

The Caution for helpline (rev. 2-06)

Before we talk anymore, I need to tell you something about where you have called. We are the Family Law Self-Help Center.

The most important thing to know about us is that we are part of the court. What that means is that we have to be neutral and impartial, we can't take sides.

Also, we can only provide legal information, not legal advice. What that means is that we can give you information about court procedures or forms, but not advice on interpretation of laws or strategies for your case.

Conversations with us are not confidential the way they would be if you were talking with an attorney who was representing you.

We help both sides. What that means is that if the other side calls, we will give him/her exactly the same kind of help we give you. Is this ok with you?
