, mortification, and hurt feeling. No definite standard or method of calculation is prescribed by law by which to fix reasonable compensation for presumed damages, and no evidence of actual harm is required. Nor is the opinion of any witness required as to the amount of such reasonable compensation. In making an award for presumed damages, you shall exercise your authority with calm and reasonable judgment and the damages you fix shall be just and reasonable in the light of the evidence. You may in the exercise of your discretion award nominal damages only, namely an insignificant sum such as one dollar.’ [¶¶] ... [T]he instant instruction, which limits damages to ‘those damages that necessarily result from the publication of defamatory matter,’ constitutes substantial compliance with [Civil Code] section 3283. Thus, the instant instructions, ‘if obeyed, did not allow the jurors to “enter the realm of speculation” regarding future suffering.’ ” (Sommer v. Gabor (1995) 40 Cal.App.4th 1455, 1472–1473 [48 Cal.Rptr.2d 235], internal citations omitted.)
- The jury should be instructed that the defendant’s negligence is an element of libel if the plaintiff is a private figure. (Carney v. Santa Cruz Women Against Rape (1990) 221 Cal.App.3d 1009, 1016 [271 Cal.Rptr. 30].)
- “When the speech involves a matter of public concern, a private-figure plaintiff has the burden of proving the falsity of the defamation.” (Brown, supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 747.)
- “Suffice it to say that actual injury is not limited to out-of-pocket loss. Indeed, the more customary types of actual harm inflicted by defamatory falsehood include impairment of reputation and standing in the community, personal humiliation, and mental anguish and suffering. Of course, juries must be limited by appropriate instructions, and all awards must be supported by competent evidence concerning the injury, although there need be no evidence which assigns an actual dollar value to the injury.” (Gertz, supra, 418 U.S. at p. 350.)

- Private-figure plaintiffs must prove actual malice to recover punitive or presumed damages for defamation if the matter is one of public concern. They are only required to prove negligence to recover damages for actual injury to reputation. (Khawar v. Globe Internat. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 254, 273-274 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 178, 965 P.2d 696].)
- “A private-figure plaintiff must prove at least negligence to recover any damages and, when the speech involves a matter of public concern, he must also prove New York Times malice ... to recover presumed or punitive damages. This malice must be established by ‘clear and convincing proof.’ ” (Brown, supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 747, internal citations omitted.)
- When the court is instructing on punitive damages, it is error to fail to instruct that New York Times malice is required when the statements at issue involve matters of public concern. (Carney, supra, 221 Cal.App.3d at p. 1022.)
- “To prove actual malice ... a plaintiff must ‘demonstrate with clear and convincing evidence that the defendant realized that his statement was false or that he subjectively entertained serious doubts as to the truth of his statement.’ ” (Khawar, supra, 19 Cal.4th at p. 275, internal citation omitted.)
- “Because actual malice is a higher fault standard than negligence, a finding of actual malice generally includes a finding of negligence” (Khawar, supra, 19 Cal.4th at p. 279.)
- “The inquiry into the protected status of speech is one of law, not fact.” (Nizam-Aldine v. City of Oakland (1996) 47 Cal.App.4th 364, 375 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 781], quoting Connick v. Myers (1983) 461 U.S. 138, 148, fn. 7 [103 S.Ct. 1684, 75 L.Ed.2d 708].)
- “For the New York Times standard to be met, ‘the publisher must come close to willfully blinding itself to the falsity of its utterance.’ ” (Brown, supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 747, internal citation omitted.)
- “ ‘While such speech is not totally unprotected by the First Amendment, its protections are less stringent’ [than that applying to speech on matters of public concern].” (Savage v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 434, 445 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 305], internal citation omitted.)

1703. Defamation per quod—Essential Factual Elements (Private Figure—Matter of Public Concern)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] harmed [him/her] by making [one or more of] the following statement(s): [insert all claimed per quod defamatory statements]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

Liability

1. That [name of defendant] made [one or more of] the statement(s) to [a person/persons] other than [name of plaintiff];
2. That [this person/these people] reasonably understood that the statement(s) [was/were] about [name of plaintiff];
3. That because of the facts and circumstances known to the [listener(s)/reader(s)] of the statement(s), [it/they] tended to injure [name of plaintiff] in [his/her] occupation [or to expose [him/her] to hatred, contempt, ridicule, or shame] [or to discourage others from associating or dealing with [him/her]];
4. That the statement(s) [was/were] false;
5. That [name of defendant] failed to use reasonable care to determine the truth or falsity of the statement(s);
6. That [name of plaintiff] suffered harm to [his/her] property, business, profession, or occupation [including money spent as a result of the statement(s)]; and
7. That the statements [was/were] a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

Actual Damages

If [name of plaintiff] has proved all of the above, then [he/she] is entitled to recover if [he/she] proves that [name of defendant]'s wrongful conduct was a substantial factor in causing any of the following actual damages:

- a. Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s property, business, trade, profession, or occupation;
- b. Expenses [name of plaintiff] had to pay as a result of the defamatory statements;
- c. Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s reputation; or
- d. Shame, mortification, or hurt feelings.

Punitive Damages

[Name of plaintiff] may also recover damages to punish [name of defendant] if [he/she] proves by clear and convincing evidence that [name of defendant] either knew the statement(s) [was/were] false or had serious doubts about the truth of the statement(s), and that [he/she] acted with malice, oppression, or fraud.

[For specific provisions, see CACI Nos. 3940–3949.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2008, December 2009, June 2016, December 2016

Directions for Use

Special verdict form VF-1703, Defamation per quod (Private Figure—Matter of Public Concern), should be used in this type of case.

Presumed damages either are not available or will likely not be sought in a per quod case.

An additional element of a defamation claim is that the alleged defamatory statement is “unprivileged.” (Hui v. Sturbaum (2014) 222 Cal.App.4th 1109, 1118 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 569].) If this element presents an issue for the jury, an instruction on the “unprivileged” element should be given.

Under the common-interest privilege of Civil Code section 47(c), the defendant bears the initial burden of showing facts to bring the communication within the privilege. The plaintiff then must prove that the statement was made with malice. (Lundquist v. Reusser (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1193, 1203 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 776, 875 P.2d 1279].) If the common-interest privilege is at issue, give CACI No. 1723, Common Interest Privilege—Malice. The elements of CACI No. 1723 constitute the “unprivileged” element of this basic claim. If some other privilege is at issue, an additional element or instruction targeting that privilege will be required. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 47(d); J-M Manufacturing Co., Inc. v. Phillips & Cohen LLP (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 87 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 782] [privileged publication or broadcast].)

For statutes and cases on libel and slander and on the difference between defamation per se and defamation per quod, see the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 1701, Defamation per quod—Essential Factual Elements (Public Officer/Figure and Limited Public Figure).

- “If [a] defamatory meaning would appear only to readers who might be able to recognize it through some knowledge of specific facts and/or circumstances, not discernible from the face of the publication, and which are not matters of common knowledge rationally attributable to all reasonable persons, then the libel cannot be libel per se but will be libel per quod.” (Palm Springs Tennis Club, supra, 73 Cal.App.4th at p. 5, internal citation omitted.)

Maldonado* (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 637, 647 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 397], internal citations omitted.)
- Private-figure plaintiffs must prove actual malice to recover punitive or presumed damages for defamation if the matter is one of public concern. They are only required to prove negligence to recover damages for actual injury to reputation. (Khawar v. Globe Internat. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 254, 273–274 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 178, 965 P.2d 696].)

- If the language is not defamatory on its face, there is no distinction between libel and slander: “In either case, the fact that a statement is not defamatory on its face requires only that the plaintiff plead and prove the defamatory meaning and special damages.” (Savage v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 434, 447 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 305].)

- A plaintiff must prove that the defendant was at least negligent in failing to ascertain the truth or falsity of the statement. (Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc. (1974) 418 U.S. 323, 345–347 [94 S.Ct. 2997, 41 L.Ed.2d 789].)

1704. Defamation per se—Essential Factual Elements (Private Figure—Matter of Private Concern)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] harmed [him/her] by making [one or more of] the following statement(s): [list all claimed per se defamatory statement(s)]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

Liability

- 1. That [name of defendant] made [one or more of] the statement(s) to [a person/persons] other than [name of plaintiff];
- 2. That [this person/these people] reasonably understood that the statement(s) [was/were] about [name of plaintiff];
- 3. [That [this person/these people] reasonably understood the statement(s) to mean that [insert ground(s) for defamation per se, e.g., “[name of plaintiff] had committed a crime”];
- 4. That [name of defendant] failed to use reasonable care to determine the truth or falsity of the statement(s).

Actual Damages

If [name of plaintiff] has proved all of the above, then [he/she] is entitled to recover [his/her] actual damages if [he/she] proves that [name of defendant]’s wrongful conduct was a substantial factor in causing any of the following:

- a. Harm to [name of plaintiff]’s property, business, trade, profession, or occupation;
- b. Expenses [name of plaintiff] had to pay as a result of the defamatory statements;
- c. Harm to [name of plaintiff]’s reputation; or
- d. Shame, mortification, or hurt feelings.

Assumed Damages

Even if [name of plaintiff] has not proved any actual damages for harm to reputation or shame, mortification, or hurt feelings, the law assumes that [he/she] has suffered this harm. Without presenting evidence of damage, [name of plaintiff] is entitled to receive compensation for this assumed harm in whatever sum you believe is reasonable. You must award at least a nominal sum, such as one dollar.

Punitive Damages

[Name of plaintiff] may also recover damages to punish [name of defendant] if [he/she] proves by clear and convincing evidence that [name of defendant] acted with malice, oppression, or fraud.

Directions for Use

Special verdict form VF-1704, Defamation per se—Affirmative Defense—Truth (Private Figure—Matter of Private Concern), may be used in this type of case.

Use the bracketed element 3 only if the statement is not defamatory on its face (i.e., if the judge has not determined that the statement is defamatory as a matter of law). For statutory grounds of defamation per se, see Civil Code sections 45 (libel) and 46 (slander). Note that certain specific grounds of libel per se have been defined by case law.

An additional element of a defamation claim is that the alleged defamatory statement is “unprivileged.” (Hui v. Sturbaum (2014) 222 Cal.App.4th 1109, 1118 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 569].) If this element presents an issue for the jury, an instruction on the “unprivileged” element should be given.

Under the common-interest privilege of Civil Code section 47(c), the defendant bears the initial burden of showing facts to bring the communication within the privilege. The plaintiff then must prove that the statement was made with malice. (Lundquist v. Reusser (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1193, 1203 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 776, 875 P.2d 1279].) If the common-interest privilege is at issue, give CACI No. 1723, Common Interest Privilege—Malice. The elements of CACI No. 1723 constitute the “unprivileged” element of this basic claim. If some other privilege is at issue, an additional element or instruction targeting that privilege will be required. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 47(d); J-M Manufacturing Co., Inc. v. Phillips & Cohen LLP (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 87 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 782] [privileged publication or broadcast].)

For statutes and cases on libel and slander and on the difference between defamation per se and defamation per quod, see the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 1700, Defamation per se—Essential Factual Elements (Public Officer/Figure and Limited Public Figure).

Sources and Authority

- “Defamation is an invasion of the interest in reputation. The tort involves the intentional publication of a statement of fact that is false, unprivileged, and has a natural tendency to injure or which causes special damage.” (Smith v. Maldonado (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 637, 645 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 397].)
- “The question whether a plaintiff is a public figure [or not] is to be determined by the court, not the jury.” (Stolz v. KSFM 102 FM (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 195, 203-204 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 740], internal citation omitted.)

- The jury should be instructed that the defendant’s negligence is an element of libel if the plaintiff is a private figure. (Carney v. Santa Cruz Women Against Rape (1990) 221 Cal.App.3d 1009, 1016 [271 Cal.Rptr. 30].)
- “A private-figure plaintiff must prove at least negligence to recover any damages and, when the speech involves a matter of public concern, he must also prove New York Times malice ... to recover presumed or punitive damages.” (Brown v. Kelly Broadcasting Co. (1989) 48 Cal.3d 711, 747 [257 Cal.Rptr. 708, 771 P.2d 406].)
- “The First Amendment trumps the common law presumption of falsity in defamation cases involving private-figure plaintiffs when the allegedly defamatory statements pertain to a matter of public interest.” (Nizam-Aldine v. City of Oakland (1996) 47 Cal.App.4th 364, 375 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 781].)
- “Thus, in a defamation action the burden is normally on the defendant to prove the truth of the allegedly defamatory communications. However, in accommodation of First Amendment considerations (which are implicated by state defamation laws), where the plaintiff is a public figure, the ‘public-figure plaintiff must show the falsity of the statements at issue in order to prevail in a suit for defamation.’ ” (Stolz, supra, 30 Cal.App.4th at p. 202, internal citations omitted.)
- “Since the statements at issue here involved a matter of purely private concern communicated between private individuals, we do not regard them as raising a First Amendment issue. ‘While such speech is not totally unprotected by the First Amendment, its protections are less stringent’ [than that applying to speech on matters of public concern].” (Savage v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 434, 445 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 305], quoting Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. v. Greenmoss Builders, Inc. (1985) 472 U.S. 749, 760 [105 S.Ct. 2939, 86 L.Ed.2d 593], internal citation omitted.)
- “We conclude that permitting recovery of presumed and punitive damages in defamation cases absent a showing of ‘actual malice’ does not violate the First Amendment when the defamatory statements do not involve matters of public concern.” (Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., supra, 472 U.S. at p. 763.)
- “When the speech is of exclusively private concern and the plaintiff is a private figure, as in Dun & Bradstreet, the constitutional requirements do not necessarily force any change in at least some of the features of the common-law landscape.” (Philadelphia Newspapers, Inc. v. Hepps (1986) 475 U.S. 767, 775 [106 S.Ct. 1558, 89 L.Ed.2d 783].)
- “[T]he jury was instructed that if it found that defendant published matter that was defamatory on its face and it found by clear and convincing evidence that defendant knew the statement was false or published it in reckless disregard of whether it was false, then the jury ‘also may award plaintiff presumed general damages.’ Presumed damages ‘are those damages that necessarily result from the publication of defamatory matter and are presumed to exist. They include reasonable compensation for loss of reputation, shame, mortification, and hurt feeling. No definite standard or method of calculation is prescribed by law by which to fix reasonable compensation for presumed damages, and no evidence of actual harm is required. Nor is the opinion of any witness required as to the amount of such reasonable compensation. In making an award for presumed damages, you shall exercise your authority with calm and reasonable judgment and the damages you fix shall be just and reasonable in the light of the evidence. You may in the exercise of your discretion award nominal damages only, namely an insignificant sum such as one dollar.’ [¶¶] ... [T]he instant instruction, which limits damages to ‘those damages that necessarily result from the publication of defamatory matter,’ constitutes substantial compliance with [Civil Code] section 3283. Thus, the instant instructions, ‘if obeyed, did not allow the jurors to “enter the realm of speculation” regarding future suffering.’ ” (Sommer v. Gabor (1995) 40 Cal.App.4th 1455, 1472–1473 [48 Cal.Rptr.2d 235], internal citations omitted.)

- “In defamation actions generally, factual truth is a defense which it is the defendant’s burden to prove. In a defamation action against a newspaper by a private person suing over statements of public concern, however, the First Amendment places the burden of proving falsity on the plaintiff.” (Eisenberg v. Alameda Newspapers (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1359, 1382 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 802].)

1707. Fact Versus Opinion

For [name of plaintiff] to recover, [name of defendant]’s statement(s) must have been [a] statement(s) of fact, not opinion. A statement of fact is one that can be proved to be true or false. In some circumstances, [name of plaintiff] may recover if a statement phrased as an opinion implies that a false statement of fact is true.

In deciding this issue, you should consider whether the average [reader/listener] would conclude from the language of the statement and its context that [name of defendant] was implying that a false statement of fact is true.

Directions for Use

Give this instruction only if the court concludes that a statement could reasonably be construed as implying a false assertion of fact. (See Campanelli v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 572, 578 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 891].)

- “ ‘Because [a defamatory] statement must contain a provable falsehood, courts distinguish between statements of fact and statements of opinion for purposes of defamation liability. Although statements of fact may be actionable as libel, statements of opinion are constitutionally protected. [Citation.]’ That does not mean that statements of opinion enjoy blanket protection. On the contrary, where an expression of opinion implies a false assertion of fact, the opinion can constitute actionable defamation. The ‘crucial question of whether challenged statements convey the requisite factual imputation is ordinarily a question of law for the court. [Citation.]’ ‘Only once the court has determined that a statement is reasonably susceptible to such a defamatory interpretation does it become a question for the trier of fact whether or not it was so understood. - “[W]hen a communication identifies non-defamatory facts underlying an opinion, or the recipient is otherwise aware of those facts, a negative statement of opinion is not defamatory. As explained in the Restatement Second of Torts, a ‘pure type of expression of opinion’ occurs ‘when both parties to the communication know the facts or assume their existence and the comment is clearly based on those assumed facts and does not imply the existence of other facts in order to justify the comment. The assumption of the facts may come about because someone else has stated them or because they were assumed by both parties as a result of their notoriety or otherwise.’ Actionable statements of opinion are ‘the mixed type, [where] an opinion in form or context, is apparently based on facts regarding the plaintiff or his conduct that have not been stated by the defendant [but] gives rise to the inference that there are undisclosed facts that justify the forming of the opinion.’” (*John Doe 2 v. - “California courts have developed a ‘totality of the circumstances’ test to determine whether an alleged defamatory statement is one of fact or of opinion. First, the language of the statement is examined. For words to be defamatory, they must be understood in a defamatory sense. Where the language of the statement is ‘cautiously phrased in terms of apparency,’ the statement is less likely to be reasonably understood as a statement of fact rather than opinion.” (*Baker v. - 2. That the statement was made to a person other than [name of plaintiff];

New December 2013; Revised June 2015

Directions for Use

The tort of trade libel is a form of injurious falsehood similar to slander of title. (See Polygram Records, Inc. v. Superior Court (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 543, 548 [216 Cal.Rptr. 252]; Erlich v. Etner (1964) 224 Cal.App.2d 69, 74 [36 Cal.Rptr. 256].) The tort has not often reached the attention of California’s appellate courts (see Polygram Records, Inc., supra, 170 Cal.App.3d at p. 548.), perhaps because of the difficulty in proving damages. (See Erlich, supra, 224 Cal.App.2d at pp. 73–74.)

Include the optional language in element 1 if the plaintiff alleges that disparagement may be reasonably implied from the defendant’s words. Disparagement by reasonable implication requires more than a statement that may conceivably or plausibly be construed as derogatory. A “reasonable implication” means a clear or necessary inference. (Hartford Casualty Ins. Co. v. Swift Distribution, Inc. (2014) 59 Cal.4th 277, 295 [172 Cal.Rptr.3d 653, 326 P.3d 253].)

Elements 4 and 5 are supported by section 623A of the Restatement 2d of Torts, which has been accepted in California. (See Melaleuca, Inc. v. Clark (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 1344, 1360–1361 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 627].) There is some authority, however, for the proposition that no intent or reckless disregard is required (element 4) if the statement was understood in its disparaging sense and if the understanding is a reasonable construction of the language used or the acts done by the publisher. (See Nichols v. Great Am. Ins. Cos. (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 766, 773 [215 Cal.Rptr. 416].)

The privileges of Civil Code section 47 almost certainly apply to actions for trade libel. (See Albertson v. Raboff (1956) 46 Cal.2d 375, 378–379 [295 P.2d 405] [slander-of-title case]; 117 Sales Corp. v. Olsen (1978) 80 Cal.App.3d 645, 651 [145 Cal.Rptr. 778] [publication by filing small claims suit is absolutely privileged].) The defendant has the burden of proving privilege as an affirmative defense. (See Smith v. Commonwealth Land Title Ins. Co. (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 625, 630–631 [223 Cal.Rptr. 339].) If privilege is claimed, additional instructions will be necessary to state the affirmative defense and frame the privilege. For further discussion, see the Directions for Use to CACI No. 1730, Slander of Title—Essential Factual Elements. See also CACI No. 1723, Common Interest Privilege—Malice.

Limitations on liability arising from the First Amendment apply. (Hofmann Co. v. E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 390, 397 [248 Cal.Rptr. 384]; see CACI Nos. 1700–1703, instructions on public figures and matters of public concern.) See also CACI No. 1707, Fact Versus Opinion.

- “Trade libel is the publication of matter disparaging the quality of another's property, which the publisher should recognize is likely to cause pecuniary loss to the owner. [Citation.] The tort encompasses ‘all false statements concerning the quality of services or product of a business which are intended to cause that business financial harm and in fact do so.’ [Citation.] [¶] To constitute trade libel, a statement must be false.” (*City of Costa Mesa v. - “[A]n action for ‘slander of title’ ... is a form of action somewhat related to trade libel” (Erlich, supra, 224 Cal.App.2d at p. 74.)
- “Confusion surrounds the tort of ‘commercial disparagement’ because not only is its content blurred and uncertain, so also is its very name. The tort has received various labels, such as ‘commercial disparagement,’ ‘injurious falsehood,’ ‘product disparagement,’ ‘trade libel,’ ‘disparagement of property,’ and ‘slander of goods.’ These shifting names have led counsel and the courts into confusion, thinking that they were dealing with different bodies of law. In fact, all these labels denominate the same basic legal claim.” (Hartford Casualty Ins. Co., supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 289.)

- “The protection the common law provides statements which disparage products as opposed to reputations is set forth in the Restatement Second of Torts sections 623A and 626. Section 623A provides: ‘One who publishes a false statement harmful to the interests of another is subject to liability for pecuniary loss resulting to the other if [P] (a) he intends for publication of the statement to result in harm to interests of the other having a pecuniary value, or either recognizes or should recognize that it is likely to do so, and P he knows that the statement is false or acts in reckless disregard of its truth or falsity.’ [¶] Section 626 of Restatement Second of Torts in turn states: ‘The rules on liability for the publication of an injurious falsehood stated in § 623A apply to the publication of matter disparaging the quality of another's land, chattels or intangible things, that the publisher should recognize as likely to result in pecuniary loss to the other through the conduct of a third person in respect to the other's interests in the property.’ ” (Melaleuca, Inc., supra, 66 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1360–1361, original italics.)
- “According to section 629 of the Restatement Second of Torts (1977), ‘[a] statement is disparaging if it is understood to cast doubt upon the quality of another's land, chattels or intangible things, or upon the existence or extent of his property in them, and [¶] (a) the publisher intends the statement to cast the doubt, or [¶] (b) the recipient's understanding of it as casting the doubt was reasonable.’ ” (Hartford Casualty Ins. Co., supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 288.)
- “What distinguishes a claim of disparagement is that an injurious falsehood has been directed specifically at the plaintiff's business or product, derogating that business or product and thereby causing that plaintiff special damages.” (Hartford Casualty Ins. Co., supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 294, original italics.)
- “The Restatement [2d Torts] view is that, like slander of title, what is commonly called ‘trade libel’ is a particular form of the tort of injurious falsehood and need not be in writing.” (Polygram Records, Inc., supra, 170 Cal.App.3d at p. 548.)
- “While ... general damages are presumed in a libel of a businessman, this is not so in action for trade libel. Dean Prosser has discussed the problems in such actions as follows: ‘Injurious falsehood, or disparagement, then, may consist of the publication of matter derogatory to the plaintiff's title to his property, or its quality, or to his business in general, . . . The cause of action founded upon it resembles that for defamation, but differs from it materially in the greater burden of proof resting on the plaintiff, and the necessity for special damage in all cases. . . . [The] plaintiff must prove in all cases that the publication has played a material and substantial part in inducing others not to deal with him, and that as a result he has suffered special damages. . . . Usually, . . . the damages claimed have consisted of loss of prospective contracts with the plaintiff's customers. Here the remedy has been so hedged about with limitations that its usefulness to the plaintiff has been seriously impaired. It is nearly always held that it is not enough to show a general decline in his business resulting from the falsehood, even where no other cause for it is apparent, and that it is only the loss of specific sales that can be recovered. This means, in the usual case, that the plaintiff must identify the particular purchasers who have refrained from dealing with him, and specify the transactions of which he claims to have been deprived.’ ” (Erlich, supra, 224 Cal.App. 2d at pp. 73–74.)
- “Because the gravamen of the complaint is the allegation that respondents made false statements of fact that injured appellant's business, the 'limitations that define the First Amendment's zone of protection' are applicable. '[It] is immaterial for First Amendment purposes whether the statement in question relates to the plaintiff himself or merely to his property' (Hofmann Co., supra, 202 Cal.App.3d at p. 397, internal citation omitted.)

- “If respondents' statements about appellant are opinions, the cause of action for trade libel must of course fail. ‘Under the First Amendment there is no such thing as a false idea. However pernicious an opinion may seem, we depend for its correction not on the conscience of judges and juries but on the competition of other ideas. But there is no constitutional value in false statements of fact.’ Statements of fact can be true or false, but an opinion—‘a view, judgment, or appraisal formed in the mind . . . [a] belief stronger than impression and less strong than positive knowledge’—is the result of a mental process and not capable of proof in terms of truth or falsity.” (Hofmann Co., supra, 202 Cal.App.3d at p. 397, footnote and internal citation omitted.)
- “[I]t is not absolutely necessary that the disparaging publication be intentionally designed to injure. If the statement was understood in its disparaging sense and if the understanding is a reasonable construction of the language used or the acts done by the publisher, it is not material that the publisher did not intend the disparaging statement to be so understood.” (Nichols, supra, 169 Cal.App.3d at p. 773.)
- “Disparagement by ‘reasonable implication’ requires more than a statement that may conceivably or plausibly be construed as derogatory to a specific product or business. A ‘reasonable implication’ in this context means a clear or necessary inference.” (Hartford Casualty Ins. Co., supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 295, internal citations omitted.)

- 5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
- 6. That [name of defendant]’s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]’s harm.

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use for an invasion-of-privacy cause of action for the dissemination of sexually explicit materials. (See Civ. Code, § 1708.85(a).) It may not be necessary to include the last definitional paragraph as the court may rule as a matter of law that an intimate body part has been distributed. (See Civ. Code, § 1708.85(b).)

The plaintiff’s harm (element 5) is general or special damages as defined in subdivision (d)4 of Civil Code section 48a. (Civ. Code, § 1708.85(a).) "General damages" are damages for loss of reputation, shame, mortification and hurt feelings. (Civ. Code, § 48a(d)(1)4(a).) "Special damages" are essentially economic loss. (Civ. Code, § 48a(d)(2)4(b).)

Directions for Use

Give this instruction in a case in which it is alleged that the defendant made an intentional misrepresentation of fact. (See Civ. Code, § 1710(1).) If element 5 is contested, give CACI No. 1907, Reliance, and CACI No. 1908, Reasonable Reliance. If it is disputed that a representation was made, the jury should be instructed that “a representation may be made orally, in writing, or by nonverbal conduct.” (See Thrifty-Tel, Inc. v. Bezenek (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1559, 1567 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 468].)

The representation must ordinarily be an affirmation of fact, as opposed to an opinion. (See Cohen v. S&S Construction Co. (1983) 151 Cal.App.3d 941, 946 [201 Cal.Rptr. 173].) Opinions are addressed in CACI No. 1904, Opinions as Statements of Fact.

1903. Negligent Misrepresentation

[Name of plaintiff] claims [he/she/it] was harmed because [name of defendant] negligently misrepresented a fact. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] represented to [name of plaintiff] that a fact was true;
 2. That [name of defendant]'s representation was not true;
 3. That although [name of defendant] may have honestly believed that the representation was true, [[name of defendant]/he/she] had no reasonable grounds for believing the representation was true when [he/she] made it;
 4. That [name of defendant] intended that [name of plaintiff] rely on this representation;
 5. That [name of plaintiff] reasonably relied on [name of defendant]'s representation;
 6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
 7. That [name of plaintiff]'s reliance on [name of defendant]'s representation was a substantial factor in causing [his/her/its] harm.

Directions for Use

Give this instruction in a case in which it is alleged that the defendant made certain representations with no reason to believe that they were true. (See Civ. Code, § 1710(2).) If element 5 is contested, give CACI No. 1907, Reliance, and CACI No. 1908, Reasonable Reliance.

If both negligent misrepresentation and intentional misrepresentation are alleged in the alternative, give both this instruction and CACI No. 1900, Intentional Misrepresentation. If only negligent misrepresentation is alleged, the bracketed reference to the defendant's honest belief in the truth of the representation in element 3 may be omitted. (See Bily v. Arthur Young & Co. (1992) 3 Cal.4th 370, 407–408 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 51, 834 P.2d 745].)

Sources and Authority

- Negligent Misrepresentation. Civil Code section 1710.
- “Negligent misrepresentation is a separate and distinct tort, a species of the tort of deceit. ‘Where the defendant makes false statements, honestly believing that they are true, but without reasonable ground for such belief, he may be liable for negligent misrepresentation, a form of deceit.’ ” (Bily, supra, 3 Cal.4th at pp. 407, internal citations omitted.)

- “This is not merely a case where the defendants made false representations of matters within their personal knowledge which they had no reasonable grounds for believing to be true. Such acts clearly would constitute actual fraud under California law. In such situations the defendant believes the representations to be true but is without reasonable grounds for such belief. His liability is based on negligent misrepresentation which has been made a form of actionable deceit. On the contrary, in the instant case, the court found that the defendants did not believe in the truth of the statements. Where a person makes statements which he does not believe to be true, in a reckless manner without knowing whether they are true or false, the element of scienter is satisfied and he is liable for intentional misrepresentation.” (Yellow Creek Logging Corp. v. Dare (1963) 216 Cal.App.2d 50, 57 [30 Cal.Rptr. 629], original italics, internal citations omitted.)
- “The elements of negligent misrepresentation are (1) a misrepresentation of a past or existing material fact, (2) made without reasonable ground for believing it to be true, (3) made with the intent to induce another's reliance on the fact misrepresented, (4) justifiable reliance on the misrepresentation, and (5) resulting damage.” (Ragland v. U.S. Bank National Assn. (2012) 209 Cal.App.4th 182, 196 [147 Cal.Rptr.3d 41].)
- “ ‘To be actionable deceit, the representation need not be made with knowledge of actual falsity, but need only be an “assertion, as a fact, of that which is not true, by one who has no reasonable ground for believing it to be true” and made “with intent to induce [the recipient] to alter his position to his injury or his risk. ...” ’ The elements of negligent misrepresentation also include justifiable reliance on the representation, and resulting damage.” (B.L.M. v. Sabo & Deitsch (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 823, 834 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 335], internal citations omitted.)
- “[Plaintiffs] do not allege negligence. They allege negligent misrepresentation. They are different torts, as the Supreme Court expressly observed in [Bily, supra, 3 Cal.4th at p. 407]: ‘[N]either the courts (ourselves included), the commentators, nor the authors of the Restatement Second of Torts have made clear or careful distinctions between the tort of negligence and the separate tort of negligent misrepresentation. The distinction is important not only because of the different statutory bases of the two torts, but also because it has practical implications for the trial of cases in complex areas [¶] Negligent misrepresentation is a separate and distinct tort, a species of the tort of deceit.’ In short, the elements of each tort are different. Perhaps more importantly, the policies behind each tort sometimes call for different results even when applied to the same conduct.” (Bock v. Hansen (2014) 225 Cal.App.4th 215, 227–228 [170 Cal.Rptr.3d 293].)
- “As is true of negligence, responsibility for negligent misrepresentation rests upon the existence of a legal duty, imposed by contract, statute or otherwise, owed by a defendant to the injured person. The determination of whether a duty exists is primarily a question of law.” (Eddy v. Sharp (1988) 199 Cal.App.3d 858, 864 [245 Cal.Rptr. 211], internal citations omitted.)
- “The tort of negligent misrepresentation is similar to fraud, except that it does not require scienter or an intent to defraud. ... [T]he same elements of intentional fraud also comprise a cause of action for negligent misrepresentation, with the exception that there is no requirement of intent to induce reliance” (Tenet Healthsystem Desert, Inc. v. Blue Cross of California (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 821, 845 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 901], internal citation omitted.)

- “ “Where the defendant makes false statements, honestly believing that they are true, but without reasonable ground for such belief, he may be liable for negligent misrepresentation, a form of deceit.” ’ If defendant’s belief ‘is both honest and reasonable, the misrepresentation is innocent and there is no tort liability.’ ” (Diediker v. Peelle Financial Corp. (1997) 60 Cal.App.4th 288, 297 [70 Cal.Rptr.2d 442], internal citations omitted.)
- “Parties cannot read something into a neutral statement in order to justify a claim for negligent misrepresentation. The tort requires a ‘positive assertion.’ ‘An “implied” assertion or representation is not enough.’ ” (Diediker, supra, 60 Cal.App.4th at pp. 297-298, internal citations omitted.)
- “Whether a defendant had reasonable ground for believing his or her false statement to be true is ordinarily a question of fact.” (Quality Wash Group V, Ltd. v. Hallak (1996) 50 Cal.App.4th 1687, 1696 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 592], internal citations omitted.)
- “[T]here are two causation elements in a fraud cause of action. First, the plaintiff’s actual and justifiable reliance on the defendant’s misrepresentation must have caused him to take a detrimental course of action. Second, the detrimental action taken by the plaintiff must have caused his alleged damage.” (Beckwith v. Dahl (2012) 205 Cal.App.4th 1039, 1062 [141 Cal.Rptr.3d 142].)
- “The law is well established that actionable misrepresentations must pertain to past or existing material facts. Statements or predictions regarding future events are deemed to be mere opinions which are not actionable.” (Cansino v. Bank of America (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 1462, 1469 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 619], internal citation omitted.)
- “Where, as here, a negligent misrepresentation claim is brought against the provider of a professional opinion based on special knowledge, information or expertise regarding a company’s value, the California Supreme Court requires the following: ‘The representation must have been made with the intent to induce plaintiff, or a particular class of persons to which plaintiff belongs, to act in reliance upon the representation in a specific transaction, or a specific type of transaction, that defendant intended to influence. Defendant is deemed to have intended to influence [its client’s] transaction with plaintiff whenever defendant knows with substantial certainty that plaintiff, or the particular class of persons to which plaintiff belongs, will rely on the representation in the course of the transaction. [However,] [i]f others become aware of the representation and act upon it, there is no liability even though defendant should reasonably have foreseen such a possibility.’ ” (*Public Employees’ Retirement System v. 2002. Trespass to Timber—Essential Factual Elements (Civ. Code, § 3346)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] trespassed on [his/her/its] property and [cut down or damaged trees/took timber]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] [owned/leased/occupied/controlled] the property;
- 2. That [name of defendant] intentionally entered [name of plaintiff]’s property and [cut down or damaged trees/took timber] located on the property;

[or]

That [name of defendant], although not intending to do so, [recklessly/ [or] negligently] entered [name of plaintiff]’s property and damaged trees located on the property;

- 3. That [name of plaintiff] did not give permission to [cut down or damage the trees/take timber] [or that [name of defendant] exceeded [name of plaintiff]’s permission];
- 4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
- 5. That [name of defendant]’s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]’s harm.

[In considering whether [name of plaintiff] was harmed, you may take into account the lost aesthetics and functionality of an injured tree.]

New September 2003; Revised June 2013

Directions for Use

Give this instruction for loss of timber or damages to trees. Note that actual damages are to be doubled regardless of the defendant’s intent. (See Civ. Code, § 3346(a).) If treble damages for willful and malicious conduct are sought, also give CACI No. 2003, Damage to Timber—Willful and Malicious Conduct.

With regard to element 2, liability for trespass may be imposed for conduct that is intentional, reckless, negligent, or the result of an extra-hazardous activity. (Staples v. Hoefke (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1397, 1406 [235 Cal.Rptr. 165].) However, intent to trespass means only that the person intended to be in the particular place where the trespass is alleged to have occurred. (Miller v. National Broadcasting Corp. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1463, 1480-1481 [232 Cal.Rptr. 668].) Liability may be also based on the defendant’s unintentional, but negligent or reckless, act; for example an automobile accident that damages a tree. An intent to damage is not necessary. (Meyer v. Pacific Employers Insurance Co. (1965)

233 Cal.App.2d 321 [43 Cal.Rptr. 542].)

It is no defense that the defendant mistakenly, but in good faith, believed that he or she had a right to be in that location. (Cassinovs v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1770, 1780 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 574].) In such a case, the word “intentionally” in element 2 might be confusing to the jury. To alleviate this possible confusion, give the third option to CACI No. 2004, “Intentional Entry” Explained. See also the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 2000, Trespass—Essential Factual Elements.

Include the last paragraph if the plaintiff claims harm based on lost aesthetics and functionality.

- “Diminution in market value ... is not an absolute limitation; several other theories are available to fix appropriate compensation for the plaintiff's loss. ... [¶] One alternative measure of damages is the cost of restoring the property to its condition prior to the injury. - “The rule precluding recovery of restoration costs in excess of diminution in value is, however, not of invariable application. - “Although [plaintiff] never quantified the loss of aesthetics at $15,000, she need not have done so. As with other hard-to-quantify injuries, such as emotional and reputational ones, the trier of fact court was free to place any dollar amount on aesthetic harm, unless the amount was ‘so grossly excessive as to shock the moral sense, and raise a reasonable presumption that the [trier of fact] was under the influence of passion or prejudice.’” (Rony, supra, 210 Cal.App.4th at p. 756.)

- “[P]laintiffs here showed (i) the tree's unusual size and form made it very unusual for a ‘line tree’—it functioned more like two trees growing on the separate properties; (ii) the tree's attributes, such as its broad canopy, provided significant benefits to the [plaintiffs’] property; and (iii) the [plaintiffs] placed great personal value on the tree. The trial court correctly recognized that it could account for these factors when determining damages, including whether or not damages should be reduced.” (Kallis, supra, 208 Cal.App.4th at p. 1279.)

2003. Damage to Timber—Willful and Malicious Conduct

[Name of plaintiff] also claims that [name of defendant]'s conduct in cutting down, damaging, or harvesting [name of plaintiff]'s trees was willful and malicious.

“Willful” simply means that [name of defendant]'s conduct was intentional.

“Malicious” means that [name of defendant] acted with intent to vex, annoy, harass, or injure, or that [name of defendant]'s conduct was done with a knowing disregard of the rights or safety of another. A person acts with knowing disregard when he or she is aware of the probable dangerous consequences of his or her conduct and deliberately fails to avoid those consequences.

New September 2003; Revised December 2010

Directions for Use

Read this instruction if the plaintiff is seeking double or treble damages because the defendant's conduct was willful and malicious. (See Civ. Code, § 3346; Code Civ. Proc., § 733; Ostling v. Loring (1994) 27 Cal.App.4th 1731, 1742 [33 Cal.Rptr.2d 391].) The judge should ensure that this finding is noted on the special verdict form. The jury should find the actual damages suffered. If the jury finds willful and malicious conduct, the court must award double damages and may award treble damages. (See Ostling, supra, 27 Cal.App.4th at p. 1742.)

Malice implies an act conceived in a spirit of mischief or with criminal indifference towards the obligations owed to others. There must be an intent to vex, annoy or injure. Mere spite or ill will is not sufficient.’ ... Malice may consist of a state of mind determined to perform an act with reckless or wanton disregard of or indifference to the rights of others. Since a defendant rarely admits to such a state of mind, it must frequently be established from the circumstances surrounding his allegedly malicious acts.” (Caldwell, supra, 211 Cal.App.2d at pp. 763-764, internal citations omitted.)
- “Under [Health and Safety Code] section 13007, a tortfeasor generally is liable to the owner of property for damage caused by a negligently set fire. ‘[T]he statute places no restrictions on the type of property damage that is compensable.’ Such damages might include, for example, damage to structures, to movable personal property, to soil, or to undergrowth; damages may even include such elements as the lost profits of a business damaged by fire. If the fire also damages trees—that is, causes ‘injuries to ... trees ... upon the land of another’—then the actual damages recoverable under section 13007 may be doubled (for negligently caused fires) or trebled (for fires intended to spread to the plaintiff’s property) pursuant to section 3346.” (*Kelly v. 3. That [name of defendant] intended to cause [name of third party] to breach the contract;

2306. Covered and Excluded Risks—Predominant Cause of Loss

You have heard evidence that the claimed loss was caused by a combination of covered and excluded risks under the insurance policy. When a loss is caused by a combination of covered and excluded risks under the policy, the loss is covered only if the most important or predominant cause is a covered risk.

[[Name of defendant] claims that [name of plaintiff]'s loss is not covered because the loss was caused by a risk excluded under the policy. To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove that the most important or predominant cause of the loss was [describe excluded peril or event], which is a risk excluded under the policy.]

Directions for Use

The instructions in this series assume the plaintiff is the insured and the defendant is the insurer. The party designations may be changed if appropriate to the facts of the case.

This instruction is intended for use in first party property insurance cases where there is evidence that a loss was caused by both covered and excluded perils. In most cases the court will determine as a question of law what perils are covered and excluded under the policy.

Depending on the type of insurance at issue, the court must select the bracketed paragraph that presents the correct burden of proof. For all-risk homeowner's policies, for example, once the insured establishes basic coverage, the insurer bears the burden of proving the loss was caused by an excluded peril. In contrast, for "named perils" policies (for example, fire insurance) the insured bears the burden of proving the loss was caused by the specified peril. (See Strubble v. United Services Automobile Assn. (1973) 35 Cal.App.3d 498, 504 [110 Cal.Rptr. 828].)

- "[In] determining whether a loss is within an exception in a policy, where there is a concurrence of different causes, the efficient cause—the one that sets others in motion—is the cause to which the loss is to be attributed, though the other causes may follow it, and operate more immediately in producing the disaster.” (Sabella v. Wisler (1963) 59 Cal.2d 21, 31–32 [27 Cal.Rptr. 689, 377 P.2d 889], internal quotation marks and citation omitted.)

- “Sabella defined ‘efficient proximate cause’ alternatively as the ‘one that sets others in motion,’ and as ‘the predominating or moving efficient cause.’ We use the term ‘efficient proximate cause’ (meaning predominating cause) when referring to the Sabella analysis because we believe the phrase ‘moving cause’ can be misconstrued to deny coverage erroneously, particularly when it is understood literally to mean the ‘triggering’ cause.” (Garvey v. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. (1989) 48 Cal.3d 395, 403 [257 Cal.Rptr. 292, 770 P.2d 704], internal citations omitted.)
- “The efficient proximate cause referred to in Sabella has also been called the predominant cause or the most important cause of the loss. ‘By focusing the causal inquiry on the most important cause of a loss, the efficient proximate cause doctrine creates a “workable rule of coverage that provides a fair result within the reasonable expectations of both the insured and the insurer.” ’ ” (Vardanyan v. AMCO Ins. Co. (2015) 243 Cal.App.4th 779, 787 [197 Cal.Rptr.3d 195], internal citation omitted.)
- “[T]he ‘cause’ of loss in the context of a property insurance contract is totally different from that in a liability policy. This distinction is critical to the resolution of losses involving multiple causes. Frequently property losses occur which involve more than one peril that might be considered legally significant. ... ‘The task becomes one of identifying the most important cause of the loss and attributing the loss to that cause.’ ¶ On the other hand, the right to coverage in the third party liability insurance context draws on traditional tort concepts of fault, proximate cause and duty.” (Garvey, supra, 48 Cal.3d at pp. 406–407, internal quotation marks, italics, and citations omitted.)
- “[I]n an action upon an all-risks policy ~~such as the one before us~~ (unlike a specific peril policy), the insured does not have to prove that the peril proximately causing his loss was covered by the policy. This is because the policy covers all risks save for those risks specifically excluded by the policy. The insurer, though, since it is denying liability upon the policy, must prove the policy’s noncoverage of the insured’s loss—that is, that the insured’s loss was proximately caused by a peril specifically excluded from the coverage of the policy.” (Strubble, supra, 35 Cal.App.3d at p. 504; Vardanyan, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at pp. 796–797.)
- “A policy cannot extend coverage for a specified peril, then exclude coverage for a loss caused by a combination of the covered peril and an excluded peril, without regard to whether the covered peril was the predominant or efficient proximate cause of the loss. Other Coverage 9 identifies the perils that are covered when the loss involves collapse. If any other peril contributes to the loss, whether the loss is covered or excluded depends upon which peril is the predominant cause of the loss. To the extent the term ‘caused only by one or more’ of the listed perils can be construed to mean the contribution of any unlisted peril, in any way and to any degree, would result in the loss being excluded from coverage, the provision is an unenforceable attempt to contract around the efficient proximate cause doctrine. ¶ Accordingly, CACI No. 2306 ... was the correct instruction to give to the jury.” (Vardanyan, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at p. 796.)
- “[T]he scope of coverage under an all-risk homeowner’s policy includes all risks except those specifically excluded by the policy. When a loss is caused by a combination of a covered and specifically excluded risks, the loss is covered if the covered risk was the efficient proximate cause of the loss. ... [T]he question of what caused the loss is generally a question of fact, and the loss is not covered if the covered risk was only a remote cause of the loss, or the excluded risk was the efficient proximate, or predominate, cause.” (State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Von Der Lieth (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1123, 1131–1132 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 183, 820 P.2d 285], internal citation omitted.)

- “[A]n insurer is not absolutely prohibited from drafting and enforcing policy provisions that provide or leave intact coverage for some, but not all, manifestations of a particular peril. This is, in fact, an everyday practice that normally raises no questions regarding section 530 or the efficient proximate cause doctrine.” (Julian v. Hartford Underwriters Ins. Co. (2005) 35 Cal.4th 747, 759 [27 Cal.Rptr.3d 648, 110 P.3d 903].)

2430. Wrongful Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims [he/she] was discharged from employment for reasons that violate a public policy. It is a violation of public policy [specify claim in case, e.g., to discharge someone from employment for refusing to engage in price fixing]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] was employed by [name of defendant];
 2. That [name of defendant] discharged [name of plaintiff];
 3. That [insert alleged violation of public policy, e.g., “[name of plaintiff]’s refusal to engage in price fixing”] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of plaintiff]’s discharge; and
 4. That the discharge caused [name of plaintiff] harm.

Directions for Use

The judge should determine whether the purported reason for firing the plaintiff would amount to a violation of public policy. (See Gantt v. Sentry Insurance (1992) 1 Cal.4th 1083, 1092 [4 Cal.Rptr.2d 874, 824 P.2d 680]; overruled on other grounds in Green v. Ralee Engineering Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 66, 80 fn. 6 [78 Cal. Rptr.2d 16, 960 P.2d 1046].) The jury should then be instructed that the alleged conduct would constitute a public-policy violation if proved.

Note that this instruction uses the term “substantial motivating reason” to express causation between the public policy and the discharge (see element 3). “Substantial motivating reason” has been held to be the appropriate standard for cases alleging termination in violation of public policy. (Alamo v. Practice Management Information Corp. (2013) 219 Cal.App.4th 466, 479 [161 Cal.Rptr.3d 758]; see *Harris v. This instruction must be supplemented with CACI No. 2433, Wrongful Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Damages. If plaintiff alleges he or she was forced or coerced to resign, then CACI No. 2431, Constructive Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Plaintiff Required to Violate Public Policy, or CACI No. 2432, Constructive Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Plaintiff Required to Endure Intolerable Conditions That Violate Public Policy, should be given instead. See also CACI No. 2510, “Constructive Discharge” Explained.

This instruction may be modified for adverse employment actions other than discharge, for example demotion, if done in violation of public policy. (See Garcia v. Rockwell Internat. Corp. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1556, 1561 [232 Cal.Rptr. 490], disapproved on other grounds in Gantt v. Sentry Ins. (1992)

- “The employee need not show ‘he would have in any event been rejected or discharged solely on the basis of his race, without regard to the alleged deficiencies. ...’ In other words, ‘while a complainant need not prove that racial animus was the sole motivation behind the challenged action, he must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that there was a “causal connection” between the employee’s protected status and the adverse employment decision.’ ” (Clark v. Claremont University Center (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 639, 665 [8 Cal.Rptr.2d 151], citing *McDonald v. Santa Fe Trail Transp. - “Requiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision. At the same time, . . . proof that discrimination was a substantial factor in an employment decision triggers the deterrent purpose of the FEHA and thus exposes the employer to liability, even if other factors would have led the employer to make the same decision at the time.” (Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49], original italics.)

- “We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a “but for” cause.” (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)
- “Although [plaintiff] contends that a jury in an employment discrimination case would not draw any meaningful distinction between ‘a motivating reason’ and ‘a substantial motivating reason’ in deciding whether there was unlawful discrimination, the Supreme Court reached a contrary conclusion in Harris [supra]. The court specifically concluded that ‘[r]equiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision.’ ” (*Alamo v. 2512. Limitation on Remedies—Same Decision

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she] was [discharged/[other adverse employment action]] because of [his/her] [protected status or action, e.g., race, gender, or age], which is an unlawful [discriminatory/retaliatory] reason. [Name of defendant] claims that [name of plaintiff] [was discharged/[other adverse employment action]] because of [specify reason, e.g., plaintiff's poor job performance], which is a lawful reason.

If you find that [discrimination/retaliation] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of plaintiff]'s [discharge/[other adverse employment action]], you must then consider [name of defendant]'s stated reason for the [discharge/[other adverse employment action]].

If you find that [e.g., plaintiff's poor job performance] was also a substantial motivating reason, then you must determine whether the defendant has proven that [he/she/it] would have [discharged/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff] anyway at that time based on [e.g., plaintiff's poor job performance] even if [he/she/it] had not also been substantially motivated by [discrimination/retaliation].

In determining whether [e.g., plaintiff's poor job performance] was a substantial motivating reason, determine what actually motivated [name of defendant], not what [he/she/it] might have been justified in doing.

If you find that [name of defendant] [discharged/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff] for a [discriminatory/retaliatory] reason, you will be asked to determine the amount of damages that [he/she] is entitled to recover. If, however, you find that [name of defendant] would have [discharged/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff] anyway at that time for [specify defendant's nondiscriminatory/nonretaliatory reason], then [name of plaintiff] will not be entitled to reinstatement, back pay, or damages.

Directions for Use

Give this instruction along with CACI No. 2507, “Substantial Motivating Reason” Explained, if the employee has presented sufficient evidence for the jury to find that the employer took adverse action against him or her for a prohibited reason, but the employer has presented sufficient evidence for the jury to find that it had a legitimate reason for the action. In such a “mixed-motive” case, the employer is relieved from an award of damages, but may still be liable for attorney fees and costs and injunctive relief. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 211 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49].)

Mixed-motive must be distinguished from pretext though both require evaluation of the same evidence, i.e., the employer’s purported legitimate reason for the adverse action. In a pretext case, the only actual motive is the discriminatory one and the purported legitimate reasons are fabricated in order to disguise the true motive. (See City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment and Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal.App.3d 976, 985 [236 Cal.Rptr. 716].) The employee has the burden of proving pretext. (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at pp. 214–215.) If the employee proves discrimination or retaliation and also pretext, the employer is liable for all potential remedies including damages. But if the employee proves discrimination or retaliation but fails to prove pretext, then a mixed-motive case is presented. To avoid an award of damages, the employer then has the burden of proving that it would have made the same decision anyway solely for the legitimate reason, even though it may have also discriminated or retaliated.

Sources and Authority

- “[U]nder the FEHA, when a jury finds that unlawful discrimination was a substantial factor motivating a termination of employment, and when the employer proves it would have made the same decision absent such discrimination, a court may not award damages, backpay, or an order of reinstatement. But the employer does not escape liability. In light of the FEHA’s express purpose of not only redressing but also preventing and deterring unlawful discrimination in the workplace, the plaintiff in this circumstance could still be awarded, where appropriate, declaratory relief or injunctive relief to stop discriminatory practices. In addition, the plaintiff may be eligible for reasonable attorney’s fees and costs.” (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 211.)
- “Because employment discrimination litigation does not resemble the kind of cases in which we have applied the clear and convincing standard, we hold that preponderance of the evidence is the standard of proof applicable to an employer’s same-decision showing” (Harris, supra, 53 Cal.4th at p. 239.)
- “[W]hen we refer to a same-decision showing, we mean proof that the employer, in the absence of any discrimination, would have made the same decision at the time it made its actual decision.” (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 224, original italics.)
- “In light of today’s decision, a jury in a mixed-motive case alleging unlawful termination should be instructed that it must find the employer’s action was substantially motivated by discrimination before the burden shifts to the employer to make a same-decision showing, and that a same-decision showing precludes an award of reinstatement, backpay, or damages.” (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 241.)
- “We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a ‘but for’ cause.” (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)
- “[A] plaintiff has the initial burden to make a prima facie case of discrimination by showing that it is more likely than not that the employer has taken an adverse employment action based on a prohibited criterion. A prima facie case establishes a presumption of discrimination. The employer may rebut the presumption by producing evidence that its action was taken for a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason. If the employer discharges this burden, the presumption of discrimination disappears. The plaintiff must then show that the employer's proffered nondiscriminatory reason was actually a pretext for discrimination, and the plaintiff may offer any other evidence of discriminatory motive. The ultimate burden of persuasion on the issue of discrimination remains with the plaintiff.” (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at pp. 214–215.)

- “Following the California Supreme Court's decision in Harris, ... the Judicial Council added CACI No. 2512, to be given when the employer presents evidence of a legitimate reason for the adverse employment action, informing the jurors that even if they find that discrimination was a substantial motivating reason for the adverse action, if the employer establishes that the adverse action nonetheless would have been taken for legitimate reasons, ‘then [the plaintiff] will not be entitled to reinstatement, back pay, or damages.’ ” (Davis v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 1302, 1320–1321 [200 Cal.Rptr.3d 315].)
- “ “[Plaintiff] further argues that for equitable reasons, an employer that wishes to make a same-decision showing must concede that it had mixed motives for taking the adverse employment action instead of denying a discriminatory motive altogether. But there is no inconsistency when an employer argues that its motive for discharging an employee was legitimate, while also arguing, contingently, that if the trier of fact finds a mixture of lawful and unlawful motives, then its lawful motive alone would have led to the discharge.’ ” (Thornbrough v. Western Placer Unified School Dist. (2013) 223 Cal.App.4th 169, 199 [167 Cal.Rptr.3d 24] [quoting Harris, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 240].)
- “As a preliminary matter, we reject [defendant]’s claim that the jury could have found no liability on the part of [defendant] had it been properly instructed on the mixed-motive defense at trial. As discussed, the Supreme Court in Harris held that the mixed-motive defense is available under the FEHA, but only as a limitation on remedies and not as a complete defense to liability. Consequently, when the plaintiff proves by a preponderance of the evidence that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor in the adverse employment decision, the employer is liable under the FEHA. When the employer proves by a preponderance of the evidence that it would have made the same decision even in the absence of such discrimination, the employer is still liable under the FEHA, but the plaintiff’s remedies are then limited to declaratory or injunctive relief, and where appropriate, attorney’s fees and costs. As presently drafted, BAJI No. 12.26 does not accurately set forth the parameters of the defense as articulated by the Supreme Court, but rather states that, in a mixed-motive case, ‘the employer is not liable if it can establish by a preponderance of the evidence that its legitimate reason, standing alone, would have induced it to make the same decision.’ By providing that the mixed-motive defense, if proven, is a complete defense to liability, [defendant]’s requested instruction directly conflicts with the holding in Harris. (Alamo v. Practice Management Information Corp. (2013) 219 Cal.App.4th 466, 481 [161 Cal.Rptr.3d 758], internal citations omitted.)
- “Pretext may ... be inferred from the timing of the company's termination decision, by the identity of the person making the decision, and by the terminated employee's job performance before termination.” (Nazir v. United Airlines, Inc. (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 243, 272 [100 Cal.Rptr.3d 296].)

Santa Clara University* (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 830, 869 [172 Cal.Rptr.3d 732].)
- “[H]arassment consists of a type of conduct not necessary for performance of a supervisory job. Instead, harassment consists of conduct outside the scope of necessary job performance, conduct presumably engaged in for personal gratification, because of meanness or bigotry, or for other personal motives. Harassment is not conduct of a type necessary for management of the employer's business or performance of the supervisory employee's job." (Reno v. Baird (1998) 18 Cal.4th 640, 645–646 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 499, 957 P.2d 1333], internal citations omitted.)

- “No supervisory employee needs to use slurs or derogatory drawings, to physically interfere with freedom of movement, to engage in unwanted sexual advances, etc., in order to carry out the legitimate objectives of personnel management. Every supervisory employee can insulate himself or herself from claims of harassment by refraining from such conduct.” (Serri, supra, 226 Cal.App.4th at p. 869.)
- “We conclude, therefore, that the Legislature intended that commonly necessary personnel management actions such as hiring and firing, job or project assignments, office or work station assignments, promotion or demotion, performance evaluations, the provision of support, the assignment or nonassignment of supervisory functions, deciding who will and who will not attend meetings, deciding who will be laid off, and the like, do not come within the meaning of harassment. These are actions of a type necessary to carry out the duties of business and personnel management. These actions may retrospectively be found discriminatory if based on improper motives, but in that event the remedies provided by the FEHA are those for discrimination, not harassment. Harassment, by contrast, consists of actions outside the scope of job duties which are not of a type necessary to business and personnel management. This significant distinction underlies the differential treatment of harassment and discrimination in the FEHA.” (Reno, supra, 18 Cal.4th at pp. 646-647, internal citation omitted.)
- “[W]e can discern no reason why an employee who is the victim of discrimination based on some official action of the employer cannot also be the victim of harassment by a supervisor for abusive messages that create a hostile working environment, and under the FEHA the employee would have two separate claims of injury.” (Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal.4th 686, 707 [101 Cal.Rptr.3d 773, 219 P.3d 749].)
- “Here, [plaintiff]'s discrimination claim sought compensation for official employment actions that were motivated by improper bias. These discriminatory actions included not only the termination itself but also official employment actions that preceded the termination, such as the progressive disciplinary warnings and the decision to assign [plaintiff] to answer the office telephones during office parties. [Plaintiff]'s harassment claim, by contrast, sought compensation for hostile social interactions in the workplace that affected the workplace environment because of the offensive message they conveyed to [plaintiff]. These harassing actions included [supervisor]'s demeaning comments to [plaintiff] about her body odor and arm sores, [supervisor]'s refusal to respond to [plaintiff]'s greetings, [supervisor]'s demeaning facial expressions and gestures toward [plaintiff], and [supervisor]'s disparate treatment of [plaintiff] in handing out small gifts. None of these events can fairly be characterized as an official employment action. None involved [supervisor]'s exercising the authority that [employer] had delegated to her so as to cause [employer], in its corporate capacity, to take some action with respect to [plaintiff]. Rather, these were events that were unrelated to [supervisor]'s managerial role, engaged in for her own purposes.” (Roby, supra, 47 Cal.4th at pp. 708–709, original italics, footnote omitted.)
- “[S]ome official employment actions done in furtherance of a supervisor's managerial role can also have a secondary effect of communicating a hostile message. This occurs when the actions establish a widespread pattern of bias. Here, some actions that [supervisor] took with respect to [plaintiff] are best characterized as official employment actions rather than hostile social interactions in the workplace, but they may have contributed to the hostile message that [supervisor] was expressing to [plaintiff] in other, more explicit ways. These would include [supervisor]'s shunning of [plaintiff] during staff meetings, [supervisor]'s belittling of [plaintiff]'s job, and [supervisor]'s reprimands of [plaintiff] in front of [plaintiff]'s coworkers. Moreover, acts of discrimination can provide evidentiary support for a harassment claim by establishing discriminatory animus on the part of the manager responsible for the discrimination, thereby permitting the inference that rude comments or behavior by that same manager were similarly motivated by discriminatory animus.” (Roby, supra, 47 Cal.4th at p. 709.)

- “[A]busive conduct that is not facially sex specific can be grounds for a hostile environment sexual harassment claim if it is inflicted because of gender, i.e., if men and women are treated differently and the conduct is motivated by gender bias.” (Pantoja v. Anton (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 87, 130 [129 Cal.Rptr.3d 384], original italics.)

Directions for Use

Give this instruction after the appropriate instructions in this series on the underlying claim for discrimination, retaliation, or harassment if the employee also claims that the employer failed to prevent the conduct. (See Gov. Code, § 12940(k).) Read the bracketed language in the opening paragraph beginning with “based on” if the claim is for failure to prevent harassment or discrimination.

2700. Nonpayment of Wages—Essential Factual Elements (Lab. Code, §§ 201, 202, 218)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] owes [him/her] unpaid wages. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] performed work for [name of defendant];
- 2. That [name of defendant] owes [name of plaintiff] wages under the terms of the employment; and
- 3. The amount of unpaid wages.

“Wages” includes all amounts for labor performed by an employee, whether the amount is calculated by time, task, piece, commission, or some other method.

New September 2003; Revised December 2005, December 2013, June 2015

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in a civil action for payment of wages. Depending on the allegations in the case, the definition of “wages” may be modified to include additional compensation, such as earned vacation, nondiscretionary bonuses, or severance pay.

Wage and hour claims are governed by two sources of authority: the provisions of the Labor Code and a series of 18 wage orders, adopted by the Industrial Welfare Commission. All of the wage orders define hours worked as “the time during which an employee is subject to the control of an employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do so.” (See, e.g., Wage Order 4, subd. 2(K).) The two parts of the definition are independent factors, each of which defines whether certain time spent is compensable as “hours worked.” Thus, an employee who is subject to an employer's control does not have to be working during that time to be compensated. Courts have identified various factors bearing on an employer's control during on-call time. However, what qualifies as hours worked is a question of law. (Mendiola v. CPS Security Solutions, Inc. (2015) 60 Cal.4th 833, 838–840 [182 Cal.Rptr.3d 124, 340 P.3d 355].) Therefore, the jury should not be instructed on the factors to consider in determining whether the employer has exercised sufficient control over the employee during the contested period to require compensation.

However, the jury should be instructed to find any disputed facts regarding the factors. For example, one factor is whether a fixed time limit for the employee to respond to a call was unduly restrictive. Whether there was a fixed time limit would be a disputed fact for the jury. Whether it was unduly restrictive would be a matter of law for the court.

The court may modify this instruction or write an appropriate instruction if the defendant employer claims a permissible setoff from the plaintiff employee's unpaid wages. Under California Wage Orders, an employer may deduct from an employee's wages for cash shortage, breakage, or loss of equipment if the employer proves that this was caused by a dishonest or willful act or by the gross negligence of the employee. (See, e.g., Cal. Code Regs., tit. 8, § 11010, subd. 8.)

2704. Damages—Waiting-Time Penalty for Nonpayment of Wages (Lab. Code, §§ 203, 218)

If you decide that [name of plaintiff] has proved [his/her] claim against [name of defendant] for [unpaid wages/[insert other claim]], then [name of plaintiff] may be entitled to receive an award of a civil penalty based on the number of days [name of defendant] failed to pay [his/her] [wages/other] when due.

To recover the civil penalty, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. The date on which [name of plaintiff]’s employment ended;
- 2. [That [name of defendant] failed to pay all wages due by [insert date];]
[or]
[The date on which [name of defendant] paid [name of plaintiff] all wages due;]
- 3. [Name of plaintiff]’s daily wage rate at the time [his/her] employment with [name of defendant] ended; and
- 4. That [name of defendant] willfully failed to pay these wages.

The term “wages” includes all amounts for labor performed by an employee, whether the amount is calculated by time, task, piece, commission, or some other method.

The term “willfully” means that the employer intentionally failed or refused to pay the wages.

Directions for Use

This instruction is intended to instruct the jury on factual determinations required to assist the court in calculating waiting time penalties under Labor Code section 203. The court must determine when final wages are due based on the circumstances of the case and applicable law—see Labor Code sections 201 and 202. If there is a factual dispute, for example, whether plaintiff gave advance notice of his or her intention to quit, or whether payment of final wages by mail was authorized by plaintiff, the court may be required to give further instruction to the jury. Final wages generally are due on the day an employee is discharged by the employer, but are not due for 72 hours if an employee quits without notice (see Lab. Code, §§ 201, 201.5, 201.7, 202, 205.5).

The definition of “wages” may be deleted as redundant if it is redundant with other instructions.

- “[T]he public policy in favor of full and prompt payment of an employee’s earned wages is fundamental and well established ...’ and the failure to timely pay wages injures not only the employee, but the public at large as well. We have also recognized that sections 201, 202, and 203 play an important role in vindicating this public policy. To that end, the Legislature adopted the penalty provision as a disincentive for employers to pay final wages late. It goes without saying that a longer statute of limitations for section 203 penalties provides additional incentive to encourage employers to pay final wages in a prompt manner, thus furthering the public policy.” (*Pineda v. - “ “[T]o be at fault within the meaning of [section 203], the employer's refusal to pay need not be based on a deliberate evil purpose to defraud workmen of wages which the employer knows to be due. - “A proper reading of section 203 mandates a penalty equivalent to the employee’s daily wages for each day he or she remained unpaid up to a total of 30 days. ... - “In light of the unambiguous statutory language, as well as the practical difficulties that would arise under defendant’s interpretation, we conclude there is but one reasonable construction: section 203(b) contains a single, three-year limitations period governing all actions for section 203 penalties irrespective of whether an employee’s claim for penalties is accompanied by a claim for unpaid final wages.” (Pineda, supra, 50 Cal.4th at p. 1398.)

Directions for Use

Give this instruction and CACI No. 3002, “Official Policy or Custom” Explained, if the plaintiff seeks to hold a local governmental entity liable for a civil rights violation based on the entity’s official policy or custom. First give CACI No. 3000, Violation of Federal Civil Rights—In General—Essential Factual Elements, and the instructions on the particular constitutional violation alleged.

In element 3, a constitutional violation is not always based on intentional conduct. Insert the appropriate level of scienter. For example, Eighth Amendment cases involving failure to provide a prisoner with proper medical care require “deliberate indifference.” (See Hudson v. McMillian (1992) 503 U.S. 1, 5 [112 S.Ct. 995, 117 L.Ed.2d 156].) And Fourth Amendment claims require an “unreasonable” search or seizure. (See Sacramento County Deputy Sheriffs' Assn. v. County of Sacramento (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1468, 1477 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 834].)

For other theories of liability against a local governmental entity, see CACI No. 3003, Local Government Liability—Failure to Train—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 3004, Local Government Liability—Act or Ratification by Official With Final Policymaking Authority—Essential Factual Elements.

Sources and Authority

- “[I]t is when execution of a government’s policy or custom, whether made by its lawmakers or by those whose edicts or acts may fairly be said to represent official policy, inflicts the injury that the government as an entity is responsible under § 1983.” (Monell v. Dept. of Social Services of New York (1978) 436 U.S. 658, 694 [98 S.Ct. 2131, 56 L.Ed.2d 611].)
- Local governmental entities “ ‘can be sued directly under § 1983 for monetary, declaratory, or injunctive relief where ... the action that is alleged to be unconstitutional implements or executes a policy statement, ordinance, regulation, or decision officially adopted. ...’ ” Local governmental entities also can be sued “ ‘for constitutional deprivations visited pursuant to governmental “custom.” ’ ” In addition, “ ‘[t]he plaintiff must ... demonstrate that, through its deliberate conduct, the municipality was the “moving force” behind the injury alleged. That is, a plaintiff must show that the municipal action was taken with the requisite degree of culpability and must demonstrate a direct causal link between the municipal action and the deprivation of federal rights.’ ” (Zelig v. County of Los Angeles (2002) 27 Cal.4th 1112, 1147 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 709, 45 P.3d 1171], internal citations omitted.)
- “Entity liability may arise in one of two forms. The municipality may itself have directed the deprivation of federal rights through an express government policy. This was the situation in Monell, where there was an explicit policy requiring pregnant government employees to take unpaid leaves of absence before such leaves were medically required. ... Alternatively, the municipality may have in place a custom or practice so widespread in usage as to constitute the functional equivalent of an express policy.” (Choate v. County of Orange (2000) 86 Cal.App.4th 312, 328 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 339].)
- “ ‘[I]n order to successfully maintain an action under 42 United States Code section 1983 against governmental defendants for the tortious conduct of employees under federal law, it is necessary to establish that the conduct occurred in execution of a government’s policy or custom promulgated either by its lawmakers or by those whose edicts or acts may fairly be said to represent official policy.’ ” (Newton v. County of Napa (1990) 217 Cal.App.3d 1551, 1564 [266 Cal.Rptr. 682], internal citations omitted.)
- “Under Monell, a local government body can be held liable under § 1983 for policies of inaction as well as policies of action. A policy of action is one in which the government body itself violates someone's constitutional rights, or instructs its employees to do so; a policy of inaction is based on a government body's ‘failure to implement procedural safeguards to prevent constitutional violations.’ ” (Jackson v. Barnes (9th Cir. 2014) 749 F.3d 755, 763], internal citations omitted.)
- “[T]he City argues that, in order to prevail on a Monell claim, [plaintiff] must prove that the City's policy amounts to deliberate indifference of her constitutional right Once again, the City relies on an inapplicable part of our Monell jurisprudence: the ‘deliberate indifference’ requirement applies only to claims involving allegations of constitutional deprivations resulting from governmental inaction or omission, such as a failure to adequately train. Because [plaintiff] claims her constitutional deprivation resulted from a City policy and affirmative government conduct — training [dog] to ‘bite and hold’ and releasing [dog] off-lead into Suite 201 — the ‘deliberate indifference’ analysis does not apply.” (Lowry v. City of San Diego (9th Cir. 2016) 818 F.3d 840, 855.)

- “Normally, the question of whether a policy or custom exists would be a jury question. However, when there are no genuine issues of material fact and the plaintiff has failed to establish a prima facie case, disposition by summary judgment is appropriate.” (Trevino v. Gates (9th Cir. 1996) 99 F.3d 911, 920.)
- “A triable issue exists as to whether the root of the unconstitutional behavior exhibited in [plaintiff]’s case lies in the unofficial operating procedure of [defendant] County or in the errant acts of individual social workers, and this question should go to a jury.” (Kirkpatrick v. County of Washoe (9th Cir. 2015) 792 F.3d 1184, 11xx.)
- “At most, Monell liability adds an additional defendant, a municipality, to the universe of actors who will be jointly and severally liable for the award.” (Choate, supra, 86 Cal.App.4th at p. 328.)
- “Any damages resulting from a possible Monell claim would result from the same constitutional violation of the warrantless arrest which resulted in nominal damages. Even if [plaintiff] were to prove the City failed to adequately train the police officers, the result would simply be another theory of action concerning the conduct the jury has already determined was not the proximate cause of [plaintiff]’s injuries. [Plaintiff]’s recovery, if any, based upon a Monell claim would be limited to nominal damages.” (George v. Long Beach (9th Cir. 1992) 973 F.2d 706, 709.)
- “Local governmental bodies such as cities and counties are considered ‘persons’ subject to suit under section 1983. States and their instrumentalities, on the other hand, are not.” (Kirchmann v. Lake Elsinore Unified School Dist. (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 1098, 1101 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 289], internal citations omitted.)
- “A municipality can be sued under section 1983 for ‘constitutional deprivations visited pursuant to governmental “custom.”’ However, ‘Congress did not intend municipalities to be held liable unless action pursuant to official municipal policy of some nature caused a constitutional tort. In particular, ... a municipality cannot be held liable solely because it employs a tortfeasor—or, in other words, a municipality cannot be held liable under § 1983 on a respondeat superior theory.’ ” (Marshall v. County of San Diego (2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 1095, 1118 [190 Cal.Rptr.3d 97], original italics, internal citation omitted.)
- “A local governmental unit is liable only if the alleged deprivation of rights ‘implements or executes a policy statement, ordinance, regulation, or decision officially adopted and promulgated by that body’s officers,’ or when the injury is in ‘execution of a [local] government’s policy or custom, whether made by its lawmakers or by those whose edicts or acts may fairly be said to represent official policy.’ ” (County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 1166, 1171 [80 Cal.Rptr.2d 860], internal citations omitted.)
- “A municipality’s policy or custom resulting in constitutional injury may be actionable even though the individual public servants are shielded by good faith immunity.” (Bach v. County of Butte (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 554, 568 [195 Cal.Rptr. 268], internal citations omitted.)
- “No punitive damages can be awarded against a public entity.” (Choate, supra, 86 Cal.App.4th at p.

328, internal citation omitted.)

- “[T]he requirements of Monell do apply to suits against private entities under § 1983. ... [W]e see no basis in the reasoning underlying Monell to distinguish between municipalities and private entities acting under color of state law.” (*Tsao v. Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the plaintiff seeks to hold a local governmental entity liable for a civil rights violation based on the acts of an official with final policymaking authority. First give CACI No. 3000, Violation of Federal Civil Rights—In General—Essential Factual Elements, and the instructions on the particular constitutional violation alleged.

Liability may be based on either the official’s personal acts or policy decision that led to the violation or the official’s subsequent ratification of the acts or decision of another. (See Gillette v. Delmore (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 1342, 1346–1347.) If both theories are alleged in the alternative, include “either” in element 1. Include the last paragraph if ratification is alleged.

For other theories of liability against a local governmental entity, see CACI No. 3001, Local Government Liability—Policy or Custom—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 3003, Local Government Liability—Failure to Train—Essential Factual Elements.

First, a majority of the Court agreed that municipalities may be held liable under § 1983 only for acts for which the municipality itself is actually responsible, ‘that is, acts which the municipality has officially sanctioned or ordered.’ Second, only those municipal officials who have ‘final policymaking authority’ may by their actions subject the government to § 1983 liability. Third, whether a particular official has ‘final policymaking authority’ is a question of state law. Fourth, the challenged action must have been taken pursuant to a policy adopted by the official or officials responsible under state law for making policy in that area of the city’s business.” (*St. Louis v. - 3. That [name of defendant] was acting or purporting to act in the performance of [his/her] official duties;
- 4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
- 5. That [name of defendant]’s use of excessive force was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]’s harm.

Force is not excessive if it is reasonably necessary under the circumstances. In deciding whether force is reasonably necessary or excessive, you should determine, based on all of the facts and circumstances, what force a reasonable law enforcement officer on the scene would have used under the same or similar circumstances. You should consider the following:

- (a) Whether [name of plaintiff] reasonably appeared to pose an immediate threat to the safety of [name of defendant] or others;
- (b) The seriousness of the crime at issue; [and]
- (c) Whether [name of plaintiff] was actively [resisting [arrest/detention]/ [or] attempting to avoid [arrest/detention] by flight][./; and]
- (d) [specify other factors particular to the case].

Directions for Use

The “official duties” referred to in element 3 must be duties created by a state, county, or municipal law, ordinance, or regulation. This aspect of color of law most likely will not be an issue for the jury, so it has been omitted to shorten the wording of element 3.

The three factors (a), (b), and (c) listed are often referred to as the “Graham factors.” (See Graham v.

Connor (1989) 490 U.S. 386, 396 [109 S.Ct. 1865, 104 L.Ed.2d 443].) The Graham factors are not exclusive. (See Glenn v. Wash. County (9th Cir. 2011) 661 F.3d 460, 467–468.) Additional factors may be added if appropriate to the facts of the case.

Additional considerations and verdict form questions will be needed if there is a question of fact as to whether the defendant law enforcement officer had time for reflective decision-making before applying force. If the officers' conduct required a reaction to fast-paced circumstances presenting competing public safety obligations, the plaintiff must prove intent to harm. (See Green v. County of Riverside (2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 1363, 1372 [190 Cal.Rptr.3d 693].)

No case has yet determined, and therefore it is unclear, whether the defense has either the burden of proof or the burden of producing evidence on reaction to fast-paced circumstances. (See Evid. Code, §§ 500 [party has burden of proof as to each fact the existence or nonexistence of which is essential to the claim for relief or defense asserted], 550 [burden of producing evidence as to particular fact is on party against whom a finding on the fact would be required in absence of further evidence].)

Sources and Authority

- “In addressing an excessive force claim brought under § 1983, analysis begins by identifying the specific constitutional right allegedly infringed by the challenged application of force. In most instances, that will be either the Fourth Amendment’s prohibition against unreasonable seizures of the person, or the Eighth Amendment’s ban on cruel and unusual punishments, which are the two primary sources of constitutional protection against physically abusive governmental conduct.” (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 395, internal citations and footnote omitted.)
- “Where, as here, the excessive force claim arises in the context of an arrest or investigatory stop of a free citizen, it is most properly characterized as one invoking the protections of the Fourth Amendment, which guarantees citizens the right ‘to be secure in their persons ... against unreasonable ... seizures’ of the person.” (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 394.)
- “[A]ll claims that law enforcement officers have used excessive force—deadly or not—in the course of an arrest, investigatory stop, or other ‘seizure’ of a free citizen should be analyzed under the Fourth Amendment and its ‘reasonableness’ standard, rather than under a ‘substantive due process’ approach.” (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 395.)
- “The ‘reasonableness’ of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, rather than with the 20/20 vision of hindsight.” (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 396.)
- “Because ‘[t]he test of reasonableness under the Fourth Amendment is not capable of precise definition or mechanical application,’ ... its proper application requires careful attention to the facts and circumstances of each particular case, including the severity of the crime at issue, whether the suspect poses an immediate threat to the safety of the officers or others, and whether he is actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by flight.” (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 396, internal citation omitted.)

- “The most important of these [factors from Graham, above] is whether the suspect posed an immediate threat to the officers or others, as measured objectively under the circumstances.” (Mendoza v. City of West Covina (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 702, 712 [141 Cal.Rptr.3d 553] .)
- “[The Graham] factors, however, are not exclusive. We ‘examine the totality of the circumstances and consider “whatever specific factors may be appropriate in a particular case, whether or not listed in Graham.”’ Other relevant factors include the availability of less intrusive alternatives to the force employed, whether proper warnings were given and whether it should have been apparent to officers that the person they used force against was emotionally disturbed.” (Glenn, supra, 661 F.3d at p. 467, internal citations omitted.)
- “Courts ‘also consider, under the totality of the circumstances, the quantum of force used to arrest the plaintiff, the availability of alternative methods of capturing or detaining the suspect, and the plaintiff’s mental and emotional state.’ ” (Brooks v. Clark Cnty. (9th Cir. 2016) 828 F.3d 910, --.)
- “Because the reasonableness standard ‘nearly always requires a jury to sift through disputed factual contentions, and to draw inferences therefrom, we have held on many occasions that summary judgment or judgment as a matter of law in excessive force cases should be granted sparingly.’ ” (Torres v. City of Madera (9th Cir. 2011) 648 F.3d 1119, 1125.)
- “Justice Stevens incorrectly declares [the ‘objective reasonableness’ standard under Graham] to be ‘a question of fact best reserved for a jury,’ and complains we are ‘usurp[ing] the jury’s factfinding function.’ At the summary judgment stage, however, once we have determined the relevant set of facts and drawn all inferences in favor of the nonmoving party to the extent supportable by the record, the reasonableness of [defendant]’s actions--or, in Justice Stevens’ parlance, ‘[w]hether [respondent’s] actions have risen to a level warranting deadly force,’ is a pure question of law.” (Scott v. Harris (2007) 550 U.S. 372, 381, fn. 8 [127 S. Ct. 1769; 167 L. Ed. 2d 686], original italics, internal citations omitted.)
- “In the absence of material factual disputes, the objective reasonableness of a police officer’s conduct is ‘a pure question of law.’ ‘Where the objective reasonableness of an officer’s conduct turns on disputed issues of material fact,’ however, ‘it is “a question of fact best resolved by a jury.” ’ ” (Lowry v. City of San Diego (2016) (9th Cir. 2016) 818 F.3d 840, 846.)
- “A reasonable jury could find that any belief on the officers’ part that they faced an immediate threat when they released [dog] was unjustified. Thus, viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to [plaintiff], the City has failed to show that there are no questions of fact precluding summary judgment in its favor. [¶][¶] The district court found otherwise, reasoning that the ‘officers reasonably and objectively feared for their own safety and any possible hostage’s safety,’ because they were searching for a ‘burglary suspect . . . at night,’ because they ‘did not know whether the suspect was armed,’ and because the door . . . was ” ‘ajar, but no lights were on inside.’ [¶] A reasonable jury could easily disagree with this portrayal. The district court's reasoning assumes that any person inside an office building where a security alarm has been tripped at night necessarily poses an immediate threat to their safety or that of others. We find this assumption unwarranted. These facts, standing alone, do not provide an 'articulable basis for believing that' the occupant is 'armed or that [she or] he posed an immediate threat to anyone's safety.' ” (Lowry, supra, 818 F.3d at pp. 849–851, footnotes omitted.)

- “To be sure, the reasonableness inquiry in the context of excessive force balances ‘intrusion[s] on the individual's Fourth Amendment interests’ against the government's interests. But in weighing the evidence in favor of the officers, rather than the [plaintiffs], the district court unfairly tipped the reasonableness inquiry in the officers' favor.” (Sandoval v. Las Vegas Metro. Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2014) 756 F.3d 1154, 1167, internal citation omitted.)
- “The Fourth Amendment’s ‘reasonableness’ standard is not the same as the standard of ‘reasonable care’ under tort law, and negligent acts do not incur constitutional liability.” (Hayes, supra, 57 Cal.4th at p. 639.)
- “[S]tate negligence law, which considers the totality of the circumstances surrounding any use of deadly force, is broader than federal Fourth Amendment law, which tends to focus more narrowly on the moment when deadly force is used.” (Hayes, supra, 57 Cal.4th at p. 639, internal citations omitted.)
- “We are cognizant of the Supreme Court’s command to evaluate an officer’s actions ‘from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, rather than with the 20/20 vision of hindsight.’ We also recognize the reality that ‘police officers are often forced to make split-second judgments--in circumstances that are tense, uncertain, and rapidly evolving--about the amount of force that is necessary in a particular situation.’ This does not mean, however, that a Fourth Amendment violation will be found only in those rare instances where an officer and his attorney are unable to find a sufficient number of compelling adjectives to describe the victim’s conduct. Nor does it mean that we can base our analysis on what officers actually felt or believed during an incident. Rather, we must ask if the officers’ conduct is ‘objectively reasonable’ in light of the facts and circumstances confronting them’ without regard for an officer’s subjective intentions.” (Bryan v. MacPherson (9th Cir. 2010) 630 F.3d 805, 831, internal citations omitted.)
- “[A]n officer may not use deadly force to apprehend a suspect where the suspect poses no immediate threat to the officer or others. On the other hand, it is not constitutionally unreasonable to prevent escape using deadly force ‘[w]here the officer has probable cause to believe that the suspect poses a threat of serious physical harm, either to the officer or to others.’ ” (Wilkinson v. Torres (9th Cir. 2010) 610 F.3d 546, 550, internal citations omitted.)
- “Resistance, or the reasonable perception of resistance, does not entitle police officers to use any amount of force to restrain a suspect. Rather, police officers who confront actual (or perceived) resistance are only permitted to use an amount of force that is reasonable to overcome that resistance.” (Barnard v. Theobald (9th Cir. 2013) 721 F.3d 1069, 1076, internal citations omitted.)
- ” In any event, the court correctly instructed the jury on the mental state required in a Fourteenth Amendment excessive use of force case under section 1983 because this case did not involve reflective decisionmaking by the officers, but instead their reaction to fast-paced circumstances presenting competing public safety obligations. Given these circumstances, [plaintiff] was required to prove that the officers acted with a purpose to cause harm to her son.” (Green v. County of Riverside (2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 1363, 1372 [190 Cal.Rptr.3d 693].)

- “[T]he fact that the ‘suspect was armed with a deadly weapon’ does not render the officers' response per se reasonable under the Fourth Amendment. [¶] This is not to say that the Fourth Amendment always requires officers to delay their fire until a suspect turns his weapon on them. If the person is armed—or reasonably suspected of being armed—a furtive movement, harrowing gesture, or serious verbal threat might create an immediate threat.” (George v. Morris (9th Cir. 2013) 724 F.3d 1191, 1200, original italics, internal citations omitted.)
- “[A] simple statement by an officer that he fears for his safety or the safety of others is not enough; there must be objective factors to justify such a concern.’ Here, whether objective factors supported [defendant]’s supposed subjective fear is not a question that can be answered as a matter of law based upon the limited evidence in the record, especially given that on summary judgment that evidence must be construed in the light most favorable to [plaintiff], the non-moving party. Rather, whether [defendant]’s claim that he feared a broccoli-based assault is credible and reasonable presents a genuine question of material fact that must be resolved not by a court ruling on a motion for summary judgment but by a jury in its capacity as the trier of fact.” (Young v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 2011) 655 F.3d 1156, 1163–1164.)
- “An officer's evil intentions will not make a Fourth Amendment violation out of an objectively reasonable use of force; nor will an officer's good intentions make an objectively unreasonable use of force constitutional.” (Fetters v. County of Los Angeles (2016) 243 Cal.App.4th 825, 838 [196 Cal.Rptr.3d 848].)
- “Although Graham does not specifically identify as a relevant factor whether the suspect poses a threat to himself, we assume that the officers could have used some reasonable level of force to try to prevent [decedent] from taking a suicidal act. But we are aware of no published cases holding it reasonable to use a significant amount of force to try to stop someone from attempting suicide. Indeed, it would be odd to permit officers to use force capable of causing serious injury or death in an effort to prevent the possibility that an individual might attempt to harm only himself. We do not rule out that in some circumstances some force might be warranted to prevent suicide, but in cases like this one the ‘solution’ could be worse than the problem.” (Glenn, supra, 661 F.3d at p. 468.)
- “[W]e have stated that if the police were summoned to the scene to protect a mentally ill offender from himself, the government has less interest in using force. By contrast, if the officer warned the offender that he would employ force, but the suspect refused to comply, the government has an increased interest in the use of force.” (Marquez v. City of Phoenix (9th Cir. 2012) 693 F.3d 1167, 1175, internal citation omitted.)
- “[P]reshooting conduct is included in the totality of circumstances surrounding an officer’s use of deadly force, and therefore the officer’s duty to act reasonably when using deadly force extends to preshooting conduct. But in a case like this one, where the preshooting conduct did not cause the plaintiff any injury independent of the injury resulting from the shooting, the reasonableness of the officers' preshooting conduct should not be considered in isolation. Rather, it should be considered in relation to the question whether the officers' ultimate use of deadly force was reasonable.” (Hayes, supra, 57 Cal.4th at p. 632, internal citation omitted.)

- “A person is seized by the police and thus entitled to challenge the government's action under the Fourth Amendment when the officer by means of physical force or show of authority terminates or restrains his freedom of movement through means intentionally applied.” (Nelson v. City of Davis (9th Cir. 2012) 685 F.3d 867, 875.)
- “The Supreme Court has interpreted the phrase ‘under “color” of law’ to mean ‘under “pretense” of law.’ A police officer’s actions are under pretense of law only if they are ‘in some way “related to the performance of his official duties.”’ By contrast, an officer who is ‘“pursuing his own goals and is not in any way subject to control by [his public employer],” ’ does not act under color of law, unless he ‘purports or pretends’ to do so. Officers who engage in confrontations for personal reasons unrelated to law enforcement, and do not ‘purport[] or pretend[]’ to be officers, do not act under color of law.” (Huffman v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1998) 147 F.3d 1054, 1058, internal citations omitted.)
- “We hold that, in order to recover damages for allegedly unconstitutional conviction or imprisonment, or for other harm caused by actions whose unlawfulness would render a conviction or sentence invalid, a § 1983 plaintiff must prove that the conviction or sentence has been reversed on direct appeal, expunged by executive order, declared invalid by a state tribunal authorized to make such determination, or called into question by a federal court's issuance of a writ of habeas corpus. A claim for damages bearing that relationship to a conviction or sentence that has not been so invalidated is not cognizable under § 1983. Thus, when a state prisoner seeks damages in a § 1983 suit, the district court must consider whether a judgment in favor of the plaintiff would necessarily imply the invalidity of his conviction or sentence; if it would, the complaint must be dismissed unless the plaintiff can demonstrate that the conviction or sentence has already been invalidated. But if the district court determines that the plaintiff's action, even if successful, will not demonstrate the invalidity of any outstanding criminal judgment against the plaintiff, the action should be allowed to proceed, in the absence of some other bar to the suit.” (Heck v. Humphrey (1994) 512 U.S. 477, 486–487 [114 S.Ct. 2364, 129 L.Ed.2d 383], footnotes and internal citation omitted.)
- “Heck requires the reviewing court to answer three questions: (1) Was there an underlying conviction or sentence relating to the section 1983 claim? (2) Would a ‘judgment in favor of the plaintiff [in the section 1983 action] “necessarily imply” ... the invalidity of the prior conviction or sentence?’ (3) ‘If so, was the prior conviction or sentence already invalidated or otherwise favorably terminated?’ ” (Fetters, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at p. 834.)
- “The Heck inquiry does not require a court to consider whether the section 1983 claim would establish beyond all doubt the invalidity of the criminal outcome; rather, a court need only ‘consider whether a judgment in favor of the plaintiff would necessarily imply the invalidity of his conviction or sentence.’ ” (Fetters, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at p. 841, original italics.)
- “[Plaintiff]’s section 1983 claim is barred to the extent it alleges that [the arresting officer] lacked justification to arrest him or to respond with reasonable force to his resistance. The use of deadly force in this situation, though, requires a separate analysis. ‘For example, a defendant might resist a lawful arrest, to which the arresting officers might respond with excessive force to subdue him. The subsequent use of excessive force would not negate the lawfulness of the initial arrest attempt, or negate the unlawfulness of the criminal defendant’s attempt to resist it. Though occurring in one continuous chain of events, two isolated factual contexts would exist, the first giving rise to criminal liability on the part of the criminal defendant, and the second giving rise to civil liability on the part of the arresting officer.’ ” (Yount v. City of Sacramento (2008) 43 Cal.4th 885, 899 [76 Cal.Rptr.3d 787, 183 P.3d 471], original italics.)

- “[T]he district court effectively required the jury to presume that the arrest was constitutionally lawful, and so not to consider facts concerning the basis for the arrest. Doing so removed critical factual questions that were within the jury’s province to decide. For instance, by taking from the jury the question whether [officer]’s arrest of [plaintiff] for resisting or obstructing a police officer was lawful, the district judge implied simultaneously that [plaintiff] was in fact resisting or failing to obey the police officer’s lawful instructions. Presuming such resistance could certainly have influenced the jury’s assessment of ‘the need for force,’ as well as its consideration of the other Graham factors, including ‘whether [the suspect] is actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by flight. By erroneously granting judgment as a matter of law on [plaintiff]’s unlawful arrest claim, the district court impermissibly truncated the jury’s consideration of [plaintiff]’s excessive force claim.” (Velazquez v. City of Long Beach (9th Cir. 2015) 793 F.3d 1010, --, original italics.)
- “[P]rivate parties ordinarily are not subject to suit under section 1983, unless, sifting the circumstances of the particular case, the state has so significantly involved itself in the private conduct that the private parties may fairly be termed state actors. Among the factors considered are whether the state subsidized or heavily regulated the conduct, or compelled or encouraged the particular conduct, whether the private actor was performing a function which normally is performed exclusively by the state, and whether there was a symbiotic relationship rendering the conduct joint state action.” (Robbins v. Hamburger Home for Girls (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 671, 683 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 534], internal citations omitted.)
- “Private parties act under color of state law if they willfully participate in joint action with state officials to deprive others of constitutional rights. Private parties involved in such a conspiracy may be liable under section 1983.” (United Steelworkers of America v. Phelps Dodge Corp. (9th Cir.1989) 865 F.2d 1539, 1540, internal citations omitted.)

[Name of defendant] is the owner of [a/an] [e.g., restaurant] named [name of business] that is open to the public. [Name of plaintiff] is a disabled person who [specify disability that creates accessibility problems].

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she] was denied full and equal access to [name of defendant]’s business on a particular occasion because of physical barriers. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

- 1. That [name of defendant]’s business had barriers that violated construction-related accessibility standards in that [specify barriers]; and [either]

[A violation that [name of plaintiff] personally encountered may be sufficient to cause a denial of full and equal access if [he/she] experienced difficulty, discomfort, or embarrassment because of the violation.]

[To prove that [name of plaintiff] was deterred from accessing [name of defendant]’s business on a particular occasion, [he/she] must prove both of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] had actual knowledge of one or more violations that prevented or reasonably dissuaded [him/her] from accessing [name of defendant]’s business, which [name of plaintiff] intended to patronize on a particular occasion.
- 2. That the violation(s) would have actually denied [name of plaintiff] full and equal access if [he/she] had tried to patronize [name of defendant]’s business on that particular occasion.]

Directions for Use

Use this instruction if a plaintiff seeks statutory damages based on a construction-related accessibility claim under the Disabled Persons Act (DPA) or the Unruh Civil Rights Act. (See Civ. Code, § 55.56(a).) Do not give this instruction if actual damages are sought. CACI No. 3067, Unruh Civil Rights Act—Damages, may be given for claims for actual damages under the Unruh Act and adapted for use under the DPA.

The DPA provides disabled persons with rights of access to public facilities. (See Civ. Code, §§ 54, 54.1.) Under the DPA, a disabled person who encounters barriers to access at a public accommodation may recover minimum statutory damages for each particular occasion on which he or she was denied access. (Civ. Code, §§ 54.3, 55.56(ef).) However, the Construction Related Accessibility Standard Act (CRASA) requires that before statutory damages may be recovered, the disabled person either have personally encountered the violation on a particular occasion or have been deterred from accessing the facility on a particular occasion. (See Civ. Code, § 55.56(b).) Also, specified violations are deemed to be merely technical and are presumed to not cause a person difficulty, discomfort, or embarrassment for the purpose of an award of minimum statutory damages. (See Civ. Code, § 55.56(e).)

Give either or both options for element 2 depending on whether the plaintiff personally encountered the barrier or was deterred from patronizing the business because of awareness of the barrier. The next-to-last paragraph is explanatory of the first option, and the last paragraph is explanatory of the second option.

- “[L]egislation (applicable to claims filed on or after Jan. 1, 2009 ([Civ. (b)). It also limits statutory damages to one assessment per occasion of access denial, rather than being based on the number of accessibility standards violated. (Id., subd. - “[S]ection 54.3 imposes the standing requirement that the plaintiff have suffered an actual denial of equal access before any suit for damages can be brought. ... [A] plaintiff cannot recover damages under section 54.3 unless the violation actually denied him or her access to some public facility. [¶] Plaintiff's attempt to equate a denial of equal access with the presence of a violation of federal or state regulations would nullify the standing requirement of section 54.3, since any disabled person could sue for statutory damages whenever he or she encountered noncompliant facilities, regardless of whether that lack of compliance actually impaired the plaintiff's access to those facilities. Plaintiff's argument would thereby eliminate any distinction between a cause of action for equitable relief under section 55 and a cause of action for damages under section 54.3.' ” (*Reycraft v. Directions for Use

This instruction may be given in cases brought under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act by the victim of elder financial abuse, or by the survivors of the victim. If the victim is the plaintiff and is seeking damages for pain and suffering, see CACI No. 3905A, Physical Pain, Mental Suffering, and Emotional Distress (Noneconomic Damage) in the Damages series. Plaintiffs who are suing for their decedent's pain and suffering should also use CACI No. 3101, Financial Abuse—Decedent's Pain and Suffering.

If the individual responsible for the financial abuse is a defendant in the case, use “[name of individual defendant]” throughout. If only the individual's employer is a defendant, use “[name of employer defendant]'s employee” throughout.

To recover compensatory damages, attorney fees, and costs against the employer under a theory of vicarious liability, see instructions in the Vicarious Responsibility series (CACI No. 3700 et seq.).

If “for a wrongful use” is selected in element 3, give the next-to-last optional paragraph on appropriate facts. This is not the exclusive manner of proving wrongful conduct under the statute. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.30(b).)

If “by undue influence” is selected in element 3, also give CACI No. 3117, Financial Abuse—“Undue Influence” Explained.

Include the last optional paragraph if the elder was deprived of a property right by an agreement, donative transfer, or testamentary bequest. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.30(c).)

The instructions in this series are not intended to cover every circumstance in which a plaintiff may bring a cause of action under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act.

- “The Legislature enacted the Act to protect elders by providing enhanced remedies to encourage private, civil enforcement of laws against elder abuse and neglect. An elder is defined as ‘any person residing in this state, 65 years of age or older.’ The proscribed conduct includes financial abuse. The financial abuse provisions are, in part, premised on the Legislature's belief that in addition to being subject to the general rules of contract, financial agreements entered into by elders should be subject to special scrutiny.” (Bounds v. Superior Court (2014) 229 Cal.App.4th 468, 478 [177 Cal.Rptr.3d 320], internal citations omitted.)

- ~~• “The Act was expressly designed to protect elders and other dependent adults who ‘may be subjected to abuse, neglect, or abandonment ...’ Within the Act, two groups of persons who ordinarily assume responsibility for the ‘care and custody’ of the elderly are identified and defined: health practitioners and care custodians. A ‘health practitioner’ is defined in section 15610.37 as a ‘physician and surgeon, psychiatrist, psychologist, dentist, ...’ etc., who ‘treats an elder ... for any condition.’ ‘Care custodians,’ on the other hand, are administrators and employees of public and private institutions that provide ‘care or services for elders or dependent adults,’ including nursing homes, clinics, home health agencies, and similar facilities which house the elderly. The Legislature thus recognized that both classes of professionals—health practitioners as well as care custodians—should be charged with responsibility for the health, safety and welfare of elderly and dependent adults.” (Mack v. Soung (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 966, 974 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 830], original italics, internal citations omitted.)~~
- “The probate court cited Welfare and Institutions Code section 15610.30 to impose financial elder abuse liability as to plaintiffs' first cause of action for fiduciary abuse of an elder. This liability is supported by the court's findings that ‘[decedent] did not know the extent of [defendant's] spending,’ and that ‘[w]hile it is not uncommon for a spouse to spend money or purchase items of which the other is unaware, and the line between such conduct and financial abuse is not always clear, what [defendant] did in this case went well beyond the line of reasonable conduct and constituted financial abuse,’ and the court's further conclusion that much of defendant's credit card spending and writing herself checks from decedent's bank account during the marriage amounted to financial abuse.” (Lintz v. Lintz (2014) 222 Cal.App.4th 1346, 1356 [167 Cal.Rptr.3d 50].)
- “[T]he Legislature enacted the Act, including the provision prohibiting a taking by undue influence, to protect elderly individuals with limited or declining cognitive abilities from overreaching conduct that resulted in a deprivation of their property rights. To require the victim of financial elder abuse to wait to file suit until an agreement obtained through the statutorily proscribed conduct has been performed would not further that goal.” (Bounds, supra, 229 Cal.App.4th at p. 481.)
- “When the [operable pleading] was filed, former section 15610.30, subdivision (a)(3) referred to the definition of undue influence found in Civil Code section 1575. However, in 2013, the Legislature amended section 15610.30, subdivision (a)(3) to refer, instead, to a broader definition of undue influence found in the newly enacted section 15610.70.” (Bounds, supra, 229 Cal.App.4th at p. 479.)

New September 2003; Revised June 2005, October 2008, April 2009

Directions for Use

Give this instruction along with CACI No. 3100, Financial Abuse—Essential Factual Elements, if the plaintiff seeks survival damages for pain and suffering in addition to conventional tort damages and attorney fees and costs. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657.5.) Although one would not normally expect that financial abuse alone would lead to a wrongful death action, the Legislature has provided this remedy should the situation arise.

If the individual responsible for the neglect is a defendant in the case, use “[name of individual defendant].” If only the individual’s employer is a defendant, use “[name of employer defendant]’s employee.”

- “In order to obtain the remedies available in section 15657, a plaintiff must demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that defendant is guilty of something more than negligence; he or she must show reckless, oppressive, fraudulent, or malicious conduct. The latter three categories involve ‘intentional,’ ‘willful,’ or ‘conscious’ wrongdoing of a ‘despicable’ or ‘injurious’ nature. ‘Recklessness’ refers to a subjective state of culpability greater than simple negligence, which has been described as a ‘deliberate disregard’ of the ‘high degree of probability’ that an injury will occur. Recklessness, unlike negligence, involves more than ‘inadvertence, incompetence, unskillfulness, or a failure to take precautions’ but rather rises to the level of a ‘conscious choice of a course of action ... with knowledge of the serious danger to others involved in it.’ ” (Delaney, supra, 20 Cal.4th at pp. 31–32, internal citations omitted.)

In this limited circumstance, the decedent’s right to pain and suffering damages would not die with him or her; the damages would be recoverable by a survivor.” (*ARA Living Centers—Pacific, Inc. v. - “[I]f the neglect is ‘reckless[.]’ or done with ‘oppression, fraud or malice,’ then the action falls within the scope of section 15657 and as such cannot be considered simply ‘based on ... professional negligence’ within the meaning of section 15657.2. The use of such language in section 15657, and the explicit exclusion of ‘professional negligence’ in section 15657.2, make clear the Elder Abuse Act’s goal was to provide heightened remedies for, as stated in the legislative history, ‘acts of egregious abuse’ against elder and dependent adults, while allowing acts of negligence in the rendition of medical services to elder and dependent adults to be governed by laws specifically applicable to such negligence. That only these egregious acts were intended to be sanctioned under section 15657 is further underscored by the fact that the statute requires liability to be proved by a heightened ‘clear and convincing evidence’ standard.” (Delaney, supra, 20 Cal.4th at p. 35, internal citation omitted.)
- “[W]e distill several factors that must be present for conduct to constitute neglect within the meaning of the Elder Abuse Act and thereby trigger the enhanced remedies available under the Act. The plaintiff must allege (and ultimately prove by clear and convincing evidence) facts establishing that the defendant (1) had responsibility for meeting the basic needs of the elder or dependent adult, such as nutrition, hydration, hygiene or medical care; (2) knew of conditions that made the elder or dependent adult unable to provide for his or her own basic needs; and (3) denied or withheld goods or services necessary to meet the elder or dependent adult’s basic needs, either with knowledge that injury was substantially certain to befall the elder or dependent adult (if the plaintiff alleges oppression, fraud or malice) or with conscious disregard of the high probability of such injury (if the plaintiff alleges recklessness). The plaintiff must also allege (and ultimately prove by clear and convincing evidence) that the neglect caused the elder or dependent adult to suffer physical harm, pain or mental suffering.” (*Carter v. - “We reject plaintiffs' argument that a violation of the Act does not constitute an independent cause of action. Accordingly, plaintiffs' failure to obtain a verdict establishing causation—one element of liability—by clear and convincing evidence, precludes an award of attorney fees.” (Perlin, supra, 163 Cal.App.4th at p. 666.)

Directions for Use

This instruction may be given in cases brought under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act by the victim of elder physical abuse, or by the survivors of the victim. If the victim is the plaintiff and is seeking damages for pain and suffering, see CACI No. 3905A, Physical Pain, Mental Suffering, and Emotional Distress (Noneconomic Damage) in the Damages series.

If the plaintiff seeks the enhanced remedies of attorney fees and costs, and in the case of a wrongful death, the decedent’s pain and suffering, give CACI No. 3107, Physical Abuse—Enhanced Remedies Sought, in addition to this instruction. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657.)

If the individual responsible for the physical abuse is a defendant in the case, use “[name of individual defendant]” throughout. If only the individual’s employer is a defendant, use “[name of employer defendant]’s employee” throughout.

If the plaintiff is seeking enhanced remedies against the individual’s employer, also give either CACI No. 3102A, Employer Liability for Enhanced Remedies—Both Individual and Employer Defendants, or CACI No. 3102B, Employer Liability for Enhanced Remedies—Employer Defendant Only. To recover damages against the employer under a theory of vicarious liability, see instructions in the Vicarious Responsibility series (CACI No. 3700 et seq.).

The instructions in this series are not intended to cover every circumstance in which a plaintiff may bring a cause of action under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act.

- ~~“The Act was expressly designed to protect elders and other dependent adults who ‘may be subjected to abuse, neglect, or abandonment ...’ Within the Act, two groups of persons who ordinarily assume responsibility for the ‘care and custody’ of the elderly are identified and defined: health practitioners and care custodians. A ‘health practitioner’ is defined in section 15610.37 as a ‘physician and surgeon, psychiatrist, psychologist, dentist, ...’ etc., who ‘treats an elder ... for any condition.’ ‘Care custodians,’ on the other hand, are administrators and employees of public and private institutions that provide ‘care or services for elders or dependent adults,’ including nursing homes, clinics, home health agencies, and similar facilities which house the elderly. The Legislature thus recognized that both classes of professionals—health practitioners as well as care custodians—should be charged with responsibility for the health, safety and welfare of elderly and dependent adults.” (*Mack v. - “In order to obtain the remedies available in section 15657, a plaintiff must demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that defendant is guilty of something more than negligence; he or she must show reckless, oppressive, fraudulent, or malicious conduct. The latter three categories involve ‘intentional,’ ‘willful,’ or ‘conscious’ wrongdoing of a ‘despicable’ or ‘injurious’ nature. [¶] ‘Recklessness’ refers to a subjective state of culpability greater than simple negligence, which has been described as a ‘deliberate disregard’ of the ‘high degree of probability’ that an injury will occur. Recklessness, unlike negligence, involves more than ‘inadvertence, incompetence, unskillfulness, or a failure to take precautions’ but rather rises to the level of a ‘conscious choice of a course of action ... with knowledge of the serious danger to others involved in it.’ ” (Delaney v. Baker (1999) 20 Cal.4th 23, 31-32 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 610, 971 P.2d 986], internal citations omitted.)

- “As amended in 1991, the Elder Abuse Act was designed to protect elderly and dependent persons from abuse, neglect, or abandonment. In addition to adopting measures designed to encourage reporting of abuse and neglect, the Act authorizes the court to award attorney fees to the prevailing plaintiffs and allows survivors to recover pain and suffering damages in cases of intentional and reckless abuse where the elder has died.” (Mack v. Soung (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 966, 971–972 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 830], [disapproved on other grounds in *Winn v. - “The effect of the 1991 amendment to the elder abuse law was to ... permit a decedent’s personal representative or successor to recover pain and suffering damages when plaintiff can prove by clear and convincing evidence recklessness, oppression, fraud, or malice in the commission of elder abuse. Even then, those damages would be subject to the $250,000 cap placed by Civil Code section 3333.2, subdivision (b) for noneconomic damages against a health care provider. In this limited circumstance, the decedent’s right to pain and suffering damages would not die with him or her; the damages would be recoverable by a survivor.” (ARA Living Centers—Pacific, Inc. v. Superior Court (1993) 18 Cal.App.4th 1556, 1563 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 224].)
- “[I]f the neglect is ‘reckless[,]’ or done with ‘oppression, fraud or malice,’ then the action falls within the scope of section 15657 and as such cannot be considered simply ‘based on ... professional negligence’ within the meaning of section 15657.2. The use of such language in section 15657, and the explicit exclusion of ‘professional negligence’ in section 15657.2, make clear the Elder Abuse Act’s goal was to provide heightened remedies for, as stated in the legislative history, ‘acts of egregious abuse’ against elder and dependent adults, while allowing acts of negligence in the rendition of medical services to elder and dependent adults to be governed by laws specifically applicable to such negligence. That only these egregious acts were intended to be sanctioned under section 15657 is further underscored by the fact that the statute requires liability to be proved by a heightened ‘clear and convincing evidence’ standard.” (Delaney, supra, 20 Cal.4th at p. 35, internal citation omitted.)
- “‘Liability’ under section 15657 includes as an element ‘causation,’ which, as all elements of liability, must be proved by clear and convincing evidence for purposes of an award of attorney fees.” (Perlin v. Fountain View Management, Inc. (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 657, 664 [77 Cal.Rptr.3d 743].)
- “We reject plaintiffs’ argument that a violation of the Act does not constitute an independent cause of action. Accordingly, plaintiffs’ failure to obtain a verdict establishing causation—one element of liability—by clear and convincing evidence, precludes an award of attorney fees.” (Perlin, supra, 163 Cal.App.4th at p. 666.)

Properly exercised, the eminent domain power effects a compromise between the public good for which private land is taken, and the protection and indemnification of private citizens whose property is taken to advance that public good. The Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution, made applicable to the states by the Fourteenth Amendment, and California Constitution, article I, section 19 require this protection of private citizens’ property.” (*Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Authority v. 3501. “Fair Market Value” Explained

Just compensation includes the fair market value of the property as of [insert date of valuation]. Fair market value is the highest price for the property that a willing buyer would have paid in cash to a willing seller, assuming that:

- 1. There is no pressure on either one to buy or sell; and
 - 2. The buyer and seller know all the uses and purposes for which the property is reasonably capable of being used.

New September 2003; Revised June 2015

Directions for Use

Do not give this instruction if there is no relevant market for the property. Instead, instruct on the appropriate alternative method of valuation.

The jury determines the fair market value of the property based on the highest and best use for which the property is geographically and economically adaptable. (See San Diego Gas & Electric Co. v. Schmidt (2014) 228 Cal.App.4th 1280, 1288 [175 Cal.Rptr.3d 858].) If the highest and best use is disputed, give CACI No. 3502, “Highest and Best Use” Explained.

- “Fair Market Value” Defined. Code of Civil Procedure section 1263.320.
- “The measure of compensation in a condemnation case ‘is the fair market value of the property taken.’ ‘The fair market value of the property taken is the highest price on the date of valuation that would be agreed to by a seller, being willing to sell but under no particular or urgent necessity for so doing, nor obliged to sell, and a buyer, being ready, willing, and able to buy but under no particular necessity for so doing, each dealing with the other with full knowledge of all the uses and purposes for which the property is reasonably adaptable and available.’ ‘A jury should consider all those factors, including lawful legislative and administrative restrictions on property, which a buyer would take into consideration in arriving at the fair market value.’ ” (City of Perris v. Stamper (2016) 1 Cal.5th 576, 598–599 [205 Cal.Rptr.3d 797, 376 P.3d 1221].)
- “ ‘Market value,’ in turn, traditionally has been defined as ‘the highest price estimated in terms of money which the land would bring if exposed for sale in the open market, with reasonable time allowed in which to find a purchaser, buying with knowledge of all of the uses and purposes to which it was adapted and for which it was capable.’ ” (Klopping v. City of Whittier (1972) 8 Cal.3d 39, 43 [104 Cal.Rptr. 1, 500 P.2d 1345], internal citation omitted.)
- “Recognized alternatives to the market data approach to valuation are reproduction or replacement costs less depreciation or obsolescence.” (Redevelopment Agency of the City of Long Beach v. First Christian Church of Long Beach (1983) 140 Cal.App.3d 690, 698 [189 Cal.Rptr. 749], internal citation omitted, disapproved on other grounds in Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority v. Continental Development Corp. (1997) 16 Cal.4th 694, 720-721 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 630, 941 P.2d 809].)

- Alternative methods of valuation particularly apply to properties such as schools, churches, cemeteries, parks, and utilities for which there is no relevant market; therefore these properties may be valued on any basis that is just and equitable. (County of San Diego v. Rancho Vista Del Mar, Inc. (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 1046, 1060 [20 Cal.Rptr.2d 675].)
- “[T]he fair market value of property taken has not been limited to the value of the property as used at the time of the taking, but has long taken into account the ‘highest and most profitable use to which the property might be put in the reasonable near future, to the extent that the probability of such a prospective use affects the market value.’ ” (City of San Diego v. Neumann (1993) 6 Cal.4th 738, 744 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 480, 863 P.2d 725], internal citations omitted.)
- “In condemnation actions, California courts have long recognized what has been referred to as the ‘appraisal trinity.’ This term encompasses three methods or approaches used by appraisers to determine the fair market value of real estate: (1) the current cost of reproducing (or replacing) the property less depreciation from all sources; (2) the ‘market data’ value as indicated by recent sale of comparable properties; and (3) the ‘income approach,’ or the value of which the property’s net earning power will support based upon the capitalization of net income. In 1965, the state Legislature codified these three approaches in Evidence Code section 815-820. A qualified appraiser in an eminent domain proceeding may use one or more of these valuation techniques to ascertain the fair market value of the condemned property.” (Redevelopment Agency of the City of Long Beach, supra, 140 Cal.App.3d at p. 705, internal citations omitted.)

3700. Introduction to Vicarious Responsibility

[One may authorize another to act on his or her behalf in transactions with third persons. This relationship is called “agency.” The person giving the authority is called the “principal”; the person to whom authority is given is called the “agent.”]

[An employer/A principal] is responsible for harm caused by the wrongful conduct of [his/her/its] [employees/agents] while acting within the scope of their [employment/authority].

[An [employee/agent] is always responsible for harm caused by [his/her/its] own wrongful conduct, whether or not the [employer/principal] is also liable.]

Directions for Use

This instruction provides the jury with some basic background information about the doctrine of respondeat superior. Include the first paragraph if the relationship at issue is one of principal-agent. If the employee or agent is also a defendant, give the third paragraph.

This instruction should be followed by either CACI No. 3703, Legal Relationship Not Disputed, CACI No. 3704, Existence of “Employee” Status Disputed, or CACI No. 3705, Existence of “Agency” Relationship Disputed.

3701. Tort Liability Asserted Against Principal—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she] was harmed by [name of agent]’s [insert tort theory, e.g., “negligence”].

[Name of plaintiff] also claims that [name of defendant] is responsible for the harm because [name of agent] was acting as [his/her/its] [agent/employee/[insert other relationship, e.g., “partner”]] when the incident occurred.

If you find that [name of agent]’s [insert tort theory] harmed [name of plaintiff], then you must decide whether [name of defendant] is responsible for the harm. [Name of defendant] is responsible if [name of plaintiff] proves both of the following:

1. That [name of agent] was [name of defendant]’s [agent/employee/[insert other relationship]]; and
 2. That [name of agent] was acting within the scope of [his/her] [agency/employment/[insert other relationship]] when [he/she] harmed [name of plaintiff].

New September 2003

Directions for Use

The term “name of agent,” in brackets, is intended in the general sense, to denote the person or entity whose wrongful conduct is alleged to have created the principal’s liability.

Under other principles of law, a principal may be directly liable for authorizing or directing an agent’s wrongful acts. (See 2 Witkin, Summary of Cal. Law (10th ed. 2005) Agency and Employment, § 163.)

One of the two bracketed first sentences would be used, depending on whether the plaintiff is suing both the principal and the agent or the principal alone.

If there is no issue regarding whether a principal-agent exists, see CACI No. 3703, Legal Relationship Not Disputed.

This instruction may not apply where-if employer liability is statutory, such as under the Fair Employment and Housing Act.

- “The rule of respondeat superior is familiar and simply stated: an employer is vicariously liable for the torts of its employees committed within the scope of the employment. (Lisa M. v. Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital (1995) 12 Cal.4th 291, 296-297 [48 Cal.Rptr.2d 510, 907 P.2d 358], internal citations and footnote omitted.)

- The Supreme Court has articulated three reasons for applying the doctrine of respondeat superior: "(1) to prevent recurrence of the tortious conduct; (2) to give greater assurance of compensation for the victim; and (3) to ensure that the victim's losses will be equitably borne by those who benefit from the enterprise that gave rise to the injury." (Mary M., supra, 54 Cal.3d at p. 209.)
- "[A] principal may be liable for the wrongful conduct of its agent, even if that conduct is criminal, in one of three ways: (1) if the 'principal directly authorizes ... 3704. Existence of “Employee” Status Disputed

[Name of plaintiff] must prove that [name of agent] was [name of defendant]'s employee.

In deciding whether [name of agent] was [name of defendant]'s employee, the most important factor is whether [name of defendant] had the right to control how [name of agent] performed the work, rather than just the right to specify the result. One indication of the right to control is that the hirer can discharge the worker [without cause]. It does not matter whether [name of defendant] exercised the right to control.

In deciding whether [name of defendant] was [name of agent]'s employer, in addition to the right of control, you must consider the full nature of their relationship. You should take into account the following additional factors, which, if true, may show that [name of defendant] was the employer of [name of agent]. No one factor is necessarily decisive. Do not simply count the number of applicable factors and use the larger number to make your decision. It is for you to determine the weight and importance to give to each of these additional factors based on all of the evidence.

- (a) [Name of defendant] supplied the equipment, tools, and place of work;
 - (b) [Name of agent] was paid by the hour rather than by the job;
 - (c) [Name of defendant] was in business;
 - (d) The work being done by [name of agent] was part of the regular business of [name of defendant];
 - (e) [Name of agent] was not engaged in a distinct occupation or business;
 - (f) The kind of work performed by [name of agent] is usually done under the direction of a supervisor rather than by a specialist working without supervision;
 - (g) The kind of work performed by [name of agent] does not require specialized or professional skill;
 - (h) The services performed by [name of agent] were to be performed over a long period of time; [and]
 - (i) [Name of defendant] and [name of agent] believed that they had an employer-employee relationship[./; and]
 - (j) [Specify other factor].

Directions for Use

This instruction is primarily intended for employer-employee relationships. Most of the factors are less appropriate for analyzing other types of agency relationships, such as franchisor/franchisee. For an instruction more appropriate to these kinds of relationships, see CACI No. 3705, Existence of “Agency” Relationship Disputed.

Secondary factors (a)–(i) come from the Restatement Second of Agency, section 220. (See also Ayala v. Antelope Valley Newspapers, Inc. (2014) 59 Cal.4th 522, 532 [173 Cal.Rptr.3d 332, 327 P.3d 165]; Rest.3d Agency, § 7.07, com. f.) They have been phrased so that a yes answer points toward an employment relationship. Omit any that are not relevant. Additional factors have been endorsed by the California Supreme Court and may be included if applicable. (See S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc. v. Department of Industrial Relations (1989) 48 Cal.3d 341, 354–355 [256 Cal.Rptr. 543, 769 P.2d 399].) Therefore, an “other” option (j) has been included.

- “Whether a common law employer-employee relationship exists turns foremost on the degree of a hirer’s right to control how the end result is achieved.” (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 528.)
- “However, the courts have long recognized that the ‘control’ test, applied rigidly and in isolation, is often of little use in evaluating the infinite variety of service arrangements. While conceding that the right to control work details is the ‘most important’ or ‘most significant’ consideration, the authorities also endorse several ‘secondary’ indicia of the nature of a service relationship.” (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 350, internal citations omitted.)
- “While the extent of the hirer’s right to control the work is the foremost consideration in assessing whether a common law employer-employee relationship exists, our precedents also recognize a range of secondary indicia drawn from the Second and Third Restatements of Agency that may in a given case evince an employment relationship. Courts may consider ‘(a) whether the one performing services is engaged in a distinct occupation or business; (b) the kind of occupation, with reference to whether, in the locality, the work is usually done under the direction of the principal or by a specialist without supervision; (c) the skill required in the particular occupation; (d) whether the principal or the worker supplies the instrumentalities, tools, and the place of work for the person doing the work; (e) the length of time for which the services are to be performed; (f) the method of payment, whether by the time or by the job; (g) whether or not the work is a part of the regular business of the principal; and (h) whether or not the parties believe they are creating the relationship of employer-employee.’ ”

(Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 532.)

- “ ‘Generally, . . . the individual factors cannot be applied mechanically as separate tests; they are intertwined and their weight depends often on particular combinations.’ ” (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 351, internal citations omitted.)
- “[T]he Restatement guidelines heretofore approved in our state remain a useful reference.” (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 354.)
- “We also note the six-factor test developed by other jurisdictions which determine independent contractorship in light of the remedial purposes of the legislation. Besides the ‘right to control the work,’ the factors include (1) the alleged employee’s opportunity for profit or loss depending on his managerial skill; (2) the alleged employee’s investment in equipment or materials required for his task, or his employment of helpers; (3) whether the service rendered requires a special skill; (4) the degree of permanence of the working relationship; and (5) whether the service rendered is an integral part of the alleged employer’s business. [¶] As can be seen, there are many points of individual similarity between these guidelines and our own traditional Restatement tests. We find that all are logically pertinent to the inherently difficult determination whether a provider of service is an employee or an excluded independent contractor for purposes of workers’ compensation law.” (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at pp. 354–355, internal cross-reference omitted.)
- “Whether a person is an independent contractor or an employee is a question of fact if dependent upon the resolution of disputed evidence or inferences.” (Bowman v. Wyatt (2010) 186 Cal.App.4th 286, 297, fn. 4 [111 Cal.Rptr.3d 787].)
- The burden of proving the existence of an agency rests on the one affirming its existence. (Burbank v. National Casualty Co. (1941) 43 Cal.App.2d 773, 781 [111 P.2d 740].)
- “The label placed by the parties on their relationship is not dispositive, and subterfuges are not countenanced.” (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 342.)
- “It is not essential that the right of control be exercised or that there be actual supervision of the work of the agent. The existence of the right of control and supervision establishes the existence of an agency relationship.” (Malloy v. Fong (1951) 37 Cal.2d 356, 370 [232 P.2d 241], internal citations omitted.)
- “Perhaps the strongest evidence of the right to control is whether the hirer can discharge the worker without cause, because ‘[t]he power of the principal to terminate the services of the agent gives him the means of controlling the agent’s activities.’ ” (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 531.)
- “The worker’s corresponding right to leave is similarly relevant: ‘ “An employee may quit, but an independent contractor is legally obligated to complete his contract.” ’ ” (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 531 fn. 2.)
- “A finding of employment is supported where the workers are ‘a regular and integrated portion of [the] business operation.’ ” (Garcia v. Seacon Logix Inc. (2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 1476, 1487 [190

- “Where workers are paid weekly or by the hour, rather than by the job, it suggests an employment relationship.” (Garcia, supra, 238 Cal.App.4th at p. 1488.)
- “In cases where there is a written contract, to answer that question [the right of control] without full examination of the contract will be virtually impossible. ... [¶] ... [T]he rights spelled out in a contract may not be conclusive if other evidence demonstrates a practical allocation of rights at odds with the written terms.” (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 535.)
- “[T]he right to exercise complete or authoritative control must be shown, rather than mere suggestion as to detail. A worker is an independent contractor when he or she follows the employer's desires only in the result of the work, and not the means by which it is achieved.” (Jackson v. AEG Live, LLC (2015) 233 Cal.App.4th 1156, 1179 [183 Cal.Rptr.3d 394].)
- “ “[T]he owner may retain a broad general power of supervision and control as to the results of the work so as to insure satisfactory performance of the independent contract—including the right to inspect [citation], ... the right to make suggestions or recommendations as to details of the work [citation], the right to prescribe alterations or deviations in the work [citation]—without changing the relationship from that of owner and independent contractor’ ” (Beaumont-Jacques v. Farmers Group, Inc. (2013) 217 Cal.App.4th 1138, 1143 [159 Cal.Rptr.3d 102], quoting McDonald v. Shell Oil Co. (1955) 44 Cal.2d 785, 790 [285 P.2d 902].)
- “Agency and independent contractorship are not necessarily mutually exclusive legal categories as independent contractor and servant or employee are. In other words, an agent may also be an independent contractor. One who contracts to act on behalf of another and subject to the other's control, except with respect to his physical conduct, is both an agent and an independent contractor.” (Jackson, supra, 233 Cal.App.4th at p. 1184, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- “[A] termination at-will clause for both parties may properly be included in an independent contractor agreement, and is not by itself a basis for changing that relationship to one of an employee.” (Arnold, supra, 202 Cal.App.4th at p. 589.)
- Restatement Second of Agency, section 220, provides:
 - (1) A servant is a person employed to perform services in the affairs of another and who with respect to the physical conduct in the performance of the services is subject to the other's control or right to control.
 - (2) In determining whether one acting for another is a servant or an independent contractor, the following matters of fact, among others, are considered:
 - (a) the extent of control which, by the agreement, the master may exercise over the details of the work;

- (b) whether or not the one employed is engaged in a distinct occupation or business;
- (c) the kind of occupation, with reference to whether, in the locality, the work is usually done under the direction of the employer or by a specialist without supervision;
- (d) the skill required in the particular occupation;
- (e) whether the employer or the workman supplies the instrumentalities, tools, and the place of work for the person doing the work;
- (f) the length of time for which the person is employed;
- (g) the method of payment, whether by the time or by the job;
- (h) whether or not the work is a part of the regular business of the employer;
- (i) whether or not the parties believe they are creating the relation of master and servant; and
- (j) whether the principal is or is not in business.

An employee’s unauthorized conduct may be within the scope of [employment/authorization] if [the conduct was committed in the course of a series of acts authorized by the employer] [or] [the conduct arose from a risk inherent in or created by the enterprise].

[An employee’s wrongful or criminal conduct may be within the scope of employment even if it breaks a company rule or does not benefit the employer.]

- “Although an employee's willful, malicious, and even criminal torts may fall within the scope of employment, ‘an employer is not strictly liable for all actions of its employees during working hours.’ For the employer to be liable for an intentional tort, the employee's act must have a ‘causal nexus to the employee's work.' Courts have used various terms to describe this causal nexus: the incident leading to the injury must be an ' "outgrowth" ' of the employment; the risk of tortious injury must be ' "inherent in the working environment" ' ; the risk must be ' "typical" ' or ' "broadly incidental" ' to the employer's business; the tort was ' "a generally foreseeable consequence" ' of the employer's business.' 3903F. Damage to Real Property (Economic Damage)

[Insert number, e.g., “6.”] The harm to [name of plaintiff]’s property.

To recover damages for harm to property, [name of plaintiff] must prove [the reduction in the property’s value/ [or] the reasonable cost of repairing the harm]. [If there is evidence of both, [name of plaintiff] is entitled to the lesser of the two amounts. [However, if [name of plaintiff] has a genuine desire to repair the property for personal reasons, and if the costs of repair are reasonable given the damage to the property and the value after repair, then the costs of repair may be awarded even if they exceed the property’s loss of value.]]

[To determine the reduction in value, you must determine the fair market value of the property before the harm occurred and then subtract the fair market value of the property immediately after the harm occurred. The difference is the reduction of value.

“Fair market value” is the highest price for the property that a willing buyer would have paid to a willing seller, assuming:

1. That there is no pressure on either one to buy or sell; and
2. That the buyer and seller know all the uses and purposes for which the property is reasonably capable of being used.]

[To determine whether the cost of repairing the harm is reasonable, you must decide if there is a reasonable relationship between the cost of repair and the harm caused by [name of defendant]’s conduct. You must consider the expense and time involved to restore the property to its original condition compared to the value of the property [and [insert other applicable factors.]].

If you find that the cost of repairing the harm is not reasonable, then you may award any reduction in the property’s value.]

Directions for Use

Give this instruction for damages to real property caused by trespass, permanent nuisance, or other tortious conduct. See also CACI No. 3903G, Loss of Use of Real Property (Economic Damage).

If there is evidence of both diminution in value and cost of repair, include all optional paragraphs. However, include the last bracketed sentence in the first paragraph only if the judge has determined that the claimed personal reasons are legally sufficient to justify the costs of repair.

If only the cost of repair is at issue, give just the first paragraph. However, if the reasonableness of the cost of repair is at issue, then the value of the property must be considered, and all paragraphs must be included. If only diminution of value is at issue, omit the last two optional paragraphs.

The practical effect of this rule is to limit damages to property to the fair market value of the property prior to the damage.” (*Kelly v. 4000. Conservatorship—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of petitioner] claims that [name of respondent] is gravely disabled due to [a mental disorder/impairment by chronic alcoholism] and therefore should be placed in a conservatorship. In a conservatorship, a conservator is appointed to oversee, under the direction of the court, the care of persons who are gravely disabled due to a mental disorder or chronic alcoholism. To succeed on this claim, [name of petitioner] must prove beyond a reasonable doubt all of the following:

1. That [name of respondent] [has a mental disorder/is impaired by chronic alcoholism]; [and]
 2. That [name of respondent] is gravely disabled as a result of the [mental disorder/chronic alcoholism][; and/.]
 - [3. That [name of respondent] is unwilling or unable voluntarily to accept meaningful treatment.]

- “The jury should determine if the person voluntarily accepts meaningful treatment, in which case no conservatorship is necessary. If the jury finds the person will not accept treatment, then it must determine if the person can meet his basic needs on his own or with help, in which case a conservatorship is not justified.” (Conservatorship of Walker (1987) 196 Cal.App.3d 1082, 1092–1093 [242 Cal.Rptr. 289].)

4120. Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations

[Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff]’s lawsuit was not filed within the time set by law. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that [name of plaintiff]’s claimed harm occurred before [insert date four years before complaint was filed] unless [name of plaintiff] proves that before [insert date four years before complaint was filed], [he/she/it] did not discover, and did not know of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect, [name of defendant]’s wrongful act or omission.

New April 2007; Renumbered from CACI No. 4106 December 2007; Revised December 2012

Directions for Use

Read this instruction only for a cause of action for breach of fiduciary duty. For a statute-of-limitations defense to a cause of action for personal injury or wrongful death due to wrongful or negligent conduct, see CACI No. 454, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations, and CACI No. 455, Statute of Limitations—Delayed Discovery.

This instruction assumes that the four-year “catch-all” statute of limitations of Code of Civil Procedure section 343 applies to claims for breach of fiduciary duty. (See Stalberg v. Western Title Ins. Co. (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 1223, 1230 [282 Cal.Rptr. 43].) There is, however, language in several cases supporting the proposition that if the breach can be characterized as constructive fraud, the three-year limitation period of Code of Civil Procedure section 338(d) applies. (See William L. Lyon & Associates, Inc. v. Superior Court (2012) 204 Cal.App.4th 1294, 1312 [139 Cal.Rptr.3d 670].) If the court determines that the claim is actually for constructive fraud, a date three years before the complaint was filed may be used instead of a four-year date. It is not clear, however, when a breach of fiduciary duty might constitute constructive fraud for purposes of the applicable statute of limitations. (Compare Thomson v. Canyon (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 594, 607 [129 Cal.Rptr.3d 525] [suggesting that breach of fiduciary duty founded on concealment of facts would be subject to three-year statute] with Stalberg, supra, 230 Cal.App.3d at p. 1230 [applying four-year statute to breach of fiduciary duty based on concealment of facts].)

Do not use this instruction in an action against an attorney. For a statute-of-limitations defense to a cause of action, other than actual fraud, against an attorney acting in the capacity of an attorney, see CACI No. 610, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—One-Year Limit, and CACI No. 611, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—Four-Year Limit. One cannot avoid a shorter limitation period for attorney malpractice (see Code Civ. Proc., § 340.6) by pleading the facts as a breach of fiduciary duty or constructive fraud. (See Quintilliani v. Mannerino (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 54, 67–68 [72 Cal.Rptr.2d 359]; see also Stueve Bros. Farms, LLC v. Berger Kahn (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 303, 322 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 116] [constructive fraud Stoll v. Superior Court (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1368 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 354].)

This simply is not true: ‘A misrepresentation that constitutes a breach of a fiduciary or confidential a [sic] relationship may, depending on whether an intent to deceive is present, constitute either actual or constructive fraud. However, the issue is usually discussed in terms of whether the misrepresentation constitutes constructive fraud, because actual fraud can exist independently of a fiduciary or confidential relationship, while the existence of such a relationship is usually crucial to a finding of constructive fraud.’ ” (*Worthington v. UNLAWFUL DETAINER

4304. Termination for Violation of Terms of Lease/Agreement—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] [and [name of subtenant], a subtenant of [name of defendant],] no longer [has/have] the right to occupy the property because [name of defendant] has failed to perform [a] requirement(s) under [his/her/its] [lease/rental agreement/sublease]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] [owns/leases] the property;
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] [rented/subleased] the property to [name of defendant];
- 3. That under the [lease/rental agreement/sublease], [name of defendant] agreed [insert required condition(s) that were not performed];
- 4. That [name of defendant] failed to perform [that/those] requirement(s) by [insert description of alleged failure to perform];
- 5. That [name of plaintiff] properly gave [name of defendant] [and [name of subtenant]] three days' written notice to [either [describe action to correct failure to perform] or] vacate the property; [and]
- [6. That [name of defendant] did not [describe action to correct failure to perform]; and]
- 7. That [name of defendant] [or subtenant [name of subtenant]] is still occupying the property.

[[Name of defendant]'s failure to perform the requirement(s) of the [lease/rental agreement/sublease] must not be trivial, but must be a substantial violation of [an] important obligation(s).]

New August 2007; Revised June 2010, December 2010, June 2011, December 2011

Directions for Use

Include the bracketed references to a subtenancy in the opening paragraph, in element 5, and in the last element if persons other than the tenant-defendant are in occupancy of the premises.

If the plaintiff is the landlord or owner, select either “lease” or “rental agreement” in the opening paragraph and in element 3, “owns” in element 1, and “rented” in element 2. Commercial documents are usually called “leases” while residential documents are often called “rental agreements.” Select the term that is used on the written document.

If the plaintiff is a tenant seeking to recover possession from a subtenant, select “sublease” in the opening paragraph and in element 3, “leases” in element 1, and “subleased” in element 2. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(3).)

Defective service may be waived if defendant admits timely receipt of notice. (See Valov v. Tank (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 867, 876 [214 Cal.Rptr. 546].) However, if the fact of service is contested, compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown. (Palm Property Investments, LLC v. Yadegar (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 1419, 1425 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 816].) Therefore, this instruction does not provide an option for the jury to determine whether or not defective service was waived if there was actual receipt.

If a commercial lease requires service by a particular method, actual receipt by the tenant will not cure the landlord’s failure to comply with the service requirements of the lease. (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P. v. Baja Fresh Westlake Village, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal.App.4th 744, 752 [110 Cal.Rptr.3d 833].) Whether the same rule applies to a residential lease that specifies a method of service has not yet been decided.

If the lease specifies a time period for notice other than the three-day period, substitute that time period in element 5.

If the violation of the condition or covenant involves assignment, sublet, or waste, or if the breach cannot be cured, the landlord is entitled to possession on service of a three-day notice to quit; no opportunity to cure by performance is required. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(4) ; Salton Community Services Dist. v. Southard (1967) 256 Cal.App.2d 526, 529 [64 Cal.Rptr. 246].) In such a case, omit the bracketed language in element 5 and also omit element 6. If the violation involves nuisance or illegal activity, give CACI No. 4308, Termination for Nuisance or Unlawful Use—Essential Factual Elements.

Include the last paragraph if the tenant alleges that the violation was trivial. (See Boston LLC v. Juarez (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 75, 81 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 452].) It is not settled whether the landlord must prove the violation was substantial or the tenant must prove triviality as an affirmative defense. (See Superior Motels, Inc. v. Rinn Motor Hotels, Inc. (1987) 195 Cal.App.3d 1032, 1051 [241 Cal.Rptr. 487]; Keating v. Preston (1940) 42 Cal.App.2d 110, 118 [108 P.2d 479].)

Local or federal law may impose additional requirements for the termination of a rental agreement based on breach of a condition. This instruction should be modified accordingly.

See CACI No. 4305, Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Violation of Terms of Agreement, for an instruction on proper written notice.

- Unlawful Detainer Based on Failure to Perform Conditions. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(3), (4).
- Conversion of Unlawful Detainer to Ordinary Civil Action if Possession No Longer at Issue. Civil Code section 1952.3(a).
- “[Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(3)] provides, that where the conditions or covenants of a lease can be performed, a lessee may within three days after the service of the notice perform them, and so save a forfeiture of his lease. By performing, the tenant may defeat the landlord’s claim for possession. Where, however, the covenants cannot be performed, the law recognizes that it would be an idle and useless ceremony to demand their performance, and so dispenses with the demand to do so. And this is all that it does dispense with. It does not dispense with the demand for the possession of the premises. It requires that in any event. If the covenants can be performed, the notice is in the alternative, either to perform them or deliver possession. When the covenants are beyond performance an alternative notice would be useless, and demand for possession alone is necessary. Bearing in mind that the object of this statute is to speedily permit a landlord to obtain possession of his premises where the tenant has violated the covenants of the lease, the only reasonable interpretation of the statute is, that before bringing suit he shall take that means which should be most effectual for the purpose of obtaining possession, which is to demand it. If upon demand the tenant surrenders possession, the necessity for any summary proceeding is at an end, and by the demand is accomplished what the law otherwise would accord him under the proceeding.” (Schnittger v. Rose (1903) 139 Cal. 656, 662 [73 P. 449].)
- “It is well settled that the notice required under [Code Civ. Proc., § 1161] subdivisions 2 and 3 (where the condition or covenant assertedly violated is capable of being performed) must be framed in the alternative, viz., pay the rent or quit, perform the covenant or quit, and a notice which merely directs the tenant to quit is insufficient to render such tenant guilty of unlawful detainer upon his continued possession.” (Hinman v. Wagnon (1959) 172 Cal.App.2d 24, 27 [341 P.2d 749], original italics.)
- “Plaintiff argues, however, that he should be allowed to amend his complaint so as to bring his action under section 1161, subdivision 4. The notice thereunder required need not be framed in the alternative. However, plaintiff has at no time, either by his three days’ notice or in any of his pleadings, suggested that defendant had assigned the lease or sublet the property, or had committed waste contrary to the conditions or covenants of the lease, or maintained a nuisance on the premises, or had used the property for an unlawful purpose. Plaintiff had three opportunities to state a cause of action; if he was of the belief that facts existed which brought his case under 1161, subdivision 4, it would have been a simple matter to allege such facts, but this he did not do.” (Hinman, supra, 172 Cal.App.2d at p. 29.)
- “The law sensibly recognizes that although every instance of noncompliance with a contract’s terms constitutes a breach, not every breach justifies treating the contract as terminated. Following the lead of the Restatements of Contracts, California courts allow termination only if the breach can be classified as ‘material,’ ‘substantial,’ or ‘total.’ ” (Superior Motels, Inc., supra, 195 Cal.App.3d at p. 1051, internal citations omitted.)

- “ [A] lease may be terminated only for a substantial breach thereof, and not for a mere technical or trivial violation.’ This materiality limitation even extends to leases which contain clauses purporting to dispense with the materiality limitation.” (Boston LLC, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 81, internal citation omitted.)
- “ ‘Normally the question of whether a breach of an obligation is a material breach ... is a question of fact,’ however ‘if reasonable minds cannot differ on the issue of materiality, the issue may be resolved as a matter of law.’ ” California too accepts that “[whether] a breach is so material as to constitute cause for the injured party to terminate a contract is ordinarily a question for the trier of fact.” (Boston LLC, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 87 Superior Motels, Inc., supra, 195 Cal.App.3d at pp. 1051–1052, internal citations omitted.)
- “As to the substantiality of the violation, the evidence shows that the violation was wilful. Therefore, the court will not measure the extent of the violation.” (Hignell v. Gebala (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 61, 66 [202 P.2d 378].)
- “Where a covenant in a lease has been breached and the breach cannot be cured, a demand for performance is not a condition precedent to an unlawful detainer action.” (Salton Community Services Dist., supra, 256 Cal.App.2d at p. 529.)
- “If the tenant gives up possession of the property after the commencement of an unlawful detainer proceeding, the action becomes an ordinary one for damages.” (Fish Construction Co. v. Moselle Coach Works, Inc. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 654, 658 [196 Cal.Rptr. 174].)
- “Proper service on the lessee of a valid three-day notice to pay rent or quit is an essential prerequisite to a judgment declaring a lessor’s right to possession under section 1161, subdivision 2. A lessor must allege and prove proper service of the requisite notice. Absent evidence the requisite notice was properly served pursuant to section 1162, no judgment for possession can be obtained.” (Liebovich v. Shahrokhkhany (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 511, 513 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], internal citations omitted.)
- “Section 1162 does not authorize service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit by mail delivery alone, certified or otherwise. It provides for service by: personal delivery; leaving a copy with a person of suitable age and discretion at the renter’s residence or usual place of business and sending a copy through the mail to the tenant’s residence; or posting and delivery of a copy to a person there residing, if one can be found, and sending a copy through the mail. Strict compliance with the statute is required.” (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 516, original italics, internal citations omitted.)
- “In the cases discussed ... , a finding of proper service turned on a party’s acknowledgment or admission the notice in question was in fact received. In the present case, defendant denied, in his answer and at trial, that he had ever received the three-day notice. Because there was no admission of receipt in this case, service by certified mail did not establish or amount to personal delivery. Further, there was no evidence of compliance with any of the three methods of service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit provided in [Code of Civil Procedure] section 1162. Therefore, the judgment must be reversed.” (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 518.)

- “[Code of Civil Procedure section 1162 specifies] three ways in which service of the three-day notice may be effected on a residential tenant: As explained in Liebovich, supra, . . . , ‘[w]hen the fact of service is contested, compliance with one of these methods must be shown or the judgment must be reversed.’ ” (Palm Property Investments, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

4541. Contractor’s Damages for Breach of Construction Contract—Change Orders/Extra Work—
Total Cost Recovery

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] breached the parties’ contract by increasing or changing the scope of the [project/describe construction project, e.g., apartment building] beyond what was required by the contract. [Name of plaintiff], therefore, seeks to recover the total cost of all of [his/her/its] work on the [project/e.g., apartment building].

In order to recover the total cost of all of [his/her/its] work, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That the scope of work under the original contract had been altered by the changes so much that the final project was significantly different from the original project;
- 2. That because of the scope of the changes, it is not practical to prove the actual additional costs caused by each change demanded by [name of defendant];
- 3. That [name of plaintiff]’s original bid that was accepted by [name of defendant] was reasonable;
- 4. That [name of plaintiff]’s actual costs were reasonable; and
- 5. That [name of plaintiff] was not responsible for incurring the additional costs.

If you find that [name of plaintiff] has established all of the above, determine [name of plaintiff]’s damages by subtracting the contract price from the total cost of [name of plaintiff]’s performance of the work.

New December 2010

Directions for Use

This instruction should be used in an action by the contractor against the owner if the contractor claims that changes demanded by the owner were such that damages must be measured by computing the total cost to the contractor to complete the contract minus the contract price. (Cf. CACI No. 4540, Contractor’s Damages for Breach of Construction Contract—Change Orders/Extra Work.) The difference is then considered to be the costs associated with all of the changes. For an instruction on quantum meruit recovery under the related but different theory of contract abandonment, see CACI No. 4542, Contractor’s Damages for Abandoned Construction Contract—Quantum Meruit Recovery.

For additional instructions on contract damages generally, see CACI No. 350 et seq. in the Contracts series.

- ~~This [total-cost recovery] method may be used only after the trial court determines the following can be shown: (1) it is impractical for the contractor to prove actual losses directly; (2) the contractor’s bid was reasonable; (3) its actual costs were reasonable; and (4) it was not responsible for the added costs.~~ “If some of the contractor’s costs were unreasonable or caused by its own errors or omissions, then those costs are subtracted from the damages to arrive at a modified total cost. ‘If prima facie evidence under this test is established, the trier of fact then applies the same test to determine the amount of total cost or modified total cost damages to which the plaintiff is entitled.’ ” (Dillingham-Ray Wilson v. City of Los Angeles (2010) 182 Cal.App.4th 1396, 1408 [106 Cal.Rptr.3d 691], internal citations omitted.)
- “‘The total cost method is not a substitute for proof of causation,’ and ‘should be applied only to the smallest affected portion of the contractual relationship that can be clearly identified.’ As the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit has stated, ‘Clearly, the “actual cost method” is preferred because it provides the court ... with documented underlying expenses, ensuring that the final amount of the equitable adjustment will be just that—equitable—and not a windfall for either the government or the contractor.’ ” (Amelco Electric, supra, 27 Cal.4th at p. 244, internal citations omitted.)
- “We conclude [plaintiff] failed to adduce substantial evidence to warrant instructing the jury on the four-part total cost theory of damages. In particular, [plaintiff] failed to adduce evidence to satisfy at least the fourth element of the four-part test, i.e., that it was not responsible for the added expenses. A corollary of this element of the test is that the contractor must demonstrate the defendant, and not anyone else, is responsible for the additional cost.” (Amelco Electric, supra, 27 Cal.4th at p. 245.)

4543. Contractor's Damages for Breach of Construction Contract—Owner-Caused Delay or Acceleration

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] breached the parties' contract by [delaying/accelerating] [name of plaintiff]'s work, causing [name of plaintiff] harm. If you find that [name of defendant] [delayed/accelerated] the work, you may award damages to [name of plaintiff] for all harm caused by the [delay/acceleration], including the following:

1. Expenditures that [name of plaintiff] made for labor, services, equipment, or materials that [he/she/it] otherwise would not have made but for the [delay/acceleration];
 2. Overhead that [name of plaintiff] otherwise would not have incurred but for the [delay/acceleration]; and
 3. Increase in the cost of labor, services, equipment, or materials already required under the contract that resulted from the [delay/acceleration].

Application of the three-prong test requirement ... , however, is required only where the contractor finishes the work by the original specified contract completion date or earlier.” (*Howard Contracting, Inc. v. 4600. False Claims Act: Whistleblower Protection—Essential Factual Elements (Gov. Code, § 12653)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] [discharged/specify other adverse action] [him/her] because [he/she] acted [in furtherance of a false claims action/to stop a false claim by [name of false claimant]]. A false claims action is a lawsuit against a person or entity that is alleged to have submitted a false claim to a government agency for payment or approval. A false claim is a claim for payment with the intent to defraud the government. In order to establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] was an employee of [name of defendant];
- 2. That [name of false claimant] was alleged to have defrauded the government of money, property, or services by submitting a false or fraudulent claim to the government for payment or approval;
- 3. That [name of plaintiff] [specify acts done in furthering the false claims action or to stop a false claim];
- 4. That [name of plaintiff] acted [in furtherance of a false claims action/to stop a false claim];
- 5. That [name of defendant] [discharged/specify other adverse action] [name of plaintiff];
- 6. That [name of plaintiff]’s acts [in furtherance of a false claims action/to stop a false claim] were a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]’s decision to [discharge/other adverse action] [him/her];
- 7. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
- 8. That [name of defendant]’s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]’s harm.

[An act is “in furtherance of” a false claims action if

[[name of plaintiff] actually filed a false claims action [himself/herself].]

[or]

[someone else filed a false claims action but [name of plaintiff] [specify acts in support of action, e.g., gave a deposition in the action], which resulted in the retaliatory acts.]

[or]

[no false claims action was ever actually filed, but [name of plaintiff] had reasonable suspicions of a false claim, and it was reasonably possible for [name of plaintiff]’s conduct to lead to a false claims action.]

The potential false claims action need not have turned out to be meritorious. [Name of plaintiff] need only show a genuine and reasonable concern that the government was being defrauded.

New December 2012; Revoked June 2013; Restored and Revised December 2013; Renumbered from CACI No. 2440 and Revised June 2015

Directions for Use

The whistleblower protection statute of the False Claims Act (Gov. Code, § 12653) prohibits adverse employment actions against an employee who either (1) takes steps in furtherance of a false claims action or (2) makes efforts to stop a false claim violation. (See Gov. Code, § 12653(a).)

The second sentence of the opening paragraph defines a false claims action in its most common form: a lawsuit against someone who has submitted a false claim for payment. (See Gov. Code, § 12651(a)(1).) This sentence and element 2 may be modified if a different prohibited act is involved. (See Gov. Code, § 12651(a)(2)–(8).)

In element 3, specify the steps that the plaintiff took that are alleged to have led to the adverse action.

The statute reaches a broad range of adverse employment actions short of actual discharge. (See Gov. Code, § 12653(a).) If the case involves an adverse employment action other than termination, specify the action in elements 5 and 6. These elements may also be modified to allege constructive discharge. See CACI No. 2509, “Adverse Employment Action” Explained, and CACI No. 2510, “Constructive Discharge” Explained, for instructions under the Fair Employment and Housing Act that may be adapted for use with this instruction.

Element 6 uses the term “substantial motivating reason” to express both intent and causation between the employee’s actions and the discharge. “Substantial motivating reason” has been held to be the appropriate standard under the Fair Employment and Housing Act to address the possibility of both discriminatory and nondiscriminatory motives. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; CACI No. 2507, “Substantial Motivating Reason” Explained.) Whether the FEHA standard applies to cases under the False Claims Act has not been addressed by the courts.

Give the last part of the instruction if the claim is that the plaintiff was discharged for acting in furtherance of a false claims action.

[T]he plaintiff need only show a genuine and reasonable concern that the government was possibly being defrauded in order to establish that he or she engaged in protected conduct. Any more limiting construction or significant burden would deny whistleblowers the broad protection the CFCA was intended to provide.” (McVeigh, supra, 213 Cal.App.4th at pp. 457–458, original italics.)

investigation, and prosecution of false claims.’ ” (State ex rel. Bartlett v. Miller (2016) 243 Cal.App.4th 1398, 1407 [197 Cal.Rptr.3d 673], footnote and internal citations omitted.)

Directions for Use

Use this instruction for a whistleblower claim under Labor Code section 6310 for employer retaliation for an employee's, or an employee's family member's, complaint or other protected activity about health or safety conditions. Select the appropriate statutorily protected activity in element 2 and summarize it in the introductory paragraph. (See Lab. Code, § 6310(a), (c).)

With regard to the first option in element 2, the complaint must have been made to (1) the Division of Occupational Safety and Health, (2) to another governmental agencies having statutory responsibility for or assisting the division with reference to employee safety or health, (3) to the employer, or (4) to the employee's representative. (Lab. Code, § 6310(a)(1).)

The statute requires that the employee's complaint be "bona fide." (See Lab. Code, § 6310(b).) There appears to be a split of authority as to whether "bona fide" means that there must be an actual health or safety violation or only that the employee have a good-faith belief that there are violations. (See Touchstone Television Productions v. Superior Court (2012) 208 Cal.App.4th 676, 682, fn. 5 [145 Cal.Rptr.3d 766].) The instruction should be modified if the court decides to instruct one way or the other on the meaning of "bona fide."

Note that element 4 uses the term "substantial motivating reason" to express both intent and causation between the employee's protected conduct and the defendant's adverse action. "Substantial motivating reason" has been held to be the appropriate standard under the Fair Employment and Housing Act to address the possibility of both discriminatory and nondiscriminatory motives. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.) Whether the FEHA standard applies under Labor Code section 6310 has not been addressed by the courts. There is authority for a "but for" causation standard instead of "substantial motivating reason." (See Touchstone Television Productions, supra, 208 Cal.App.4th at pp. 681–682.)

Here, it is alleged that [the defendant] discriminated against [the plaintiff] by not renewing her employment contract. To prevail on the claim, she must prove that, but for her complaints about unsafe work conditions, [the defendant] would have renewed the employment contract. Damages, however, are limited to “lost wages and work benefits caused by the acts of the employer.”’ ” (Touchstone Television Productions, supra, 208 Cal.App.4th at pp. 681–682, original italics.)
- “The voicing of a fear about one's safety in the workplace does not necessarily constitute a complaint about unsafe working conditions under Labor Code section 6310. [Plaintiff]’s declaration shows only that she became frightened for her safety as a result of her unfortunate experience ... and expressed her fear to [defendant]; it is not evidence that the ... office where she worked was actually unsafe within the meaning of Labor Code sections 6310 and 6402. Hence, [plaintiff]’s declaration fails to raise a triable issue of fact as to whether she was terminated for complaining to [defendant] about unsafe working conditions in violation of Labor Code section 6310.” (*Muller v. We first note that the Muller court cites no authority for this assertion. It appears to contradict Justice Grodin's pronouncement that ‘... an employee is protected against discharge or discrimination for complaining in good faith about working conditions or practices which he reasonably believes to be unsafe, whether or not there exists at the time of the complaint an OSHA standard or order which is being violated.’ We agree that an employee must be protected against discharge for a good faith complaint about working conditions which he believes to be unsafe.” (*Cabesuella v. Executive Summary

The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions recommends approving for publication the new and revised civil jury instructions and verdict forms prepared by the committee. These revisions bring the instructions up to date with developments in the law over the previous six months.

Recommendation

The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions recommends that the Judicial Council, effective December 16, 2016, approve for publication under rules 2.1050 and 10.58 of the California Rules of Court the civil jury instructions and verdict forms prepared by the committee. On Judicial Council approval, the instructions will be published in the official 2017 edition of the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions.

A table of contents and the proposed new and revised civil jury instructions and verdict forms are attached at pages 13–88. In addition, one hundred eighty-two additional verdict forms that all have the same proposed change, are attached at pages 123–645.

Previous Council Action

At its meeting on July 16, 2003, the Judicial Council adopted what is now rule 10.58 of the California Rules of Court, which established the advisory committee and its charge.¹ At this meeting, the council voted to approve the CACI instructions under what is now rule 2.1050 of the California Rules of Court. Since that time, the committee has complied with both rules by regularly proposing to the council additions and changes to CACI.

This is the 29th release of CACI. The council approved CACI release 28 at its June 2016 meeting.

Rationale for Recommendation

The committee recommends proposed revisions to the following 21 instructions and verdict forms: CACI Nos. 107, 303, VF-400, 706, 710, 2505, 2506, 2540, 3061, 3063, 3064, VF-3030, VF-3031, VF-3033, 3103, 3511, 3706, 3707, 4100, VF-4400, and 5003. The committee further recommends addition of one new instruction: 3935 on prejudgment interest.

Verdict form VF-400 has a proposed change to the Directions for Use that addresses prejudgment interest.² This same change is proposed for 186 other verdict forms, including the four verdict forms listed above (VF-3030, VF-3031, VF-3033, and VF-4400), which include other changes not related to prejudgment interest.

The Judicial Council's Rules and Projects Committee (RUPRO) has also approved changes to 74 additional instructions under a delegation of authority from the council to RUPRO.³

The instructions were revised or added based on comments or suggestions from justices, judges, and attorneys; proposals by staff and committee members; and recent developments in the law. Below is a summary of the more significant additions and changes recommended to the council.

New instruction CACI No. 3935: Prejudgment Interest

Civil Code section 3288 provides:

² See discussion under New instruction: CACI No. 3935: Prejudgment Interest, below.

³ At its October 20, 2006, meeting, the Judicial Council delegated to RUPRO the final authority to approve nonsubstantive technical changes and corrections and minor substantive changes to jury instructions unlikely to create controversy. The council also gave RUPRO the authority to delegate to the jury instructions advisory committees the authority to review and approve nonsubstantive grammatical and typographical corrections and other similar changes to the jury instructions, which RUPRO has done.

Under the implementing guidelines that RUPRO approved on December 14, 2006, which were submitted to the council on February 15, 2007, RUPRO has the final authority to approve (among other things) additional cases and statutes cited in the Sources and Authority and additions or changes to the Directions for Use.

In an action for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract, and in every case of oppression, fraud, or malice, interest may be given, in the discretion of the jury.⁴

The statute creates a right for a jury to award prejudgment interest on noncontract claims, without any further guidance or limitation.

The Task Force on Civil Jury Instructions, the original drafters of the CACI instructions, included the following sentence with many, but not all, noncontract verdict forms:⁵

This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred prior to judgment.

This sentence passed without comment for 10 years. Then in 2014, an attorney committee member questioned the legal significance of the sentence and its helpfulness to users. The committee has been considering what, if anything, to do about it ever since.

There was a general consensus that the sentence provides very little guidance to users. The statute is cited, but no further information or authority on prejudgment interest is provided. There is no help as to how a verdict form may be modified and no explanation of what “specific losses” are within the statute. Also not addressed is just what the jury is supposed to do.

Beyond that consensus, there was little else that the committee agreed on. Proposals ranged from doing nothing until some court says there’s a problem, to adding a prejudgment interest instruction, verdict form, and jury worksheet to compute the award. Numerous drafts were presented; none were approved. But finally, for this release, the committee voted to add an instruction and revise the sentence in the Directions for Use for the verdict forms. The committee did not approve a worksheet.

Over the two-plus years that prejudgment interest has been on its agenda, the committee has confronted the following issues:

1. Who decides that the case is one for which prejudgment interest is available, that is, one for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract? Absent any authority to the contrary, the committee believes that this is a gatekeeper role for the court.

⁴ Civil Code section 3288 is an 1872 statute, never amended or revised.

⁵ The advisory committee has been unable to discern the criteria that the task force used in selecting the verdict forms in which the sentence is included. It is included in most, but not all, common-law torts. It is excluded in most, but not all, statutory claims.

2. On what damages may prejudgment interest be awarded? The California Supreme Court has held that it may not be awarded on noneconomic damages.⁶ And, of course, it may not be awarded on future damages. The committee concludes that, implicitly, prejudgment interest may be awarded only on past economic damages.
3. Can and should interest be compounded? The committee found apparently conflicting authority and no clear answer.⁷
4. What are the respective roles of court and jury with regard to the actual computation of the amount of prejudgment interest to be awarded?

With regard to issue 4, above, the California Supreme Court has said:

Using recognized and established techniques a fact finder can usually compute with fair accuracy the interest on a specific sum of money, or on property subject to specific valuation. Furthermore, the date of loss of the property is usually ascertainable, thus permitting an accurate interest computation.⁸

After numerous failed efforts to draft tools to help the jury with the computation task, a majority of the committee now believes that this language should be treated as suggestive rather than a mandatory delegation of the computation task to the jury. The jury's role should be limited to deciding (1) whether prejudgment interest should be added at all;⁹ and (2) any facts needed to do the computation, such as the initial date of loss. The court, not the jury, should do the actual computation.

It is true that the formula $I=PRT$ —Interest (I) equals Principal (P) times Rate (R) times Time (T)—is superficially simple. P is the amount of past economic damages awarded, and R is the legal rate,¹⁰ but the problem is with T. Each lost paycheck will have a different start date; medical expenses will have been incurred on different dates. The draft worksheet that attempted Westfall* (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 107, 112 [trustee cannot be charged with compound interest unless s/he has been guilty of some positive misconduct or willful violation of duty; in cases of mere negligence, no more than simple interest can properly be added] and *State v. to account for all of the variables was rejected by the majority as too complex to be usable by a jury.

The committee's final decision was not to adopt a firm position on the roles of judge and jury with regard to computation. Rather, the current sentence in the many verdict forms has been revised as follows:

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

The committee could discern no difference between common-law tort claims and claims based on statutes. All are, in the words of Civil Code section 3288, actions "for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract." Therefore, the committee has not only replaced the current prejudgment interest sentence with the new one in the verdict forms that currently include it, but has also added the new sentence to the many noncontract verdict forms that currently do not include it. The result is that 187 verdict forms are affected. VF-400 is included with the new instruction, CACI No. 3935, as an example of the language now included in all 187 verdict forms. Four other verdict forms are proposed for revision for other reasons. The remaining 182 are attached separately at pages 123-645. They all have the same language as VF-400.

CACI No. 710: duties of motorists and pedestrians

A committee member trial judge suggested revising CACI No. 710, currently titled Duties of Care for Pedestrians and Drivers. The instruction currently simply states:

The duty to use reasonable care does not require the same amount of caution from drivers and pedestrians. While both drivers and pedestrians must be aware that motor vehicles can cause serious injuries, drivers must use more care than pedestrians.

The judge noted that the authority supporting the instruction is old, mostly predating comparative fault, and that Vehicle Code section 21950 more specifically and in harmony with comparative fault addresses the duties of pedestrians and drivers in crosswalks. She suggested recasting CACI No. 710 as an instruction on the standards of Vehicle Code section 21950.

The committee agreed that current CACI No. 710 really provides no guidance to the jury in a pedestrian-vehicle accident under comparative fault. Further, there was concern that the jury, based on the instruction, might give the driver all or a larger percentage of fault than would otherwise be warranted. The committee agreed that an instruction under Vehicle Code section 21950 would be of more use to a jury, even though it would apply only to crosswalk accidents.

Proposed revised CACI No. 710 has been retitled Duties of Care for Pedestrians and Drivers in Crosswalk. While it is presented as a revision of the current instruction, it is in reality a new instruction as nothing of the current instruction remains.

CACI No. 2505: Retaliation—Essential Factual Elements

In 2012, an appellate court, in dicta, criticized CACI No. 2505 because it does not have an element requiring retaliatory intent. The court urged the Judicial Council to redraft the instruction and the corresponding special verdict form to clearly state that retaliatory intent is a necessary element of a retaliation claim under the Fair Employment and Housing Act.¹¹

The committee carefully considered the court’s suggestion but declined to add the element. The jury in the case was instructed with the then-standard CACI causation element, that the plaintiff’s engaging in protected activity was a motivating reason for the defendant’s adverse employment actions. The committee believed, and continues to believe, that intent is inherent in motivation. Motivation is a reason why somebody acts in a certain way. One is not motivated to act unintentionally. If the employee’s engaging in activity protected by the FEHA is a substantial motivating reason for an employer’s adverse action, then it is implicit that the employer intended to retaliate.

A recent case provides some significant support for the committee’s view. In Wallace v. County of Stanislaus,¹² the court held that for disability discrimination, “substantial motivating reason” is the only language required to express an intent to discriminate. In so holding, the court stated:

The phrase “because of” [in Gov. Code, § 12940(a)] is ambiguous as to the type or level of intent (i.e., motivation) and the connection between that motivation and the decision to treat the disabled person differently. (Emphasis added.)¹³

While the court in Wallace emphasized that the intent standard for disability discrimination is not the same as for other discrimination,¹⁴ the court’s equation of intent and motivation supports the view of the committee in rejecting the 2012 court’s suggestion to add a separate intent element. The committee proposes adding a citation to Wallace to the Directions for Use where the committee discusses its reasons for rejecting a separate intent element. An excerpt from Wallace has also been added to the Sources and Authority.

CACI No. 2506, Limitation on Remedies—After-Acquired Evidence

A committee member attorney who represents employees in employment law claims proposed revoking CACI No. 2506. If after a discriminatory employment action, the employer discovers a valid nondiscriminatory reason why the employee could have been subjected to the action anyway, there is no complete defense to liability, but damages may be reduced.¹⁵ Despite this aspect, the doctrine has been labeled as an “equitable defense.”¹⁶ The attorney’s position was that because the doctrine is an equitable doctrine, the court, not the jury, must ultimately find the facts that constitute the elements in the instruction; any jury fact finding would only be advisory; and therefore, there should not be a CACI instruction on after-acquired evidence.

The committee was not convinced that the after-acquired–evidence rule is really an equitable doctrine. The committee found it noteworthy that in its most recent opinion on the subject, the California Supreme Court avoided using the equitable label with after-acquired evidence.¹⁷

The committee concluded that CACI No. 2506 should not be revoked, but that the question of whether or not it is an equitable doctrine should be raised in the Directions for Use. The position of the attorney advocating revocation, that the court may take the fact-finding role from the jury, has been presented as a possible result should the doctrine truly prove to be an equitable one.

CACI No. 3103: Neglect—Essential Factual Elements (elder and dependent adult abuse)

The committee’s proposal to revise this instruction generated several lengthy comments from attorneys representing elders and dependent adults. This instruction is discussed in some detail under Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications, below.

CACI No. 3511: Permanent Severance Damages

A trial judge who is a former member of the committee pointed out that no CACI instruction under the Eminent Domain series addresses temporary severance damages. Temporary severance damages compensate for economic loss incurred to the remainder during the period of construction on the property taken in eminent domain.¹⁸ The judge noted that CACI No. 3511, currently entitled Severance Damages, cannot be used without modification for temporary severance damages because element 2 requires that the jury “[d]etermine the fair market value of the remaining property after the . . . proposed project is completed.”

The judge requested that the committee not address temporary severance damages until after her current case in which the need for an instruction arose was final. Further, the committee found that the measure of temporary severance damages was not completely clear from the statutes and cases. Therefore, the possible addition of a new instruction on temporary severance damages has been deferred to the next release cycle. However, the title of CACI No. 3511 is proposed to be changed to Permanent Severance Damages and the Directions for Use to note that the instruction is not for use for temporary severance damages.

But in the course of researching the issue of severance damages, the advisory committee noted that the California Supreme Court has held that it is for the jury to determine the threshold issue of whether the taking has actually caused a permanent loss of market value to the remainder, as long as the claim is not speculative, conjectural, or remote.¹⁹ The current instruction does not expressly give the jury this task. The committee therefore proposes revising the instruction to make it clear that it is for the jury to decide whether there has been a loss of market value to the remainder property.

Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications

The proposed additions and revisions to CACI circulated for comment from July 18 through August 26, 2016. Comments were received from 11 different commentators. Of these, five expressed opposition to any changes to CACI No. 3103. No other instruction or verdict form garnered any significant legal opposition.

The committee evaluated all comments and, as a result, revised some of the instructions. A summary of the comments received and the committee’s responses is attached at pages 89–108. The committee’s responses to the comments received on CACI No. 3103 are set forth below.

CACI No. 3103: Neglect under Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act

On May 19, 2016, the California Supreme Court decided Winn v. Pioneer Medical Group, Inc.,²⁰ which resolved an issue of statutory construction under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act (the Act). The court held that the word “care” in the phrase “care or custody” in Welfare and Institutions Code section 15610.57(a)(1) (defining “neglect”) does not apply to medical care provided by a medical professional to an elder on an outpatient basis. Instead, before there is “care” within the meaning of the Act, there must be “a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship, involving ongoing responsibility for one or more basic needs, with the elder patient.”²¹

CACI No. 3103, Neglect—Essential Factual Elements, is the instruction for claims of neglect under the Act. Element 1 of 3103 currently requires, in the words of the statute, only that the defendant had “care or custody” of the elder or dependent adult. The committee concluded that this language was insufficient in light of Winn. The committee proposed, and posted for public comment, a revision to element 1 that would require the defendant to have “a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship with [plaintiff/decedent], involving ongoing responsibility for [his/her] basic needs.” As can be seen from the paragraph above, the revised language was taken directly from the holding of the court in Winn.

The committee received seven comments on this proposed revision to CACI No. 3103. Five of these comments argued that nothing in the Winn case compelled any changes to the instruction and that the instruction should be left as is.²² The committee has carefully considered the views of the objecting commentators, but continues to believe that Winn requires that element 1 be revised.

One of the objectors’ principal arguments is that the Winn decision did nothing to change the Elder Abuse Act or its application, and therefore no changes should be made to the instruction.²³ The objectors would characterize Winn as a narrow holding: that in the context of outpatient medical treatment, in order to be held liable under the Act, it must be established that a health care provider has a caretaking or custodial relationship with the elder or dependent adult.²⁴

The committee agrees that this language accurately describes the holding of Winn, but the committee does not view it as “narrow.” The court’s objective was to construe the statutory phrase “care or custody,” which is the language of the current instruction. In Winn, the court found this language to be unclear and amenable to different constructions.²⁵ The court then elaborated on what the language means. Leaving “care or custody” in a jury instruction without the addition of the court’s guidance would deny a jury the court’s clarification of the meaning of the phrase. Therefore, the committee believes that element 1 cannot be left as is.

The objectors point out that two earlier California Supreme Court cases have established that the Act may not be used to state a claim for medical malpractice.²⁶ While this is true, the import of Winn is to make it abundantly clear that medical professionals will not be liable for elder abuse, regardless of the setting, unless there is the requisite caretaking or custodial relationship.²⁷

²² The five objecting commentators are the Consumer Attorneys of California (CAOC); Sanford I. Horowitz, Attorney at Law, Santa Rosa; California Advocates for Nursing Home Reform (CANHR), by Peter G. Lomhoff, Attorney at Law, Oakland; Jody C. Moore, Johnson Moore Attorneys at Law, Thousand Oaks, and the Valentine Law Group, Attorneys at Law, Mission Viejo, by Kimberly A. Valentine. Their letters are attached at pages 108–121. Two of the commentators, Russell S. Balisok, Attorney at Law, Glendale, and the State Bar Litigation Section Jury Instructions Committee, did not object to revising element 1, but suggested additional or different revisions. These two comments are addressed in the attached comment summary.

The objectors also argue that “the proposed changes do not accurately state the law, and in fact attempt to expand a narrow judicial finding to apply to all cases involving the neglect of an elder or dependent adult.”²⁸ But the committee disagrees with this characterization of Winn.

First, as the language for revised element 1 comes directly from the Winn holding, the committee is confident that it has accurately stated the law. Further, it is clear from the opinion that the court in Winn is not narrowly limiting its holding to medical care provided to an elder or dependent adult in an outpatient setting. The court clearly holds that “[i]t is the nature of the elder or dependent adult’s relationship with the defendant—not the defendant’s professional standing—that makes the defendant potentially liable for neglect.”²⁹ Therefore, the requirement of a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship is not limited to outpatient medical care, but applies in any elder or dependent adult neglect case.³⁰

Next, the objectors argue that “the language used is hopelessly vague and ambiguous, and as such renders the proposed instruction unusable.”³¹ The committee does not find any of the language from Winn that has been incorporated into element 1 to be vague or ambiguous, nor does the committee fear that the instruction will be unusable.

The objectors first challenge the word “substantial” as used in Winn to require a “substantial caretaking or custodial relationship.”³² They point to CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor, as evidence that the word “substantial” requires a particular definition. The committee does not share this concern. It finds the word “substantial” to have a clearly understood meaning in its ordinary everyday context. In contrast, the “substantial factor” test for causation is a very particularized and complex area of the law, which does require further elaboration. But determining whether a relationship is substantial or not is a task well within the grasp of jurors without further definition. The court in Winn felt no need to elaborate on the scope of a “substantial” relationship, and neither does the committee.

Next, the objectors challenge the word “ongoing” as used in Winn to require “ongoing responsibility for one or more basic needs.”³³ They claim that “[t]he use of this term implies a relationship with defendant that is never ending, and will do nothing but confuse jurors as to

²⁹ Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at pp. 152, 158.

³⁰ Any significance of a narrow construction is hard to understand. In more conventional situations involving neglect under the Act, such as in a nursing home, or by a relative, or with an employee in-home caretaker, there is no question but that there is a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship. Only in the more limited relationships involving medical professionals might the custodial nature of the relationship be at issue. Indeed the letter from the CANHR notes that “there is unambiguously care and custody as with an in-patient in a hospital or a resident in a nursing home or assisted living facility.”

what constitutes care or custody.”³⁴ Again, the court in Winn saw no need to further refine or avoid the term “ongoing,” and neither does the committee. The committee is confident that jurors will understand that an “ongoing” responsibility is one that occurs over a period of time. The committee has no fear that a jury will require the responsibilities to be never-ending.

Next, in the context of arguing that the proposed language misstates the law, the objectors challenge the meaning of “basic needs.” They note that in Winn, the court elaborates on what constitutes “basic needs” with the explanation that they are those things “that an able-bodied and fully competent adult would ordinarily be capable of managing without assistance.”³⁵ The objectors do not argue that this language should be added to the instruction; rather they assert it as evidence that the instruction does not reflect an accurate statement of the law. While the committee does not view the omission of this language as indicative of legal error, it does find value in this additional explanation of “basic needs” and has added it to element 1.³⁶

Finally, the objectors propose a change to proposed revisions to the Directions for Use that present the holding in Winn. The paragraph as proposed to be revised states:

[T]he Act does not extend to cases involving professional negligence against health-care providers as defined by the California Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act of 1975 (MICRA) unless the professional had a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship with the elder patient, involving ongoing responsibility for one or more basic needs. (Winn v. Pioneer Medical Group, Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 148, 152 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 447, 370 P.3d 1011].)

The objectors would limit the scope of this exclusion by adding an introductory clause: “In the case of a health care provider delivering care on an outpatient basis who fails to refer an elder or dependent adult/patient to a specialist,” As noted above, the committee does not read Winn as narrowly limited to its facts.

No alternatives considered

Rule 2.1050 of the California Rules of Court requires the committee to update, amend, and add topics to CACI on a regular basis and to submit its recommendations to the council for approval. Proposed new and revised instructions are presented semiannually to ensure that the instructions remain clear, accurate, current, and complete; therefore, the advisory committee did not consider any alternative actions.

³⁶ Commentator Balisok suggested labeling the factors to be considered as evidence of neglect in element 3 of the instruction as “basic needs.” The committee finds this to be a good suggestion and has made this revision.

107. Witnesses

A witness is a person who has knowledge related to this case. You will have to decide whether you believe each witness and how important each witness's testimony is to the case. You may believe all, part, or none of a witness's testimony.

In deciding whether to believe a witness's testimony, you may consider, among other factors, the following:

- (a) How well did the witness see, hear, or otherwise sense what he or she described in court?
- (b) How well did the witness remember and describe what happened?
- (c) How did the witness look, act, and speak while testifying?
- (d) Did the witness have any reason to say something that was not true? For example, did the witness show any bias or prejudice or have a personal relationship with any of the parties involved in the case or have a personal stake in how this case is decided?
- (e) What was the witness's attitude toward this case or about giving testimony?

Sometimes a witness may say something that is not consistent with something else he or she said. Sometimes different witnesses will give different versions of what happened. People often forget things or make mistakes in what they remember. Also, two people may see the same event but remember it differently. You may consider these differences, but do not decide that testimony is untrue just because it differs from other testimony.

However, if you decide that a witness ~~did not tell the truth~~~~has deliberately testified untruthfully~~ about something important, you may choose not to believe anything that witness said. On the other hand, if you think the witness ~~did not tell the truth~~~~testified untruthfully~~ about some things but told the truth about others, you may accept the part you think is true and ignore the rest.

Do not make any decision simply because there were more witnesses on one side than on the other. If you believe it is true, the testimony of a single witness is enough to prove a fact.

Directions for Use

Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 300, Breach of Contract—Introduction.

Optional elements 2 and 3 both involve conditions precedent. A “condition precedent” is either an act of a party that must be performed or an uncertain event that must happen before the contractual right accrues or the contractual duty arises. (Stephens & Stephens XII, LLC v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 1131, 1147 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 683].) Element 2 involves the first kind of condition precedent; an act that must be performed by one party before the other is required to perform. Include the second option if the plaintiff alleges that he or she was excused from having to perform some or all of the contractual conditions.

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL

Not every breach of contract by the plaintiff will relieve the defendant of the obligation to perform. The breach must be material; element 2 captures materiality by requiring that the plaintiff have done the significant things that the contract required. Also, the two obligations must be dependent, meaning that the parties specifically bargained that the failure to perform the one relieves the obligation to perform the other. While materiality is generally a question of fact, whether covenants are dependent or independent is a matter of construing the agreement. (Brown v. Grimes (2011) 192 Cal.App.4th 265, 277–279 [120 Cal.Rptr.3d 893].) If there is no extrinsic evidence in aid of construction, the question is one of law for the court. (Verdier v. Verdier (1955) 133 Cal.App.2d 325, 333 [284 P.2d 94].) Therefore, element 2 should not be given unless the court has determined that dependent obligations are involved. If parol evidence is required and a dispute of facts is presented, additional instructions on the disputed facts will be necessary. (See City of Hope National Medical Center v. Genentech, Inc. (2008) 43 Cal.4th 375, 395 [75 Cal.Rptr.3d 333, 181 P.3d 142].)

Element 3 involves the second kind of condition precedent; an uncertain event that must happen before contractual duties are triggered. Include the second option if the plaintiff alleges that the defendant agreed to perform even though a condition did not occur. For reasons that the occurrence of a condition may have been excused, see the Restatement Second of Contracts, section 225, Comment b. See also CACI No. 321, Existence of Condition Precedent Disputed, CACI No. 322, Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent, and CACI No. 323, Waiver of Condition Precedent.

Element 6 states the test for causation in a breach of contract action: whether the breach was a substantial factor in causing the damages. (US Ecology, Inc. v. State of California (2005) 129 Cal.App.4th 887, 909 [28 Cal.Rptr.3d 894].) In the context of breach of contract, it has been said that the term “substantial factor” has no precise definition, but is something that is more than a slight, trivial, negligible, or theoretical factor in producing a particular result. (Haley v. Casa Del Rey Homeowners Assn. (2007) 153 Cal.App.4th 863, 871–872 [63 Cal.Rptr.3d 514]; see CACI No. 430, Causation—Substantial Factor, applicable to negligence actions.)

Equitable remedies are also available for breach. “As a general proposition, ‘[t]he jury trial is a matter of right in a civil action at law, but not in equity. [Citations.]’ ” (C & K Engineering Contractors v. Amber Steel Co., Inc. (1978) 23 Cal.3d 1, 8 [151 Cal.Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136]; Selby Constructors v. McCarthy (1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 517, 524 [154 Cal.Rptr. 164].) However, juries may render advisory verdicts on these issues. (Raedeke v. Gibraltar Savings & Loan Assn. (1974) 10 Cal.3d 665, 670–671 [111 Cal.Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157].)

706. Basic Speed Law (Veh. Code, § 22350)

A person must drive at a reasonable speed. Whether a particular speed is reasonable depends on the circumstances such as traffic, weather, visibility, and road conditions. Drivers must not drive so fast that they create a danger to people or property.

If [name of plaintiff/defendant] has proved that [name of defendant/plaintiff] was not driving at a reasonable speed at the time of the accident, then [name of defendant/plaintiff] was negligent.

New September 2003; Revised December 2016

Directions for Use

Driving at an unreasonable speed is negligence per se (see Hert v. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. (1935) 4 Cal.App.2d 598, 599 [41 P.2d 369]), which establishes the first element of CACI No. 400, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements. Plaintiff must still prove the other two elements of harm and causation. (See CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor.)

710. Duties of Care for Pedestrians and Drivers in Crosswalk (Veh. Code, § 21950)

~~The duty to use reasonable care does not require the same amount of caution from drivers and pedestrians. While both drivers and pedestrians must be aware that motor vehicles can cause serious injuries, drivers must use more care than pedestrians.~~

A driver of a vehicle must yield the right-of-way to a pedestrian who is crossing the roadway within any marked crosswalk or within any unmarked crosswalk at an intersection. When approaching a pedestrian who is within any marked or unmarked crosswalk, a driver must use reasonable care and must reduce his or her speed or take any other action necessary to ensure the safety of the pedestrian.

A pedestrian must also use reasonable care for his or her own safety. A pedestrian may not suddenly leave a curb or other place of safety and walk or run into the path of a vehicle that is so close as to constitute an immediate hazard. A pedestrian also must not unnecessarily stop or delay traffic while in a marked or unmarked crosswalk.

The failure of a pedestrian to exercise reasonable care does not relieve a driver of a vehicle from the duty of exercising reasonable care for the safety of any pedestrian within any marked crosswalk or within any unmarked crosswalk at an intersection.

Directions for Use

This instruction sets forth the respective duties of drivers and pedestrians in a crosswalk. (See Veh. Code, § 21950.) Crosswalk accidents often present a comparative negligence analysis based on the statutory duties of both parties.

- “When the pedestrian suddenly leaves his place of safety, the vehicle must be so close as to constitute an immediate hazard. Such wording [in Veh. Code, § 21950] indicates the statute was intended to apply to those situations where a pedestrian unexpectedly asserts his right-of-way in an intersection at a time when the vehicle is so close that it is virtually impossible to avoid an accident. Typical situations include when a pedestrian steps, jumps, walks or runs directly in front of a vehicle travelling in lanes which are adjacent to the curb or other place of safety occupied by the pedestrian. Under such circumstances, the vehicle would most certainly constitute an immediate hazard to the pedestrian.” (*Spann v. - “It is undisputed that defendant did not yield the right of way to plaintiff. - “When, as here, each motorist has acted reasonably and the pedestrian has failed to exercise due care for her own safety, the law of this state does not permit the technical violation of the pedestrian's right of way statute to impose negligence on the motorists as a matter of law. The statute creates a preferential, but not absolute, right in favor of the pedestrian who is still under a duty to exercise ordinary care.” (Byrne v. City and County of San Francisco (1980) 113 Cal.App.3d 731, 742 [170 Cal.Rptr. 302], internal citation omitted.)

- “While it is the duty of both the driver of a motor vehicle and a pedestrian, using a public roadway, to exercise ordinary care, that duty does not require necessarily the same amount of caution from each. The driver of a motor vehicle, when ordinarily careful, will be alertly conscious of the fact that he is in charge of a machine capable of projecting into serious consequences any negligence of his own. Thus his caution must be adequate to that responsibility as related to all the surrounding circumstances. A pedestrian, on the other hand, has only his own physical body to manage and with which to set in motion a cause of injury. While, usually, that fact limits his capacity to cause injury, as compared with a vehicle driver, still, in exercising ordinary care, he, too, will be alertly conscious of the mechanical power acting, or that may act, on the public roadway, and of the possible, serious consequences from any conflict between himself and such forces. And the caution required of him is measured by the possibilities of injury apparent to him in the conditions at hand, or that would be apparent to a person of ordinary prudence in the same position” Failure to give an instruction upon request on the relative duties of the driver and the pedestrian has been held to be error. (Cucinella v. Weston Biscuit Co. (1954) 42 Cal.2d 71, 75–76, 81 [265 P.2d 513] [proposed jury instruction correctly stated the law error not prejudicial in this case].)
- ~~In Dawson v. Lalanne (1937) 22 Cal.App.2d 314, 315 [70 P.2d 1002], the court held it was error to refuse to instruct the jury that “the plaintiff and the defendant were both chargeable only with the exercise of ordinary care, but a greater amount of such care was required of the defendant at the time of the accident in question by reason of the fact that he was driving and operating an automobile, which is an instrumentality capable of inflicting serious and often fatal injuries upon others using the highway.”~~
- ~~The purpose of instructions concerning the relative standards of care for pedestrians and drivers is “to inform the jury that the elements of action constituting conduct which qualifies as ordinary care are those commensurable with the responsibility involved and depend upon the character of the instrumentality being used or the nature of the act which is being performed, all as related to the surrounding circumstances.”~~ (Cucinella, supra, 42 Cal.2d at p. 80.)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] retaliated against [him/her] for [describe activity protected by the FEHA]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] [describe protected activity];
 2. [That [name of defendant] [discharged/demoted/[specify other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];

 5. That [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/demote/[specify other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff] was a substantial factor in causing [him/her] harm.

[[Name of plaintiff] does not have to prove [discrimination/harassment] in order to be protected from retaliation. If [he/she] reasonably believed that [name of defendant]'s conduct was unlawful/requested a [disability/religious] accommodation, [he/she] may prevail on a retaliation claim even if [he/she] does not present, or prevail on, a separate claim for [discrimination/harassment/[other]].]

New September 2003; Revised August 2007, April 2008, October 2008, April 2009, June 2010, June 2012, December 2012, June 2013, June 2014, June 2016, December 2016

Directions for Use

In elements 1 and 3, describe the protected activity in question. Government Code section 12940(h) provides that it is unlawful to retaliate against a person “because the person has opposed any practices forbidden under [Government Code sections 12900 through 12966] or because the person has filed a complaint, testified, or assisted in any proceeding under [the FEHA].” It is also unlawful to retaliate or otherwise discriminate against a person for requesting an accommodation for religious practice or disability, regardless of whether the request was granted. (Gov. Code, § 12940(l)(4) [religious practice], (m)(2) [disability].)

Read the first option for element 2 if there is no dispute as to whether the employer's acts constituted an adverse employment action. Read the second option and also give CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained, if whether there was an adverse employment action is a question of fact for the jury. For example, the case may involve a pattern of employer harassment consisting of acts that might not individually be sufficient to constitute retaliation, but taken as a whole establish prohibited conduct. (See Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal.4th 1028, 1052–1056 [32 Cal.Rptr.3d 436, 116 P.3d 1123].) Give both the first and second options if the employee presents evidence supporting liability under both a sufficient-single-act theory or a pattern-of-harassment theory. (See, e.g., Wysinger v. Automobile Club of Southern California (2007) 157 Cal.App.4th 413, 423–424 [69 Cal.Rptr.3d 1].) Also select "conduct" in element 3 if the second option or both the first and second options are included for element 2.

Retaliation in violation of the FEHA may be established by constructive discharge; that is, that the employer intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions to exist that were so intolerable that a reasonable person in the employee's position would have had no reasonable alternative other than to resign. (See Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Bd. (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 1241, 1253 [76 Cal.Rptr.3d 632].) If constructive discharge is alleged, give the third option for element 2 and also give CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained. Also select "conduct" in element 3 if the third option is included for element 2.

Element 3 requires that the protected activity be a substantial motivating reason for the retaliatory acts. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; Alamo v. Practice Management Information Corp. (2013) 219 Cal.App.4th 466, 479 [161 Cal.Rptr.3d 758]; see also CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.)

Note that there are two causation elements. There must be a causal link between the retaliatory animus and the adverse action (see element 3), and there must be a causal link between the adverse action and damages (see element 5). (See Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal.App.4th 686, 713 [81 Cal.Rptr.3d 406].)

This instruction has been criticized in dictum because it is alleged that there is no element requiring retaliatory intent. (See Joaquin v. City of Los Angeles (2012) 202 Cal.App.4th 1207, 1229–1231 [136 Cal.Rptr.3d 472].) The court urged the Judicial Council to redraft the instruction and the corresponding special verdict form so as to clearly state that retaliatory intent is a necessary element of a retaliation claim under FEHA.

–The jury in the case was instructed per element 3 “that Richard Joaquin's reporting that he had been sexually harassed was a motivating reason for the City of Los Angeles' decision to terminate Richard Joaquin's employment or deny Richard Joaquin promotion to the rank of sergeant.”–The committee believes that the instruction as given is correct for the intent element in a retaliation case. (Cf. Wallace v. County of Stanislaus (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 109, 127–132 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 462] [for disability discrimination, “substantial motivating reason” is only language required to express intent].) However, in cases such as Joaquin that involve allegations of a prohibited motivating reason (based on a report of sexual harassment) and a permitted motivating reason (based on a good faith belief that the report was falsified), the instruction may need to be modified to make it clear that plaintiff must prove that defendant acted based on the prohibited motivating reason and not the permitted motivating reason.

Once an employee establishes a prima facie case, the employer is required to offer a legitimate, nonretaliatory reason for the adverse employment action. If the employer produces a legitimate reason for the adverse employment action, the presumption of retaliation ‘ ‘ ‘drops out of the picture,’ ’ ’ and the burden shifts back to the employee to prove intentional retaliation.” (Yanowitz, supra, 36 Cal.4th at p. 1042, internal citations omitted.)
- “Actions for retaliation are ‘inherently fact-driven’; it is the jury, not the court, that is charged with determining the facts.” (McCoy v. Pacific Maritime Assn. (2013) 216 Cal.App.4th 283, 299 [156 Cal.Rptr.3d 851].)

California Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd.* (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 1475, 1492 [102 Cal.Rptr.3d 431].)
- “Retaliation claims are inherently fact-specific, and the impact of an employer’s action in a particular case must be evaluated in context. Accordingly, although an adverse employment action must materially affect the terms, conditions, or privileges of employment to be actionable, the determination of whether a particular action or course of conduct rises to the level of actionable conduct should take into account the unique circumstances of the affected employee as well as the workplace context of the claim.” (Yanowitz, supra, 36 Cal.4th at p. 1052.)
- “Contrary to [defendant]’s assertion that it is improper to consider collectively the alleged retaliatory acts, there is no requirement that an employer’s retaliatory acts constitute one swift blow, rather than a series of subtle, yet damaging, injuries. Enforcing a requirement that each act separately constitute an adverse employment action would subvert the purpose and intent of the statute.” (Yanowitz, supra, 36 Cal.4th at pp. 1055–1056, internal citations omitted.)

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL

- “Clearly, section 12940, subdivision (h) encompasses a broad range of protected activity. An employee need not use specific legal terms or buzzwords in opposing discrimination. Nor is it necessary for an employee to file a formal charge. The protected activity element may be established by evidence that the plaintiff threatened to file a discrimination charge, by a showing that the plaintiff mistakenly, but reasonably and sincerely believed he was opposing discrimination, or by evidence an employer believed the plaintiff was a potential witness in another employee's FEHA action.” (Rope v. Auto-Chlor System of Washington, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 635, 652 [163 Cal.Rptr.3d 392], internal citations and footnote omitted.)
- “Moreover, [defendant]’s actions had a substantial and material impact on the conditions of employment. The refusal to promote [plaintiff] is an adverse employment action under FEHA. There was also a pattern of conduct, the totality of which constitutes an adverse employment action. This includes undeserved negative job reviews, reductions in his staff, ignoring his health concerns and acts which caused him substantial psychological harm.” (Wysinger, supra, 157 Cal.App.4th at p. 424, internal citations omitted.)
- “A long period between an employer’s adverse employment action and the employee’s earlier protected activity may lead to the inference that the two events are not causally connected. But if between these events the employer engages in a pattern of conduct consistent with a retaliatory intent, there may be a causal connection.” (Wysinger, supra, 157 Cal.App.4th at p. 421, internal citation omitted.)
- “Both direct and circumstantial evidence can be used to show an employer’s intent to retaliate. ‘Direct evidence of retaliation may consist of remarks made by decisionmakers displaying a retaliatory motive.’ Circumstantial evidence typically relates to such factors as the plaintiff’s job performance, the timing of events, and how the plaintiff was treated in comparison to other workers.” (Colarossi v. Coty US Inc. (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 1142, 1153 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 131], internal citations omitted.)
- “The retaliatory motive is ‘proved by showing that plaintiff engaged in protected activities, that his employer was aware of the protected activities, and that the adverse action followed within a relatively short time thereafter.’ ‘The causal link may be established by an inference derived from circumstantial evidence, “such as the employer’s knowledge that the [employee] engaged in protected activities and the proximity in time between the protected action and allegedly retaliatory employment decision.” ’ ” (*Fisher v. - “[A]n employer may be found to have engaged in an adverse employment action, and thus liable for retaliation under section 12940(h), ‘by permitting ... fellow employees to punish [him] for invoking [his] rights.’ We therefore hold that an employer may be held liable for coworker retaliatory conduct if the employer knew or should have known of coworker retaliatory conduct and either participated and encouraged the conduct, or failed to take reasonable actions to end the retaliatory conduct.” (Kelley v. The Conco Cos. (2011) 196 Cal.App.4th 191, 213 [126 Cal.Rptr.3d 651], internal citation omitted.)
- “[T]he employer is liable for retaliation under section 12940, subdivision (h), but nonemployer individuals are not personally liable for their role in that retaliation.” (Jones v. The Lodge at Torrey Pines Partnership (2008) 42 Cal.4th 1158, 1173 [72 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 177 P.3d 232].)
- “[U]nder certain circumstances, a retaliation claim may be brought by an employee who has complained of or opposed conduct, even when a court or jury subsequently determines the conduct actually was not prohibited by the FEHA. Indeed, this precept is well settled. An employee is protected against retaliation if the employee reasonably and in good faith believed that what he or she was opposing constituted unlawful employer conduct such as sexual harassment or sexual discrimination.” (Miller v. Department of Corr. (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 473–474 [30 Cal.Rptr.3d 797, 115 P.3d 77], internal citations omitted.)
- “ ‘The legislative purpose underlying FEHA's prohibition against retaliation is to prevent employers from deterring employees from asserting good faith discrimination complaints’ Employer retaliation against employees who are believed to be prospective complainants or witnesses for complainants undermines this legislative purpose just as effectively as retaliation after the filing of a complaint. To limit FEHA in such a way would be to condone ‘an absurd result’ that is contrary to legislative intent. We agree with the trial court that FEHA protects employees against preemptive retaliation by the employer.” (Steele, supra, 162 Cal.App.4th at p. 1255, internal citations omitted.)
- “ ‘The plaintiff's burden is to prove, by competent evidence, that the employer's proffered justification is mere pretext; i.e., that the presumptively valid reason for the employer's action was in fact a coverup. ... In responding to the employer's showing of a legitimate reason for the complained-of action, the plaintiff cannot “ ‘simply show the employer's decision was wrong, mistaken, or unwise. Rather, the employee ‘ ‘must demonstrate such weaknesses, implausibilities, inconsistencies, incoherencies, or contradictions in the employer's proffered legitimate reasons for its action that a reasonable factfinder could rationally find them “unworthy of credence,” ... and hence infer “that the employer did not act for the [asserted] non-discriminatory reasons.” ’ ’ ’ ’ ” (Jumaane v. City of Los Angeles (2015) 241 Cal.App.4th 1390, 1409 [194 Cal.Rptr.3d 689].)
- “Government Code section 12940, subdivision (h), does not shield an employee against termination or lesser discipline for either lying or withholding information during an employer's internal investigation of a discrimination claim. In other words, public policy does not protect deceptive activity during an internal investigation. Such conduct is a legitimate reason to terminate an at-will employee.” (McGrory v. Applied Signal Technology, Inc. (2013) 212 Cal.App.4th 1510, 1528 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 154], footnotes omitted.)

to find unlawful retaliation.” (McCoy, supra, 216 Cal.App.4th at p. 301.)

- “The phrase ‘because of’ [in Gov. Code, § 12940(a)] is ambiguous as to the type or level of intent (i.e., motivation) and the connection between that motivation and the decision to treat the disabled person differently. This ambiguity is closely related to [defendant]’s argument that it is liable only if motivated by discriminatory animus. [¶] The statutory ambiguity in the phrase ‘because of’² was resolved by our Supreme Court about six months after the first jury trial [in Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 203].” (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 127.)

2506. Limitation on Remedies—After-Acquired Evidence

[Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/it] would have discharged [name of plaintiff] anyway if [he/she/it] had known that [name of plaintiff] [describe misconduct]. You must decide whether [name of defendant] has proved all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] [describe misconduct];
 2. That [name of plaintiff]’s misconduct was sufficiently severe that [name of defendant] would have discharged [him/her] because of that misconduct alone had [name of defendant] known of it; and
 3. That [name of defendant] would have discharged [name of plaintiff] for [his/her] misconduct as a matter of settled company policy.

Directions for Use

~~The doctrine of after-acquired evidence refers to an employer's discovery, after an allegedly wrongful termination of employment or refusal to hire, of information that would have justified a lawful termination or refusal to hire. (Salas v. Sierra Chemical Co. (2014) 59 Cal.4th 407, 428 [173 Cal.Rptr.3d 689, 327 P.3d 797].) The after-acquired-evidence doctrine is an equitable defense that is determined by the court based on the facts of the case.~~

~~There is some uncertainty as to whether or not it is an equitable doctrine. (Compare Thompson v. Tracor Flight Systems, Inc. (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 1156, 1173 [104 Cal.Rptr.2d 95] [doctrine is the basis for an equitable defense related to the traditional defense of “unclean hands,” italics added] with Salas, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 428 [omitting “equitable”].) If it is an equitable doctrine, then the fact finding in the elements of the instruction would be only advisory to the court, or the elements could be found by the court itself as the trier of fact. (See Thompson, supra, 86 Cal.App.4th at p. 1173; see also Hoopes v. Dolan (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 146, 156 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 337] [jury’s factual findings are purely advisory because, on equitable causes of action, the judge is the proper fact finder].) This instruction assists the judge if the facts are in dispute. (See, e.g., Thompson v. Tracor Flight Systems, Inc. (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 1156, 1173 [104 Cal.Rptr.2d 95].)~~

~~-After-acquired evidence is not a complete defense to liability, but may foreclose otherwise available remedies. (Salas, supra, v. Sierra Chemical Co. (2014) 59 Cal.4th at pp. 407, 430–431 [173 Cal.Rptr.3d 689, 327 P.3d 797].) It is not clear if there is a role for the jury in deciding what remedies are available.~~

After-acquired evidence cases must be distinguished from mixed motive cases in which the employer at the time of the employment action has two or more motives, at least one of which is unlawful. (See Salas supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 430; CACI No. 2512, Limitation on Remedies—Same Decision.)

- “In general, the after-acquired-evidence doctrine shields an employer from liability or limits available relief where, after a termination, the employer learns for the first time about employee wrongdoing that would have led to the discharge in any event. Employee wrongdoing in after-acquired-evidence cases generally falls into one of two categories: (1) misrepresentations on a resume or job application; or (2) posthire, on-the-job misconduct.” (Camp v. Jeffer, Mangels, Butler & Marmaro (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 620, 632 [41 Cal.Rptr.2d 329].)
- “The after-acquired-evidence doctrine serves as a complete or partial defense to an employee’s claim of wrongful discharge ... To invoke this doctrine, ‘... the employer must establish “that the wrongdoing was of such severity that the employee in fact would have been terminated on those grounds alone if the employer had known of it” ... [T]he employer ... must show that such a firing would have taken place as a matter of “settled” company policy.’ ” (Murillo v. Rite Stuff Foods, Inc. (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 833, 842, 845-846 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 12], internal citations omitted.)
- “Where an employer seeks to rely upon after-acquired evidence of wrongdoing, it must first establish that the wrongdoing was of such severity that the employee in fact would have been terminated on those grounds alone if the employer had known of it at the time of the discharge.” (McKennon v. Nashville Banner Publishing Co. (1995) 513 U.S. 352, 362-363 [115 S.Ct. 879, 130 L.Ed.2d 852].)
- “Courts must tread carefully in applying the after-acquired-evidence doctrine to discrimination claims Where, as here, the discriminatory conduct was pervasive during the term of employment, therefore, it would not be sound public policy to bar recovery for injuries suffered while employed. In applying the after-acquired-evidence doctrine, the equities between employer and employee can be balanced by barring all portions of the employment discrimination claim tied to the employee’s discharge.” (Murillo, supra, 65 Cal.App.4th at pp. 849–850.)
- “As the Supreme Court recognized in McKennon, the use of after-acquired evidence must ‘take due account of the lawful prerogatives of the employer in the usual course of its business and the corresponding equities that it has arising from the employee’s wrongdoing.’ We appreciate that the facts in McKennon ... presented a situation where balancing the equities should permit a finding of employer liability-to reinforce the importance of antidiscrimination laws-while limiting an employee’s damages-to take account of an employer’s business prerogatives. However, the equities compel a different result where an employee who is disqualified from employment by government-imposed requirements nevertheless obtains a job by misrepresenting the pertinent qualifications. In such a situation, the employee should have no recourse for an alleged wrongful termination of employment.” (Camp, supra, 35 Cal.App.4th at pp. 637-638, internal citation omitted.)
- “We decline to adopt a blanket rule that material falsification of an employment application is a complete defense to a claim that the employer, while still unaware of the falsification, terminated the employment in violation of the employee’s legal rights.” (Cooper v. Rykoff-Sexton, Inc. (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 614, 617 [29 Cal.Rptr.2d 642].)
- “The doctrine [of after-acquired evidence] is the basis for an equitable defense related to the traditional defense of ‘unclean hands’ ... [¶] In the present case, there were conflicts in the evidence concerning respondent's actions, her motivations, and the possible consequences of her actions within appellant's disciplinary system. The trial court submitted those factual questions to the jury for resolution and then used the resulting special verdict as the basis for concluding appellant was not entitled to equitable reduction of the damages award." (Thompson, supra, 86 Cal.App.4th at p. 1173.)

- "By definition, after-acquired evidence is not known to the employer at the time of the allegedly unlawful termination or refusal to hire. In after-acquired evidence cases, the employer's alleged wrongful act in violation of the FEHA's strong public policy precedes the employer's discovery of information that would have justified the employer's decision. To allow such after-acquired evidence to be a complete defense would eviscerate the public policies embodied in the FEHA by allowing an employer to engage in invidious employment discrimination with total impunity." (Salas, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 430.)
- "In after-acquired evidence cases, therefore, both the employee's rights and the employer's prerogatives deserve recognition. The relative equities will vary from case to case, depending on the nature and consequences of any wrongdoing on either side, a circumstance that counsels against rigidity in fashioning appropriate remedies in those actions where an employer relies on after-acquired evidence to defeat an employee's FEHA claims." (Salas, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 430.)
- "Generally, the employee's remedies should not afford compensation for loss of employment during the period after the employer's discovery of the evidence relating to the employee's wrongdoing. When the employer shows that information acquired after the employee's claim has been made would have led to a lawful discharge or other employment action, remedies such as reinstatement, promotion, and pay for periods after the employer learned of such information would be 'inequitable and pointless,' as they grant remedial relief for a period during which the plaintiff employee was no longer in the defendant's employment and had no right to such employment." (Salas, supra, 59 Cal.4th at pp. 430–431.)
- The remedial relief generally should compensate the employee for loss of employment from the date of wrongful discharge or refusal to hire to the date on which the employer acquired information of the employee's wrongdoing or ineligibility for employment. Fashioning remedies based on the relative equities of the parties prevents the employer from violating California's FEHA with impunity while also preventing an employee or job applicant from obtaining lost wages compensation for a period during which the employee or applicant would not in any event have been employed by the employer. In an appropriate case, it would also prevent an employee from recovering any lost wages when the employee's wrongdoing is particularly egregious." (Salas, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 431, footnote omitted.)

2540. Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] wrongfully discriminated against [him/her] based on [his/her] [history of [a]] [select term to describe basis of limitations, e.g., physical condition]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was [an employer/[other covered entity]];
2. That [name of plaintiff] [was an employee of [name of defendant]/applied to [name of defendant] for a job/[describe other covered relationship to defendant]];
3. That [name of defendant] knew that [name of plaintiff] had [a history of having] [a] [e.g., physical condition] [that limited [insert major life activity]];
4. That [name of plaintiff] was able to perform the essential job duties [with reasonable accommodation for [his/her] [e.g., physical condition]];
5. [That [name of defendant] [discharged/refused to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];]

[or]

[That [name of defendant] subjected [name of plaintiff] to an adverse employment action;]

[or]

[That [name of plaintiff] was constructively discharged;]

6. That [name of plaintiff]'s [history of [a]] [e.g., physical condition] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct];
7. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
8. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[Name of plaintiff] does not need to prove that [name of defendant] held any ill will or animosity toward [him/her] personally because [he/she] was [perceived to be] disabled. [On the other hand, if you find that [name of defendant] did hold ill will or animosity toward [name of plaintiff] because [he/she] was [perceived to be] disabled, you may consider this fact, along with all the other evidence, in determining whether [name of plaintiff]'s [history of [a]] [e.g., physical condition] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct].]

Directions for Use

Select a term to use throughout to describe the source of the plaintiff's limitations. It may be a statutory term such as "physical disability," "mental disability," or "medical condition." (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a).) Or it may be a general term such as "condition," "disease," or "disorder." Or it may be a specific health condition such as "diabetes."

In the introductory paragraph and in elements 3 and 6, select the bracketed language on "history" of disability if the claim of discrimination is based on a history of disability rather than a current actual disability.

For element 1, the court may need to instruct the jury on the statutory definition of "employer" under the FEHA. Other covered entities under the FEHA include labor organizations, employment agencies, and apprenticeship training programs. (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a)–(d).)

Modify elements 3 and 6 if plaintiff was not actually disabled or had a history of disability, but alleges discrimination because he or she was perceived to be disabled. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o); see also Gov. Code, § 12926(j)(4), (m)(4) [mental and physical disability include being regarded or treated as disabled by the employer].) This can be done with language in element 3 that the employer "treated [name of plaintiff] as if [he/she] ..." and with language in element 6 "That [name of employer]'s belief that"

If the plaintiff alleges discrimination on the basis of his or her association with someone who was or was perceived to be disabled, give CACI No. 2547, Disability-Based Associational Discrimination—Essential Factual Elements. (See Rope v. Auto-Chlor System of Washington, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 635, 655–660 [163 Cal.Rptr.3d 392] [claim for "disability based associational discrimination" adequately pled].)

If medical-condition discrimination as defined by statute (see Gov. Code, § 12926(i)) is alleged, omit "that limited [insert major life activity]" in element 3. (Compare Gov. Code, § 12926(i) with Gov. Code, § 12926(j), (m) [no requirement that medical condition limit major life activity].)

Regarding element 4, it is now settled that the ability to perform the essential duties of the job is an element of the plaintiff's burden of proof. (See Green v. State of California (2007) 42 Cal.4th 254, 257–258 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 390, 165 P.3d 118].)

Read the first option for element 5 if there is no dispute as to whether the employer's acts constituted an adverse employment action. Read the second option and also give CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained, if whether there was an adverse employment action is a question of fact for the jury. If constructive discharge is alleged, give the third option for element 5 and also give CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained. Select "conduct" in element 6 if either the second or third option is included for element 5.

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL

Element 6 requires that the disability be a substantial motivating reason for the adverse action. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; see also CACI No. 2507, “Substantial Motivating Reason” Explained.)

Give the optional sentence in the last paragraph if there is evidence that the defendant harbored personal animus against the plaintiff because of his or her disability.

If the existence of a qualifying disability is disputed, additional instructions defining “physical disability,” “mental disability,” and “medical condition” may be required. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(i), (j), (m).)

- “[T]he plaintiff initially has the burden to establish a prima facie case of discrimination. The plaintiff can meet this burden by presenting evidence that demonstrates, even circumstantially or by inference, that he or she (1) suffered from a disability, or was regarded as suffering from a disability; (2) could perform the essential duties of the job with or without reasonable accommodations, and (3) was subjected to an adverse employment action because of the disability or perceived disability. To establish a prima facie case, a plaintiff must show ‘ “ “actions taken by the employer from which one can infer, if such actions remain unexplained, that it is more likely than not that such actions were based on a [prohibited] discriminatory criterion” ’ ...’ The prima facie burden is light; the evidence necessary to sustain the burden is minimal. As noted above, while the elements of a plaintiff’s prima facie case can vary considerably, generally an employee need only offer sufficient circumstantial evidence to give rise to a reasonable inference of discrimination.” (Sandell v. Taylor-Listug, Inc. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 297, 310 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 453], original italics, internal citations omitted.)
- “The distinction between cases involving direct evidence of the employer’s motive for the adverse employment action and cases where there is only circumstantial evidence of the employer’s

discriminatory motive is critical to the outcome of this appeal. There is a vast body of case law that addresses proving discriminatory intent in cases where there was no direct evidence that the adverse employment action taken by the employer was motivated by race, religion, national origin, age or sex. In such cases, proof of discriminatory motive is governed by the three-stage burden-shifting test established by the United States Supreme Court in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green [(1973) 411 U.S. 792 [93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668]]. (Wallace v. County of Stanislaus (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 109, 123 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 462], original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- “The three-stage framework and the many principles adopted to guide its application do not apply in discrimination cases where, like here, the plaintiff presents direct evidence of the employer's motivation for the adverse employment action. In many types of discrimination cases, courts state that direct evidence of intentional discrimination is rare, but disability discrimination cases often involve direct evidence of the role of the employee's actual or perceived disability in the employer's decision to implement an adverse employment action. Instead of litigating the employer's reasons for the action, the parties' disputes in disability cases focus on whether the employee was able to perform essential job functions, whether there were reasonable accommodations that would have allowed the employee to perform those functions, and whether a reasonable accommodation would have imposed an undue hardship on the employer. To summarize, courts and practitioners should not automatically apply principles related to the McDonnell Douglas test to disability discrimination cases. Rather, they should examine the critical threshold issue and determine whether there is direct evidence that the motive for the employer's conduct was related to the employee's physical or mental condition.” (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 123, original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted.)
- “If the employee meets this [prima facie] burden, it is then incumbent on the employer to show that it had a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for its employment decision. When this showing is made, the burden shifts back to the employee to produce substantial evidence that employer's given reason was either ‘untrue or pretextual,’ or that the employer acted with discriminatory animus, in order to raise an inference of discrimination.” (Furtado v. State Personnel Bd. (2013) 212 Cal.App.4th 729, 744 [151 Cal.Rptr.3d 292], internal citations omitted.)
- “Although the same statutory language that prohibits disability discrimination also prohibits discrimination based on race, age, sex, and other factors, we conclude that disability discrimination claims are fundamentally different from the discrimination claims based on the other factors listed in section 12940, subdivision (a). These differences arise because (1) additional statutory provisions apply to disability discrimination claims, (2) the Legislature made separate findings and declarations about protections given to disabled persons, and (3) discrimination cases involving race, religion, national origin, age and sex, often involve pretexts for the adverse employment action—an issue about motivation that appears less frequently in disability discrimination cases.” (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 122.)
- “Summary adjudication of the section 12940(a) claim ... turns on ... whether [plaintiff] could perform the essential functions of the relevant job with or without accommodation. [Plaintiff] does not dispute that she was unable to perform the essential functions of her former position as a clothes fitter with or without accommodation. Under federal law, however, when an employee seeks accommodation by being reassigned to a vacant position in the company, the employee satisfies the ‘qualified individual with a disability’ requirement by showing he or she can perform the essential functions of the vacant position with or without accommodation. The position must exist and be vacant, and the employer need not promote the disabled employee. We apply the same rule here. To prevail on summary adjudication of the section 12940(a) claim, [defendant] must show there is no triable issue of fact about [plaintiff]'s ability, with or without accommodation, to perform the essential functions of an available vacant position that would not be a promotion.” (Nadaf-Rahrov v. The Neiman Marcus Group, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal.App.4th 952, 965 [83 Cal.Rptr.3d 190], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- “To establish a prima facie case of mental disability discrimination under FEHA, a plaintiff must show the following elements: (1) She suffers from a mental disability; (2) she is otherwise qualified to do the job with or without reasonable accommodation; and (3) she was subjected to an adverse employment action because of the disability.” (Higgins-Williams v. Sutter Medical Foundation (2015) 237 Cal.App.4th 78, 84 [187 Cal.Rptr.3d 745].)
- “At most, [plaintiff] alleges only that he anticipated becoming disabled for some time after the organ donation. This is insufficient. [Plaintiff] cannot pursue a cause of action for discrimination under FEHA on the basis of his ‘actual’ physical disability in the absence of factual allegations that he was in fact, physically disabled.” (Rope, supra, 220 Cal.App.4th at p. 659.)
- “[Defendant] asserts the statute’s ‘regarded as’ protection is limited to persons who are denied or who lose jobs based on an employer’s reliance on the ‘myths, fears or stereotypes’ frequently associated with disabilities. ... However, the statutory language does not expressly restrict FEHA’s protections to the narrow class to whom [defendant] would limit its coverage. To impose such a restriction would exclude from protection a large group of individuals, like [plaintiff], with more mundane long-term medical conditions, the significance of which is exacerbated by an employer’s failure to reasonably accommodate. Both the policy and language of the statute offer protection to a person who is not actually disabled, but is wrongly perceived to be. The statute’s plain language leads to the conclusion that the ‘regarded as’ definition casts a broader net and protects any individual ‘regarded’ or ‘treated’ by an employer ‘as having, or having had, any physical condition that makes achievement of a major life activity difficult’ or may do so in the future. We agree most individuals who sue exclusively under this definitional prong likely are and will continue to be victims of an employer’s ‘mistaken’ perception, based on an unfounded fear or stereotypical assumption. Nevertheless, FEHA’s protection is nowhere expressly premised on such a factual showing, and we decline the invitation to import such a requirement.” (Gelfo v. Lockheed Martin Corp. (2006) 140 Cal.App.4th 34, 53 [43 Cal.Rptr.3d 874], original italics, internal citations omitted.)
- “[T]he purpose of the ‘regarded-as’ prong is to protect individuals rejected from a job because of the ‘myths, fears and stereotypes’ associated with disabilities. In other words, to find a perceived disability, the perception must stem from a false idea about the existence of or the limiting effect of a disability.” (Diffey v. Riverside County Sheriff’s Dept. (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 1031, 1037 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 353], internal citation omitted.)
- “We say on this record that [defendant] took action against [plaintiff] based on concerns or fear about his possible future disability. The relevant FEHA definition of an individual regarded as disabled applies only to those who suffer certain specified physical disabilities or those who have a condition with ‘no present disabling effect’ but which ‘may become a physical disability’ According to the pleadings, [defendant] fired [plaintiff] to avoid accommodating him because of his association with his physically disabled sister. That is not a basis for liability under the ‘regarded as’ disabled standard.” (Rope, supra, 220 Cal.App.4th at p. 659, internal citations omitted.)

- “ ‘An adverse employment decision cannot be made “because of” a disability, when the disability is not known to the employer. Thus, in order to prove [a discrimination] claim, a plaintiff must prove the employer had knowledge of the employee’s disability when the adverse employment decision was made. ... While knowledge of the disability can be inferred from the circumstances, knowledge will only be imputed to the employer when the fact of disability is the only reasonable interpretation of the known facts. “Vague or conclusory statements revealing an unspecified incapacity are not sufficient to put an employer on notice of its obligations” ... ’ ” (Scotch v. Art Institute of California (2009) 173 Cal.App.4th 986, 1008 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 338].)
- “[W]e interpret FEHA as authorizing an employer to distinguish between disability-caused misconduct and the disability itself in the narrow context of threats or violence against coworkers. If employers are not permitted to make this distinction, they are caught on the horns of a dilemma. They may not discriminate against an employee based on a disability but, at the same time, must provide all employees with a safe work environment free from threats and violence.” (Wills v. Superior Court (2011) 195 Cal.App.4th 143, 166 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 1], internal citations omitted.)
- “Requiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision. At the same time, ... proof that discrimination was a substantial factor in an employment decision triggers the deterrent purpose of the FEHA and thus exposes the employer to liability, even if other factors would have led the employer to make the same decision at the time.” (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 232, original italics.)
- “We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a “but for” cause.” (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)
- “We note that the court in Harris discussed the employer's motivation and the link between the employer's consideration of the plaintiff's physical condition and the adverse employment action without using the terms “animus,” “animosity,” or “ill will.” The absence of a discussion of these terms necessarily implies an employer can violate section 12940, subdivision (a) by taking an adverse employment action against an employee “because of” the employee's physical disability even if the employer harbored no animosity or ill will against the employee or the class of persons with that disability.” (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 128.)
- Based on Harris, we conclude that an employer has treated an employee differently ‘because of’ a disability when the disability is a substantial motivating reason for the employer's decision to subject the [employee] to an adverse employment action. This conclusion resolves how the jury should have been instructed on [defendant]'s motivation or intent in connection with the disability discrimination claim.” (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 128.)

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL

- “We conclude that where, as here, an employee is found to be able to safely perform the essential duties of the job, a plaintiff alleging disability discrimination can establish the requisite employer intent to discriminate by proving (1) the employer knew that plaintiff had a physical condition that limited a major life activity, or perceived him to have such a condition, and (2) the plaintiff’s actual or perceived physical condition was a substantial motivating reason for the defendant’s decision to subject the plaintiff to an adverse employment action. ... [T]his conclusion is based on (1) the interpretation of section 12940’s term ‘because of’ adopted in Harris; (2) our discussion of the meaning of the statutory phrase ‘to discriminate against’; and (3) the guidance provided by the current versions of CACI Nos. 2540 and 2507. [¶] Therefore, the jury instruction that [plaintiff] was required to prove that [defendant] ‘regarded or treated [him] as having a disability in order to discriminate’ was erroneous.” (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 129.)
- “The word ‘animus’ is ambiguous because it can be interpreted narrowly to mean ‘ill will’ or ‘animosity’ or can be interpreted broadly to mean ‘intention.’ In this case, it appears [defendant] uses ‘animus’ to mean something more than the intent described by the substantial-motivating-reason test adopted in Harris. (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 130, fn. 14, internal citation omitted.)
- “Being unable to work during pregnancy is a disability for the purposes of section 12940.” (Sanchez v. Swissport, Inc. (2013) 213 Cal.App.4th 1331, 1340 [153 Cal.Rptr.3d 367].)

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL

Select the bracketed option from element 2 that is most appropriate to the facts of the case.

Under the Unruh Civil Rights Act (see CACI No. 3060, Unruh Civil Rights Act—Essential Factual Elements), the California Supreme Court has held that intentional discrimination is required. (See Harris v. Capital Growth Investors XIV (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1142, 1159–1162 [278 Cal.Rptr. 614, 805 P.2d 873].) While there is no similar California case imposing an intent requirement under Civil Code section 51.5, Civil Code section 51.5 requires that the discrimination be on account of the protected category. (Civ. Code, § 51.5(a).) The kinds of prohibited conduct would all seem to involve intentional acts. (See Nicole M. v. Martinez Unified Sch. Dist. (N.D. Cal. 1997) 964 F.Supp. 1369, 1389, superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Sandoval v. Merced Union High Sch. (E.D. Cal. 2006) 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 28446.) The intent requirement is encompassed within the motivating-reason element (element 2).

There is an exception to the intent requirement under the Unruh Act for conduct that violates the Americans With Disabilities Act. (See Munson v. Del Taco, Inc. (2009) 46 Cal.4th 661, 665 [94 Cal.Rptr.3d 685, 208 P.3d 623].) Because this exception is based on statutory construction of the Unruh Act (see Civ. Code, § 51(f)), the committee does not believe that it applies to section 51.5, which contains no similar language.

Note that there are two causation elements. There must be a causal link between the discriminatory intent and the adverse action (see element 2), and there must be a causal link between the adverse action and the harm (see element 4).

Element 2 uses the term “substantial motivating reason” to express causation between the protected classification and the defendant’s conduct. “Substantial motivating reason” has been held to be the appropriate standard under the Fair Employment and Housing Act to address the possibility of both discriminatory and nondiscriminatory motives. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; CACI No. 2507, “Substantial Motivating Reason Explained.”) Whether the FEHA standard applies under Civil Code section 51.5 has not been addressed by the courts.

For an instruction on damages under Civil Code section 51.5, see CACI No. 3067, Unruh Civil Rights Act—Damages. Note that the jury may award a successful plaintiff up to three times actual damages but not less than $4,000. (Civ. Code, § 52(a).); see also Civ. Code, § 52(h) [“actual damages” means special and general damages].)

It is possible that elements 3 and 4 are not needed if only the statutory minimum $4,000 award is sought. With regard to the Unruh Act (Civ. Code, § 51), which is also governed by Civil Code section 52(a), the California Supreme Court has held that a violation is per se injurious, and that section 52 provides for minimum statutory damages for every violation regardless of the plaintiff’s actual damages. (See Koire v. Metro Car Wash (1985) 40 Cal.3d 24, 33 [219 Cal.Rptr. 133, 707 P.2d 195].)

The judge may decide the issue of whether the defendant is a business establishment as a matter of law. (Rotary Club of Duarte v. Bd. of Directors (1986) 178 Cal.App.3d 1035, 1050 [224 Cal.Rptr. 213].) Special interrogatories may be needed if there are factual issues. This element has been omitted from the instruction because it is unlikely to go to a jury.

Furthermore, section 51.5 forbids a business to ‘discriminate against’ ‘any person’ and does not just forbid a business to ‘boycott or blacklist, refuse to buy from, sell to, or trade with any person.’ ” (Jackson, supra, 30 Cal.App.4th at p. 941, internal citation and footnote omitted.)

Directions for Use

Use this instruction for a cause of action under the Ralph Act involving actual acts of violence alleged to have been committed by the defendant against the plaintiff. For an instruction involving only threats of violence, see CACI No. 3064, Threats of Violence—Ralph Act—Essential Factual Elements.

Note that element 2 uses the term “substantial motivating reason” to express both intent and causation between the protected classification and the defendant’s acts. “Substantial motivating reason” has been held to be the appropriate standard under the Fair Employment and Housing Act to address the possibility of both discriminatory and nondiscriminatory motives. Liability may also be found if a defendant “aids, incites, or conspires” in the denial of a right protected under Civil Code section 51.7. (Civ. Code, § 52(b).) This instruction should be modified if aiding, inciting, or conspiring is asserted as theories of liability. See also instructions in the Conspiracy series (CACI No. 3600 et seq.).

No published California appellate opinion establishes elements 3 and 4. Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3060, Unruh Civil Rights Act—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If the plaintiff's association with another is the basis for the claim, modify question 2 as in element 2 of CACI No. 3060.

Questions 3 and 4 may be omitted if only the statutory minimum of $4,000 damages is sought. Harm is presumed for this amount. (See Civ. Code, § 52(a); Koire v. Metro Car Wash (1985) 40 Cal.3d 24, 33)

[219 Cal.Rptr. 133, 707 P.2d 195].)

The penalty in question 5 refers to the right of the jury to award a maximum of three times the amount of actual damages but not less than $4,000. (Civ. Code, § 52(a).) The judge should correct the verdict if the jury award goes over that limit. Also, if the jury awards nothing or an amount less than $4,000 in question 5, the judge should increase that award to $4,000 to reflect the statutory minimum.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 4 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3061, Discrimination in Business Dealings—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If an alternative basis for the defendant’s alleged motivation is at issue, modify question 2 as in element 2 of CACI No. 3061.

The award of a penalty in question 5 refers to the right of the jury to award a maximum of three times the amount of actual damages but not less than $4,000. (Civ. Code, § 52(a).) The judge should correct the verdict if the jury award goes over that amount. Also, if the jury awards nothing or an amount less than $4,000 in question 5, then the judge should increase that award to $4,000 to reflect the statutory minimum.

It is possible that questions 3 and 4 may be omitted if only the statutory minimum $4,000 award is sought. With regard to the Unruh Act (Civ. Code, § 51), which is also governed by Civil Code section 52(a), the California Supreme Court has held that a violation is per se injurious, and that section 52 provides for minimum statutory damages for every violation regardless of the plaintiff's actual damages. (See Koire v. Metro Car Wash (1985) 40 Cal.3d 24, 33 [219 Cal.Rptr. 133, 707 P.2d 195].)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 4 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 6 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

Punitive damages (question 7) are authorized by Civil Code section 52(b)(2). For instructions on punitive damages, see instructions in the Damages series (CACI No. 3900 et seq.)

3103. Neglect—Essential Factual Elements (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.57)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/[name of decedent]] was neglected by [[name of individual defendant]/ [and] [name of employer defendant]] in violation of the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [[name of individual defendant]/[name of employer defendant]'s employee] had a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship with care or custody of [name of plaintiff/decedent], involving ongoing responsibility for [his/her] basic needs, which an able-bodied and fully competent adult would ordinarily be capable of managing without assistance;
2. That [name of plaintiff/decedent] was [65 years of age or older/a dependent adult] while [he/she] was in [[name of individual defendant]'s/[name of employer defendant]'s employee's] care or custody;
3. That [[name of individual defendant]/[name of employer defendant]'s employee] failed to use the degree of care that a reasonable person in the same situation would have used in providing for [name of plaintiff/decedent]'s basic needs, including [insert one or more of the following:]

[assisting in personal hygiene or in the provision of food, clothing, or shelter;]

[providing medical care for physical and mental health needs;]

[protecting [name of plaintiff/decedent] from health and safety hazards;]

[preventing malnutrition or dehydration;]

[insert other grounds for neglect;]
4. That [name of plaintiff/decedent] was harmed; and
5. That [[name of individual defendant]'s/[name of employer defendant]'s employee's] conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff/decedent]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised December 2005, June 2006, October 2008, December 2016

Directions for Use

This instruction may be given in cases brought under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act (the Act) by the victim of elder neglect, or by the survivors of the victim. If the victim is the plaintiff and is seeking damages for pain and suffering, see CACI No. 3905A, Physical Pain, Mental Suffering, and Emotional Distress (Noneconomic Damage), in the Damages series.

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL

If the plaintiff seeks the enhanced remedies of attorney fees and costs, and in the case of a wrongful death, the decedent’s pain and suffering, give CACI No. 3104, Neglect—Enhanced Remedies Sought, in addition to this instruction. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657.)

If the individual responsible for the neglect is a defendant in the case, use “[name of individual defendant]” throughout. If only the individual’s employer is a defendant, use “[name of employer defendant]’s employee” throughout.

If the plaintiff is seeking enhanced remedies against the individual’s employer, also give either CACI No. 3102A, Employer Liability for Enhanced Remedies—Both Individual and Employer Defendants, or CACI No. 3102B, Employer Liability for Enhanced Remedies—Employer Defendant Only. To recover damages against the employer under a theory of vicarious liability, see instructions in the Vicarious Responsibility series (CACI No. 3700 et seq.).

~~The Act does not extend to this instruction is not intended for~~ cases involving professional negligence against health-care providers as defined by the California Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act of 1975 (MICRA) unless the professional had a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship with the elder or dependent adult patient, involving ongoing responsibility for one or more basic needs, (Winn v. Pioneer Medical Group, Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 148, 152. [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 447, 370 P.3d 1011]; see Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657.2; Civ. Code, § 3333.2(c)(2)).

The instructions in this series are not intended to cover every circumstance in which a plaintiff may bring a cause of action under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act.

- “We granted review to consider whether a claim of neglect under the Elder Abuse Act requires a caretaking or custodial relationship—where a person has assumed significant responsibility for attending to one or more of those basic needs of the elder or dependent adult that an able-bodied and fully competent adult would ordinarily be capable of managing without assistance. Taking account of the statutory text, structure, and legislative history of the Elder Abuse Act, we conclude that it does.” (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at p. 155.)
- “[T]he Act does not apply unless the defendant health care provider had a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship, involving ongoing responsibility for one or more basic needs, with the elder patient. It is the nature of the elder or dependent adult's relationship with the defendant—not the defendant's professional standing—that makes the defendant potentially liable for neglect.” (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at p. 152.)
- “The Act seems premised on the idea that certain situations place elders and dependent adults at heightened risk of harm, and heightened remedies relative to conventional tort remedies are appropriate as a consequence. Blurring the distinction between neglect under the Act and conduct actionable under ordinary tort remedies—even in the absence of a care or custody relationship—risks undermining the Act's central premise. Accordingly, plaintiffs alleging professional negligence may seek certain tort remedies, though not the heightened remedies available under the Elder Abuse Act.” (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at p. 159, internal citation omitted.)
- “The purpose of the [Elder Abuse Act] is essentially to protect a particularly vulnerable portion of the population from gross mistreatment in the form of abuse and custodial neglect.” (Delaney v. Baker (1999) 20 Cal.4th 23, 33 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 610, 971 P.2d 986].)

Beverly Enterprises, Inc.* (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 514, 521 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 336].)
- ~~“The Act was expressly designed to protect elders and other dependent adults who ‘may be subjected to abuse, neglect, or abandonment ...’ Within the Act, two groups of persons who ordinarily assume responsibility for the ‘care and custody’ of the elderly are identified and defined: health practitioners and care custodians. A ‘health practitioner’ is defined in section 15610.37 as a ‘physician and surgeon, psychiatrist, psychologist, dentist, ...’ etc., who ‘treats an elder ... for any condition.’ ‘Care custodians,’ on the other hand, are administrators and employees of public and private institutions that provide ‘care or services for elders or dependent adults,’ including nursing homes, clinics, home health agencies, and similar facilities which house the elderly. The Legislature thus recognized that both classes of professionals—health practitioners as well as care custodians—should be charged with responsibility for the health, safety and welfare of elderly and dependent adults.”~~ (Mack v. Soung (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 966, 974 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 830], internal citations omitted.)
- “[N]eglect as a form of abuse under the Elder Abuse Act refers ‘to the failure of those responsible for attending to the basic needs and comforts of elderly or dependent adults, regardless of their professional standing, to carry out their custodial obligations.’ ” (Carter v. Prime Healthcare Paradise Valley LLC (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 396, 404 [129 Cal.Rptr.3d 895].)

- “[A] violation of staffing regulations here may provide a basis for finding neglect. Such a violation might constitute a negligent failure to exercise the care that a similarly situated reasonable person would exercise, or it might constitute a failure to protect from health and safety hazards The former is the definition of neglect under the Act, and the latter is just one nonexclusive example of neglect under the Act.” (Fenimore v. 3511. Permanent Severance Damages

The [name of condemnor] has taken only a part of [name of property owner]’s property. [Name of property owner] claims that [his/her/its] remaining property has lost value as a result of the taking because [specify reasons alleged for diminution of value of remaining property]. This loss in value is called “severance damages.” ~~and must be included in determining just compensation.~~

Severance damages are the damages to [name of property owner]’s remaining property caused by the taking, ~~or by the construction and use of the [name of condemnor]’s proposed project, or by both.~~ If you determine that the remaining property has lost value because of the taking, severance damages must be included in determining just compensation.

Severance damages are determined as follows:

1. Determine the fair market value of the remaining property on [date of valuation] by subtracting the fair market value of the part taken from the fair market value of the entire property;
2. Determine the fair market value of the remaining property after the [name of condemnor]’s proposed project is completed; and
3. Subtract the fair market value of the remaining property after the [name of condemnor]’s proposed project is completed from the fair market value of the remaining property on [date of valuation].

New September 2003; Revised December 2016

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the owner claims that property not taken has permanently lost value because of the taking, for example because a view has been lost. It is for the jury to determine if such a loss has actually occurred as long as the claim is not speculative, conjectural, or remote. (Metropolitan Water Dist. of So. California v. Campus Crusade for Christ, Inc. (2007) 41 Cal.4th 954, 973 [62 Cal.Rptr.3d 623, 161 P.3d 1175.] Read CACI No. 3512, Severance Damages—Offset for Benefits, if benefits to the owner’s remaining property are at issue.

A property owner may also be able to recover for economic loss to the remaining property incurred during the construction of the project. (City of Fremont v. Fisher (2008) 160 Cal.App.4th 666, 676 [73 Cal.Rptr.3d 54].) This recovery has been called “temporary severance damages.” This instruction is not for use to compute loss during construction.

- The court determines as a matter of law what constitutes the “larger parcel” for which severance damages may be obtained: “The Legislature has framed the question of whether property should be viewed as an integrated whole in terms of whether the land remaining after the taking forms part of a ‘larger parcel’.” (City of San Diego, supra, 6 Cal.4th at p. 745, internal citations omitted.)
- “As we said in Pierpont Inn, ‘Where the property taken constitutes only a part of a larger parcel, the owner is entitled to recover, inter alia, the difference in the fair market value of his property in its “before” condition and the fair market value of the remaining portion thereof after the construction of the improvement on the portion taken. Items such as view, access to beach property, freedom from noise, etc. are unquestionably matters which a willing buyer in the open market would consider in determining the price he would pay for any given piece of real property.’ Severance damages are not limited to special and direct damages, but can be based on any factor, resulting from the project, that causes a decline in the fair market value of the property.” (*Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority v. - “Both sides here thus agree that the court, not the jury, must make certain determinations that are a predicate to the award of severance damages. But [condemnor] is on weaker ground when it attempts to derive ... a general rule that ‘as a matter of constitutional and decisional law, all issues having to do with the existence of, or entitlement to, severance damages are entrusted to the trial judge,’ such that ‘[o]nly after the trial judge has determined that severance damages exist does the jury consider the amount of those severance damages.’ [Condemnor]’s proposed rule assumes that questions relating to the measurement of severance damages can be readily distinguished from questions relating to the entitlement to them in the first place but, as we have previously cautioned, the two concepts are not necessarily ‘so easily separable.’ ” (Metropolitan Water Dist. of So. California, supra, v. Campus Crusade for Christ, Inc. (2007) 41 Cal.4th at p.954, 972 [~~62 Cal.Rptr.3d 623, 161 P.3d 1175~~], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- “In determining severance damage, the jury must assume ‘the most serious damage’ which will be caused to the remainder by the taking of the easement and construction of the property. The value of the remainder after the condemnation has occurred is referred to as the ‘after’ value of the property. Daley* (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d 1334, 1345 [253 Cal.Rptr. 144], internal citations omitted, disapproved on other grounds in Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 720.)
- “[S]everance damages are not limited to specific direct damages but can be based on any indirect factors that cause a decline in the market value of the property. California decisions have indicated the following are compensable as direct damages under section 1263.410: (1) impairment of view, (2) restriction of access, (3) increased noise, (4) invasion of privacy, (5) unsightliness of the project, (6) lack of maintenance of the easement and (7) nuisances in general such as trespassers and safety risks. Several courts have recognized that the condemnee should be compensated for any characteristic of the project which causes ‘an adverse impact on the fair market value of the remainder.’” (San Diego Gas & Electric Co., supra, 205 Cal.App.3d at p. 1345.)
- “When ‘the property acquired [by eminent domain] is part of a larger parcel,’ in addition to compensation for the property actually taken, the property owner must be compensated for the injury, if any, to the land that he retains. Once it is determined that the owner is entitled to severance damages, they, too, normally are measured by comparing the fair market value of the remainder before and after the taking.” (City of San Diego, supra, 6 Cal.4th at p. 745, internal citations and footnote omitted.)
- “[W]hether access to a property has been ‘substantially impaired’ for purposes of determining severance damages is a question for the court, even though ‘[s]ubstantial impairment cannot be fixed by abstract definition; it must be found in each case upon the basis of the factual situation.’” (City of Perris v. Stamper (2016) 1 Cal.5th 576, 594 [-- Cal.Rptr.3d --, -- P.3d --].)
- “Temporary severance damages resulting from the construction of a public project are also compensable. A property owner ‘generally should be able “to present evidence to show whether and to what extent the delay disrupted its use of the remaining property.”’ However, ‘the mere fact of a delay associated with construction’ does not, without more, entitle the property owner to temporary severance damages. The temporary easement or taking must interfere with the owner's actual intended use of the property.” (City of Fremont, supra, 160 Cal.App.4th at p. 676, original italics.)

3706. Special Employment—~~Lending General Employer and/or Special Employer~~ Denies Responsibility for Worker's Acts

When one employer sends or loans an employee to work for another employer, a special employment relationship may be created that affects the duties and responsibilities between the two employers and the employee. The arrangement may be temporary, with a determined ending date or event; or it may be open-ended. In this situation, the borrowing employer is known as a “special employer” and the employee is referred to as a “special employee.”

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of worker] was the employee of [name of defendant ~~first-lending~~ employer] when the incident occurred, and that [name of defendant ~~first-lending~~ employer] is therefore responsible for [name of worker]'s conduct. [Name of defendant ~~first-lending~~ employer] claims that [name of worker] was the temporary-special employee of [name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer] when the incident occurred, and therefore [name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer] is solely responsible for [name of worker]'s conduct.

In deciding whether [name of worker] was [name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer]'s temporary-special employee when the incident occurred, the most important factor is whether [name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer] had the right to fully control the details of the work activities of [name of worker], rather than just the right to specify the result. It does not matter whether [name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer] actually exercised the right to control.

In addition to the right of to control, you must consider all the circumstances in deciding whether [name of worker] was [name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer]'s temporary-special employee when the incident occurred. The following factors, if true, may tend to show that [name of worker] was the temporary-special employee of [name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer]. No one factor is necessarily decisive. Do not simply count the number of applicable factors and use the larger number to make your decision. It is for you to determine the weight and importance to give to each of these additional factors based on all of the evidence.

- (a) [Name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer] supplied the equipment, tools, and place of work;
- (b) [Name of worker] was paid by the hour rather than by the job;
- (c) The work being done by [name of worker] was part of the regular business of [name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer];
- (d) [Name of defendant ~~second~~ borrowing employer] had the right to terminate [name of worker]'s employment, not just the right to have [him/her] removed from the job site;
- (e) [Name of worker] was not engaged in a distinct occupation or business;
- (f) The kind of work performed by [name of worker] is usually done under the direction of a supervisor rather than by a specialist working without supervision;

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL

- (g) The kind of work performed by [name of worker] does not require specialized or professional skill;
- (h) The services performed by [name of worker] were to be performed over a long period of time;
- (i) [Name of defendant ~~first lending~~ employer] and [name of defendant ~~second borrowing~~ employer] were not jointly engaged in a project of mutual interest;
- (j) [Name of worker], expressly or by implication, consented to the temporary special employment with [name of defendant ~~second borrowing~~ employer]; [and]
- (k) [Name of worker] and [name of defendant ~~second borrowing~~ employer] believed that they had a temporary special employment relationship[./;] [and]
- (l) [Specify any other relevant factors.]

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in “special employment” cases. Special employment arises when a worker has been loaned from one employer to another, and there is an issue as to which employer the worker should be attributed with regard to the claim in the case. The borrowing employer is called the “special” employer. The lending employer is sometimes called the “general” employer, though use of that term may be confusing to a jury.

The instruction as drafted is for use by the lending employer to claim that the worker should be considered as the special employee of the borrowing employer. This would be the case if the issue is which employer is responsible for the worker’s tortious conduct under respondeat superior. The instruction may be modified if the claim is for injury to the worker, and the borrowing employer wants to claim the worker as its own in order to take advantage of the exclusive remedy bar of workers’ compensation. This instruction is not for use by the worker to claim employment rights under the Labor Code, though many of its provisions will likely be applicable.

~~if the worker’s regular (general) employer claims that at the time of injury, the worker was actually working for a different (special) employer. It may be adapted for use if the plaintiff’s claim is against the special employer. The terms “first and second employer” have been substituted for “special and general employer” to make the concept more straightforward. Also, the term “temporary employee” has been substituted for the term “special employee” for the same reason.~~

In addition to the ~~alleged special borrowing~~ employer’s control over the employee, there are a number of relevant secondary factors to use in deciding whether a special employment relationship existed. They are similar, but not identical, to the factors from the Restatement Second of Agency, section 220 to be used in an independent contractor analysis. (See *State ex rel. - “[W]here the servants of two employers are jointly engaged in a project of mutual interest, each employee ordinarily remains the servant of his own master and does not thereby become the special employee of the other.” (Marsh, supra, 26 Cal.3d at p. 493.)
- “When an employer -- the ‘general’ employer -- lends an employee to another employer and relinquishes to a borrowing employer all right of control over the employee's activities, a ‘special employment’ relationship arises between the borrowing employer and the employee. During this period of transferred control, the special employer becomes solely liable under the doctrine of respondeat superior for the employee's job-related torts.” (Marsh, supra, 26 Cal.3d at p. 492.)
- “The law of agency has long recognized that a person generally the servant of one master can become the borrowed servant of another. If the borrowed servant commits a tort while carrying out the bidding of the borrower, vicarious liability attaches to the borrower and not to the general master.” (*Societa per Azioni de Navigazione Italia v. - “Liability in borrowed servant cases involves the exact public policy considerations found in sole employer cases. Liability should be on the persons or firms which can best insure against the risk, which can best guard against the risk, which can most accurately predict the cost of the risk and allocate the cost directly to the consumers, thus reflecting in its prices the enterprise’s true cost of doing business.” (*Strait v. - “[S]pecial employment is most often resolved on the basis of ‘reasonable inferences to be drawn from the circumstances shown.’ Where the evidence, though not in conflict, permits conflicting inferences, ... ‘ “the existence or nonexistence of the special employment relationship barring the injured employee’s action at law is generally a question reserved for the trier of fact.” ’ ” (Marsh, supra, 26 Cal.3d at p. 493.)
- “[I]f neither the evidence nor inferences are in conflict, then the question of whether an employment relationship exists becomes a question of law which may be resolved by summary judgment.” (Riley

- “The special employment relationship and its consequent imposition of liability upon the special employer flows from the borrower’s power to supervise the details of the employee’s work. Mere instruction by the borrower on the result to be achieved will not suffice.” (Marsh, supra, 26 Cal.3d at p. 492.)
- ~~“The contract cannot affect the true relationship of the parties to it. Nor can it place an employee in a different position from that which he actually held.” (Kowalski, supra, 23 Cal.3d at p. 176.)~~
- “California courts have held that evidence of the following circumstances tends to negate the existence of a special employment: The employee is (1) not paid by and cannot be discharged by the borrower, (2) a skilled worker with substantial control over operational details, (3) not engaged in the borrower's usual business, (4) employed for only a brief period of time, and (5) using tools and equipment furnished by the lending employer.” (Marsh, supra, 26 Cal.3d at p. 492.)
- “The common law also recognizes factors secondary to the right of control. We have looked to other considerations discussed in the Restatement of Agency to assess whether an employer-employee relationship exists. The comments to section 227 of the Restatement Second of Agency, which covers servants lent by one master to another, note that ‘[m]any of the factors stated in Section 220 which determine that a person is a servant are also useful in determining whether the lent servant has become the servant of the borrowing employer.’ The secondary Restatement factors that we have adopted are: ‘“(a) [W]hether the one performing services is engaged in a distinct occupation or business; (b) the kind of occupation, with reference to whether, in the locality, the work is usually done under the direction of the principal or by a specialist without supervision; (c) the skill required in the particular occupation; (d) whether the principal or the worker supplies the instrumentalities, tools, and the place of work for the person doing the work; (e) the length of time for which the services are to be performed; (f) the method of payment, whether by the time or by the job; (g) whether or not the work is a part of the regular business of the principal; and (h) whether or not the parties believe they are creating the relationship of employer-employee.” [Citations.]’ ” (State ex rel. Dept. of California Highway Patrol, supra, 60 Cal.4th at pp. 1013–1014, internal citations omitted.)
- “Evidence that the alleged special employer has the power to discharge a worker ‘is strong evidence of the existence of a special employment relationship. . . . The payment of wages is not, however, determinative.’ Other factors to be taken into consideration are ‘the nature of the services, whether skilled or unskilled, whether the work is part of the employer's regular business, the duration of the employment period, . . . and who supplies the work tools.’ Evidence that (1) the employee provides unskilled labor, (2) the work he performs is part of the employer's regular business, (3) the employment period is lengthy, and (4) the employer provides the tools and equipment used, tends to indicate the existence of special employment. Conversely, evidence to the contrary negates existence of a special employment relationship. [¶¶] In addition, consideration must be given to whether the worker consented to the employment relationship, either expressly or impliedly, and to whether the parties believed they were creating the employer-employee relationship.” (Kowalski, supra, 23 Cal.3d at pp. 176-178, footnotes and internal citations omitted.)

- “Moreover, that an alleged special employer can have an employee removed from the job site does not necessarily indicate the existence of a special employment relationship. Anyone who has the employees of an independent contractor working on his premises could, if dissatisfied with an employee, have the employee removed. Yet, the ability to do so would not make the employees of the independent contractor the special employees of the party receiving the services.” (Kowalski, supra, 23 Cal.3d at p. 177 fn. 9.)
- [T]he jury need not find that [the worker] remained exclusively defendant's employee in order to impose liability on defendant. Facts demonstrating the existence of a special employment relationship do not necessarily preclude a finding that a particular employee also remained under the partial control of the original employer. Where general and special employers share control of an employee's work, a ‘dual employment’ arises, and the general employer remains concurrently and simultaneously, jointly and severally liable for the employee's torts.” (Marsh, supra, 26 Cal.3d at pp. 494–495.)

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL3935. Prejudgment Interest (Civ. Code, § 3288)

If you decide that [name of plaintiff] is entitled to recover damages for past economic loss in one or more of the categories of damages that [she/he/it] claims, then you must decide whether [he/she/it] should also receive prejudgment interest on each item of loss in those categories. Prejudgment interest is the amount of interest the law provides to a plaintiff to compensate for the loss of the ability to use the funds. If prejudgment interest is awarded, it is computed from the date on which each loss was incurred until the date on which you sign your verdict.

Whether [name of plaintiff] should receive an award of prejudgment interest on all, some, or none of any past economic damages that you may award is within your discretion. If you award these damages to [name of plaintiff], you will be asked to address prejudgment interest in the special verdict form.

New December 2016

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the court determines that the jury may award prejudgment interest. In an action for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract, and in every case of oppression, fraud, or malice, interest may be given, in the discretion of the jury. (Civ. Code, § 3288.) The statute allows the jury to award prejudgment interest on any claim within its scope. (Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22; 582 P.2d 109].) The special verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

The role of the jury in awarding prejudgment interest is not clear from Civil Code section 3288. This instruction assumes that the court exercises a gatekeeper function of deciding whether the case is one to which the statute applies. The jury does not select the interest rate, which is seven percent as a matter of law. (Michelson v. Hamada (1994) 29 Cal.App.4th 1566, 1585 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 343].)

It is settled that prejudgment interest cannot be awarded on damages for the intangible, noneconomic aspects of mental and emotional injury because they are inherently nonpecuniary, unliquidated, and not readily subject to precise calculation. (Greater Westchester Homeowners Assn v. L.A. (1979) 26 Cal.3d 86, 102–103 [160 Cal.Rptr.733, 603 P.2d 1329].) This instruction assumes that implicit in the reasoning for denying prejudgment interest for noneconomic damages is authorization to award it on all past economic damages, as these amounts are pecuniary and subject to more precise calculation. This instruction should not be given unless damages of this nature are claimed.

Since the statute is permissive, the jury has the discretion to deny prejudgment interest, even if it might otherwise be authorized. (See King v. Southern Pacific Co. (1895) 109 Cal.96, 99 [41 P. 786] [error to instruct jury that it must add prejudgment interest to award of damages].)

Whether interest may be compounded is also not resolved. (Compare Douglas v. Westfall (1952) 113 Cal.App. 2d 107, 112 [248 P.2d 68] [trustee cannot be charged with compound interest unless s/he has been guilty of some positive misconduct or willful violation of duty; in cases of mere negligence, no more than simple interest can properly be added] and State v. Day (1946) 76 Cal.App.2d 536, 554 [173 P.2d 399] [general rule is that interest may not be computed on accrued interest unless by special statutory provision, or by stipulation of the parties] with Michelson, supra, 29 Cal.App.4th at p. 1588 [jury is vested with discretion to award prejudgment interest under section 3288, including compound interest] and McNulty v. Copp (1954) 125 Cal.App.2d 697, 712 [271 P.2d 90] [compound interest is properly allowed on a claim for wrongful and fraudulent detention of personalty].)

- Interest on obligation not arising from contract. Civil Code section 3288.
- “Under Civil Code section 3288, the trier of fact may award prejudgment interest ‘[in] an action for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract, and in every case of oppression, fraud, or malice’ ” (Bullis, supra, 21 Cal.3d at p. 814, original italics.)
- “[U]nlike Civil Code section 3287, which relates to liquidated and contractual claims, section 3288 permits discretionary prejudgment interest for unliquidated tort claims.” (Greater Westchester Homeowners Assn, supra, 26 Cal.3d at p. 102.)
- “In Bullis, we characterized prejudgment interest as ‘awarded to compensate a party for the loss of his or her property.’ The award of such interest represents the accretion of wealth which money or particular property could have produced during a period of loss. Using recognized and established techniques a fact finder can usually compute with fair accuracy the interest on a specific sum of money, or on property subject to specific valuation. Furthermore, the date of loss of the property is usually ascertainable, thus permitting an accurate interest computation.” (Greater Westchester Homeowners Assn, supra, 26 Cal.3d at pp. 102–103, internal citations omitted.)
- “The award of [prejudgment] interest represents the accretion of wealth which money or particular property could have produced during a period of loss.” (Canavin v. Pac. Southwest Airlines (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 512, 525 [196 Cal.Rptr. 82].)
- “However, damages for the intangible, noneconomic aspects of mental and emotional injury are of a different nature. They are inherently nonpecuniary, unliquidated and not readily subject to precise calculation. The amount of such damages is necessarily left to the subjective discretion of the trier of fact. Retroactive interest on such damages adds uncertain conjecture to speculation. Moreover where, as here, the injury was of a continuing nature, it is particularly difficult to determine when any particular increment of intangible loss arose. Acknowledging the problem, the trial court arbitrarily resorted to an ‘averaging’ method applied to both the amount and duration of the loss. In our view this process was impermissibly speculative.” (Greater Westchester Homeowners Assn, supra, 26 Cal.3d at p. 103.)
- “The amount of damages awarded in a wrongful death case designed to compensate these noneconomic losses are akin to those awarded for pain and suffering and emotional distress in Greater Westchester and do not support prejudgment interest. However, plaintiffs are entitled to prejudgment interest on those damages attributable to an ascertainable economic value, such as loss of household services or earning capacity, as well as funeral and related expenses. “[It] is important to underscore that [an] award is invalid only to the extent it represents interest on “the intangible noneconomic aspects of mental and emotional injury” claimed by plaintiffs. [Citation.] If plaintiffs allege specific damage that is supported by tangible evidence, prejudgment interest may properly be awarded under Civil Code section 3288.’ ” (Canavin, supra, 148 Cal.App.3d at p. 527, internal citations omitted.)

- “Whether the proper interest rate was applied is a question of law. There is no legislative act specifying the rate of prejudgment interest for a fraud claim, and therefore the constitutional rate of 7 percent applies” (Michelson, supra, 29 Cal.App.4th at p. 1585.)
- “Section 3288 ... allows interest from date of monetary loss at the discretion of the trier of fact even if the damages are unliquidated.” (Stein v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 565, 572 [8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 907].)
- “[T]his action lies in tort and it is the generally accepted view that [prejudgment] interest cannot be awarded on damages for personal injury.” (Curtis v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 668, 686 [180 Cal.Rptr. 843].)

[A/An] [agent/stockbroker/real estate agent/real estate broker/corporate officer/partner/[insert other fiduciary relationship]] owes what is known as a fiduciary duty to [his/her/its] [principal/client/corporation/partner/[insert other fiduciary relationship]]. A fiduciary duty imposes on [a/an] [agent/stockbroker/real estate agent/real estate broker/corporate officer/partner/[insert other fiduciary relationship]] a duty to act with the utmost good faith in the best interests of [his/her/its] [principal/client/corporation/partner/[insert other fiduciary relationship]].

New June 2006; Revised December 2010, December 2016

Directions for Use

This instruction explains the nature of a fiduciary duty. It may be modified if other concepts involving fiduciary duty are relevant to the jury’s understanding of the case. For instructions on damages resulting from misrepresentation by a fiduciary, see CACI No. 1923, Damages—“Out of Pocket” Rule, and CACI No. 1924, Damages—“Benefit of the Bargain” Rule.

The elements of a cause of action for breach of fiduciary duty are the existence of a fiduciary relationship, its breach, and damage proximately caused by that breach. (Knox v. Dean (2012) 205 Cal.App.4th 417, 432-433 [140 Cal.Rptr.3d 569].) No fraudulent intent is required. (See Civ. Code, § 1573 (defining “constructive fraud”).)

Such a relation ordinarily arises where a confidence is reposed by one person in the integrity of another, and in such a relation the party in whom the confidence is reposed, if he voluntarily accepts or assumes to accept the confidence, can take no advantage from his acts relating to the interest of the other party without the latter’s knowledge or consent. . . . ’ ’ ’ ” (*Wolf v. Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 4401, Misappropriation of Trade Secrets—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 4402, “Trade Secret” Defined, CACI No. 4403, Secrecy Requirement, CACI No. 4404, Reasonable Efforts to Protect Secrecy, and CACI No. 4412, “Independent Economic Value” Explained.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

DRAFT - NOT APPROVED BY JUDICIAL COUNCIL

In question 1, briefly describe the material alleged to be a trade secret that is set forth in detail in element1 of CACI No. 4401. Then in question 2, select a short term to describe the material.

Additional questions may be added depending on whether misappropriation is claimed in question 5 by acquisition, disclosure, or use. See CACI No. 4405, Misappropriation by Acquisition, CACI No. 4406, Misappropriation by Disclosure, and CACI No. 4407, Misappropriation by Use, for additional elements that the jury should find in each kind of case.

Modify the claimed damages in question 7 as appropriate depending on the circumstances. (See CACI No. 4409, Remedies for Misappropriation of Trade Secret.) If unjust enrichment is alleged, additional questions on the value of the benefit to the defendant and the defendant's reasonable expenses should be included. (See CACI No. 4410, Unjust Enrichment.)

In cases involving more than one trade secret, the jury must answer all of the questions in the verdict form separately for each trade secret at issue.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

5003. Witnesses

A witness is a person who has knowledge related to this case. You will have to decide whether you believe each witness and how important each witness's testimony is to the case. You may believe all, part, or none of a witness's testimony.

In deciding whether to believe a witness's testimony, you may consider, among other factors, the following:

- (a) How well did the witness see, hear, or otherwise sense what he or she described in court?
- (b) How well did the witness remember and describe what happened?
- (c) How did the witness look, act, and speak while testifying?
- (d) Did the witness have any reason to say something that was not true? For example, did the witness show any bias or prejudice or have a personal relationship with any of the parties involved in the case or have a personal stake in how this case is decided?
- (e) What was the witness's attitude toward this case or about giving testimony?

Sometimes a witness may say something that is not consistent with something else he or she said. Sometimes different witnesses will give different versions of what happened. People often forget things or make mistakes in what they remember. Also, two people may see the same event but remember it differently. You may consider these differences, but do not decide that testimony is untrue just because it differs from other testimony.

However, if you decide that a witness ~~did not tell the truth~~~~deliberately testified untruthfully~~ about something important, you may choose not to believe anything that witness said. On the other hand, if you think the witness ~~did not tell the truth~~~~testified untruthfully~~ about some things but told the truth about others, you may accept the part you think is true and ignore the rest.

Do not make any decision simply because there were more witnesses on one side than on the other. If you believe it is true, the testimony of a single witness is enough to prove a fact.

You must not be biased against any witness because of his or her disability, gender, race, religion, ethnicity, sexual orientation, age, national origin, [or] socioeconomic status[, or [insert any other impermissible form of bias]].

This instruction may be given as either an introductory instruction before trial (see CACI No. 107) or as a concluding instruction.

The advisory committee recommends that this instruction be read to the jury before reading instructions on the substantive law.

In the last paragraph, the court may delete inapplicable categories of potential jury bias.

- Standard 10.20(a)(2) of the Standards for Judicial Administration provides: “In all courtroom proceedings, refrain from engaging in conduct and prohibit others from engaging in conduct that exhibits bias, including but not limited to bias based on disability, gender, race, religion, ethnicity, and sexual orientation, whether that bias is directed toward counsel, court personnel, witnesses, parties, jurors, or any other participants.”
- Canon 3(b)(5) of the Code of Judicial Ethics provides: “A judge shall perform judicial duties without bias or prejudice. A judge shall not, in the performance of judicial duties, engage in speech, gestures, or other conduct that would reasonably be perceived as (1) bias or prejudice, including but not limited to bias or prejudice based on race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, or socioeconomic status, or (2) sexual harassment.” Canon 3(b)(6) requires the judge to impose these standards on attorneys also.

Committee's Responses to Public Comments

Civil Justice Association, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

We appreciate that one goal of composing jury instructions is to use plain language. However, in this instance, we believe that the current instruction more clearly imparts to the jury the meaningful distinction between testifying untruthfully with intent, and merely offering testimony that differs from other evidence. “Lied” is used broadly outside the courtroom and jurors may attach more or less intent to the word than is appropriate to the circumstances. In this case a precise instruction is preferable to one that is less precise but in less formal language. We recommend that “deliberately testified untruthfully” remain in the instruction.

Committee Response:

The committee has changed “lied” to “did not tell the truth.”

State Bar of California, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Ruben A. Ginsberg, Chair

The word “lied” is strong language that to some jurors may mean something more than or different from “deliberately testified untruthfully.” We believe that rather than simplify the instruction, the word “lied” would create ambiguity. Rather than use the word “lie,” we would substitute “deliberately did not tell the truth” for “deliberately testified untruthfully” and “did not tell the truth” for “testified untruthfully.”

Committee Response:

The committee agreed and made these changes.

303, Breach of Contract—Essential Factual Elements

Civil Justice Association of California, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

We believe the new paragraph in “Directions for Use” would be clearer with a more definite reference to CACI No. 430, Causation—Substantial Factor. We encourage the Council to consider directions to give No. 430 in tandem with No. 303. In particular the discussion of the relationship between “substantial factor” and the “but-for” test is made clearer by linking No. 303 with No. 430. For example, the citation to Haley v. Casa Del Rey Homeowners Assn. (2007) 153 Cal.App.4th 863 sets a very low bar for causing harm in a breach of contract action. The Directions for Use under CACI No. 430 make it clear that the substantial factor standard subsumes the “but-for” test—that is, the “but-for” test is still contained in the substantial factor standard, although the substantial factor standard goes beyond “but-for” alone. The citation to Yanez v. Plummer (2013) 221 Cal.App.4th 180 found in the Directions for Use under No. 430 makes this point more clearly:

“ . . . if a defendant’s negligence was a substantial factor in causing the plaintiff’s harm, then the defendant is responsible for the harm; a defendant cannot avoid responsibility just because some other person, condition or event was also a substantial factor in causing the plaintiff’s harm; but conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct.” Yanez v. Plummer (2013) 221 Cal.App.4th 180, 187.

CACI 303 and 430 still set a low bar for a substantial factor in causing harm especially when the Haley case is added to the Directions for Use. The new paragraph in the Directions for Use would be made clearer if it is explained that causation between the alleged breach and damage is an essential element of a claim for breach of contract. (McDonald v. John P. Scripps Newspaper (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104.) This is consistent with the new case excerpts added to “Sources and Authority.” Moreover, alleged breach of contract harm or damages which are speculative, remote, imaginary, contingent, or merely possible cannot serve as a legal basis for recovery. (McDonald, supra, 210 Cal.App.3d at p. 104.)

Committee Response:

The proposed new paragraph cross refers to CACI No. 430.

In the next release cycle The committee will further consider the extent to which CACI No. 430 applies in an action for breach of contract.

Committee Response:

No response is necessary.

706, Basic Speed Law

Civil Justice Association of California, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

The new Directions for Use raise the prospect of negligence per se findings or rulings based solely on speed in excess of the posted speed limit. We note that the citation to Faselli v. Southern Pac. Co. (1957) 150 Cal.App.2d 644 is deleted from the Sources and Authority. Faselli supported an instruction that proof of speed in excess of a prima facie limit is not enough, standing alone, to show negligence.

Inserting the proposed Directions for Use and the citation to Hert v. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and eliminating the cases currently listed under Sources and Authority may have the unintended consequence of per se rulings for excessive speed without consideration of the other enumerated factors such as weather, conditions, visibility and the particular facts of the case that will allow the finder of fact to determine reasonableness.

Committee Response:

The committee agrees that it is not negligence per se to drive above the posted speed limit. It is negligence per se to drive at an “unreasonable” speed. CACI No. 707 is the posted speed limit instruction, which addresses the points made in this comment, and which includes Faselli in the Sources and Authority.

Orange County Bar Association, by Todd G. Friedland, President

Minor suggested changes: 1) place a “.” after “per se.”; 2) delete “,” and 3) Delete parentheses for “(see” and 369].)” and make the sentence “See Hert. . . . 369] which establishes” without parentheses.

Committee Response:

The committee has decided not to change the title at this time.

We agree with the committee’s proposal to add the following sentence to the instruction to explain that, in the bad faith context, “unreasonably” means having “no proper cause”: “To act or fail to act ‘unreasonably’ means that the insurer had no proper cause for its conduct.”

Committee Response:

The committee understands the comment to suggest taking the citation within the sentence out of parentheses, which would be inconsistent with CACI format standards.

State Bar of California, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Ruben A. Ginsberg, Chair

We agree with the new Directions for Use.

Committee Response:

No response is necessary.

In the Sources and Authority, Maxwell v. Colburn (1980) 105 Cal.App.3d 180 and Monreal v. Tobin (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 1337 help to illustrate the application of the statute. We would not delete those citations.

Committee Response:

The committee has restored the excerpt from Maxwell to the Sources and Authority.

The committee did not restore the excerpt from Monreal. Any relevance of the case to reasonable or unreasonable speed is thin at most. Also, it is not in proper CACI format because it is not a direct quote from the opinion.

710, Duties of Care for Pedestrians and Drivers in Crosswalk

We suggest the elimination of the third paragraph of instruction No. 710:

“The failure of a pedestrian to exercise reasonable care does not relieve a driver of a vehicle from the duty of exercising reasonable care for the safety of any pedestrian within any marked crosswalk or within any unmarked crosswalk at an intersection.”

The proposed language appears to say that a driver who does not yield to a pedestrian in a crosswalk, regardless of the pedestrian’s contributing actions, will always have breached the duty of care owed.

The proposed language appears to negate the idea of comparative negligence and hold drivers at a higher standard. Since California Vehicle Code 21950(b) states that pedestrians are not relieved from duty of using due care and California Vehicle Code 21950(d) states that a driver is not relieved of duty of using due care for the safety of any pedestrian, this paragraph seems unnecessary and should be eliminated or revised to state: “The failure of one party to exercise reasonable care does not relieve another party from the duty of exercising reasonable care.”

Committee Response:

The statute gives both the pedestrian and the driver the duty of due care. Subsection (d) makes it clear that the driver still must exercise due care for the pedestrian’s safety, even if the pedestrian is not paying attention. The committee sees this as a provision providing for comparative fault, not negating it.

The proposed rewrite to make the language “driver-pedestrian neutral” would be a correct statement of the law, but not the statement presented in the statute.

Orange County Bar Association, by Todd G. Friedland, President

OCBA recommends keeping old CACI 710 as is. The revision appears to unnecessarily restrict the instruction to pedestrians in crosswalks and does not address other circumstances such as pedestrians not in crosswalks but rather entering the roadway to get into the driver’s seat of their parked car, among other examples.

Further, the proposed revisions, for no apparent reason, disregards the leading authorities on this topic, which hold that a driver must exercise a greater duty of care than a pedestrian because a driver is operating a “machine capable of” projecting negligence on another. (See Dawson v. Lalanne (1937) 22 Cal.App.2d 314, 31 and Cucinella v. Weson Biscuit Co. (1954) 42 Cal.2d 71, 75-76.) Neither of these cases have been disapproved on any grounds.

If a new CACI re Crosswalk were to be approved, (which we do recommend), OCBA would use the proposed language of the instruction and the proposed language for the Directions for Use and of Sources and Authority.

Committee Response:

The committee understands the comment to approve the language of the proposed revised CACI No. 710, but to oppose the elimination of the current 710.

The committee recognizes that the proposed change is actually a new instruction, not really a revision. So it would be possible to make the proposed revised 710 a new instruction with a new number, while keeping current 710 also.

However, current CACI No. 710 simply says that drivers must use more care than pedestrians. The committee does not find this instruction to be particularly helpful to a jury. This general statement does not help a jury resolve the particular facts of their case. A comparative-fault analysis will be required. The committee has concerns that a jury might inappropriately raise the driver’s percent based solely on this instruction.

State Bar of California, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Ruben A. Ginsberg, Chair

We agree with the revisions to the instruction and Directions for Use.

Committee Response:

No response is necessary.

We suggest adding the following to the Sources and Authority, which is excerpted from an instruction that Cucinella v. Weston Biscuit Co. (1954) 42 Cal.2d 71 held “correctly states the law” and “should have been given” (id. at p. 81):

“ ‘The driver of a motor vehicle, when ordinarily careful, will be alertly conscious of the fact that he is in charge of a machine capable of projecting into serious consequences any negligence of his own. Thus his caution must be adequate to that responsibility as related to all the surrounding circumstances. A pedestrian, on the other hand, has only his own physical body to manage and with which to set in motion a cause of injury. While, usually, that fact limits his capacity to cause injury, as compared with a vehicle driver, still, in exercising ordinary care, he, too, will be alertly conscious of the mechanical power acting, or that may act, on the public roadway, and of the possible, serious consequences from any conflict between himself and such forces.’ ” (Cucinella v. Weston Biscuit Co. (1954) 42 Cal.2d 71, 75-76, 81.)

We suggest including this excerpt because it provides the California Supreme Court’s guidance as to the reasonable care each party should use and may dispel confusion created by a split in authority over Dawson v. Lalanne (1937) 22 Cal.App.2d 314. Dawson held the trial court erred by refusing to give an instruction that both parties were “ ‘chargeable only with the exercise of ordinary care, but a greater amount of such care was required of the [motorist]’ ” (Id. at pp. 314-315.) While most courts have followed Dawson, at least one has rejected it. (See Cucinella, supra, 42 Cal.2d at p. 80 [“Since the Dawson decision, supra, numerous other cases have approved instructions couched in substantially the same language”]; compare Arentz v. Blackshere (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 638, 640 [stating it was error to reject a similar instruction because “Cucinella forecloses argument that the rejection was not erroneous”] with Rangel v. Badolato (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 254, 259 [upholding the rejection of a similar instruction and criticizing the instruction as inaccurate].)

Committee Response:

The committee has added the proposed excerpt from Cucinella to the Sources and Authority. While far from recent, it is from the California Supreme Court and does speak to the relative duties of care of drivers and pedestrians, which is the subject of the crosswalk statute.

The committee does not feel it is necessary to address, in the Sources and Authority or otherwise, a possible split of authority that may have existed before the statute was enacted and before comparative fault.

To provide clarity, we would also shorten the first sentence of the paragraph quoting Spann v. Ballesty (1969) 276 Cal.App.2d 754:

~~“The phrase ‘immediate hazard’ in Vehicle Code § 21950 When the pedestrian suddenly leaves his place of safety, the vehicle must be so close as to constitute an immediate hazard. Such wording [in Veh. Code § 21950] ‘indicates the statute was intended to apply to those situations where a pedestrian unexpectedly asserts his right-of-way in an intersection at a time when the vehicle is so close that it is virtually impossible to avoid an accident. Typical situations include’”~~

Committee Response:

The committee does not find the proposed language to be an improvement. Also, the language is not quite a direct quote from the case.

2505, Retaliation—Essential Factual Elements

Civil Justice Association of California, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

We recommend that the instruction include the language “intentional and” before “substantial motivating factor” to provide instruction that more clearly defines the plaintiff’s burden.

We note that in the current Directions for Use the following appears:

“The committee believes that the instruction as given is correct for the intent element in a retaliation case. (Cf. Wallace v. County of Stanislaus (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 109, 127–132 [for disability discrimination, “substantial motivating reason” is only language required to express intent].)

However, the “motivating reason” does not adequately highlight that the plaintiff’s burden is to convince the jury that the retaliation was purposeful. (See Scotch v. Art Inst. Of Orange County (2009) 173 Cal.App.4th 986, 1020-21 (2009):

“By establishing a prima facie case of retaliation, Scotch shifted the burden to AIC of showing a legitimate, nonretaliatory reason for the adverse employment action. For the reasons we have explained, AIC met its burden. The burden therefore shifted back to Scotch to prove intentional retaliation. Scotch did not meet that burden: He failed to submit evidence showing AIC’s reasons were a pretext and the decision to reduce his course assignments had a retaliatory motive. (internal citations omitted.)

Committee Response:

The committee does not agree with the legal argument raised in the comment. The committee believes that intent is inherent in the requirement of a substantial motivating reason. The court in Wallace says as much, though limited to disability discrimination.

“The phrase ‘because of’ [in Gov. Code, § 12940(a)] is ambiguous as to the type or level of intent (i.e., motivation) and the connection between that motivation and the decision to treat the disabled person differently.” (245 Cal.App.4th at p. 127, emphasis added.)

Similarly, if engaging in activity protected by the FEHA is a substantial motivating reason for an employer’s adverse action, then it is implicit that the employer intended to retaliate.

A rehearing has been granted in the Castro-Ramirez v. Dependable Highway Express, Inc. case placing the force of its authority in a tentative state. For this reason, Castro-Ramirez should not be cited in the jury instructions.

Committee Response:

Castro-Ramirez has now been decided on rehearing. The language chosen for excerpting remains in the new opinion. However, it is unlikely that the case will be final before content is finalized for publication. Therefore, the committee will defer all references to Castro-Ramirez to the next release cycle.

We question the proposed addition of Castro-Ramirez v. Dependable Highway Express, Inc. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 180, 202 (2016) to the Sources and Authority. We recommend instead that the citation should be to Yanowitz v. L’Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal.4th 1028, 1046-1047. The Castro-Ramirez excerpt is a direct citation from the California Supreme Court’s decision in Yanowitz.

The language in the proposed addition to Sources and Authority quoted from Castro-Ramirez is helpful and fair; however, Yanowitz should be cited as the source of the language.

Committee Response:

CACI standards for the Sources and Authority are to add an excerpt from a new case, even if it is quoting older authority. Yanowitz is currently excerpted.

Nevertheless, because Castro-Ramirez will likely not be final in time, this excerpt will be deferred.

Orange County Bar Association, by Todd G. Friedland, President

The proposed changes to the Directions for Use with respect to Wallace v. County of Stanislaus (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 109, 127-132 comports with the decision in that case. However, it may be inappropriate to include a citation to Castro-Ramirez v. Dependable Highway Express, Inc. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 180, 202 because a rehearing was granted, and at least part of the case is no longer citeable (which part is being reheard is the question at this point).

Committee Response:

As noted above, Castro-Ramirez has now been decided on rehearing, but will likely not be final in time for publication.

State Bar of California, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Ruben A. Ginsberg, Chair

We agree with the revision to the Directions for Use.

Committee Response:

No response is necessary.

In the Sources and Authority, we believe the quotation from Castro-Ramirez v. Dependable Highway Express, Inc. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 180, 202, quoting Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal.4th 1028 should indicate that Yanowitz is the source of the quotation. Rather than omit the internal citations, we would include the internal citations to make this clear.

Committee Response:

We would add the following language to the excerpt in the Sources and Authority from Wallace v. County of Stanislaus (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 109, 128, reflecting the Wallace court's understanding of how the California Supreme Court in Harris resolved the noted ambiguity in the phrase "because of."

"Based on Harris, we conclude that an employer has treated an employee differently 'because of' a disability when the disability is a substantial motivating reason for the employer's decision to subject the employer to an adverse employment action."

Committee Response:

This language is relevant to disability discrimination. CACI No. 2505 is the retaliation instruction.

The beginning of the quotation from Wallace is missing an opening quotation mark, and there is an extra closing quotation mark after the words "because of."

Committee Response:

Any such errors will be corrected by Judicial Council staff copyeditors and the publisher's cite checkers..

2506, Limitation on Remedies—After-Acquired Evidence

Civil Justice Association of California, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

We recommend that the third element in the instruction be adopted without the words "as a matter of settled company policy."

The California Supreme Court's articulation of the after-acquired evidence standard in Salas v. Sierra Chemical Co. (2014) 59 Cal.4th 407 does not include the unduly restrictive "as a matter of settled company policy" language. The "settled company policy" language in the third element, which comes from Murillo v. Rite Stuff Foods, Inc. (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 833, 842, 845-846, is too stringent. After-acquired evidence is not a complete defense to liability, but may foreclose otherwise available remedies (Salas v. Sierra Chemical Co. (2014) 59 Cal.4th 407, 430-431), and an employer should be able to use the defense to limit those otherwise available remedies if it shows that it would have terminated the employee had it known of the misconduct. In Salas, the Supreme Court of California simply stated that the defense would apply "[w]hen the employer shows that information acquired after the employee's claim has been made would have led to a lawful discharge or other employment action . . ." (Id. at 430.)

The addition of the "settled company policy" language is unnecessarily restrictive. An employer should be able to show the jury that, even if a particular offense had not occurred before or that the employer had not yet confronted the exact type of misconduct presented in the case at issue, the employer nevertheless considers the misconduct so severe that it would nevertheless have made the decision to discharge/not hire the plaintiff. There is no need for the "settled" policy limitation. The employer still must convince the jury that it “would have” discharged the employee had it known of the after-acquired evidence of misconduct, and that itself is a sufficiently stringent burden on the employer.

Committee Response:

“Settled company policy” has been in the instruction since original adoption. As such, it is beyond the scope of proposed revisions, and would have to be considered by the committee in the next release cycle.

However, while it may be true that Salas does not expressly require a settled company policy, there is mention of company policy in the case. The court notes that “The Court of Appeal concluded there was no triable issue of fact because a mere mismatch could have an innocent explanation and was not necessarily inconsistent with the evidence that defendant employer had a settled policy of refusing to hire applicants who submitted false Social Security numbers.” Hence, the court below applied a requirement that the termination for after-acquired evidence would have to be taken in accord with a settled company policy.

Murillo expressly says that “[t]he employer must show that such a firing would have taken place as a matter of settled company policy.” (65 Cal.App.4th at p. 846.) Murillo is binding authority until the supreme court says differently.

Agnew Brusavich, Attorneys at Law, Torrance, by Bruce M. Brusavich

Having been involved for many years in the political process in Sacramento on behalf of CAOC and as a member of the Civil Small Claims Advisory Committee where I worked through the deliberative process of drafting proposals to enact Rules of Court or propose changes in the law to deal with new court decisions or legislative enactments requiring such changes, I have a thorough understanding of the differences in the two processes. Given the fact that there has been no appellate decision critical of CACI 2334 which would justify the Committee's proposal to change the instruction, making such a proposal gives the appearance that the Committee is acquiescing to special-interest pressure for a change, something more common in the legislative process.

Committee Response:

The committee may recommend updates and revisions to a jury instruction without a case that expressly says that an instruction is wrong. If the case says that the elements of the claim are a, b, c, and d, and the instruction omits c, then c must be added, whether or not the court expressly says that the instruction is wrong.

Finally, I believe the proposed change to CACI 2334 would create jury confusion since essentially it asks them to answer the question as to whether or not the failure to accept the policy limit demand was unreasonable after already having to have made a determination as to whether or not the policy limit demand itself was reasonable. The proposed change is also likely to create years of appellate litigation which is not existing with the current instruction.

Committee Response:

Whether or not two different elements involving reasonableness are confusing, if it is the law, then the committee must present the elements in a way that attempts to lessen the confusion. Originally, the instruction read that the insurer “unreasonably failed to accept a reasonable [policy limits] settlement demand.” Arguably, the elements would be less confusing if separated into two, as was proposed in the draft posted for public comment. What would be most useful would be one case from the California Supreme Court resolving the issue.

We question the reference in the Directions for Use to Salas as creating uncertainty whether the doctrine of after-acquired evidence is an equitable defense. The California Supreme Court in Salas did not discuss whether it was an equitable defense. Absence of this discussion does not establish uncertainty whether the defense is an equitable one.

Committee Response:

The committee believes that the Supreme Court’s failure to label after-acquired evidence as an equitable defense after clearly calling unclean hands one is something to be noted.

There is a minor typographical error in the second paragraph, 5th sentence: “elements could be found be the court” should read “elements could be found by the court.”

Committee Response:

This error has been fixed.

State Bar of California, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Ruben A. Ginsberg, Chair

The Directions for Use appropriately state that the doctrine of after-acquired evidence is not a complete defense to liability. Still, we believe the term “equitable defense” may create some confusion because an equitable defense ordinarily is a complete defense. We suggest using the term “equitable doctrine” in lieu of “equitable defense” wherever those words appear in the second paragraph.

We also suggest the following revisions for greater clarity:

“There is some uncertainty as to whether or not it is an equitable ~~defense doctrine~~. ... If it is an equitable ~~defense doctrine~~, then the judge is the proper fact finder. Accordingly, the fact finding in the elements of the this instruction would be only advisory to the court, or the elements could be found by the court itself as the trier of fact.

Committee Response:

The committee agrees that “equitable doctrine” is a more accurate description than “equitable defense” and has made this change.

The committee does not find the other proposed changes to add any clarity.

2540, Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements

Civil Justice Association of California, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

We do not support the change to a disability discrimination definition that includes this language: “It is not necessary for [name of plaintiff] to prove that [name of defendant] held any ill will or animosity toward [him/her] personally because [he/she] was [perceived to be] disabled.” A disability discrimination definition that does not require some sort of ill will or animosity is much too broad.

Committee Response:

Per Wallace v. County of Stanislaus (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 109, no ill will or animosity is required in a disability discrimination case.

The excerpt from Wallace that begins with “Although the same statutory language,” is likely to promote confusion by suggesting that disability is more protected from discrimination than race, religion, national origin, age, and sex. The excerpt seems to say that disability is the most protected type of discrimination and minimizes these other forms of discrimination. We recommend the deletion of this excerpt.

Committee Response:

The excerpt is an exact quote from the opinion, which is all that CACI format requires. The committee has no concern that pointing out how disability differs from other protected classifications will be seen to minimize the others.

Stephen M. Murphy, Attorney at Law, San Francisco

I agree with the revision. However, element 4 should be amended to say "with or without accommodation" rather than "with accommodation" only.

Committee Response:

The proposed revision is not necessary. "With accommodation" is bracketed. If one leaves out the bracketed language, one has "without accommodation."

3103, Neglect—Essential Factual Elements

Russell S. Balisok, Attorney at Law, Glendale

The proposed change to 3103 element 1 speaks to "substantial" caretaking or custodial relationship with the victim. Could "substantial" be defined in the new instruction? I suggest the committee might look to CACI 430, Causation: Substantial Factor, for the definition of substantial, in order that the new 3013 be as understandable as possible to jurors.

Committee Response:

The committee does not find “substantial” to be a difficult concept for a jury to grasp.

CACI No. 430 is a very specialized instruction on causation in tort law generally. Its language is not necessarily appropriate in other situations in which substantiality is required absent some authority that says that it applies.

The language at element 1 referring to "ongoing responsibility for his/her basic needs" is problematic. My problem is with the phrase "basic needs." I recognize this language is derived from the Court's opinion in Winn. But confusion is sure to follow as to what "basic needs" means. In Winn, at the bottom of p. 158, the Court clearly includes the failure to provide medical care for physical and mental health needs as a "basic need." But will a juror so conclude without help?

In that vein, element 1 doesn't match up with the list of examples of neglect at element 3 of the instruction. In other words, uncertainty leading to confusion concerning "basic needs" could lead the jury to answer questions about "basic needs," "no" even though the jury was ready to find a failure to assist with personal hygiene, to provide medical care, to protect from health and safety hazards, prevent malnutrition, etc. I believe the simple solution to this problem is to alter element 3 to read as follows:

"That ... defendant failed to use that degree of care that a reasonable person in the same situation would have used in providing for the [victim's] basic needs including [insert one or more of the following]"

This suggested change would provide needed guidance to the jury by linking elements 1 and 3 while still limiting application of "neglect" to basic needs, and would minimize the problem that could arise with a misunderstanding and misapplication of an unaided requirement of "basic needs."

Committee Response:

The committee agreed with the comment and has made the suggested revision to element 3.

In Winn, the court expands on “basic needs” as things that “an able-bodied and fully competent adult would ordinarily be capable of managing without assistance.” (63 Cal.4th at p. 158.) The committee has also added this language to element 1.

Winn v. Pioneer Medical Group, Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 148, 160, stated that to be liable for neglect under Welfare and Institutions Code section 15610.57 a defendant must have "a caretaking or custodial relationship that arises where an elder or dependent adult depends on another for the provision of all or some of his or her fundamental needs." Winn also stated, "the Act does not apply unless the defendant health care provider had a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship, involving ongoing responsibility for one or more basic needs, with the elder patient." (63 Cal.4th at p. 152.) We believe the word "substantial" adds nothing helpful to the instruction and may cause misunderstanding or confusion, so we would delete the word "substantial," as in the language on page 160 of the opinion.

Accordingly, we would also delete "substantial" in the penultimate paragraph of the Directions for Use.

The Sources and Authority include the quote from Winn at page 152 with the word "substantial," but not the quote on page 160 without that word. We agree that only one of the two quotes is needed. We would choose the language on page 160 of the opinion (quoted above) without the word "substantial."

Committee Response:

3511, Permanent Severance Damages

Civil Justice Association of California, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

We note that the words “or by the construction and use of the [name of condemnor’s] proposed project, or by both” have been deleted from the second paragraph of the proposed instruction, but that the remainder of the instruction retains references to the condemnor’s proposed project in elements 2 and 3. We recommend these sentences be examined to determine whether they should be modified as well.

Committee Response:

It is the reference to “construction,” not the reference to the project that has caused the deletion of this language. Loss due to construction creates a potential temporary severance damages claim. The instruction is being revised to exclude its use for temporary severance damages.

We note the addition of “Permanent” to the instruction title and that the Directions for Use specify permanent loss of value. The proposed final case excerpt added to the Sources and Authority regarding temporary severance damages seems out of place. A separate instruction on temporary severance damages may be more useful to juries.

Committee Response:

The excerpt is a placeholder for now. The committee will in fact consider a new instruction on temporary severance in the next release cycle.

3706, 3707, Special Employment

Civil Justice Association of California, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

The third paragraph of Directions for Use for No. 3706 states that the relevant secondary factors to use in deciding whether a special employment relationship exists are similar, but not identical, to the factors to be used in an independent contractor analysis. Since they are not identical we recommend citing two California Supreme Court decisions: Patterson v. Domino’s Pizza, LLC (2014), 60 Cal 4th 474, and Ayala v. Antelope Valley Newspapers, Inc. (2014) 59 Cal 4th 522).

Committee Response:

The Directions for Use currently cite State ex rel. Dept. of California Highway Patrol v. Superior Court (2015) 60 Cal.4th 1002, 1013–1014 for this paragraph, which is more recent than Patterson and Ayala. CACI does not use string cites.

The Supreme Court has also described bad-faith conduct as a refusal to pay policy benefits "without proper cause." But each time it has used that formulation, it has done so in the context of a first-party claim for policy benefits) not in a third-party failure to settle context. (See Gruenberg v. Aetna Ins. Co. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 566, 574 [first-party claim for insurer's failure to pay fire-loss claim].) I have not located a Supreme Court decision that has framed the bad-faith inquiry in the third party failure-to-settle context in terms of the insurer refusing to accept a reasonable settlement offer "without proper cause." Accordingly, I question whether the proposed change to the instruction to put the inquiry in those terms is accurate.

Committee Response:

The committee found this to be a valid point. It is among the reasons why the committee has elected not to propose the draft of CACI No. 2334 at this time, but to instead, frame the unresolved issues in the Directions for Use.

Joel Davis, California Attorney General's Office, Supervising Deputy Attorney General, Tort and Condemnation Section

Agree with proposed draft except for introductory paragraph that suggests a "special employment" relationship is necessarily created when one employer sends an employee to work for another employer. Recommend amending the language to instruct that a "special employment" relationship may be created in such a case, based on factors to be considered by the jury.

Suggest revising this sentence as follows:

"When one employer sends or loans an employee to work for another employer, a special employment relationship may be created that may affect the duties and responsibilities between the two employers and the employee."

Committee Response:

The committee agrees with the comment. Lending may (but not necessarily will) lead to a special employment relationship. But if the relationship is created, then duties and responsibilities are affected (not "may be" affected). In the proposed revision, the committee agrees with the first "may be," but not with "may affect."

Orange County Bar Association, by Todd G. Friedland, President

The OCBA agrees with the revised CACI Instruction with the following modifications. The last sentence of the first paragraph should read:

"This area of the law is commonly referred to as "special employment." The employee is referred to as a "borrowed employee."

Further, throughout the instruction where it states "special employee," that should be changed to "borrowed employee."

Committee Response:

"Special employee" cannot be changed to "borrowed employee" throughout.

For example, paragraph 3 says:

“In deciding whether [worker] was [employer]’s borrowed employee ...”

That is not the question that the jury must answer. It is not in dispute that the second employer has borrowed the worker. What the jury has to decide is whether the attributes of the lending relationship have changed its legal effects. For that inquiry, a unique legal label, such as “special” is needed.

In the Sources and Authority, the OCBA does not agree with removing the excerpt from Kowalski v. Shell Oil Co. (1979) 23 Cal.3d 168, 176. “The contract cannot affect the true relationship of the parties to it. Nor can it place an employee in a different position from that which he actually held.” This quote is still good law and should stay in the instruction.

Committee Response:

This language from Kowalski may be good law in other contexts, but here, it is not.

With regard to special employment, if the contract gives the borrowing employer the right to control, it makes no difference whether or not that control is actually exercised. Hence, the contract can place an employee in a different position from the one actually held.

State Bar of California, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Ruben A. Ginsberg, Chair

The last sentence in the proposed new first paragraph includes a superfluous definition of a term, “special employer,” that is never used either in the language read to the jury or the bracketed language guiding the court and counsel. We would omit this definition.

Committee Response:

Although the instruction never uses “special employer,” only “special employee” the committee believes that it is helpful to introduce both terms as they will both be encountered in authorities.

The term “borrowed employee” is more descriptive than “special employee” and would be more understandable to jurors. We would modify the last sentence in the proposed new first paragraph of the instruction as follows:

“In this situation, the borrowing employer is known as a ‘special employer’ and the employee is referred to as a “special borrowed employee.”

Committee Response:

The committee believes that “special borrowed employee” is just too many words and more confusing than helpful.

We would substitute “borrowed employee” for “special employee” in the second, third, and fourth paragraphs of the instruction.

Committee Response:

This point is addressed in the proposed response to the comment of the Orange County Bar Association above.

In the Directions for Use, we would delete the third and fourth sentences in the first paragraph as unnecessary. These sentences say:

“The borrowing employer is called the ‘special’ employer. The lending employer is sometimes called the ‘general’ employer, though use of that term may be confusing to a jury.”

Committee Response:

The committee believes that these sentences are helpful in clarifying the nomenclature in an area where the nomenclature can be very confusing. The committee is dropping the use of “general” entirely, though it will be found in the case law. An explanation of why is helpful to users.

In the second paragraph, first sentence, we would substitute “borrowed employee” for “special employee.” The sentence would read:

“The instruction as drafted is for use by the lending employer to claim that the worker should be considered as the borrowed employee of the borrowing employer.

Committee Response:

Addressed above

In the third paragraph, first sentence, we would substitute “borrowing employer” for “special employer.” (The sentence would read:

“In addition to the ~~alleged special~~ borrowing employer’s control over the employee, there are a number of relevant secondary factors to use in deciding whether a special employment relationship existed.”)

Committee Response:

The committee has made this change. Because it appears in the Directions for Use and not in the instruction text, the proposed revision simplifies the language without creating any lack of clarity for the jury.

3935, Prejudgment Interest

Civil Justice Association of California, by Hal Dasinger, Legislative Director

We have concerns that the proposed No. 3595 would cause confusion for a jury trying to determine how much interest to award and for what items of loss.

With regard to the amount of interest to award, reference to a capped amount in the instruction would address the issue.

Committee Response:

The committee does not understand what is meant by “a capped amount.” There is no cap on prejudgment interest other than the number produced by $I = PRT$.

As for the applicable items of loss, adding the following language will help identify the issue for the jury:

“If you decide that [name of plaintiff] is entitled to recover damages for past economic loss in one or more of the categories of damages that [she/he/it] claims, which will be identified in the special verdict form, then you must decide whether [he/she/it] should also receive prejudgment interest on each item of loss in those categories.”

The last sentence of the proposed instruction then becomes unnecessary.

We are concerned that to leave the instruction in its current form suggests that the jury can award interest in all items of loss first as opposed to identifying the applicable items first in the special verdict form.

Committee Response:

The committee does not share this concern. The special verdict form will be populated with the items of damages on which prejudgment interest can be added. The jury will not be able to award interest on all items of loss.

In the Directions for Use, the second paragraph contains language to the effect that the court should play a gatekeeper function in deciding whether it is the type of case to which the statute applies. The court also should play a gatekeeper function in determining whether the case involves the type of damages to which prejudgment interest can be applied. In other words, there are two gatekeeper functions (1) is it the type of claim for which prejudgment interest can be awarded?; (2) has there been some showing that plaintiff has suffered the type of economic, tangible, pecuniary loss to which prejudgment interest can be applied?

We recommend an addition to the Directions for Use to the effect of: “Give this instruction only if the court determines that the plaintiff has presented some evidence that it has suffered an economic, pecuniary loss, to which prejudgment interest can be applied.”

Committee Response:

The committee agrees with the comment. The opening sentence, which suggested uncertainty, has been removed. And a sentence has been added at the end of the third paragraph to make it explicit that the jury should not be instructed on prejudgment interest if no past economic damages are claimed.

Orange County Bar Association, by Todd G. Friedland, President

This is a new instruction, not a revision as sometimes indicated.

Committee Response:

The committee has not found any place where it is indicated that it is a revision. The date clearly says “New December 2016.”

This instruction needs revisions to conform to the requirements of Civil Code § 3288. For instance, the statute is applicable only if the action does not arise in contract or if the action is for oppression, fraud, or malice. The instruction should be rewritten in conformity with the format of others which require the jury to determine first that (a) the Defendant breached an obligation not arising from a contract, or (b) the Defendant acted with oppression, fraud, or malice then ... (remainder of current instruction).

Committee Response:

The instruction does not need to tell the jury in what kinds of cases prejudgment interest may be awarded. First, the committee has concluded that the jury does not decide that issue. If it’s because of the breach of an obligation not arising from contract, there will be instructions on the underlying noncontract cause of action. And if it’s because of oppression, fraud, or malice, there will be instructions on punitive damages.

The instruction cites for its authority Civil Code § 3287(a) but makes no distinctions between requirements of each. Clarity is needed as to whether this instruction is strictly a Civil Code § 3288 instruction, or a combination of Civil Code § 3288 and § 3287(a) or neither.

Committee Response:

The instruction is only for use under section 3288; not under section 3287. The committee has remove Section 3287 from the Sources and Authority in order to resolve this uncertainty.

This instruction “assumes” that the court exercises a “gate keeper function” in determining that the two statutes are applicable, but never defines nor clarifies the role of the court and the jury in any required determinations.

Committee Response:

The committee believes that the Directions for Use make it clear that there are unresolved questions about the respective roles of court and jury.

State Bar of California, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Ruben A. Ginsberg, Chair

The term “entry” in the language “the date of entry of your verdict” may be unfamiliar to some jurors. We would change this to “the date you sign your verdict.”

Committee Response:

The committee agrees and has made this change.

We would modify the second paragraph of the instruction as follows for greater simplicity and clarity:

“~~You will decide~~ ~~W~~whether [name of plaintiff] ~~should~~ receives an award of prejudgment interest on all, some, or none of any past economic damages that you may award ~~is within your~~ ~~discretion~~. If you award these damages to [name of plaintiff], you will be asked to decide on address prejudgment interest in the special verdict form.”

Committee Response:

The committee finds no improvement in the suggested language.

We find the first two sentences in the second paragraph of the Directions for Use unhelpful. The first sentence refers to uncertainty regarding the role of the jury in awarding prejudgment interest under Civil Code section 3288 without explaining the nature of the uncertainty. The second sentence refers to the gatekeeper function of the court in deciding whether the statute applies, but it is unclear how the court’s role in this regard differs from the court’s role in deciding whether to give any other instruction. We would delete these two sentences, and retain the third sentence.

Committee Response:

The committee believes that there is uncertainty and that these sentences are helpful. Nothing in the statute clarifies the roles of judge and jury in awarding prejudgment interest. And the case law is sparse and nondeterminative. One California Supreme Court case suggests that that jury should make the actual computation. (See Greater Westchester Homeowners Assn v. L.A. (1979) 26 Cal.3d 86, 102–103 [“Using recognized and established techniques a fact finder can usually compute with fair accuracy the interest on a specific sum of money, or on property subject to specific valuation.”].) Many on the committee find this language to be advisory rather than directive, and believe that the jury’s role should be limited to finding any facts that are required before the court can do the math.

We find most of the third paragraph in the Directions for Use unhelpful. It is not clear what is meant by “determining the number to be multiplied by the interest rate,” so we would strike the first sentence.

The second sentence refers to the reason for prohibiting prejudgment interest on noneconomic damages. The stated reason is potentially confusing because on the one hand, Civil Code section 3288 authorizes prejudgment interest on unliquidated tort claims (Greater Westchester Homeowners Assn. v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal.3d 86, 102; Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat. Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814), but on the other hand, prejudgment interest is not allowed on noneconomic damages because such damages “are inherently nonpecuniary, unliquidated and not readily subject to precise calculation.” (Greater Westchester, at p. 103.)

The jury cannot award prejudgment interest on noneconomic damages. The instruction is limited to economic damages. In our view, the Directions for Use should state the rule and the appropriate use of the instruction without attempting to provide further explanation. We would strike the third paragraph of the Directions for Use and replace it with the following:

“Prejudgment interest cannot be awarded on noneconomic damages. (Greater Westchester Homeowners Assn. v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal.3d 86, 103.) This instruction allows prejudgment interest only on past economic damages.”

Committee Response:

As noted above, the committee has removed the first sentence. With that sentence gone, the committee believes that it has addressed the tenor of the comment. What remains (with a clarifying sentence added in response to the comment of the Civil Justice Association above) is just a slightly longer iteration of the comment’s proposed rewrite.

The first bullet point in the Sources and Authority cites Civil Code section 3287, subdivision (a), which authorizes prejudgment interest if damages are certain or capable of being made certain. But this instruction is based on section 3288, which separately authorizes prejudgment interest without relying on section 3287. We would delete the first bullet point.

Committee Response:

As noted above, section 3287 has been removed from the statutory authorities.

Some of the internal quotation marks in the seventh and eighth bullet points in the Sources and Authority should be corrected, and the ninth bullet point is missing a closing quotation mark.

Committee Response:

These errors have been fixed.

Re: Invitation to comment on proposed CACI Instruction 3103

To whom it may concern:

I write on behalf of Consumer Attorneys of California (CAOC), California's state wide, non-partisan and non-profit association of plaintiff's attorneys. Our mission statement, in part, is to "seek justice for all... by advancing the common law and promoting the public good through the civil justice system and concerted efforts to secure safe products, a safe workplace, a clean environment, and quality health care." Many of our attorneys are leading experts in the field of elder abuse.

CAOC believes that the proposed changes to CACI 3103, the "Neglect – Essential Factual Elements," will result in unnecessary litigation; lengthen trial time, and useless confusion. Thus we respectfully ask that CACI 3103 remain unchanged. First, the proposed changes do not reflect an accurate statement of the law, and would expand a narrow judicial finding to apply to all cases involving the neglect of an elder or dependent adult. Second, the language utilized is vague and renders the proposed instruction unusable and will open the door to additional appellate practice seeking guidance as to the definitions of the terms employed.

1. That [[name of individual defendant]/[name of employer defendant]'s employee] had a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship with care or custody of [name of plaintiff/decedent], involving ongoing responsibility for [his/her] basic needs;

The changes rely exclusively upon the recent Supreme Court holding in Winn v. Pioneer Medical Group, Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 148. The Winn decision did nothing to change the Elder Abuse Act or its application, and therefore no changes should be made to these instructions. In Winn, the Court held, in a narrow finding, that in the context of outpatient medical treatment, in order to be held liable under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act (Welfare & Institutions Code §15600, et seq.) it must be established that said health care provider "has a caretaking or custodial relationship with the elder or dependent adult." (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at 156, 165.) Nowhere in Winn, either in dicta or the holding does the Supreme Court suggest that the plaintiff can only meet the care or custody element of an elder abuse claim by demonstrating defendant's responsibility for a plaintiff's basic needs. The court repeatedly states that care or custody is demonstrated by defendant's responsibility for "one or more of an elder's basic needs that an able-bodied and fully competent adult would ordinarily be capable of managing without assistance.” (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at 158 (emphasis added).)

Further, other cases have described the type of relationship (i.e. custodial) required to satisfy “neglect” under the Elder Abuse Act, and none of those cases triggered the need for a fundamental change in the CACI instruction.

The Winn case which is cited in the use notes, and relied on as the authority for the purported changes was decided in the face of very specific facts (involving the outpatient care of an elder person who was competent and able bodied). Ultimately, nothing about the finding in Winn changes Elder Abuse or Dependent Adult law in California. At most, the case provides a definition for what constitutes “care or custody” and throughout the decision the California Supreme Court confirms that “care or custody” means accepting responsibility for attending to one or more of the basic needs of an elder or dependent adult. Nothing in the Winn decision changes the requirement that to prevail under the elder abuse act, a caretaking or custodial relationship must be demonstrated. The recommended change would require plaintiff to meet an additional burden of proof not required by the statute, and does so without providing guidance for the language recommended therein.

Finally, these changes do nothing to add to the clarity of the instruction and only serve to cause unnecessary confusion. The goal of the CACI instructions “is to improve the quality of jury decision making by providing standardized instructions that accurately state the law in a way that is understandable to the average juror.” The proposed change to CACI 3103 would not have this effect. By adding language such as “substantial” and “ongoing,” the proposed changes all but guarantee confusion and misapplication of the law to the facts by jurors. Use of these terms violates the explicit provisions of Rules of Court, Rule 2.1050 which holds that these instructions are to “accurately state the law in a way that is understandable to the average juror.” The use of the terms “substantial” and “ongoing,” without definition or context, render said terms well beyond the reach or understanding of the average juror.

In light of the above, we respectfully request that the proposed change to CACI 3013 be rejected and that the language of said instruction be left unaltered such that it continues to mirror the language of the Elder Abuse Act at Welf. & Inst. Code §15610.57.

Respectfully submitted,

To the Advisory Committee:

As an attorney specializing in elder abuse and neglect litigation for over 20 years, I submit the following comment on the proposed revision to CACI 3101, "Neglect Essential Factual Elements:"

I believe the revision is unwarranted as it will be confusing to the average juror. In fact, it appears that the purpose of the proposed revision is to discourage and restrict cases brought pursuant to the Elder Abuse and Adult Civil Protection Act (EADACPA) by requiring unnecessary language from the recently decided Winn v. Pioneer Medical Group, Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 148 case. Specifically, the proposed revision requests that a defendant must be found to have had a "substantial" and ongoing caretaking and custodial relationship with the elder or dependent adult (Winn, supra 63 Cal.4th 156, 165). Again, this language is not necessary since the Winn court, and all other appellate law to date, acknowledges that the cases of Delaney v. Baker (1999) 20 Cal.4th 23 and Covenant Care Inc. v. Superior Court (2014) 32 Cal.4th 771 have already established the parameters, as required under EADACPA, of a "caretaking or custodial relationship" when a person or entity accepts responsibility for tending to the basic needs of an elder or dependent adult.

Regarding the above, the Winn case involved outpatient treatment of a fully competent individual and, thus, there was no "care or custody" allowing for an EADACPA claim.

Conversely, Delaney involved a facts scenario in which an elder in a Skilled Nursing Facility was neglected in an egregious fashion. Call bells were ignored, and a Stage IV coccyx pressure sore (a wound down to the bone) developed, leading to death as a result of failure to turn the patient in addition to a lack of basic hygiene: evidence presented at the three-week trial verified that the plaintiff, Rose Wallien, was left sitting in her own feces. Similarly, the Covenant Care facts involved allegations of a Skilled Nursing Facility and managing care company conspiring to keep an elder, Juan Inclan, in Skilled Nursing Facilities (rather than sending him to an acute hospital for care he needed regarding dehydration, malnourishment, and severe pressure sores) in order to improperly collect lucrative Medicare payments.

Critically analyzing changes of the language of jury instructions to achieve justice is important and difficult work and it is important to avoid unintended consequences that have the potential to undo important public policy as set forth by the legislature. This is especially true in the area of elder abuse that is needed (and stated in the W&I 15000 Statutes) to protect the “vulnerable elderly”.

Re: Proposed Changes to CACI 3103

To the Advisory Committee:

I am writing on behalf of California Advocates for Nursing Home Reform (“CANHR”) and myself to oppose the proposed changes to CACI 3103.

CANHR is a non-profit organization that works to improve the lives of the thousands of residents of nursing homes and other long term care facilities in California. Its activities include legislative advocacy, attorney training and referral, and other services for elderly nursing home residents and their families. It is probably the leading advocacy agency in California working on issues of elder abuse in nursing homes and other long term care facilities.

My practice is limited to injury and elder abuse cases arising in long term care facilities. I am one of the authors of CEB, California Elder Law Litigation, an Advocate’s Guide. I have been amicus co-counsel in various published decisions in this field including Delaney v. Baker (1999) 20 Cal.4th 23 and Covenant Care, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 32 Cal.4th 771, both cited in Winn v. Pioneer Medical Group, Inc. (2016) 63 Cal. 4th 148.

The proposed change to CACI 3103 should not be adopted because they would extend the holding of Winn, supra, to many elder abuse cases where the narrow holding of Winn does not apply. Winn concerns the meaning of “care or custody” in Welfare and Institutions Code §15610.57(a)(1) in the ambiguous situation of outpatient medical treatment, not when there is unambiguously care and custody as with an in-patient in a hospital or a resident in a nursing home or assisted living facility.

When a doctor treats an elderly patient on an intermittent basis, as in Winn, does the doctor have care or custody of the patient? That is not clear. It depends on the facts of the case, and the holding of Winn is helpful to find the answer. As Winn says, 63 Cal. 4th at 159, it is important to distinguish medical negligence and elder abuse, as was explained in Delaney, supra, discussing W.&I.C. §15657.2, and it is also important to recognize that neglect under §15610.57 is “broad enough to encompass settings beyond residential care facilities,” 63 Cal. 4th at 160.

The import of this language in Winn must not be ignored: Care or custody is assumed in the residential care setting, and care or custody may or not occur with outpatient care by doctors, depending on the facts.

For these reasons it is important not to rewrite CACI 3103 to ask the jury to make additional new decisions that are not required by Winn.

It is appropriate to discuss the Winn case in the Sources and Authority section following CACI 3103, and perhaps in the Directions for Use as well, but Winn does not apply in cases of continuing care and custody in residential care facilities such as nursing homes and assisted living facilities.

The proposed changes to CACI 3103 do not accurately follow the holding of Winn, but the proposed changes would seriously mislead and confuse jurors about what §15610.57 means when the plain language of the statute is clear and obvious in institutional and other situations not covered by the holding in Winn.

For these reasons the present CACI 3103 should be left unchanged, with possibly some new Directions for Use explaining the application of Winn in the exceptional cases of non-residential care or custody.

Very truly yours,

Peter G. Lomhoff

Re: CACI 3103 Comment

To the Advisory Committee:

I have been an elder abuse litigator since April 2000 when my own grandmother was neglected in a skilled nursing facility in Southern California. I was a defense litigator at the time and I saw firsthand how difficult it was to advocate for even the most basic care of our elders in nursing homes. I took $500 inheritance and started my own practice advocating for this vulnerable population and haven't looked back.

Over the years, the legislative intent of encouraging capable advocates to take up the charge and privately enforce basic standards in elder care facilities has been slowly eroding. (Welf. & Inst. Code § 15600(j).) But elder abuse litigators are a tenacious bunch and we persevere. And while we must litigate within the bounds of the law, practically, we see unintended and at times illogical limitations being applied to the law by trial courts. I hope by submitting my comments on the proposed revision to CACI 3103, "Neglect – Essential Factual Elements" to avoid any such consequences.

I understand the committee's charge pursuant to California Rules of Court, Rule 2.1050 "is to improve the quality of jury decision making by providing standardized instructions that accurately state the law in a way that is understandable to the average juror." But the proposed changes in this instance do not serve that purpose. First, the Winn decision did nothing to change the Elder Abuse Act definition of Neglect, or requirement for a custodial relationship, and therefore no changes should be made to the instructions. Second, the proposed changes do not reflect an accurate statement of the law, but rather expands a narrow judicial finding based on case-specific facts (i.e. outpatient clinic) to apply to all cases involving the neglect of an elder or dependent adult. This is an invitation for confusion when claims are brought against elder care facility operators, who were obviously the intended target of the Elder Abuse Act. Finally, the language utilized is hopelessly vague and ambiguous and as such renders the proposed instruction unusable and will open the door to additional appellate practice seeking guidance as to the definitions of the terms employed.

Mr. Bruce Greenlee, Attorney

The proposed changes rely exclusively upon the recent Supreme Court holding in Winn v. Pioneer Medical Group, Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 148. In Winn, the Court held, in a narrow finding, that in the context of outpatient medical treatment, in order to be held liable under the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act (Welfare & Institutions Code §15600, et seq.) it must be established that said health care provider “has a caretaking or custodial relationship with the elder or dependent adult.” (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at 156, 165.)

First and foremost, “neglect” is defined by statute (Welf. & Inst. Code § 15610.67) and applies to those who have “care or custody” of an elder. Winn does not re-write the statute and therefore, CACI should not be rewritten to echo merely interpretative language. Other cases have described the type of relationship (i.e. custodial) required to satisfy “neglect” under the Elder Abuse Act, and none of those cases triggered the need for a fundamental change in CACI instruction. If Winn is limited to its very specific facts (outpatient medical treatment, limited and sporadic contact), then it is unclear why a modification should be made to the instruction at all.

As acknowledged by the Winn court, Delaney v. Baker (1999) 20 Cal.4th 23 and Covenant Care v. Superior Court (2004) 32 Cal.4th 771 (both Supreme Court decisions) already “illustrate” the “type of caretaking or custodial relationship that the Act requires: one where a party has accepted responsibility for attending to the basic needs of an elder or dependent adult.” As Delaney and Covenant Care have already provided guidance on this issue, and those cases did not prompt a proposed change in the CACI, the unique facts underlying Winn in no way warrant a change to the instruction and will not aid juries to reach the legally correct decision. As stated above, Winn establishes outpatient medical treatment is not a significant enough relationship to establish “care or custody”. The statute has not been changed by this decision (nor could it be), and neither should the CACI instruction regarding neglect, as defined by the statute.

Second, the insertion of the phrase “involving ongoing responsibility for [his/her] basic needs” leaves out words from Winn that are critically important and therefore, the suggested language is not an accurate statement of the law. Nowhere in the case, either in dicta or the holding does the Supreme Court suggest that the plaintiff can only meet the care or custody element of an elder abuse claim by demonstrating defendant’s responsibility for a plaintiff’s basic needs. In Winn, the court repeatedly states that care or custody is demonstrated by defendant’s responsibility for “one or more of an elder’s basic needs that an able-bodied and fully competent adult would ordinarily be capable of managing without assistance.” (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at 158 (emphasis added).)

Ultimately, nothing about the finding in Winn changes Elder Abuse or Dependent Adult law in California. At most, the case provides a definition for what constitutes “care or custody” and throughout the decision the California Supreme Court confirms that “care or custody” means accepting responsibility for attending to one or more of the basic needs of an elder or dependent adult. The changes being proposed under the guise of improving jury decision-making have the actual impact, whether intended or not, of adding an additional factual element that is not required under a plain reading of the statute.

Moreover, by adding language such as “substantial” and “ongoing,” the proposed changes all but guarantee confusion and misapplication of the law to the facts by jurors. Use of these terms violates the explicit provisions of Rules of Court, Rule 2.1050 which holds that these instructions are to “accurately state the law in a way that is understandable to the average juror.” The use of the terms “substantial” and “ongoing,” without definition or context, render said terms too subjective to be uniformly applied by jurors.

As to the term “substantial,” this word is of such significant legal impact, that in relation to its use in a finding of causation in a negligence action, the Judicial Council has gone so far as to create a separate jury instruction on the definition and use of the term “substantial.” (See, CACI 430, “Causation: Substantial Factor.”) As such, the vague nature of the term “substantial” has already been recognized in the context of the issue of causation, and the same concern exists here if not to a greater degree where jurors, in the context of the analysis of “care or custody” under the Act, will now be called upon to delineate or create the boundaries of this undefined term without instruction or direction.

The same is true as to the term “ongoing.” Here once again, jurors will be left to speculate as to the meaning of the term, particularly troublesome as the definition of “continuing to exist, happen or progress; continuing without reaching an end.” (Merriam-Webster’s Learner’s Dictionary, <<http://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/ongoing>> last accessed August 3, 2016.) The use of this term implies a relationship with defendant which endures, and will do nothing but confuse jurors as to what constitutes care or custody. For example, does “ongoing” mean conduct persisting over one 8 hour shift enough (such as neglecting one’s need to go emergently to the hospital upon a change of condition)? One day (such as failing to care for personal hygiene or implement a care plan requiring daily care)? One week (such as failing to turn and reposition with sufficient frequency to cause skin breakdown)? Entire period of residency in the elder care facility (such as systemic understaffing)?

Again, in light of the above, it is requested that the proposed change to CACI 3013 should be rejected and that the language of said instruction be left unaltered such that it continues to mirror the language of the Elder Abuse Act at Welf. & Inst. Code §15610.57, as set forth by the Legislature.

Mr. Bruce Greenlee, Attorney
August 11, 2016

It is further requested that the phrase, "in the case of a health care provider delivering care on an outpatient basis who fails to refer an elder or dependent adult/patient to a specialist" be added before the final proposed "Direction for Use" such that said "Direction for Use" shall now read:

In the case of a health care provider delivering care on an outpatient basis who fails to refer an elder or dependent adult/patient to a specialist, the Act does not extend to cases involving professional negligence against health-care providers as defined by the California Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act of 1975 (MICRA) unless the professional had a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship, involving ongoing responsibility for one or more basic needs, with the elder patient.

Re: Proposed Changes to CACI 3103

To the Advisory Committee:

I wish to submit the following comment on the proposed revision to CACI 3103, “Neglect – Essential Factual Elements.” Pursuant to California Rules of Court, Rule 2.1050, the goal of the CACI instructions “is to improve the quality of jury decision making by providing standardized instructions that accurately state the law in a way that is understandable to the average juror.” The proposed changes in this instance do not serve that purpose, as 1) the Winn decision did nothing to change the Elder Abuse Act or its application, and therefore no changes should be made to the instructions; 2) the proposed changes do not reflect an accurate statement of the law, and in fact attempt to expand a narrow judicial finding to apply to all cases involving the neglect of an elder or dependent adult; and 3) the language utilized is hopelessly vague and ambiguous and as such renders the proposed instruction unusable and will open the door to additional appellate practice seeking guidance as to the definitions of the terms employed.

First and foremost, the true motive underlying the proposed changes, which is clearly an attempt to restrict Elder and Dependent Adult Neglect cases by imposing the “substantial” caretaking and custodial relationship language set forth in Winn on all neglect cases and not just those involving outpatient medical treatment, is foreshadowed by the failure to accurately incorporate the language from Winn into the proposed new language. This is most easily illustrated by the phrase “involving ongoing responsibility for [his/her] basic needs.” Nowhere in the case, either in dicta or the holding does the Supreme Court suggest that the plaintiff can only meet the care or custody element of an elder abuse claim by demonstrating defendant’s responsibility for a plaintiff’s basic needs. The court repeatedly states that care or custody is demonstrated by defendant’s responsibility for “one or more of an elder’s basic needs that an able-bodied and fully competent adult would ordinarily be capable of managing without assistance.” (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at 158 (emphasis added).) As stated above, Winn establishes outpatient medical treatment is not a significant enough relationship to establish “care or custody”. The statute has not been changed by this decision (nor could it be), and neither should the CACI instruction regarding neglect, as defined by the statute.

The changes being proposed under the guise of improving jury decision-making have the actual impact, whether intended or not, of adding an additional factual element that is not required under a plain reading of the statute.

“substantial” has already been recognized in the context of the issue of causation, and the same concern exists here if not to a greater degree where jurors, in the context of the analysis of “care or custody” under the Act, will now be called upon to delineate or create the boundaries of this undefined term without instruction or direction.

The use of this term implies a relationship with defendant which is never ending, and will do nothing but confuse jurors as to what constitutes care or custody.

Ultimately, nothing about the finding in Winn changes Elder Abuse or Dependent Adult law in California. At most, the case provides a definition for what constitutes “care or custody” and throughout the decision the California Supreme Court confirms that “care or custody” means accepting responsibility for attending to one or more of the basic needs of an elder or dependent adult. At most, the Winn decision provides that the Supreme Court found “care” and “custody” to be synonymous. One need look no further than the first sentence of the Conclusion in Winn wherein the Court held, “Plaintiffs cannot bring a claim of neglect under the Elder Abuse Act unless the defendant health care provider has a caretaking or custodial relationship with the elder or dependent adult.” (Winn, supra, 63 Cal.4th at 165.)

The Winn case which is cited in the use notes, and relied on as the authority for the purported changes was decided in the face of very specific facts, to wit the outpatient care of an elder person who was competent and able bodied. The recommended change would require plaintiff to meet an additional burden of proof not required by the statute, and does so without providing guidance for the language recommended therein. Nothing in the Winn decision changes the requirement that to prevail under the elder abuse act, a caretaking or custodial relationship must be demonstrated.

The Winn case arose out of the outpatient treatment of a fully competent elderly woman, and in that narrow context properly held there was no care or custody, and thus the Plaintiff could not adequately alleged neglect under the Elder Abuse Act. Nothing in the holding of Winn changes the statute or the law in California on the elements the plaintiffs must prove in order to prevail on a claim for neglect under the Act. As such, CACI 3103 must remain unchanged.

Again, in light of the above, it is requested that the proposed change to CACI 3013 should be rejected and that the language of said instruction be left unaltered such that it continues to mirror the language of the Elder Abuse Act at Welf. & Inst. Code §15610.57, as set forth by the Legislature.

It is further requested that the phrase, “in the case of a health care provider delivering care on an outpatient basis who fails to refer an elder or dependent adult/patient to a specialist” be added before the final proposed “Direction for Use” such that said “Direction for Use” shall now read:

In the case of a health care provider delivering care on an outpatient basis who fails to refer an elder or dependent adult/patient to a specialist, the Act does not extend to cases involving professional negligence against health-care providers as defined by the California Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act of 1975 (MICRA) unless the professional had a substantial caretaking or custodial relationship, involving ongoing responsibility for one or more basic needs, with the elder patient.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1301, Assault—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

As appropriate to the facts of the case, read one of the bracketed alternative sets of questions 1 and 2.

~~This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1301, Assault—Essential Factual Elements.~~

Give the bracketed words in question 2 only if the offensive nature of the conduct is at issue. In most cases, it will be clear whether the alleged conduct was offensive. The offensive nature of the conduct will most likely not be at issue if the conduct was clearly harmful.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 5 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest. This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred prior to judgment.

If the jury returns a verdict of no harm, the plaintiff is still entitled to an award of nominal damages, such as one dollar. If nominal damages are being sought, modify the directions after question 6 to direct the jury to skip question 7 and answer question 8 if they find no harm. Then add a new question 8: “What amount of nominal damages do you award [name of plaintiff]?” If this is done, add a direction after question 7 that the jury should not answer question 8. Please note that the committee has found no cases requiring the jury to determine the amount of nominal damages.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 7 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1700, ~~Defamation per se—Essential Factual Elements (Public Officer/Figure and Limited Public Figure)~~.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

~~This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1700, Defamation per se—Essential Factual Elements (Public Officer/Figure and Limited Public Figure).~~

Multiple statements may need to be set out separately, and if separate damages are claimed as to each statement, separate verdict forms may be needed for each statement because all the elements may need to be found as to each statement.

Give the jury question 3 only if the statement is not defamatory on its face.

In question 7, omit damage items c and d if the plaintiff elects not to present proof of actual damages for harm to reputation and for shame mortification, or hurt feelings. Whether or not proof for both categories is offered, include question 8. For these categories, the jury may find that no actual damages have been proven but must still make an award of assumed damages.

Omit question 10 if the issue of punitive damages has been bifurcated.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

*If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see *Bullis v. Security Pac. Additional questions may be needed on the issue of punitive damages if the defendant is a corporate or other entity.

Omit question 10 if the issue of punitive damages has been bifurcated.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1730, Slander of Title—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Slander of title may be either by words or an act that clouds title to the property. (See, e.g., Alpha & Omega Development, LP v. Whillock Contracting, Inc. (2011) 200 Cal.App.4th 656, 661 [132 Cal.Rptr.3d 781] [filing of lis pendens].) If the slander is by words, select the first option in question 2. If the slander is by means other than words, specify the means in question 1 and how it became known to others in question 2.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional; depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

Under Civil Code section 3344(a), the plaintiff may recover actual damages or $750, whichever is greater. The plaintiff may also recover any profits that the defendant received from the unauthorized use that were not taken into account in calculating actual damages. (Orthopedic Systems Inc. v. Schlein (2011) 202 Cal.App.4th 529, 547 [135 Cal.Rptr.3d 200].) The advisory committee recommends calculating the defendant's profits to be disgorged separately from actual damages. Questions 5 through 8 take the jury through the recommended course. If no actual damages are sought, question 5 may be omitted and the jury instructed to enter $750 as the total actual damages in question 6. If the jury awards actual damages of less than $750, the court should raise the amount to $750. If there is no claim to disgorge the defendant's wrongful profits, questions 7 and 8 may be omitted.

Additional questions may be necessary if the facts implicate Civil Code section 3344(d) (see Directions for Use under CACI No. 1804B, Use of Name or Likeness—Use in Connection With News, Public Affairs, or Sports Broadcast or Account, or Political Campaign).

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the actual damages listed in question 6 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1900, Intentional Misrepresentation.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 6. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form.

However, if both intentional misrepresentation and negligent misrepresentation (see CACI No. 1903) are to be presented to the jury in the alternative, the preferred practice would seem to be that this verdict form and VF-1903, Negligent Misrepresentation, be kept separate and presented in the alternative. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

With respect to the same misrepresentation, question 2 above cannot be answered “yes” and question 3 of VF-1903 cannot also be answered “no.” The jury may continue to answer the next question from one form or the other, but not both.

If both intentional and negligent misrepresentation are before the jury, it is important to distinguish between a statement made recklessly and without regard for the truth (see question 2 above) and one made without reasonable grounds for believing it is true (see CACI No. VF-1903, question 3). Question 2 of VF-1903 should be included to clarify that the difference is that for negligent misrepresentation, the defendant honestly believes that the statement is true. (See Bily v. Arthur Young & Co. (1992) 3 Cal.4th 370, 407–408 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 51, 834 P.2d 745].)

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest. This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred prior to judgment.

VF-1901. Concealment

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of defendant] intentionally fail to disclose [a] fact[s] that [name of plaintiff] did not know and could not reasonably have discovered?
___ Yes ___ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of defendant] intend to deceive [name of plaintiff] by concealing the fact?
___ Yes ___ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Had the omitted information been disclosed, would [name of plaintiff] reasonably have behaved differently?
___ Yes ___ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Was [name of defendant]'s concealment a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
___ Yes ___ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest. This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred prior to judgment.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1902, False Promise.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If multiple promises are at issue, question 1 should be repeated to specify each one; for example: “1. Did [name of defendant] promise [name of plaintiff] that [specify promise]?” The rest of the questions will need to be repeated for each promise.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 7. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action (or from different promises), replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1903, Negligent Misrepresentation.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 7. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. However, if both negligent misrepresentation and intentional misrepresentation (see CACI No. 1903) are to be presented to the jury in the alternative, the preferred practice would seem to be that this verdict form and VF-1900, Intentional Misrepresentation, be kept separate and presented in the alternative. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

With respect to the same misrepresentation, question 3 above cannot be answered “no” and question 2 of VF-1900 cannot also be answered “yes.” The jury may continue to answer the next question from one form or the other, but not both.

If both intentional and negligent misrepresentation are before the jury, it is important to distinguish between a statement made without reasonable grounds for believing it is true (see question 3 above) and one made recklessly and without regard for the truth (see CACI No. VF-1900, question 2). Include question 2 to clarify that the difference is that for negligent misrepresentation, the defendant honestly believes that the statement is true. (See Bily v. Arthur Young & Co. (1992) 3 Cal.4th 370, 407–408 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 51, 834 P.2d 745].)

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest. This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred prior to judgment.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2002, Trespass to Timber—Essential Factual Elements. The amount of actual damages found by the jury is to be doubled. (See Civ. Code, § 3346(a).) The court can do the computation based on the jury’s award.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If there is an issue regarding whether the defendant exceeded the scope of plaintiff's consent, question 3 can be modified, as in element 3 in CACI No. 2002.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 5 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest. ~~This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred prior to judgment.~~

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2521A, Hostile Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 of CACI No. 2521A. Depending on the facts of the case, other factual scenarios for employer liability can be substituted in questions 6 and 7, as in element 6 of the instruction.

Modify question 2 if plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges harassment because he or she was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 9 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest. This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred before judgment.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2540, Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Select a term to use throughout to describe the source of the plaintiff’s limitations. It may be a statutory term such as “physical disability,” “mental disability,” or “medical condition.” (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a).) Or it may be a general term such as “condition,” “disease,” or “disorder.” Or it may be a specific health condition such as “diabetes.”

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 of CACI No. 2540. Depending on the facts of the case, other factual scenarios can be substituted in questions 3 and 6, as in elements 3 and 6 of the instruction.

For question 3, select the claimed basis of discrimination: an actual disability, a history of a disability, a perceived disability, or a perceived history of a disability. For an actual disability, select “know that [name of plaintiff] had.” For a perceived disability, select “treat [name of plaintiff] as if [he/she] had.”

If medical-condition discrimination as defined by statute (see Gov. Code, § 12926(i)) is alleged, omit “that limited [insert major life activity]” in question 3. (Compare Gov. Code, § 12926(i) with Gov. Code, § 12926(j), (l) [no requirement that medical condition limit major life activity].)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest. This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred prior to judgment.

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2546, Disability Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—Failure to Engage in Interactive Process.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

~~This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2546, Disability Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—Failure to Engage in Interactive Process.~~

Select a term to use throughout to describe the source of the plaintiff's limitations. It may be a statutory term such as "physical disability," "mental disability," or "medical condition." (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a).) Or it may be a general term such as "condition," "disease," or "disorder." Or it may be a specific health condition such as "diabetes."

If medical-condition discrimination as defined by statute (see Gov. Code, § 12926(i)) is alleged, omit "that limited [insert major life activity]" in question 3. (Compare Gov. Code, § 12926(i) with Gov. Code, § 12926(j), (m) [no requirement that medical condition limit major life activity].)

Do not include the transitional language following question 7 and question 8 if the only damages claimed are also claimed under Government Code section 12940(m) on reasonable accommodation. Use CACI No. VF-2509, Disability Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation, or CACI No. VF-2510, Disability Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship, to claim these damages.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

~~This form may be modified if the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to~~

~~award prejudgment interest on specific losses that occurred prior to judgment.~~

There is a split of authority as to whether the employee must also prove that reasonable accommodation was possible before there is a violation for failure to engage in the interactive process. (Compare Wysinger v. Automobile Club of Southern California (2007) 157 Cal.App.4th 413, 424–425 [69 Cal.Rptr.3d 1] [jury’s finding that no reasonable accommodation was possible is not inconsistent with its finding of liability for refusing to engage in interactive process] with Nadaf-Rahrov v. The Nieman Marcus Group, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal.App.4th 952, 980–985 [83 Cal.Rptr.3d 190] [employee who brings a section 12940(n) claim bears the burden of proving that a reasonable accommodation was available before the employer can be held liable under the statute].)

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2527, Failure to Prevent Harassment, Discrimination, or Retaliation—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant. These questions should be added to the verdict form that addresses the underlying claim of discrimination, retaliation, or harassment if the plaintiff also asserts a separate claim against the employer for failure to prevent the underlying conduct. The jury should not reach these questions unless it finds that the underlying claim is proved.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 3 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. New December 2013; Revised December 2015, December 2016

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2512, Limitation of Damages—Same Decision. It incorporates questions from VF-2500, Disparate Treatment, and VF-2504, Retaliation, to guide the jury through the evaluation of the employer's purported legitimate reason for the adverse employment action.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Question 5 asks the jury to determine whether the employer's stated legitimate reason actually was a motivating reason for the adverse action. In this way, the jury evaluates the employer's reason once. If it finds that it was an actual motivating reason, it then proceeds to question 6 to consider whether the employer has proved "same decision," that is, that it would have taken the adverse employment action anyway for the legitimate reason, even though it may have also had a discriminatory or retaliatory motivation. If the jury answers "no" to question 5 it then proceeds to consider substantial-factor causation of harm and damages in questions 7 and 8.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 2, as in element 2 in CACI No. 2500.

Modify question 4 if plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges discrimination because he or she was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3062, Gender Price Discrimination—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

The award of a penalty in question 4 refers to the right of the jury to award a maximum of three times the amount of actual damages but not less than $4,000. (See Civ. Code, § 52(a).) The judge should correct the verdict if the jury award goes over that amount. Also, if jury awards nothing or an amount less than $4,000 in question 4 then the judge should increase that award to $4,000 to reflect the statutory minimum.

It is possible that questions 2 and 3 may be omitted if only the statutory minimum $4,000 award is sought. With regard to the Unruh Act (Civ. Code, § 51), which is also governed by Civil Code section 52(a), the California Supreme Court has held that a violation is per se injurious, and that section 52 provides for minimum statutory damages for every violation regardless of the plaintiff's actual damages. (See Koire v. Metro Car Wash (1985) 40 Cal.3d 24, 33 [219 Cal.Rptr. 133, 707 P.2d 195].)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 3 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3066, Bane Act—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Give the first option for elements 1 and 2 if the defendant has threatened violence. Give the second option if the defendant actually committed violence.

Civil Code section 52(a) provides for damages up to three times actual damages but a minimum of $4,000 for violations of Civil Code section 51 (Unruh Act), 51.5, and 51.6. Civil Code section 52(b) provides for punitive damages for violations of Civil Code sections 51.7 (Ralph Act) and 51.9. Neither subsection of Section 52 mentions the Bane Act or Civil Code section 52.1. Nevertheless, the Bane Act refers to section 52. (See Civ. Code, § 52.1(b).) This reference would seem to indicate that damages may be recovered under both subsections (a) and (b) of section 52. The court should compute the damages under section 52(a) by multiplying actual damages by three, and awarding $4,000 if the amount is less. Questions 5 addresses punitive damages under section 52(b).

If no actual damages are sought, the $4,000 statutory minimum damages may be awarded without proof of harm and causation. (See Koire v. Metro Car Wash (1985) 40 Cal.3d 24, 33 [219 Cal.Rptr. 133, 707 P.2d 195].) In this case, only questions 1 and 2 need be answered.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 4 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3100, Financial Abuse—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 3101, Financial Abuse—Decedent’s Pain and Suffering.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

~~This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3100, Financial Abuse—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 3101, Financial Abuse—Decedent’s Pain and Suffering.~~

If the plaintiff alleges that the defendant assisted in the wrongful conduct, modify question 1 as in element 2 of CACI No. 3100.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 4 and do not have to categorize “economic” and “noneconomic” damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If the jury answers “yes” to questions 1, 2, and 3, attorney fees and costs are recoverable from the individual defendant without any additional showing of any kind. (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657.5(a).) Attorney fees are also recoverable from the employer, assuming that standard vicarious liability is shown. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657.5(c).) Incorporate questions 3 and 4 from CACI No. VF-3700, Negligence—Vicarious Liability, to address the liability of the employer for the acts of the employee.

Should the financial abuse in some way have caused the victim’s death, the decedent’s pain and suffering before death is recoverable on a showing by clear and convincing evidence that the individual defendant acted with recklessness, oppression, fraud, or malice. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657.5(b); Code Civ. Proc., § 377.34.) In such a case, in question 4, include only item 4a for past economic loss. But also include questions 5 and 6.

If punitive damages are sought, incorporate a verdict form for punitive damages. (See CACI Nos. VF-3900–VF-3904.)

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3103, Neglect—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 3104, Neglect—Enhanced Remedies Sought, and CACI No. 3102A, Employer Liability for Enhanced Remedies—Both Individual and Employer Defendants.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

~~This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3103, Neglect—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 3104, Neglect—Enhanced Remedies Sought, and CACI No. 3102A, Employer Liability for Enhanced Remedies—Both Individual and Employer Defendants.~~

Question 3 can be modified to correspond to the alleged wrongful conduct as in element 3 of CACI No. 3103.

Optional questions 6, 7, and 8 address enhanced remedies. If the neglect is proved by clear and convincing evidence, and it is also proved by clear and convincing evidence that the individual defendant acted with recklessness, malice, oppression, or fraud, attorney fees, costs, and a decedent's predeath pain and suffering may be recovered. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657.) If any of these remedies are sought against the employer, include question 6. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15657(c).) Question 6 may be altered to correspond to one of the alternative bracketed options for employer liability in CACI No. 3102A.

If any enhanced remedies are sought against either the individual or the employer, include question 7. If the neglect led to the elder's death, in question 5 include only item 5a for past economic loss. But also include the transitional language after question 7 and include question 8.

In the transitional language after question 4, direct the jury to answer questions 6 or 7 or both, depending on which questions are to be included. If question 7 is to be included but question 6 is not, then 7 will be renumbered as 6.

If punitive damages are sought, incorporate language from a verdict form for punitive damages. (See CACI Nos. VF-3900–VF-3904.)

verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

Executive Summary

The Traffic Advisory Committee recommends revisions to the Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules, effective January 1, 2017. Vehicle Code section 40310 provides that the Judicial Council must annually adopt a uniform traffic penalty schedule for all nonparking Vehicle Code infractions. Under rule 4.102 of the California Rules of Court, trial courts, in performing their duty under Penal Code section 1269b, must revise and adopt a schedule of bail and penalties for all misdemeanor and infraction offenses except Vehicle Code infractions. The penalty schedule for traffic infractions is established by the schedules approved by the Judicial Council. The recommended revisions bring the schedules into conformance with recent legislation and make technical corrective changes.

Recommendation

The Traffic Advisory Committee recommends that the Judicial Council, effective January 1, 2017, adopt the revised Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules, 2017 Edition.

The proposed revision follows as Attachment B.

Previous Council Action

At the Judicial Council meeting on December 11, 2015, the council adopted revised bail schedules for 2016.

Rationale for Recommendation

Vehicle Code section 40310 requires that the Judicial Council annually adopt for Vehicle Code infractions a uniform traffic penalty schedule that conforms to new legislation. Additionally, Penal Code section 1269b and rule 4.102 of the California Rules of Court provide that trial courts must annually revise and adopt a countywide schedule of bail and penalties for all misdemeanor and infraction offenses except Vehicle Code infractions. The penalty schedule for Vehicle Code infractions is established by the uniform traffic penalty schedule adopted by the Judicial Council in accordance with section 40310.

Revisions to conform the 2017 schedules to recent changes in the law or to make technical corrective changes to the previous edition include the following:

5. Revision of a sample calculation in section VII. D.3 on page x of the preface regarding the number of court operations fees and conviction assessments assessed in cases involving multiple offenses.

Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications

No alternatives were considered. Annual revision of the schedules is required by statute and by rule 4.102. The schedules must be updated to reflect new law so that courts are able to collect the proper amounts for violations that occur after December 31, 2016. The proposed 2017 Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules were circulated for statewide comment from October 17–31, 2016. Of the five comments received, two agreed with the proposed changes if modified and three did not indicate agreement or disagreement. All comments, however, suggested specific revisions, which the committee considered, including suggested technical corrections in the previous edition. The comment chart with the committee’s responses is attached as Attachment A at pages 5-14 of this report.

Implementation Requirements, Costs, and Operational Impacts

Courts will need to reprogram court case management systems, update courtesy notices, and provide training for court staff and judicial officers regarding changes in certain traffic infractions and new fines.

Relevant Strategic Plan Goals and Operational Plan Objectives

Adoption of the revised schedules supports strategic Goal III, Modernization of Management and Administration. It also supports operational plan objective III.4: Uphold the integrity of court orders, protect court user safety, and improve public understanding of compliance requirements; improve the collection of fines, fees, and forfeitures statewide.

Rule 4.102. UNIFORM BAIL AND PENALTY SCHEDULES

TRAFFIC, BOATING, FORESTRY, FISH AND GAME, PUBLIC UTILITIES, PARKS AND RECREATION, BUSINESS LICENSING

The Judicial Council of California has established the policy of promulgating uniform bail and penalty schedules for certain offenses in order to achieve a standard of uniformity in the handling of these offenses.

In general, bail is used to ensure the presence of the defendant before the court. Under Vehicle Code sections 40512 and 13103, bail may also be forfeited and such forfeiture may be ordered without the necessity of any further court proceedings and treated as a conviction for specified Vehicle Code offenses. A penalty in the form of a monetary sum is a fine imposed as all or a portion of a sentence imposed.

To achieve substantial uniformity of bail and penalties throughout the state in traffic, boating, fish and game, forestry, public utilities, parks and recreation, and business licensing cases, the trial court judges, in performing their duty under Penal Code section 1269b to annually revise and adopt a schedule of bail and penalties for all misdemeanor and infraction offenses except Vehicle Code infractions, must give consideration to the Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules approved by the Judicial Council. The Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedule for infraction violations of the Vehicle Code will be established by the Judicial Council in accordance with Vehicle Code section 40310. Judges must give consideration to requiring additional bail for aggravating or enhancing factors.

After a court adopts a countywide bail and penalty schedule, under Penal Code section 1269b, the court must, as soon as practicable, mail a copy of the schedule to the Judicial Council with a report stating how the revised schedule differs from the council's uniform traffic bail and penalty schedule, uniform boating bail and penalty schedule, uniform fish and game bail and penalty schedule, uniform forestry bail and penalty schedule, uniform public utilities bail and penalty schedule, uniform parks and recreation bail and penalty schedule, or uniform business licensing bail and penalty schedule.

The purpose of this uniform bail and penalty schedule is to:

1. Show the standard amount for bail, which for Vehicle Code offenses may also be the amount utilized for a bail forfeiture instead of further proceedings; and
2. Serve as a guideline for the imposition of a fine as all or a portion of the penalty for a first conviction of a listed offense where a fine is used as all or a portion of the penalty for such offense. The amounts shown for the misdemeanors on the boating, fish and game, forestry, public utilities, parks and recreation, and business licensing bail and penalty schedules have been set with this dual purpose in mind.

Unless otherwise shown, the maximum penalties for the listed offenses are six months in the county jail or a fine of $1,000, or both. The penalty amounts are intended to be used to provide standard fine amounts for a first offense conviction of a violation shown where a fine is used as all or a portion of the sentence imposed.

The bail amounts in the Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules are calculated by using the maximum county and emergency medical services penalty amount authorized by Government Code sections 76000 and 76000.5. When a court adopts a countywide bail schedule under Penal Code section 1269b for infraction offenses, the local schedule should be adjusted to reflect the specific penalty assessments that apply to a particular county under Government Code sections 76000 and 76000.5. If a court does not have night or weekend sessions for traffic cases, the countywide bail schedule should omit the $1 fee under Vehicle Code section 42006. The Safety Enhancement–Double Fine Zone schedule applies only to specific counties as expressly authorized by statute.

PREFACE

I. Section and Offense

- A. Historically, only those offenses most often filed in municipal courts were included in the Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules. Penal Code section 1269b and Vehicle Code section 40310 require the Judicial Council to establish a schedule for infractions of the Vehicle Code. The Judicial Council approved the first Traffic Infraction Bail and Penalty Schedule in November 1992.
- B. The letter “M” designates a misdemeanor: a crime punishable, at the discretion of the court, by imprisonment in a county jail for a period of no longer than 6 months or by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by both (Penal Code section 19).
- C. The letter “I” designates an infraction: a violation of a law not punishable by imprisonment but by a fine generally not exceeding $100 for violations of the Vehicle Code (Vehicle Code section 42001) or $250 for violations of other codes (Penal Code section 19.8(b) (~~Sen. Bill 1461; Stats. 2014, ch. 54~~)).

II. Base Bail

The “Base Bail” indicated is the amount from which the “additional penalties” required by Penal Code section 1464; Government Code sections 70372, 76000, 76104.6, and 76104.7; the surcharge required by Penal Code section 1465.7; and the penalty authorized by Government Code section 76000.5 are calculated.

III. Additional Penalties and Surcharge

- A. An “additional penalty” of between $22 and $27 ($10 state penalty required by Penal Code section 1464; state court construction penalty of $5 required by Government Code section 70372(a); a county and state DNA Identification Fund penalty of $5 required by Government Code sections 76104.6 and 76104.7 (amended effective June 27, 2012); and a county penalty of up to $7 required by Government Code section 76000(e)) shall be levied upon every $10, or part of $10, of every fine, penalty, or forfeiture imposed and collected by the courts for criminal offenses. The “additional penalty” may increase by $2 for every $10, or part of $10, of the base fine if the county board of supervisors elects to levy an emergency medical services (EMS) penalty assessment under Government Code section 76000.5.

- B. Government Code section 70372(a) requires imposition of a state court construction penalty on every fine, penalty, or forfeiture collected by the courts for criminal offenses, including, but not limited to, all offenses, except parking offenses, as defined in Penal Code section 1463, involving violations of the Fish and Game Code and Vehicle Code or local ordinances adopted pursuant to the Vehicle Code. Section 70372 specifies a state court construction penalty of $5 for every $10, or part of $10, of the criminal fine, penalty, or forfeiture.
- C. Penal Code section 1464(b) provides that in the case of multiple offenses, the amount of “additional penalties” is to be determined by the total base bail or fine for all the offenses cited, and if the fine or base bail is suspended in whole or part, the “additional penalties” shall be reduced in proportion to the amount of suspension.
- D. Penal Code section 1465.7(a) requires imposition on criminal offenses of a state surcharge equal to 20 percent of the base fine used to calculate the state penalty assessment as specified in Penal Code section 1464(a). Penal Code section 1465.7(b) requires that the surcharge be imposed in addition to the state penalty assessment pursuant to Penal Code section 1464 and not be included in the base fine used to calculate the state penalty assessment as specified in section 1464. For the limited purpose of calculating the fee to attend traffic violator school under Vehicle Code section 42007, Penal Code section 1465.7(g) provides that the surcharge is excluded from the “Total Bail” amount used to determine the fee but is collected and distributed according to section 1465.7. The surcharge is part of the “Total Bail” in other circumstances, such as when a defendant requests a trial by written declaration or when a court permits payment of the “Total Bail” in installments.
- E. In counties with bonded indebtedness for court facilities, the county penalty assessment amount under Government Code section 76000(e) is $7 for every $10 or part of $10 of the base fine. In counties without bonded indebtedness for court facilities, if the county penalty assessment amount listed in Government Code section 76000(e) is less than $7, the penalty for every $10, or part of $10, of the base fine is equal to the amount listed in Government Code section 76000(e) plus the amount obtained from multiplying the difference between $7 and the amount listed in Government Code section 76000(e) by the ratio of the square footage of court facilities transferred from the county to the state to the total court facility square footage in the county.
- F. Under Government Code section 76000.10(c)(1), a penalty of $4 for emergency medical air transportation (EMAT) services is imposed for every conviction of a violation of the Vehicle Code, or a local ordinance adopted under the Vehicle Code, committed on or after January 1, 2011. The penalty is due to end on January 1, 2018. (Sen. Bill 326; Stats. 2015, ch. 797.)

IV. Total Bail

- A. Effective January 1, 1989, the Judicial Council adopted a “Total Bail” concept in an effort to obtain statewide consistency in the “bail” policies of the courts. The indicated “Total Bail” is for the first offense, and it must be followed to the extent required by Penal Code section 1269b.
- B. Except as otherwise required by statute, under Penal Code sections 1203, 1203.1, and 1203b, trial courts have discretion to suspend the minimum sentence, including fines and penalties. For traffic cases, Vehicle Code section 42003 permits a judge or referee to consider a defendant’s ability to pay. Vehicle Code section 42007 permits a judicial officer to reduce the fee to attend traffic violator school upon a showing that the defendant is unable to pay the full amount. Vehicle Code sections 42003 and 40510.5 permit installment payments of judgments in traffic cases, and Vehicle Code section 42007 permits installment payments of the fee to attend traffic violator school.

- C. Except for the following exceptions, counties must adhere to the Judicial Council’s Traffic Infraction Bail and Penalty Schedule for infraction violations of the Vehicle Code (Penal Code section 1269b and Vehicle Code section 40310).

Penal Code section 1463.28 provides that 30 counties may exceed the “Total Bail” amounts of the Traffic Infraction Bail and Penalty Schedule. Those counties are

| 10. Lake | 20. San Diego | 30. Yuba |

Additional exceptions result from two pieces of legislation that became operative on January 1, 1994:

1. Vehicle Code section 42001 allows local public entities that employ peace officers, universities, and state colleges to set a fine schedule for bicycle violations occurring in their jurisdictions that would supersede the Judicial Council penalty schedule.
2. Vehicle Code section 42009 requires that for any specified offense committed within a highway construction or maintenance area during hours when work is being performed, the fine shall be double in the case of misdemeanors and in the case of infractions shall be one category higher than otherwise provided in the Traffic Infraction Fixed Penalty Schedule. An appendix with the specified offenses listed and the enhanced amounts follows the Traffic portion of the bail and penalty schedules, starting on page 102.
3. Streets and Highways Code section 97 provides for increased fines for a safety enhancement—double fine zone on the segment of Route 12 between the Route 80 junction in Solano County and the Route 5 junction in San Joaquin County.

Streets and Highways Code section 97.4 provides for increased fines for a safety enhancement–double fine zone on Vasco Road, between the State Highway Route 580 junction in Alameda County and the Walnut Boulevard intersection in Contra Costa County upon approval of resolutions of the Alameda County and Contra Costa County boards of supervisors. (Assem. Bill 348; Stats. 2011, ch. 290.) Under section 97, the base fine for any specified offense committed in the safety enhancement–double fine zone shall be double in the case of misdemeanors and in the case of infractions shall be one category higher than otherwise provided in the Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules. Any additional penalty, forfeiture, or assessment imposed by any other statute shall be based on the amount of the base fine before enhancement or doubling and shall not be based on the amount of the enhanced fine.

The “Categories” indicated in the Traffic Infraction Bail and Penalty Schedule under Vehicle Code sections 40310, 42009(a), and 42010 will be shown as “1a” and “1b,” “2a” and “2b,” “3a” and “3b,” and “4a” and “4b,” with the “b” subcategory referring to the violation when it is committed in a highway construction zone or safety enhancement–double fine zone.

- D. The “Total Bail” amounts within the Uniform Boating, Forestry, Fish and Game, Public Utilities, Parks and Recreation, and Business Licensing Bail Schedules are suggested amounts, and their adoption by courts is not compulsory.
- E. The “Total Bail” amount indicated includes the base bail and those “additional penalties” required by Penal Code section 1464 and Government Code sections 70372, 76000, 76104.6, and 76104.7, and the 20 percent surcharge on the base bail required by Penal Code section 1465.7, except as provided in Vehicle Code section 42007. When authorized by the county board of supervisors, the “Total Bail” for a countywide bail schedule adopted under Penal Code section 1269b may also include an additional $2 penalty under Government Code section 76000.5 for every $10, or part of $10, of the base fine. Assessments adopted by a court—such as under Vehicle Code section 40508.6—shall be collected in addition to the “Total Bail.” The court operations assessment imposed per convicted offense under Penal Code section 1465.8; assessment for night court under Vehicle Code section 42006; traffic assistance program (TAP) fee under Vehicle Code section 11205.2; and criminal conviction assessment under Government Code section 70373 are collected as part of the “Total Bail,” but are not subject to the special distribution for the “Total Bail” in traffic violator school cases under Vehicle Code section 42007. For every conviction of a violation of the Vehicle Code, or ordinance adopted under the Vehicle Code, committed on or after January 1, 2011, a $4 EMAT penalty is imposed under Government Code section 76000.10(c)(1) as part of the “Total Bail.” Effective January 1, 2014, Penal Code section 1202.4(b)(1) requires a minimum $150 restitution fine as an assessment in addition to the “Total Bail” in every case where there is a misdemeanor conviction. Other mandatory assessments may also be applicable, especially in DUI cases.

Fish and Game Code section 12021 authorized a $15 penalty to be collected in addition to the fine and penalties normally collected for violations of the Fish and Game Code, to be deposited in the Fish and Game Preservation Fund and disbursed as specified. The $15 additional penalty does not apply to violations punishable pursuant to Fish and Game Code section 12002.1(b) or 12002.2(b) or to any regulation relating to the wearing or display of a fishing license.

- F. “Total Bail” shall not exceed statutory limits. Vehicle Code section 40310 specifies that the “fine” amount of the total bail shall not exceed the limitations specified by Vehicle Code sections 42001 and 42001.5.
- G. Rule 4.105 of the California Rules of Court provides that with certain exceptions deposit of bail is not required to appear for arraignment or trial for an infraction case. Deposit may be required: by statute, such as trial by written declaration; if a person does not sign a promise to appear as ordered by the court; or a judicial officer states a reason for a deposit to schedule a trial.

In cases where a court appearance is required by a court, the amounts set forth in the Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules do not necessarily indicate the appropriate total penalties; rather, they ensure that, in most cases, when bail is posted, sufficient funds will be available to meet the defendant’s obligations. Upon conviction, however, “additional penalties” are added to any fine. It is incumbent upon the judge who hears each case to determine the proper total penalty (fine and “additional penalties”) based on the particular facts presented.

With the exception of juveniles under age 18, there shall be no mandatory court appearance for any infraction of the California Vehicle Code punishable by fine only. A court may require a mandatory appearance for an infraction violation of the Vehicle Code when a statutory driver’s license restriction, suspension, or revocation is authorized; community service or proof of payment or correction is mandatory; or a violation requires specific action under the Vehicle Code in addition to a fine. This paragraph does not apply to violations of local ordinances based on Vehicle Code sections.

- H. The “Total Bail” for an offense not specifically listed in the Uniform Traffic Infraction Bail and Penalty Schedule is the amount set for the general category of that offense unless a California code or regulation specifies otherwise. The court operations assessment and criminal conviction assessment are collected in addition to the “Total Bail.” The suggested minimum “Total Bail” for an offense not specifically listed in the Uniform Traffic Misdemeanor Bail and Penalty Schedule, unless a California code or regulation specifies otherwise, is:

| | Base | + Additional Penalties*& | Surcharge | + | Fees | = Total Bail*/Fees (*See sections II–IV) |
|-------------|-------|--------------------------|-----------|---|------|--|
| Misdemeanor | $ 75 | + | $251 | + | $70 | = $396 |
| Infraction | $ 35 | + | $127 | + | $75 | = $237 |

The suggested minimum “Total Bail” for an offense not specifically listed in the Uniform Public Utilities Bail and Penalty Schedule, unless a California code or regulation specifies otherwise, is:

| | | | | | | |
|-------------|-------|---|-------|---|------|----------------|
| Misdemeanor | $185 | + | $588 | + | $70 | = $843 |
|-------------|-------|---|-------|---|------|----------------|

The suggested minimum “Total Bail” for an offense not specifically listed in the Uniform Boating, Business Licensing, Fish and Game, Forestry, or Parks and Recreation Bail and Penalty Schedules, unless a California code or regulation specifies otherwise, is:

| | | | | | | |
|-------------|-------|---|-------|---|------|---------|
| Misdemeanor | $100 | + | $310 | + | $70 | = $480 |

V. Bail Categories

Assembly Bill 1344 (Stats. 1992, ch. 696), effective September 15, 1992, amended Vehicle Code section 40310 to classify Vehicle Code offenses into four or fewer penalty categories, according to the severity of the offenses. The Judicial Council has approved the following categories of bail/fine after considering suggestions from its Traffic Advisory Committee and the recommendations made by the National Center for State Courts:

| | | Base Fine + | Additional Penalties* | Sur- & charge | +Fees = | Total(See secs. II-IV) Bail /Fees |
|------------|--|----------------|--------------------------|------------------|----------|--|
| Category 1 | Bicyclist, motorized scooter, pedestrian, pocket bike, vehicle registration and equipment offenses | $ 25 + | $96 | | + $75 = | $196 |
| Category 2 | Driver's license, operation of vehicle, and size and load offenses | $ 35 + | $127 | | + $75 = | $237 |
| Category 3 | Substance abuse infractions, VC 2818, VC 20004, VC 21706.5, and VC 27375 | $ 70 + | $221 | | + $75 = | $366 |
| Category 4 | Miscellaneous offenses for which the penalties or the fee for dismissal with proof of correction are specifically set by the Vehicle Code, speeding offenses (refer to Speed Chart), and infractions pursuant to PC 19.8 | | | | | |

If a citation does not indicate that an offense is eligible for correction under Vehicle Code 40522, a court may presume that the offense is cited as noncorrectable. (See also California Highway Patrol v. Superior Court (2008) 158 Cal.App.4th 726, 740.) Vehicle Code section 14610.5(a) may be charged as either an infraction or a misdemeanor (Vehicle Code section 14610.5(b)). Penal Code section 19.8 lists the following offenses that are an infraction with a fine of up to $250: Vehicle Code sections 5201.1, 12500(a), 14601.1, 23109(c), 27150.1, 40508, and 42005. If one of these offenses is charged as an infraction, the appropriate penalty is listed in the Traffic Infraction Bail and Penalty Schedule. If the offense is charged as a misdemeanor, the recommended penalty is listed in the Traffic Misdemeanor Bail and Penalty Schedule.

VI. Point Count

Vehicle Code sections 12810, 12810.2, 12810.3, and 12810.4 determine the amount of point count. The Department of Motor Vehicles establishes conviction point count based on statutory guidance and definition. Vehicle Code section 12810.5 defines a “negligent operator” based on point count. The Department of Motor Vehicles may take an administrative sanction against a person’s driving privilege based on “points” (Vehicle Code section 12810.5).

VII. Prior Convictions

- A. The base fine for one Vehicle Code moving violation that is assessed “points” on a current arrest or citation shall be enhanced by $10 for each “prior” conviction within 36 months of the new alleged offense. For calculating the enhancement, both the current and “prior” offense must be a moving violation for which a “point” has been assigned per Vehicle Code section 12810 or 12810.2. A confidential conviction after completion of traffic violator school is not assigned a point or counted as a prior offense for purposes of enhancing the fine of a subsequent offense. Regardless of the number of moving violation convictions on a citation, only one “prior” per citation shall be counted in determining the enhancement on the current offense.

While Vehicle Code section 42001 references maximum fines within a one-year time frame, the Judicial Council has interpreted section 42001 to not preclude a court from considering “prior” convictions for a longer period of time. The period of 36 months was adopted by the Judicial Council (effective January 1, 1989) to correspond to and reinforce Vehicle Code sections 12810 and 12810.5. These sections define the “point system” used by the Department of Motor Vehicles as prima facie evidence of the negligent operation of a motor vehicle.

Vehicle Code sections 15306 and 15308 specify penalties for commercial drivers in terms of subsequent offenses occurring within three years.

- B. In the case of an owner responsibility citation, the “prior” must relate to the particular vehicle for which the new offense is charged.
- C. Vehicle Code section 42004 provides that the court, in determining a penalty to be imposed pursuant to the Vehicle Code, may use a written report from the Department of Motor Vehicles that contains information showing prior convictions.
- D. With the exception of parking, pedestrian, and bicycle offenses on a current citation, Vehicle Code section 40508.6 authorizes courts to establish an administrative assessment, not to exceed $10, for the purpose of recording and maintaining a record of a defendant’s prior convictions, that is payable at the time of payment of a fine or when bail is forfeited for any subsequent violation.

VIII. Traffic Violator School

- A. Vehicle Code section 42007 provides that:
 - 1. The court shall collect a fee from every person ordered or permitted to attend traffic violator school in an amount equal to the total bail set forth for the eligible offense in the uniform countywide bail schedule;
 - 2. Where multiple offenses are charged on a single notice to appear, the “total bail” amount collected is the amount applicable to the greater of the eligible offenses; and
 - 3. The court may set a lesser fee upon a showing that the defendant is unable to pay the full amount.
- B. Vehicle Code section 40512.6 provides that the fee may be converted to bail and forfeited if the defendant fails to submit proof of school completion within the time ordered by the court.
- C. Vehicle Code section 42007.1(a) provides that a $49 fee, a fee for monitoring traffic violator schools, and a TAP fee under Vehicle Code section 11205.2(c) are to be added to the “total bail” of the offense eligible for traffic violator school.
- D. Vehicle Code section 42005 prohibits drivers of commercial vehicles from eligibility for traffic violator school. Drivers with a Class A, Class B, or commercial Class C driver’s license may attend traffic violator school to avoid points for traffic violations in a vehicle that requires only a class M or noncommercial class C license. Vehicle Code section 42005(d) excludes violations of Vehicle Code sections 20001, 20002, 23103, 23104, 23105, 23140, 23152, 23153, or 23103, as specified in section 23103.5, from eligibility for traffic violator school for pretrial diversion, a confidential conviction, or to avoid points.

Sample Calculation of Bail, Traffic Violator School Fee, and Court Operations Assessment for Multiple Offenses

1. Violation of Vehicle Code sections 21453(b), 27360.5(a), 24252(a), and 26707.
2. No prior convictions are charged.
3. “Additional penalties” of between $22 and $29 as set out in section III for every $10 of base fine or part thereof, plus the surcharge on the base fine, and the $4 EMAT penalty assessment per offense:

| “Total Bail” Without Traffic School or Proof | | Traffic Violator School and Correction Total With Proof | |
|--|-----------------|---|---------------|
| VC 21453(b) | = $ 35 | (VC 21453(b)) | ($ 0) |
| VC 27360.5(a) | = $ 100 | (VC 27360.5(a)) | ($490) |
| VC 24252(a), VC 26707 | = $ 50 | TVS fee | $ 49 |
| Total base fine | = $ 185 | TVS/DMV admin. fee | $ 3 |
| Penalties and surcharge | = $ 604 | Correction fee (2 X $25) | $ 50 |
| TOTAL BAIL | = $ 789 | Court operations (2 X $40) | $ 80 |
| Court operations | = $ 160 | (TAP fee; VC 11205.2) | ($) |
| Conviction assessment | = $ 140 | Conviction assessment (2 X $35) | $ 70 |
| TOTAL | $1,089 | TOTAL | $ 742 |

4. If the defendant is ordered to attend traffic violator school under VC 41501 for VC 21453(b) and VC 27360.5(a), per VC 42007 the defendant is charged for the greater/more severe of the qualifying offenses: VC 27360.5(a) at $490 plus the $49 and $3 DMV TVS fee per VC 42007.1 (total of $542).
5. The charges of VC 21453(b) and VC 27360.5(a) are continued under VC 41501. The charges of VC 24252(a) and VC 26707 are continued pending proof of correction, required under VC 40522 for dismissal.
6. The defendant presents to the court timely evidence that he or she has completed traffic violator school. The VC 21453(b) and VC 27360.5(a) violations are reported under VC 41501. If the defendant submits to the court timely evidence under VC 40616 that the violations of VC 24252(a) and VC 26707 have been corrected, the VC 24252(a) and VC 26707 violations are dismissed under VC 40522, and a $50 “transaction fee” is charged under VC 40611. A court operations assessment of $40 is collected and distributed as required by Penal Code section 1465.8 for reporting of VC 21453(b) for completion of traffic violator school, and a criminal conviction assessment of $35 is collected under Government Code section 70373 for VC 21453(b).
7. The case is closed, with the court collecting $667 ($490 + $49 + 3 + $50 + $40 + $35) plus any fee under VC 11205.2 and deduction of $1 if the court does not impose a night or weekend court assessment under VC 42006.

IX. Late Charge

Vehicle Code section 40310 requires the imposition of a late charge of 50 percent on any traffic penalties not paid within 20 days.

The 20 days shall be counted from the mailing of a notice that the penalty has been assessed. The initial penalty consists of the base fine; a fine enhancement for prior convictions (if any); the state, county, and court facility construction additional penalties; the $4 emergency medical air transportation penalty; and the emergency medical services penalty, if authorized (Penal Code section 1464 and Government Code sections 70372, 76000, 76000.5, 76000.10(c)(1), 76104.6, and 76104.7).

Sample Calculation of Late Penalty

| 1. Base fine | $ 25 |
| 2. Enhancement for one prior conviction | + 10 |
| Enhanced base fine | $ 35 |
| 3. Additional penalties (PC 1464 and GC 70372, 76000, 76000.5, 76104.6, and 76104.7) ($29* X 4) (*See section III) | + 116 |
| 4. EMAT penalty for conviction of Vehicle Code violation (GC 76000.10(c)(1)) | + 4 |
| Initial Penalty | $ 155 |
| 5. Night court assessment (VC 42006) | + 1 |
| 6. Administrative assessment for maintaining a record of priors (VC 40508.6) | + 10 |
| 7. Surcharge on base fine (PC 1465.7) | + 7 |
| 8. Court operations assessment (PC 1465.8) | + 40 |
| 9. Conviction assessment (GC 70373(a)(1)) | + 35 |
| Total Due | $ 248 |
| 10. Late charge (VC 40310) [50% of initial penalty] | + 77.50 |
| Total Due | $ 325.50 |

X. Offenses Eligible for Correction

Under Vehicle Code section 40522, an officer arresting for violations specified in Vehicle Code section 40303.5 is required to specify the offense charged and note in a form approved by the Judicial Council that the charge shall be dismissed upon proof of correction. Certain offenses specified in Vehicle Code section 40303.5 are designated in the following schedule as potentially eligible for correction. The offenses designated in the schedule as potentially eligible for correction and those offenses specified by Vehicle Code section 40303.5 that are not contained in the schedule may be eligible for dismissal with proof of correction if the citing officer determines that none of the disqualifying conditions of Vehicle Code section 40610(b) exist. (See California Highway Patrol v. Superior Court (2008) 158 Cal.App.4th 726 [riding a motorcycle without wearing any helmet presents an “immediate safety hazard” when an officer makes that determination and issues a noncorrectable citation].) Those disqualifying conditions are present if an officer finds any of the following:

1. Evidence of fraud or persistent neglect;
2. The violation presents an immediate safety hazard;
3. The violator does not agree to, or cannot, promptly correct the violation.

If a citation does not indicate that an offense is eligible for correction, a court may presume that the offense is cited as noncorrectable. (See also California Highway Patrol v. Superior Court, supra, 158 Cal.App.4th at p. 740.) Upon proof of correction of an alleged violation of section 12500 or 12951 or any violation cited pursuant to section 40610, Vehicle Code section 40611 authorizes courts to collect a $25 transaction fee for each violation. No bail amount shall be collected.

In cases alleging violation of Vehicle Code section 4000(a), or alleging that a vehicle is not registered as required by the Vehicle Code, Vehicle Code section 40152 requires that proof of registration or proof of payment of the appropriate registration fees, or proof that the vehicle has been reduced to junk, be produced in court before the offense can be adjudicated as a dismissal.

XI. Evidence of Financial Responsibility

Pursuant to Vehicle Code section 16028(e), upon submission of evidence of financial responsibility, in a form consistent with Vehicle Code section 16020, showing that the driver was in compliance with that section at the time the notice to appear for violating Vehicle Code section 16028 was issued, further proceedings for the violation shall be dismissed and no bail amount shall be collected. Vehicle Code section 40611 authorizes courts to collect a $25 transaction fee for each violation that is dismissed pursuant to section 16028(e).

XII. Parking Violations

Assembly Bill 408 (Stats. 1992, ch. 1244), effective January 1, 1993, revised and recast the procedures for processing and adjudicating parking law violations as administrative offenses subject to a civil penalty. The bill required courts to transfer the processing of parking offenses to issuing agencies not later than January 1, 1994. Consequently, parking violations that cannot be cited as infractions have been removed from the Uniform Bail and Penalty Schedules. Vehicle Code section 463 defines “park” or “parking” as the standing of a vehicle, whether occupied or not, otherwise than temporarily for the purpose of and while actually engaged in the loading or unloading of merchandise or passengers. Under Vehicle Code section 40225(a), equipment violations entered on a notice of parking violation are subject to a civil penalty established according to Vehicle Code section 40225(c). The Traffic Infraction Fixed Penalty Schedule includes Vehicle Code sections that may be cited for a stopping violation on a notice to appear that is signed by the driver. Under Vehicle Code section 42001.13, a violation of disabled parking provisions in Vehicle Code section 22507.8 may be cited as an infraction on a notice to appear. Under Vehicle Code section 42001.5, a violation of Vehicle Code sections 22500(i), 22500(l), and 22522 may be cited as an infraction on a notice to appear. Under Vehicle Code section 42001.6, a violation of Vehicle Code section 22511.1 may be cited as an infraction on a notice to appear. Government Code section 70373 requires a conviction assessment of $35, and Government Code section 70372(b) imposes an additional assessment of $4.50 on each parking violation infraction conviction. Government Code section 76000.3 imposes a $3 penalty on every fine imposed for a parking infraction violation committed on or after January 1, 2011.

| A | | Violation cited on a notice to appear as not eligible for correction. (VC 40303.5, VC 40522, and VC 40610.) A citing officer may issue a noncorrectable notice to appear for an equipment, driver's license, or registration offense that is potentially eligible for correction if the officer determines that the violation presents an immediate safety hazard, there is evidence of fraud or persistent neglect, or the violator does not agree to, or cannot, promptly correct the violation. (See California Highway Patrol v. Superior Court (2008) 158 Cal.App.4th 726 [riding a motorcycle without wearing any helmet presents an "immediate safety hazard" when an officer makes that determination and issues a noncorrectable citation].) If a citation does not indicate that an offense is eligible for correction under VC 40522, a court may presume that the offense is cited as noncorrectable. (See also id. at p. 740 [a court may infer from the type of citation issued that the officer did or did not find disqualifying circumstances].) | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

This proposal circulated this spring from March 21 to May 6, 2016. The committees recommended recirculating the proposal on an expedited cycle from August 3 to August 26, 2016, in light of the public comments received, communications from various advocacy groups and other entities to the Judicial Council expressing continued concerns about court practices resulting in the suspension of driver's licenses for failure to pay fines and fees, and other related developments. The expedited cycle allowed the committees to present this proposal to the Judicial Council during its December meeting.

The committees have recommended that the rules go into effect on January 1, 2017, and that courts be required to implement as soon as reasonably possible, but no later than May 1, 2017.

Executive Summary

The Traffic Advisory Committee and Criminal Law Advisory Committee recommend amending one rule and adopting three new rules of the California Rules of Court to standardize and improve court procedures and improve notice to defendants regarding procedures in infraction cases, including specifically failures to appear and failures to pay bail and court-imposed fines, fees, and assessments for infraction offenses and ability-to-pay determinations. These rules are designed to promote procedural fairness in infraction cases, enhance guidance for defendants and courts, improve notice to defendants, and clarify procedures regarding ability-to-pay determinations, while also minimizing the need for court appearances by providing for written petitions where possible.

Recommendation

The Criminal Law Advisory Committee and the Traffic Advisory Committee recommend that the Judicial Council, effective January 1, 2017:

1. Amend rule 4.105 of the California Rules of Court to require that trial court websites include a link to the statewide traffic self-help information posted on the California courts website;
2. Adopt rule 4.106 of the California Rules of Court to establish uniform procedures in infraction offenses for which the defendant has received a written notice to appear and has failed to appear or failed to pay;
3. Adopt rule 4.107 of the California Rules of Court to require that trial courts send reminder notices to traffic defendants before their initial appearance and specify what information must be provided in those notices;
4. Adopt rule 4.335 of the California Rules of Court to standardize and improve court procedures and notice to infraction defendants related to ability-to-pay determinations.
5. Repeal standard 4.41 of the California Standards of Judicial Administration, which currently provides recommendations regarding courtesy notices.

Courts must implement these provisions as soon as reasonably possible but no later than May 1, 2017. The text of the new and amended rules are attached at pages 23–31.

Previous Council Action

The Judicial Council adopted rule 4.105, effective June 8, 2015, on an urgency basis on the request of the Chief Justice to address concerns that courts were requiring defendants to post bail before challenging traffic infractions. In adopting rule 4.105, the council directed the appropriate advisory committees to consider changes to rules, forms, or any other recommendations necessary to promote access to justice in all infraction cases, including recommendations related to postconviction proceedings or after the defendant has previously failed to appear or pay fines or fees.

Rationale for Recommendation

The advisory committees developed this proposal in response to Judicial Council directives to consider recommendations to promote access to justice in all infraction cases. The proposed rules are designed to promote procedural fairness for infraction cases, enhance guidance for defendants and courts, improve notice to defendants, and clarify procedures regarding ability-to-pay determinations, while also minimizing the need for court appearances by providing for written petitions where possible.

This proposal also addresses criticisms aimed at state infraction laws that have raised concerns about procedural fairness in infraction proceedings, particularly regarding the fees and fines imposed and the court procedures applied after defendants fail to appear or pay. The Judicial Council has received communications from various advocacy groups and other entities expressing continued concerns about court practices resulting in the suspension of driver's licenses for failure to pay fines and fees and the lack of uniformity regarding information about ability-to-pay determinations, among other concerns.

Amended rule 4.105

Rule 4.105 prohibits courts from requiring infraction defendants to deposit bail in order to secure a court appearance at either arraignment or trial unless a specified exception applies. Under the rule, courts may require infraction defendants to deposit bail before a first appearance only in the following circumstances: (1) the defendant elects a statutory procedure (such as trial by written declaration) that requires the deposit of bail, (2) the defendant at arraignment refuses to sign a written promise to appear for future court proceedings, or (3) the court determines that the particular defendant is unlikely to appear as ordered without a deposit of bail and states its reasons for that finding.

To promote procedural fairness for infraction cases, the committees recommend adding subdivision (e) to rule 4.105. The amended rule would require that local trial court websites include a link to the statewide traffic self-help information posted on the California Courts website at: www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-traffic.htm. In addition to information on appearances in court for arraignment and trial, the self-help information includes guidance on other subjects such as traffic violator school, payment plans, community service, correctable violations, trial by written declaration, consequences for failure to appear or pay, and information about requesting ability-to-pay determinations.

Proposed rule 4.106

As part of their continued examination of court procedures for infraction cases and efforts to improve access to justice in infraction cases as directed by the council, the committees recommend new rule 4.106 to standardize and improve the imposition of bail, fines, fees and assessments when a defendant has failed to appear or pay in infraction cases.

The proposed rule would provide the following:

- When a court notifies a defendant that a civil assessment will be imposed for failure to appear or pay under Penal Code section 1214.1(b), the notice must inform the defendant of his or her right to petition that the civil assessment be vacated for good cause and must include information about the process for vacating or reducing the assessment.

- A defendant may, within the time specified in the notice, move by written petition to reduce or vacate the assessment.
- When a court imposes a civil assessment for failure to appear or pay, the defendant may petition—without paying any bail, fines, penalties, fees, or assessments—that the court vacate the civil assessment because the defendant had good cause for failing to appear or pay.
- If a defendant establishes good cause for the failure to appear or pay, the court must vacate the civil assessment. Even absent a showing of good cause, the court may consider other factors in determining whether to impose a civil assessment and, if so, the amount of the civil assessment.
- When a case has not been adjudicated and a court refers it to a comprehensive collection program as delinquent debt, the defendant may request to schedule a hearing for adjudication of the underlying charge(s) without payment of the bail amount, unless the court expressly makes findings that bail is appropriate.
- When a defendant fails to pay under an installment plan, the defendant may request modification of the payment terms.
- When a court has entered a judgment in a trial by written declaration held in absentia, the defendant may request a trial de novo, and the court may require the defendant to deposit bail.
- When a defendant has failed to pay a fine or installment of bail, a court must provide the defendant with notice and an opportunity to be heard on ability to pay before notifying the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV). This notice may be provided on the reminder notice that would be required by proposed rule 4.107, the civil assessment notice, or any other notice provided to the defendant.

Additionally, an advisory committee comment for proposed rule 4.106 provides guidance for implementing the rule by listing examples of circumstances that may establish good cause for failure to appear or pay when a defendant requests that a court vacate a civil assessment. These examples include the defendant's hospitalization, incapacitation, or incarceration; military duty required of the defendant; death or hospitalization of the defendant's dependent or immediate family member; caregiver responsibility for a sick or disabled dependent or immediate family member of the defendant; or an extraordinary reason, beyond the defendant's control, that prevented the defendant from making an appearance or payment on or before the date listed on the notice to appear.

The advisory committee comment also clarifies that a court may exercise its discretion to deny a request to modify the payment terms and lists some options available to the court if it grants the request. In addition, it clarifies that a court is not required to provide a hearing before notifying the DMV that the defendant has failed to pay, unless requested by the defendant or directed by the court.

Proposed rule 4.107 and standard of judicial administration 4.41

Courts currently may send courtesy notices to defendants who receive traffic tickets to provide them with information about how to resolve the citation. The Judicial Council's recommendations for courtesy notices are set forth in standard 4.41 of the California Standards of Judicial Administration. Although standard 4.41 does not require courts to send courtesy notices, most courts currently send such notices.

This proposal would repeal standard 4.41, move its content into a rule of court, and require that all courts send these notices. To reflect that these notices are no longer optional, the committees recommend that they be renamed as "reminder notices." Proposed rule 4.107 offers the court several options for sending reminder notices to defendants depending on the court's current technological capabilities. Courts may send them in paper or electronic form, including by e-mail or text message. By providing a phone number or e-mail address to the court or to a law enforcement officer at the time of signing the notice to appear, a defendant consents to receiving the reminder notice electronically at that number or address. The proposed rule clarifies that failure to receive a reminder notice does not relieve the defendant of the obligation to appear by the date stated in the Notice to Appear.

Under proposed rule 4.107, reminder notices must contain the following information:

- The appearance date and location, whether an appearance is mandatory or optional, the total bail amount and payment options, the statutory notice required under Vehicle Code section 42007 regarding traffic school, notice that a traffic violator school will charge a fee, information regarding trial by declaration and other specific procedures if they are available in the court, correction requirements and procedures for correctable violations, and the court's contact information;
- Warnings about the potential consequences for failure to appear and failure to pay;
- The right to request an ability-to-pay determination; and
- Notice regarding the availability of community service and installment payment plans, if those options are available in a particular court.

Additionally, an advisory committee comment provides further guidance for courts by describing various means for implementing electronic reminder notices and recommends that courts provide website addresses or links to local forms and relevant information on reminder notices, if possible.

Proposed rule 4.335

Vehicle Code section 42003, which governs the payment of fines and costs for Vehicle Code violations, provides that a court must consider a defendant's ability to pay upon the defendant's request. The legislative history of this section demonstrates that the Legislature intended for section 42003 to apply to fines for Vehicle Code infractions.¹ The committees modeled proposed rule 4.335 on the ability-to-pay provisions in Vehicle Code section 42003 and clarified this procedure. Proposed rule 4.335 would standardize and improve procedures for ability-to-pay determinations for all infraction cases.² This rule would provide the following:

- Courts must provide defendants notice of their right to request an ability-to-pay determination and make instructions available on how to request that determination;
- A defendant may request an ability-to-pay determination at adjudication or while the judgment remains unpaid, including when a case is delinquent or has been referred to collections;
- The court must permit the defendant to make the request by written petition, unless the court directs an appearance. The request must include any information or documentation the defendant wishes the court to consider;
- Based on the ability-to-pay determination, the court may exercise its discretion to provide for payment on an installment plan, allow the defendant to complete community service if available in that court, suspend the fine in whole or in part, or offer an alternative disposition;
- The defendant may request an ability-to-pay determination at any time during the pendency of the judgment; and
- If a defendant has already had an ability-to-pay determination in the case, a defendant may request a subsequent ability-to-pay determination only based on changed circumstances.

An advisory committee comment to the proposed rule clarifies that courts may provide notice of the right to request an ability-to-pay determination on the reminder notice required by rule 4.107, the notice of any civil assessment under Penal Code section 1214.1, a court's website, or any other notice provided to the defendant. The advisory committee comment also clarifies that the

This bill would also require that the court, upon the request of the defendant, make a determination of the defendant’s ability to pay all or a portion of the increased fine for this offense and all other Vehicle Code violations.”); Sen. Sess.) as amended Apr. 29, 1993 (“Existing law provides that a person convicted of an infraction, pursuant to the Vehicle Code, be punished by a fine in accordance with an established fine schedule. This bill, in addition, would require the court, upon the request of the defendant, to make a determination of the defendant’s ability to pay all or a portion of the reasonable costs of probation, fines, and restitution, and of conducting the pre-sentencing report, as specified. The bill would provide procedures for making that determination, would require the court to set the amount to be reimbursed, and would require the court to order the defendant to pay that amount, if the court determined that the defendant had the ability to pay. The purpose of this bill is to increase the penalties for driving offenses committed within a highway construction or maintenance area.”).

² Consistent with the Judicial Council’s rule-making authority under article VI, section 6 of the California Constitution, which authorizes the council to enact rules not inconsistent with statute, this rules proposal would extend section 42003’s ability-to-pay provisions to nontraffic infraction offenses.

court should take into account factors including whether the defendant is receiving public benefits or has a monthly income of 125 percent or less of the current poverty guidelines in determining the ability to pay.

In addition, the advisory committee comment explains that the amount and manner of paying the total fine must be reasonable and compatible with a defendant's financial ability and that the court may still exercise discretion even if the defendant has not demonstrated an inability to pay. The comment also clarifies that regardless of whether the defendant has demonstrated an inability to pay, the court may consider the defendant's criminal history and the severity of the offense among other factors. The committees may develop optional forms to assist courts in making ability-to-pay determinations in recommending future proposals.

Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications

The committees received extensive and thoughtful feedback in response to this proposal and have incorporated suggested revisions when feasible.

This proposal circulated twice for public comment. It first circulated from March to April in 2016. In light of the comments received during the first circulation and continued developments on these issues, the committees revised the proposal and recommended its recirculation on an expedited basis from August 3 to August 26 to allow it to go into effect on January 1, 2017. All commenters who submitted comments during the first circulation were instructed to resubmit comments during the second circulation if their concerns had not been addressed in the revised proposal.

Twenty comments were submitted in response to the second invitation to comment; one agreed with the proposal, four agreed with the proposal if modified, two disagreed with the proposal, and 13 did not indicate their position. The committees revised proposed rules 4.106, 4.107, and 4.335 in response to the comments. Their specific responses to each comment are available in the attached comment chart at pages 32–171.

Comments on rule 4.105

The committees have recommended only limited amendments to rule 4.105. Apart from a minor technical edit to rule 4.105(c)(3), this proposal would add subdivision (e) to provide that the website for each trial court must include a link to traffic self-help information posted on the Judicial Council website.

One commenter asked that the committees revise rule 4.105 to clarify that defendants should not be required to post bail to receive a trial by written declaration or to set arraignment. The commenter further requested that the rule clarify that a failure to appear may not in and of itself be grounds for requiring payment of bail. The committees declined to pursue these recommendations because they are outside of the scope of the current proposal and may require legislative changes.

Another commenter noted that courts should provide more information online about local court processes and requirements. While this recommendation is outside of the scope of the current proposal, the committees may consider providing more standards for local websites in future proposals.

Comments on proposed rule 4.106(a)

Subdivision (a) of proposed rule 4.106 provides that this rule applies to infraction offenses for which the defendant has received a written notice to appear and has failed to appear or failed to pay. As circulated, the proposed advisory committee comment to subdivision (a) would have further provided that rule 4.106 was intended to apply only to an infraction offense for which the defendant (1) had received a written notice to appear citation and been released for a signed promise to appear, and (2) had failed to appear by the appearance date or an approved extension of that date or had failed to pay as required. Three commenters expressed concern about the reference in the circulated advisory committee comment to a defendant's having "been released for a signed promise to appear." Two suggested that this language inadvertently eliminated red light camera enforcement citations from the rule's scope. The committees agreed and removed this language from the advisory committee comment in response to these comments.

Comments on proposed rule 4.106(c)

Proposed rule 4.106(c) provides procedures for implementing Penal Code section 1214.1(b)'s requirement that courts must vacate a civil assessment if a defendant establishes good cause for a failure to appear or pay.

Guidelines and criteria for the initial imposition of the civil assessment. One commenter requested that the committees expand proposed rule 4.106(c) to clarify that the initial imposition of the civil assessment is not mandatory. The commenter also encouraged the committees to recommend criteria and guidelines for the courts to use in determining whether to impose a civil assessment and the amount of the assessment. The committees declined to expand the rule as requested because procedures governing the initial imposition of the civil assessment are outside of the scope of the current proposal, but they may consider these suggestions in developing future proposals.

Reducing the civil assessment in the exercise of discretion. Two commenters requested that proposed rule 4.106(c) recognize that a judicial officer may reduce the civil assessment, as judicial officers often reduce assessments instead of vacating them. These comments suggested possible confusion about when a civil assessment must be vacated and when it may be reduced. Penal Code section 1214.1 is clear that if good cause is shown, a judicial officer is required to vacate the entire amount of the civil assessment. (Pen. Code, § 1214.1(b).) If good cause is not shown, a judicial officer may still vacate or reduce the civil assessment in the exercise of discretion. (Id., § 1214.1(a).)

As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(c) intended to highlight this distinction. The circulated rule focused primarily on vacating civil assessments for good cause by providing (1) that the notice of civil assessment must inform defendants of their right to petition that the civil assessment be vacated for good cause; (2) that the notice must include information about the process for vacating the assessment; (3) that a defendant may move by written petition to vacate the notice of civil assessment by showing good cause; (4) that the court must permit a defendant to present a showing of good cause without requiring payment of bail, fines, fees, or assessments; (5) that a petition to vacate an assessment does not stay the operation of any order requiring the payment of bail, fines, penalties, fees, or assessment; and (6) that a court must vacate a civil assessment upon a showing of good cause for failure to pay or appear. To the extent that the circulated rule addressed a court's discretionary authority to reduce a civil assessment it did so only in subdivision (c)(6), which recognized that a court may still exercise its discretion absent a showing of good cause to reconsider whether a civil assessment should be imposed and, if so, the amount of the assessment.

The committees partly incorporated into the proposal the commenters' request that rule 4.106(c) provide greater recognition of a court's discretionary authority to reduce civil assessments. They revised subdivision (c)(1) to require that the notice of civil assessment include information about the process for reducing the assessment. The committees also revised subdivisions (c)(2) and (c)(3) to provide that a defendant may move by written petition to reduce the civil assessment and to recognize that a defendant may request reduction of the civil assessment without paying any bail, fines, penalties, fees, or assessments. However, they declined to require in subdivision (c)(1) that courts notify defendants on the civil assessment notice of their right to request that the civil assessment be reduced out of concern that this additional notice might contribute to confusion.

Deadline for petitioning to vacate or reduce the civil assessment. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(c)(2) provided that a defendant could petition to vacate the civil assessment only within 20 days after the court sends the notice of civil assessment. One commenter requested that the committees remove this 20-day time limit and instead allow a defendant to establish good cause at any point, including after the assessment is levied. Another echoed the recommendation to amend the rule to allow a defendant to petition to vacate the assessment for good cause at any time.

The committees elected to remove the 20-day time limit from subdivision (c)(2). Penal Code section 1214.1(b)(1) provides that the court must vacate a civil assessment if the defendant appears within the time specified in the notice of civil assessment. Individual courts may specify times longer than 20 days in the notice of civil assessment, and the committees do not intend to limit a court's discretion. Yet, allowing a defendant to come back at any time to vacate the civil assessment, as the commenters recommend, might conflict with statute and require a legislative change. Accordingly, the committees declined to accept this suggestion and instead revised the language in subdivision (c)(2) to track the statute. As noted above, the committees also expanded this subdivision to encompass petitions to reduce the civil assessment in the exercise of discretion.

Request by a defendant for a court appearance. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(c)(2) allowed a defendant to request a court appearance to adjudicate a petition for vacating the civil assessment for good cause. A commenter recommended removing this provision. The committees agreed and removed the language from the proposal because written petitions, when feasible, should be encouraged for the convenience of both defendants and the courts.

Effect of filing a petition to vacate an assessment. Proposed rule 4.106(c)(4) provides that a petition to vacate an assessment does not stay the operation of any order requiring the payment of bail, fines, penalties, fees, or assessment unless specifically ordered by the court.

This subdivision generated conflicting comments. On the one hand, a commenter recommended deleting subdivision (c)(4) on the view that the filing of a petition to vacate the civil assessment should stay the payment order. This commenter also suggested revising the rule to require that any order suspending a driver's license be recalled upon the filing of a petition to vacate the civil assessment. On the other hand, three commenters supported this subdivision as drafted. The committees declined to remove this subdivision because allowing for proceedings to be stayed could be unduly burdensome for courts.

Examples of good cause for vacating a civil assessment. The advisory committee comment to proposed rule 4.106(c) lists examples of circumstances that may amount to good cause for failure to pay or appear. These examples include the defendant's hospitalization, incapacitation, or incarceration; military duty required of the defendant; death or hospitalization of the defendant's dependent or immediate family member; caregiver responsibility for a sick or disabled dependent or immediate family member of the defendant; or an extraordinary reason, beyond the defendant's control, that prevented the defendant from making an appearance or payment.

Two commenters requested expanding this list. One recommended adding inability to pay, homelessness, and unforeseeable circumstances; the other, lack of child care and an inflexible work schedule. The committees declined to provide additional examples of good cause in the advisory committee comment. The advisory committee comment is not intended to be an exhaustive list. A judicial officer retains discretion to determine that other circumstances amount to good cause in reviewing the individual circumstances presented in the case on review.

Proposed rule 4.106(d) addresses adjudication of the underlying charges after a court has referred an unadjudicated case to a comprehensive collection program.

Application only in unadjudicated cases. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(d)(1) stated that it applied "in unadjudicated cases." The circulated proposal also included an advisory committee comment clarifying that subdivision (d) was "not intended to allow defendants to seek readjudication of the underlying charges if the case has already been adjudicated."

Nevertheless, three commenters requested further clarification that the scope of subdivision (d) is limited only to unadjudicated cases. The committees revised the heading of subdivision (d) and the language of subdivision (d)(1) in an effort to eliminate any confusion as to its intended scope. They also deleted the advisory committee comment because they viewed it as redundant to the revised rule.

Use of alternative scheduling methods. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(d)(2) provided that a defendant may request an appearance date to adjudicate the charges by written petition. A commenter suggested also allowing courts to use alternative methods other than written petition to request appearance dates. The committees agreed and have revised subdivision (d)(2) as requested to provide courts with greater flexibility.

Clarification of the “unlikely to appear” standard. Proposed rule 4.106(d)(3) provides that a court may require a deposit of bail before adjudication of the underlying charges if the court finds that the defendant is unlikely to appear as ordered without a deposit of bail and the court expressly states the reasons for the finding.

Three commenters requested that the committees provide guidance on the “unlikely to appear” standard. One suggested that the rule state that a failure to appear is not in itself grounds to presume an unlikelihood of appearing. The second supported subdivision (d)(3) but expressed concern that the “unlikely to appear” standard was unclear. The third recommended including factors that a court may consider in assessing the likelihood of appearing, such as a previous failure to appear in the same case. The committees declined to identify factors relevant to determining whether a defendant is unlikely to appear as ordered without a deposit of bail because this determination falls within judicial discretion.

Comments on proposed rule 4.106(e)

Proposed rule 4.106(e) governs the situation where a defendant fails to pay or make a payment under an installment plan. It includes procedures for adjudicating petitions filed by defendants to modify the payment terms.

Petition to modify the payment terms. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(e) referenced requests to modify and vacate the judgment. Five commenters expressed concern with allowing a defendant to modify the judgment. Another requested that the committees remove the term “vacate,” and another suggested replacing the term “request” with “petition” throughout the proposal. The committees agreed and revised subdivision (e) to clarify that a defendant may petition to modify the payment terms. They removed the reference to vacating the judgment and replaced the term “request” with “petition” throughout the proposal.

Additional good cause requirement if case has been sent to collections. One commenter requested that proposed rule 4.106(e) provide that a defendant be required to show good cause to schedule a hearing to modify the payment terms if case was in collections. The committees declined to add this limitation; proposed rule 4.106(e) is intended to allow a defendant to petition the court to modify the payment terms at any time, including after a case has been sent to collections.

Options available to a court in adjudicating a petition to modify payment terms. One commenter expressed concern that proposed rule 4.106(e) created an expectation that a court would necessarily reduce the fine any time that a defendant made a request. A second requested guidance on what it means to modify the judgment. A third sought to clarify that a court may choose not to modify the payment amount or may modify an installment plan by reducing the amount, giving a defendant more time to pay, or approving community service. A fourth requested revising the rule to clarify that a court is not prevented from denying a request to modify the payment terms for reasons other than those specified in subdivision (e)—namely, because an unreasonable amount of time had passed or the defendant had made an unreasonable number of requests.

In response to these comments, the committees added an advisory committee comment to subdivision (e)(1) to provide guidance on the various options available to courts in adjudicating a defendant's petition to modify the payment terms. The listed options include a court's discretionary authority to deny the defendant's request. Other options available, if the court exercises its discretion to grant a defendant's request, include modifying the payment terms by reducing or suspending the base fine, lowering the payments, converting the remaining balance to community service, or otherwise modifying the payment terms as the court sees fit.

Request by defendant for a court appearance. Proposed rule 4.106(e)(1) allows a defendant to request a court appearance for adjudication of their petition to modify the payment terms. One commenter requested that the committees remove the language allowing a defendant to request a court appearance. While the committees agree that written petitions should be encouraged when feasible, they declined to remove the language as recommended.

Additional notice to defendants after a failure to pay. One commenter requested that the committees revise proposed rule 4.106(e) to require that courts notify defendants—after a failure to pay—of the missed payment and available options. The commenter also suggested that a defendant should be provided with an opportunity to remedy the missed payment before the court imposes a civil assessment or refers the defendant for license suspension. The committees declined to provide for additional notice requirements or procedures beyond those already required by statute and these proposed rules if a defendant has failed to pay, but they may consider these suggestions in developing future proposals.

Denials based on an unreasonable amount of time or number of requests. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(e)(5) provided that a court may deny the defendant's request and order no further hearings if an unreasonable amount of time had passed or the defendant had made an unreasonable number of requests.

A commenter requested modifying subdivision (e)(5) to clarify that it did not apply if the defendant petitioned to modify the payment terms based on ability to pay. Another asked that the committees remove subdivision (e)(5) in its entirety because it would contravene Vehicle Code section 42003 and other statutory provisions. To address these concerns, the committees added language to subdivision (e)(5) to clarify that its scope did not extend to petitions based on ability to pay.

Another commenter requested that the committees provide clearer guidelines for determining how much time and how many requests would be unreasonable. The committees declined to limit judicial discretion by providing more information on these terms.

Comments on proposed rule 4.106(f)

Proposed rule 4.106(f) provides that courts may require the deposit of bail before adjudicating a defendant's request for a trial de novo after entry of judgment in absentia under Vehicle Code section 40903.

Vacating the judgment after receiving a bail deposit. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(f) required courts to vacate the judgment upon receipt of the bail deposit. One commenter indicated that vacating the judgment would result in significant costs and would double and possibly triple the work of courts. Based on these concerns, the committees elected to remove the language requiring courts to vacate the judgment after receipt of bail.

Allowing courts to require the deposit of bail. One commenter requested that the committees remove subdivision (f) entirely from the proposal because it allows a court to require bail if a defendant requests a trial de novo after an in absentia conviction.

Vehicle Code section 40902 allows defendants to proceed with a trials by written declaration only if the defendant first deposits bail. Section 40902 also entitles a defendant to a trial de novo if the defendant is not content with the outcome of the trial by written declaration. Although section 40903 provides that a defendant who fails to appear may be deemed to have elected to have a trial by written declaration, it does not expressly incorporate the provisions of section 40902, including the right to a trial de novo. The committees intend for this rule to clarify that defendants are entitled to a trial de novo after a conviction in absentia under section 40903. But if a defendant elects to take advantage of the right to a trial de novo, subdivision (f) requires, consistent with section 40902, that the defendant deposit bail. The committees decline to remove subdivision (f) as requested. With subdivision (f), they intend to provide defendants convicted after a trial in absentia under section 40903 with both the rights and responsibilities of section 40902.

Comments on proposed rule 4.106(g)

Proposed rule 4.106(g) addresses referrals to the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) for license suspension under Vehicle Code sections 40509(b) or 40509.5(b) after a defendant fails to pay. Specifically, it requires that the court first provide the defendant with notice and an opportunity to be heard on inability to pay before a referral to the DMV.

Specifying where the court may provide notice. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106(g) did not address how courts might provide defendants with notice that they could be heard on their ability to pay. The circulated proposal also included an advisory committee comment to this subdivision, which specified that the court must provide the defendant with notice on ability to pay and with instructions.

Seven commenters requested that the committees revise this subdivision to clarify where courts should provide this notice. Some also recommended specifying that the courts may provide this notice on the reminder notice required by proposed rule 4.107 or on the civil assessment notice. The committees elected to revise subdivision (f) to clarify that the notice may be provided on the reminder notice, the civil assessment notice, or any other notice provided to the defendant. They also deleted the circulated advisory committee comment because they viewed it as redundant to the revised rule.

Allowing for ability-to-pay hearings upon request before referring to DMV for license suspension. Proposed rule 4.106(g) provides for notice and an opportunity to be heard before a court may refer a defendant who fails to pay to the DMV for license suspension. One commenter requested that the committees replace the language providing for “an opportunity to be heard” with “an opportunity for a determination of ability to pay.”

The committees declined to incorporate this suggestion into the proposal. Ensuring opportunity for a hearing if requested by the defendant before referring the defendant to DMV for license suspension because of a failure to pay is compatible with due process principles. Nonetheless, courts are encouraged to utilize written petitions if the defendant and court are mutually agreeable to adjudication by written petition. This rule does not preclude them from so doing.

Expanding subdivision (g) to address failures to appear. As circulated, proposed rule 4.106 addresses referrals to the DMV for failures to pay. One commenter requested that the committees expand subdivision (g) to also address failures to appear. The committees declined to expand subdivision (g) because this request is outside the scope of the present proposal. This subdivision governs notifications to DMV under Vehicle Code sections 40509(b) and 40509.5(b), which apply only to failures to pay. The committees may consider developing future proposals to address procedures for license suspension when a defendant fails to appear.

Concerns regarding driver’s license suspensions. Although one commenter expressed concerns that these proposals do not curb the use of license suspensions as a debt collection tool, this proposal would ensure that defendants are afforded due process (notice and the opportunity to be heard on ability to pay) before a court may suspend a driver’s license for failure to pay.

Comments on proposed rule 4.107

Standard 4.41 of the California Standards of Judicial Administration currently provides guidance for courts if they elect to send a courtesy notice to defendants who receive traffic citations. Proposed rule 4.107 would convert standard 4.41 into a rule of court and would require that all courts send these notices.

Renaming the notice. The circulated proposal retained the name “courtesy notice” in referring to these notices. Two commenters recommended renaming these notices because they would be mandatory under the proposed rule. The committees agreed and incorporated one commenter’s specific suggestion to rename the notices as “reminder notices” into the proposal.

Sending reminder notices to an address provided to the court. One commenter requested that courts send reminder notices not only to the address on the Notice to Appear, but also to the last known address in the DMV database. The committees declined to make this change as requested because it would be unduly burdensome on courts. However, recognizing that a defendant may provide the court with an address that differs from the address on the Notice to Appear, the committees elected to revise subdivision (a)(1) to provide that a court may also satisfy the requirement of providing the defendant with a reminder notice by sending the notice to an address otherwise provided to the court.

Sending reminder notices electronically by e-mail and text message. The committees drafted circulated rule 4.107(a) broadly so that it would allow courts not only to mail paper reminder notices, but also to send electronic notices.

Three courts that do not currently provide courtesy notices submitted comments citing concerns with making these notices mandatory, including increased costs. All three contended that a robust website would be able to provide defendants with sufficient information about their traffic case. One also suggested that requiring courtesy notices would be a regressive rather than a progressive measure, as courts are moving to paperless case environments.

Another commenter recommended that the Judicial Council initiate an electronic notification system through which the court could send defendants notifications via text message or e-mail.

In light of these concerns and suggestions, and to increase access for defendants, the committees revised proposed rule 4.107(a) to provide further guidance for courts that want to send electronic reminder notices. The committees also added an advisory committee comment to further explain options available to the court for providing electronic notices.

Consequences of failing to receive a reminder notice. Four commenters requested that the committees revise proposed rule 4.107 to clarify that a defendant’s failure to receive a reminder notice is not a defense for a failure to appear and does not relieve the defendant of the obligation to appear by the date on the citation. One also asked for clarification on applicable procedures if a notice were returned as undeliverable. To address these comments, the committees added subdivision (a)(3) to clarify that a defendant's failure to receive a notice does not relieve the defendant of any obligations. In light of this revision, the court need not implement any procedures to track notices returned as undeliverable.

Information provided to defendants on the reminder notice. As circulated, proposed rule 4.107 specified minimum information that had to appear on the reminder notice, as well as information that a court could provide if desired. Mirroring standard 4.41, the circulated rule recommended but did not require that the notice provide information to defendants about informal trial, trial by declaration, telephone scheduling options, correction requirements, and procedures for correctable violations. The committees received various comments in response to these provisions on required and recommended information in the reminder notices.

First, the circulated rule required that the notice provide information to defendants on the availability of community service and installment payment plans. One commenter explained that some courts do not offer community service or installment plans. The commenter requested that the committees add the phrase "if available" to clarify that a court need not provide information on community service or installment plans if the court does not currently offer these alternatives. The committees agreed and added the requested language to the proposal. Courts are not statutorily required to provide community service or installment plans; if a court does not offer these options, it need not provide any information about them on the reminder notice.

Second, a commenter requested that the reminder notice inform defendants that a traffic violator school will charge a separate fee. This commenter explained that defendants often believe they have already paid the fee to attend traffic violator school. The committees elected to incorporate this suggestion into the proposal as it provides defendants with additional information and avoids possible confusion.

Third, one commenter suggested that the information on trial by written declaration and telephone scheduling options should be mandatory on reminder notices. The committees revised the rule to provide that the reminder notice must provide information about trial by written declaration, informal trial if available, correction requirements and procedures for correctable offenses, and telephone and website scheduling options if available.

Fourth, based in part on comments received regarding the importance of court websites for providing information to defendants, the committees revised the rule to require that the reminder notice provide the court's website as part of the contact information for the court.

Lastly, one commenter requested the courts send any forms for requesting an ability-to-pay determination with the reminder notice. The committees declined this request because requiring that courts mail ability-to-pay or other forms with all reminder notices would be unduly burdensome. However, they did add an advisory committee comment to this rule to state preferred practices for enhancing defendants' access to relevant forms and information. The advisory committee comment suggests providing direct links on electronic reminder notices and website addresses on paper notices for any information or local forms on the court's website.

Comments on proposed rule 4.335

Proposed rule 4.335 addresses ability-to-pay determinations in infraction cases. The committees modeled the rule on Vehicle Code section 42003,³ while also expanding on this authority and applying proposed rule 4.335 to nontraffic infraction offenses.

Clarifying where courts may provide notice of the right to request an ability-to-pay determination. Proposed rule 4.335(b) requires that courts provide defendants with notice of their right to request an ability-to-pay determination and make available instructions or other materials for requesting an ability-to-pay determination. Two commenters requested that the committees clarify where to provide this notice. Whereas one recommended allowing courts to provide this notice at any time, including on the reminder notice, the other suggested that courts should make this notice available online and on the original citation. The committees agreed to provide further guidance for courts and added an advisory committee comment to subdivision (b) that would specify that the notice may be provided on the reminder notice, the civil assessment notice, a court's website, or any other notice provided to the defendant.

Imposing limitations on requests for ability-to-pay determinations. Proposed rule 4.335(c) provides that a court, on a defendant's request, must consider his or her ability to pay. It clarifies that a defendant may request an ability-to-pay determination at adjudication or while the judgment remains unpaid, including when a case is delinquent or has been referred to a comprehensive collection program. It further clarifies that a defendant ordered to pay on an installment plan or to complete community service may request to have an ability-to-pay determination at any time during the pendency of the judgment. Lastly, proposed rule 4.335(c) provides that if a defendant has already had an ability-to-pay determination, he or she may request another only based on changed circumstances. The committees received various comments suggesting that proposed rule 4.335(c) include time limits and other restrictions on requesting ability-to-pay determinations.

First, two commenters requested that the committees limit ability-to-pay determinations to preadjudication. Three others suggested restricting the time period in which a defendant may request an ability-to-pay determination. Two offered suggestions of 30 days and six months, while the third recognized that a court should accept the request for an ability-to-pay determination whenever a defendant is able to show changed circumstances. The committees declined to pursue the suggestions to impose a time limit because they modeled proposed rule

³ The committees closely examined Vehicle Code section 42003(c). While the plain language of section 42003 may not be clear, its legislative history strongly supports the conclusion that the Legislature intended for its ability-to-pay provisions to apply to the imposition of fines for all Vehicle Code violations and did not intend to limit its scope to the costs associated with probation's presentence investigation. (Assem. Comm. on Ways and Means, Analysis, Assem. Bill No. 708 (1993–1994 Reg. Sess.) as amended Apr. 29, 1993; Sen. Rules Com., Off. of Sen. Floor Analyses, 3d reading analysis of Assem. Bill No. 708 (1993–1994 Reg. Sess.) as amended Apr. 29, 1993.)

4.335 on Vehicle Code section 42003, which contemplates that defendants may request ability-to-pay determinations at adjudication and during the pendency of the judgment. For this reason, proposed rule 4.335 clarifies that its ability-to-pay provisions apply when a case is delinquent or referred to a comprehensive collection program.

Second, one commenter requested that the rule restrict the number of times a defendant could request an ability-to-pay determination. The committees declined to pursue this suggestion because Vehicle Code section 42003(e) contemplates that a defendant may make additional requests for ability-to-pay determinations based on changed circumstances during the pendency of the judgment and does not limit the number of such requests.

Third, another commenter requested that the committees revise rule 4.335 to provide that a defendant may request an initial ability-to-pay determination only up until the date the fine is due. The committees declined to pursue this suggestion. While Vehicle Code section 42003(c) contemplates that defendants may request an initial ability-to-pay determination at the time of adjudication, it is foreseeable that courts may adjudicate a case and render judgment in a defendant's absence under section 40903. If a court elects to proceed by trial in absentia under section 40903, the defendant would never have had an initial ability-to-pay determination from which changed circumstances could be determined.

Fourth, as circulated, proposed rule 4.335 allowed a court to deny a defendant's request for an ability-to-pay determination, order no further proceedings, and order that a case be referred to collections if the court determined that (1) an unreasonable amount of time had passed or (2) the defendant had made an unreasonable number of requests for an ability-to-pay determination. Whereas one commenter suggested providing further guidance on interpreting the phrase "an unreasonable amount of time," another expressed concern that the circulated rule was inconsistent with Vehicle Code section 42003. The committees agreed with the latter and decided to remove this provision from proposed rule 4.335.

Lastly, one commenter requested that the committees revise rule 4.335 to provide that a defendant must show good cause before receiving an ability-to-pay determination if the court has already sent the case to collections. The committees declined to incorporate this suggestion into the proposal. Vehicle Code section 42003(e) provides that a defendant may request an ability-to-pay determination based on changed circumstances at any time during the pendency of the judgment and does not contemplate any other limitations on the right of a defendant to make this request.

Delegation to clerks or county revenue collections agencies. As circulated, proposed rule 4.335 delegated a preliminary step in making ability-to-pay determinations to clerks or county revenue collection agencies. The circulated rule allowed clerks and county revenue collections agents to make an initial determination of whether a defendant received public benefits or had a monthly income of 125 percent or less of the current poverty guidelines. The circulated rule also provided for review of this initial determination, as well as the ultimate determination of a defendant's ability to pay, by a judicial officer. The committees proposed this limited delegation to clerks and county revenue agencies in an effort to provide for greater efficiencies.

Eight commenters expressed concerns over delegating ability-to-pay determinations to clerks and county revenue collections agencies. The commenters explained that evaluating ability to pay is not ministerial and instead falls squarely within judicial discretion. Two commenters also cited real or perceived conflicts of interest with delegating to a county revenue collections agency. And two commenters requested that the committees revise the circulated rule to clarify that a judicial officer has the discretion to order a hearing or review the petition on the written record.

The rule, as circulated, was not intended to eliminate judicial discretion. Because the comments received indicated general confusion over the intended scope of the delegation, the committees decided to remove the provisions on delegation and judicial review of that delegation from the proposal.⁴ Instead, the committees have recommended revising the rule to contemplate that only judicial officers will conduct ability-to-pay determinations.

While removing the provisions on delegation, the committees have incorporated the suggestion to clarify that judicial officers have discretion to conduct their review of written requests for ability-to-pay determinations on the written record or to order a hearing. The committees also recommended adding an advisory committee comment instructing courts that they should consider factors including whether a defendant receives public benefits or has a monthly income of 125 percent or less of the current poverty guidelines in light of the importance of these factors in evaluating ability to pay.

Alternatives available to the court in making ability-to-pay determinations. Proposed rule 4.335(c)(4) provides guidance for courts making ability-to-pay determinations on available options. These options include providing for payment on an installment plan, allowing the defendant to complete community service in lieu of paying a total fine, suspending the fine in whole or part, and offering an alternative disposition.

A commenter expressed concern because some courts do not offer community service. Because the committees do not intend for these rules to require courts that do not currently offer community service or installment plans to implement such programs, they revised proposed rule 4.335(c)(4) to clarify that the court may offer community service or installment plans if these alternatives are available.

Another commenter requested that the committees revise proposed rule 4.335(c)(4) to clarify that a court may suspend not only the fine, but also any fees, assessments, and other penalties. Two commenters requested clarification that a judicial officer may not remove all penalties. Another recommended that the rule provide that courts should first reduce or waive fines before converting any remaining fines and fees into community service or jail time. Another requested clarification on alternate dispositions.

The committees declined to further revise proposed rule 4.335(c)(4) because these matters fall within judicial discretion. However, they added to the advisory committee comment to clarify that (1) a court does not have discretion to alter any mandatory fees imposed by statute, even though it may suspend the base fine in whole; and (2) regardless of whether the defendant has demonstrated an inability to pay, a court may still consider the defendant's criminal history and the severity of the offense among other factors.

Global comments

This proposal also elicited global comments on language access and developing forms to implement its provisions.

Expanding language access. A number of commenters requested that the committees revise the proposal to provide greater language access for defendants who do not understand English. In supporting the proposed amendment to rule 4.105, one commenter suggested also requiring that the links on local court websites to statewide self-help materials make clear to defendants that these materials are available in Spanish. Another suggested requiring that courts translate the notices described in proposed rule 4.106 into the most common languages. Another requested that courts translate the reminder notices required by proposed rule 4.107 into the defendant's preferred language where available. Two additional commenters asked that courts make notices informing defendants of their right to request an ability-to-pay determination and instructions available in other languages.

While these suggestions are outside the scope of the present proposal, the committees recognize the importance of increasing access to the courts for defendants who do not read English. In developing future proposals, especially any model forms or optional Judicial Council forms, the committees may consider these suggestions. The committees also note that the Judicial Council's Language Access Planning Task Force has developed a Translation Protocol and a Translation Action Plan to assist the council in prioritizing the translation of Judicial Council forms and other materials.

Developing forms to implement these rules. One commenter requested that the committees develop a Judicial Council form for defendants to request vacating civil assessments. Two other commenters suggesting creating ability-to-pay forms to assist courts in determining a defendant's ability to pay. Another commenter recommended that the council ensure that reminder notices are understandable and readable for all members of the public. While outside the scope of the present proposal, the committees may consider these suggestions in developing future forms proposals.

Several commenters expressed concerns with the laws governing the imposition of fines in infraction cases, especially where court funding is based in part on the imposition of fines, fees, and assessments. The committees recognize these concerns and the need to continue to address issues surrounding court-imposed fines and fees and related issues, and for the Legislature to address these issues. The committees also note that the Chief Justice's Commission on the Future of California's Court System is exploring these issues.

The committees also recognize that some courts are concerned about the costs required to implement this proposal. The committees recognize that implementation may increase costs to courts. However, the committees have decided that, on balance, the benefits of these proposed rules, which are necessary to promote access and fairness, outweigh the costs. The committees have attempted to strike a balance between providing defendants with adequate due process and easing the burden on courts where possible. Also, in response to these concerns, the committees have recommended an extended implementation date for the rule proposals.

Implementation Requirements, Costs, and Operational Impacts

Courts will need to update local websites, and court notices and provide training for court staff and judicial officers regarding these changes for processing infraction cases. The committees are sensitive to the concern that the rules may require changes to court forms and procedures.

Increased costs resulting from requiring reminder notices. An informal survey of courts indicates that approximately 53 out of 58 superior courts currently provide courtesy notices of some type. Three courts that do not currently send courtesy notices submitted comments indicating that requiring reminder notices under proposed rule 4.107 will increase costs. Two other courts that already provide these notices to defendants also cited increased costs resulting primarily from providing additional information on these notices.

Requiring that all courts send these notices will increase the fiscal burden on courts that do not currently provide them. While sensitive to these concerns, the committees decided, on balance, that the benefits of requiring reminder notices outweigh the costs. These notices provide defendants with valuable information and advance due process requirements. To ease any anticipated financial burden on the courts, the committees revised the proposal to provide additional guidance to courts on sending these notices electronically.

Increased workload and costs related to ability to pay. Six commenters expressed concern regarding increased workload and costs related to providing notices under proposed rule 4.335. By removing the provisions on delegation and clarifying that the notice may be provided on existing notices, the committees attempted to reduce the burden on courts.

It is also possible that with increased notice about the procedure for requesting an ability-to-pay determination, more defendants may request review of their ability to pay. The committees acknowledge the potential increased workload for court staff and judicial officers. However, the committees concluded that any increased burdens are outweighed by the procedural fairness that these rules will advance.

Extended implementation date. The committees are sensitive to the impact on the courts in implementing these rules, if amended and adopted, by a January 1, 2017 effective date. Several commenters suggested a delayed implementation date due to the significant changes in these proposals.

The committees recognize that this proposal may require changes to court procedure, forms, and operations and may result in an increase in workload. In balancing their concern for the courts with the need for speedy implementation of rules that provide increased access and fairness for defendants, the committees have decided to recommend that the rules become effective January 1, 2017, while also allowing courts additional time to implement these rules. The committees have concluded that an extended implementation date of May 1, 2017, is warranted, but urge courts to implement these rules as soon as reasonably possible.

3 As used in this rule, “failure to appear” and “failure to pay” mean failure to appear
4 and failure to pay as defined in section 1214.1(a).

6 (c) Procedure for consideration of good cause for failure to appear or pay

- 8 (1) A notice of a civil assessment under section 1214.1(b) must inform the 9 defendant of his or her right to petition that the civil assessment be vacated
10 for good cause and must include information about the process for vacating
11 or reducing the assessment.
12
- 13 (2) When a notice of civil assessment is given, a defendant may, within the time 14 specified in the notice, move by written petition to vacate or reduce the 15 assessment.
- 17 (3) When a court imposes a civil assessment for failure to appear or pay, the 18 defendant may petition that the court vacate or reduce the civil assessment
19 without paying any bail, fines, penalties, fees, or assessments.
20
- 21 (4) A petition to vacate an assessment does not stay the operation of any order

30
- 31 (A) Whether a civil assessment should be imposed; and 32
- 33 (B) If so, the amount of the assessment.
34
- 35 (7) In exercising its discretion, the court may consider such factors as a 36 defendant’s due diligence in appearing or paying after notice of the 37 assessment has been given under section 1214.1(b)(1) and the defendant’s
38 financial circumstances.

3 delinquent debt, the defendant may schedule a hearing for adjudication of the 4 underlying charge(s) without payment of the bail amount.
6 (2) The defendant may request an appearance date to adjudicate the underlying 7 charges by written petition or alternative method provided by the court.
8 Alternatively, the defendant may request or the court may direct a court
9 appearance.
11 (3) A court may require a deposit of bail before adjudication of the underlying 12 charges if the court finds that the defendant is unlikely to appear as ordered 13 without a deposit of bail and the court expressly states the reasons for the 14 finding. The court must not require payment of the civil assessment before 15 adjudication.

22 42007, the court must permit the defendant to appear by written petition to 23 modify the payment terms. Alternatively, the defendant may request or the 24 court may direct a court appearance.
25
26 (2) The court must not require payment of bail, fines, penalties, fees, or 27 assessments to consider the petition.
28
29 (3) The petition to modify the payment terms does not stay the operation of any 30 order requiring the payment of bail, fines, penalties, fees, or assessments

35
36 (5) If the petition to modify the payment terms is not based on an inability to 37 pay, the court may deny the defendant's request to modify the payment terms
38 and order no further proceedings if the court determines that:
39
40 (A) An unreasonable amount of time has passed; or 41
42 (B) The defendant has made an unreasonable number of requests to modify

12 Before a court may notify the DMV under Vehicle Code sections 40509(b) or 13 40509.5(b) that a defendant has failed to pay a fine or an installment of bail, the

15 the inability to pay. This notice may be provided on the notice required in rule 16 4.107, the civil assessment notice, or any other notice provided to the defendant.

18 Advisory Committee Comment
19

20 Subdivision (a). The rule is intended to apply only to an infraction offense for which the 21 defendant (1) has received a written notice to appear and (2) has failed to appear by the 22 appearance date or an approved extension of that date or has failed to pay as required.
23

24 Subdivision (c)(3). Circumstances that indicate good cause may include, but are not limited to,
25 the defendant's hospitalization, incapacitation, or incarceration; military duty required of the 26 defendant; death or hospitalization of the defendant's dependent or immediate family member;
27 caregiver responsibility for a sick or disabled dependent or immediate family member of the 28 defendant; or an extraordinary reason, beyond the defendant's control, that prevented the 29 defendant from making an appearance or payment on or before the date listed on the notice to 30 appear.

32 Subdivision (e)(1). A court may exercise its discretion to deny a defendant's request to modify 33 the payment terms. If the court chooses to grant the defendant's request, the court may modify the 34 payment terms by reducing or suspending the base fine, lowering the payments, converting the 35 remaining balance to community service, or otherwise modifying the payment terms as the court
36 sees fit.

For the past several years, we, individually and in coalition, have advocated for systemic change in the traffic court system to help ensure that low-income defendants do not experience disproportionate and unconstitutional harm. Although we commend the Judicial Council’s Traffic Advisory Committee and Criminal Law Advisory Committee (“Committee”) for incorporating many of our prior comments in the new set of proposed rules and revised notices, we reiterate our primary concerns that the traffic fines and fees are excessive, and that the courts should not be using driver’s license suspension as a means to coerce payment. Even if courts adopt all of the model procedural protections under consideration, the dollar amounts of the traffic fines and fees will still be excessive, and some low-income families will still likely slip through the cracks – because they are homeless and do not receive the newly revised notices, because they cannot read the notices or understand how to clear their tickets or reduce their fines, because their financial circumstances change and they cannot make the agreed-upon payments, or for other reasons. | | | | arraignment—such a policy creates a two-tiered system of justice where the privileged are able to avail themselves of convenient court processes but others are not. It is particularly inequitable to require payment to schedule a court date without an arraignment, given that low-income defendants are more likely to have difficulty finding transportation to court, and may not be able to take time off from hourly-wage jobs. Given the move away from “pay to play” rules, the Judicial Council should explicitly encourage the courts to stop requiring deposit of bail as a condition to accessing these procedures or, at a minimum, to set a bail schedule for these procedures that is “reasonable and sufficient for the appearance of the defendant.” See Veh. Code § 40511. “Bail” in the amount of the full fine, fees, and surcharges owed on the ticket is not “reasonable” and is indeed, excessive. In addition, we remain concerned about courts’ practices in determining likelihood of appearing at trial under Rule 4.105(c)(3). The rule requires a deposit of bail before trial if the court finds, based on the circumstances of a particular case, that the defendant is unlikely to appear as ordered without a deposit of bail. See Rule 4.105(c)(3). It is standard practice in some courts, Los Angeles Superior for example, for the court to make a finding that a person is unlikely to appear at the next court date, and to require deposit of bail for trial, simply because | to proceed with trial by written declaration. Therefore this cannot be changed by rule of court; it can only be changed by legislation. With respect to bail to set a trial date without appearing for arraignment, the proposal that was circulated for public comment did not include a rule change eliminating bail in these proceedings. Under rule 10.22, advisory bodies cannot present a substantive rule change to the Judicial Council for adoption without first circulating for public comment. This means that even if the person had good cause for the failure to appear, the person would be required to post bail in order to get a trial at which she could demonstrate that good cause.¹ We hope that proposed Rule 4.106(c)(3), which mandates that “[c]ourts must permit a defendant to present a showing of good cause for failure to appear or pay without requiring . . . payment of bail, fines, penalties, fees, or assessments,” remedies this problem. [Footnote in original] ¹ According to a publicly filed declaration by Greg Blair, Senior Administrator for the Metropolitan Courthouse of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, approximately 8,000 complaints for failure to appear were filed every week in the fiscal year of 2007-2008. We also continue to support Rule 4.106(c)(3)'s provision that the court may not require a defendant to deposit bail in order to present good cause for failure to pay or failure to appear. However, we urge the Committee to strengthen the rules in the following ways in order to fully protect defendants' rights. First, Rule 4.106(c) should be reframed to clarify that the imposition of a civil assessment on the front-end is not mandatory and should not be automatic. Penal Code § 1214.1 states a court may impose a civil assessment of up to $300. However, many courts automatically impose the maximum amount for a failure to appear or failure to pay, even in the context of a missed installment payment of just $20 or $30. It is likely that homeless individuals or those with unstable living conditions will not have received notice about the failure to appear or pay or the civil assessment being added. Even if our clients do receive notice, life circumstances, including homelessness, make it very difficult to respond to the court in that short amount of time. Instead, a defendant should be able to make a showing of good cause for failure to appear or to pay at any point, including after the civil assessment is levied. This mirrors Proposed Rule 4.335 which permits a defendant to request an ability-to-pay determination at or after adjudication or while the judgment remains unpaid, including when a case is delinquent or has been referred to a comprehensive collection program. | public comment. The committees may consider adopting proposals in the future to establish criteria for initial imposition of the civil assessment. Proposed rule 4.106(c)(6) includes examples of factors that courts may consider when reconsidering whether a civil assessment should be imposed, including a defendant’s due diligence. Response: The committees agree with this recommendation to eliminate the 20-day time limit from the proposed rule. Penal Code section 1214.1 provides that the civil assessment shall not become effective until “at least” 20 days after the court sends a notice, and if the defendant appears within the time specified in the notice and shows good cause, the court must vacate the assessment. Individual courts may provide for times longer than 20 days under section 1214.1, and this proposed rule is not intended to limit the court’s discretion. However, allowing a defendant to come back at any time to vacate the civil assessment, as this comment also recommends, might conflict with statute and require a legislative change. |

Instead, the filing of a petition should stay any of those orders. The rule should also specify that any orders of license suspension that have been initiated be recalled upon the filing of a petition to vacate. Otherwise defendants who have good cause may be preemptively sanctioned and could face irreparable harm if their license is in fact suspended. Fourth, Rule 4.106(c)(5) should be amended to expand the basis for determining good cause to vacate an assessment. Although the basis for a finding of good cause is not limited in the governing statute, see Penal Code § 1214.1, most courts restrict a finding of good cause to instances involving hospitalization, incarceration, active military duty or death of an immediate family member, as is currently specified in the advisory comments to the rule. It is critical that the Judicial Council expand the bases for good cause for failure to appear or failure to pay, including explicitly listing inability to pay as a ground for showing good cause, especially since numerous—if not the vast majority of—courts in California do not currently provide adequate notice of a person’s right to an ability to pay determination. If a defendant fails to appear or pay due to inability to pay, it is all the more unlikely that the defendant will be able to make an exorbitant extra payment of $300, which hurts both the defendant and the court's efforts to collect debt. Moreover, there are a number of other good reasons that a person might not have been able to appear in court beyond those reasons listed in the advisory comments, including a childcare or transportation emergency or other medical emergency not involving hospitalization. Accordingly, we believe that the rule should specify that good cause exists if the defendant: 1) experiences "homelessness," defined as lack of a fixed and regular nighttime address, or residence in a shelter or transitional living facility; 2) the defendant does not have the ability to pay; or 3) if the defendant experienced any other unforeseeable circumstance that caused the failure to appear. This subsection should again clarify that the imposition of a civil assessment is not mandatory. The Judicial Council should also require the courts to update their notices and instructions to include the expanded definition of good cause. Currently, courts do not generally exercise discretion in levying assessments even though it is provided under statute. Pen. Code § 1214.1. Although he realized his mistake and sent in double the amount the next month to make up for the missed payment, the court had already tacked on a civil assessment of $300 and referred him to the DMV for license suspension. The severity of this sanction in relation to the offense of missing one small installment payment is excessive and violates the constitutional prohibitions on excessive fines. Moreover, it is our observation that courts generally do not meaningfully consider a defendant's ability to pay when setting the amounts of installment plans and, as a result, many low income and indigent defendants are left with payment amounts that are simply unaffordable. For these defendants, and particularly defendants on public benefits, even $20 or $30 a month can be too high. Furthermore, even if a defendant is able to pay the installments at the time she enters into the plan, her financial circumstances may change during the course of the payment plan. Loss of a job or unexpected medical bills for example, can greatly tax a poor family and make it impossible for a defendant to continue with the same plan. Once a defendant misses an installment payment, courts routinely refer the defendant to the DMV for license suspension for failure to pay, which pushes the defendant into an even more untenable financial situation. However, as we previously commented, the procedural protections set forth in the rule will be meaningless if the defendant is not notified of their existence. The rule must be amended to specify that after failure to pay a fine or make an installment payment, the court must send a notice to the defendant notifying her of the missed payment and of her options to remedy the problem. The defendant should be given at least 30 days to act on the matter. The rule should also clarify what it means for a defendant to seek a “modification” of a judgment. To modify a judgment should mean to reduce, suspend, or waive the judgment amount; reinstate the payment period; convert any remaining balance to community service; or other disposition that the court, in its discretion, determines appropriate given the defendant’s circumstances. The rule should be amended to provide that the defendant must be given an opportunity to remedy the missed payment, either by having an opportunity to make up the missed payment, by seeking a modified judgment, or requesting a new payment plan, prior to the court levying a civil assessment or referring the defendant for license suspension. Otherwise a defendant who is willing and able to continue making installment payments will be unjustly and excessively penalized for a failure to make one payment. Subsection (e)(3) should be amended to specify that any license suspension sanction that has been set in motion, be recalled until the defendant receives adequate notice and a meaningful opportunity to be heard. At the very least, Rule 4.106(e) should offer similar protection as the traffic court amnesty repayment plans which require that upon a missed payment the defendant receives a notice | Response: The committees decline to expand the proposal as requested. A defendant should never be denied the opportunity to petition to modify or vacate her judgment. Indeed, doing so would contravene Vehicle Code § 42003 and other statutes that permit a defendant to present proof of a change in circumstances at any time. Moreover, if a defendant is in fact unable to pay, it would not make sense to deny a request to modify solely because of the number of times that she has requested a modification or based on some length of time that a court finds “unreasonable.” If a person cannot pay, she cannot pay. We believe that this subsection should be eliminated. In the alternative, we recommend narrowing the instances in which a request can be denied. For example, providing that “the court may only deny the defendant’s request for an ability-to-pay determination if the court determines that an unreasonable amount of time has passed and that the defendant had no good cause to delay the request.” Rule 4.106(f) – Procedure after a trial by written declaration in absentia for a traffic infraction | Response: The committees agree with this suggestion, insofar as it applies to requests to modify the payment terms based on ability to pay under Vehicle Code section 42003. We request that this section be eliminated. Rule 4.106(g) – Procedure for referring a defendant to the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) for license suspension for failure to pay a fine We commend the Committee for acknowledging the critical need for the court to provide notice and a meaningful opportunity to be heard on ability to pay prior to license suspension. As the Committee is aware, we have been advocating for this provision in a number of forums, including in lawsuits against several counties. However, the Committee must expand the rule to include the following. First, the rule must specify that a court is also prohibited from referring a person for license suspension of a failure to appear without giving the person notice and an opportunity to be heard on ability to pay, as well as a meaningful opportunity to be heard on the question of willfulness. This is because non-appearance may be due to an individual’s inability to pay, or other excusable factors such never having received notice due to homelessness or other reason. | require the deposit of bail, and the defendant is entitled to a trial de novo. Therefore, this cannot be changed by rule of court; it can only be changed by legislation. The committees intend to clarify with this proposal that, within the current statutory structure, defendants are entitled to a trial de novo after a conviction in absentia under section 40903. Consistent with section 40902, a defendant must deposit bail if he or she requests a trial de novo. The proposed rule provides defendants convicted at a trial in absentia under 40903 with the rights and responsibilities of section 40902. Response: The committees decline to expand subdivision (g) as requested to encompass failures to appear. However, the courts’ notice procedure and the notices themselves need to undergo significant changes in order to constitute adequate notice to defendants about their rights, responsibilities, and options. First, we commend the Committee for making it mandatory for courts to send courtesy notices. Rule 4.107(a). It is not reasonable for the initial Notice to Appear to serve as a defendant’s only warning when the citation form is in small print, does not contain the amount of the ticket, does not contain information on an ability to pay determination (though as discussed below, we recommend the Notice to Appear form contain that information) and is often illegible. See Exhibit A (sample traffic citation). However, even if courts are required to send courtesy notices (which we believe that they should), we note that many people never receive the notices mailed by the court. This could be due to a change in address, a defendant not having a stable address, delays in court processing of tickets which results in the court using outdated address information, or other failures in the system. This way, if a person has updated their address with the DMV after receiving the ticket, the court will send the notice to the proper address. In addition, given the harsh consequences for failure to respond to a ticket, the court should also send the notices certified mail with return receipt requested, so that it is aware when defendants have not received the courtesy notices. It is also imperative the Judicial Council implement an electronic notification system in which the court can send individuals notifications via text message or email. (Additional suggestions for improving the notice process are set forth below). Second, although the Committee has provided some guidelines for the minimum information that must be included in the notices—and in particular has specified that the notices must include information on the right to an ability to pay determination, including the availability of installment plans and community service options, Rule 4.107(b)(7)—the guidelines must be more specific about how that information is to be transmitted. | Response: The committees decline to pursue this suggestion. Requiring courts to verify addresses with the DMV and send multiple notices to defendants would be unduly burdensome. Instead, the committees have revised the proposal to provide that the reminder notice is to be sent to the address shown on the Notice to Appear, unless the defendant otherwise notifies the court of a different address. Response: The committees have revised the proposal to clarify that courts may send reminder notices electronically by e-mail or text message. The notification must include a description of what the ability to pay determination entails, how the defendant may avail herself of the determination, and what relief may be afforded upon a finding of an inability or limited ability to pay, e.g. a reduction or waiver of the ticket amount, placement on a payment plan, or other outcomes. If a defendant is required to provide documentation or other evidence to show inability to pay, that information must be listed clearly on the notice. The information about an ability to pay determination must also be displayed alongside the defendant’s main suite of options to dispose of the ticket. For example, many courtesy notices contain some version of a list of three options in bold print on the front of the notice indicating that the defendant may either 1) forfeit bail 2) enroll in traffic school or 3) plead not guilty. The option to get an ability to pay determination must be provided alongside those options and must be prominently displayed on the front page of the notice, rather than being listed separately or on the back of the notice. | | | | We are pleased that the proposed rules mandate ability to pay determinations and begin to set guidelines for determining a defendant’s ability to pay. Ability to pay is a critical issue for traffic court defendants. We agree with the proposal to mandate that instructions and information on ability to pay be provided to all defendants and to permit defendants to make a request for an ability to pay determination in writing or by appearance. We also agree that defendants should be able to request an ability to pay determination at multiple points in the process including at or after adjudication, when a defendant has missed a payment, when an account is delinquent, after the account has been referred to collections and under changed circumstances. It is essential that a missed payment or appearance does not block a defendant from an avenue of relief. We are also pleased that the Committee has proposed initial guidelines for ability to pay by enumerating factors for clerks to consider when making an ability to pay determination, including whether a person receives public benefits or her income is below a certain percentage of the federal poverty guidelines. Similar presumptions, resulting in $0 or suspended payments, are currently employed in California child support cases, welfare overpayment cases, wage garnishment, and federal student loan repayment. Some California traffic court judges already use their discretion to suspend fines and fees. The Judicial Council should adopt this presumption to create statewide consistency. Additionally, for people whose income is higher than the presumption, or who have some ability to pay, any alternative to monetary payment should be reasonable (see community service discussion below). In no case should a payment plan be an excuse to avoid reducing a defendant's fine. This cuts down on the court cost of administering lengthy payment plans and creates some equity. For example, if the court determines a defendant could pay $10 a month, any amount above $120 (12 x 10) should be waived. To avoid undue administrative and practical burdens, defendants should be allowed to pay the entire amount in any number of payments necessary to satisfy their obligation within twelve months (i.e., if a person receives enough money to pay the total remaining 12 month amount during the second month she could pay it and the balance would be waived). There should be no sanctions levied for a failure to make one payment. The Judicial Council must implement guidelines around community service that protect defendants’ rights and ensure that completion of community service is feasible given defendants’ circumstances. The below are our recommendations. First, any alternative, including community service, must be subject to a similar reasonableness determination as applied to a defendant’s ability to pay. The court must provide a number of alternatives that take into account individuals’ life circumstances, including employment and family obligations, and must include options for people with physical or mental disabilities. If a defendant meets the presumption of inability to pay as outlined above, the person should be waived from any community service requirement. For defendants with conflicting obligations, particularly employment or with other life stressors due to poverty, flexibility should be the guiding principle. Low-income people have multiple stressors in their lives, many of which are related to their very survival, and court action should not exacerbate these stressors. Weekend or evening community service should be possible and defendants should be encouraged and enabled to propose their own community service sites. Otherwise, the process, and any orders discounting fines/fees, will at least appear, if not be, arbitrary. While I appreciate and understand the spirit of the proposals, I think bottom line the emphasis is mis-placed: fines and fees are too high, and the $300 ceiling allowed for a civil assessment under PC1214.1 needs to be lowered. If they had sufficient funds to begin with, they likely would've renewed their registration and /or obtained insurance. There's nothing we can do about insurance rates, but it shouldn't go unmentioned that state vehicle registration rates are quite high. It would be more cost-effective to re-examine what rules and procedures exist which might create undue debt burdens on drivers. Perhaps all the add-ons to base fines, including the penalty assessments, should be overhauled. Lastly, and on a completely different tangent, re: ATP issues, some drivers have decreased ability to pay simply because they have repeat and successive violations (i.e. multiple citations for driving on a suspended license, for having lapsed registration and/or no insurance). Of course the more tickets a driver racks up will no doubt adversely effect that driver's ability to pay, so discounting fees and fines feels a bit undeserved in that context. Further, if the court has determined that the defendant is not likely to appear, the court should consider the defendant's ability to pay when ordering him or her to pay. We also encourage the Judicial Council to provide more guidance as to when an unreasonable" amount of time has passed after failure to pay an installment and a court may deny a request to modify the judgment. We have also seen the devastating impact a suspended license has on an individual’s ability to seek and maintain employment. Therefore, we appreciate that the Judicial Council is addressing this pressing issue by requiring courts to consider defendants’ ability to pay citation fines and fees. Again, because of the wide variation in court procedures across the state, we urge the Judicial Council to create a readily available form with which defendants may request an ability-to-pay determination so that it is clear what information is pertinent to the determination. Individuals appearing in court should be allowed to request an ability to pay determination in person without submitting the form. In addition, for those courts that allow hearings to be scheduled and payments to be made online, we believe the Judicial Council should require them to offer individuals the ability to request an ability-to-pay determination online. The Judicial Council should provide more guidance to courts about what an ability to pay determination must consider. | Response: The committees appreciate the suggestion and are contemplating developing model or optional Judicial Council forms related to ability to pay. |

Because of the way the community service program is operated in Los Angeles County, it is often difficult for our clients to complete the community service as ordered. Community service hours are currently converted at minimum wage, so if the defendant has a very large fine or multiple citations, he or she can be ordered to complete hundreds of hours of community service within a few months, without extensions. Many of our clients have demanding schedules, due to work, school, taking care of children, looking for employment, or caring for ill relatives, and completing the hours within such short amount of time can be nearly impossible. We are concerned that community service will be used as a replacement for judicial discretion to consider ability to pay. We recommend that the Judicial Council's rules advise Courts to first consider ability to pay, reduce or waive fees accordingly, and then offer individuals the chance to convert any remaining fines and fees into community service or jail time. In addition, we believe the Judicial Council should recommend that courts consider the fees imposed on individuals who choose community service when making ability-to-pay determinations. A failure to appear on a signed promise to appear is would seem equivalent to failing to appear on a personally served subpoena. We generally don't issue bench warrants on FTAs on infractions, thus the only other recourse has been to declare the matter eligible for collections, which under this new scheme would appear to require an additional round of notice to afford the defendant yet another chance to dispute it before or after it goes into collections. These are only general observations, there are many more nuances that for the sake of brevity I cannot cover here, but I believe the substantial impact these rules might create on the courts, court costs, daily existing calendars, adding additional calendars, additional clerical processing , mailing, and computer programming or modification of existing programs to enable efficient data collections should be viewed critically in view of what the court needs to accomplish to reach the due process goal. | |

| | | | We are opposed to providing the defendant with a courtesy notice. May 1, 2013 the El Dorado Court discontinued providing courtesy notices as an efficiency for the court and due to budget constraints. Defendants may review the court index online to find their case information, bail (fine) or appearance information. Our online information also includes information regarding installment payment plans, requesting a trial, potential consequences for FTA/FTP, etc. This works well for our court and defendants. Defendants already sign the citation “promising to appear at the time and place indicated”. On the reverse side of the signed citation under “What to Do”, it specifically outlines the required steps. Our court provides defendants with a 20 day notice if they fail to appear or fail to pay which gives them an opportunity to address their citation. This proposed change would create a financial burden on the court. The cost of providing additional notices of the right to request an ability to pay determination would be conservatively estimated at $38,000 which includes postage, envelopes, paper, and staff time. The cost for conducting hearings on 50% of the filings is estimated to be $106,110. The impact of these proposed rules on the court's budget would be a substantial hardship which would affect our staffing levels, backlogs for courtroom calendars and processing. | Response: This rule is modeled on Vehicle Code section 42003, which contemplates that the court will consider a defendant's ability to pay when the defendant appears "for adjudication" and "[a]t any time during the pendency of the judgment." | 11. | Superior Court of California, Glenn County By Kevin Harrigan Court Executive Officer | N/I | The proposals would not provide cost savings. The proposal would likely increase costs by way of implementation (i.e., programming changes for notices and case management systems, staff training of new processes) and ongoing operational costs (i.e., supplies, courtroom and staff time for an unknown number of ability to pay determinations, unknown number requests for appearances after a case has been sent to collections, etc.). Further, it is foreseeable that the changes would negatively impact civil assessment revenue. While the Court has no objection to the intent of the rule changes which are to enhance procedural fairness for traffic infraction proceedings, the combination of additional workload and less operating revenue needs to be addressed in some manner to prevent sacrifices in access and fairness on other case types. | The committees appreciate the court's input. Though a discussion about court funding is beyond the scope of these proposals, it is nevertheless important to recognize this reality as we consider the proposed rules, particularly as they relate to requiring court hearings on a defendant's ability to pay. In addition to the appearance of impropriety, from a practical standpoint there are good reasons for a judicial officer to refrain from making ability to pay determinations in open court. In order to determine the ability to pay a defendant is required to provide proof of his or her financial circumstances. To protect a defendant's privacy and encourage disclosure of all relevant financial information, a defendant should not be required to disclose sensitive information at a court hearing. While a defendant may be reluctant to disclose in open court that he or she is receiving public assistance, such reluctance is significantly reduced in a private administrative setting. | Response: Court records and proceedings are open to the public, unless made confidential by law or sealed by court order. Rules of Court, rule 2.550(c) ["Unless confidentiality is required by law, court records are presumed to be open"].) Vehicle Code section 42003 does not make ability-to-pay determinations confidential. Providing for confidentiality by rule is outside the scope of the present proposal, but the committees may consider this suggestion in developing future proposals. |

Additionally, an ability to pay determination should take place only after adjudication of the offense either by plea of guilty or no contest or following trial. Rule 4.106(d)(2) This rules states that “the defendant may request an appearance date to adjudicate the underlying charges by written petition”. The rule should allow for flexibility to allow defendants (and courts) to use alternative methods other than written petition to request appearance dates, such as online reservations systems, etc. Rule 4.106(e) This rule states that if a defendant fails to pay on an installment plan he or she may request modification or vacation of the judgment. This raises an expectation that by making a request the defendant may either have their fine vacated or reduced. The rule should clarify that the court may choose not to modify the amount of the judgment, and that it may modify the installment plan by reducing the payment amount and giving more time to pay, or approve community service. | Response: The committees agree with this suggestion and have revised the subdivision as recommended. Response: The committees have clarified in the advisory committee comment for subdivision (e)(1) that a court may exercise its discretion to deny a defendant’s request to modify the payment terms. | | | | However, if rule remains ‘as is’ section (e)(5) should reflect “The court may deny the defendant’s request to modify or vacate the judgment [...]. Rule 4.335(c)(4) This rule contemplates that if a defendant requests an ability to pay determination the court may delegate the initial evaluation to a clerk, or other county revenue collections agency. Thus, it seems to suggest that a judicial officer must make any subsequent determination. The rule should be clarified to permit the court to delegate initial and subsequent ability to pay determinations to a clerk, a comprehensive collection program, or other county revenue collections agency. Rules 4.105, 4.106, 4.107 should clarify the applicability of the rules to minors (under the age of 18). Welfare and Institutions codes §§256, 257 & 258 specifically address infraction violations that are handled under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. However, many courts make a distinction between vehicle code (VC) and non-vehicle code infraction citations when it comes to minors. Some courts allow infraction violations to be handled outside the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. Request for Specific Comments | Response: This rules proposal is not intended to eliminate judicial discretion. Because various comments indicate general confusion over the intended scope of the delegation to the clerk or county revenue collections agency, the committees have decided to remove this proposed subdivision from the proposal. Instead, the committees have added an advisory committee comment, which provides that the court, in determining a defendant’s ability to pay, should consider whether the defendant receives public benefits and whether the defendant has a monthly income of 125 percent or less of the current poverty guidelines. Response: The committees decline to specify whether the rules apply globally to “juveniles” in light of the varying practices for handling traffic violations that are authorized by statute. (Compare Welf. & Inst. Code, § 603.5 [adjudicating traffic infractions committed by minors in adult traffic court], with id., § 256 [procedure using juvenile hearing officers].) After much analysis and study, the Court worked with local law enforcement agencies to develop a method for giving the violator a date to appear at the time of arrest. Along with the date to appear, the Court’s website information is printed at the bottom of every citation, including those that are now electronically filed. As a result, the violator knows immediately the date they must appear by, has access via the web to their bail and much more information than can be included on a single piece of paper, and in much less time than it would take for the Court to print and mail a courtesy notice. Increase in Mailing/Printing Costs - Based on the average number of citation filings over the past 5 years in Sacramento, and the price of paper, envelopes, printer ink, and postage, the mailing cost for courtesy notices would be approximately $108,768.00 per year. Increase in Staff Costs - Mandatory courtesy notice printing and mailing of over 200,000 notices per year would require .75 FTE at a cost to the Court of approximately $63,534.00. | | | | The language, “After the court receives the bail deposit, the court must vacate the judgment,” should be stricken because this proposal would essentially create double, and possibly triple, work for our staff. Specifically, our Court considers approximately 600 trials de novo annually. Should this proposal be implemented, clerks would have to vacate the judgement as well as submit a request to the DMV to remove the conviction from the defendant’s driver’s license. At a process time of 10 minutes each, this is an annual additional cost of $10,256 to process these changes. Additionally, approximately 30 percent of defendants who have been granted a trial de novo do not appear at their new hearing. Thus, under this proposal, it would take our court another additional 10 minutes to restore the judgement that it had recently vacated, as well as reapply the conviction on the defendant’s driver’s license. Further, this identical staff process would be performed for cases where defendants did appear for their trial de novo and were found guilty. This work, including the potential duplication and triplication, would equate to another additional annual cost of $10,256 to the court. The Rule would read as follows: When the court issues a judgment under Vehicle Code section 40903 and a defendant requests a trial de novo within the time permitted, courts may | Response: The committees agree to revise the rule as recommended. We believe that the core issue is high traffic fines and the proposed Traffic Rules add workload and costs to courts while failing to address the problem of high fines. Is imposing high fines and then incurring the court administrative costs to reduce those fines a good use of public funds? While we question the philosophical soundness of the proposed traffic rules, San Mateo’s response focuses on the budget impact and the cost of providing the needed additional staff resources needed to implement the rule provisions. Proposed Rules 4.106, 4.107, and 4.335 will likely increase the Traffic Clerk’s Office, Courtroom, and Judicial Officer workload. The proposed rules will likely result in an increased number of defendants submitting written petitions for relief. If only 10 percent of the defendants with unpaid traffic fines request an ability to pay determination, the number of requests would be 10,000. Without factoring the added complexity of determining ability to pay, the simple processing of paperwork would require additional two full-time clerks. The cost of two additional full-time clerks would be approximately $211,976 per year. If the ability to pay determination responsibility was delegated to San Mateo County’s Revenue Services Department, the cost would be considerably higher. The County’s Revenue Services agency currently charges $50 per case to formally determine ability to pay. If 10 percent, or 10,000 defendants annually submit a written petition for an assessment of their ability to pay, and Revenue Services charges $50 per case, the additional cost could be $500,000, annually. If the criteria for assessing ability to pay in traffic matters is simpler and the cost is less, there would still be a substantial additional budget impact. | | | | Setting aside the issue of the cost of a formal ability to pay petition and resulting determination, we are concerned about the proposed rule’s provision that the ability to pay determination responsibility be delegated to clerks. We do not consider determining a defendant’s ability to pay a ministerial task. An ability to pay determination currently involves judicial discretion and we do not think clerks should be put in the position of exercising discretion, even given the criteria listed under section (c)(4) of the proposed rule. Regarding the defendant’s right to a review by a judicial officer of the determination made by the clerk or the collection agent, the proposed rule is not clear as to whether that would require a court hearing or whether the review can be done by way of petition and written decision. Regardless, if the defendant exercises their right to a judicial officer review, this will create additional staff and judicial time in handling these reviews. Currently there is a one to two month wait to obtain a Traffic hearing. If only 1 percent of defendants per year request an ability to pay hearing, separate from the arraignment, this would add an additional 1,000 matters to the commissioner workload. This would strain the already full calendars and lengthen the time it takes to obtain a court date. A several month delay in obtaining an arraignment hearing impedes defendants’ right to swift and fair | Response: This proposal is not intended to eliminate judicial discretion. We estimate that the increase in correspondence would make it necessary to set aside a half or full day per week for the commissioner to rule on written correspondence. Given the other assignments and calendars that our commissioners hear, an increased Traffic workload would require additional commissioner resources. If the court were to hire a half-time commissioner to hear the additional calendar matters and/or review written petitions, the budget impact would be approximately $170,000 annually, including the cost of courtroom clerk support. In summary, if these rules are approved, the cost to fully support a formal process for financial petitions, assessments, and review hearings is conservatively estimated at $1 million to San Mateo. Assuming this funding is allocated according to WAFM, the statewide appropriation would have to total at least $53.7 million. While this analysis did not address the economics or cost benefit analysis of the proposed rule changes, just San Mateo's cost estimate alone suggests that spending $1 million in Traffic to implement a more formal financial assessment process on perhaps 10 percent of the traffic cases does not make budgetary sense. The needed budget to implement these proposed rule changes represents a 64 percent increase. A 64 percent budget increase for traffic to address the needs of 10 percent of the cases does not make budgetary sense. Given that Trial Courts are underfunded by 25 percent to 35 percent statewide, that total estimated appropriation of $53.7 million might be better spent on other areas of the courts. Given the magnitude of the additional staffing needs, San Mateo could not implement the proposed traffic rules without additional funding. Or in some cases, making a choice between paying for those necessities, and risking the loss of a driving privilege through suspension because the infraction fine is not paid. This Court's position is that the true solution needed to address this concern is a reduction in the amount of the fines generally. The purpose of an infraction penalty is generally regulation. As stated in In re Jennings, (2004) 34 Cal.4th 254: “Under many statutes enacted for the protection of the public health and safety, e.g., traffic... criminal sanctions are relied upon even if there is no wrongful intent. The need for fundamental revision of the traffic fine structure is beyond the Judicial Branch's ability to effect. Rather, it lies in the hands of the State Legislature. Any efforts to mitigate the effects of the current out of proportion fine structure by the Judicial Branch through its rule making power amount to makeshift solutions to dissipate the foreseeable effect of the fines as currently set by law. The Sonoma County Superior Court would urge the Committees to reconsider proposing any Rules or other efforts to relieve the State Legislature of the pressure necessary to make changes where they are most appropriate -the fine amounts set by the State. The above concerns are also part and parcel of the current funding structure supporting court operations around the state which is based on fluctuating and inconsistent revenue streams tied to such things as fines collected and cases filed. As the Committees are aware, it is of great importance to every court, and all residents of the State who wish to have ready and consistent access to justice, that there be a predictable and stable income stream for court operations, such as an allocation from the General Fund. Generally, this Court would reject as an underlying principle the following statement in the Invitation to Comment that "...the amount and manner of paying the total fine must be reasonable and compatible with the defendant's financial ability ...". The principle that the amount of a fine should be based on a person's means has the corollary that the fine for a very wealthy person should be proportionately increased. This Court is aware that historically, a number of courts around the state have sent cases to collections that are unadjudicated. They have then refused to allow defendants to be heard and proceeded as if a conviction occurred. Our view is that the fundamental unfairness, especially for those of limited financial means, is that infraction fines are too high. If fine amounts were reasonable to begin with, focusing on regulation and safety rather than revenue, public compliance, we believe, would increase significantly. Our Court agrees with the Traffic Advisory Committee that current Court infraction procedures unfairly limit access and raise due process concerns. While the proposed amendment to Rule 4.105 and the proposed addition of Rules 4.106, 4.107; and, 4.335 may help with those concerns, the proposed amendments do not address the fundamental problem and will, if implemented as proposed, burden and likely overwhelm traffic trial courts and traffic staff. | |

Again, our Court relies on its convenient, available, affordable Community Service Program. We believe this procedure would undermine that program. This procedure also proposes a clerk determination (initially) with a subsequent right to request judicial determination of ability to pay. To ask clerks to look at one of the eight documents listed or the “monthly income of 125 percent or less...” is not viable for clerk staff working a window with a line of people. As previously indicated, the clerk would need to make this determination while face to face with defendant. Assuming a clerk made the determination, the question becomes, then what? Certainly the clerk would not just lower the fine. Presumably, the matter would then need to be set for hearing on what outcome given that an “ability to pay determination” has been made. Statutory provisions should not be incorporated into rules of court. This is redundant, incurs costs when rules must be updated to reflect statutory changes, and risks the rule becoming out of date when statutes change. While the drafters are attempting to assist litigants and understandably so, there is no reason to believe that the rules of court are significantly more accessible to defendants than is the Vehicle Code; in any case, that is not the proper function of the rules of court. Court procedures should be transparent to defendants, but that transparency is better achieved through online or written materials, not notices. Generally, these proposals illustrate the proposition that suitable and easily accessible self-help materials, online and in writing, are better solutions to the needs of defendants than are extensive and costly rule-making and notice requirements. | Response: Although the commenters correctly state that a defendant’s rights are enumerated under Pen. Code 1214.1(b)(1), proposed rule 4.106 provides additional procedures for vacating and reducing civil assessments. The California Rules of Court commonly restate statutory requirements where necessary to provide context for the rules of court administration and practice and procedure adopted by the council. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.1(b) [recognizing that the California Constitution requires the council “to improve the administration of justice by . . . However, the JRS believes this benefit is outweighed by the following problems. The proposed rule, by specifying binary criteria (i.e., evidence of SSI) appears to make the ability-to-pay determination all-or-nothing, while statute provides that, upon request, the court may inquire "into the ability of the defendant to pay all or a portion of those costs..." (VC 42003(c)), thus implying the ability to impose partial judgments. This would have the effect of making a large class of people immune to financial penalty for traffic violations. By making bright-line criteria (modeled upon fee waiver provisions), the proposed rule would remove the judge's discretion in this area. The JRS, therefore, suggests adding in language that states that the courts may inquire into the ability of the defendant to pay all or a portion of the fee(s). 2. Rules and Forms for Access to Justice in Infraction Cases. Consider development of rules and forms to promote access to justice in all infraction cases, including recommendations related to courtesy notices, payment plans, community service, post-conviction proceedings or procedures after a defendant has previously failed to appear or pay, such as imposing civil assessments or placing holds on a driver's license.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

This proposal circulated this spring from March 21 to May 6, 2016. The committee recommended recirculating the proposal on an expedited cycle from August 3 to August 26, 2016, in light of the public comments received, communications from various advocacy groups and other entities to the Judicial Council expressing continued concerns about court practices resulting in the suspension of driver's licenses for failure to pay fines and fees, and other related developments. The expedited cycle allowed the committee to present this proposal to the Judicial Council during its December meeting.

The committee has recommended that the forms go into effect on January 1, 2017, and that courts be required to implement as soon as reasonably possible, but no later than May 1, 2017.

Executive Summary

The Traffic Advisory Committee recommends revising forms TR-300 and TR-310 for installment payments for traffic infractions. These revisions would standardize and improve court procedures related to installment payment plans for infraction offenses and would expand the advisement of rights provided to defendants. The revised forms would inform defendants of their right to request a determination of their ability to pay at any time before their final payment. The committee developed the revised forms in response to Judicial Council directives to consider recommendations to promote access to justice in all infraction cases.

Recommendation

The Traffic Advisory Committee recommends that the Judicial Council, effective January 1, 2017, with implementation as soon as reasonably possible, but no later than May 1, 2017:

1. Revise forms TR-300, Agreement to Pay and Forfeit Bail in Installments; and TR-310, Agreement to Pay Traffic Violator School Fees in Installments.

Courts must implement these provisions as soon as reasonably possible but no later than May 1, 2017. The revised forms are attached at pages 11–14.

Previous Council Action

Recent studies and reports on state infraction laws have raised concerns about procedural fairness in infraction proceedings, particularly about procedures relating to deposit of bail before defendants appear for arraignment. In response, the Judicial Council adopted rule 4.105 of the California Rules of Court on an expedited basis, effective June 8, 2015, to require courts to allow traffic infraction defendants to appear as promised for arraignment and trial without prior deposit of bail, unless certain specified exceptions apply, and to require courts to notify defendants of the option to appear in court without deposit of bail in any instructions or other materials regarding bail provided by courts to the public. The Judicial Council also directed the appropriate advisory committees to consider rule, form, or any other recommendations necessary to promote access to justice in all infraction cases including recommendations related to postconviction proceedings or after the defendant has previously failed to appear or pay.

Rationale for Recommendation

California Vehicle Code¹ sections 40510.5 and 42007 authorize court clerks to accept bail forfeitures and traffic violator school fees in installments for traffic infractions. Sections 40510.5 and 42007 also require the Judicial Council to adopt forms for court clerks to use for processing the installment payments. Courts are not required to offer installment payment plans, but courts that allow clerks to offer installment payment plans for bail or traffic violator school fees in traffic infraction cases must use forms adopted by the Judicial Council for the intended procedures.

The committee has examined court procedures for infraction cases to develop ways to improve access to justice as directed by the council. As part of that effort, the committee proposes revising forms to further standardize and improve the imposition of bail, fines, and assessments when the defendant wishes to pay by installment. Specifically, the committee recommends revising forms TR-300, Agreement to Pay and Forfeit Bail in Installments, and TR-310, Agreement to Pay Traffic Violator School Fees in Installments—which court clerks use to process installment payment plans—with expanded advisement of rights in traffic infraction cases.

Form TR-300

As provided in section 40510.5, existing form TR-300 is used by court clerks to accept payment and forfeiture of bail in installments for traffic infraction violations that do not require a mandatory court appearance. Under current law, a court that uses the form is required to continue the case for completion of the payments and report a bail forfeiture to the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) as a conviction on the date the agreement is signed. (Veh. Code, § 40510.5(b), (d).) No trust account is required, and payments are distributed when received. (Id., § 40510.5(f).) If a defendant fails to make a payment as agreed, the court may report the failure to pay to the DMV, charge a failure to pay or failure to appear under Vehicle Code section 40508, issue a warrant, or send a notice that a civil assessment will be imposed if the defendant does not show good cause for the failure to pay. (Id., §§ 40509.5, 40510.5(e); Pen. Code, § 1214.1(b)(1).) Each bail installment payment made in this procedure for infractions is final and not subject to reconsideration as bail that is deposited for other criminal cases. (Veh. Code, § 40510.5(c).) The information on form TR-300 is consistent with the above statutes.

Because the installment payment procedure does not require an arraignment or an appearance before a judicial officer in court, and because there are significant legal consequences for failure to make an installment payment, the form includes an express written advisement of rights and signed waiver of rights by the defendant. The form includes signed acknowledgements of the consequences for failure to pay an installment.

To enhance procedural fairness for infraction cases, the committee proposes revising form TR-300 to provide an expanded advisement and waiver of rights. Page 2 of the revised form would expand notice of the defendant's rights to include: "To ask for community service instead of paying the total amount due."

Page 2 of revised form TR-300 would also inform the defendant of his or her right to request an ability-to-pay determination at any time before making the final payment, as well as the options available to the court in considering that request:

At any time before your final payment, if you have experienced a change in financial circumstances, you may ask that the court consider your ability to pay. If the court considers your ability to pay, the court may modify your installment plan, allow you to complete community service (if available) instead of paying the total amount due, or suspend all or part of the fine. The court is not required to offer you any of the above options, and the court may deny your request.

By signing form TR-300, the defendant affirms that he or she has read and understood the advisement and the terms and conditions of the agreement, elects to waive the rights in the advisement, and agrees to pay and forfeit bail in installments.

Additional minor changes to clarify and update form TR-300 would include:

- Revising the instructions at the top of page 1 to indicate that the form is to be “completed by the court.” This language would replace the instruction that the form be “filled out by a court clerk” to recognize current practices at some local courts, where case management systems frequently generate these forms, even when defendants enter into installment agreements at the clerk’s counter.
- Revising section 1 to include minor stylistic changes to language.
- Revising section 2 to recognize that a defendant may have been granted an extension of his or her appearance date. Section 2 would also use plain language to state that the appearance or extension date “has not passed.”
- Revising section 3 to remove as unnecessary the statement by the defendant that: “I am not able to pay the entire amount at the present time. I ask the court to allow me to pay in installments.”
- Revising section 4 to clarify that: “each violation that is reportable to the Department of Motor Vehicles and has no proof of correction will be reported as a conviction.”
- Revising section 5 to enhance visual clarity and readability and to provide for greater consistency with proposed new form TR-300 (online), which the committee is presenting to the council in a separate proposal.
- Revising section 5 to clarify the list of possible actions by the court for failure to pay as agreed.
- Revising section 5 to remove the instruction to see the clerk the next court day after a missed payment.
- Revising for improved readability the notice to defendants at the bottom of the form regarding the consequences of signing the form.
- Revising the bottom of the form to collect the telephone number and e-mail address of the defendant.
- Revising the bottom of the form to add optional provisions for defendants to request electronic notifications, SMS text messages, and call reminders about the installment payments due under the agreement. The shaded text is intended to be optional so that courts may omit this language if they are not able to provide electronic notices, text messages, or call reminders.
- Revising the bottom of the form to remove the space previously provided for entering the expiration date of the defendant’s driver’s license. This revision would provide sufficient space on the form to collect the defendant’s telephone number and e-mail address.
- Revising page 2 to include minor changes to wording to improve readability.
- Revising page 2 to add optional language to inform defendants: “If you do not make a payment, please contact the court as soon as possible to make arrangements.”

Form TR-310

Form TR-310 is used by court clerks to accept installment payment of traffic violator school fees for eligible traffic infractions. Installment payment agreements are limited to a maximum length of 90 days by statute. (Veh. Code, § 42007(a)(2).) Proof of completion for attendance of traffic violator school is due at the time of the final payment. (Ibid.) If a defendant fails to pay an installment, the court may convert the fee to bail, declare it forfeited, and report the forfeiture as a conviction under Vehicle Code section 1803. (Id., § 42007(a)(3).) The court may declare that no further proceedings be had or charge a failure to pay and impose a civil assessment or issue a warrant. (Ibid.) The information on form TR-310 is consistent with the above statutes.

To further enhance procedural fairness for infraction cases, the committee recommends revising form TR-310 to provide an expanded advisement and waiver of rights. Revised form TR-310 would provide notice of the defendant's rights: (1) "To appear in court without deposit of bail for formal arraignment, plea, and sentencing;" and (2) "To ask for community service instead of paying the total amount due." In addition, the advisement would also be updated to be consistent with rule 4.105 and state that defendants may "request and have a court trial to challenge the charges without deposit of bail, unless the court orders bail."

Page 2 of the revised form would also provide notice to the defendant of the right to request an ability-to-pay determination at any time before making the final payment, as well as the options available to the court in considering that request:

At any time before your final payment, if you have experienced a change in financial circumstances, you may ask that the court consider your ability to pay. If the court considers your ability to pay, the court may modify your installment plan, allow you to complete community service (if available) instead of paying the total amount due, or suspend all or part of the fine. The court is not required to offer you any of the above options, and the court may deny your request. If the court grants your request, you may no longer be eligible for traffic school.

By signing form TR-310, the defendant affirms that he or she has read and understood the advisement and the terms and conditions of the agreement, elects to waive the rights in the advisement, and agrees to pay traffic violator school fees in installments.

Additional minor changes to clarify and update form TR-310 would include:

- Revising the instructions at the top of page 1 to indicate that the form is to be "completed by the court." This language would replace the instruction that the form be "filled out by a court clerk" to recognize current practices at some local courts, where case management systems frequently generate these forms, even when defendants enter into installment agreements at the clerk's counter.
- Revising section 1 to include minor stylistic changes to language.
- Revising section 2 to recognize that a defendant may have been granted an extension of his or her appearance date. Section 2 would also use plain language to state that the appearance or extension date "has not passed."

- Revising section 3 to remove as unnecessary the statement by the defendant that: “I am not able to and I ask the court to allow me to pay in installments. I understand that the court has costs and expenses from accepting a request to pay the fees in installments.”
- Revising section 4 to enhance visual clarity and readability and to provide for greater consistency with proposed new form TR-310 (online), which the committee is presenting to the council in a separate proposal.
- Revising section 4 to clarify the list of possible actions by the court for failure to pay as agreed.
- Revising section 4 to remove the instruction to see the clerk the next court day after a missed payment.
- Revising the notice to defendants at the bottom of the form regarding the consequences of signing the form to improve readability.
- Revising the bottom of the form to collect the telephone number and e-mail address of the defendant.
- Revising the bottom of the form to add optional provisions for defendants to request electronic notifications, call reminders, and SMS text messages about the installment payments due under the agreement. The shaded text is intended to be optional so that courts may omit the option if their systems are not able to provide electronic notices or text messages.
- Revising the bottom of the form to remove the space for providing the expiration date of the defendant’s driver’s license. This revision would provide sufficient space on the form to collect the defendant’s telephone number and e-mail address.
- Revising page 2 to add optional language to inform defendants: “If you do not make a payment, please contact the court as soon as possible to make arrangements.”

Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications

This proposal circulated twice for public comment. It was first circulated in March and April 2016. In light of the comments received during the first circulation and other developments, the committee revised the proposal and recommended its recirculation on an expedited basis from August 3 to August 26, 2016, to allow it to go into effect on January 1, 2017. All commenters who submitted comments during the first circulation were instructed to resubmit comments during the second circulation if their concerns had not been addressed in the revised proposal.

Comments

Eleven comments were submitted in response to the second invitation to comment; two agreed with the proposal, two agreed with the proposal if modified, two disagreed with the proposal, and five did not indicate their position. The committee’s specific responses to each comment are available in the attached comment chart at pages 15–37.

Appearing on the next court day for missed payments. Forms TR-300 and TR-310 currently contain language requiring defendants who miss a payment to appear in court on the next court day. The circulated forms² would have changed this language from mandatory to optional. They would have also added optional language to the back of the forms instructing defendants to contact the court as soon as possible after missing a payment. The committee had intended to provide two options from which the courts could select depending on their local practices.

One commenter expressed concern that the language on the front of the form instructing defendants to appear in court the next day might be inconsistent with a defendant's right to request an ability-to-pay determination. This objection applies regardless of whether this language is optional or mandatory. Another commenter suggested that the optional language on the back of the forms instructing defendants to contact the court as soon as possible after missing a payment was unnecessary in light of the language on the front requiring a defendant to appear in court the day after missing a payment.

The committee recommends removing entirely the current language on the front of forms instructing defendants to appear on the court date after missing a payment. Distinct from section 42003, sections 40510.5 and 42007 do not require that the defendant appear in court on the date that the installment payment plan is due if he or she cannot pay. (See Veh. Code, § 42003(a) ["A judgment granting a defendant time to pay the fine shall order that if the defendant fails to pay the fine or any installment thereof on the date that it is due, he or she shall appear in court on that date for further proceedings," italics added].) Because forms TR-300 and TR-310 provide for installment payment plans only under sections 40510.5 and 42007—not 42003—these forms do not need to provide this instruction to the defendant. To encourage defendants to return to court after missing any payments, the committee recommends including only the optional language on the back of the form that instructs defendants to contact the court as soon as possible after missing a payment.

Advisements on the right to an ability-to-pay determination. The circulated forms proposed language advising defendants that by entering into the installment payment agreement, they would be waiving the right to ask the court to consider their ability to pay. One commenter suggested placing this information on the front of the forms to provide enhanced notice to defendants.

While recognizing the importance of advising defendants that they would be waiving this right, the committee, on further reflection, decided against adding this particular advisement to the forms. The committee was concerned that this advisement might lead to confusion that a defendant was permanently giving up that right. Defendants do give up the right to request an ability-to-pay determination at the time they enter into the installment payment agreement, but

Although the committee decided against adding this advisement to the section on the waiver of rights, it retained the notice informing defendants that they have a right to request an ability-to-pay determination based on changed circumstances at any time before making the final payment. It declined to move this notice on ability to pay to the front of the forms because the front is already crowded with important information for the defendant, including the terms of the agreement and notices to the defendant regarding the potential consequences of failing to make a payment. Providing this notice on the back of the forms allows for the use of large font with greater white space, enhancing its readability.

Translation of forms. One commenter recommended translating the advisement of rights into the most common languages used in the issuing county. The committee recognizes the importance of increasing access to the courts for defendants who do not read English. The Language Access Planning Task Force has developed a Translation Protocol and a Translation Action Plan to assist the council in prioritizing the translation of Judicial Council forms and other materials. If approved by the council, these forms would be considered as part of that larger effort.

Description of charged offense and notice of collateral consequences. One commenter requested that section 1 on the forms not only cite to the statute that the defendant was charged with violating, but also provide a description of the offense. The commenter expressed concern that defendants would otherwise not understand the nature of the charges, and that the guilty plea and waiver of rights would not be knowing and voluntary. In addition, this commenter recommended including additional advisements to defendants of possible collateral consequences, including that a traffic conviction reported to the DMV may result in one or more negligent operator points on a defendant's driving record, may lead to difficulties obtaining driving-related employment, may subject defendants to higher car insurance rates, and may result in suspension of a defendant's driver's license if the defendant accumulates too many points within a specified period of time.

While the committee is sensitive to the commenter's concerns, it declined to pursue these suggestions. First, defendants generally enter into these installment agreements at the clerk's counter, and it is not feasible or appropriate for clerks to provide a description of the charged offense. If the defendant does not understand the charges, he or she should seek the advice of counsel or ask to appear before a judicial officer. Second, the committee decided against providing additional notice of collateral consequences to defendants on this form. The form is already crowded with important notices and advisements to the defendant regarding their rights and obligations under the installment payment agreement. In addition, several of the collateral consequences involve private industries (e.g., higher insurance rates and potential difficulties obtaining driving-related employment), which are outside of the purview of the Judicial Council or courts.

Suspending the base fine in whole. The advisement of rights on the circulated forms informs the defendant of the options available to a court if a defendant requests an ability-to-pay determination. These options include suspending the base fine in whole or part. One commenter recommended revising this language to reflect only that the fine may be suspended in part, not in whole, because it would be inappropriate to remove all penalties in adjudicating an infraction violation based on the financial status of the defendant. This commenter stated that individuals who violate the law should suffer some detriment.

The committee declined to revise the language as suggested. A judge may suspend the base fine in whole or part as an exercise of discretion. The purpose of the proposal is to provide greater notice to defendants of their rights, not to restrict judicial discretion. Moreover, even if a judicial officer were to suspend the full amount of the base fine, the defendant would still have to pay any mandatory fees required by statute.

Other comments. The circulated forms also advised defendants that they may be charged with a misdemeanor under section 40508 if they fail to complete their payment plan. Noting that a defendant may be charged with a misdemeanor or an infraction under section 40508, one commenter recommended revising the advisements to better track the statute. The committee agreed and incorporated the suggestion into this proposal.

Lastly, one commenter requested that the forms be revised to allow defendants to consent to automated call reminders, in addition to text messages and electronic notices. The committee agreed and incorporated this suggestion into the proposal.

Alternatives

In response to the council's directives to consider recommendations to promote access to justice in all infraction cases, the committee considered other alternatives such as legislative proposals. Those proposals, however, typically involve a lengthy process that must be pursued separately and have other implications that are distinct from the procedures addressed in an expedited fashion by the current proposal. The committee intends to separately consider recommendations to promote access to justice in future proposals.

Implementation Requirements, Costs, and Operational Impacts

The proposal expands the advisements of rights that courts provide to defendants in infraction cases. In expanding notice of their rights, it is foreseeable that more defendants will assert those rights by, for example, requesting an ability-to-pay determination. The committee expects that any such increase in requests for ability-to-pay determinations would, in turn, result in greater court operations and staffing costs. Moreover, to the extent that some courts may not currently allow defendants to request an ability-to-pay determination after entering into an installment payment plan, this proposal, in conjunction with the separate rules proposal on ability to pay that the committee is presenting concurrently to the council, may result in greater court operations and staffing costs, and may require providing training for court staff and judicial officers regarding the processing of infraction cases. The committee is sensitive to the impact of these additional costs on courts. Nevertheless, it believes that, on balance, any increased burdens are outweighed by the resulting procedural fairness.

Whereas the first version of the proposed rule informed defendants that they would be waiving their rights to an ability to pay determination and to request community service, the new version also informs defendants that if they have experienced a change in financial circumstances at any point before final payment, they may request the court consider their ability to pay, after which the court may modify the plan, suspend all or part of the fine or convert some of the fine to community service. Proposed TR-300 Advisement of Rights. However, as we stated in our previous comments, in order to provide clear notice to the defendant, the information about ability to pay determinations should be included on the face of the installment form itself, in addition to being included in the Advisement of Rights. The form should also be revised to comport with Proposed Rule 4.106(e), subject to our comments to that rule. And our | The committee appreciates the input provided by these organizations. The committee declines to pursue this suggestion. The committee has deleted the advisement that by entering into an installment agreement, a defendant would be giving up the right to an ability to pay determination. The committee was concerned that this change would imply that a defendant was permanently giving up that right, which is inconsistent with the currently-pending proposal to adopt rules 4.106, 4.107, and 4.335. The bottom of the advisement of the form still contains information about ability-to-pay determinations. The committee declines the suggestion to move this advisement to the front of the form. The front of the form is already crowded with important information for the defendant. It contains the terms of the agreement and notices to the defendant regarding the potential consequences of failing to make a payment. Providing for this advisement on the back of the form allows for the use of large font with greater white space, enhancing its readability for defendants. Distinct from Vehicle Code section 42003, sections 40510.5 and 42007 do not require that the defendant appear in court on the date that the installment payment plan is due if he or she cannot pay. The provisions set forth in the rules and our comments are inconsistent with TR-300’s provisions that all payments must be made on time with no grace period, that failure to make one payment may result in the total amount being due, and that the defendant must see the clerk the day after a missed payment. These provisions should be stricken from the form to cohere with the other proposed rules and the guiding principle of flexibility that must be applied to installment plans. With respect to fees, although the statute requires a defendant pay administrative costs associated with the installment plan, we recommend that the Judicial Council require the court to waive these fees. Strapping more debt onto defendants with limited means is harmful and counterproductive. Finally, we are pleased to see that the Committee has proposed including spaces on the form where a defendant can submit her cell phone and/or email for SMS or email notification about installment payments. Because forms TR-300 and TR-310 provide only for installment payment plans under sections 40510.5 and 42007, not 42003, these forms do not need to provide this instruction to the defendant. We note that there are many individuals who are homeless, despite owning a car, and also that there many instances in which a person may be cited for a moving violation while driving a friend or family member’s car. Moreover, even if the link between driving and homelessness were true, we note that the traffic court procedures discussed in this letter are equally applicable to citations issued to pedestrians for non-driving-related infractions. Second, the Judicial Council must address the issues with court delay in processing traffic citations. It is our understanding that in many counties there is a lengthy delay in the time it takes between the citation being issue and the court registering the citation in its system. This results in scenarios where a person comes to court or otherwise tries to address their citation, but is told that their citation is not yet in the system. This can occur both when a person tries to appear or address the citation before the date listed on the citation and when the person comes on the day specified by the citation. A traffic | |

As we have stated in previous comments, the Judicial Council should itself use its authority under Vehicle Code § 40500(b) to modify its standard Notice to Appear forms to include a notification of the right to a judicial determination of ability to pay, the options available to those who can’t afford to pay, and a warning that a person’s driver’s license may be suspended or other sanctions may be imposed for non-payment unless the court determines that the person does not have the ability to pay. We also suggest that the amount of the fine be included on the ticket itself. The base fines and fees for all of the infraction offenses are readily available in the Judicial Council’s Uniform Bail Schedule and the citing officer should be required to list the infraction’s amount on the Notice to Appear. | 6. | Robert M. Hertzberg Senator, 18th Senate District | N/I | I appreciate the opportunity to comment on the proposed rules related to traffic criminal procedures, notices, and fees. It is encouraging to see continued work by Judicial Council to make rules of the court easier for individuals to seek remedies and to make amends for vehicle violations. I reviewed the three traffic proposals, and generally appreciate the clarity of notices, timeliness, standardization, and attempts to move certain actions online. It is a great frustration that county courts have different rules and forms, not to mention the near-total lack of online uniformity and access to county courts. These proposals will make it clearer to all Californians what their rights are and how to seek fee waivers or ability to pay determinations and will take a modest, but important, step toward modernizing the courts. These proposals will hopefully reduce the crushing burden of fines and fees for low income individuals by facilitating ability to pay determinations and fee waivers. The modest online tool for requesting a payment plan should be mandatory, not optional, for each of the 58 courts. These are important, if small, steps in the right direction. Unfortunately, the proposals do nothing to eliminate the widespread use – and abuse – of the license suspensions to collect-court ordered debt. The United States Department of Justice | The committee appreciates Senator Hertzberg’s input. The committee declines to pursue these suggestions at this time because they are outside the scope of this forms proposal. The committee may consider these suggestions in drafting future legislative proposals. |

Years ago, license suspensions may have seemed like a useful tool for collection court-ordered debt, but now we know the negative impact it has on millions of Californians. The fact is, a suspended license means lost income, lost employment, and generally increases the burden of poverty. It's much harder to get childcare, education, and work without transportation. And state data shows that the tool unfairly burdens communities of poverty and color. This is an issue about which I am passionate. I have carried several pieces of legislation over last two years addressing injustice. And until we start using better, fairer, punishments that more closely fit the nature of these crimes (i.e., minor traffic offenses), we will not have the fair justice system that Californians deserve. | |
| 7. | Legal Aid Foundation of Los Angeles By Yolanda C. Arias Managing Attorney | N/I | Forms TR-300 and TR-310 should include the description of the offense in Paragraph 1. Due to the complex nature of the Vehicle Code and the Penal Code, we recommend that Paragraph 1 on Forms TR-300 and TR-310 include a description of the offense along with the section the defendant was charged with. Most members of the public are not familiar with the various violations one can be charged with in traffic court, and it is unlikely that they will be able to identify the alleged offense | The committee appreciates the input of the Legal Aid Foundation of Los Angeles. The committee declines to pursue this suggestion. Defendants generally enter into these installment agreements at the clerk's counter, and it is not feasible or appropriate for clerks to provide a description of the charged offense. If the defendant does not understand the charges, he or she should seek the advice of counsel or ask to appear before a judge. |

We are concerned that without a description of the charged offense, many individuals will not understand the nature of the charges they are admitting guilt to. Under these circumstances, it cannot be said that they are knowingly and voluntarily waiving their rights when they enter into these payment agreements. We ask that the Judicial Council include a description of the offense in order to ensure that all traffic court litigants are fully informed before they waive their rights. Form TR-300 should include an advisement of the collateral consequences of admitting guilt to a traffic infraction. Form TR-300 currently includes an advisement that by completing the payment agreement form, all reportable violations will be reported to the Department of Motor Vehicles as convictions. However, the statement does not include the collateral consequences of having those offenses reported as convictions. In order to fully advise individuals of the rights they are forfeiting, we recommend that the form state, in the “Advisement of Rights” section, that having a traffic infraction conviction reported to the DMV may result in one or more negligent operator points on one’s driving record, can lead to difficulty obtaining driving-related employment, subjects drivers to higher car insurance rates, and can even result in a driver's | The committee declines to pursue this suggestion. The form is already crowded with important notices and advisements to the defendant regarding their rights and obligations under the installment payment agreement. Furthermore, several of these collateral consequences involve private industries (higher insurance rates, difficulty obtaining driving-related employment), which are outside of the purview of the Judicial Council or courts. |

TAC annual agenda:

Item 4. In collaboration with ITAC, identify and develop priorities for potential rule and statutory modifications so that the rules and statutes will be consistent with modern business practices. (For example, consider electronic notification to replace mail, paying fines online, etc.). b. Review rules and statutes in a systematic manner and develop recommendations for comprehensive changes. The review and recommendations are being made in phases. Phase 2, which consists of a more substantive review of the statutes and rules will commence in 2016.

Item 5. Rules and Forms for Access to Justice in Infraction Cases. Consider development of rules and forms to promote access to justice in all infraction cases, including recommendations related to courtesy notices, payment plans, community service, post-conviction proceedings or procedures after a defendant has previously failed to appear or pay, such as imposing civil assessments or placing holds on a driver's license.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

This proposal circulated this spring from March 21 to May 6, 2016. The committee recommended recirculating the proposal on an expedited cycle from August 3 to August 26, 2016, in light of the public comments received, communications from various advocacy groups and other entities to the Judicial Council expressing continued concerns about court practices resulting in the suspension of driver's licenses for failure to pay fines and fees, and other related developments. The expedited cycle allowed the committee to present this proposal to the Judicial Council during its December meeting.

The committee has recommended that the forms go into effect on January 1, 2017, and that courts be required to implement as soon as reasonably possible, but no later than May 1, 2017.

Executive Summary

The Traffic Advisory Committee recommends new forms and a companion rule of court for online installment payments for traffic infractions. Forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) are designed for use in online interfaces that allow defendants to enter into installment payment agreements under Vehicle Code sections 40510.5 and 42007. New companion rule 4.108 of the California Rules of Court would allow for the use of online interfaces to form installment payment agreements and would require that defendants be advised of their rights before entering into an agreement. It would also provide that forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) are alternative mandatory forms intended for use in these online interfaces. The committee developed this proposal as part of a larger effort to modernize rules and forms and in response to council directives to consider recommendations to promote access to justice in all infraction cases.

Recommendation

The Traffic Advisory Committee recommends that the Judicial Council, effective January 1, 2017, with implementation as soon as reasonably possible, but no later than May 1, 2017:

1. Adopt rule 4.108 of the California Rules of Court; and
2. Adopt forms TR-300 (online), Online Agreement to Pay and Forfeit Bail in Installments; and TR-310 (online), Online Agreement to Pay Traffic Violator School Fees in Installments.

The text of the new rule is attached at page 10. The forms are attached at pages 11–14.

Previous Council Action

The Judicial Council's Information Technology Advisory Committee (ITAC) is leading a multiyear, collaborative effort to comprehensively review and modernize statutes, rules, and forms to facilitate electronic filing and service and foster modern e-business practices. Last year, the council's advisory committees completed phase I, which culminated in the Judicial Council's adoption of an initial round of technical amendments to address language in the rules and forms that was incompatible with the current statutes and rules governing electronic filing and service and with e-business practices in general. The Traffic Advisory Committee is now participating in phase II, which involves identifying statutes, rules, and forms that may hinder electronic filing and modern e-business practices, along with developing recommendations to promote and improve e-business practices. ITAC's Rules and Policy Subcommittee provided input on this proposal before it was first circulated for public comment.

Additionally, recent studies and reports on state infraction laws have raised concerns about procedural fairness in infraction proceedings, particularly about procedures relating to deposit of bail before defendants appear for arraignment. In response, the Judicial Council adopted rule 4.105 on an expedited basis, effective June 8, 2015, to require courts to allow traffic infraction defendants to appear as promised for arraignment and trial without prior deposit of bail, unless certain specified exceptions apply, and to require courts to notify defendants of the option to appear in court without deposit of bail in any instructions or other materials regarding bail provided by courts to the public. The Judicial Council also directed the appropriate advisory committees to consider rule, form, or any other recommendations necessary to promote access to justice in all infraction cases including recommendations related to postconviction proceedings or after the defendant has previously failed to appear or pay.

Rationale for Recommendation

The committee has examined court procedures for infraction cases to recommend ways to improve access to justice as directed by the council and to modernize court procedures. As part of that effort, the committee recommends the adoption of new form TR-300 (online), Online Agreement to Pay and Forfeit Bail in Installments, new form TR-310 (online), Online Agreement to Pay Traffic Violator School Fees in Installments, and new companion rule 4.108, Installment Payment Agreements.

Use of online interfaces for installment payment agreements

This proposal would provide on a statewide basis for the online interfaces offered by some courts for entering into installment payment agreements under California Vehicle Code¹ sections 40510.5 and 42007. In effect, these online interfaces simulate the interaction between the clerk and the defendant that would occur if the installment agreement were processed in person at the clerk's counter, rather than online.

The online interfaces contemplated by this proposal differ from electronic filing systems generally in that they would be designed to allow for offer and acceptance of the installment agreement before the agreement is electronically filed into the court. Each interface would link directly to a court's case management system such that the online forms would be automatically populated with information relevant to the defendant's case, including pending charges and total bail.

Based in part on input provided by defendants, the online interfaces would calculate the initial payment, the online transaction fee (if any), the total amount due that day, the remaining balance after first payment, the amount of monthly installment payments, the day those payments are due each month, and the starting and ending dates for the monthly payments. The online forms would be populated with this information.

Before entering into installment agreements, the online interfaces would provide defendants with an advisement of rights. Lastly, the online interfaces would let defendants accept the installment agreement by typing their name on the form and electronically filing the form into the court. Courts are not required to offer this online interface, but if courts offer this interface for installment payments, they must use forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online).

Forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online)

Sections 40510.5 and 42007 require the Judicial Council to adopt forms for courts to use for processing installment payment plans under those statutes. Courts are not required to offer installment payment plans, but courts that offer installment payment plans for bail or traffic violator school fees in traffic infraction cases must use forms adopted by the Judicial Council for the intended procedures.

As provided in section 40510.5, existing form TR-300 is used by court clerks to accept payment and forfeiture of bail in installments for traffic infraction violations that do not require a mandatory appearance in court. Under current law, a court that offers installment plans for bail is required to continue the case for completion of the payments and report a bail forfeiture to the Department of Motor Vehicles as a conviction on the date the agreement is entered into. (Veh. Code, § 40510.5(b), (d).) No trust account is required and payments are distributed when received. (Id., § 40510.5(f).) If a defendant fails to make a payment as agreed, the court may report the failure to pay to the Department of Motor Vehicles, charge a failure to appear or pay under section 40508, issue a warrant, or send a notice that a civil assessment will be imposed if the defendant does not show good cause for the failure to pay. (Id., §§ 40509.5, 40510.5(e); Pen. Code, § 1214.1(b)(1).) Each bail installment payment made in this procedure for infractions is final and not subject to reconsideration as bail that is deposited for other criminal cases. (Veh. Code, § 40510.5(c).)

Existing form TR-310 is used for installment payment of traffic violator school fees for eligible traffic infractions. Installment payment agreements are limited to a maximum length of 90 days by statute. (Veh. Code, § 42007(a)(2).) Proof of completion for attendance of traffic violator school is due at the time of the final payment. (Ibid.) If a defendant fails to pay an installment, the court may convert the fee to bail, declare it forfeited, and report the forfeiture as a conviction under section 1803. (Id., § 42007(a)(3).) The court may declare that no further proceedings be had; charge a failure to pay and impose a civil assessment; or issue a warrant. (Ibid.)

Forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) are drafted to follow similar procedures when a court allows defendants to request installment payments through online interfaces without having to appear in person at the court for a clerk to process the request. This procedure would facilitate payment plans for many defendants, including those who live in different counties or other states. The information on the forms is consistent with the above statutes.

Advisement of rights. An online installment payment procedure does not require an arraignment or an appearance before a judicial officer in court, and there are significant legal consequences for failure to make an installment payment. To further enhance procedural fairness for infraction cases, the committee recommends the adoption of forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) with attachments containing an advisement and waiver of rights.

In addition to the advisements provided in existing forms TR-300 and TR-310,² forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) would expand notice of defendant's rights to include (1) "To appear in court without deposit of bail for formal arraignment, plea, and sentencing," and (2) "To ask for community service instead of paying the total fine."

Forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) would also provide notice to defendants of the right to request an ability-to-pay determination at any time before making the final payment, as well as the options available to the court in considering that request:

At any time before your final payment, if you have experienced a change in financial circumstances, you may ask that the court consider your ability to pay. If the court considers your ability to pay, the court may modify your installment plan, allow you to complete community service (if available) instead of paying the total amount due, or suspend all or part of the fine. The court is not required to offer you any of the above options, and the court may deny your request.

Form TR-310 (online) would contain the additional notice that “[i]f the court grants your request, you may no longer be eligible for traffic school.”

By electronically filing forms TR-300 (online) or TR-310 (online) through a court’s online interface, a defendant acknowledges that he or she has read and understood the advisement and the terms and conditions of the agreement, elects to waive the rights in the advisements, and agrees to pay and forfeit bail in installments.

Optional provisions. Forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) would include the following optional provisions:

- Section 2 on both forms and section 5 on form TR-300 (online) would have optional shaded text regarding proof of correction for correctable violations. Some online interfaces may not be programmed to process or track proof of correction for correctable violations. The forms would include optional text shaded in grey for courts with systems that include correctable violations from online installment payments. This text may be omitted by the court if their online interfaces are designed to exclude correctable violations.
- Section 5 on form TR-300 (online) and section 4 on form TR-310 (online) would include optional language allowing courts to charge an additional online transaction fee as authorized by Government Code sections 6159 and rule 10.820 of the California Rules of Court.
- The forms would include optional provisions for defendants to request electronic notifications, SMS text messages, and call reminders about the installment payments due under the agreement. The shaded text is intended to be optional so that courts can omit these provisions if the court is not able to provide electronic notices, text messages, or call reminders.
- The attachments include optional language that would inform defendants: “If you do not make a payment, please contact the court as soon as possible to make arrangements.”

Proposed Rule 4.108

Proposed rule 4.108 would recognize that courts may use online interfaces to enter into installment payment agreements with traffic infraction defendants under sections 40510.5 and 42007. It would require that these online interfaces provide defendants with the advisement of rights in the attachments to forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) before a defendant may enter into an installment agreement.

Lastly, proposed rule 4.108 would provide that forms TR-300 and TR-300 (online) and forms TR-310 and TR-310 (online) are alternative mandatory forms for use by the courts in entering into installment payment agreements under sections 40510.5 and 42007.

Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications

This forms proposal circulated twice for public comment. It was first circulated in March and April 2016. In light of the comments received during the first circulation and other developments, the committee revised the proposal and recommended its recirculation on an expedited basis from August 3–26, 2016, to allow it to go into effect on January 1, 2017. All commenters who submitted comments during the first circulation were instructed to resubmit comments during the second circulation if their concerns had not been addressed in the revised proposal.

External comments

Eight comments were submitted in response to the second invitation to comment; two agreed with the proposal, two agreed with the proposal if modified, one disagreed with the proposal, and three did not indicate their position. The committee’s specific responses to each comment are available in the attached comment chart at pages 15–29.

Appearing on the next court day for missed payments. The circulated forms³ contained language requiring defendants who missed a payment to appear in court on the next court day. This language currently appears on the forms TR-300 and TR-310.⁴ One commentator expressed concern about including this language on forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) because it might increase the workload for clerks. The circulated forms would have also added optional language to the back of the forms instructing defendants to contact the court as soon as possible after missing a payment. The committee had intended to provide two options from which the courts could select depending on their local practices.

In light of the commenter’s concern, the committee recommended removing the language instructing defendants to appear in court on the court date after missing a payment. Distinct from section 42003, sections 40510.5 and 42007 do not require that the defendant appear in court on the date that the installment payment plan is due if he or she cannot pay. (See Veh. Code, § 42003(a) [“A judgment granting a defendant time to pay the fine shall order that if the defendant fails to pay the fine or any installment thereof on the date that it is due, he or she shall appear in court on that date for further proceedings,” italics added].) Because forms TR-300 (online) and TR-310 (online) provide only for installment payment plans under sections 40510.5 and 42007—not 42003—these forms do not need to provide this instruction to the defendant.

Online interfaces and forms. One commenter requested that the proposal require all courts to implement online interfaces. The committee declined to incorporate this suggestion into the proposal because courts are not statutorily required to offer installment payment plans and because some courts do not currently have the technological capabilities to offer online installment plans.

Another commenter requested that the committee combine the two sets of forms (one set for use at the clerk's counter and one in online interfaces). The commenter expressed concern that two sets of forms would lead to confusion among defendants who might try to file the online forms at the clerk's counter. The committee revisited the possibility of combining the two sets of forms. Although it strove to minimize the differences between the forms, it ultimately concluded that it would not be feasible to use only one set of forms for both purposes because: (1) there is insufficient space on the front of the form to provide alternate instructions, and (2) providing alternate instructions on the form—depending on whether the installment payment plan is entered into at the clerk's counter or through an online interface—might cause unnecessary confusion.

Moreover, the online forms would not be available to the public on the Judicial Council website. As provided in proposed rule 4.108, the online forms are intended for use by the courts only in online interfaces, which would generate and populate the forms. They are not intended to be electronically filed into the court through other means. Because access to the forms would be limited, the committee does not anticipate that a member of the public will present the online form at the clerk's counter.

Proof of correction. One commenter suggested that the language regarding proof of correction be mandatory rather than optional. The committee decided to retain the language as optional on the form because some courts are unable to provide online installment payment plans for correctable violations due to the limitations of their case management systems. They have designed their online interfaces to allow only those defendants whose offenses do not require proof of correction. Allowing them to remove this language from the forms used in their online interfaces will avoid confusion.

Translation of forms. One commenter recommended translating the advisement of rights into the most common language in the issuing county. The committee recognizes the importance of increasing access to the courts for defendants who do not read English. The Language Access Planning Task Force has developed a Translation Protocol and a Translation Action Plan to assist the council in prioritizing the translation of Judicial Council forms and other materials. If approved by the council, these forms would be considered as part of that effort.

Other comments. The circulated forms also advised defendants that they may be charged with a misdemeanor under section 40508 if they fail to complete their payment plan. Noting that a defendant may be charged with a misdemeanor or an infraction under section 40508, one commenter recommended revising the advisement to better track the statute. The committee agreed and incorporated the suggestion into this proposal.

Lastly, one commenter requested that the forms be revised to allow defendants to consent to automated call reminders, in addition to text messages and electronic notices. The committee agreed and incorporated this suggestion into the proposal.

Internal comments

The circulated forms contained language advising defendants that they would also be giving up the right to ask the court to consider their ability to pay in determining the fee for traffic violator school and the fine, penalties, and fees for the case. While recognizing the importance of advising defendants that they would be waiving this right, the committee, on further reflection, decided against adding this particular advisement to the forms. The committee was concerned that this advisement might lead to confusion that a defendant was permanently giving up that right. Defendants do give up the right to request an ability-to-pay determination at the time they enter into the installment payment agreement, but they still retain the right to request an ability-to-pay determination at any time while the judgment remains unpaid.⁵ Although the committee decided against adding this advisement to the section on the waiver of rights, it retained the notice informing defendants that they have a right to request an ability-to-pay determination based on changed circumstances at any time before making the final payment.

Alternatives

In response to the council's directives to consider recommendations to promote access to justice in all infraction cases, the committee considered other alternatives such as legislative proposals. Those proposals, however, typically involve a lengthy process that must be pursued separately and have other implications that are distinct from the procedures addressed in an expedited fashion by the current proposal. The committee intends to separately consider recommendations to promote access to justice in future proposals.

Implementation Requirements, Costs, and Operational Impacts

The proposal expands the advisements of rights that courts provide to defendants in traffic infraction cases. In expanding notice of their rights, it is foreseeable that more defendants will assert those rights by, for example, requesting an ability-to-pay determination. The committee expects that any such increase in requests for ability-to-pay determinations would, in turn, result in greater court operations and staffing costs. Moreover, to the extent that some courts may not currently allow defendants to request an ability-to-pay determination after entering into an installment payment plan, this proposal, in conjunction with the separate rules proposal on ability to pay that the committee is concurrently presenting to the council, may result in greater court operations and staffing costs and may require providing training for court staff and judicial officers regarding the processing of infraction cases. The committee is sensitive to the impact of these additional costs on courts. Nevertheless, it believes that, on balance, any increased burdens are outweighed by the resulting procedural fairness.

In addition, implementing online interfaces may require changes to case management systems. However, because courts are not required to offer online interfaces for entering into online installment payments to defendants, it would be left to the courts to decide whether any efficiencies gained outweigh the costs. Recognizing that some courts currently offer online installment payments, the committee has recommended an extended implementation date to allow those courts additional time to update their online interfaces. Courts are urged to implement the proposal as soon as reasonably possible, but no later than May 1, 2017.

| 5. | Robert M. Hertzberg Senator, 18th Senate District | N/I | Honorable Gail Deckreon and Honorable Tricia Ann Bigelow: I appreciate the opportunity to comment on the proposed rules related to traffic criminal procedures, notices, and fees. It is encouraging to see continued work by Judicial Council to make rules of the court easier for individuals to seek remedies and to make amends for vehicle violations. I reviewed the three traffic proposals, and generally appreciate the clarity of notices, timeliness, standardization, and attempts to move certain actions online. It is a great frustration that county courts have different rules and forms, not to mention the near-total lack of online uniformity and access to county courts. These proposals will make it clearer to all Californians what their rights are and how to seek fee waivers or ability to pay determinations and will take a modest, but important, step toward modernizing the courts. These proposals will hopefully reduce the crushing burden of fines and fees for low income individuals by facilitating ability to pay determinations and fee waivers. The modest online tool for requesting a payment plan should be mandatory, not optional, for each of the 58 courts. These are important, if small, steps in the right direction. Unfortunately, the proposals do nothing to | The committee appreciates Senator Hertzberg’s input. It declines to pursue the suggestion to make online interfaces mandatory because courts are not required to offer installment payment plans by statute and because some courts do not currently have the technological capabilities to offer online installment plans. The committee declines to pursue the remainder of these suggestions at this time because they are outside the scope of this forms proposal. The committee may consider these suggestions in drafting future legislative proposals. |

The United States Department of Justice indicated last year that this practice is of questionable constitutionality. Years ago, license suspensions may have seemed like a useful tool for collection court-ordered debt, but now we know the negative impact it has on millions of Californians. The fact is, a suspended license means lost income, lost employment, and generally increases the burden of poverty. It’s much harder to get childcare, education, and work without transportation. And state data shows that the tool unfairly burdens communities of poverty and color. This is an issue about which I am passionate. I have carried several pieces of legislation over last two years addressing injustice. And until we start using better, fairer, punishments that more closely fit the nature of these crimes (i.e., minor traffic offenses), we will not have the fair justice system that Californians deserve. | |

We disagree with the proposals to allow a defendant to request ability to pay determinations/hearings and therefore disagree with the proposed language to allow a defendant to request a determination on ability to pay any time before the final payment. | The committee appreciates the court’s input. While this forms proposal does notify defendants of their right to request an ability-to-pay determination, the court’s comments are directed primarily to proposed rule 4.335’s ability-to-pay provisions. Executive Summary

The Civil and Small Claims Advisory Committee and the Appellate Advisory Committee recommend amending the rules regarding expedited review of certain cases under the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA). The amendments will fulfill the Judicial Council’s obligation under legislation enacted earlier this year to adopt rules to implement procedures for the expedited resolution of CEQA cases challenging “capitol annex projects.”

Recommendation

1. The Civil and Small Claims Advisory Committee and the Appellate Advisory Committee recommend that the Judicial Council, effective January 1, 2017 Amend rules 3.2200, 3.2220, 3.2221, 3.2222, 3.2223, 8.700, 8.701, 8.702, and 8.703 of the California Rules of Court relating to expedited review of CEQA challenges to “environmental leadership” and “Sacramento arena” projects by adding references to new statutory provisions establishing expedited review of such challenges to “capitol annex projects”; and

2. The Appellate Advisory Committee also recommends that the Judicial Council, effective January 1, 2017, amend rule 8.701 to ensure CEQA appellate rules conform to amendments to the appellate electronic filing rules approved by the Judicial Council at its October 2016 meeting.

The text of the amended rules is attached at pages 4–9.

Previous Council Action

In 2011, the Judicial Council adopted rule 8.497 to implement Assembly Bill 900 (Stats. 2011, ch. 354), which created an expedited judicial review procedure in the Court of Appeal for CEQA cases relating to “environmental leadership projects.” (Pub. Resources Code, § 21185.)

In 2013, the Legislature adopted legislation that changed the expedited CEQA review procedure in environmental leadership cases and also established expedited review in cases relating to a new sports arena in Sacramento (Senate Bill 743, Stats. 2013, ch. 386). SB 743 required the Judicial Council to adopt rules providing for the resolution of these cases, including any potential appeals, within 270 days of certification of the record of proceedings (Pub. Resources Code, §§ 21185 and 21168.6.6). The Judicial Council responded to SB 743 with the adoption of rules 3.1365, 3.2220–3.2231, and 8.700–8.705, effective July 1, 2014.¹

At its meeting on October 27, 2016, the council approved amendments to the rules relating to electronic filing and service in the appellate courts that, among other things, make electronic filing mandatory unless otherwise ordered by the court or provided by local rule.

Rationale for Recommendation

Senate Bill 836 (Stats. 2016, ch. 31),² which became effective on June 28, 2016, contains provisions similar to those enacted by SB 743 from 2013. It requires that the Judicial Council adopt rules, on or before July 1, 2017, that implement the expedited CEQA judicial review procedures for resolution of CEQA challenges to “capitol building annex projects” within 270 days from the date of certification of the administrative record. (Pub. Resources Code, § 21189.51; see Pub. Resources Code, §§ 21185 and 21168.6.6.) These recommended rule amendments would fulfill the Judicial Council’s obligation under SB 836 by adding references to the new “capitol building annex” statutes to the existing CEQA rules.

² SB 836 is available at www.leginfo.ca.gov/pub/15-16/bill/sen/sb_0801-0850/sb_836_bill_20160627_chaptered.pdf.

The Appellate Advisory Committee also recommends amending one of the existing CEQA rules, rule 8.701, to conform it to amendments to the appellate electronic filing rules approved by the Judicial Council at its October 2016 meeting. Currently, rule 8.701 provides that the court may order electronic filing and service. Amended rule 8.71, which takes effect January 1, 2017, makes electronic filing mandatory unless otherwise ordered by the court or provided by local rule. Rule 8.701 would be conformed to rule 8.71 by similarly requiring electronic filing in all cases covered by the CEQA rules. Rule 8.701 would also be amended to provide by rule for electronic service on consenting parties, rather than requiring the court to order such service in these CEQA cases.

Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications

This proposal has not been circulated for comment because the recommended amendments are minor and technical in nature. Given that these rules are necessary to fulfill statutorily mandated obligations or conform the CEQA rules to recent amendments to the e-filing rules, these changes are also unlikely to be controversial. It is therefore within the Judicial Council’s purview to adopt the rule amendments without circulation. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.22(d)(2).)

Implementation Requirements, Costs, and Operational Impacts

Implementing the new legislation requiring expedited review of CEQA challenges to “capitol annex projects” may generate costs and operational impacts for both the trial courts and the Courts of Appeal in which the proceedings governed by these statutes are filed. The committee does not anticipate that this proposal will result in any additional costs to the courts.

Executive Summary

Various Judicial Council advisory committees, members of the public, and Judicial Council staff have identified errors in rules resulting from typographical errors, and changes resulting from legislation and previous rule amendments. The staff to the Judicial Council recommends making the necessary corrections to avoid confusing court users, clerks, and judicial officers.

Recommendation

The staff to the Judicial Council recommends that the council, effective January 1, 2017:

1. Effective January 1, 2013, the Judicial Council adopted rule 5.24. Joinder of persons claiming interest, as part of the restructured and reorganized title V of the California Rules of Court. The council consolidated a series of joinder rules (rules 5.150, 5.152, 5.154, 5.156, 5.158, 5.160) under rule 5.24 and subsequently repealed them when rule 5.24 took effect. The Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee recently became aware of an error in the construction of subdivision (e)(1)(A) in rule 5.24. As currently written, subdivision (e)(1)(A) is an incomplete sentence, which has caused confusion about when a court must join a person as a party to the proceeding. The committee recommends that subdivision (e)(1)(A), be clarified as provided in the attached.

2. Amend rules 5.340 and 10.701 of the California Rules of Court, which set forth the minimum education requirements of child support commissioners and of subordinate judicial officers respectively. The rules contain outdated references to rule 10.501. Rule 10.501, which replaced the former rule 970, effective June 30, 2006, as part of the council's reorganization of the rules, was repealed on October 20, 2006. At the August 31, 2007, and October 26, 2007, council meetings, a number of rules were adopted, amended, and/or renumbered to, among other things, address the minimum training requirements of subordinate judicial officers as laid out in the former rule 10.501. This included the adoption of rule 10.462, which contains the provisions previously addressed in former rule 10.501. The current rule 10.501, effective January 1, 2010, addresses the maintenance of budget and management information. Consequently, as rules 5.340 and 10.701 currently stand, they refer to an unrelated rule, which leads to confusion. As such, the references in rules 5.340 and 10.701 to rule 10.501 should be changed to reference rule 10.462.
3. Amend the advisory committee comment to rule 8.304 to correct a reference from "(rule 8.700 et seq.)" to "(rule 8.800 et seq.)"; and
4. Amend rule 8.528, which addresses disposition of a matter by the Supreme Court after grant of review. Prior to July 1, 2016, California Rules of Court, rule 8.1105(e) provided that when the Supreme Court granted review of a published Court of Appeal opinion, that opinion was automatically depublished: "Unless otherwise ordered . . . an opinion is no longer considered published if the Supreme Court grants review." Effective July 1, 2016, the Supreme Court amended rule 8.1105 to eliminate this automatic depublication provision and add a new provision stating instead that "Unless otherwise ordered . . . [g]rant of review by the Supreme Court of a decision by the Court of Appeal does not affect the appellate court's certification of the opinion for full or partial publication." Additional new language was also added to rule 8.1105 providing that, "The Supreme Court may also order depublication of part of an opinion at any time after granting review." Rule 8.528 was not modified in conjunction with the amendments to rule 8.1105. Subdivision (b)(3) of rule 8.528 should be amended to address what happens when the Supreme Court dismisses review of a case in which review is granted on or after July 1, 2016.

The revised rules are attached at pages 4–5.

Previous Council Action

Although the Judicial Council has acted on these rules and forms previously, this proposal recommends only minor corrections unrelated to any prior action.

Rationale for Recommendation

The changes to these rules are technical in nature and necessary to correct inadvertent omissions and incorrect references.

Comments, Alternatives Considered, and Policy Implications

These proposals were not circulated for public comment because they are noncontroversial, involve technical revisions, and are therefore within the Judicial Council's purview to adopt without circulation. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.22(d)(2).)

Implementation Requirements, Costs, and Operational Impacts

Operational impacts are expected to be minor. The proposed revisions may result in reproduction costs if courts provide hard copies of any of the forms recommended for revision. Because the proposed changes are technical corrections, case management systems are unlikely to need updating to implement them.

40
41 Subdivision (a). Penal Code section 1235(b) provides that an appeal from a judgment or 42 appealable order in a “felony case” is taken to the Court of Appeal, and Penal Code section 691(f)
43 defines “felony case” to mean “a criminal action in which a felony is charged. . . .” Rule

1 8.304(a)(2) makes it clear that a “felony case” is an action in which a felony is charged regardless
2 of the outcome of the action. Thus the question whether to file a notice of appeal under this rule or 3 under the rules governing appeals to the appellate division of the superior court
4 (rule ~~8.700~~ 8.800 et seq.) is answered simply by examining the accusatory pleading: if that
5 document charged the defendant with at least one count of felony (as defined in Penal Code,
6 section 17(a)), the Court of Appeal has appellate jurisdiction and the appeal must be taken under 7 this rule even if the prosecution did not result in a punishment of imprisonment in a state prison.
