I strongly urge that the SEC report be implemented without further delay. While I agree with the suggested solutions, many still come up short in assuring the branch is run by those ELECTED by our fellow citizens. The comprehensive and thorough report provides not only an extensive review of the problems plaguing the judicial branch but provides a "road map" to correct these problems. The court should not delay further in the implementation of solutions. The public comment time frame serves no purpose other than further delaying the inevitable.

The Judicial Branch has suffered immensely because warnings were ignored! It is time to take action and regain the trust of the public. The Judiciary was once viewed as being above the political fray. We are now viewed by the citizenry as a prime example of what is wrong with our government. The Executive and Legislative branches treat us no differently than any of their own subordinate departments. We have failed as a branch. The immediate implementation of the SEC recommendations might "right the sinking ship" that is our Branch. If we do not act now to change direction, there are those who will, without our input, force it upon us.

Sincerely,

Judge Christian R. Gullon
