APPLICATION FOR LEAVE TO FILE AMICUS CURIAE BRIEF

I. INTRODUCTION

Pursuant to California Rules of Court, Rule 8.520(f), amicus curiae the League of California Cities respectfully requests leave to file the accompanying brief of amicus curiae in support of the City of Morgan Hill. This application is timely made within 30 days after the filing of the reply brief on the merits.

II. INTEREST OF THE AMICUS CURIAE

The League of California Cities (“League”) is an association of 475 California cities dedicated to protecting and restoring local control to provide for the public health, safety, and welfare of their residents, and to enhance the quality of life for all Californians. The League is advised by its Legal Advocacy Committee, which is comprised of 24 city attorneys from all regions of the State. The Committee monitors litigation of concern to municipalities, and identifies those cases that have statewide or nationwide significance. The Committee has identified this case as having such significance.

The reason the League has determined to weigh in on this case is simple. California cities, and their elections officials, are charged with processing referenda that would invalidate zoning ordinances adopted by elected City Councils. Cities must in some cases determine the legal validity of referenda challenging land use legislation adopted by elected City Councils, and then implement the zoning that results from such referenda. The decision by the Sixth District unsettles a rule that provided clear guidance on these points for cities for over 30 years, and forces them to choose between the inconsistent rules set down by the Fourth and Sixth District Courts of Appeal.

The League does not at this point advocate for one result or rationale over another. But it has a clear interest in asking the Court to review and provide guidance on the issues raised in the case, and the implications of how this Court resolves those issues.

III. CONCLUSION

The League respectfully requests that the Court accept the accompanying brief for filing in this case.

[PROPOSED] AMICUS CURIAE BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF THE CITY OF MORGAN HILL

I. INTRODUCTION

The decision of the Fourth District Court of Appeal in deBottari v. City Council (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 1204 (“deBottari”) has provided a “bright line” rule upon which amici and its members have relied since 1985. The decision of the Sixth District rejecting the deBottari bright line rule unsettles the law. The resulting inconsistency between the two cases implicates important policies enacted by the California Legislature to not only require that zoning be consistent with general plans, but also to promote certainty and finality in land use planning and decision making, especially with respect to the development of housing. While the League does not advocate for or against either deBottari or the decision of the Sixth District in this case, the League urges the Court, in resolving the conflict between the two, to consider how best to respect those policies.

II. ARGUMENT

A. The League And Its Member Cities Have Relied On The deBottari “Bright Line” Rule For Over 30 Years.

For over 30 years the League, and its members and officials, have been guided by the “bright-line” rule established by the Fourth District Court of Appeal in deBottari v. City Council (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 1204 (“deBottari”). deBottari concluded that when a city’s or a county’s voters exercise their constitutional right (Cal. Const. art. II, § 9) to subject zoning legislation to referendum, the resulting zoning must by state law (Government Code § 65860) be consistent with the city’s or county’s general plan. deBottari held that a referendum that, if approved by the voters, would result in zoning that was inconsistent with a City’s General Plan was invalid.

This Court has cited deBottari with approval on several occasions. (Orange Citizens For Parks and Recreation v. Superior Court (2016) 2 Cal.5th 141, 153; Leshar Communications, Inc. v. City of Walnut Creek (1990) 52 Cal.3d 531, 541; Citizens of Goleta Valley v. Board of Supervisors (1990) 52 Cal.3d 553, 570-571.) The Fourth District's subsequent decision in City of Irvine v. Irvine Citizens Against Overdevelopment (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 868 relied on deBottari in announcing the same rule. In the 32 years since deBottari was decided, no case has suggested its result and rationale were incorrect. Every leading municipal law and land use text book describes deBottari as the law in California. (See Cecily T. Barclay & Matthew S. Gray, Curtin's California Land Use & Planning Law, pp. 43, 48, 377-78 (34th ed. 2014); James Longtin, Longtin's California Land Use, sections 2.02[2], 2.38, 2.40, 2.42, 3.53, 11.72[3], 11.74 pp. 204-06, 209, 328, 1047, 1049 (2d ed. 1987); Cont. Ed. Bar, The California Municipal Law Handbook, sections 3.86, 3.113, 3.123 (2017).)

The decision of the Sixth District Court of Appeal, in rejecting deBottari, unsettles a rule that the League and its member cities and their elections officials have understood and followed for over 30 years. The deBottari rule provided clear guidance that a zoning referendum is invalid if it would result in a general plan inconsistency.

B. This Case Involves Not Only The Constitutional Right Of Referendum, But Also The Legislative Requirements That Zoning Be Consistent With General Plans, And That Land Use Decisions Not Be Subject To Uncertainty Or Delay.

This case implicates three important issues: the right of referendum, and the legislative requirements that zoning be consistent with the general plan and that land use decisions not be subject to uncertainty or delay.

1. The Constitutional Right Of Referendum.

The voter's right to initiative and referendum has been recognized by this Court as "one of the most precious rights of our democratic process." (Associated Home Builders, Inc. v. City of Livermore (1976) 18 Cal.3d 582, 591.) This fundamental right is guaranteed in the California Constitution, Article 2, Section 11, and "is generally coextensive with the legislative power of the local governing body." (DeVita v. County of Napa (1995) 9 Cal.4th 763, 775.) This fundamental right has been jealously guarded by the courts. (See Legislature v. Eu (1991) 54 Cal.3d 492, 501; Fair Political Practices Com. v. Superior Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 33, 41.)

Nevertheless, the right of initiative and referendum is not absolute, and is subject to limitations on its exercise. As this Court has said, although the right "must be construed liberally to promote the democratic process," it is subject to the same constitutional limitations and rules of construction as are other statutes. (Leshar Communications, Inc. v. City of Walnut Creek, supra, 52 Cal.3d 531, 540.)

Thus, initiatives and referenda must, for example, be consistent with a city's or county's general plan. (Leshar Communications, supra, 52 Cal.3d 531, 541; California Municipal Law Handbook (Cal CEB), § 3.113, p. 273.) Similarly, they may not intrude on matters of statewide concern that are preempted by the state. (See Voters For Responsible Retirement v. Board of Supervisors (1994) 8 Cal.4th 765, 779; California Municipal Law Handbook (Cal CEB), § 3.111, p. 272.)

2. The Legislative Interest In Promoting General Plan Consistency And Avoiding Uncertainty And Delay In Land Use Decisions.

The Legislature has made explicit its command that zoning (and indeed all land use decisions) be consistent with general plans. (See Government Code § 65860.) This Court thus has emphasized the importance of the general plan in local land use decision-making. To that end, this Court has characterized the general plan as the “constitution for all future developments within the city or county.” (Orange Citizens For Parks and Recreation v. Superior Court, supra, 2 Cal.5th 141, 152.) “The propriety of virtually any local decision affecting land use and development depends upon consistency with the applicable general plan and its elements.” (Citizens of Goleta Valley v. Board of Supervisors, supra, 52 Cal.3d 553, 571.) “A zoning ordinance that conflicts with a general plan is invalid at the time it is passed.” (Leshar Communications, Inc. v. City of Walnut Creek, supra, 52 Cal.3d 531, 544.) “The requirement of consistency ... infuse[s] the concept of planned growth with the force of law.” (Orange Citizens, supra, 2 Cal.5th at 153.)

The Legislature also has emphasized its desire to promote certainty and avoid delay in land use planning and decision-making. (Government Code § 65009(a)(3).) Such certainty is required to “alleviate the chilling effect on the confidence with which property owners and local governments can proceed with projects.” (Travis v. County of Santa Cruz (2004) 33 Cal.4th 757, 765.) In stressing the need for certainty and timeliness in land use planning generally, the Legislature has focused on the severe housing crisis in the state. (Government Code §§ 65009(a)(1), 65589.5(a)(1); 65583(c)(2); Health and Safety Code § 50003(a); California Building Industry Assn. v. City of San Jose (2015) 61 Cal.4th 435, 441.)

C. In Resolving The Conflict Between deBottari and The Decision Of The Sixth District, The League Urges This Court To Consider And Promote Those Legislative Interests.

The League urges this Court, in resolving the conflict between the decision of the Sixth District and deBottari, to do so in a manner that promotes the Legislature's interests in general plan consistency and certainty and timeliness regarding land use decisions. Thus, the League urges a rule that will not result in California cities facing similar cases in which their zoning will be inconsistent with their general plans for indeterminate periods of time. As the parties have recognized, during those periods, the ability of property owners subject to such inconsistent zoning to use and develop their land will be under a cloud until the inconsistency is resolved. The Sixth District's ruling leaves open the possibility of successive referenda, each proposing inconsistent zoning, thereby effectively halting any new use of land that is the subject of the dispute. The Legislature surely intended no such outcome.

While this case involves commercial/industrial zoning and development, the League urges the Court also to consider how it will affect residential development to address the state's housing crisis. It is beyond serious debate that when a referendum results in zoning that is inconsistent with a general plan's residential designation, the inconsistency creates a cloud that can frustrate the Legislature's emphatic desire that local governments promote, not delay, the development of housing to address the statewide crisis. A property owner subject to a referendum challenging the amendment of a zoning ordinance to bring it into consistency with an amended general plan designation allowing the development of housing will be in a limbo in which residential development is precluded. Again, the League urges this Court, in resolving the conflicting appellate decisions here, to consider how best to serve the Legislature's desire to promote housing.

The League also submits that while this Court has instructed that the electorate's right of referendum is to be jealously guarded, that right must be exercised in a timely manner, and at the earliest opportunity. The League thus urges the Court to adopt a rule that encourages those members of the electorate opposed to a legislative policy judgment to amend a general plan to exercise their referendum right sooner, immediately after the city or county amends the general plan, not later when the city subsequently amends its zoning to make it consistent with the amended general plan. The League submits that this Court's ruling should discourage not only delay and uncertainty, but also, potentially, gamesmanship in the exercise of the right of referendum.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the League respectfully requests this Court resolve the conflict between deBottari and the decision of the Sixth District in this case in a manner that considers and promotes the legislative interests that accompany the right of referendum.
