

CIVIL APPELLATE SELF-HELP WORKSHOP

Are you a party to an unlimited civil case on appeal from the superior court to the Court of Appeal? The appellate court is different — including its processes and procedures. You are welcome to participate in a FREE workshop to learn important information about what is required at the Court of Appeal, especially if you do not have by an attorney.

The workshop does not cover appeals in limited civil actions, which are taken to the appellate division of the superior court, or appeals in the federal courts.

A Civil Appellate Self-Help Workshop will be held virtually via Zoom, a web-based video conferencing tool. For the best workshop experience, you will need Internet access either via a computer or a smart phone. However, you may participate via telephone even without Internet access.

The workshops take place on the third Tuesday of each month in 2022:

January 18
April 19
July 19
October 18

February 15
May 17
August 16
November 15

March 15
June 21
September 20
December 20

3:45 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.

To register and obtain the information and link to participate,
Please log on to <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/9MDF2GC>
Unable to register online? You may call (619) 471-2781 and leave a message.

AT THE WORKSHOP

We can:

- Tell you about appellate procedures and rules in the Court of Appeal
- Explain unfamiliar words
- Tell you about sources of information
- Provide you with helpful hints on how to fill out forms and comply with the court's rules and procedures

We cannot:

- Handle your appeal
- Act as your lawyer
- Give you legal advice
- Assist with appeals from limited civil actions to the appellate division of the superior court

The Civil Appellate Self-Help Workshop is a joint project of the California Court of Appeal, Fourth Appellate District, Division One; the Legal Aid Society of San Diego, Inc.; the San Diego County Bar Association's Appellate Practice Section; and the San Diego Law Library

This workshop is for appeals in unlimited civil cases (such as civil cases involving an amount over $25,000 or cases from the family court or probate court) from the superior court to the Court of Appeal. For help in determining whether you can appeal a superior court decision in an unlimited civil case to the Court of Appeal, here are three questions for you to consider:

1. ARE YOU A PERSON WHO CAN APPEAL THIS DECISION?

Only a person or entity that was a party in the trial court case can appeal a decision made in that case. You may not appeal on behalf of a friend, a spouse, a child, or another relative unless you are a legally appointed representative for that person (such as a guardian or conservator).

2. CAN THE DECISION IN YOUR CASE BE APPEALED?

You can appeal the superior court's final judgment in a case. The final judgment is the decision at the end that decides the whole the case. The final judgment usually says what one or more parties must do (like pay money to the other party). This judgment may be following a decision by the judge or by a jury. All final judgments are appealable.

You can also appeal most orders that the trial court makes after the final judgment, like, for example, a child custody order made after the divorce is final. In most cases, however, decisions made by the trial court before the final judgment cannot be appealed right away; they can only be reviewed as part of an appeal of the final judgment. There are some exceptions to this rule. In family law and probate cases, for example, many of the orders made in a case can be appealed right away, even if they are made before the final judgment.

For other the types of orders that can be appealed right away (before final judgment), read Code of Civil Procedure sections 904.1 and 904.2.

Please be aware that there is usually only one opportunity to appeal any order. Thus, if the order may be appealed right away, you must do so, or you will lose your opportunity for appellate review. If the order may not be appealed right away, you must appeal from the later final judgment, or you will lose your opportunity for appellate review.

3. DO YOU STILL HAVE TIME TO APPEAL?

In an unlimited civil case, you must file a notice of appeal no later than the earlier of the following times:

- 60 days after you have been served with notice that the judgment has been entered in your case or with a copy of the judgment stamped "Filed"; or
- 180 days after the entry of the judgment.

The time to file a notice of appeal is extended if there is a timely motion: for a new trial; to vacate (cancel) or set aside the judgment; for judgment notwithstanding the verdict; or to reconsider an appealable order. If one of these motions or requests has been filed, carefully read rule 8.108 of the California Rules of Court.

MAKE SURE YOU MEET THESE DEADLINES. YOU CANNOT ASK FOR MORE TIME TO FILE YOUR NOTICE OF APPEAL. IF YOUR NOTICE OF APPEAL IS LATE, YOUR APPEAL WILL BE DISMISSED.