(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2004; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(f) Video recording, photographing, and broadcasting at meeting

The Chief Justice may permit video recording, photographing, or broadcasting of a meeting. Any such video recording, photographing, or broadcasting is subject to regulations that ensure the meeting's security and dignity. A request to record, photograph, or broadcast a council meeting must be received by the Chief Justice at least two business days before the meeting.

(g) Minutes as official records

The Secretary of the Judicial Council must prepare written minutes of each council meeting for approval at the next council meeting. When approved by the council, the minutes constitute the official record of the meeting.

(Subd (g) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2004; adopted as subd (f).)

Rule 10.6 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.6 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2004; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.6 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.10. Judicial Council internal committees

(a) Judicial Council internal committees

The internal committees are:

- (1) Executive and Planning Committee;

- (2) Legislation Committee
- (3) Rules Committee;
- (4) Litigation Management Committee;
- (5) Technology Committee; and
- (6) Judicial Branch Budget Committee.

(Subd (a) amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted effective August 14, 2009, previously amended effective February 20, 2014, and January 1, 2019.)

(b) Purpose of the internal committees

The internal committees of the Judicial Council assist the full membership of the council in its responsibilities by providing recommendations in their assigned areas, including rules for court administration, practice, and procedure, and by performing duties delegated by the council. Internal committees generally work at the same policy level as the council, focusing on the establishment of policies that emphasize long-term strategic leadership and that align with judicial branch goals.

(Subd (b) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(c) Membership and appointment

The Chief Justice appoints each council member and advisory council member to one or more internal committees for a one-year term.

(Subd (c) relettered effective August 14, 2009; adopted as subd (a); previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Meetings

Each internal committee meets as often as necessary to perform its responsibilities. The Administrative Director, as secretary of the Judicial Council, may attend and participate in the meetings of each internal committee.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as subd (c); previously amended and relettered as subd (d) effective August 14, 2009.)

(e) Voting

An advisory council member may vote on any internal committee matter unless the committee is taking final action on behalf of the council.

(Subd (e) relettered effective August 14, 2009; adopted as subd (d).)

(f) Council review

The council may overrule or modify an action taken by an internal committee.

(Subd (f) relettered effective August 14, 2009; adopted as subd (e).)

(g) Reporting to the council

As often as necessary, each internal committee must report to the council on the committee's activities.

(Subd (g) relettered effective August 14, 2009; adopted as subd (f); previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(h) Oversight of advisory committees and other bodies

When an internal committee has been assigned by the Chief Justice with the responsibility for oversight over one or more advisory committees or other bodies, the internal committee ensures that the activities of each advisory body overseen by it are consistent with the council's goals and policies. To achieve these outcomes, the internal committee:

- (1) Communicates the council's annual charge to each advisory body;
- (2) Reviews the proposed annual agenda of each to determine whether the agenda is consistent with the advisory body's charge and with the priorities established by the council; and
- (3) After review, approves the final annual agenda for each advisory body.

Rule 10.10 amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted as rule 6.10 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.10 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective August 14, 2009, February 20, 2014, January 1, 2016, and January 1, 2019.

Rule 10.11. Executive and Planning Committee

(a) Actions on behalf of the Judicial Council

The Executive and Planning Committee may take action on behalf of the council between council meetings, except for:

- (1) Adopting rules of court, standards of judicial administration, and forms;

- (2) Making appointments that by statute must be made by the council; and
- (3) Taking actions that are delegated to other council internal committees.

(Subd (a) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(b) Planning

The committee oversees the council's strategic planning process.

(Subd (b) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(c) Court facilities

The committee oversees the council's policies and procedures regarding court facilities, including development of policies, procedures, and guidelines for facilities; site selection; and capital appropriations.

(Subd (c) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(d) Agendas for council meetings

The committee establishes agendas for council meetings by determining:

- (1) Whether items submitted for the council's agenda require the council's action and are presented in a form that provides the council with the information it needs to make well-informed decisions; and
- (2) Whether each item should be on the consent, discussion, or information agenda; how much time should be allotted for discussion; what presenters should be invited to speak; and, when appropriate, which specific issues should be discussed.

(e) Topics for making policy and receiving updates

The committee develops a schedule of topics that the council intends to consider for making policy and receives updates from the Administrative Director or Judicial Council staff.

(Subd (e) relettered effective January 1, 2019; adopted as subd (f) effective August 14, 2009.)

(f) Governance

The committee makes recommendations to the council regarding governance and oversees the council's review of its governance policies and principles.

(Subd (f) relettered effective January 1, 2019; adopted as subd (g) effective August 14, 2009.)

(g) Nominations

The committee recommends candidates to the Chief Justice for appointment to the Judicial Council and its advisory bodies.

(Subd (g) relettered effective January 1, 2019; adopted as subd (h) effective August 14, 2009.)

(h) Communications

The committee promotes effective policies for communications between the Judicial Council and the judicial branch.

(Subd (h) relettered effective January 1, 2019; adopted as subd (j) effective August 14, 2009.)

Rule 10.11 amended effective January 1, 2019; adopted as rule 6.11 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.11 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2002, September 1, 2003, January 1, 2005, August 14, 2009, and January 1, 2016.

Rule 10.12. Legislation Committee

(a) Legislative activities

The Legislation Committee performs the following functions:

- (1) Taking a position on behalf of the council on pending legislative bills, after evaluating input from the council advisory bodies and Judicial Council staff, and any other input received from the courts, provided that the position is consistent with the council's established policies and precedents;
- (2) Making recommendations to the council on all proposals for council-sponsored legislation and on an annual legislative agenda after evaluating input from council advisory bodies and Judicial Council staff, and any other input received from the courts; and
- (3) Representing the council's position before the Legislature and other bodies or agencies and acting as liaison with other governmental entities, the bar, the media, the judiciary, and the public regarding council-sponsored legislation, pending legislative bills, and the council's legislative positions and agendas.

(Subd (a) amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted as subd (b); previously amended effective September 1, 2003, and January 1, 2016; previously amended and relettered as subd (a) effective August 14, 2009.)

(b) Building consensus

The committee builds consensus on issues of importance to the judicial branch consistent with the council's strategic plan with entities and individuals outside of the branch.

(Subd (b) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(c) Coordination

The committee develops an annual plan for communication and interaction with other branches and levels of government, components of the justice system, the bar, the media, and the public.

(Subd (c) amended effective August 14, 2009; previously amended effective September 1, 2003.)

(d) Advisory committees

The committee may direct any advisory committee to provide it with analysis or recommendations on any pending or proposed legislation, and reviews all recommendations from advisory committees regarding pending or proposed legislation.

Rule 10.12 amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted as rule 6.12 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.12 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective September 1, 2003, August 14, 2009, and January 1, 2016.

Rule 10.13. Rules Committee

(a) Rules, standards, and forms

The Rules Committee establishes and maintains a rule-making process that is understandable and accessible to justice system partners and the public. The committee:

- (1) Identifies the need for new rules, standards, and forms;

- (2) Establishes and publishes procedures for the proposal, adoption, and approval of rules of court, forms, and standards of judicial administration that ensure that relevant input from the public is solicited and considered;
- (3) Reviews proposed rules, standards, and forms and circulates those proposals for public comment in accordance with its procedures and guidelines.
- (4) Provides guidelines for the style and format of rules, forms, and standards and ensures that proposals are consistent with the guidelines;
- (5) Ensures that proposals for new or amended rules, standards, and forms do not conflict with statutes or other rules; and
- (6) Determines whether proposals for new or amended rules, standards, or forms have complied with its procedures.

(Subd (a) amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(b) Jury instructions

The committee establishes and maintains a process for obtaining public comment on the jury instructions and assists the council in making informed decisions about jury instructions.

(Subd (b) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(c) Recommendations

The Rules Committee assists the council in making informed decisions about rules of court, forms, standards of judicial administration, and jury instructions. The committee:

- (1) Recommends whether the council should approve, modify, or reject each proposal;
- (2) Recommends to the Executive and Planning Committee whether a proposal should be on the council's consent or discussion agenda and how much time should be allocated for discussion; and
- (3) When appropriate, identifies issues for discussion.

If the Rules Committee recommends against approval, it states the reasons for its recommendation.

(Subd (c) amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(d) Circulating orders

The committee initiates circulating orders to allow the council to adopt rules, standards, and forms between council meetings, if necessary.

(Subd (d) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(e) Responsibility of the Administrative Director

The Administrative Director is responsible for ensuring that items submitted to the committee for circulation for comment and the council's agenda comply with the committee's procedures and its guidelines on format and style.

Rule 10.13 amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted as rule 6.13 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.13 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective September 1, 2003, August 14, 2009, January 1, 2016, and January 1, 2019.

Rule 10.14. Litigation Management Committee

(a) Litigation oversight

The Litigation Management Committee oversees litigation and claims against trial court judges, appellate court justices, the Judicial Council, its staff, the trial and appellate courts, and the employees of those bodies in which the likely monetary exposure is $100,000 or more or that raise issues of significance to the judicial branch by:

- (1) Reviewing and approving any proposed settlement, stipulated judgment, or offer of judgment; and
- (2) Consulting with the Administrative Director or Chief Counsel, on request, regarding important strategy issues.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2003, January 1, 2007, December 9, 2008, and August 14, 2009.)

(b) Recommendations

The committee makes recommendations to the Judicial Council for policies governing the management of litigation involving the courts.

(Subd (b) amended effective August 14, 2009.)

(c) Strategic decisions

The committee resolves written objections described in rule 10.202(d) presented by Legal Services.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2003, January 1, 2007, and August 14, 2009.)

Rule 10.14 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.14 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.14 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2003, December 9, 2008, and August 14, 2009.

Rule 10.15. Judicial Branch Budget Committee

(a) Purpose

The Judicial Branch Budget Committee assists the council to exercise its responsibilities under rule 10.101 with respect to the branch budget.

(b) Budget responsibilities

In assisting the council on the branch budget, the committee:

- (1) Ensures that proposed judicial branch budgets, allocation schedules, and related budgetary issues are brought to the Judicial Council in a timely manner and in a format that permits the council to establish funding priorities in the context of the council's annual program objectives, statewide policies, and long-range strategic and operational plans;
- (2) Reviews and makes recommendations annually to the council on submitted budget change proposals for the judicial branch, coordinates these budget change proposals, and ensures that they are submitted to the council in a timely manner;
- (3) Reviews and makes recommendations on the use of statewide emergency funding for the judicial branch;
- (4) Reviews and makes recommendations on the funding of grants on programs assigned to the committee; and
- (5) Acts on other assignments referred to it by the council.

Rule 10.15 adopted effective January 1, 2019.

Rule 10.16. Technology Committee

(a) Technology policies

The Technology Committee oversees the council's policies concerning information technology. The committee assists the council by providing technology recommendations focusing on the establishment of policies that emphasize long-term strategic leadership and that align with judicial branch goals. The committee is responsible for determining that council policies are complied with on specific projects approved and funded by the council and that those projects proceed on schedule and within scope and budget.

(b) Coordination

The committee coordinates the activities of the Administrative Director, council internal committees and advisory committees, the courts, justice partners, and stakeholders on matters relating to court information technology. The committee also, in collaboration or consultation with the Legislation Committee, coordinates with other branches of government on information technology issues.

(Subd (b) amended effective April 16, 2020; previously amended effective September 1, 2015, and January 1, 2016.)

(c) Reports

The committee seeks reports and recommendations from the Administrative Director, the courts, and stakeholders on information technology issues. It ensures that information technology reports to the council are clear, are comprehensive, and provide relevant options so that the council can make effective final information technology policy decisions.

(d) Strategic and tactical technology plans

(1) Strategic technology plan

The strategic technology plan describes the technology goals for the branch. With input from advisory committees and individual courts, the committee is responsible for developing and recommending a strategic technology plan for the branch and the courts.

(2) Tactical technology plan

The tactical technology plan outlines the technology initiatives and projects that provide a road map for achieving the goals in the strategic technology plan. The committee provides oversight approval and prioritization of the tactical technology plan, which is developed and recommended by advisory committees with input from the courts.

(Subd (d) adopted effective September 1, 2015.)

(e) Technology needs, standards, and systems

The committee will, in partnership with the courts, develop timelines and recommendations to the council for:

- (1) Establishing an approach and vision for implementing information technology that serves the courts, litigants, attorneys, justice partners, and the public, while considering available resources and information technology needs;
- (2) Improving judicial branch information technology governance to best serve the implementation of technological solutions;
- (3) Reviewing and recommending information technology standards; and
- (4) Encouraging the courts to leverage their collective economic purchasing power in acquiring technological systems.

(f) Sponsorship of branchwide technology initiatives

The committee may act as executive sponsor of branchwide technology initiatives under the workstream model in rule 10.53(c).

(g) Funding of branchwide technology initiatives and projects

The committee reviews, prioritizes, and recommends requests for the funding of branchwide technology initiatives and projects with input from advisory committees. Factors to be considered by the committee include overall return on investment, business risk, alignment with the technology goals approved by the council in the strategic technology plan, and the availability of sufficient funding from an identifiable funding source.

(Subd (g) adopted effective September 1, 2015.)

(h) Collaboration and consultation with the committee

Other committees and advisory bodies should collaborate or consult with the committee (1) before making decisions or recommendations on technology policies, standards, and projects, and (2) before recommending funding priorities or making recommendations to approve funding requests for branchwide technology initiatives and projects.

(i) Oversight of advisory committees and other bodies

In addition to performing its oversight responsibilities under rule 10.10(h), the Technology Committee oversees the branchwide technology initiatives sponsored by each advisory body for which it is responsible.

(Subd (i) amended effective January 1, 2019; adopted as subd (e); amended and relettered effective September 1, 2015.)

Rule 10.16 amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted effective February 20, 2014; previously amended effective September 1, 2015, January 1, 2016, and January 1, 2019.

Rule 10.20. Proposals for new or amended rules, standards, or forms; rule-making process in general

(a) Council meetings to consider proposals

The Judicial Council meets twice a year, generally in April and October, to consider proposals for the adoption, amendment, or repeal of California Rules of Court, California Standards of Judicial Administration, and Judicial Council forms.

(b) Proposals

The council will consider proposals that are submitted to it by an internal committee, an advisory committee, a task force, or Judicial Council staff, in accordance with rule 10.22 and any policies and procedures established by the Rules Committee.

Subd (b) amended effective April 16, 2020; repealed and adopted effective January 1, 2002; previously amended effective January 1, 2007, and January 1, 2016.)

(c) Statewide uniformity

The council will establish uniform statewide practices and procedures where appropriate to achieve equal access to justice throughout California.

(Subd (c) relettered effective January 1, 2002; adopted as subd (g).)

Rule 10.20 amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted as rule 6.20 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2002, and January 1, 2016; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.20 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.21. Proposals from members of the public for changes to rules, standards, or forms

(a) Application

This rule applies to proposals for changes to rules, standards, or forms by a member of the public (any person or organization other than a Judicial Council internal committee, advisory committee, or task force, or Judicial Council staff).

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(b) Submission and content of proposals

Proposals must be submitted in writing to: Judicial Council of California, Attention: Chief Counsel. Proposals should include:

- (1) The text of the proposed rule, standard, form, or amendment;
- (2) A description of the problem to be addressed;
- (3) The proposed solution and alternative solutions;
- (4) Any likely implementation problems;
- (5) Any need for urgent consideration;
- (6) Known proponents and opponents;
- (7) Any known fiscal impact; and
- (8) If known, any previous action by the council or an advisory committee on the proposal.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(c) Advisory committee's review of proposal

The Chief Counsel must refer each proposal from a member of the public to an appropriate advisory committee for consideration and recommendation, or, if no appropriate advisory committee exists, to the Rules Committee. A Judicial Council staff member may independently review the proposal and present an analysis and a recommendation to the committee. The committee may take one of the following actions:

- (1) Accept the proposal, either as submitted or modified, and proceed under rule 10.22;

- (2) Request further information or analysis; or
- (3) Reject the proposal.

Rule 10.21 amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted as rule 6.21 effective January 1, 2002; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.21 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2016.

Rule 10.22. Rule-making procedures

(a) Who may make proposals

A Judicial Council internal committee, advisory committee, task force, or Judicial Council staff may recommend that the council adopt, amend, or repeal a rule or standard or adopt, approve, revise, or revoke a form.

(b) Legal and advisory committee review

The internal committee, advisory committee, task force, or Judicial Council staff (the proponent) must first submit its proposal to Legal Services for legal and drafting review. If the proponent is not an advisory committee, and an appropriate advisory committee exists, the proponent must also submit the proposal to that advisory committee for review.

(c) Recommendation to Rules Committee

After the proposal has been reviewed by Legal Services and any appropriate advisory committee, the proponent must submit the proposal to the Rules Committee with a recommendation that it be (1) circulated for public comment or (2) submitted to the council for approval without public comment.

(Subd (c) amended effective April 16, 2020; previously amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(d) Review by Rules Committee

The Rules Committee must review the recommendation and may take one of the following actions:

- (1) Circulate the proposal for public comment;
- (2) If the proposal presents a nonsubstantive technical change or correction or a minor substantive change that is unlikely to create controversy, recommend that the council adopt it without circulating it for comment;
- (3) Postpone circulation for comment and either request further information or analysis by the proponent or refer the matter to another council internal or advisory committee, the full council, or the Chief Justice; or
- (4) Reject the proposal if it is contrary to statute, conflicts with other rules or standards, or is contrary to established council policy.

(e) Review of comments

After a proposal is circulated, the proponent must review the comments and decide whether to reject the proposal or to recommend that the council adopt it, with or without modifications.

(f) Submission to council

If, after reviewing the comments, the proponent recommends that the council adopt the proposal, the matter will be placed on the council's agenda. The Rules Committee must review the recommendation and submit its own recommendation to the council. The council may adopt, modify, or reject the proposal.

(Subd (f) amended effective April 16, 2020.)

(g) Compelling circumstances

The procedures established in this rule must be followed unless the Rules Committee finds that compelling circumstances necessitate a different procedure. The committee's finding and a summary of the procedure used must be presented to the council with any recommendation to the council made under this subdivision.

(Sub(g) amended effective April 16, 2020.)

Rule 10.22 amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted as rule 6.22 effective January 1, 2002; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.22 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 16, 2016.

Rule 10.30. Judicial Council advisory bodies

(a) Types of bodies

Judicial Council advisory bodies are typically advisory committees and task forces.

(Subd (a) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(b) Functions

The advisory bodies:

- (1) Use the individual and collective experience, opinions, and wisdom of their members to provide policy recommendations and advice to the council on topics the Chief Justice or the council specifies;
- (2) Work at the same policy level as the council, developing recommendations that focus on strategic goals and long-term impacts that align with judicial branch goals;
- (3) Generally do not implement policy. The council may, however, assign policy-implementation and programmatic responsibilities to an advisory body and may request it make recommendations to the Administrative Director on implementation of council policy or programs;
- (4) Do not speak or act for the council except when formally given such authority for specific and time-limited purposes; and
- (5) Are responsible, through Judicial Council staff, for gathering stakeholder perspectives on policy recommendations they plan to present to the council.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(c) Subcommittees

With the approval of the internal committee with oversight responsibility for the advisory body, an advisory body may form subcommittees, composed entirely of members, to carry out the body's duties, subject to available resources.

(Subd (c) amended effective February 20, 2014; adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(d) Oversight

The Chief Justice assigns oversight of each council advisory body to an internal committee. The council gives a general charge to each advisory body specifying the body's subject matter jurisdiction. The council and its internal committees provide direction to the advisory bodies.

(Subd (d) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(e) Preference for using existing advisory committees

Unless substantial reasons dictate otherwise, new projects requiring committee involvement must be assigned to existing advisory committees.

(Subd (e) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(f) Role of the Administrative Director

The Administrative Director sits as an ex officio member of each advisory body.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(g) Creation

In addition to the advisory committees established by the rules in this division, the Chief Justice may create additional advisory bodies by order.

(Subd (g) adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

Rule 10.30 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.30 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.30 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective September 1, 2003, August 14, 2009, and February 20, 2014.

Rule 10.31. Advisory committee membership and terms

(a) Membership

The categories of membership of each advisory committee are specified in the rules in this chapter. Each advisory committee consists of between 12 and 18 members, unless a different number is specified by the Chief Justice or required by these rules. Advisory committee members do not represent a specific constituency but must act in the best interests of the public and the entire court system.

(Subd (a) amended effective September 1, 2003.)

(b) Terms

The Chief Justice appoints advisory committee members to three-year terms unless another term is specified in these rules or in the order appointing a member. Terms are staggered so that an approximately equal number of each committee's members changes annually. Members may apply for reappointment but there is no presumption of reappointment. All appointments and reappointments are at the sole discretion of the Chief Justice.

(Subd (b) amended effective February 1, 2018; previously amended effective November 1, 2004, and January 1, 2007.)

(c) Chair and vice-chair

The Chief Justice appoints an advisory committee member to be a committee chair or vice-chair for a one-year term except for the chair and vice-chair of the Court Executives Advisory Committee, who may be appointed to two-year terms. Except for the Court Executives Advisory Committee, when a member's term as the chair of an advisory committee ends, that member's term on the committee also ends, unless the Chief Justice orders otherwise.

(Subd (c) amended effective February 1, 2018; previously amended effective September 1, 2000, January 1, 2004, and January 1, 2007.)

(d) Advisory members

On the request of the advisory committee, the Chief Justice may designate an advisory member to assist an advisory committee or a subcommittee. Advisory members are appointed for three-year terms unless another term is specified in the order appointing the advisory member. Advisory members may participate in discussions and make or second motions but cannot vote.

(Subd (d) amended effective February 1, 2018; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Termination of membership

Committee membership terminates if a member leaves the position that qualified the member for the advisory committee unless (g) applies or the Chief Justice determines that the individual may complete the current term.

(Subd (e) amended effective February 1, 2018.)

(f) Vacancies

Vacancies are filled as they occur according to the nomination procedures described in rule 10.32.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(g) Retired judges

A judge's retirement does not cause a vacancy on the committee if the judge is eligible for assignment. A retired judge who is eligible for assignment may hold a committee position based on his or her last judicial position.

Rule 10.31 amended effective February 1, 2018; adopted as rule 6.31 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.31 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective September 1, 2000, September 1, 2003, January 1, 2004, and November 1, 2004.

Rule 10.32. Nominations and appointments to advisory committees

(a) Nomination procedures

The Executive and Planning Committee assists the Chief Justice in selecting advisory committee members by submitting a list of nominees for each position. Unless otherwise specified in the rule applicable to a particular advisory committee, the nomination procedures are as follows:

- (1) The Executive and Planning Committee must publicize vacancies and solicit nominations. If any group is designated to submit nominations for a position, the Executive and Planning Committee will request that the group submit at least three nominations for each advisory committee vacancy.
- (2) The Executive and Planning Committee must submit at least three nominees for each advisory committee vacancy to the Chief Justice. The nominees should represent diverse backgrounds and experiences as well as geographic locations throughout California.

(Subd (a) amended effective September 1, 2003.)

(b) Court executive or administrator members

A court executive or administrator member may be a county clerk, a court administrator, or an executive officer if the member also serves as the clerk of the court.

(c) Judicial administrator member

A judicial administrator member may be any person experienced in court administration and is not required to be currently employed by a court.

(d) Judicial officer

A judicial officer member may be a judge of the superior court or a court commissioner or referee.

(Subd (d) amended effective September 1, 2003.)

(e) Appointing order

The Chief Justice appoints advisory committee members by order.

(Subd (e) amended effective September 1, 2003.)

Rule 10.32 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.32 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective September 1, 2003.

Rule 10.33. Advisory committee meetings

Each advisory committee may meet as often as its chair deems necessary, within available resources. Meetings may be in person or by teleconference.

Rule 10.33 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.33 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective September 1, 2003.

Rule 10.34. Duties and responsibilities of advisory committees

(a) Role

Advisory committees are standing committees created by rule of court or the Chief Justice to make recommendations and offer policy alternatives to the Judicial Council for improving the administration of justice within their designated areas of focus by doing the following:

- (1) Identifying issues and concerns affecting court administration and recommending solutions to the council;
- (2) Proposing necessary changes to rules, standards, forms, and jury instructions;
- (3) Reviewing pending legislation and making recommendations to the Legislation Committee on whether to support or oppose it;
- (4) Recommending new legislation to the council;
- (5) Recommending to the council pilot projects and other programs to evaluate new procedures or practices;
- (6) Acting on assignments referred by the council or an internal committee; and
- (7) Making other appropriate recommendations to the council.

(b) Annual charges

- (1) Advisory committees are assigned annual charges by the council or an internal committee specifying what should be achieved in a given year. The council or an internal committee may amend an advisory committee's annual charge at any time.
- (2) Advisory committees have limited discretion to pursue matters in addition to those specified in each committee's annual charge, as long as the matters are consistent with a committee's general charge, within the limits of resources available to the committee, and within any other limits specified by the council, the designated internal committee, or the Administrative Director.

(c) Responsibilities of the chair

Advisory committee chairs are responsible, with the assistance of staff, to:

- (1) Develop a realistic annual agenda for the advisory committee, consistent with the committee's annual charge by the Judicial Council or Judicial Council internal committee;
- (2) Present the advisory committee's recommendations to the Judicial Council;
- (3) Discuss with the Administrative Director or the Administrative Director's designee appropriate staffing and other resources for projects within the advisory committee's agenda; and
- (4) Submit recommendations with respect to advisory committee membership.

(d) Role of the Administrative Director

- (1) The Administrative Director determines whether projects undertaken by council advisory bodies in addition to those specified in the council's or internal committee's annual charge to the advisory body are consistent with the body's general charge, its approved annual agenda, and the Judicial Council's strategic plan. The Administrative Director also determines whether any additional matters are within the body's authorized budget and available resources.
- (2) The Administrative Director is not bound by the recommendations of an advisory committee and may make alternative recommendations to the Judicial Council or recommend that an advisory committee's annual charge be amended.

(e) Role of staff

- (1) Advisory committees are assisted by Judicial Council staff. The duties of staff members include drafting committee annual agendas, managing the committee's budget and resources, coordinating committee activities, providing legal and policy analysis to the committee, organizing and drafting reports, selecting and supervising consultants, providing technical assistance, and assisting committee chairs in presenting the committee's recommendations to the Judicial Council. Staff may provide independent legal or policy analysis of issues that is different from the committee's position, if authorized to do so by the Administrative Director.

- (2) Staff report to the Administrative Director. The decisions or instructions of an advisory body or its chair are not binding on the staff except in instances when the council or the Administrative Director has specifically authorized such exercise of authority.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(f) Review of annual agendas

- (1) Each committee must submit a proposed annual agenda that is reviewed by the internal committee with oversight responsibility, as designated by the Chief Justice. This subdivision does not apply to the Administrative Presiding Justices Advisory Committee.
- (2) The internal committee that is responsible for oversight of the advisory committee reviews the proposed annual agenda and provides the advisory committee with an annual charge to ensure that its activities are consistent with the council's goals and priorities. The annual charge may:
 - (A) Approve or disapprove the annual agenda in whole or in part;
 - (B) Direct the committee to pursue specific projects on the annual agenda;
 - (C) Add or delete specific projects; and
 - (D) Reassign priorities.
- (3) To pursue matters in addition to those specified in its annual charge, an advisory committee must have the approval of the internal committee with oversight responsibility for the advisory committee. The matters must be consistent with the advisory committee's general charge, as set forth in the rules of court, its approved annual agenda, and the council's long-range strategic plan. The additional matters must also be within the committee's authorized budget and available resources, as specified by the council or the Administrative Director.

(Subd (c) amended effective February 20, 2014; adopted as subd (d); previously amended effective January 1, 2004, and January 1, 2007.)

(d) Executive Committee

The advisory committee may establish an Executive Committee that, in addition to other powers provided by the advisory committee, acts on behalf of the full advisory committee. To assist it in formulating proposals and making recommendations to the council, the Executive Committee may seek the advice of the advisory committee. The Executive Committee consists of the following members:

- (1) The nine court executive officers or interim/acting court executive officers from the nine trial courts that have 48 or more judges;
- (2) Four court executive officers from trial courts that have 16 to 47 judges;
- (3) Two court executive officers from trial courts that have 6 to 15 judges;
- (4) Two court executive officers from trial courts that have 2 to 5 judges; and

- (5) One court executive officer from the trial courts as an at-large member appointed by the committee chair to a one-year term.

(Subd (d) adopted effective February 20, 2014.)

(e) Nominations

- (1) The advisory committee must submit nominations for each vacancy on the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee will recommend three nominees for each Executive Committee vacancy from the nominations received and submit its recommendations to the Executive and Planning Committee of the Judicial Council. The list of nominees must enable the Chief Justice to appoint an Executive Committee that reflects a variety of experience, expertise, and locales (e.g., urban, suburban, and rural). Membership on the Executive Committee does not preclude appointment to any other advisory committee or task force.
- (2) The Executive Committee must review and recommend to the Executive and Planning Committee of the Judicial Council the following:
 - (A) Members of the Executive Committee;
 - (B) Nonvoting court administrator members of the Judicial Council; and
 - (C) Members of other advisory committees who are court executives or judicial administrators.

(Subd (e) amended effective February 20, 2014; previously amended effective January 1, 2004, and January 1, 2007.)

(f) Chair and vice-chair

The Chief Justice may appoint the chair and vice-chair of the advisory committee for up to a two-year term from the current or incoming membership of the Executive Committee. The chair and vice-chair of the advisory committee serve as the chair and vice-chair of the Executive Committee established by subdivision (d).

(Subd (f) amended effective February 20, 2014; previously amended effective January 1, 2004, January 1, 2007, and January 1, 2008.)

(g) Meetings

The Executive Committee will meet approximately every two months, which includes the statewide meetings with the advisory committee. The advisory committee will meet during at least two statewide meetings per year.

(Subd (g) adopted effective February 20, 2014.)

Rule 10.48 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.48 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.48 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2004, January 1, 2008, and February 20, 2014.

Rule 10.49. Conference of Court Executives [Repealed]

Rule 10.49 repealed effective February 20, 2014; adopted as rule 6.49 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2004; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.50. Center for Judicial Education and Research Advisory Committee

(a) Establishment and purpose

In 1973, the Judicial Council of California and the California Judges Association created the Center for Judicial Education and Research (CJER). The oversight body then known as the Governing Committee of CJER was made an advisory committee to the council in 1993 through the adoption of former rule 1029. In 2001, the rule that specifies the duties of that advisory committee was made consistent with the rules pertaining to other Judicial Council advisory committees.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2019; adopted effective December 18, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2007, and January 1, 2016.)

(b) Area of focus

(Subd (b) relettered and amended effective December 18, 2001; adopted as subd (a).)

(c) Additional duties

In addition to the duties described in rule 10.34, the committee must:

- (1) Recommend rules, standards, policies, and procedures for judicial branch education;
- (2) Recommend a strategic long-range plan for judicial branch education;
- (3) Evaluate the effectiveness of judicial branch education, the quality of participation, the efficiency of delivery, and the impact on service to the public;
- (4) Review and comment on proposals from other advisory committees and task forces that include education and training of judicial officers or court staff in order to ensure coordination, consistency, and collaboration in educational services;

- (5) Establish educational priorities for implementation of curricula, programs, publications, and delivery systems;
- (6) Identify the need for and recommend the appointment of education curriculum committees to implement the priorities, long-range plan, and programs and products of judicial branch education; create and adopt procedures for their operation; and review and approve their projects and products;
- (7) Identify and foster collaborative opportunities with courts to promote and ensure the availability of training at the local court level;
- (8) Identify, analyze, and implement systems to enhance the delivery of education and training statewide; and
- (9) Identify and foster collaborative opportunities with internal and external partners to maximize the resources dedicated to education and training.

(Subd (c) amended effective May 15, 2021; adopted as subd (b); previously relettered and amended effective December 18, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Membership

The committee consists of at least the following members:

- (1) Eleven sitting judicial officers, including at least one appellate court justice and one immediate past presiding judge;
- (2) Three judicial administrators, including a supervisor or manager from a trial or appellate court;
- (3) The Administrative Director as an advisory member;
- (4) The president of the California Judges Association or his or her designee as an advisory member; and
- (5) Other advisory members as the Chief Justice may appoint.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (c); previously relettered and amended effective December 18, 2001.)

(e) Nominations

Nominations for vacant positions on the CJER Advisory Committee and its education curriculum committees will be solicited under the procedures described in rule 10.32. The president of the California Judges Association may submit nominations to the Executive and Planning Committee.

(Subd (e) amended effective May 21, 2021; previously amended effective December 18, 2001, January 1, 2007, January 1, 2019.)

(f) Chair and vice-chair

The Chief Justice appoints the chair and vice-chair. The committee may make recommendations to the Chief Justice for these two positions.

(Subd (f) amended effective December 18, 2001.)

Rule 10.50 amended effective May 21, 2021; adopted as rule 6.50 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.50 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective December 18, 2001, January 1, 2015, January 1, 2016, and January 1, 2019.

Rule 10.51. Court Interpreters Advisory Panel

(a) Area of focus

To assist the council in performing its duties under Government Code sections 68560 through 68566 and to promote access to spoken-language interpreters and interpreters for deaf and hearing-impaired persons, the advisory panel is charged with making recommendations to the council on:

- (1) Interpreter use and need for interpreters in court proceedings; and
- (2) Certification, registration, renewal of certification and registration, testing, recruiting, training, continuing education, and professional conduct of interpreters.

(Subd (a) amended effective October 1, 2004.)

(b) Additional duty

The advisory panel is charged with reviewing and making recommendations to the council on the findings of the study of language and interpreter use and need for interpreters in court proceedings that is conducted by the Judicial Council every five years under Government Code section 68563.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective October 1, 2004.)

(c) Membership

The advisory panel consists of 11 members. A majority of the members must be court interpreters. The advisory panel must include the specified numbers of members from the following categories:

- (1) Four certified or registered court interpreters working as employees in trial courts, one from each of the four regions established by Government Code section 71807. For purposes of the appointment of members under this rule, the Superior Court of California, County of Ventura, is considered part of Region 1 as specified in section 71807, and the Superior Court of California, County of Solano, is considered part of Region 2 as specified in section 71807;
- (2) Two interpreters certified or registered in a language other than Spanish, each working either in a trial court as an independent contractor or in an educational institution;
- (3) One appellate court justice;
- (4) Two trial court judges; and
- (5) Two court administrators, including at least one trial court executive officer.

(Subd (c) amended effective October 1, 2004; previously amended effective July 1, 1999.)

(d) Advisors

The Chief Justice may also appoint nonmember advisors to assist the advisory panel.

(Subd (d) adopted effective October 1, 2004.)

Rule 10.51 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.51 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective July 1, 1999, and October 1, 2004; previously renumbered as rule 10.51 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.52. Administrative Presiding Justices Advisory Committee

(a) Area of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the council on policy issues affecting the administration and operation of the Courts of Appeal.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Additional duties

In addition to the duties described in rule 10.34, the committee must:

- (1) Establish administrative policies that promote the quality of justice by advancing the efficient functioning of the appellate courts;
- (2) Advise the council of the appellate courts' resource requirements and solicit the council's support in meeting budget, administrative, and staffing requirements;
- (3) Make proposals on training for justices and appellate support staff to the Governing Committee of the Center for Judicial Education and Research; and
- (4) Comment on and make recommendations to the council about appellate court operations, including:
 - (A) Initiatives to be pursued by the council or its staff; and
 - (B) The council's goals and strategies.

(c) Membership

The committee consists of:

- (1) The Chief Justice as chair; and
- (2) The administrative presiding justices of the Courts of Appeal designated under rule 10.1004.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Funding

Each year, the committee must recommend budget change proposals to be submitted to the Chief Justice for legislative funding to operate the appellate courts. These proposals must be consistent with the budget management guidelines of the Judicial Council's Finance office.

(e) Allocations

The committee allocates resources among the appellate courts and approves budget management guidelines based on the actual allocation made by the Chief Justice.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(f) Administrative Director

The Administrative Director must meet regularly with the committee and must notify and, when appropriate, consult with the committee about appellate court personnel matters.

Rule 10.52 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.52 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.52 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.53. Information Technology Advisory Committee

(a) Areas of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the council for improving the administration of justice through the use of technology and for fostering cooperative endeavors to resolve common technological issues with other stakeholders in the justice system. The committee promotes, coordinates, and acts as executive sponsor for projects and initiatives that apply technology to the work of the courts.

(Subd (a) amended effective September 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Additional duties

In addition to the duties described in rule 10.34, the committee must:

- (1) Oversee branchwide technology initiatives funded in whole or in part by the state;
- (2) Recommend rules, standards, and legislation to ensure compatibility in information and communication technologies in the judicial branch;
- (3) Provide input to the Judicial Council Technology Committee on the technology and business requirements of court technology projects and initiatives in funding requests;
- (4) Review and recommend legislation, rules, or policies to balance the interests of privacy, access, and security in relation to court technology;

- (5) Make proposals for technology education and training in the judicial branch;
- (6) Assist courts in acquiring and developing useful technologies;
- (7) Establish mechanisms to collect, preserve, and share best practices across the state;
- (8) Develop and recommend a tactical technology plan, described in rule 10.16, with input from the individual appellate and trial courts; and
- (9) Develop and recommend the committee's annual agenda, identifying individual technology initiatives scheduled for the next year.

(Subd (b) amended effective September 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Sponsorship of branchwide technology initiatives

(1) Oversight of branchwide technology initiatives

The committee is responsible for overseeing branchwide technology initiatives that are approved as part of the committee's annual agenda. The committee may oversee these initiatives through a workstream model, a subcommittee model, or a hybrid of the two. Under the workstream model, committee members sponsor discrete technology initiatives executed by ad hoc teams of technology experts and experienced project and program managers from throughout the branch. Under the subcommittee model, committee members serve on subcommittees that carry out technology projects and develop and recommend policies and rules.

(2) Technology workstreams

Each technology workstream has a specific charge and duration that align with the objective and scope of the technology initiative assigned to the workstream. The individual tasks necessary to complete the initiative may be carried out by dividing the workstream into separate tracks. Technology workstreams are not advisory bodies for purposes of rule 10.75.

(3) Executive sponsorship of technology workstreams

The committee chair designates a member or two members of the committee to act as executive sponsors of each technology initiative monitored through the workstream model. The executive sponsor assumes overall executive responsibility for project deliverables and periodically provides high-level project status updates to the advisory committee and council. The executive sponsor is responsible for facilitating work plans for the initiative.

(4) Responsibilities and composition of technology workstream teams

A workstream team serves as staff on the initiative and is responsible for structuring, tracking, and managing the progress of individual tasks and milestones necessary to complete the initiative. The executive sponsor recommends, and the chair appoints, a workstream team of technology experts and experienced project and program managers from throughout the branch.

(Subd (c) adopted effective September 1, 2015.)

(d) Membership

The committee must include at least one member from each of the following categories:

- (1) Appellate justice;
- (2) Trial court judicial officer;
- (3) Trial court judicial administrator;
- (4) Appellate court judicial administrator;
- (5) Trial Court Information Officer;
- (6) Member of the Senate;
- (7) Member of the Assembly;
- (8) Representative of the executive branch; and
- (9) Lawyer.

(Subd (d) amended and relettered effective September 1, 2015; adopted as subd (c); previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Member selection

The two legislative members are appointed by the respective houses. The executive member is appointed by the Governor. The lawyer member is appointed by the State Bar. In making all other appointments to the committee, factors to be considered include a candidate's technology expertise and experience, as well as an ability to act as lead executive sponsor for technology initiatives.

(Subd (e) amended and relettered effective September 1, 2015; adopted as subd (d).)

(f) Chair

The Chief Justice appoints a judicial officer to serve as chair.

Rule 10.53 amended effective September 1, 2015; adopted as rule 6.53 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.54. Traffic Advisory Committee

(a) Area of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the council for improving the administration of justice in the area of traffic procedure, practice, and case management and in other areas as stated in the fish and game, boating, forestry, public utilities, parks and recreation, and business licensing bail schedules.

- (9) Judicial administrator; and
- (10) Public member.

(d) Cochairs

The Chief Justice appoints two advisory committee members to serve as cochairs. Each cochair is responsible for leading the advisory committee's work in the following areas:

- (1) Physical, programmatic, and language access; fairness in the courts; and diversity in the judicial branch; and
- (2) Issues confronted by self-represented litigants and those of limited or moderate income, including economic, education, and language challenges.

Rule 10.55 amended effective February 20, 2014; adopted as rule 6.55 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Advisory Committee Comment

The advisory committee's area of focus includes assisting courts to improve access and fairness by recommending methods and tools to identify and address physical, programmatic, and language access; fairness in the courts; and diversity in the judicial branch, as well as addressing issues that affect the ability of litigants to access the courts including economic, education, and language challenges. An additional responsibility of the advisory committee to recommend to the council updated guidelines and procedures for court self-help centers, as needed, is stated in rule 10.960.

Rule 10.56. Collaborative Justice Courts Advisory Committee

(a) Area of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the Judicial Council on criteria for evaluating and improving adult and youth collaborative-programs that incorporate judicial supervision, collaboration among justice system partners, or rehabilitative services. Collaborative programs include collaborative justice courts, diversion programs, and similar court-monitored programs that seek to improve outcomes and address problems facing court-involved and justice system-involved individuals and those at risk of becoming involved with the justice system, including, but not limited to, individuals with mental health issues, substance use disorders, or co-occurring disorders.

(b) Additional duties

In addition to the duties described in rule 10.34, the committee must:

- (1) Make recommendations to the council on best practices and guidelines for collaborative programs;
- (2) Assess and measure the success of collaborative programs, including assessing and recommending methods for collecting data to evaluate the effectiveness of these programs;
- (3) Identify and disseminate to trial courts locally generated and nationally recognized best practices for collaborative programs, and training and program implementation activities that support collaborative programs;
- (4) Recommend to the Center for Judicial Education and Research Advisory Committee minimum judicial education standards on collaborative programs, and educational activities to support those standards;
- (5) Advise the council of potential funding sources, including those that may advance collaborative programs;
- (6) Make allocation recommendations regarding Judicial Council–administered grant funding programs that support collaborative programs; and
- (7) Identify and disseminate appropriate outreach activities needed to support collaborative programs, including but not limited to collaborations with educational institutions, professional associations, and community-based organizations.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2022; previously amended effective January 1, 2007, and January 1, 2016.)

(c) Membership

The committee must include the following:

At least five judicial officers. Nominations for these appointments must be made in accordance with rule 10.32. The list of nominees should enable the Chair of the Judicial Council to appoint a committee with members from courts of varying sizes and locations and that reflects a variety of experience and expertise in different cases types.

- (2) At least one member from each of the following categories:
 - (A) Judicial administrator;

Rule 10.59 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.59 effective July 1, 2005.

Rule 10.60. Tribal Court–State Court Forum

(a) Area of focus

The forum makes recommendations to the council for improving the administration of justice in all proceedings in which the authority to exercise jurisdiction by the state judicial branch and the tribal justice systems overlaps.

(b) Additional duties

In addition to the duties described in rule 10.34, the forum must:

- (1) Identify issues of mutual importance to tribal and state justice systems, including those concerning the working relationship between tribal and state courts in California;

- (2) Make recommendations relating to the recognition and enforcement of court orders that cross jurisdictional lines, the determination of jurisdiction for cases that might appear in either court system, and the sharing of services between jurisdictions;
- (3) Identify, develop, and share with tribal and state courts local rules of court, protocols, standing orders, and other agreements that promote tribal court–state court coordination and cooperation, the use of concurrent jurisdiction, and the transfer of cases between jurisdictions;
- (4) Recommend appropriate activities needed to support local tribal court–state court collaborations; and
- (5) Make proposals to the Governing Committee of the Center for Judicial Education and Research on educational publications and programming for judges and judicial support staff.

(c) Membership

The forum must include the following members:

- (1) Tribal court judges or justices selected by tribes in California, as described in (d), but no more than one tribal court judge or justice from each tribe;
- (2) At least three trial court judges from counties in which a tribal court is located;
- (3) At least one appellate justice of the California Courts of Appeal;
- (4) At least one member from each of the following committees: the Access and Fairness Advisory Committee, Civil and Small Claims Advisory Committee, Criminal Law Advisory Committee, Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee, Governing Committee of the Center for Judicial Education and Research, Probate and Mental Health Advisory Committee, and Traffic Advisory Committee; and
- (5) At least one, but no more than three, California executive branch officials responsible for tribal-related work.

The composition of the forum must have an equal or a close-to-equal number of judges or justices from tribal courts and state courts.

(Subd (c) amended effective February 1, 2018.)

(d) Member Selection

- (1) The Chief Justice appoints all forum members, except tribal court judges and tribal court justices, who are appointed as described in (2).
- (2) For each tribe in California with a tribal court, the tribal leadership will appoint the tribal court judge or justice member to the forum consistent with the following selection and appointment process.
 - (A) The forum cochaurs will notify the tribal leadership of a vacancy for a tribal court judge or justice and request that they submit names of tribal court judges or justices to serve on the forum.
 - (B) A vacancy for a tribal court judge or justice will be filled as it occurs either on the expiration of a member's term or when the member has left the position that qualified the member for the forum.
 - (C) If there are more names of tribal court judges and justices submitted by the tribal leadership than vacancies, then the forum cochaurs will confer and decide which tribal court judges or justices should be appointed. Their decision will be based on the diverse background and experience, as well as the geographic location, of the current membership.

(e) Cochaurs

The Chief Justice appoints a state appellate justice or trial court judge and a tribal court appellate justice or judge to serve as cochaurs, consistent with rule 10.31(c).

Rule 10.60 amended effective February 1, 2018; adopted effective October 25, 2013.

Judicial Council Comment

Tribes are recognized as distinct, independent political nations (see Worcester v. Georgia (1832) 31 U.S. 515, 559, and Santa Clara Pueblo v. Martinez (1978) 436 U.S. 49, 55, citing Worcester), which retain inherent authority to establish their own form of government, including tribal justice systems. (25 U.S.C.A. § 3601(4).) Tribal justice systems are an essential part of tribal governments and serve to ensure the public health and safety and the political integrity of tribal governments. (25 U.S.C.A. § 3601(5).) Traditional tribal justice practices are essential to the maintenance of the culture and identity of tribes. (25 U.S.C.A. § 3601(7).)

The constitutional recognition of tribes as sovereigns in a government-to-government relationship with all other sovereigns is a well-established principle of federal Indian law. (See Cohen's Handbook of Federal Indian Law (2005) p. 207.) In recognition of this sovereignty, the council's oversight of the forum, through an internal committee under rule 10.30(d), is limited to oversight of the forum's work and activities and does not include oversight of any tribe or tribal court.

Rule 10.61. Court Security Advisory Committee

- (2) Appellate court administrator;
- (3) Trial court judge;
- (4) Trial court judicial administrator;
- (5) Member of the Court Facilities Advisory Committee; and
- (6) Member of the Trial Court Facility Modification Advisory Committee.

At least one member of the committee should be from a trial court that uses a marshal for court security services.

Rule 10.61 adopted effective October 25, 2013.

Rule 10.62. Court Facilities Advisory Committee

(a) Area of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the council concerning the judicial branch capital program for the trial and appellate courts.

(b) Membership

The committee must include at least one member from each of the following categories:

- (1) Appellate court justice;
- (2) Appellate court clerk/executive officer;
- (3) Superior court judge;

- (4) Court executive officer;
- (5) Lawyer;
- (6) Local government official or administrator; and
- (7) Public member with expertise in real estate acquisition, construction, architecture, cost estimating, or facilities management and operations.

The committee also includes the chair and vice-chair of the Trial Court Facility Modification Advisory Committee, as non-voting members.

Rule 10.62 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted effective February 20, 2014.

Rule 10.63. Advisory Committee on Audits and Financial Accountability for the Judicial Branch

(a) Purpose of the rule

One of the most important functions of government is to ensure that public funds are properly spent and accounted for. This committee is charged with advising and assisting the council in performing its responsibilities to ensure that the fiscal affairs of the judicial branch are managed efficiently, effectively, and transparently, and in performing its specific responsibilities relating to audits and contracting, as required by law and good public policy.

(Subd (a) adopted effective July 28, 2017.)

(b) Area of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the council on audits and practices that will promote financial accountability and efficiency in the judicial branch.

(Subd (b) amended and relettered effective July 28, 2017; adopted as subd (a).)

(c) Additional duties

In addition to the duties specified in rule 10.34, the committee must:

- (1) Review and approve a yearly audit plan for the judicial branch that will ensure the adequacy and effectiveness of the judicial branch's accounting, financial reporting, compliance, and internal control system; review all audit reports of the judicial branch; recommend council action on audit reports that identify substantial issues; approve all other audit reports and have them posted publicly; and, where appropriate, make recommendations to the council on individual or systemic issues identified in audit reports;

- (2) Advise and assist the council in performing its responsibilities and exercising its authority under Government Code sections 77009 and 77206 and under part 2.5 of the Public Contract Code (commencing with section 19201; the California Judicial Branch Contract Law);
- (3) Review and recommend to the council proposed updates and revisions to the Judicial Branch Contracting Manual; and
- (4) Make recommendations concerning any proposed changes to the annual compensation plan for Judicial Council staff.

(Subd (c) amended and relettered effective July 28, 2017; adopted as subd (b).)

(d) Membership

The committee may include members with experience in public or judicial branch finance and must include at least one member from each of the following categories:

- (1) Justices of the Courts of Appeal;
- (2) Judges of the superior courts;
- (3) Clerk/executive officers of the Courts of Appeal; and
- (4) Court executive officers of the superior courts.

The committee membership must also include at least one nonvoting advisory member who has significant governmental auditing experience.

The California Judges Association will recommend three nominees for a superior court judge position and submit its recommendations to the Executive and Planning Committee of the Judicial Council.

Rule 10.63 amended effective July 28, 2017; adopted effective February 20, 2014.

Advisory Committee Comment

The purpose of the Advisory Committee on Audits and Financial Accountability for the Judicial Branch is to advise and assist the council in performing its constitutional and statutory responsibilities relating to the fiscal affairs of the judicial branch. To improve the administration of the courts, article VI, section 6 of the California Constitution requires the council to survey judicial business and make recommendations. To ensure that the fiscal affairs of the courts are managed efficiently, effectively, and responsibly, Government Code section 77206 authorizes the council to regulate the fiscal management of the courts and provides for audits of the courts and Judicial Council staff by the council, its representatives, and other entities. Government Code section 77009(h) provides that the “Judicial Council or its representatives may perform audits, reviews, and investigations of superior court operations and records wherever they may be located.” The Public Contract Code provides that the council shall publish a Judicial Branch Contracting Manual (Pub. Contract Code, § 19206). It also provides that the California State Auditor, subject to appropriations, shall biennially identify and audit five or more judicial branch entities to assess the implementation of the California Judicial Branch Contract Law (JBCL) (Pub. Contract Code, § 19210(a), (b)) and shall biennially conduct audits of Judicial Council staff to assess the implementation of, and compliance with, the JBCL (Pub. Contract Code, § 19210(c)).

Rule 10.64. Trial Court Budget Advisory Committee

(a) Area of focus

The Trial Court Budget Advisory Committee makes recommendations to the council on the preparation, development, and implementation of the budget for the trial courts and provides input to the council on policy issues affecting trial court funding.

(b) Additional duties

In addition to the duties specified in rule 10.34, the committee may make recommendations to the council on:

- (1) Trial court budget priorities to guide the development of the budget for the upcoming fiscal year;
- (2) The allocation of trial court funding, including any changes to existing methodologies for allocating trial court budget augmentations and reductions; and
- (3) Budget policies and procedures, as appropriate.

(c) Membership

- (1) The advisory committee consists of an equal number of trial court presiding judges and court executive officers reflecting diverse aspects of state trial courts, including urban, suburban, and rural locales; the size and adequacy of budgets; and the number of authorized judgeships. For purposes of this rule, “presiding judge” means a current presiding judge or a judge who has served as a presiding judge within six years of the year of the appointment as a committee member. An existing presiding judge or past presiding judge member is eligible to be reappointed.

- (2) No more than two members may be from the same court.
- (3) The chairs of the Trial Court Presiding Judges Advisory Committee and the Court Executives Advisory Committee serve as ex officio voting members.
- (4) Notwithstanding rule 10.31(e), a presiding judge is qualified to complete his or her term on the advisory committee even if his or her term as presiding judge of a trial court ends.
- (5) The Judicial Council's chief administrative officer and director of Budget Services serve as nonvoting members.

Rule 10.64 amended effective January 1, 2019; adopted effective February 20, 2014; previously amended effective October 28, 2014.

Rule 10.65. Trial Court Facility Modification Advisory Committee

(a) Area of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the council on facilities modifications, maintenance, and operations; environmental services; and utility management.

(b) Additional duties

In addition to the duties specified in rule 10.34, the committee:

- (1) Makes recommendations to the council on policy issues, business practices, and budget monitoring and control for all facility-related matters in existing branch facilities.
- (2) Makes recommendations to the council on funding and takes additional action in accordance with council policy, both for facility modifications and for operations and maintenance.
- (3) Collaborates with the Court Facilities Advisory Committee in the development of the capital program, including providing input to design standards, prioritization of capital projects, and methods to reduce construction cost without impacting long-term operations and maintenance cost.
- (4) Provides quarterly and annual reports on the facilities modification program in accordance with the council policy.

(c) Membership

The committee consists of members from the following categories:

- (1) Trial court judges; and
- (2) Court executive officers.

The committee includes the chair and vice-chair of the Court Facilities Advisory Committee, as nonvoting members.

Rule 10.65 adopted effective January 1, 2015.

Advisory Committee Comment

The Judicial Council policy referred to in the rule is contained in the Trial Court Facility Modifications Policy adopted by the council.

Rule 10.66. Workload Assessment Advisory Committee

(a) Area of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the council on judicial administration standards and measures that provide for the equitable allocation of resources across courts to promote the fair and efficient administration of justice.

(b) Additional duties

In addition to the duties specified in rule 10.34, the committee must recommend:

- (1) Improvements to performance measures and implementation plans and any modifications to the Judicial Workload Assessment and the Resource Assessment Study Model;
- (2) Processes, study design, and methodologies that should be used to measure and report on court administration; and
- (3) Studies and analyses to update and amend case weights through time studies, focus groups, or other methods.

(c) Membership

- (1) The advisory committee consists of an equal number of superior court judicial officers and court executive officers reflecting diverse aspects of state trial courts, including urban, suburban, and rural locales; size and adequacy of resources; number of authorized judgeships; and for judicial officers, diversity of case type experience.

- (2) A judicial officer and court executive officer may be from the same court.

Rule 10.66 adopted effective January 1, 2015.

Rule 10.67. Judicial Branch Workers' Compensation Program Advisory Committee

(a) Area of focus

The committee makes recommendations to the council for improving the statewide administration of the Judicial Branch Workers' Compensation Program and on allocations to and from the Judicial Branch Workers' Compensation Fund established under Government Code section 68114.10.

(b) Additional duties

In addition to the duties specified in rule 10.34, the committee must review:

- (1) The progress of the Judicial Branch Workers' Compensation Program;
- (2) The annual actuarial report; and
- (3) The annual allocation, including any changes to existing methodologies for allocating workers' compensation costs.

(c) Membership

The advisory committee consists of persons from trial courts and state judicial branch entities knowledgeable about workers' compensation matters, including court executive officers, appellate court clerks/executive officers, and human resources professionals.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2018.)

Rule 10.67 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted effective January 1, 2015; previously amended effective July 1, 2016.

Advisory Committee Comment

The Judicial Branch Workers' Compensation Program is administered by the Judicial Council staff under rule 10.350.

Rule 10.70. Task forces, working groups, and other advisory bodies

(a) Established by Chief Justice or Judicial Council

The Chief Justice or the council may establish task forces and other advisory bodies to work on specific projects that cannot be addressed by the council's standing advisory committees. These task forces and other advisory bodies may be required to report to one of the internal committees, as designated in their charges.

(b) Established by Administrative Director

The Administrative Director may establish working groups to work on specific projects identified by the Administrative Director that address areas and topics within the Administrative Director's purview.

(Subd (b) adopted effective July 1, 2015.)

Rule 10.70 amended effective July 1, 2015; adopted as rule 6.70 effective January 1, 1999; previously renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective September 1, 2003 and August 14, 2009.

Chapter 3. Judicial Council Advisory Body Meetings

Rule 10.75. Meetings of advisory bodies

Rule 10.75. Meetings of advisory bodies

(a) Intent

The Judicial Council intends by this rule to supplement and expand on existing rules and procedures providing public access to the council and its advisory bodies. Existing rules and procedures provide for circulation of advisory body proposals regarding rules, forms, standards, and jury instructions for public comment, posting of written reports for the council on the California Courts website (www.courts.ca.gov), public attendance and comment during council meetings, real time audio casts of council meetings, and public posting of council meeting minutes. This rule expands public access to advisory body meetings.

(b) Advisory bodies and chairs

- (1) "Advisory bodies," as used in this rule, means any multimember body created by the Judicial Council to review issues and report to the council. For purposes of this rule, subcommittees that are composed of less than a majority of the members of the advisory body are not advisory bodies. However, standing subcommittees that are charged with addressing a topic as a continuing matter are advisory bodies for purposes of this rule irrespective of their composition.

- (2) “Chair,” as used in this rule, includes a chair’s designee.

(c) Open meetings

(1) Meetings

Advisory body meetings to review issues that the advisory body will report to the Judicial Council are open to the public, except as otherwise provided in this rule. A meeting open to the public includes a budget meeting, which is a meeting or portion of a meeting to discuss a proposed recommendation of the advisory body that the Judicial Council approve an allocation or direct an expenditure of public funds. A majority of advisory body members must not decide a matter included on a posted agenda for an upcoming meeting in advance of the meeting.

(2) Exempt bodies

The meetings of the following advisory bodies and their subcommittees are exempt from the requirements of this rule:

- (A) Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions;
- (B) Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions; and
- (C) Litigation Management Committee.

(3) Rule committees

With the exception of any budget meetings, the meetings of the rule committees listed in this subdivision and of their subcommittees are closed unless the chair concludes that a particular agenda item may be addressed in open session. Any budget meeting must be open to the public.

- (A) Appellate Advisory Committee;
- (B) Civil and Small Claims Advisory Committee;
- (C) Criminal Law Advisory Committee;
- (D) Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee;
- (E) Probate and Mental Health Advisory Committee; and
- (F) Traffic Advisory Committee.

(d) Closed sessions

The chair of an advisory body or an advisory body subcommittee may close a meeting, or portion of a meeting, to discuss any of the following:

- (1) The appointment, qualifications, performance, or health of an individual, or other information that, if discussed in public, would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy;
- (2) Claims, administrative claims, agency investigations, or pending or reasonably anticipated litigation naming, or reasonably anticipated to name, a judicial branch entity or a member, officer, or employee of such an entity;
- (3) Negotiations concerning a contract, a labor issue, or legislation;
- (4) The price and terms of payment for the purchase, sale, exchange, or lease of real property for a judicial branch facility before the property has been acquired or the relevant contracts have been executed;
- (5) Security plans or procedures or other matters that if discussed in public would compromise the safety of the public or of judicial branch officers or personnel or the security of judicial branch facilities or equipment, including electronic data;
- (6) Non-final audit reports or proposed responses to such reports;
- (7) Trade secrets or privileged or confidential commercial and financial information;
- (8) Development, modification, or approval of any licensing or other professional examination or examination procedure;
- (9) Evaluation of individual grant applications; or
- (10) Topics that judicial officers may not discuss in public without risking a violation of the California Code of Judicial Ethics, necessitating recusal, or encouraging disqualification motions or peremptory challenges against them, including proposed legislation, rules, forms, standards of judicial administration, or jury instructions.

(e) Notice of meetings

- (1) Regular meetings

Public notice must be given of the date and agenda of each meeting that is subject to this rule, whether open or closed, at least five business days before the meeting.

(2) Urgent circumstances

A meeting that is subject to this rule may be conducted on 24-hours notice in case of urgent circumstances requiring prompt action. The minutes of such meetings must briefly state the facts creating the urgent circumstances requiring prompt action and the action taken.

(f) Form of notice

- (1) The notice and agenda for a meeting subject to this rule, whether open or closed, must be posted on the California Courts website.
- (2) The notice for meetings subject to this rule must state whether the meeting is open or closed. If a meeting is closed or partially closed, the notice must identify the closed agenda items and the specific subdivision of this rule authorizing the closure.
- (3) For meetings that are open in part or in full, the notice must provide:
 - (A) The telephone number or other electronic means that a member of the public may use to attend the meeting;
 - (B) The time of the meeting, whether the public may attend in person, and, if so, the meeting location; and
 - (C) The e-mail address or other electronic means that the public may use to submit written comments regarding agenda items or requests to make an audio recording of a meeting.

(g) Contents of agenda

The agenda for a meeting subject to this rule, whether open or closed, must contain a brief description of each item to be considered during the meeting. If a meeting is closed or partially closed, the agenda must identify the specific subdivision of this rule authorizing the closure.

(h) Meeting materials

Materials for an open meeting must be posted on the California Courts website at least three business days before the date of the meeting, except in extraordinary circumstances.

(i) Public attendance

The public may attend open sessions of advisory body meetings by telephone or other available electronic means. If the members of an advisory body gather in person at a single location for a meeting, the public may attend in person at that location if the chair concludes security measures permit.

(j) Conduct at meeting

Members of the public who attend open meetings in person must remain orderly. The chair may order the removal of any disorderly person.

(k) Public comment

(1) Written comment

The public may submit written comments for any agenda item of a regularly noticed open meeting up to one complete business day before the meeting.

(2) In-person comment

If security measures permit public attendance at an open in-person advisory body meeting, the meeting must include an opportunity for public comment on each agenda item before the advisory body considers the item. Requests to comment on an agenda item must be submitted before the meeting begins, indicating the speaker's name, the name of the organization that the speaker represents, if any, and the agenda item that the public comment will address. The advisory body chair may grant a request to comment on an agenda item that is received after a meeting has begun.

(3) Reasonable limits and timing

The advisory body chair has discretion to establish reasonable limits on the length of time for each speaker and the total amount of time permitted for public comment. The chair may also decide whether public comments will be heard at the beginning of the meeting or in advance of the agenda items.

(l) Making an audio recording of a meeting

An advisory body chair may permit a member of the public to make an audio recording of an open meeting, or the open portion of a meeting, if a written request is submitted at least two business days before the meeting.

(m) Minutes as official records

Minutes of each meeting subject to this rule, whether open or closed, must be prepared for approval at a future meeting. When approved by the advisory body, the minutes constitute the official record of the meeting. Approved minutes for the open portion of a meeting must be posted on the California Courts website.

(n) Adjourned meetings

An advisory body chair may adjourn a meeting to reconvene at a specified time without issuing a new notice under (e)(1), provided that, if open agenda items remain for discussion, notice of the adjourned meeting is posted on the California Courts website 24 hours before the meeting reconvenes. The notice must identify any remaining open agenda items to be discussed, the time that the meeting will reconvene, the telephone number that the public may use to attend the meeting, and if the public may attend the reconvened meeting in person, the location. The advisory body may not consider new agenda items when the meeting reconvenes except as permitted under (e)(2).

(o) Action by e-mail between meetings

An advisory body may take action by e-mail between meetings in circumstances specified in this subdivision.

(1) Circumstances

An advisory body chair may distribute a proposal by e-mail to all advisory body members for action between meetings if:

- (A) The advisory body discussed and considered the proposal at a previous meeting but concluded additional information was needed; or
- (B) The chair concludes that prompt action is needed.

(2) Notice

If an e-mail proposal concerns a matter that otherwise must be discussed in an open meeting, the advisory body must provide public notice and allow one complete business day for public comment concerning the proposal before acting on the proposal. The notice must be posted on the California Courts website and must provide an e-mail address to which the public may submit written comments. The advisory body may forego public comment if the chair concludes that prompt action is required.

(3) Communications

If an e-mail proposal concerns a matter that otherwise must be discussed in an open meeting, after distribution of the proposal and until the advisory body has acted, advisory body members must restrict their communications with each other about the proposal to e-mail. This restriction only applies to proposals distributed under this subdivision.

(4) Official record

Written minutes describing the action taken on an e-mail proposal that otherwise must be discussed in an open meeting must be prepared for approval at a future meeting. The minutes must attach any public comments received. When approved by the advisory body, the minutes constitute the official record of the proposal. Approved minutes for such a proposal must be posted to the California Courts website. The e-mails exchanged concerning a proposal that otherwise would have been considered in a closed meeting will constitute the official record of the proposal.

(p) Review requirement

The Judicial Council will review the impact of this rule within one year of the rule's adoption and periodically thereafter to determine whether amendments are needed. In conducting its review, the council will consider, among other factors, the public interest in access to meetings of the council's advisory bodies, the obligation of the judiciary to comply with judicial ethics standards, and the public interest in the ability of advisory bodies to effectively assist the Judicial Council by offering policy recommendations and alternatives for improving the administration of justice.

Rule 10.75 adopted effective July 1, 2014.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivisions (a) and (c)(1). This rule expands public access to Judicial Council advisory bodies. The council recognizes the important public interest in access to those meetings and to information regarding administration and governance of the judicial branch. Meetings of the Judicial Council are open, and notice and materials for those meetings are provided to the public, under rules 10.5 and 10.6. Rules in Division 1 of Title 10 describe the council's advisory bodies and require that proposals for rules, standards, forms, and jury instructions be circulated for public comment. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rules 10.10–10.22, 10.30–10.70.) Reports to the council presenting proposals and recommendations are publicly posted on the California Courts website (www.courts.ca.gov). Internal committee chairs report at each council meeting regarding the activities of the internal committees in the period since the last council meeting, and internal committee meeting minutes also are posted on the California Courts website. This rule expands on those existing rules and procedures to increase public access by opening the meetings of advisory bodies to review issues that the advisory body will report to the council. The rule does not apply to meetings that do not involve review of issues to be reported to the council, such as meetings providing education and training of members, discussion of best practices, or sharing of information of general interest unrelated to advice or reports to the council. Those non-advisory matters are outside the scope of this rule.

Subdivision (b)(1). The definition provided in (b)(1) is intended exclusively for this rule and includes internal committees, advisory committees, task forces, and other similar multimember bodies that the council creates to review issues and report to it. (Cf. Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.30(a) [“Judicial Council advisory bodies are typically advisory committees and task forces].)

Subdivisions (c)(2), (c)(3), and (d)(10). The Code of Judicial Ethics governs the conduct of judges and is binding upon them. It establishes high standards of conduct that judges must personally observe, maintain, and enforce at all times to promote and protect public confidence in the integrity and impartiality of the judiciary. (See Code Judicial Ethics, Preamble, canon 1, canon 2A.) Among other things, compliance with these high ethical standards means avoiding conduct that could suggest a judge does not have an open mind in considering issues that may come before the judge. (Id., canon 2A.) Judges also are prohibited from making public comments about a pending or impending proceeding (id., canon 3B(9)), signifying that they may not publicly discuss case law that has not reached final disposition through the appellate process, or pending or anticipated litigation, conduct that would be required to participate in the work covered by the referenced subdivisions. Ethical standards also direct that they hear and decide all matters assigned to them, avoiding extrajudicial duties that would lead to their frequent disqualification. (Id., canons 3B(1), 4A(4).)

The work of the three advisory bodies listed in subdivision (c)(2) exclusively involves discussion of topics that are uniquely difficult or impossible for judges to address while honoring the detailed ethical standards governing the judiciary. For example, as required by rule, the Litigation Management Committee discusses pending or anticipated claims and litigation against judicial officers, courts, and court employees. Jury instruction committees also may discuss decisions or rulings issued in cases that have not reached final resolution through the appellate process. Thus, opening the meetings of these three committees would result in precluding judges, who are specially learned in the law, from meaningful participation on those committees. Subdivision (c)(2) is added to avoid this result.

The work of the six rule committees listed in subdivision (c)(3) almost always will trigger similar issues. Those bodies focus primarily on developing, and providing input concerning, proposed legislation, rules, forms, and standards of judicial administration. That work necessarily entails a complex interchange of views, consideration of multiple perspectives, and the vetting of opposing legal arguments, which judges cannot undertake in public without risk that their comments will be misunderstood or used as a basis for disqualification or challenge. Service on the referenced committees, and public participation in discussing the referenced topics, may make it difficult for a judge to hear and decide all matters assigned to the judge and conceivably could lead to frequent disqualification of the judge, exposing the judge to risk of an ethical violation. This may create significant practical issues for courts related to judicial workloads, while also deterring individuals specially learned in the law from serving on advisory bodies, in turn depriving the public of the benefits of their training and experience in crafting procedures for the effective and efficient administration of justice. Subdivisions (c)(3) and (d)(10) are intended to prevent such deleterious results by clarifying that meetings of the six rule committees whose work almost entirely focuses on these topics ordinarily will be closed and that meetings of other bodies performing similar functions also will be closed as the chairs deem appropriate, with the exception that any budget meetings must be open.

Subdivision (d)(7). Definitions of the terms “trade secret,” “privileged information,” and “confidential commercial and financial information,” are provided in rule 10.500(f)(10).

Subdivision (k)(1). Due to budget constraints, members' schedules, and the geographic diversity of most committees' membership, advisory body meetings typically are held via teleconference or other method not requiring the members' in person attendance. Because judicial officer and attorney members may have limited time for meetings (e.g., only a lunch hour), the volume of advisory body business to be accomplished in those periods may be considerable, and the costs of coordinating teleconferences that would accommodate spoken comments from the public would be significant in the aggregate, the rule only provides for public comment in writing. To ensure sufficient time for advisory body staff to gather and distribute written comments to members, and for members to review comments before the meeting, the rule requires that comments be submitted one complete business day before the meeting.

Chapter 4. Judicial Council staff

Rule 10.80. Administrative Director of the Courts (Administrative Director)

Rule 10.81. Judicial Council staff

Rule 10.80. Administrative Director of the Courts (Administrative Director)

(a) Functions

The Administrative Director, appointed by the Judicial Council under article VI, section 6 of the Constitution, performs those functions prescribed by the Constitution and laws of the state, or delegated to the director by the Judicial Council or the Chief Justice.

(Subd (a) amended effective July 29, 2014; adopted as unlettered subd effective January 1, 1999; previously lettered subd (a) and amended effective August 14, 2009.)

(b) Accountability

The Administrative Director is accountable to the council and the Chief Justice for the performance of the Judicial Council staff. The Administrative Director's charge is to accomplish the council's goals and priorities.

(Subd (b) amended effective July 29, 2014; adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(c) Interpretation of policies

The Administrative Director may use any reasonable interpretation of Judicial Council policies to achieve the council's goals, consistent with the limitations from the council and the Chief Justice.

(d) Responsibilities

In carrying out these duties, the Administrative Director is responsible for allocating the financial and other resources relating to the Judicial Council staff (including, for example, funding the operation of advisory bodies and other activities) to achieve the branch goals and policies adopted by the Judicial Council of California.

(Subd (d) amended effective July 29, 2014; adopted effective August 14, 2009.)

(e) Reports

The Administrative Director reports to the Judicial Council at least once annually on the progress made toward achieving the council's goals. When the council sets the direction on projects or programs that require more than one year to complete, the Administrative Director will report back to the council at regular intervals on their status and significant developments.

Rule 10.80 amended effective July 29, 2014; adopted as rule 6.80 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective August 14, 2009.

Rule 10.81. Judicial Council staff

(a) Establishment

The Administrative Director, under the supervision of the Chief Justice, employs, organizes, and directs a staff that assists the council and its chair in carrying out their duties under the Constitution and laws of the state.

(Subd (a) amended effective July 29, 2014; previously amended effective January 1, 2007, and August 14, 2009.)

(b) References to “Administrative Office of the Courts”

The Judicial Council in the past referred to its staff as the “Administrative Office of the Courts”. The following applies where the term “Administrative Office of the Courts” is used:

(1) Rules of Court

Throughout these rules of court and in all Judicial Council forms, all references to “Administrative Office of the Courts” or “AOC” are deemed to refer to the Judicial Council, the Administrative Director, or the Judicial Council staff, as appropriate.

(2) Other Judicial Council materials and actions

All references to “Administrative Office of the Courts” or “AOC” in any policy, procedure, manual, guideline, publication, or other material issued by the Judicial Council or its staff are deemed to refer to the Judicial Council, the Administrative Director, or the Judicial Council staff, as appropriate. Judicial Council staff will continue to be responsible for any active delegations or directives the Judicial Council made to the Administrative Office of the Court.

(3) Statutes

The Judicial Council, its staff, or the Administrative Director, as appropriate, will continue to perform all functions, duties, responsibilities, and other obligations imposed by statute or regulation on the Administrative Office of the Courts.

(4) Agreements and proceedings

The Judicial Council will continue to perform all duties, responsibilities, functions, or other obligations, and bear all liabilities, and exercise all rights, powers, authorities, benefits, and other privileges attributed to the “Administrative Office of the Courts” or “AOC” arising from contracts, memorandums of understanding, or other legal agreements, documents, proceedings, or transactions. The Judicial Council may be substituted for the “Administrative Office of the Courts” or “AOC” wherever necessary, with no prejudice to the substantive rights of any party.

Rule 10.81 amended effective July 29, 2014; adopted as rule 6.81 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective August 14, 2009.

Advisory Committee Comment

The Judicial Council in 1961 adopted a resolution that named its staff the “Administrative Office of the California Courts.” In 1970, the council adopted a rule of court that renamed its staff the “Administrative Office of the Courts.”

In recent years, the council became aware of recurring confusion about the relationship between the Administrative Office of the Courts and the Judicial Council. There was a common misperception that the Administrative Office of the Courts was a separate entity from the council having independent policymaking authority, when in fact, the members of the Judicial Council set policy, and staff, by whatever name, support the work of the council under the members’ direction and oversight. The confusion about the role of the Administrative Office of the Courts impeded the council’s ability to advance the interests of the judicial branch.

To allow the council to better achieve its mission, it decided in 2014 to retire the name “Administrative Office of the Courts.” This adjustment underscored the unity of identity of the Judicial Council and its staff, and clarified that there has always been only a single entity. The retirement conformed the Judicial Council’s practice with that of other state government entities, which do not assign a separate name to their staffs.

The 2014 amendments to this rule are intended to implement the retirement of the name “Administrative Office of the Courts” and clarify that in retiring the name no substantive legal change has occurred. The Judicial Council and its staff will continue to discharge any legal obligations and duties they may have, regardless of the discontinuance of the use of the name “Administrative Office of the Courts.”

Division 2. Administration of the Judicial Branch

Chapter 1. Budget and Fiscal Management

Rule 10.101. Role of the Judicial Council

Rule 10.102. Acceptance of gifts

Rule 10.103. Limitation on intrabranch contracting

Rule 10.104. Limitation on contracting with former employees

Rule 10.105. Allocation of new fee, fine, and forfeiture revenue

Rule 10.106. Judicial branch travel expense reimbursement policy

Rule 10.107. Trial Court Budget Working Group [Repealed]

Rule 10.101. Role of the Judicial Council

(a) Purpose

This rule specifies the responsibilities of the Judicial Council, the Chief Justice, the Administrative Director, and council staff with respect to the judicial branch budget.

(Subd (a) amended effective July 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2005, January 1, 2007, and August 14, 2009.)

(b) Duties of the Judicial Council

The Judicial Council must:

- (1) Establish responsible fiscal priorities that best enable the judicial branch to achieve its goals and the Judicial Council to achieve its mission;
- (2) Develop policies and procedures for the creation and implementation of a yearly budget for the judicial branch;

- (3) Develop the budget of the judicial branch based on the priorities established and the needs of the courts;
- (4) Communicate and advocate the budget of the judicial branch to the Governor and the Legislature;
- (5) Allocate funds in a manner that ensures equal access to justice for all citizens of the state, ensures the ability of the courts to carry out their functions effectively, promotes implementation of statewide policies as established by statute and the Judicial Council, and promotes implementation of efficiencies and cost-saving measures;
- (6) Resolve appeals on budget and allocation issues; and
- (7) Ensure that the budget of the judicial branch remains within the limits of the appropriation set by the Legislature.

(Subd (b) amended effective July 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2007 and August 14, 2009.)

(c) Authority of the Chief Justice and Administrative Director

- (1) The Chief Justice and the Administrative Director may take the following actions, on behalf of the Judicial Council, with regard to any of the Judicial Council's recommended budgets for the Supreme Court, the Courts of Appeal, the trial courts, the Judicial Council, the Habeas Corpus Resource Center, and council staff:
 - (A) Make technical changes to the proposed budget; and
 - (B) Make changes during their negotiations with the legislative and executive branches consistent with the goals and priorities adopted by the Judicial Council.
- (2) The Chief Justice, on behalf of the Judicial Council, may allocate funding appropriated in the annual State Budget to the Supreme Court, the Courts of Appeal, the Judicial Council, the Habeas Corpus Resource Center, and council staff.
- (3) After the end of each fiscal year, the Administrative Director must report to the Judicial Council on the actual expenditures from the budgets for the Supreme Court, the Courts of Appeal, the trial courts, the Judicial Council, the Habeas Corpus Resource Center, and council staff.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 1, 2015; adopted effective January 1, 2005; previously amended effective August 14, 2009.)

(d) Duties of the Administrative Director

The Administrative Director implements the directives of the Judicial Council and must:

- (1) Present the judicial branch budget in negotiations with the Governor and the Legislature; and
- (2) Allocate to the trial courts, on behalf of the Judicial Council, a portion of the prior fiscal year baseline allocation for the trial courts following approval of the State Budget and before the allocation of state trial court funding by the Judicial Council. The portion of the prior fiscal year baseline allocation that may be so allocated is limited to the amount estimated to be necessary for the operation of the courts pending action by the Judicial Council, and may not exceed 25 percent of the prior fiscal year baseline allocation for each trial court.

(Subd (d) amended effective July 1, 2015; adopted as subd (c); previously relettered effective January 1, 2005; previously amended effective January 1, 2001, January 1, 2007, and August 14, 2009.)

(e) Duties of the director of Finance

The director of Finance for the Judicial Council, under the direction of the Administrative Director, administers the budget policies and procedures developed and approved by the Judicial Council. The director of Finance must:

- (1) Develop and administer a budget preparation process for the judicial branch, and ensure the submission of a final budget recommendation for the judicial branch to the Department of Finance by November 1 of each year;
- (2) Develop, in consultation with the State Controller's Office and the Department of Finance, a manual of procedures for the budget request process, revenues, expenditures, allocations, and payments;
- (3) Monitor all revenues and expenditures for the judicial branch;
- (4) Develop recommendations for fiscal priorities and the allocation and reallocation of funds; and
- (5) Assist all courts and the Administrative Director in preparing and managing budgets.

(Subd (e) amended effective July 1, 2015; adopted as subd (d); previously relettered effective January 1, 2005; previously amended effective January 1, 2007 and August 14, 2009.)

Rule 10.101 amended effective July 1, 2015; adopted as rule 2301 effective July 1, 1998; renumbered as rule 6.101 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2001, January 1, 2005, and August 14, 2009.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (c)(1)(A). Examples of technical changes to the budget include calculation of fiscal need, translation of an approved concept to final fiscal need, and simple non-policy-related baseline adjustments such as health and retirement benefits, Pro Rata, and the Statewide Cost Allocation Plan.

Rule 10.102. Acceptance of gifts

(a) Administrative Director's authority to accept gifts

The Administrative Director may accept on behalf of any entity listed in (b) any gift of real or personal property if the gift and any terms and conditions are found to be in the best interest of the state. Any applicable standards used by the Director of Finance under Government Code section 11005.1 may be considered in accepting gifts.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as unlettered subd; previously amended and lettered as subd (a) effective January 1, 2004; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Delegation of authority

The Administrative Director may delegate the authority to accept gifts to the following, under any guidelines established by the Administrative Director:

- (1) The executive officer of a superior court, for gifts to the superior court;
- (2) The clerk/executive officer of a Court of Appeal, for gifts to that Court of Appeal;
- (3) The clerk/executive officer of the Supreme Court, for gifts to the Supreme Court; and
- (4) The Judicial Council's director of Finance, for gifts to the Judicial Council.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted effective January 1, 2004; previously amended effective January 1, 2007, and January 1, 2016.)

Rule 10.102 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted as rule 989.7 effective September 13, 1991; previously amended and renumbered as rule 6.102 effective January 1, 2004, and as rule 10.102 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2016.

Rule 10.103. Limitation on intrabranch contracting

(a) Definitions

For purposes of this rule, “judicial branch entity” includes a trial court, a Court of Appeal, the Supreme Court, and the Judicial Council.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(b) Application

This rule is not applicable to:

- (1) Part-time commissioners, with respect to services as a commissioner;
- (2) Part-time court interpreters who are not subject to the cross-assignment system under Government Code section 71810, with respect to interpreter services provided to a court; and
- (3) Court reporters, with respect to reporter services provided to a court.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Intrabranch limitations

An employee of a judicial branch entity must not:

- (1) Engage in any employment, enterprise, or other activity from which he or she receives compensation or in which he or she has a financial interest and that is sponsored or funded by any judicial branch entity through or by a contract for goods or services for which compensation is paid, unless the activity is required as a condition of his or her regular judicial branch employment; or
- (2) Contract with any judicial branch entity, on his or her own behalf, to provide goods or services for which compensation is paid.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Multiple employment

This rule does not prohibit any person from being employed by more than one judicial branch entity.

Rule 10.103 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.103 effective January 1, 2004; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.103 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.104. Limitation on contracting with former employees

(a) Trial and appellate court contracts with former employees

A trial or appellate court may not enter into a contract for goods or services for which compensation is paid with a person previously employed by that court or by the Judicial Council:

- (1) For a period of 12 months following the date of the former employee's retirement, dismissal, or separation from service, if he or she was employed in a policymaking position in the same general subject area as the proposed contract within the 12-month period before his or her retirement, dismissal, or separation; or
- (2) For a period of 24 months following the date of the former employee's retirement, dismissal, or separation from service, if he or she engaged in any of the negotiations, transactions, planning, arrangements, or any part of the decision-making process relevant to the contract while employed in any capacity by the court or the Judicial Council.

(b) Judicial Council contracts with former employees

The Judicial Council may not enter into a contract for goods or services for which compensation is paid with a person previously employed by it:

- (1) For a period of 12 months following the date of the former employee's retirement, dismissal, or separation from service, if he or she was employed in a policymaking position at the Judicial Council in the same general subject area as the proposed contract within the 12-month period before his or her retirement, dismissal, or separation; or
- (2) For a period of 24 months following the date of the former employee's retirement, dismissal, or separation from service, if he or she engaged in any of the negotiations, transactions, planning, arrangements, or any part of the decision-making process relevant to the contract while employed in any capacity by the Judicial Council.

(c) Policymaking position

"Policymaking position" includes:

- (1) In a trial court, the court's executive officer and any other position designated by the court as a policymaking position;
- (2) In an appellate court, the clerk/executive officer and any other position designated by the court as a policymaking position; and
- (3) In the Judicial Council, the Administrative Director, Chief of Staff, Chief Operating Officer, Chief Administrative Officer, any director, and any other position designated by the Administrative Director as a policymaking position.

(d) Scope

This rule does not prohibit any court or the Judicial Council from (1) employing any person or (2) contracting with any former judge or justice.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

Rule 10.104 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted as rule 6.104 effective January 1, 2004; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.104 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2016.

Rule 10.105. Allocation of new fee, fine, and forfeiture revenue

(a) Allocation

The Judicial Council must annually allocate 80 percent of the amount of fee, fine, and forfeiture revenue deposited in the Trial Court Improvement Fund under Government Code section 77205(a) that exceeds the amount of fee, fine, and forfeiture revenue deposited in the Trial Court Improvement Fund in fiscal year 2002–2003 to one or more of the following:

- (1) To the trial courts in the counties from which the increased amount is attributable;
- (2) To other trial courts to support trial court operations; or
- (3) For retention in the Trial Court Improvement Fund.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Methodology

The Judicial Council staff must recommend a methodology for the allocation and must recommend an allocation based on this methodology. On approval of a methodology by the Judicial Council, Judicial Council staff must issue a Finance Memo stating the methodology adopted by the Judicial Council.

Rule 10.105 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.105 effective December 10, 2004; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.105 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.106. Judicial branch travel expense reimbursement policy

(a) Adoption

The Judicial Council must adopt a fiscally responsible judicial branch travel expense reimbursement policy, under Government Code section 68506.5, that provides appropriate accountability for the use of public resources. Before adopting the initial policy, the Judicial Council must receive comments from the courts, court employee organizations, and other interested groups.

(b) Applicability

The judicial branch travel expense reimbursement policy applies to official state business travel by:

- (1) Judicial officers and judicial officers sitting by assignment;
- (2) Officers, employees, retired annuitants, and members of the Supreme Court, the Courts of Appeal, superior courts, the Judicial Council and its staff, the Habeas Corpus Resource Center, and the Commission on Judicial Performance; and
- (3) Members of task forces, working groups, commissions, or similar bodies appointed by the Chief Justice, the Judicial Council, or the Administrative Director.

(c) Amendments

The Judicial Council delegates to the Administrative Director, under article VI, section 6(c) of the California Constitution and other applicable law, the authority to make technical changes and clarifications to the judicial branch travel expense reimbursement policy. The changes and clarifications must be fiscally responsible, provide for appropriate accountability, and be in general compliance with the policy initially adopted by the Judicial Council.

Rule 10.106 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective July 1, 2008.

Rule 10.107. Trial Court Budget Working Group [Repealed]

Rule 10.107 repealed effective January 1, 2015; repealed and adopted as rule 6.45 effective January 1, 2005; previously renumbered as rule 10.45 effective January 1, 2007, and as rule 10.107 effective August 14, 2009.

Chapter 2. Court Security

Rule 10.172. Court security plans

Rule 10.173. Court security committees

Rule 10.174. Petition Regarding Disputes Related to Court Security Memoranda of Understanding

Rule 10.172. Court security plans

(a) Responsibility

The presiding judge and the sheriff or marshal are responsible for developing an annual or multiyear comprehensive, countywide court security plan.

(b) Scope of security plan

- (1) Each court security plan must, at a minimum, address the following general security subject areas:
 - (A) Composition and role of court security committees;
 - (B) Composition and role of executive team;
 - (C) Incident command system;
 - (D) Self-assessments and audits of court security;
 - (E) Mail handling security;
 - (F) Identification cards and access control;
 - (G) Courthouse landscaping security plan;
 - (H) Parking plan security;

- (I) Interior and exterior lighting plan security;
 - (J) Intrusion and panic alarm systems;
 - (K) Fire detection and equipment;
 - (L) Emergency and auxiliary power;
 - (M) Use of private security contractors;
 - (N) Use of court attendants and employees;
 - (O) Administrative/clerk's office security;
 - (P) Jury personnel and jury room security;
 - (Q) Security for public demonstrations;
 - (R) Vital records storage security;
 - (S) Evacuation planning;
 - (T) Security for after-hours operations;
 - (U) Custodial services;
 - (V) Computer and data security;
 - (W) Workplace violence prevention; and
 - (X) Public access to court proceedings.
- (2) Each court security plan must, at a minimum, address the following law enforcement subject areas:
- (A) Security personnel and staffing;
 - (B) Perimeter and entry screening;
 - (C) Prisoner and inmate transport;
 - (D) Holding cells;
 - (E) Interior and public waiting area security;
 - (F) Courtroom security;

- (G) Jury trial procedures;
- (H) High-profile and high-risk trial security;
- (I) Judicial protection;
- (J) Incident reporting and recording;
- (K) Security personnel training;
- (L) Courthouse security communication;
- (M) Hostage, escape, lockdown, and active shooter procedures;
- (N) Firearms policies and procedures; and
- (O) Restraint of defendants.

(3) Each court security plan should address additional security issues as needed.

(c) Court security assessment and assessment report

At least once every two years, the presiding judge and the sheriff or marshal are responsible for conducting an assessment of security with respect to all court operations. The assessment must include a comprehensive review of the court's physical security profile and security protocols and procedures. The assessment should identify security weaknesses, resource deficiencies, compliance with the court security plan, and any need for changes to the court security plan. The assessment must be summarized in a written assessment report.

(d) Submission of court a plan to the Judicial Council

On or before November 1, 2009, each superior court must submit a court security plan to the Judicial Council. On or before February 1, 2011, and each succeeding February 1, each superior court must give notice to the Judicial Council whether it has made any changes to the court security plan and, if so, identify each change made and provide copies of the current court security plan and current assessment report. In preparing any submission, a court may request technical assistance from Judicial Council staff.

(e) Plan review process

Judicial Council staff will evaluate for completeness submissions identified in (d). Annually, the submissions and evaluations will be provided to the Court Security

Advisory Committee. Any submissions determined by the advisory committee to be incomplete or deficient must be returned to the submitting court for correction and completion.

(f) Delegation

The presiding judge may delegate any of the specific duties listed in this rule to another judge or, if the duty does not require the exercise of judicial authority, to the court executive officer or other court employee. The presiding judge remains responsible for all duties listed in this rule even if he or she has delegated particular tasks to someone else.

Rule 10.172 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2009.

Advisory Committee Comment

This rule is adopted to comply with the mandate in Government Code section 69925, which requires the Judicial Council to provide for the areas to be addressed in a court security plan and to establish a process for the review of such plans.

Rule 10.173. Court security committees

(a) Establishment

Each superior court must establish a standing court security committee.

(b) Role of the court security committee

The court security committee and any subcommittees advise the presiding judge and sheriff or marshal on the preparation of court security plans and on the formulation and implementation of all other policies and procedures related to security for court operations and security for facilities where the court conducts its operations. The presiding judge and sheriff or marshal may delegate to a court security committee or subcommittee the responsibility for conducting the court security assessment and preparing the assessment report.

(c) Members

- (1) The court security committee must be chaired by the presiding judge or a judge designated by the presiding judge.
- (2) In addition to the chair, each court security committee must include at least one representative designated by the sheriff or marshal and either the court executive officer or other court administrator as designated by the presiding judge.

- (3) The chair may appoint additional members as appropriate. Additional members may include representatives from other government agencies, including:
 - (A) The facilities management office of the government entity, or entities, that hold title to or are responsible for the facilities where the court conducts its operations;
 - (B) Local fire protection agencies;
 - (C) Agencies that occupy portions of a court facility; and
 - (D) Agencies other than the sheriff that manage local corrections or state prison facilities.

(d) Facility contact person

In those courts having more than one court facility, the chair of the court security committee must designate for each facility a single contact person to coordinate activities in the event of an emergency and to collaborate with the court security committee, at its request.

(e) Subcommittees

The chair of the court security committee may form subcommittees if appropriate, including a subcommittee for each court facility. The chair must determine the composition of each subcommittee based on the individual court's circumstances.

Rule 10.173 adopted effective January 1, 2009.

Rule 10.174. Petition Regarding Disputes Related to Court Security Memoranda of Understanding

(a) Application

This rule applies to petitions filed under Government Code section 69926(e).

(b) Request for assignment of Court of Appeal justice

- (1) If a sheriff, county, or superior court is unable to resolve a dispute related to the memorandum of understanding required by Government Code section 69926(b), the sheriff, county, or superior court may file a petition for a writ of mandamus or writ of prohibition.
- (2) On the first page, below the case number, the petition must include the following language in the statement of the character of the proceeding (see rule 2.111(6)): “Petition filed under Government Code section 69926(e): Assignment of Court of Appeal justice requested.”

- (3) On receipt of a petition, the superior court clerk must submit a request to the Chief Justice asking that he or she assign a Court of Appeal justice from an appellate district other than the one in which the county, the superior court, and the sheriff are located to hear and decide the petition.

(c) Superior court hearing

A petition filed under this rule must be heard and decided on an expedited basis and must be given priority over other matters to the extent permitted by law and the rules of court.

(d) Appeal

- (1) Any notice of appeal of a decision under (c) must be filed in the same superior court in which the petition was initially filed and must include on the first page the following language, below the case number, in the statement of the character of the proceeding (see rule 2.111(6)): “Notice of Appeal Relating to Petition filed under Government Code section 69926(e): Transfer Requested.”
- (2) On receipt of the notice of appeal, the Court of Appeal must request that the Supreme Court transfer the appeal to an appellate district other than the one in which the county, the superior court, and the sheriff are located.

Rule 10.174 adopted effective November 1, 2012.

Chapter 3. Court Facilities

Rule 10.180. Court facilities standards

Rule 10.181. Court facilities policies, procedures, and standards

Rule 10.182. Operation and maintenance of court facilities

Rule 10.183. Decision making on transfer of responsibility for trial court facilities

Rule 10.184. Acquisition, space programming, construction, and design of court facilities

Rule 10.180. Court facilities standards

(a) Development of standards

Judicial Council staff is responsible for developing and maintaining standards for the alteration, remodeling, renovation, and expansion of existing court facilities and for the construction of new court facilities.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective April 21, 2006.)

(b) Adoption by the Judicial Council

The standards developed by Judicial Council staff must be submitted to the Judicial Council for review and adoption as the standards to be used for court facilities in the state. Nonsubstantive changes to the standards may be made by the Judicial Council staff; substantive changes must be submitted to the Judicial Council for review and adoption.

(c) Use of standards

The Judicial Council and its staff, affected courts, and advisory groups on court facilities issues created under these rules must use the standards adopted under (b) in reviewing or recommending proposed alteration, remodeling, renovation, or expansion of an existing court facility or new construction. Courts and advisory groups must report deviations from the standards to Judicial Council staff through a process established for that purpose.

Rule 10.180 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.150 effective July 1, 2002; previously amended effective June 23, 2004, and April 21, 2006; previously renumbered as rule 10.180 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.181. Court facilities policies, procedures, and standards

(a) Responsibilities of Judicial Council staff

Judicial Council staff, after consultation with the Court Facilities Transitional Task Force, must prepare and present to the Judicial Council recommendations for policies, procedures, and standards concerning the operation, maintenance, alteration, remodeling, renovation, expansion, acquisition, space programming, design, and construction of appellate and trial court facilities under Government Code sections 69204(c) and 70391(e).

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as part of unlettered subd; previously amended and lettered as subd (a) effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Consultations with the affected court and with local governmental and community interests

The policies, procedures, and standards must ensure that decisions are made in consultation with the affected court, when appropriate, and that decisions concerning acquisition, design, and construction of court facilities are made in consultation with local governmental and community interests, when appropriate.

Rule 10.181 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.180 effective June 23, 2004; previously amended effective April 21, 2006; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.181 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.182. Operation and maintenance of court facilities

(a) Intent

The intent of this rule is to allocate responsibility and decision making for the operation and maintenance of court facilities among the courts and Judicial Council staff.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(b) Responsibilities of Judicial Council staff

- (1) In addition to those matters expressly authorized by statute, Judicial Council staff are responsible for:
 - (A) Taking action on the operation of court facilities, including the day-to-day operation of a building and maintenance of a facility. Judicial Council staff must, in cooperation with the court, perform its responsibilities concerning operation of the court facility to effectively and efficiently support the day-to-day operation of the court system and services of the court. These actions include maintaining proper heating, ventilation, and air conditioning levels; providing functional electrical, fire safety, vertical transportation, mechanical, and plumbing systems through preventive maintenance and responsive repairs; and maintaining structural, nonstructural, security, and telecommunications infrastructures.
 - (B) Preparing and submitting budget allocation proposals to the Judicial Council, as part of the yearly judicial branch budget development cycle, specifying the amounts to be spent for the operation of court facilities as provided in (A).
 - (C) Developing policies, procedures, and guidelines concerning court facilities for submission to the Judicial Council.

- (2) Judicial Council staff must consult with affected courts concerning the annual operations and maintenance needs assessment, development of annual priorities, and fiscal planning for the operational and maintenance needs of court facilities.
- (3) Judicial Council staff may, when appropriate, delegate its responsibilities for ongoing operation and management to the court for some or all of the existing court facilities used by that court. Any delegation of responsibility must ensure that:
 - (A) The management of court facilities is consistent with the statewide goals and policies of the judicial branch;
 - (B) Access to all court facilities in California is promoted;
 - (C) Facilities decisions are made with consideration of operational costs and enhance economical, efficient, and effective court operations; and
 - (D) Courts have adequate and sufficient facilities and appropriate resources to undertake these delegated tasks.
- (4) Judicial Council staff must, whenever feasible, seek review and recommendations from the Court Facilities Transitional Task Force, before recommending action on appellate and trial court facilities issues to the Judicial Council.

(c) Responsibilities of the courts

- (1) The affected courts must consult with Judicial Council staff concerning the annual operations and maintenance needs assessment, development of annual priorities, and fiscal planning for the operational and maintenance needs of court facilities, including contingency planning for unforeseen facility maintenance needs.
- (2) Each court to which responsibility is delegated under (b)(3) must report to Judicial Council staff quarterly or more often, as provided in the delegation. The report must include the activities and expenditures related to the delegation that are specified for reporting in the delegation. Each court must also account to Judicial Council staff for all expenditures related to the delegation. Judicial Council staff may conduct an internal audit of any receipts and expenditures.

Rule 10.182 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.181 effective June 23, 2004; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.182 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.183. Decision making on transfer of responsibility for trial court facilities

(a) Intent

The intent of this rule is to allocate among the Judicial Council, the trial courts, and Judicial Council staff, responsibility and decision making for the transfer of responsibility for trial court facilities from the counties to the Judicial Council.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(b) Definitions

As used in this rule, the following terms have the same meaning as provided by Government Code section 70301:

- (1) “Court facilities”;
- (2) “Maintenance”;
- (3) “Responsibility for facilities”; and
- (4) “Shared use.”

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Responsibilities of the Judicial Council and the Executive and Planning Committee

The Judicial Council must determine the following issues concerning transfer of responsibility of court facilities, except in the case of a need for urgent action between meetings of the council, in which case the Executive and Planning Committee is authorized to act under rule 10.11(d).

- (1) Rejection of transfer of responsibility for a building under Government Code section 70326; and
- (2) A decision to dispose of a surplus court facility under Government Code section 70391(c).

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Responsibilities of Judicial Council staff

Judicial Council staff are responsible for the following matters related to transfer of responsibility for court facilities, in addition to matters expressly authorized by statute:

- (1) Keeping the courts informed and involved, as appropriate, in the negotiations with the counties for transfer of responsibility for court facilities;
- (2) Except as provided in (c)(1), approving an agreement transferring responsibility for a court facility to the state;
- (3) Administering a shared-use court facility, including:
 - (A) Making a decision to displace a minority county tenant under Government Code section 70344(b);
 - (B) Seeking a change in the amount of court space under Government Code section 70342; and
 - (C) Responding to a county seeking a change in the amount of county space under Government Code section 70342; and
- (4) Auditing the collection of fees by trial courts under Government Code section 70391(d)(1) and the money in local courthouse construction funds under Government Code section 70391(d)(2).

(e) Appeal of county facilities payment amount

The Administrative Director must obtain the approval of the Executive and Planning Committee before pursuing correction of a county facilities payment amount under Government Code section 70367. This provision does not preclude the Administrative Director from submitting a declaration as required by Government Code section 70367(a). The Administrative Director must report to the Executive and Planning Committee any decision not to appeal a county facilities payment amount.

Rule 10.183 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.182 effective June 23, 2004; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.183 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.184. Acquisition, space programming, construction, and design of court facilities

(a) Intent

The intent of this rule is to allocate responsibility and decision making for acquisition, space programming, construction, and design of court facilities among the courts, the Judicial Council, and its staff.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(b) Responsibilities of Judicial Council staff

- (1) In addition to those matters expressly provided by statute, Judicial Council staff are responsible for the acquisition, space programming, construction, and design of a court facility, consistent with the facilities policies and procedures adopted by the Judicial Council and the California Rules of Court.
- (2) Judicial Council staff must prepare and submit to the Judicial Council separate annual capital outlay proposals for the appellate courts and the trial courts, as part of the yearly judicial branch budget development cycle, specifying the amounts to be spent for these purposes. The capital outlay proposal for the trial courts must specify the money that is proposed to be spent from the State Court Facilities Construction Fund and from other sources. The annual capital outlay proposals must be consistent with the Five-Year Capital Infrastructure Plan or must recommend appropriate changes in the Five-Year Capital Infrastructure Plan. Judicial Council staff must, whenever feasible, seek review and recommendations from the Court Facilities Transitional Task Force before recommending action to the Judicial Council on these issues.
- (3) Judicial Council staff must consult with the affected courts concerning the annual capital needs of the courts.

(c) Responsibilities of the courts

- (1) Affected courts must consult with Judicial Council staff concerning the courts' annual capital needs.
- (2) An affected court must work with the advisory group that is established for any court construction or major renovation project.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(d) Advisory group for construction projects

Judicial Council staff, in consultation with the leadership of the affected court, must establish and work with an advisory group for each court construction or major renovation project. The advisory group consists of court judicial officers, other court personnel, and others affected by the court facility. The advisory group must work with Judicial Council staff on issues involved in the construction or renovation, from the selection of a space programmer and architect through occupancy of the facility.

Rule 10.184 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.183 effective June 23, 2004; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.184 effective January 1, 2007.

Chapter 4. Management of Claims and Litigation

Rule 10.201. Claim and litigation procedure

Rule 10.202. Claims and litigation management

Rule 10.203. Contractual indemnification

Rule 10.201. Claim and litigation procedure

(a) Definitions

As used in this chapter:

- (1) “Judicial branch entity” is as defined in Government Code section 900.3;
- (2) “Judge” means a judge or justice of a judicial branch entity;
- (3) “Legal Services” means the Judicial Council’s Legal Services office; and
- (4) “Litigation Management Committee” means the Litigation Management Committee of the Judicial Council.

(b) Procedure for action on claims

To carry out the Judicial Council’s responsibility under Government Code section 912.7 to act on a claim, claim amendment, or application for leave to present a late claim against a judicial branch entity or a judge, Legal Services, under the direction of the Administrative Director, must:

- (1) On receipt of a claim, claim amendment, or application for leave to present a late claim forwarded by a judicial branch entity, promptly consult with a representative of that entity about the merits of the claim, claim amendment, or application for leave to present a late claim;

- (2) Grant or deny an application for leave to present a late claim under Government Code section 911.6(b);
- (3) If determined by Legal Services to be appropriate, refer a claim or claim amendment for further investigation to a claims adjuster or other investigator under contract with the Judicial Council;
- (4) Reject a claim if it is not a proper charge against the judicial branch entity or judge;
- (5) Allow a claim in the amount justly due as determined by Legal Services if it is a proper charge against the judicial branch entity and the amount is less than $100,000; and
- (6) Make recommendations to the Litigation Management Committee regarding proposed settlements of claims requiring payments of $100,000 or more.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007 and December 9, 2008.)

(c) Allowance and payment of claims

The following may allow and authorize payment of any claim arising out of the activities of a judicial branch entity or judge:

- (1) Legal Services, under the direction of the Administrative Director, if the payment is less than $100,000; or
- (2) The Litigation Management Committee, for any claim.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective December 9, 2008.)

(d) Settlement of lawsuits and payment of judgments

The following may settle lawsuits, after consultation with the affected entity and any judge or employee being defended by the Judicial Council, and authorize payment of judgments arising out of the activities of a judicial branch entity or judge:

- (1) Legal Services, under the direction of the Administrative Director, if the payment is less than $100,000 and the lawsuit does not raise issues of significance to the judicial branch; or
- (2) The Litigation Management Committee, for any settlement or judgment.

Rule 10.201 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.201 effective January 1, 2003; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.201 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective December 9, 2008.

Rule 10.202. Claims and litigation management

(a) Intent

The intent of this rule is to:

- (1) Ensure that the trial and appellate courts are provided with timely, quality legal assistance; and
- (2) Promote the cost-effective, prompt, and fair resolution of actions, proceedings, and claims that affect the trial and appellate courts and involve justices of the Courts of Appeal or the Supreme Court, trial court judges, subordinate judicial officers, court executive officers or administrators, or employees of the trial and appellate courts.

(b) Duties of Legal Services

To carry out the duty of the Judicial Council to provide for the representation, defense, and indemnification of justices of the Courts of Appeal or the Supreme Court, judges, subordinate judicial officers, court executive officers and administrators, and trial and appellate court employees under part 1 (commencing with section 810) to part 7 (commencing with section 995), inclusive, of the Government Code, Legal Services, under the direction of the Administrative Director and the Chief Counsel, must:

- (1) Develop, manage, and administer a litigation management program for investigating and resolving all claims and lawsuits affecting the trial and appellate courts;
- (2) Provide legal assistance to the trial or appellate court, and to any justice, judge, subordinate judicial officer, court executive officer or administrator, and trial or appellate court employee who is named as a defendant or responsible party, subject to the defense and indemnification provisions of part 1 (commencing with section 810) to part 7 (commencing with section 995), inclusive, of the Government Code, on receipt of notice of a claim or lawsuit affecting the trial or appellate court or of a dispute that is likely to result in a claim or lawsuit;

- (3) Select and direct any counsel retained to represent any trial or appellate court, justice, judge, subordinate judicial officer, court executive officer or administrator, and trial or appellate court employee being provided legal representation under (2), after consultation with the trial or appellate court and any such individual defendant;
- (4) Make settlement decisions in all claims and lawsuits other than those identified in (5), after consultation with the affected trial or appellate court, and any justice, judge, subordinate judicial officer, court executive officer or administrator, and trial or appellate court employee being provided legal representation under (2);
- (5) Make recommendations to the Litigation Management Committee regarding proposed settlements of claims or lawsuits requiring payments of $100,000 or more or raising issues of significance to the judicial branch;
- (6) Develop and implement risk avoidance programs for the trial and appellate courts;
- (7) Provide an annual report to the Litigation Management Committee concerning the litigation management program; and
- (8) Provide an annual report to each trial and appellate court concerning claims and lawsuits filed against that trial or appellate court.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective July 1, 2002, January 1, 2003; January 1, 2007, and December 9, 2008.)

(c) Duties of trial and appellate courts

The trial and appellate courts must:

- (1) Notify Legal Services promptly on receipt of notice of a dispute that is likely to result in a claim or lawsuit, or of a claim or lawsuit filed, against the court, a justice, a judge or subordinate judicial officer, a court executive officer or administrator, or a court employee, and forward the claim and lawsuit to Legal Services for handling; and
- (2) Consult with Legal Services regarding strategic and settlement decisions in claims and lawsuits.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective July 1, 2002, January 1, 2003, and January 1, 2007.)

(d) Disagreements about major strategic decisions

Following consultation with Legal Services, a presiding judge or administrative presiding justice may object to a proposed decision of Legal Services about major strategic decisions, such as retention of counsel and proposed settlements, by presenting to Legal Services a written statement of the objection. Legal Services must present the written objection to the Litigation Management Committee, which will resolve the objection.

Rule 10.202 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.800 effective January 1, 2001; previously renumbered as rule 6.202 effective January 1, 2003; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.202 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective July 1, 2002, and December 9, 2008.

Rule 10.203. Contractual indemnification

(a) Intent

The intent of this rule is to facilitate the use of contractual indemnities that allocate legal risk and liability to parties that contract with a superior court or Court of Appeal, the Supreme Court, or the Judicial Council (a “judicial branch entity” as defined in Gov. Code, § 900.3).

(b) Defense and indemnification provisions

Notwithstanding rule 10.14, 10.201, or 10.202, a judicial branch entity may enter into a contract that requires the contractor or the contractor’s insurer to indemnify, defend, and hold harmless the entity and its officers, agents, and employees against claims, demands, liability, damages, attorney fees, costs, expenses, or losses arising from the performance of the contract. Upon receipt of notice of a claim or lawsuit that may be subject to contractual indemnities, the judicial branch entity must notify Legal Services, which will manage the claim or lawsuit to obtain the benefits of the contractual indemnities to the extent consistent with the interests of the public and the judicial branch.

Rule 10.203 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.203 effective October 15, 2003; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.203 effective January 1, 2007.

Chapter 5. Management of Human Resources

Title 10, Judicial Administration Rules—Division 2, Administration of the Judicial Branch—Chapter 5, Management of Human Resources; renumbered effective January 1, 2013; adopted as Chapter 6.

Rule 10.350. Workers' compensation program

Rule 10.351. Judicial branch policies on workplace conduct

Rule 10.350. Workers' compensation program

(a) Intent

The intent of this rule is to:

- (1) Establish procedures for the Judicial Council's workers' compensation program for the trial courts; and
- (2) Ensure that the trial courts' workers' compensation coverage complies with applicable law and is cost-efficient.

(b) Duties of Judicial Council staff

To carry out the duty of the Judicial Council to establish a workers' compensation program for the trial courts, the council's Human Resources office must:

- (1) Maintain a contract with a vendor to provide courts, on a voluntary basis, with a cost-efficient workers' compensation coverage program;
- (2) Monitor the performance of the vendor with which it contracts to provide such services;
- (3) Timely notify the trial courts concerning the terms of the workers' compensation coverage program;
- (4) Timely inform the trial courts about the legal requirements with which a workers' compensation program must comply;
- (5) Make personnel available by telephone to consult with trial courts regarding the cost and benefits of the plan being offered by the Judicial Council; and
- (6) Review and approve or disapprove any other workers' compensation programs identified by a trial court for consideration as a vendor to provide workers' compensation benefits to its employees.

(c) Duties of the trial courts

- (1) Each trial court that elects to participate in the program made available through the Judicial Council must:
 - (A) Timely notify the Human Resources office of its decision to participate in the workers' compensation program being offered through the Judicial Council;
 - (B) Timely complete and return necessary paperwork to the Human Resources office; and
 - (C) Timely pay all costs associated with the program.
- (2) Each trial court that elects not to participate in the workers' compensation program available through the Judicial Council must:
 - (A) Independently identify a workers' compensation benefits provider that fulfills all legal responsibilities to offer such benefits in California in a cost-efficient manner;
 - (B) Timely submit to the Human Resources office for its approval the information necessary to evaluate the workers' compensation program identified by the trial court to provide benefits for its employees; and
 - (C) Maintain a contract with a workers' compensation benefits provider that fulfills all legal responsibilities to offer such benefits in California in a cost-efficient manner.

Rule 10.350 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.302 effective January 1, 2005; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.350 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.351. Judicial branch policies on workplace conduct

The judicial branch is committed to providing a workplace free of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification. Consistent with this commitment, each court must take reasonable steps to prevent and address such conduct, including adopting policies prohibiting harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification and establishing for such conduct complaint reporting and response procedures that satisfy the minimum requirements stated in this rule.

(a) Prohibition policies

Each court must ensure that its policies prohibiting harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification conform with the minimum requirements stated in this rule. These policies must contain:

- (1) A prohibition against harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification by judicial officers, managers, supervisors, employees, other personnel, and other individuals with whom employees come into contact;
- (2) A list of all protected classifications under applicable state and federal laws, including all protected classifications listed in Government Code section 12940(a);
- (3) Definitions and a nonexhaustive list of examples of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification;
- (4) A clear prohibition of retaliation against anyone making a complaint or participating in an investigation of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, or inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification; and
- (5) Comprehensive complaint reporting, intake, investigatory, and follow-up processes.

(b) Complaint reporting process

Each court must adopt a process for employees to report complaints of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification. These reporting processes must:

- (1) Establish effective open-door policies and procedures for reporting complaints;
- (2) Offer multiple avenues for raising complaints, either orally or in writing, and not require that the employee bring concerns to an immediate supervisor;
- (3) Clearly identify individuals to whom complaints may be made regarding the conduct of administrative presiding justices, appellate court clerk/executive officers, presiding judges, court executive officers, judicial officers, and court management;
- (4) Identify the Commission on Judicial Performance, California Department of Fair Employment and Housing, and U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity

Commission as additional avenues for employees to lodge complaints, and provide contact information for those entities; and

- (5) Instruct supervisors, managers, and directors with knowledge of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, or inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification to report this information to the administrative presiding justice or an appellate court clerk/executive officer, a presiding judge, a court executive officer, human resources, or another appropriate judicial officer who is not involved with the conduct or named in the complaint.

(c) Court responsibility on receipt of complaint or knowledge of potential misconduct

Each court must develop processes to intake, investigate, and respond to complaints or known instances of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, or inappropriate workplace conduct based on a protected classification. These processes must provide for:

- (1) Appropriate reassurances to complainants that their confidentiality in making a complaint will be preserved to the extent possible, including an explanation that disclosure of information will be limited to the extent consistent with conducting a fair, effective, and thorough investigation;
- (2) Fair, timely, and thorough investigations of complaints that provide all parties with appropriate consideration and an opportunity to be heard. These investigations should be conducted by impartial, qualified investigators;
- (3) Communication with complainants throughout the investigation process, including initial acknowledgment of complaints, follow-up communication as appropriate, and communication at the end of the process;
- (4) Consideration of appropriate options for remedial action and resolution based on the evidence collected in the investigation; and
- (5) Timely case closures.

(d) Implementation

All courts must implement the requirements of this rule by December 31, 2020, or as soon thereafter as possible, subject to any applicable obligations to meet and confer or consult with recognized employee organizations.

(Subd (d) amended effective April 16, 2020.)

Rule 10.351 amended effective April 16, 2020; adopted effective January 17, 2020.

Chapter 6. Court Technology, Information, and Automation

Title 10, Judicial Administration Rules—Division 2, Administration of the Judicial Branch—Chapter 6, Court Technology, Information and Automation; renumbered effective January 1, 2013; adopted as Chapter 7.

Rule 10.400. Judicial Branch Statistical Information System (JBSIS)

Rule 10.400. Judicial Branch Statistical Information System (JBSIS)

(a) Purpose of rule

Consistent with article VI, section 6 of the California Constitution and Government Code section 68505, the Judicial Branch Statistical Information System (JBSIS) is established by the Judicial Council to provide accurate, consistent, and timely information for the judicial branch, the Legislature, and other state agencies that require information from the courts to fulfill their mandates.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Reporting required

Each trial court must collect and report to the Judicial Council information according to its capability and level of automation as prescribed by the JBSIS Manual adopted by the Judicial Council.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Automated JBSIS collection and reporting

By July 1, 1998, each trial court must develop a plan for meeting reporting requirements prescribed by the JBSIS Manual. By January 1, 2001, subject to adequate funding being made available, each trial court must develop, upgrade, replace, or procure automated case management systems needed to meet or exceed JBSIS data collection and reporting requirements prescribed by the JBSIS Manual.

Rule 10.400 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 996 effective January 1, 1998; previously amended effective January 1, 2000.

Chapter 7. Minimum Education Requirements, Expectations, and Recommendations

Title 10, Judicial Administration Rules—Division 2, Administration of the Judicial Branch—Chapter 7, Minimum Education Requirements, Expectations, and Recommendations; renumbered effective January 1, 2013; adopted as Chapter 8.

Rule 10.451. Judicial branch education

Rule 10.468. Content-based and hours-based education for superior court judges and subordinate judicial officers regularly assigned to hear probate proceedings

Rule 10.469. Judicial education recommendations for justices, judges, and subordinate judicial officers

Rule 10.471. Minimum education requirements for Supreme Court and Court of Appeal clerk/administrators

Rule 10.472. Minimum education requirements for Supreme Court and Court of Appeal managing attorneys, supervisors, and other personnel

Rule 10.473. Minimum education requirements for trial court executive officers

Rule 10.474. Trial court managers, supervisors, and other personnel

Rule 10.478. Content-based and hours-based education for court investigators, probate attorneys, and probate examiners

Rule 10.479. Education recommendations for appellate and trial court personnel

Rule 10.481. Approved providers; approved course criteria

Rule 10.491. Minimum education requirements for Judicial Council employees

Rule 10.492. Temporary extension and pro rata reduction of judicial branch education requirements

Rule 10.493. Instructor-led training

Rule 10.451. Judicial branch education

(a) Purpose

Judicial branch education for all justices, judges, subordinate judicial officers, and court personnel is essential to enhance the fair, effective, and efficient administration of justice. Participation in education activities is part of the official duties of judicial officers and court personnel. Judicial branch education is acknowledged as a vital component in achieving the goals of the Judicial Council's Long-Range Strategic Plan, which include access, fairness, and diversity; branch independence and accountability; modernization of management and administration; and quality of justice and service to the public. The responsibility for planning, conducting, and overseeing judicial branch education properly resides in the judicial branch.

(b) Education objectives

Justices, judges, subordinate judicial officers, court personnel, education committees, and others who plan and deliver education will endeavor to achieve the following objectives:

- (1) To provide justices, judges, subordinate judicial officers, and court personnel with the knowledge, skills, and abilities required to perform their responsibilities competently, fairly, and efficiently;
- (2) To ensure that education, including opportunities for orientation, continuing education, and professional development, is available to all justices, judges, subordinate judicial officers, and court personnel;
- (3) To assist justices, judges, subordinate judicial officers, and court personnel in preserving the integrity and impartiality of the judicial system through their efforts to ensure that all members of the public have equal access to the courts and equal ability to participate in court proceedings and are treated in a fair and just manner;
- (4) To promote the adherence of justices, judges, subordinate judicial officers, and court personnel to the highest ideals of personal and official conduct, as set forth in the California Code of Judicial Ethics and the Code of Ethics for the Court Employees of California;
- (5) To improve the administration of justice, reduce court delay, and promote fair and efficient management of court proceedings;
- (6) To promote standardized court practices and procedures; and
- (7) To implement the recommendations adopted by the Judicial Council in the California Standards of Judicial Administration.

Rule 10.451 adopted effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.452. Minimum education requirements, expectations, and recommendations

(a) Purpose

Justices, judges, and subordinate judicial officers are entrusted by the public with the impartial and knowledgeable handling of proceedings that affect the freedom, livelihood, and happiness of the people involved. Court personnel assist justices, judges, and subordinate judicial officers in carrying out their responsibilities and must provide accurate and timely services to the public. Each justice, judge, and subordinate judicial officer and each court staff member is responsible for maintaining and improving his or her professional competence. To assist them in enhancing their professional competence, the judicial branch will develop and maintain a comprehensive and high-quality education program, including minimum education requirements, expectations, and recommendations, to provide educational opportunities for all justices, judges, subordinate judicial officers, and court personnel.

(b) Goals

The minimum education requirements, expectations, and recommendations set forth in rules 10.461–10.479 are intended to achieve two complementary goals:

- (1) To ensure that both individuals who are new to the bench or the court and those who are experienced on the bench or court but are beginning a new assignment or role obtain education on the tasks, skills, abilities, and knowledge necessary to be successful in the new roles; and
- (2) To establish broad parameters, based on time, for continuing education for individuals who are experienced both on the bench or court and in their assignments or roles, while preserving the ability of the individual, working with the individual who oversees his or her work, to determine the appropriate content and provider.

(c) Relationship of minimum education requirements and expectations to education recommendations

The education requirements and expectations set forth in rules 10.461–10.462 and 10.471–10.474 are minimums. Justices, judges, and subordinate judicial officers should participate in more judicial education than is required and expected, related to each individual’s responsibilities and particular judicial assignment or assignments and in accordance with the judicial education recommendations set forth in rule 10.469. Additional education requirements related to specific responsibilities are set forth in rule 10.463 (for those hearing family law matters), rule 10.464 (for those hearing domestic violence issues), and rule 10.468 (for those hearing probate proceedings).

(d) Responsibilities of Chief Justice and administrative presiding justices

The Chief Justice and each administrative presiding justice:

- (1) Must grant sufficient leave to Supreme Court and Court of Appeal justices, the clerk/executive officer, and the managing attorney to enable them to complete the minimum education requirements stated in rules 10.461, 10.471, and 10.472, respectively;
- (2) To the extent compatible with the efficient administration of justice, must grant to all justices, the clerk/executive officer, and the managing attorney sufficient leave to participate in education programs consistent with the education recommendations stated in rules 10.469 and 10.479. After a justice has completed any new justice education required under rule 10.461 or after a justice has completed the first year on the bench, the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice should grant each justice at least eight court days per calendar year to participate in continuing education relating to the justice's responsibilities;
- (3) In addition to the educational leave required under (d)(1)–(2), should grant leave to a justice, clerk/executive officer, or managing attorney to serve on education committees and as a faculty member at education programs when the individual's services have been requested for these purposes by Judicial Council staff, the California Judges Association, or the court. If a court's calendar would not be adversely affected, the court should grant additional leave for a justice, the clerk/executive officer, or the managing attorney to serve on an educational committee or as a faculty member for judicial branch education;
- (4) Should establish an education plan for his or her court to facilitate the involvement of justices, the clerk/executive officer, and the managing attorney as both participants and faculty in education activities;
- (5) Must ensure that justices, the clerk/executive officer, and the managing attorney are reimbursed by their court in accordance with the travel policies issued by the Judicial Council for travel expenses incurred in attending in-state education programs as a participant, except to the extent that: (i) certain expenses are covered by the Judicial Council; or (ii) the education provider or sponsor of the program pays the expenses. Provisions for these expenses must be part of every court's budget. The Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice may approve reimbursement of travel expenses incurred by justices, the clerk/executive officer, and the managing attorney in attending out-of-state education programs as a participant; and

- (6) Must retain the records and cumulative histories of participation provided by justices. These records and cumulative histories are subject to periodic audit by Judicial Council staff. The Chief Justice and the administrative presiding justice must report the data from the records and cumulative histories on an aggregate basis to the Judicial Council, on a form provided by the Judicial Council, within six months after the end of each three-year period.

(e) Responsibilities of presiding judges

Each presiding judge:

- (1) Must grant sufficient leave to all judges and subordinate judicial officers and to the court executive officer to enable them to complete the minimum education requirements and expectations stated in rules 10.462 and 10.473, respectively;
- (2) To the extent compatible with the efficient administration of justice, must grant to all judges and subordinate judicial officers and to the court executive officer sufficient leave to participate in education programs consistent with the education recommendations stated in rules 10.469 and 10.479. After a judge or subordinate judicial officer has completed the new judge education required under rule 10.462, the presiding judge should grant each judge and subordinate judicial officer at least eight court days per calendar year to participate in continuing education relating to the judge or subordinate judicial officer's responsibilities or current or future court assignment;
- (3) In addition to the educational leave required or authorized under rule 10.603 or (e)(1)–(2), should grant leave to a judge or subordinate judicial officer or the executive officer to serve on education committees and as a faculty member at education programs when the judicial officer's or executive officer's services have been requested for these purposes by Judicial Council staff, the California Judges Association, or the court. If a court's calendar would not be adversely affected, the presiding judge should grant additional leave for a judge or subordinate judicial officer or executive officer to serve on an educational committee or as a faculty member for judicial branch education;
- (4) Should establish an education plan for his or her court to facilitate the involvement of judges, subordinate judicial officers, and the executive officer as both participants and faculty in education activities and should consult with each judge, each subordinate judicial officer, and the executive officer regarding their education needs and requirements related to their current and future assignments;

- (5) Should use his or her assignment powers to enable all judges and subordinate judicial officers, particularly those assigned to specific calendar courts, to participate in educational activities;
- (6) Must ensure that judges, subordinate judicial officers, and the court executive officer are reimbursed by their court in accordance with the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual for travel expenses incurred in attending in-state education programs as a participant, except to the extent that: (i) certain expenses are covered by the Judicial Council; or (ii) the education provider or sponsor of the program pays the expenses. Provisions for these expenses must be part of every court's budget. The presiding judge may approve reimbursement of travel expenses incurred by judges, subordinate judicial officers, and the court executive officer in attending out-of-state education programs as a participant; and
- (7) Must retain the records and cumulative histories of participation provided by judges. These records and cumulative histories are subject to periodic audit by Judicial Council staff. The presiding judge must report the data from the records and cumulative histories on an aggregate basis to the Judicial Council, on a form provided by the Judicial Council, within six months after the end of each three-year period.

(f) Responsibilities of Supreme Court and Court of Appeal justices, clerks/executive officers, managing attorneys, and supervisors

Each court's justices, clerk/executive officer, managing attorney, and supervisors:

- (1) Must grant sufficient leave to all court personnel to enable them to complete the minimum education requirements stated in rule 10.472;
- (2) To the extent compatible with the efficient administration of justice, must grant to all court personnel sufficient leave to participate in education programs consistent with the education recommendations stated in rule 10.479;
- (3) Should allow and encourage court personnel, in addition to participating as students in educational activities, to serve on court personnel education committees and as faculty at court personnel education programs when an employee's services have been requested for these purposes by Judicial Council staff or the court;
- (4) Should establish an education plan for their court to facilitate the involvement of court personnel as both participants and faculty in educational activities, and should consult with each court staff member regarding his or her education needs and requirements and professional development; and

- (5) Must ensure that supervisors and other court personnel are reimbursed by their court in accordance with the travel policies issued by the Judicial Council for travel expenses incurred in attending in-state education programs as a participant, except to the extent that: (i) certain expenses are covered by the Judicial Council; or (ii) the education provider or sponsor of the program pays the expenses. Provisions for these expenses must be part of every court's budget. The clerk/executive officer or the managing attorney may approve reimbursement of travel expenses incurred by supervisors and other court personnel in attending out-of-state education programs as a participant.

(g) Responsibilities of trial court executive officers, managers, and supervisors

Each trial court's executive officer, managers, and supervisors:

- (1) Must grant sufficient leave to all court personnel to enable them to complete the minimum education requirements stated in rule 10.474;
- (2) To the extent compatible with the efficient administration of justice, must grant to all court personnel sufficient leave to participate in education programs consistent with the education recommendations stated in rule 10.479;
- (3) Should allow and encourage court personnel, in addition to participating as students in education activities, to serve on court personnel education committees and as faculty at court personnel education programs when an employee's services have been requested for these purposes by Judicial Council staff or the court;
- (4) Should establish an education plan for their court to facilitate the involvement of court personnel as both participants and faculty in educational activities, and should consult with each court staff member regarding his or her education needs and requirements and professional development; and
- (5) Must ensure that managers, supervisors, and other court personnel are reimbursed by their court in accordance with the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual for travel expenses incurred in attending in-state education programs as a participant, except to the extent that: (i) certain expenses are covered by the Judicial Council; or (ii) the education provider or sponsor of the program pays the expenses. Provisions for these expenses must be part of every court's budget. The court executive officer may approve reimbursement of travel expenses incurred by managers, supervisors, and other court personnel in attending out-of-state education programs as a participant.

(Subd (g) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as subd (f); previously amended and relettered as subd (g) effective January 1, 2008.)

Rule 10.452 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2008, January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2016.

Rule 10.455. Ethics orientation for Judicial Council members and for judicial branch employees required to file a statement of economic interests

(a) Authority

This rule is adopted under Government Code section 11146 et seq. and article VI, section 6 of the California Constitution.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Definitions

For purposes of this rule, “judicial branch employee” includes an employee of a trial or appellate court or the Judicial Council, but does not include court commissioners or referees.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(c) Judicial Council members and judicial branch employees

- (1) Judicial Council staff must provide an ethics orientation course for Judicial Council members and for judicial branch employees who are required to file a statement of economic interests.
- (2) Judicial Council members must take the orientation course within six months of appointment. If a member is appointed to a subsequent term, he or she must take the course within six months of the reappointment.
- (3) Judicial branch employees who are required to file a statement of economic interests must take the orientation course as follows:
 - (A) For employees who have taken the orientation course before the effective date of this rule, at least once during each consecutive two calendar years after the date of the last attendance.
 - (B) For new employees, within six months of becoming an employee and at least once during each consecutive two calendar years thereafter.

- (C) For all other employees, within six months of the effective date of this rule and at least once during each consecutive two calendar years thereafter.

Rule 10.455 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.301 effective January 1, 2004; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.301 effective January 1, 2007, and as rule 10.455 effective January 1, 2013.

Rule 10.461. Minimum education requirements for Supreme Court and Court of Appeal justices

(a) Applicability

All California Court of Appeal justices must complete the minimum judicial education requirements for new justices under (b), and all Supreme Court and Court of Appeal justices must complete minimum continuing education requirements as outlined under (c). All justices should participate in more judicial education than is required, related to each individual's responsibilities and in accordance with the judicial education recommendations set forth in rule 10.469.

(Subd (a) adopted effective January 1, 2008.)

(b) Content-based requirement

Each new Court of Appeal justice, within two years of confirmation of appointment, must attend a new appellate justice orientation program sponsored by a national provider of appellate orientation programs or by the Judicial Council's Center for Judicial Education and Research.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as unlettered subd effective January 1, 2007; previously amended and lettered as subd (b) effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012.)

(c) Hours-based continuing education

- (1) Each justice must complete 30 hours of continuing judicial education every three years, beginning on the dates outlined:
 - (A) A new Supreme Court justice enters the three-year continuing education period on January 1 of the year following confirmation of appointment, and a new Court of Appeal justice enters the three-year continuing education period on January 1 of the year following completion of the required new justice education; continuing education requirements are prorated based on the number of years remaining in the three-year period.

- (B) For all other justices, the first continuing education period begins January 1, 2008.
 - (C) The first continuing education period for Supreme Court and Court of Appeal justices is for two years from January 1, 2008, through December 31, 2009, rather than three years. The continuing education requirements and limitations in (c) are consequently prorated for this two-year period. The first three-year period then begins January 1, 2010.
- (2) The following education applies toward the required 30 hours of continuing judicial education:
- (A) Any education offered by an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)) and any other education, including education taken to satisfy a statutory or other education requirement, approved by the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice as meeting the criteria listed in rule 10.481(b).
 - (B) Each hour of participation in traditional (live, face-to-face) education; distance education such as broadcasts, videoconferences, and online coursework; self-directed study; and faculty service counts toward the continuing education requirement on an hour-for-hour basis. Each justice must complete at least half of his or her continuing education hours requirement as a participant in traditional (live, face-to-face) education. The justice may complete the balance of his or her education hours requirement through any other means with no limitation on any particular type of education.
 - (C) A justice who serves as faculty by teaching legal or judicial education to a legal or judicial audience may apply education hours as faculty service. Credit for faculty service counts toward the continuing education requirement in the same manner as all other types of education—on an hour-for-hour basis.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2013; adopted effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012.)

(d) Extension of time

- (1) For good cause, the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice may grant a one-year extension of time to complete the continuing education requirement in (c).
- (2) If the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice grants a request for an extension of time, the justice, in consultation with the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice, should also pursue interim means of obtaining relevant educational content.

- (3) An extension of time to complete the hours-based continuing education requirement does not affect what is required in the next three-year period.

(Subd (d) adopted effective January 1, 2008.)

(e) Records and summaries of participation for justices

Each justice is responsible for:

- (1) Tracking his or her own participation in education and keeping a record of participation for three years after each course or activity that is applied toward the requirements, on a form provided by the Chief Justice for the Supreme Court or by the administrative presiding justice for each appellate district of the Court of Appeal. The form must include the information regarding a justice's participation in education that is needed by the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice to complete the aggregate form required by rule 10.452(d)(6);
- (2) At the end of each year, giving the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice a copy of his or her record of participation in education for that year, on the form provided by the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice; and
- (3) At the end of each three-year period, giving the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice a copy of his or her record of participation in education for that year and a cumulative history of participation for that three-year period, on the form provided by the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice.

Rule 10.461 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2008, August 15, 2008, January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2013.

Advisory Committee Comment

The requirements formerly contained in subdivision (e)(2) of rule 970, which has been repealed, are carried forward without change in rule 10.461(b).

Judicial Council staff have developed both a manual format and an automated format of the individual justice's recording and reporting form referenced in rule 10.461(e) that gathers all the information needed by the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice to complete the aggregate report to the Judicial Council required under rule 10.452(d)(6). The Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice may determine which form should be used in his or her court and may provide the manual or automated format of the council-developed form (available from the council's Center for Judicial Education and Research) or may provide another appropriate form that has been developed by his or her court or by another court that gathers all the information needed by the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice to complete the aggregate report to the Judicial Council.

Rule 10.462. Minimum education requirements and expectations for trial court judges and subordinate judicial officers

(a) Applicability

All California trial court judges must complete the minimum judicial education requirements for new judges under (c)(1) and are expected to participate in continuing education as outlined under (d). All subordinate judicial officers must complete the minimum education requirements for new subordinate judicial officers under (c)(1) and for continuing education as outlined under (d). All trial court judges and subordinate judicial officers who hear family law matters must complete additional education requirements set forth in rule 10.463. All trial court judges and subordinate judicial officers who hear certain types of matters must participate in education on domestic violence issues as provided in rule 10.464. All trial court judges and subordinate judicial officers regularly assigned to hear probate proceedings must complete additional education requirements set forth in rule 10.468. All trial court judges and subordinate judicial officers should participate in more judicial education than is required and expected, related to each individual's responsibilities and particular judicial assignment or assignments and in accordance with the judicial education recommendations set forth in rule 10.469.

(b) Definitions

Unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires, "subordinate judicial officers" as used in this rule means subordinate judicial officers as defined in rule 10.701.

(c) Content-based requirements

- (1) Each new trial court judge and subordinate judicial officer must complete the "new judge education" provided by the Judicial Council's Center for Judicial Education and Research (CJER) as follows:
 - (A) The New Judge Orientation Program within six months of taking the oath as a judge or subordinate judicial officer. For purposes of the New Judge Orientation Program, a judge or subordinate judicial officer is considered "new" only once, and any judge or subordinate judicial officer who has completed the New Judge Orientation Program, as required under this rule or under former rule 970, is not required to complete the program again. A judge or subordinate judicial officer who was appointed, elected, or hired before rule 970 was adopted on January 1, 1996, is not required to complete the program.

- (B) An orientation course in his or her primary assignment (civil, criminal, family, juvenile delinquency or dependency, probate, or traffic) within one year of taking the oath as a judge or subordinate judicial officer; and
 - (C) The B. E. Witkin Judicial College of California within two years of taking the oath as a judge or subordinate judicial officer, unless the new judge completed the Judicial College as a new subordinate judicial officer, in which case the presiding judge may determine whether the new judge must complete it again.
- (2) Each judge beginning a supervising judge role is expected to complete the following education, unless he or she is returning to a similar supervising judge role after less than two years in another assignment or is beginning a supervising judge role less than two years after serving in the presiding judge role and completing the Presiding Judges Orientation and Court Management Program.
- (A) For a judge who has administrative responsibility, CJER's Supervising Judges Overview course within one year of beginning the supervising judge role, preferably before beginning the role;
 - (B) For a judge who has calendar management responsibility, a calendar management overview course, provided either by the local court or by CJER, within one year of beginning the supervising judge role, preferably before beginning the role;
 - (C) For a judge who has both administrative and calendar management responsibility, both overview courses within one year of beginning the role.
- (3) Each judge beginning a presiding judge role is expected to complete CJER's Presiding Judges Orientation and Court Management Program within one year of beginning the presiding judge role, preferably before beginning the role unless he or she is returning to a presiding judge role after two years or less in another role or assignment.
- (4) Each judge is expected to and each subordinate judicial officer must, if beginning a new primary assignment (unless he or she is returning to an assignment after less than two years in another assignment), complete a course on the new primary assignment, provided by CJER, the California Judges Association (CJA), or the local court, within six months of beginning the new assignment. CJER is responsible for identifying content for these courses and will share the identified content with CJA and the local courts.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2008, July 1, 2008, and January 1, 2012.)

(d) Hours-based continuing education

- (1) Each judge is expected to and each subordinate judicial officer must complete 30 hours of continuing judicial education every three years, beginning on the dates outlined:
 - (A) A new judge or new subordinate judicial officer enters the three-year continuing education period on January 1 of the year following the period provided for completion of the required new judge education; continuing education expectations for judges and requirements for subordinate judicial officers are prorated based on the number of years remaining in the three-year period.
 - (B) For all other judges and subordinate judicial officers, the first three-year period begins on January 1, 2007.
- (2) The following education applies toward the expected or required 30 hours of continuing judicial education:
 - (A) The content-based courses under (c)(2), (3), and (4) for a new supervising judge, a new presiding judge, and a judge or subordinate judicial officer beginning a new primary assignment (the “new judge education” required under (c)(1) does not apply); and
 - (B) Any other education offered by an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)) and any other education, including education taken to satisfy a statutory or other education requirement, approved by the presiding judge as meeting the criteria listed in rule 10.481(b).
- (3) Each hour of participation in traditional (live, face-to-face) education; distance education, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, and online coursework; self-directed study; and faculty service counts toward the continuing education expectation or requirement on an hour-for-hour basis. Each judge and subordinate judicial officer must complete at least half of his or her continuing education hours expectation or requirement as a participant in traditional (live, face-to-face) education. The judge or subordinate judicial officer may complete the balance of his or her judicial education hours expectation or requirement through any other means with no limitation on any particular type of education.

- (4) A judge or subordinate judicial officer who serves as faculty by teaching legal or judicial education for a legal or judicial audience may apply education hours as faculty service. Credit for faculty service counts toward the continuing education expectation or requirement in the same manner as all other types of education—on an hour-for-hour basis.
- (5) The presiding judge may require subordinate judicial officers to participate in specific courses or participate in education in a specific subject matter area as part of their continuing education.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2013; previously amended effective January 1, 2008, and January 1, 2012.)

(e) Extension of time

- (1) For good cause, a presiding judge may grant an extension of time to complete the education expectations or requirements in (c)(2)–(4) and the continuing education expectation or requirement in (d) as follows:
 - (A) A time extension to complete the content-based expectations or requirements in (c)(2)–(4) is limited to the original time period provided for completion—that is, one year, one year, or six months, respectively.
 - (B) A time extension to complete the hours-based continuing education expectation or requirement in (d) is limited to one year.
- (2) If the presiding judge grants a request for an extension of time, the judge or subordinate judicial officer, in consultation with the presiding judge, should also pursue interim means of obtaining relevant educational content.
- (3) An extension of time to complete the hours-based continuing education expectation or requirement does not affect what is expected or required in the next three-year period.

(f) Records and cumulative histories of participation for judges

Each judge is responsible for:

- (1) Tracking his or her own participation in education and keeping a record of participation for three years after each course or activity that is applied toward the requirements and expectations, on a form provided by the presiding judge. The form must include the information regarding a judge's participation in education that is needed by the presiding judge to complete the aggregate form required by rule 10.452(e)(7);

- (2) At the end of each year, giving the presiding judge a copy of his or her record of participation in education for that year, on the form provided by the presiding judge; and
- (3) At the end of each three-year period, giving the presiding judge a copy of his or her record of participation in education for that year and a cumulative history of participation for that three-year period, on the form provided by the presiding judge.

(g) Records of participation for subordinate judicial officers

- (1) Each court is responsible for tracking participation in education and for tracking completion of minimum education requirements for its subordinate judicial officers.
- (2) Each subordinate judicial officer must keep records of his or her own participation for three years after each course or activity that is applied toward the requirements.

Rule 10.462 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2008, July 1, 2008, August 15, 2008, January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2013.

Advisory Committee Comment

The minimum judicial education requirements in rule 10.462 do not apply to retired judges seeking to sit on regular court assignment in the Assigned Judges Program. Retired judges who seek to serve in the Assigned Judges Program must comply with the Chief Justice's Standards and Guidelines for Judges Who Serve on Assignment, which includes education requirements.

Judicial Council staff have developed both a manual format and an automated format of the individual judge's recording and reporting form referenced in rule 10.462(f) that gathers all the information needed by the presiding judge to complete the aggregate report to the Judicial Council required under rule 10.452(e)(7). The presiding judge may determine which form should be used in his or her court and may provide the manual or automated format of the council-developed form (available from the Judicial Council's Center for Judicial Education and Research) or may provide another appropriate form that has been developed by his or her court or by another court that gathers all the information needed by the presiding judge to complete the aggregate report to the Judicial Council.

Rule 10.463. Education requirements for family court judges and subordinate judicial officers

Each judge or subordinate judicial officer whose primary assignment is to hear family law matters or who is the sole judge hearing family law matters must complete the following education:

(a) Basic family law education

Within six months of beginning a family law assignment, or within one year of beginning a family law assignment in courts with five or fewer judges, the judge or subordinate judicial officer must complete a basic educational program on California family law and procedure designed primarily for judicial officers. A judge or subordinate judicial officer who has completed the basic educational program need not complete the basic educational program again. All other judicial officers who hear family law matters, including retired judges who sit on court assignment, must complete appropriate family law educational programs.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2008; adopted as (1) effective January 1, 1992; previously amended and lettered effective January 1, 2003.)

(b) Continuing family law education

The judge or subordinate judicial officer must complete a periodic update on new developments in California family law and procedure.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2008; adopted as (2) effective January 1, 1992; previously amended and lettered effective January 1, 2003.)

(c) Other family law education

To the extent that judicial time and resources are available, the judge or subordinate judicial officer must complete additional educational programs on other aspects of family law including interdisciplinary subjects relating to the family.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2008; adopted as (3) effective January 1, 1992; previously amended and lettered effective January 1, 2003.)

Rule 10.463 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2008; adopted as rule 1200 effective January 1, 1992; previously amended and renumbered as rule 5.30 effective January 1, 2003.

Rule 10.464. Education requirements and expectations for judges and subordinate judicial officers on domestic violence issues

(a) Judges and subordinate judicial officers hearing specified matters

Each judge or subordinate judicial officer who hears criminal, family, juvenile delinquency, juvenile dependency, or probate matters must participate in appropriate education on domestic violence issues as part of his or her requirements and expectations under rule 10.462. Each judge or subordinate judicial officer whose primary assignment is in one of these areas also must participate in a periodic update on domestic violence as part of these requirements and expectations.

(b) Specified courses to include education on domestic violence issues

The education provider must include education on domestic violence issues at the Judicial College under rule 10.462(c)(1)(C) and in courses for primary assignments in criminal, family, juvenile delinquency, juvenile dependency, or probate under rule 10.462(c)(1)(B) or (c)(4).

Rule 10.464 adopted effective January 1, 2010.

Advisory Committee Comment

In determining what constitutes “appropriate” education, each judge or subordinate judicial officer should determine the number of hours of education on domestic violence that is adequate for his or her assignment, taking into account the size of the court, the nature of his or her assignment, the mix of assignments, and other factors.

Rule 10.468. Content-based and hours-based education for superior court judges and subordinate judicial officers regularly assigned to hear probate proceedings

(a) Definitions

As used in this rule, the following terms have the meanings stated below:

- (1) “Judge” means a judge of the superior court.
- (2) “Subordinate judicial officer” has the meaning specified in rule 10.701(a).
- (3) “Judicial officer” means a judge or a subordinate judicial officer.
- (4) “Probate proceedings” are decedents’ estates, guardianships and conservatorships under division 4 of the Probate Code, trust proceedings under division 9 of the Probate Code, and other matters governed by provisions of that code and the rules in title 7 of the California Rules of Court.
- (5) A judicial officer “regularly assigned to hear probate proceedings” is a judicial officer who is:
 - (A) Assigned to a dedicated probate department where probate proceedings are customarily heard on a full-time basis;

- (B) Responsible for hearing most of the probate proceedings filed in a court that does not have a dedicated probate department; or
 - (C) Responsible for hearing probate proceedings on a regular basis in a department in a branch or other location remote from the main or central courthouse, whether or not he or she also hears other kinds of matters in that department and whether or not there is a dedicated probate department in the main or central courthouse; or
 - (D) Designated by the presiding judge of a court with four or fewer authorized judges.
- (6) “CJER” is the Judicial Council’s Center for Judicial Education and Research.
 - (7) “CJA” is the California Judges Association.

(b) Content-based requirements

- (1) Each judicial officer beginning a regular assignment to hear probate proceedings after the effective date of this rule—unless he or she is returning to this assignment after less than two years in another assignment—must complete, as soon as possible but not to exceed six months from the assignment’s commencement date, 6 hours of education on probate guardianships and conservatorships, including court-supervised fiduciary accounting.
- (2) The education required in (1) is in addition to the New Judge Orientation program for new judicial officers and the B. E. Witkin Judicial College required under rule 10.462(c)(1)(A) and (C) and may be applied toward satisfaction of the 30 hours of continuing education expected of judges and required of subordinate judicial officers under rule 10.462(d).
- (3) The education required in (1) must be provided by CJER, CJA, or the judicial officer’s court. CJER is responsible for identifying content for this education and will share the identified content with CJA and the courts.
- (4) The education required in (1) may be by traditional (face to face) or distance-learning means, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, or online coursework, but may not be by self-study.

(c) Hours-based continuing education

- (1) In a court with five or more authorized judges, each judicial officer regularly assigned to hear probate proceedings must complete 18 hours of continuing education every three years, with a minimum of six hours required in the first year, on probate guardianships and conservatorships, including court-supervised fiduciary accounting. The three-year period begins on January 1 of the year following the judicial officer's completion of the education required in (b)(1) or, if he or she is exempt from that education, on January 1 of the year the assignment commenced after the effective date of this rule.

- (2) In a court with four or fewer authorized judges, each judicial officer regularly assigned to hear probate proceedings must complete nine hours of continuing education every three years, with a minimum of three hours per year, on probate guardianships and conservatorships, including court-supervised fiduciary accounting. The three-year period begins on January 1 of the year following the judicial officer's completion of the education required in (b)(1) or, if he or she is exempt from that education, on January 1 of the year the assignment commenced after the effective date of this rule.
- (3) The first continuing education period for judicial officers who were regularly assigned to hear probate proceedings before the effective date of this rule and who continue in the assignment after that date is two years, from January 1, 2008, through December 31, 2009, rather than three years. The continuing education requirements in (1) are prorated for the first continuing education period under this paragraph. The first full three-year period of continuing education for judicial officers under this paragraph begins on January 1, 2010.
- (4) The number of hours of education required in (1) or (2) may be reduced proportionately for judicial officers whose regular assignment to hear probate proceedings is for a period of less than three years.
- (5) The education required in (1) or (2) may be applied toward satisfaction of the 30 hours of continuing education expected of judges or required of subordinate judicial officers under rule 10.462(d).
- (6) A judicial officer may fulfill the education requirement in (1) or (2) through council-sponsored education, an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)), or education approved by the judicial officer's presiding judge as meeting the education criteria specified in rule 10.481(b).
- (7) The education required in (1) or (2) may be by traditional (live, face-to-face) or distance learning, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, or online coursework, but may not be by self-study.

(d) Extension of time

The provisions of rule 10.462(e) concerning extensions of time apply to the content-based and hours-based education required under (b) and (c) of this rule.

(e) Record keeping and reporting

- (1) The provisions of rule 10.462(f) and (g) concerning, respectively, tracking participation, record keeping, and summarizing participation by judges and tracking participation by subordinate judicial officers, apply to the education required under this rule.
- (2) Presiding judges' records of judicial officer participation in the education required by this rule are subject to audit by Judicial Council staff under rule 10.462. Judicial Council staff may require courts to report participation by judicial officers in the education required by this rule to ensure compliance with Probate Code section 1456.

Rule 10.468 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012.

Rule 10.469. Judicial education recommendations for justices, judges, and subordinate judicial officers

(a) Judicial education recommendations generally

Each justice, judge and subordinate judicial officer, as part of his or her continuing judicial education, should regularly participate in educational activities related to his or her responsibilities and particular judicial assignment or assignments. Minimum education requirements and expectations related to judicial responsibilities and assignments are set forth in rules 10.461–10.462. Additional education requirements related to specific responsibilities are set forth in rule 10.463 (for those hearing family law matters), rule 10.464 (for those hearing domestic violence issues), and rule 10.468 (for those hearing probate proceedings). The following recommendations illustrate for some specific responsibilities and assignments how justices, judges, and subordinate judicial officers should participate in more judicial education than is required and expected.

(b) Jury trial assignment

Each judge or subordinate judicial officer assigned to jury trials should regularly use the Judicial Council CJER educational materials or other appropriate materials and should regularly complete CJER or other appropriate educational programs devoted to the conduct of jury voir dire and the treatment of jurors.

(c) Hearing of juvenile dependency matters

Each judge or subordinate judicial officer who hears juvenile dependency matters, including retired judges who sit on court assignment, should regularly use appropriate educational materials and should annually complete appropriate education programs on juvenile dependency law and procedure, consistent with the requirements in Welfare and Institutions Code section 304.7.

(d) Capital case assignment

Each judge assigned to hear a capital case should complete before the commencement of the trial a comprehensive education program on California law and procedure relevant to capital cases provided by CJER. A judge with a subsequent assignment to a capital case should complete a periodic update course within two years before the commencement of the trial. The periodic update may be provided through actual classroom instruction or through video, audio, or other media as determined by CJER.

(e) Fairness and access education

- (1) In order to achieve the objective of assisting judicial officers in preserving the integrity and impartiality of the judicial system through the prevention of bias, each justice, judge, and subordinate judicial officer should regularly participate in education on fairness and access. The education should include the following subjects: race and ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, and persons with disabilities.
- (2) Each justice, judge, and subordinate judicial officer must participate in education on unconscious bias, as well as the prevention of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and inappropriate workplace conduct. This education must be taken at least once every three-year continuing education period as determined by rules 10.461(c)(1) and 10.462(d).

Rule 10.469 amended effective January 1, 2021; adopted effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2016; 1999, and January 1, 2015; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.471. Minimum education requirements for Supreme Court and Court of Appeal clerks/executive officers

(a) Applicability

All clerks/executive officers of the California Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal must complete these minimum education requirements. All clerks/executive officers should participate in more education than is required, related to each individual's responsibilities and in accordance with the education recommendations set forth in rule 10.479.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2018.)

(b) Hours-based requirement

- (1) Each clerk/executive officer must complete 30 hours of continuing education every three years beginning on the following date:
 - (A) For a new clerk/executive officer, the first three-year period begins on January 1 of the year following his or her hire.
 - (B) For all other clerks/executive officers, the first three-year period begins on January 1, 2008.
- (2) The following education applies toward the required 30 hours of continuing education:
 - (A) Any education offered by an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)) and any other education, including education taken to satisfy a statutory or other education requirement, approved by the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice as meeting the criteria listed in rule 10.481(b).
 - (B) Each hour of participation in traditional (live, face-to-face) education; distance education such as broadcasts, videoconferences, and online coursework; faculty service; and self-directed study counts toward the requirement on an hour-for-hour basis. Each clerk/executive officer must complete at least half of his or her continuing education hours requirement as a participant in traditional (live, face-to-face) education. The clerk/executive officer may complete the balance of his or her education hours requirement through any other means with no limitation on any particular type of education.
 - (C) A clerk/executive officer who serves as faculty by teaching legal or judicial education to a legal or judicial audience may apply education hours as faculty service. Credit for faculty service counts toward the continuing education requirement in the same manner as all other types of education—on an hour-for-hour basis.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2018; previously amended effective January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2014.)

(c) Extension of time

- (1) For good cause, the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice may grant a one-year extension of time to complete the education requirements in (b).
- (2) If the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice grants a request for an extension of time, the clerk/executive officer, in consultation with the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice, must also pursue interim means of obtaining relevant educational content.
- (3) An extension of time to complete the hours-based requirement does not affect the timing of the clerk/executive officer's next three-year period.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2018.)

(d) Record of participation; statement of completion

Each clerk/executive officer is responsible for:

- (1) Tracking his or her own participation in education and keeping a record of participation for three years after each course or activity that is applied toward the requirements;
- (2) At the end of each year, giving the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice a copy of his or her record of participation in education for that year; and
- (3) At the end of each three-year period, giving the Chief Justice or the administrative presiding justice a signed statement of completion for that three-year period.

Rule 10.471 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2014.

Rule 10.472. Minimum education requirements for Supreme Court and Court of Appeal managing attorneys, supervisors, and other personnel

(a) Applicability

All California Supreme Court and Court of Appeal managing attorneys, supervisors, and other personnel must complete these minimum education requirements. All managing attorneys, supervisors, and other personnel should participate in more education than is required related to each individual's responsibilities and in accordance with the education recommendations set forth in rule 10.479.

(b) Content-based requirements

- (1) Each new managing attorney or supervisor must complete orientation courses within six months of becoming a managing attorney or supervisor, unless the individual's supervisor determines that the new managing attorney or supervisor has already completed these orientation courses or courses covering equivalent content. The courses must include orientation about:
 - (A) The judicial branch of California;
 - (B) The local court; and
 - (C) Basic management and supervision.
- (2) Each new court employee who is not a managing attorney or supervisor must complete orientation courses within six months of becoming a court employee, unless the employee's supervisor determines that the new court employee has already completed these orientation courses or courses covering equivalent content. The courses must include orientation about:
 - (A) The judicial branch of California;
 - (B) The local court;
 - (C) Basic employee issues, such as sexual harassment and safety; and
 - (D) The employee's specific job.
- (3) The clerk/executive officer, the managing attorney, or the employee's supervisor may determine the appropriate content, delivery mechanism, and length of orientation based on the needs and role of each individual employee.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2018.)

(c) Hours-based requirements

- (1) Each managing attorney, supervisor, or appellate judicial attorney must complete 12 hours of continuing education every two years.
- (2) Each court employee who is not a managing attorney, supervisor, or appellate judicial attorney must complete 8 hours of continuing education every two years, with the exception of employees who do not provide court administrative or operational services. Those employees are not subject to the continuing education hours-based requirement but must complete any education or training required by law and any other education required by the clerk/executive officer.

- (3) The first two-year period for all managing attorneys, supervisors, and other personnel begins on January 1, 2008. The orientation education required for new managing attorneys, supervisors, and other personnel under (b) does not apply toward the required hours of continuing education because it must be completed before they enter the two-year period. Each new managing attorney, supervisor, or employee enters the two-year continuing education period on the first day of the quarter following his or her completion of the orientation education required under (b); the quarters begin on January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1. Each managing attorney, supervisor, or employee who enters the two-year continuing education period after it has begun must complete a prorated number of continuing education hours for that two-year period, based on the number of quarters remaining in it.
- (4) Any education offered by an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)) and any other education, including education taken to satisfy a statutory, rules-based, or other education requirement, that is approved by the clerk/executive officer, the managing attorney, or the employee's supervisor as meeting the criteria listed in rule 10.481(b) applies toward the orientation education required under (b) and the continuing education required under (c)(1) and (2).
- (5) Each hour of participation in traditional (live, face-to-face) education; distance education such as broadcasts, videoconferences, online coursework; and faculty service counts toward the requirement on an hour-for-hour basis. Each managing attorney, supervisor, and other employee must complete at least half of his or her continuing education hours requirement as a participant in traditional (live, face-to-face) education. The managing attorney, supervisor, or other employee may complete the balance of his or her education hours requirement through any other means with no limitation on any particular type of education. Self-directed study is encouraged for professional development but does not apply toward the required hours.
- (6) A managing attorney, supervisor, or other employee who serves as faculty by teaching legal or judicial education for a legal or judicial audience may apply education hours for the faculty service. Credit for faculty service counts toward the continuing education requirement in the same manner as all other types of education—on an hour-for-hour basis.
- (7) The clerk/executive officer, the managing attorney, or the employee's supervisor may require supervisors and other court personnel to participate in specific courses or to participate in education in a specific subject matter area as part of their continuing education.

(d) Extension of time

- (1) For good cause, a justice (for that justice's chambers staff), the managing attorney, the clerk/executive officer, or a supervisor, if delegated by the clerk/executive officer, or the employee's supervisor may grant a six-month extension of time to complete the education requirements in this rule.
- (2) If the justice, managing attorney, clerk/executive officer, or supervisor grants a request for an extension of time, the managing attorney, supervisor, or employee who made the request, in consultation with the justice, managing attorney, clerk/executive officer, or supervisor, must also pursue interim means of obtaining relevant educational content.
- (3) An extension of time to complete the hours-based requirement does not affect the timing of the next two-year period.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2018.)

(e) Records of participation

- (1) Each court is responsible for tracking participation in education and for tracking completion of minimum education requirements for its managing attorneys, supervisors, and other personnel.
- (2) Each managing attorney, supervisor, and employee must keep records of his or her own participation for two years after each course or activity that is applied toward the requirements.

Rule 10.472 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012.

Rule 10.473. Minimum education requirements for trial court executive officers

(a) Applicability

All California trial court executive officers must complete these minimum education requirements. All executive officers should participate in more education than is required, related to each individual's responsibilities and in accordance with the education recommendations set forth in rule 10.479.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2008.)

(b) Content-based requirement

- (1) Each new executive officer must complete the Presiding Judges Orientation and Court Management Program provided by the Judicial Council's Center for Judiciary Education and Research (CJER) within one year of becoming an executive officer and should participate in additional education during the first year.
- (2) Each executive officer should participate in CJER's Presiding Judges Orientation and Court Management Program each time a new presiding judge from his or her court participates in the course and each time the executive officer becomes the executive officer in a different court.

(Subd (b) amended effective July 1, 2015.)

(c) Hours-based requirement

- (1) Each executive officer must complete 30 hours of continuing education, including at least three hours of ethics education, every three years.
- (2) For a new executive officer, the first three-year period begins on January 1 of the year following completion of the required education for new executive officers.
- (3) The following education applies toward the required 30 hours of continuing education:
 - (A) Any education offered by an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)) and any other education, including education taken to satisfy a statutory or other education requirement, approved by the presiding judge as meeting the criteria listed in rule 10.481(b).
 - (B) Each hour of participation in traditional (live, face-to-face) education; distance education such as broadcasts, videoconferences, and online coursework; self-directed study; and faculty service counts toward the requirement on an hour-for-hour basis. The presiding judge has discretion to determine the number of hours, if any, of traditional (live, face-to-face) education required to meet the continuing education requirement.
 - (C) A court executive officer who serves as faculty by teaching legal or judicial education to a legal or judicial audience may apply education hours as faculty service. Credit for faculty service counts toward the continuing education requirement in the same manner as all other types of education—on an hour-for-hour basis.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2008, January 1, 2011, January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2013.)

(d) Extension of time

- (1) For good cause, a presiding judge may grant a one-year extension of time to complete the education requirements in (b) and (c).
- (2) If the presiding judge grants a request for an extension of time, the executive officer, in consultation with the presiding judge, must also pursue interim means of obtaining relevant educational content.
- (3) An extension of time to complete the hours-based requirement does not affect the timing of the executive officer's next three-year period.

(e) Record of participation; statement of completion

Each executive officer is responsible for:

- (1) Tracking his or her own participation in education and keeping a record of participation for three years after each course or activity that is applied toward the requirements;
- (2) At the end of each year, giving the presiding judge a copy of his or her record of participation in education for that year; and
- (3) At the end of each three-year period, giving the presiding judge a signed statement of completion for that three-year period.

Rule 10.473 amended effective July 1, 2015; adopted as rule 10.463 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2011, January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2013.

Rule 10.474. Trial court managers, supervisors, and other personnel

(a) Applicability

All California trial court managers, supervisors, and other personnel must complete these minimum education requirements. All managers, supervisors, and other personnel should participate in more education than is required, related to each individual's responsibilities and in accordance with the education recommendations set forth in rule 10.479.

(b) Content-based requirements

- (1) Each new manager or supervisor must complete orientation courses within six months of becoming a manager or supervisor, unless the court's executive officer determines that the new manager or supervisor has already completed these orientation courses or courses covering equivalent content. The courses must include orientation about:
 - (A) The judicial branch of California;
 - (B) The local court; and
 - (C) Basic management and supervision.
- (2) Each new court employee who is not a manager or supervisor must complete orientation courses within six months of becoming a court employee, unless the employee's supervisor determines that the new court employee has already completed these orientation courses or courses covering equivalent content. The courses must include orientation about:
 - (A) The judicial branch of California;
 - (B) The local court; and
 - (C) Basic employee issues, such as sexual harassment and safety; and
 - (D) The employee's specific job.
- (3) The court executive officer may determine the appropriate content, delivery mechanism, and length of orientation based on the needs and role of each individual employee.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2008.)

(c) Hours-based requirements

- (1) Each court manager or supervisor must complete 12 hours of continuing education every two years.
- (2) Each court employee who is not a manager or supervisor must complete 8 hours of continuing education every two years, with the exception of employees who do not provide court administrative or operational services. Those employees are not subject to the continuing education hours-based requirement but must complete any education or training required by law and any other education required by the court executive officer.

- (3) The orientation education required for new managers, supervisors, and other personnel under (b) does not apply toward the required hours of continuing education because it must be completed before they enter the two-year period. Each new manager, supervisor, or employee enters the two-year continuing education period on the first day of the quarter following his or her completion of the orientation education required under (b); the quarters begin on January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1. Each manager, supervisor, or employee who enters the two-year continuing education period after it has begun must complete a prorated number of continuing education hours for that two-year period, based on the number of quarters remaining in it.
- (4) Any education offered by an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)) and any other education, including education taken to satisfy a statutory, rules-based, or other education requirement, that is approved by the executive officer or the employee's supervisor as meeting the criteria listed in rule 10.481(b) applies toward the orientation education required under (b) and the continuing education required under (c)(1) and (2).
- (5) Each hour of participation in traditional (live, face-to-face) education; distance education such as broadcasts, videoconferences, and online coursework; and faculty service counts toward the requirement on an hour-for-hour basis. The court executive officer has discretion to determine the number of hours, if any, of traditional (live, face-to-face) education required to meet the continuing education requirement. Self-directed study is encouraged for professional development but does not apply toward the required hours.
- (6) A manager, supervisor, or employee who serves as faculty by teaching legal or judicial education to a legal or judicial audience may apply education hours as faculty service. Credit for faculty service counts toward the continuing education requirement in the same manner as all other types of education—on an hour-for-hour basis.
- (7) The court executive officer may require managers, supervisors, and other court personnel to participate in specific courses or to participate in education in a specific subject matter area as part of their continuing education.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2008, January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2013.)

(d) Extension of time

- (1) For good cause, the executive officer may grant a one-year extension of time to complete the education requirements in this rule. If an extension is granted, the subsequent two-year compliance period begins immediately after the extended compliance period ends, unless otherwise determined by the executive officer.

- (2) If the executive officer grants a request for an extension of time, the manager, supervisor, or employee who made the request, in consultation with the executive officer, must also pursue interim means of obtaining relevant educational content.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2015.)

(e) Records of participation

- (1) Each court is responsible for tracking participation in education and for tracking completion of minimum education requirements for its managers, supervisors, and other personnel.
- (2) Each manager, supervisor, and employee must keep records of his or her own participation for two years after each course or activity that is applied toward the requirements.

Rule 10.474 amended effective January 1, 2015; adopted as rule 10.464 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2013.

Advisory Committee Comment

The time frame for completion of compliance courses based on statutory or regulatory mandates is unaffected by the one-year extension in (d)(1).

Rule 10.478. Content-based and hours-based education for court investigators, probate attorneys, and probate examiners

(a) Definitions

As used in this rule, the following terms have the meanings specified below, unless the context or subject matter otherwise require:

- (1) A “court investigator” is a person described in Probate Code section 1454(a) employed by or under contract with a court to provide the investigative services for the court required or authorized by law in guardianships, conservatorships, and other protective proceedings under division 4 of the Probate Code;
- (2) A “probate attorney” is an active member of the State Bar of California who is employed by a court to perform the functions of a probate examiner and also to provide legal analysis, recommendations, advice, and other services to the court pertaining to probate proceedings;

- (3) A “probate examiner” is a person employed by a court to review filings in probate proceedings in order to assist the court and the parties to get the filed matters properly ready for consideration by the court in accordance with the requirements of the Probate Code, the rules in title 7 of the California Rules of Court, and the court’s local rules;
- (4) “Probate proceedings” are decedents’ estates, guardianships and conservatorships under division 4 of the Probate Code, trust proceedings under division 9 of the Probate Code, and other matters governed by provisions of that code and the rules in title 7 of the California Rules of Court;
- (5) “CJER” is the Judicial Council’s Center for Judicial Education and Research.

(b) Content-based requirements for court investigators

- (1) Each court investigator must complete 18 hours of education within one year of his or her start date after the effective date of this rule. The education must include the following general topics:
 - (A) Court process and legal proceedings;
 - (B) Child abuse and neglect and the effect of domestic violence on children (guardianship investigators); elder and dependent adult abuse, including undue influence and other forms of financial abuse (conservatorship investigators);
 - (C) Medical issues;
 - (D) Access to and use of criminal-record information, confidentiality, ethics, conflicts of interest;
 - (E) Accessing and evaluating community resources for children and mentally impaired elderly or developmentally disabled adults; and
 - (F) Interviewing children and persons with mental function or communication deficits.
- (2) A court investigator may fulfill the education requirement in (1) through council-sponsored education, an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)), or education approved by the court executive officer or the court investigator’s supervisor as meeting the education criteria specified in rule 10.481(b).
- (3) The education required in (1) may be applied to the specific-job portion of the orientation course required for all new court employees under rule

10.474(b)(2)(D) and the continuing education required for all nonmanagerial or nonsupervisory court employees under rule 10.474(c)(2).

- (4) The education required in (1) may be by traditional (face-to-face) or distance-learning means, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, or on-line coursework, but may not be by self-study.

(c) Content-based education for probate attorneys

- (1) Each probate attorney must complete 18 hours of education within six months of his or her start date after January 1, 2008, in probate-related topics, including guardianships, conservatorships, and court-supervised fiduciary accounting.
- (2) A probate attorney may fulfill the education requirement in (1) through council-sponsored education, an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)), or education approved by the court executive officer or the probate attorney's supervisor as meeting the education criteria specified in rule 10.481(b).
- (3) The education required in (1) may be applied to the specific-job portion of the orientation course required for all new court employees under rule 10.474(b)(2)(D) and the continuing education required for all nonmanagerial or nonsupervisory court employees under rule 10.474(c)(2).
- (4) The education required in (1) may be by traditional (face-to-face) or distance-learning means, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, or on-line coursework, but may not be by self-study.

(d) Content-based education for probate examiners

- (1) Each probate examiner must complete 30 hours of education within one year of his or her start date after January 1, 2008, in probate-related topics, of which 18 hours must be in guardianships and conservatorships, including court-appointed fiduciary accounting.
- (2) A probate examiner may fulfill the education requirement in (1) through council-sponsored education, an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)), or education approved by the court executive officer or the probate examiner's supervisor as meeting the education criteria specified in rule 10.481(b).

- (3) The education required in (1) may be applied to the specific-job portion of the orientation course required for all new court employees under rule 10.474(b)(2)(D) and the continuing education required for all nonmanagerial or nonsupervisory court employees under rule 10.474(c)(2).
- (4) The education required in (1) may be by traditional (face-to-face) or distance-learning means, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, or online coursework, but may not be by self-study.

(e) Hours-based education for court investigators

- (1) Each court investigator must complete 12 hours of continuing education on some or all of the general topics listed in (b)(1) each calendar year. For court investigators employed by or performing services under contract with the court before the effective date of this rule, the first calendar year the education is required begins on January 1, 2008. For court investigators who begin their employment or performance of services under contract with the court after the effective date of this rule, the first year this education is required begins on January 1 of the year immediately following completion of the education required in (b).
- (2) A court investigator may fulfill the education requirement in (1) through council-sponsored education, an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)), or education approved by the court executive officer or the court investigator's supervisor as meeting the education criteria specified in rule 10.481(b).
- (3) The education required in (1) may be applied to the continuing education required for all nonmanagerial or nonsupervisory court employees under rule 10.474(c)(2).
- (4) The education required in (1) may be by traditional (face-to-face) or distance-learning means, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, or online coursework, but may not be by self-study.

(f) Hours-based education for probate attorneys

- (1) Each probate attorney must complete 12 hours of continuing education each calendar year in probate-related subjects, of which six hours per year must be in guardianships and conservatorships, including court-supervised fiduciary accounting. For probate attorneys employed by or performing services under contract with the court before the effective date of this rule, the first calendar year the education is required begins on January 1, 2008. For probate attorneys who begin their employment with the court after the effective date of this rule, the first year this education is required begins on January 1 of the year immediately following completion of the education required in (c).

- (2) A probate attorney may fulfill the education requirement in (1) through council-sponsored education, an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)), or education approved by the court executive officer or the probate attorney's supervisor as meeting the education criteria specified in rule 10.481(b).
- (3) The education required in (1) may be applied to the continuing education required for all nonmanagerial or nonsupervisory court employees under rule 10.474(c)(2).
- (4) The education required in (1) may be by traditional (face-to-face) or distance-learning means, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, or online coursework, but may not be by self-study.

(g) Hours-based education for probate examiners

- (1) Each probate examiner must complete 12 hours of continuing education each calendar year in probate-related subjects, of which six hours per year must be in guardianships and conservatorships, including court-appointed fiduciary accounting. For probate examiners employed by the court before the effective date of this rule, the first calendar year the education is required begins on January 1, 2008. For probate examiners who begin their employment with the court after the effective date of this rule, the first year this education is required begins on January 1 of the year immediately following completion of the education required in (d).
- (2) A probate examiner may fulfill the education requirement in (1) through council-sponsored education, an approved provider (see rule 10.481(a)), or education approved by the court executive officer or the probate examiner's supervisor as meeting the education criteria specified in rule 10.481(b).
- (3) The education required in (1) may be applied to the continuing education required for all nonmanagerial or nonsupervisory court employees under rule 10.474(c)(2).
- (4) The education required in (1) may be by traditional (face-to-face) or distance-learning means, such as broadcasts, videoconferences, or online coursework, but may not be by self-study.

(Subd (g) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2012.)

(h) Extension of time

The provisions of rule 10.474(d) concerning extensions of time apply to the content-based and hours-based education required under this rule.

(i) Record keeping and reporting

- (1) The provisions of rule 10.474(e) concerning the responsibilities of courts and participating court employees to keep records and track the completion of educational requirements apply to the education required under this rule.
- (2) Judicial Council staff may require courts to report participation by court investigators, probate attorneys, and probate examiners in the education required by this rule as necessary to ensure compliance with Probate Code section 1456.

Rule 10.478 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012.

Rule 10.479. Education recommendations for appellate and trial court personnel

(a) Education recommendations generally

Each appellate and trial court executive or administrative officer, manager, supervisor, and other employee, as part of his or her continuing education, should regularly participate in educational activities related to his or her responsibilities. Minimum education requirements for court personnel are set forth in rules 10.471–10.474. The following recommendations illustrate for some specific responsibilities how executive and administrative officers, managers, supervisors, and other personnel should participate in more education than is required.

(b) Education on treatment of jurors

The presiding judge of each trial court should ensure that all court executives and all court employees who interact with jurors are properly trained in the appropriate treatment of jurors. Court executives and jury staff employees should regularly use CJER educational materials or other appropriate materials and should regularly participate in CJER programs or other appropriate programs devoted to the treatment of jurors.

(c) Fairness and access education

In order to achieve the objective of assisting court employees in preserving the integrity and impartiality of the judicial system through the prevention of bias, all court personnel should regularly participate in education on fairness and access. The education should include instruction on race and ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, persons with disabilities, and sexual harassment.

(d) Education on quality service to court users

Employees should regularly participate in education covering appropriate skills and conduct for working with court customers offered locally or by the Judicial Council through CJER.

Rule 10.479 adopted effective January 1, 2008.

Rule 10.481. Approved providers; approved course criteria

(a) Approved providers

The Judicial Council's Center for Judicial Education and Research (CJER) is responsible for maintaining a current list of approved providers. The list of approved providers must include the Judicial Council, the California Judges Association, and all California state courts and should include other reputable national and state organizations that regularly offer education directed to justices, judges, and court personnel. The director of CJER may add or remove organizations from the list of approved providers as appropriate according to these criteria. Any education program offered by any of the approved providers that is relevant to the work of the courts or enhances the individual participant's ability to perform his or her job may be applied toward the education requirements and expectations stated in rules 10.461–10.479, except for the requirements stated in rules 10.461(b), 10.462(c), and 10.473(b), for which specific providers are required.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2008, and January 1, 2012.)

(b) Approved education criteria

Education is not limited to the approved providers referred to in (a). Any education from another provider that is approved by the Chief Justice, the administrative presiding justice, or the presiding judge as meeting the criteria listed below may be applied toward the continuing education expectations and requirements for justices, judges, and subordinate judicial officers or requirements for clerks/executive officers or court executive officers. Similarly, any education from another provider that is approved by the clerk/executive officer, the court executive officer, or the employee's supervisor as meeting the criteria listed below may be applied toward the orientation or continuing education requirements for managers, supervisors, and other employees or the content-based or continuing education requirements for probate court investigators, probate attorneys, and probate examiners in rule 10.478.

- (1) The education must meet the following three criteria:
 - (A) The subject matter is relevant to the work of the courts or the judicial branch;
 - (B) The education is at least one hour in length; and
 - (C) Anticipated learning outcomes (how new knowledge, skills, or abilities will be applied, demonstrated, or used) are identified prior to the education work.
- (2) The education must also meet at least two of the following five criteria:
 - (A) The learning environment is educationally sound (e.g., distractions are limited and the physical location is conducive to learning the subject matter);
 - (B) The participant receives or has access to all the reference tools and other materials and resources (such as handouts) that are required for learning and applying the content (such as job aids or scripts);
 - (C) The participant has an opportunity to practice using or applying the new information or skill (through direct experience, role-play, or case studies/hypothetical situations) as part of the learning experience;
 - (D) The participant has the opportunity to interact with knowledgeable faculty or other experts in the topical area to pose questions or clarify understanding;
 - (E) An assessment tool or activity (such as the development of an action plan to apply the newly gained knowledge or skill) enables the participant to determine whether the skills, abilities, or knowledge gained through the education can be used in the future in his or her work.

Rule 10.481 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted as rule 10.471 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.481 effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2012, and January 1, 2016.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (b). The director of CJER is available to assist those authorized to approve a request to apply education offered by a non-approved provider in determining whether the education meets the listed criteria.

Rule 10.491. Minimum education requirements for Judicial Council employees

(a) Applicability

Orientation and ongoing professional development for Judicial Council staff enables them to effectively provide service, leadership and expertise to the courts and to enhance trust and confidence in the judicial branch. All Judicial Council employees must complete minimum education requirements. These education requirements are included as a part of the employee performance evaluation process.

(b) Education requirements for new employees and new managers and supervisors

- (1) Each new employee with supervisory or management responsibilities must complete the New Manager/Supervisor Orientation within six months of being hired or appointed or as soon as possible after being hired or appointed.
- (2) Each new employee, including those with supervisory or management responsibilities, must complete the New Employee Orientation within six months of being hired or as soon as possible after being hired.
- (3) Completion of the orientation courses counts toward the education hours requirement in (c).

(c) Continuing education requirements

- (1) Each employee must complete 20 hours of continuing education every two years, beginning on January 1, 2017.
- (2) For new employees beginning employment after July 1 of any year, the education hours may be prorated for that year at the discretion of the employee's supervisor.
- (3) The Administrative Director may require employees to complete specific compliance courses or specific courses for management. This compliance education applies toward the continuing education requirement in (c)(1) on an hour-for-hour basis.

- (4) Education offered by an approved provider described in rule 10.481(a), as well as education that is approved by the employee's supervisor as meeting the criteria listed in rule 10.481(b), applies toward the employee's continuing education requirement.
- (5) Continuing education may be live (face-to-face) or distance education, such as webinars, videoconferencing, online courses, and broadcasts.
- (6) Participation in education, whether as a learner or as faculty, counts toward an employee's continuing education requirement under this rule on an hour-for-hour basis.

Rule 10.491 amended effective January 1, 2017; adopted effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective July 1, 2008, January 1, 2012, July 1, 2013, and January 1, 2016.

Rule 10.492. Temporary extension and pro rata reduction of judicial branch education requirements

(a) Application

This rule applies to the requirements and expectations in the California Rules of Court relating to judicial branch education, except rule 10.491 on minimum education requirements for Judicial Council employees.

(b) Definitions

As used in this rule:

- (1) "Content-based education requirement" means a requirement or expectation of:
 - (A) Attendance at any specific program;
 - (B) A course of study on any specific topic or topics; or
 - (C) A course of study limited to a specific delivery method, such as traditional (live, face-to-face) education.

- (2) “Hours-based education requirement” means a requirement or expectation of a specified number of hours of education to be completed within a specified time period.

(c) Content-based education requirement

Notwithstanding any other rule, any deadline for completion of a content-based education requirement or expectation is extended for 12 months from that deadline, even if the deadline has passed.

(d) Hours-based education requirement

Notwithstanding any other rule, the months of April 2020 through March 2021 are excluded from the education cycles in which those months fall, and the number of hours of education to complete hours-based education requirements or expectations is prorated accordingly.

(e) Sunset

This rule remains in effect through December 31, 2022, or until amended or repealed.

Rule 10.492 adopted effective January 1, 2021.

Advisory Committee Comment

Various rules in title 10, chapter 7, of the California Rules of Court authorize, for good cause, the granting of an extension of time to complete content-based and hours-based education requirements and expectations. Nothing in this rule modifies that authority.

Nothing in this rule alters education requirements and expectations outside the California Rules of Court, including education requirements mandated by statute or regulation (e.g., Welf. & Inst. Code, § 304.7) or required by Judicial Council policy (e.g., the Qualifying Ethics Program and the Temporary Assigned Judges Program).

Subdivision (c). This subdivision applies to all rules of court containing content-based education requirements. Below are examples of this subdivision in practice.

Rule 10.462(c)(1) contains education requirements for new trial court judges and subordinate judicial officers. Based on the date on which individuals took their oath of office, rule 10.462(c)(1) allows judges six months within which to attend the New Judge Orientation (NJO) program, one year within which to attend an orientation course in their primary assignment, and two years within which to attend the B. E. Witkin Judicial College of California.

Under rule 10.462(c)(1), a judge who took the oath of office on January 1, 2020, is required to complete these programs by June 30, 2020 (NJO), December 31, 2020 (primary assignment orientation), and December 31, 2021 (judicial college), respectively. With the 12-month extension under rule 10.492(c), this same judge now has to complete these programs by June 30, 2021 (NJO), December 31, 2021 (primary assignment orientation), and December 31, 2022 (judicial college), respectively.

As another example of the 12-month extension under rule 10.492(c), a judge who took the oath of office on December 1, 2018, needs to complete NJO by April 30, 2020 (within 18 months), a primary assignment orientation by November 30, 2020 (within two years), and the judicial college by November 30, 2021 (within three years).

Using a different rule as an example, rule 10.478(b)(1) requires court investigators to complete 18 hours of education on specified topics within 1 year of their start date. Rule 10.492(c) allows a court investigator up to 2 years to complete this education.

Subdivision (d). This subdivision applies to all rules of court containing hours-based education requirements. Below are examples of this subdivision in practice.

Rule 10.461(c)(1) contains education requirements for Supreme Court and Court of Appeal justices. Each justice must complete 30 hours of judicial education every three years.

Under rule 10.492(d), a justice's hours requirements are prorated for the three-year education cycle that runs from January 1, 2019, through December 31, 2021. For example, justices who were confirmed for appointment before January 1, 2019, must complete 20 hours of education by December 31, 2021.

Education hours requirements for justices who were confirmed for appointment on or after January 1, 2019, would be prorated by rule 10.492(d) and prorated additionally based on the number of years remaining in the three-year educational cycle. For example, a justice confirmed for appointment on October 1, 2020, ordinarily has 10 hours of hours-based education to complete for the last year of the three-year cycle. Under rule 10.492(d), the months of January 2021 through March 2021 would be excluded, and the justice would have 7.5 hours rather than 10 hours of hours-based education to complete.

As an additional example, rule 10.474(c)(2) requires 8 hours of continuing education every two years for nonmanagement court staff. For a court employee hired on or before January 1, 2020, rule 10.492(d) prorates the number of hours of education required for the cycle that runs from January 1, 2020, through December 31, 2021. The number of hours required would be prorated for 4 quarters—April 1, 2020, through March 31, 2021—and would result in a reduced hours-based requirement of 4 hours.

Rule 10.493. Instructor-led training

(a) Definition

“Instructor-led training” means synchronous education, guided by faculty, that allows for real-time communication between faculty and participants and is offered by an approved provider under rule 10.481. Examples of instructor-led training include in-person trainings in a classroom setting, live webinars, and live videoconferences.

(b) Application

Notwithstanding any other rule, instructor-led training may be used to satisfy all continuing education requirements specified in the California Rules of Court that require traditional (live, face-to-face) education. This provision applies whether the requirement relates to a specific course or to a certain percentage or number of hours of education.

Rule 10.493 adopted effective January 1, 20201.

Advisory Committee Comment

This rule is intended to eliminate within the California Rules of Court any restriction that requires that a specific course or a certain number or percentage of hours of education be taken in a traditional (live, face-to-face) learning environment. This rule applies whether the education is described as “traditional (live, face-to-face),” “live (face-to-face),” “in person,” or any combination of these terms.

Division 3. Judicial Administration Rules Applicable to All Courts

Rule 10.500. Public access to judicial administrative records

Rule 10.501. Maintenance of budget and management information

Rule 10.502. Judicial sabbatical pilot program

Rule 10.503. Use of recycled paper by all courts [Repealed]

Rule 10.504. Smoking prohibited in all courts

Rule 10.505. Judicial robes

Rule 10.500. Public access to judicial administrative records

(a) Intent

- (1) The Judicial Council intends by this rule to implement Government Code section 68106.2(g), added by Senate Bill X4 13 (Stats. 2009-10, 4th Ex. Sess. ch. 22), which requires adoption of rules of court that provide public access to nondeliberative and nonadjudicative court records, budget and management information.
- (2) This rule clarifies and expands the public’s right of access to judicial administrative records and must be broadly construed to further the public’s right of access.

(b) Application

- (1) This rule applies to public access to judicial administrative records, including records of budget and management information relating to the administration of the courts.
- (2) This rule does not apply to, modify or otherwise affect existing law regarding public access to adjudicative records.
- (3) This rule does not restrict the rights to disclosure of information otherwise granted by law to a recognized employee organization.
- (4) This rule does not affect the rights of litigants, including parties to administrative proceedings, under the laws of discovery of this state, nor does it limit or impair any rights of discovery in a criminal case.
- (5) This rule does not apply to electronic mail and text messages sent or received before the effective date of this rule.

(c) Definitions

As used in this rule:

- (1) “Adjudicative record” means any writing prepared for or filed or used in a court proceeding, the judicial deliberation process, or the assignment or reassignment of cases and of justices, judges (including temporary and assigned judges), and subordinate judicial officers, or of counsel appointed or employed by the court.
- (2) “Judicial administrative record” means any writing containing information relating to the conduct of the people’s business that is prepared, owned, used, or retained by a judicial branch entity regardless of the writing’s physical form or characteristics, except an adjudicative record. The term “judicial administrative record” does not include records of a personal nature that are not used in or do not relate to the people’s business, such as personal notes, memoranda, electronic mail, calendar entries, and records of Internet use.
- (3) “Judicial branch entity” means the Supreme Court, each Court of Appeal, each superior court, and the Judicial Council.
- (4) “Judicial branch personnel” means justices, judges (including temporary and assigned judges), subordinate judicial officers, members of the Judicial Council and its advisory bodies, and directors, officers, employees, volunteers, and agents of a judicial branch entity.
- (5) “Person” means any natural person, corporation, partnership, limited liability company, firm, or association.

- (6) “Writing” means any handwriting, typewriting, printing, photographing, photocopying, electronic mail, fax, and every other means of recording on any tangible thing any form of communication or representation, including letters, words, pictures, sounds, symbols, or combinations, regardless of the manner in which the record has been stored.

(d) Construction of rule

- (1) Unless otherwise indicated, the terms used in this rule have the same meaning as under the Legislative Open Records Act (Gov. Code, § 9070 et seq.) and the California Public Records Act (Gov. Code, § 6250 et seq.) and must be interpreted consistently with the interpretation applied to the terms under those acts.
- (2) This rule does not require the disclosure of a record if the record is exempt from disclosure under this rule or is the type of record that would not be subject to disclosure under the Legislative Open Records Act or the California Public Records Act.

(e) Public access

- (1) Access
- (A) A judicial branch entity must allow inspection and copying of judicial administrative records unless the records are exempt from disclosure under this rule or by law.
- (B) Nothing in this rule requires a judicial branch entity to create any record or to compile or assemble data in response to a request for judicial administrative records if the judicial branch entity does not compile or assemble the data in the requested form for its own use or for provision to other agencies. For purposes of this rule, selecting data from extractable fields in a single database using software already owned or licensed by the judicial branch entity does not constitute creating a record or compiling or assembling data.
- (C) If a judicial administrative record contains information that is exempt from disclosure and the exempt portions are reasonably segregable, a judicial branch entity must allow inspection and copying of the record after deletion of the portions that are exempt from disclosure. A judicial branch entity is not required to allow inspection or copying of the portion of a writing that is a judicial administrative record unless that portion is reasonably segregable from the portion that constitutes an adjudicative record.

- (D) If requested, a superior court must provide a copy of the certified judicial administrative record if the judicial administrative record requested has previously been certified by the superior court.

(2) Examples

Judicial administrative records subject to inspection and copying unless exempt from disclosure under subdivision (f) include, but are not limited to, the following:

- (A) Budget information submitted to the Judicial Council after enactment of the annual Budget Act;
- (B) Any other budget and expenditure document pertaining to the administrative operation of the courts, including quarterly financial statements and statements of revenue, expenditure, and reserves;
- (C) Actual and budgeted employee salary and benefit information;
- (D) Copies of executed contracts with outside vendors and payment information and policies concerning goods and services provided by outside vendors without an executed contract;
- (E) Final audit reports; and
- (F) Employment contracts between judicial branch entities and their employees.

(3) Procedure for requesting records

A judicial branch entity must make available on its public Web site or otherwise publicize the procedure to be followed to request a copy of or to inspect a judicial administrative record. At a minimum, the procedure must include the address to which requests are to be addressed, to whom requests are to be directed, and the office hours of the judicial branch entity.

(4) Costs of duplication, search, and review

- (A) A judicial branch entity, on request, must provide a copy of a judicial administrative record not exempt from disclosure if the record is of a nature permitting copying, subject to payment of the fee specified in this rule or other applicable statutory fee. A judicial branch entity may require advance payment of any fee.
- (B) A judicial branch entity may impose on all requests a fee reasonably calculated to cover the judicial branch entity's direct costs of duplication of a record or of production of a record in an electronic format under subdivision (i). The fee includes:

- (i) A charge per page, per copy, or otherwise, as established and published by the Judicial Council, or as established by the judicial branch entity following a notice and comment procedure specified by the Judicial Council, representing the direct costs of equipment, supplies, and staff time required to duplicate or produce the requested record; and
 - (ii) Any other direct costs of duplication or production, including, but not limited to, the costs incurred by a judicial branch entity in retrieving the record from a remote storage facility or archive and the costs of mailing responsive records.
- (C) In the case of requests for records for commercial use, a judicial branch entity may impose, in addition to the fee in (B), a fee reasonably calculated to cover the actual costs of staff search and review time, based on an hourly rate for salary and benefits of each employee involved.
- (D) For purposes of this rule:
- (i) “Commercial use” means a request for a use or purpose that furthers the commercial, trade, or profit interests of the requester or the person on whose behalf the request is being made. A request from a representative of the news media that supports its news-dissemination function is not a request for a commercial use.
 - (ii) “Representative of the news media” means a person who regularly gathers, prepares, collects, photographs, records, writes, edits, reports, or publishes news or information that concerns local, national, or international events or other matters of public interest for dissemination to the public for a substantial portion of the person's livelihood or for substantial financial gain.
 - (iii) “Search and review time” means actual time spent identifying and locating judicial administrative records, including material within documents, responsive to a request; determining whether any portions are exempt from disclosure; and performing all tasks necessary to prepare the records for disclosure, including redacting portions exempt from disclosure. “Search and review time” does not include time spent resolving general legal or policy issues regarding the applicability of particular exemptions.

- (E) By January 1, 2012, the Judicial Council will review and evaluate the numbers of requests received, the time necessary to respond, and the fees imposed by judicial branch entities for access to records and information. The Judicial Council's review will consider the impact of this rule on both the public's access to records and information and on judicial branch entities' ability to carry out and fund core judicial operations.

(5) Inspection

A judicial branch entity must make judicial administrative records in its possession and not exempt from disclosure open to inspection at all times during the office hours of the judicial branch entity provided that the record is of a nature permitting inspection.

(6) Time for determination of disclosable records

A judicial branch entity, on a request that reasonably describes an identifiable record or records, must determine, within 10 calendar days from receipt of the request, whether the request, in whole or in part, seeks disclosable judicial administrative records in its possession and must promptly notify the requesting party of the determination and the reasons for the determination.

(7) Response

If a judicial branch entity determines that a request seeks disclosable judicial administrative records, the judicial branch entity must make the disclosable judicial administrative records available promptly. The judicial branch entity must include with the notice of the determination the estimated date and time when the records will be made available. If the judicial branch entity determines that the request, in whole or in part, seeks nondisclosable judicial administrative records, it must convey its determination in writing, include a contact name and telephone number to which inquiries may be directed, and state the express provision of this rule justifying the withholding of the records not disclosed.

(8) Extension of time for determination of disclosable records

In unusual circumstances, to the extent reasonably necessary to the proper processing of the particular request, a judicial branch entity may extend the time limit prescribed for its determination under (e)(6) by no more than 14 calendar days by written notice to the requesting party, stating the reasons for the extension and the date on which the judicial branch entity expects to make a determination. As used in this section, "unusual circumstances" means the following:

- (A) The need to search for and collect the requested records from multiple locations or facilities that are separate from the office processing the request;
- (B) The need to search for, collect, and appropriately examine a voluminous amount of records that are included in a single request; or
- (C) The need for consultation, which must be conducted with all practicable speed, with another judicial branch entity or other governmental agency having substantial subject matter interest in the determination of the request, or with two or more components of the judicial branch entity having substantial subject matter interest in the determination of the request.

(9) Reasonable efforts

- (A) On receipt of a request to inspect or obtain a copy of a judicial administrative record, a judicial branch entity, in order to assist the requester in making a focused and effective request that reasonably describes an identifiable judicial administrative record, must do all of the following to the extent reasonable under the circumstances:
 - (i) Assist the requester in identifying records and information responsive to the request or to the purpose of the request, if stated;
 - (ii) Describe the information technology and physical location in which the records exist; and
 - (iii) Provide suggestions for overcoming any practical basis for denying inspection or copying of the records or information sought.
- (B) The requirements of (A) will be deemed to have been satisfied if the judicial branch entity is unable to identify the requested information after making a reasonable effort to elicit additional clarifying information from the requester that helps identify the record or records.
- (C) The requirements of (A) do not apply to a request for judicial administrative records if the judicial branch entity makes the requested records available or determines that the requested records are exempt from disclosure under this rule.

(10) No obstruction or delay

Nothing in this rule may be construed to permit a judicial branch entity to delay or obstruct the inspection or copying of judicial administrative records that are not exempt from disclosure.

(11) Greater access permitted

Except as otherwise prohibited by law, a judicial branch entity may adopt requirements for itself that allow for faster, more efficient, or greater access to judicial administrative records than prescribed by the requirements of this rule.

(12) Control of records

A judicial branch entity must not sell, exchange, furnish, or otherwise provide a judicial administrative record subject to disclosure under this rule to a private entity in a manner that prevents a judicial branch entity from providing the record directly under this rule. A judicial branch entity must not allow a private entity to control the disclosure of information that is otherwise subject to disclosure under this rule.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(f) Exemptions

Nothing in this rule requires the disclosure of judicial administrative records that are any of the following:

- (1) Preliminary writings, including drafts, notes, working papers, and inter-judicial branch entity or intra-judicial branch entity memoranda, that are not retained by the judicial branch entity in the ordinary course of business, if the public interest in withholding those records clearly outweighs the public interest in disclosure;
- (2) Records pertaining to pending or anticipated claims or litigation to which a judicial branch entity is a party or judicial branch personnel are parties, until the pending litigation or claim has been finally adjudicated or otherwise resolved;
- (3) Personnel, medical, or similar files, or other personal information whose disclosure would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, including, but not limited to, records revealing home addresses, home telephone numbers, cellular telephone numbers, private electronic mail addresses, and social security numbers of judicial branch personnel and work electronic mail addresses and work telephone numbers of justices, judges (including temporary and assigned judges), subordinate judicial officers, and their staff attorneys;

- (4) Test questions, scoring keys, and other examination data used to develop, administer, and score examinations for employment, certification, or qualification;
- (5) Records whose disclosure is exempted or prohibited under state or federal law, including provisions of the California Evidence Code relating to privilege, or by court order in any court proceeding;
- (6) Records whose disclosure would compromise the security of a judicial branch entity or the safety of judicial branch personnel, including but not limited to, court security plans, and security surveys, investigations, procedures, and assessments;
- (7) Records related to evaluations of, complaints regarding, or investigations of justices, judges (including temporary and assigned judges), subordinate judicial officers, and applicants or candidates for judicial office;
- (8) The contents of real estate appraisals or engineering or feasibility estimates and evaluations made for or by the judicial branch entity related to the acquisition of property or to prospective public supply and construction contracts, until all of the property has been acquired or the relevant contracts have been executed. This provision does not affect the law of eminent domain;
- (9) Records related to activities governed by Government Code sections 71600 et seq. and 71800 et seq. that reveal deliberative processes, impressions, evaluations, opinions, recommendations, meeting minutes, research, work products, theories, or strategy or that provide instruction, advice, or training to employees who are not represented by employee organizations under those sections. Nothing in this subdivision limits the disclosure duties of a judicial branch entity with respect to any other records relating to the activities governed by the employee relations acts referred to in this subdivision;
- (10) Records that contain trade secrets or privileged or confidential commercial and financial information submitted in response to a judicial branch entity's solicitation for goods or services or in the course of a judicial branch entity's contractual relationship with a commercial entity. For purposes of this rule:
 - (A) "Trade secret" means information, including a formula, pattern, compilation, program, device, method, technique, or process, that:
 - (i) Derives independent economic value, actual or potential, from not being generally known to the public or to other persons who can obtain economic value from its disclosure or use; and

- (ii) Is the subject of efforts that are reasonable under the circumstances to maintain its secrecy;
- (B) “Privileged information” means material that falls within recognized constitutional, statutory, or common law privileges;
- (C) “Confidential commercial and financial information” means information whose disclosure would:
 - (i) Impair the judicial branch entity’s ability to obtain necessary information in the future; or
 - (ii) Cause substantial harm to the competitive position of the person from whom the information was obtained.
- (11) Records whose disclosure would disclose the judicial branch entity’s or judicial branch personnel’s decision-making process, provided that, on the facts of the specific request for records, the public interest served by nondisclosure clearly outweighs the public interest served by disclosure of the record; or
- (12) If, on the facts of the specific request for records, the public interest served by nondisclosure of the record clearly outweighs the public interest served by disclosure of the record.

(g) Computer software; copyrighted materials

- (1) Computer software developed by a judicial branch entity or used by a judicial branch entity for the storage or manipulation of data is not a judicial administrative record under this rule. For purposes of this rule “computer software” includes computer mapping systems, computer graphic systems, and computer programs, including the source, object, and other code in a computer program.
- (2) This rule does not limit a judicial branch entity’s ability to sell, lease, or license computer software for commercial or noncommercial use.
- (3) This rule does not create an implied warranty on the part of any judicial branch entity for errors, omissions, or other defects in any computer software.
- (4) This rule does not limit any copyright protection. A judicial branch entity is not required to duplicate records under this rule in violation of any copyright.
- (5) Nothing in this subdivision is intended to affect the judicial administrative record status of information merely because the information is stored in a computer. Judicial administrative records stored in a computer will be disclosed as required in this rule.

(h) Waiver of exemptions

- (1) Disclosure of a judicial administrative record that is exempt from disclosure under this rule or provision of law by a judicial branch entity or judicial branch personnel acting within the scope of their office or employment constitutes a waiver of the exemptions applicable to that particular record.
- (2) This subdivision does not apply to disclosures:
 - (A) Made through discovery proceedings;
 - (B) Made through other legal proceedings or as otherwise required by law;
 - (C) Made to another judicial branch entity or judicial branch personnel for the purposes of judicial branch administration;
 - (D) Within the scope of a statute that limits disclosure of specified writings to certain purposes; or
 - (E) Made to any governmental agency or to another judicial branch entity or judicial branch personnel if the material will be treated confidentially.

(i) Availability in electronic format

- (1) A judicial branch entity that has information that constitutes an identifiable judicial administrative record not exempt from disclosure under this rule and that is in an electronic format must, on request, produce that information in the electronic format requested, provided that:
 - (A) No law prohibits disclosure;
 - (B) The record already exists in the requested electronic format, or the judicial branch entity has previously produced the judicial administrative record in the requested format for its own use or for provision to other agencies;
 - (C) The requested electronic format is customary or standard for records of a similar type and is commercially available to private entity requesters; and

- (D) The disclosure does not jeopardize or compromise the security or integrity of the original record or the computer software on which the original record is maintained.
- (2) In addition to other fees imposed under this rule, the requester will bear the direct cost of producing a record if:
 - (A) In order to comply with (1), the judicial branch entity would be required to produce a record and the record is one that is produced only at otherwise regularly scheduled intervals or;
 - (B) Producing the requested record would require data compilation or extraction or any associated programming that the judicial branch entity is not required to perform under this rule but has agreed to perform in response to the request.
- (3) Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to require a judicial branch entity to reconstruct a record in an electronic format if the judicial branch entity no longer has the record available in an electronic format.

(j) Public access disputes

- (1) Unless the petitioner elects to proceed under (2) below, disputes and appeals of decisions with respect to disputes with the Judicial Council or a superior court regarding access to budget and management information required to be maintained under rule 10.501 are subject to the process described in rule 10.803.
- (2) Any person may institute proceedings for injunctive or declarative relief or writ of mandate in any court of competent jurisdiction to enforce his or her right to inspect or to receive a copy of any judicial administrative record under this rule.
- (3) Whenever it is made to appear by verified petition that a judicial administrative record is being improperly withheld from disclosure, the court with jurisdiction will order the judicial branch entity to disclose the records or show cause why it should not do so. The court will decide the case after examining the record (in camera if appropriate), papers filed by the parties, and any oral argument and additional evidence as the court may allow.
- (4) If the court finds that the judicial branch entity's decision to refuse disclosure is not justified under this rule, the court will order the judicial branch entity to make the record public. If the court finds that the judicial branch entity's decision was justified, the court will issue an order supporting the decision.

- (5) An order of the court, either directing disclosure or supporting the decision of the judicial branch entity refusing disclosure, is not a final judgment or order within the meaning of Code of Civil Procedure section 904.1 from which an appeal may be taken, but will be immediately reviewable by petition to the appellate court for the issuance of an extraordinary writ. Upon entry of an order under this subdivision, a party must, in order to obtain review of the order, file a petition within 20 days after service of a written notice of entry of the order or within such further time not exceeding an additional 20 days as the court may for good cause allow. If the notice is served by mail, the period within which to file the petition will be extended by 5 days. A stay of an order or judgment will not be granted unless the petitioning party demonstrates it will otherwise sustain irreparable damage and probable success on the merits. Any person who fails to obey the order of the court will be cited to show cause why that is not in contempt of court.
- (6) The court will award court costs and reasonable attorney fees to the plaintiff should the plaintiff prevail in litigation filed under this subdivision. The costs and fees will be paid by the judicial branch entity and will not become a personal liability of any individual. If the court finds that the plaintiff's case is clearly frivolous, it will award court costs and reasonable attorney fees to the judicial branch entity.

Rule 10.500 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2010.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (a). By establishing a public access rule applicable to all judicial administrative records, the proposed rule would expand public access to these records. The Judicial Council recognizes the important public interest in access to records and information relating to the administration of the judicial branch. The Judicial Council also recognizes the importance of the privacy rights of individuals working in or doing business with judicial branch entities and the public's interest in an effective and independent judicial branch of state government. The report on this rule includes the Judicial Council's findings on the impact of this rule on these interests, and how these interests are protected by the rule.

Subdivisions (b)(1) and (b)(2). This rule does not apply to adjudicative records, and is not intended to modify existing law regarding public access to adjudicative records. California case law has established that, in general, subject to specific statutory exceptions, case records that accurately and officially reflect the work of the court are public records open to inspection. (Estate of Hearst (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 777, 782-83.) However, documents prepared in the course of adjudicative work and not regarded as official case records, such as preliminary drafts, personal notes, and rough records of proceedings, are not subject to public access because the perceived harm to the judicial process by requiring this material to be available to the public is greater than the benefit the public might derive from its disclosure. (Copley Press, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 106.)

Subdivision (c)(2). The application of this rule is intended to reflect existing case law under the California Public Records Act that exempts from the definition of “public record” certain types of personal records and information. The concept was first discussed in the California Assembly and establishes that if personal correspondence and information are “unrelated to the conduct of the people’s business” they are therefore not public records. (San Gabriel Tribune v. Superior Court (1983) 143 Cal.App.3d 762, 774, citing Assembly Committee on Statewide Information Policy California Public Records Act of 1968, section B, page 9, Appendix to Assembly Journal (1970 Reg. Sess.)) Case law has further established that only records necessary or convenient to the discharge of official duty, or kept as necessary or convenient to the discharge of official duty, are public records for the purposes of the California Public Records Act and its predecessors. (Braun v. City of Taft (1984) 154 Cal.App.3d 332; City Council of Santa Monica v. Superior Court (1962) 204 Cal.App.2d 68.)

Subdivision (e)(4). The fees charged by a judicial branch entity under this rule are intended to allow the entity to recover an amount not to exceed the reasonable costs of responding to a request for records or information. In accordance with existing practice within the judicial branch and the other branches of government, the Judicial Council intends agencies and entities of the executive and legislative branches of the California state government to receive records or information requested from judicial branch entities for the agency’s or entity’s use free of charge. This subdivision is intended to provide, however, that requesters of records or information for the purpose of furthering the requester’s commercial interests will be charged for costs incurred by the judicial branch entity in responding to the request, and that such costs will not be a charge against the budget of the judicial branch of the state General Fund.

Subdivision (f)(3). In addition to the types of records and information exempt from disclosure under the corresponding provision of the California Public Records Act, Government Code section 6254(c), this provision includes a further nonexclusive list of specific information that is exempt under this rule. The rule does not attempt to list each category of information that is specific to judicial branch entities and that may also be exempt under this rule. For example, although they are not specifically listed, this provision exempts from disclosure records maintained by any court or court-appointed counsel administrator for the purpose of evaluating attorneys seeking or being considered for appointment to cases.

Subdivision (f)(10). The definition of “trade secret” restates the definition in Civil Code section 3426.1.

Subdivision (f)(11). This subdivision is intended to reflect California law on the subject of the “deliberative process” exemption under the California Public Records Act, which is currently stated in the Supreme Court’s decision in Times Mirror Co. v. Superior Court (1991) 53 Cal.3d 1325 and the later Court of Appeal decisions California First Amendment Coalition v. Superior Court (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 159 and Wilson v. Superior Court (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1136.

Subdivision (j)(1). Under current rule 10.803 a petitioner may file a writ in a superior court regarding a dispute with a superior court or the Judicial Council with respect to disclosure of records and information required to be maintained under current rule 10.802. The writ petition must be heard on an expedited basis and includes a right to an appeal. The statutory authority for the hearing process set forth in current rule 10.803, Government Code section 71675(b), does not extend this procedure to other disputes with respect to public access. The rule provides that petitioners with a dispute with any other judicial branch entity, or with respect to records that are not required to be maintained under rule 10.802, may follow the procedure set forth in (j)(2) through (j)(6), which is equivalent to the dispute resolution procedure of the California Public Records Act. A petitioner eligible for the dispute resolution process set out in current rule 10.803 may also elect to proceed with his or her dispute under the procedure set forth in (j)(2) through (j)(6).

Rule 10.501. Maintenance of budget and management information

(a) Maintenance of information by the superior court

Each superior court must maintain for a period of three years from the close of the fiscal year to which the following relate:

- (1) Official documents of the superior court pertaining to the approved superior court budget allocation adopted by the Judicial Council and actual final year-end superior court revenue and expenditure reports as required in budget procedures issued by Judicial Council staff to be maintained or reported to the council, including budget allocation, revenue, and expenditure reports;
- (2) Records or other factual management information on matters that are within the scope of representation as defined in Government Code section 71634 unless distribution is otherwise precluded by law; and
- (3) Records or other factual management information on other matters referred to in Government Code section 71634 unless distribution is otherwise precluded by law.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(b) Maintenance of information by Judicial Council staff

Judicial Council staff must maintain for a period of three years from the close of the fiscal year to which the following relate:

- (1) Official approved budget allocations for each superior court;
- (2) Actual final year-end superior court revenue and expenditure reports required by budget procedures issued by Judicial Council staff to be maintained or reported to the council that are received from the courts, including budget revenues and expenditures for each superior court;
- (3) Budget priorities as adopted by the council; and
- (4) Documents concerning superior court budgets considered or adopted by the council at council business meetings on court budgets.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

Rule 10.501 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2010.

Rule 10.502. Judicial sabbatical program

(a) Objective

Sabbatical leave is a privilege available to jurists by statute. The objective of sabbatical leave is to facilitate study that will benefit the administration of justice and enhance judges' performance of their duties.

(Subd (a) amended effective July 23, 2018)

(b) Eligibility

Any judge is eligible to apply for an unpaid sabbatical under Government Code section 68554.

(Subd (b) amended effective July 23, 2018)

(c) Application

- (1) Judge may apply for a sabbatical by submitting a sabbatical proposal to the Administrative Director with a copy to the presiding judge or justice.
- (2) The sabbatical proposal must include:
 - (A) The beginning and ending dates of the proposed sabbatical;
 - (B) A description of the sabbatical project, including an explanation of how the sabbatical will benefit the administration of justice and the judge's performance of his or her duties; and
 - (C) A statement from the presiding judge or justice of the affected court, indicating approval or disapproval of the sabbatical request and the reasons for such approval or disapproval, forwarded to the Executive and Planning Committee with a copy to the judge.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 23, 2018; previously amended effective January 1, 2007 and January 1, 2016.)

(d) Review of applications

The Executive and Planning Committee will make recommendations to the Judicial Council regarding sabbatical requests, with support from the council's human resources staff.

(Subd (d) amended effective July 23, 2018; previously amended effective January 1, 2007 and January 1, 2016.)

(e) Evaluation

- (1) The Administrative Director must forward all sabbatical requests that comply with (c) to the Executive and Planning Committee.
- (2) The Executive and Planning Committee must recommend granting or denying the sabbatical request after it considers the following factors:
 - (A) Whether the sabbatical will benefit the administration of justice in California and the judge's performance of his or her duties; and
 - (B) Whether the sabbatical leave will be detrimental to the affected court.

(f) Length

Unpaid judicial sabbatical taken under Government Code section 68554 may not exceed one year.

(Subd (f) amended effective July 23, 2018)

(g) Ethics and compensation

A judge on unpaid sabbatical leave is subject to the California Code of Judicial Ethics and may receive compensation and reimbursement for expenses for activities performed during that sabbatical leave as provided in canon 4H of the Code of Judicial Ethics.

(Subd (g) amended effective July 23, 2018)

(h) Retirement and benefits

A judge on unpaid sabbatical leave under Government Code section 68554 receives no compensation, and the period of absence does not count as service toward retirement. The leave does not affect the term of office.

(Subd (h) amended and relettered effective July 23, 2018; adopted as subd (i) effective January 1, 2007.)

(i) Judge's report

On completion of a sabbatical leave, the judge must report in writing to the Judicial Council on how the leave benefited the administration of justice in California and on its effect on his or her official duties as a judicial officer.

(Subd (i) amended and relettered effective July 23, 2018; adopted as subd (h) effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.502 amended effective July 23, 2018; adopted as rule 6.151 effective January 1, 2003; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.502 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2016.

Rule 10.503. Use of recycled paper by all courts [Repealed]

Rule 10.503 repealed effective January 1, 2014; adopted as rule 989.1 effective January 1, 1994; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.504. Smoking prohibited in all courts

(a) Definition

“Court facilities” means courthouses and all areas of multipurpose buildings used for court operations.

(b) Smoking prohibited

Smoking is prohibited in all court facilities.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Signs

Conspicuous no-smoking signs must be placed in all court facilities.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.504 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 989.5 effective July 1, 1991

Rule 10.505. Judicial robes

(a) Color and length

The judicial robe required by Government Code section 68110 must be black, must extend in front and back from the collar and shoulders to below the knees, and must have sleeves to the wrists.

(Subd (a) amended and lettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (e) effective September 24, 1959; relettered as subd (d) effective July 1, 1963; amended as an unlettered subd effective January 1, 2003.)

(b) Style

The judicial robe must conform to the style customarily worn in courts in the United States.

(Subd (b) amended and lettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (e) effective September 24, 1959; relettered as subd (d) effective July 1, 1963; amended as an unlettered subd effective January 1, 2003.)

Rule 10.505 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 249 effective January 1, 1949; previously amended effective September 24, 1959, and July 1, 1963; amended and renumbered as rule 299 effective January 1, 2003.

Division 4. Trial Court Administration

Chapter 1. General Rules on Trial Court Management

Rule 10.601. Superior court management

Rule 10.602. Selection and term of presiding judge

Rule 10.603. Authority and duties of presiding judge

Rule 10.605. Executive committee

Rule 10.608. Duties of all judges

Rule 10.609. Notification to State Bar of attorney misconduct

Rule 10.610. Duties of court executive officer

Rule 10.611. Nondiscrimination in court appointments

Rule 10.612. Use of gender-neutral language

Rule 10.613. Local court rules—adopting, filing, distributing, and maintaining

Rule 10.614. Local court forms

Rule 10.620. Public access to administrative decisions of trial courts

Rule 10.625. Certain demographic data relating to regular grand jurors

Rule 10.630. Reciprocal assignment orders

Rule 10.601. Superior court management

(a) Purpose

The rules in this division establish a system of trial court management that:

- (1) Promotes equal access to the courts;
- (2) Establishes decentralized management of trial court resources; and
- (3) Enables the trial courts to operate in an efficient, effective, and accountable manner in serving the people of California.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Goals

The rules in this division are intended to ensure the authority and responsibility of the superior courts to do the following, consistent with statutes, rules of court, and standards of judicial administration:

- (1) Manage their day-to-day operations with sufficient flexibility to meet the needs of those served by the courts;
- (2) Establish the means of selecting presiding judges, assistant presiding judges, executive officers or court administrators, clerks of court, and jury commissioners;
- (3) Manage their personnel systems, including the adoption of personnel policies;
- (4) Manage their budget and fiscal operations, including allocating funding and moving funding between functions or line items;
- (5) Provide input to the Judicial Council, the Trial Court Budget Advisory Committee, and Judicial Council on the trial court budget process; and
- (6) Develop and implement processes and procedures to improve court operations and responsiveness to the public.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2002, and January 1, 2007.)

(c) Decentralized management

“Decentralized management” as used in the rules in this division refers to the administration of the trial courts on a countywide basis, unless an alternative structure has been approved by the Judicial Council, consistent with applicable statutes, rules, and standards of judicial administration.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.601 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 2501 effective July 1, 1998; renumbered as rule 6.601 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2002; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.601 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.602. Selection and term of presiding judge

(a) Selection

(1) Courts with three or more judges

Each court that has three or more judges must select a presiding judge. Selection of the presiding judge may be by secret ballot. The court should establish an internal local rule or policy for the selection of the presiding judge and assistant presiding judge, if any.

(2) Two-judge courts

In a court having two judges, the selection of the presiding judge must conform to Government Code section 69508.5. If selection cannot be agreed on and neither judge has at least four years of experience, the senior judge must hold the office of presiding judge until both judges have at least four years of experience.

(b) Requisite experience and waiver

A presiding judge must have at least four years of experience as a judge, unless this requirement is waived by a majority vote of the judges of the court. Nomination and selection of a presiding judge should take into consideration the judge's:

- (1) Management and administrative ability;
- (2) Interest in serving in the position;
- (3) Experience and familiarity with a variety of trial court assignments;
- (4) Ability to motivate and educate other judicial officers and court personnel;
- (5) Ability to evaluate the strengths of the court's bench officers and make assignments based on those strengths as well as the best interests of the public and the court; and
- (6) Other appropriate factors.

(c) Term

A presiding judge in a court with two judges must be elected for a term of not less than one year. A presiding judge in a court with three or more judges must be elected for an initial term of not less than two years. The presiding judge may be elected for additional terms. The court may change the duration of the initial or additional term by local rule or policy so long as the initial term is not less than the duration specified in this rule. A presiding judge may be removed by a majority vote of the judges of the court.

(d) Assistant presiding judge and acting presiding judge

- (1) The court may elect an assistant presiding judge.
- (2) If the court's internal local rule or policy does not provide for the designation of an acting presiding judge to serve if the presiding judge is absent or unable to act, the presiding judge must designate one.
- (3) The court should provide the assistant presiding judge with training to foster an orderly succession to the office of presiding judge.

(e) Caseload adjustment

To the extent possible, the judicial caseload should be adjusted to provide the presiding judge with sufficient time and resources to devote to the management and administrative duties of the office.

Rule 10.602 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.602 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2005.

Advisory Committee Comment

The internal local rule described in this rule relates only to the internal management of the court, and as such is exempt from the requirements in rule 10.613. (See rule 10.613(j).)

Rule 10.603. Authority and duties of presiding judge

(a) General responsibilities

The presiding judge is responsible, with the assistance of the court executive officer, for leading the court, establishing policies, and allocating resources in a manner that promotes access to justice for all members of the public, provides a forum for the fair and expeditious resolution of disputes, maximizes the use of judicial and other resources, increases efficiency in court operations, and enhances service to the public. The presiding judge is responsible for:

- (1) Ensuring the effective management and administration of the court, consistent with any rules, policies, strategic plan, or budget adopted by the Judicial Council or the court;
- (2) Ensuring that the duties of all judges specified under rule 10.608 are timely and orderly performed; and
- (3) Ensuring that the court has adopted written policies and procedures allowing the presiding judge to perform efficiently the administrative duties of that office.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Authority

- (1) The presiding judge is authorized to:
 - (A) Assign judges to departments and designate supervising judges for divisions, districts, or branch courts;
 - (B) Apportion the business of the court, including assigning and reassigning cases to departments;
 - (C) Call meetings of the judges;
 - (D) Appoint standing and special committees of judges;
 - (E) Act as the spokesperson for the court;
 - (F) Authorize and direct expenditures from the court's Trial Court Operations Fund; and
 - (G) Perform all acts necessary to accomplish the duties specified by the rules of court.
- (2) No local rule or policy may limit the authority of the presiding judge as granted in the rules of court.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Duties

(1) Assignments

The presiding judge has ultimate authority to make judicial assignments. The presiding judge must:

- (A) Designate a judge to preside in each department, including a master calendar judge when appropriate, and designate a presiding judge of the juvenile division and a supervising judge for each division, district, or branch court. In making judicial assignments, the presiding judge must take into account the following:
 - (i) The needs of the public and the court, as they relate to the efficient and effective management of the court's calendar;
 - (ii) The knowledge and abilities demanded by the assignment;
 - (iii) The judge's judicial and nonjudicial experience, including specialized training or education;
 - (iv) The judge's interests;
 - (v) The need for continuity in the assignment;
 - (vi) The desirability of exposing the judge to a particular type of assignment; and
 - (vii) Other appropriate factors. Judicial assignments must not be based solely or primarily on seniority;
- (B) Assign to a master calendar judge any of the duties that may more appropriately be performed by that department;
- (C) Supervise the court's calendar, apportion the business of the court among the several departments of the court as equally as possible, and publish for general distribution copies of a current calendar specifying the judicial assignments of the judges and the times and places assigned for hearings;
- (D) Reassign cases between departments as convenience or necessity requires; and

- (E) Designate a judge to act if by law or the rules of court a matter is required to be presented to or heard by a particular judge and that judge is absent, deceased, or unable to act.

(2) Judicial schedules

- (A) The presiding judge must adopt a process for scheduling judges' vacations and absences from court for attendance at schools, conferences, workshops, and community outreach activities, and must prepare a plan for these vacations and absences from court.
- (B) The plan should take into account the principles contained in standards 10.11 10.13 (on judicial education) and standard 10.5 (on community activities) of the Standards of Judicial Administration.
- (C) The presiding judge must review requests from judges for time absent from court and may approve any request that is consistent with the plan and with the orderly operation of the court.
- (D) The presiding judge must allow each judge to take two days of personal leave per year. Personal leave may be taken at any time that is approved by the presiding judge.
- (E) The presiding judge must allow the following number of days of vacation for each judge annually:
 - (i) 24 days for judges with less than 7 years of service as a California judge;
 - (ii) 27 days for judges with at least 7 but less than 14 years of service as a California judge; and
 - (iii) 30 days for judges with 14 or more years of service as a California judge.
- (F) The presiding judge may authorize a judge to take more time off than is specified in (c)(2)(E) as justified by extraordinary circumstances, if the circumstances are documented and the authorization is in writing.
- (G) The presiding judge, in his or her discretion, may allow a judge to take additional vacation days equal to the number of vacation days that the judge did not use in the previous year, up to a maximum of 30 such days. A court may, by local rule, establish a lower maximum number of such days. This paragraph applies only to vacation days accrued after January 1, 2001. It does not affect any unused vacation days that a judge may have accrued before January 1, 2001, which are governed by local court policy, nor does it create any right to compensation for unused vacation days.

- (H) The court must, by local rule, define a day of vacation. Absence from court to attend an authorized education program, conference, or workshop for judges, or to participate in Judicial Council or other authorized committees or community outreach activities, is not vacation time if attendance is in accordance with the plan and has the prior approval of the presiding judge. Absence from court due to illness is not vacation time. This rule does not limit the time a judge may be absent from court when unable to work because of illness.
- (I) To ensure compliance with the plan, the presiding judge must establish a system to monitor judges' absences from court and maintain records of those absences.

(3) Submitted cases

The presiding judge must supervise and monitor the number of causes under submission before the judges of the court and ensure that no cause under submission remains undecided and pending for longer than 90 days. As an aid in accomplishing this goal, the presiding judge must:

- (A) Require each judge to report to the presiding judge all causes under submission for more than 30 days and, with respect to each cause, designate whether it has been under submission for 30 through 60 days, 61 through 90 days, or over 90 days;
- (B) Compile a list of all causes under submission before judges of the court, designated as the submitted list, which must include the name of each judge, a list of causes under submission before that judge, and the length of time each cause has been under submission;
- (C) Circulate monthly a complete copy of the submitted list to each judge of the court;
- (D) Contact and alert each judge who has a cause under submission for over 30 days and discuss ways to ensure that the cause is timely decided;
- (E) Consider providing assistance to a judge who has a cause under submission for over 60 days; and
- (F) Consider requesting the services of Judicial Council staff to review the court's calendar management procedures and make recommendations whenever either of the following condition exists in the court for the most recent three months:

- (i) More than 90 civil active cases are pending for each judicial position; or
- (ii) More than 10 percent of the cases on the civil active list have been pending for one year or more.

(4) Oversight of judicial officers

The presiding judge must:

(A) Judges

Notify the Commission on Judicial Performance of:

- (i) A judge's substantial failure to perform judicial duties, including any habitual neglect of duty, persistent refusal to carry out assignments as assigned by the presiding judge, or persistent refusal to carry out the directives of the presiding judge as authorized by the rules of court; or
- (ii) Any absences caused by disability totaling more than 90 court days in a 12-month period, excluding absences authorized under (c)(2);

(B) Notice

Give the judge a copy of the notice to the commission under (A) if appropriate. If a copy is not given to the judge, the presiding judge must inform the commission of the reasons why so notifying the judge was deemed inappropriate;

(C) Commissioners

- (i) Prepare and submit to the judges for consideration and adoption procedures for receiving, inquiring into, and resolving complaints lodged against subordinate judicial officers, consistent with rule 10.703; and
- (ii) Notify the Commission on Judicial Performance if a subordinate judicial officer is disciplined or resigns, consistent with rule 10.703(j).

(D) Temporary judges

Be responsible for the recruitment, training, supervision, approval, and performance of temporary judges as provided in rules 2.810–2.819 and rules 10.740–10.746; and

(E) Assigned judges

For each assigned retired judge:

- (i) Complete a confidential evaluation form;
- (ii) Submit the form annually to the Administrative Director;
- (iii) Direct complaints against the assigned judge to the Chief Justice, by forwarding them to the attention of the Administrative Director, and provide requested information in writing to the Administrative Director in a timely manner; and
- (iv) Assist the Administrative Director in the process of investigating, evaluating, and making recommendations to the Chief Justice regarding complaints against retired judges who serve on assignment.

(5) Personnel

- (A) The presiding judge must provide general direction to and supervision of the court executive officer, or, if the court has no executive officer, perform the duties of the court executive regarding personnel as specified in rule 10.610(c)(1).
- (B) The presiding judge must approve, in writing, the total compensation package (salary and all benefits) offered to the court executive officer at the time of the executive officer's appointment and any subsequent changes to the executive officer's total compensation package.

(6) Budget and fiscal management

The presiding judge must:

- (A) Establish a process for consulting with the judges of the court on budget requests, expenditure plans, and other budget or fiscal matters that the presiding judge deems appropriate;
- (B) Establish responsible budget priorities and submit budget requests that will best enable the court to achieve its goals;

- (C) Establish a documented process for setting and approving any changes to the court executive officer's total compensation package in a fiscally responsible manner consistent with the court's established budget; and
- (D) Approve procurements, contracts, expenditures, and the allocation of funds in a manner that promotes the implementation of state and local budget priorities and that ensures equal access to justice and the ability of the court to carry out its functions effectively. In a court with an executive officer, the presiding judge may delegate these duties to the court executive officer, but the presiding judge must ensure that the court executive officer performs such delegated duties consistent with the court's established budget.

(7) Meetings and committees

The presiding judge must establish a process for consulting with the judges of the court and may call meetings of the judges as needed. The presiding judge may appoint standing and special committees of judges as needed to assist in the proper performance of the duties and functions of the court.

(8) Liaison

The presiding judge must:

- (A) Provide for liaison between the court and the Judicial Council, Judicial Council staff, and other governmental and civic agencies;
- (B) Meet with or designate a judge or judges to meet with any committee of the bench, bar, news media, or community to review problems and to promote understanding of the administration of justice, when appropriate; and
- (C) Support and encourage the judges to actively engage in community outreach to increase public understanding of and involvement with the justice system and to obtain appropriate community input regarding the administration of justice, consistent with the California Code of Judicial Ethics and standard 10.5 of the Standards of Judicial Administration.

(9) Planning

The presiding judge must:

- (A) Prepare, with the assistance of appropriate court committees and appropriate input from the community, a long-range strategic plan that is consistent with the plan and policies of the Judicial Council, for adoption in accordance with procedures established by local rules or policies; and

- (B) Ensure that the court regularly and actively examines access issues, including any physical, language, or economic barriers that impede the fair administration of justice.

(10) Appellate records

The presiding judge is responsible for ensuring the timely preparation of records on appeal.

- (A) The presiding judge ordinarily should delegate the following duties to the executive officer:
 - (i) Maintaining records of outstanding transcripts to be completed by each court reporter;
 - (ii) Reassigning court reporters as necessary to facilitate prompt completion of transcripts; and
 - (iii) Reviewing court reporters' requests for extensions of time to complete transcripts in appeals of criminal cases.
- (B) After reasonable notice and hearing, the presiding judge must declare any reporter of the court who is delinquent in completing a transcript on appeal not competent to act as a reporter in court, under Government Code section 69944.

(11) Local rules

The presiding judge must prepare, with the assistance of appropriate court committees, proposed local rules to expedite and facilitate court business in accordance with Government Code section 68071 and rules 2.100, 3.20, and 10.613.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2001, January 1, 2002, January 1, 2006, July 1, 2006, January 1, 2007, and July 1, 2010.)

(d) Delegation

The presiding judge may delegate any of the specific duties listed in this rule to another judge. Except for the duties listed in (c)(5)(B) and (c)(6)(C), the presiding judge may delegate to the court executive officer any of the duties listed in this rule that do not require the exercise of judicial authority. The presiding judge remains responsible for all duties listed in this rule even if he or she has delegated particular tasks to someone else.

Rule 10.603 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.603 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2002, January 1, 2006, July 1, 2006, and July 1, 2010.

Rule 10.605. Executive committee

In accordance with the internal policies of the court, an executive committee may be established by the court to advise the presiding judge or to establish policies and procedures for the internal management of the court. An executive committee may be appointed by the presiding judge to advise the presiding judge.

Rule 10.605 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted rule 6.605 effective January 1, 2001.

Rule 10.608. Duties of all judges

Each judge must:

- (1) Hear all assigned matters unless:
 - (A) He or she is disqualified; or
 - (B) He or she has stated in writing the reasons for refusing to hear a cause assigned for trial, and the presiding judge, supervising judge, or master calendar judge has concurred;
- (2) Immediately notify the master calendar judge or the presiding judge on the completion or continuation of a trial or any other matter assigned for hearing;
- (3) Request approval of the presiding judge for any intended absence of one-half day or more, within a reasonable time before the intended absence;
- (4) Follow the court's personnel plan in dealing with employees; and
- (5) Follow directives of the presiding judge in matters of court management and administration, as authorized by the rules of court and the local rules and internal policies of the court.

Rule 10.608 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.608 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2006.

Rule 10.609. Notification to State Bar of attorney misconduct

(a) Notification by judge

When notification to the State Bar is required under Business and Professions Code section 6086.7, the judge issuing the order that triggers the notification requirement under section 6086.7 is responsible for notifying the State Bar. The judge may direct court staff to notify the State Bar.

(b) Contents of notice

The notice must include the State Bar member's full name and State Bar number, if known, and a copy of the order that triggered the notification requirement.

(c) Notification to attorney

If notification to the State Bar is made under this rule, the person who notified the State Bar must also inform the attorney who is the subject of the notification that the matter has been referred to the State Bar.

Rule 10.609 adopted effective January 1, 2014.

Advisory Committee Comment

Business and Professions Code section 6086.7 requires a court to notify the State Bar of any of the following: (1) a final order of contempt imposed on an attorney that may involve grounds warranting discipline under the State Bar Act; (2) a modification or reversal of a judgment in a judicial proceeding based in whole or in part on the misconduct, incompetent representation, or willful misrepresentation of an attorney; (3) the imposition of any judicial sanctions on an attorney of $1,000 or more, except sanctions for failure to make discovery; or (4) the imposition of any civil penalty on an attorney under Family Code section 8620. If the notification pertains to a final order of contempt, Business and Professions Code section 6086.7(a)(1) requires the court to transmit to the State Bar a copy of the relevant minutes, final order, and transcript, if one exists. This rule is intended to clarify who has the responsibility of notifying the State Bar under section 6086.7 and the required contents of the notice.

In addition to the requirements stated in Business and Professions Code section 6086.7, judges are subject to canon 3D(2) of the California Code of Judicial Ethics, which states: "Whenever a judge has personal knowledge, or concludes in a judicial decision, that a lawyer has committed misconduct or has violated any provision of the Rules of Professional Conduct, the judge shall take appropriate corrective action, which may include reporting the violation to the appropriate authority." The Advisory Committee Commentary states: "Appropriate corrective action could include direct communication with the judge or lawyer who has committed the violation, other direct action, such as a confidential referral to a judicial or lawyer assistance program, or a report of the violation to the presiding judge, appropriate authority, or other agency or body. Judges should note that in addition to the action required by Canon 3D(2), California law imposes mandatory additional reporting requirements on judges regarding lawyer misconduct. See Business and Professions Code section 6086.7."

Rule 10.610. Duties of court executive officer

(a) Selection

A court may employ an executive officer selected in accordance with procedures adopted by the court.

(b) General responsibilities

Acting under the direction of the presiding judge, the court executive officer is responsible for overseeing the management and administration of the nonjudicial operations of the court and allocating resources in a manner that promotes access to justice for all members of the public, provides a forum for the fair and expeditious resolution of disputes, maximizes the use of judicial and other resources, increases efficiency in court operations, and enhances service to the public.

(c) Duties

Under the direction of the presiding judge and consistent with the law and rules of court, the court executive officer must perform the following duties, where they are not inconsistent with the authorized duties of the clerk of the court:

(1) Personnel

Provide general direction to and supervision of the employees of the court, and draft for court approval and administer a personnel plan for court employees that complies with rule 10.670. The court executive officer has the authority, consistent with the personnel plan, to hire, discipline, and terminate nonjudicial employees of the court.

(2) Budget

Make recommendations to the presiding judge on budget priorities; prepare and implement court budgets, including accounting, payroll, and financial controls; and employ sound budget and fiscal management practices and procedures to ensure that annual expenditures are within the court's budget.

(3) Contracts

Negotiate contracts on behalf of the court, in accordance with established contracting procedures and all applicable laws.

(4) Calendar management

Supervise and employ efficient calendar and case flow management systems, including analyzing and evaluating pending caseloads and recommending effective calendar management techniques.

(5) Technology

Analyze, evaluate, and implement technological and automated systems to assist the court.

(6) Jury management

Manage the jury system in the most efficient and effective way.

(7) Facilities

Plan physical space needs, and purchase and manage equipment and supplies.

(8) Records

Create and manage uniform record-keeping systems, collecting data on pending and completed judicial business and the internal operation of the court, as required by the court and the Judicial Council.

(9) Recommendations

Identify problems, recommending procedural and administrative changes to the court.

(10) Public relations

Provide a clearinghouse for news releases and other publications for the media and public.

(11) Liaison

Act as liaison to other governmental agencies.

(12) Committees

Provide staff for judicial committees.

(13) Other

Perform other duties as the presiding judge directs.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.610 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.610 effective January 1, 2001.

Rule 10.611. Nondiscrimination in court appointments

Each court should select attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons appointed by the court on the basis of merit. No court may discriminate in such selection on the basis of gender, race, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, or age.

Rule 10.611 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 989.2 effective January 1, 1999.

Rule 10.612. Use of gender-neutral language

Each court must use gender-neutral language in all new local rules, forms, and documents and must review and revise those now in use to ensure that they are written in gender-neutral language.

Rule 10.612 adopted effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.613. Local court rules—adopting, filing, distributing, and maintaining

(a) Definitions

As used in this rule:

- (1) “Court” means a trial court; and
- (2) “Local rule” means every rule, regulation, order, policy, form, or standard of general application adopted by a court to govern practice or procedure in that court or by a judge of the court to govern practice or procedure in that judge’s courtroom.

(Subd (a) amended and relettered effective July 1, 1999; adopted as subd (b) and repealed effective July 1, 1991.)

(b) Local inspection and copying of rules

Each court must make its local rules available for inspection and copying in every location of the court that generally accepts filing of papers. The court may impose a reasonable charge for copying the rules and may impose a reasonable page limit on copying. The rules must be accompanied by a notice indicating where a full set of the rules may be purchased or otherwise obtained.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2003; adopted as subd (c); previously relettered effective July 1, 1999.)

(c) Publication of rules

- (1) Each court executive officer must be the official publisher of the court's local rules unless the court, by a majority vote of the judges, appoints another public agency or a private company.
- (2) The official publisher must have the local rules reproduced and make copies available for distribution to attorneys and litigants.
- (3) The court must adopt rules in sufficient time to permit reproduction of the rules by the official publisher before the effective date of the changes.
- (4) The official publisher may charge a reasonable fee.
- (5) Within 30 days of selecting an official publisher or changing an official publisher, each court must notify the Judicial Council of the name, address, and telephone number of the official publisher. Within 30 days of a change in the cost of the rules, each court must notify the Judicial Council of the charge for the local rules. This information will be published annually by the Judicial Council.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2003; adopted as subd (d); amended and relettered effective July 1, 1999.)

(d) Filing rules with the Judicial Council

- (1) Forty-five days before the effective date of January 1 or July 1, each court must file with the Judicial Council an electronic copy of rules and amendments to rules adopted by the court in a format authorized by the Judicial Council.
- (2) The filing must be accompanied by a certificate from the presiding judge or court executive officer stating that:
 - (A) The court has complied with the applicable provisions of this rule;
 - (B) The court does or does not post local rules on the court's Web site; and
 - (C) The court does or does not provide assistance to members of the public in accessing the Internet or the court has delegated to and obtained the written consent of the county law librarian to provide public assistance under (e).
- (3) Rules that do not comply with this rule will not be accepted for filing by the Judicial Council.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2009; adopted as subd (e); amended and relettered effective July 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2003, and January 1, 2007.)

(e) Deposit and maintenance of rules statewide for public inspection

- (1) The Judicial Council must publish a list of courts that have filed rules and amendments to rules with the Judicial Council. The Judicial Council must deposit a paper copy of each rule and amendment in the office of the executive officer of each superior court that does not provide assistance to members of the public in accessing the Internet or has not obtained agreement from the county law librarian to provide assistance under this subdivision.
- (2) The executive officer must make a complete current set of local rules and amendments available for public examination either in paper copy or through the Internet with public assistance. In a county maintaining an organized county law library, if the executive officer is satisfied that the rules and amendments will be maintained as required by this paragraph, the executive officer, with the approval of the superior court and the written consent of the county law librarian, may delegate the authority to the county law librarian to either receive and maintain paper copies of the rules and amendments, or make the rules and amendments available through the Internet with assistance to members of the public.
- (3) On or before January 1 of each year, the executive officer of each court must notify the Judicial Council of the street address and room number of the place where the rules are maintained under this subdivision.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (f); amended and relettered effective July 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2003.)

(f) Format of rules

- (1) Paper and electronic copies

Paper copies may be typewritten or printed or produced by other process of duplication at the option of the court. Electronic rules must be prepared in a format authorized by the Judicial Council. All copies must be clear and legible.

- (2) Format of paper copies

Paper copies must conform, as far as is practicable, to the requirements of chapter 1 of division 2 of title 2, except that both sides of the paper may be used, lines need not be numbered and may be single spaced, and the pages must not be permanently bound across the top but may be bound at the left side. (“Permanently bound” does not include binding with staples.) The left margin on the front and the right margin on the reverse must be at least one inch. The name of the court must be at the top of each page. The effective date of each rule and amended rule must be stated in parentheses following the text of the rule.

(3) New pages and filing instructions

New pages must be issued for added, repealed, or amended rules, with a list of currently effective rules and the date of adoption or of the latest amendment to each rule. Filing instructions must accompany each set of replacement pages.

(4) Table of contents

The rules must have a table of contents. The rules must list all local forms and indicate whether their use is mandatory or optional. If the total length of the court rules exceeds five pages, the rules must have an alphabetical subject matter index at the end of the rules. All courts must use any subject matter index the Judicial Council may have specified.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (g); amended and relettered effective July 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2003.)

(g) Comment period for proposed rules

(1) Timing

Except for rules specifying the time of hearing and similar calendaring matters, the court must distribute each proposed rule for comment at least 45 days before it is adopted.

(2) Organizations

A proposed rule must be distributed for comment to the following organizations in each county located within a 100-mile radius of the county seat of the county in which the court is located:

- (A) Civil rules to the county bar association in each county, the nearest office of the State Attorney General, and the county counsel in each county;
- (B) Criminal rules to the county bar association in each county, the nearest office of the State Attorney General, the district attorney in each county, and the public defender in each county; and
- (C) On request, any bar organization, newspaper, or other interested party.

(3) Methods

A court may distribute a proposed rule for comment by either of the following methods:

- (A) Distributing a copy of the proposal to every organization listed in (g)(2); or
- (B) Posting the proposal on the court's Web site and distributing to every organization listed in (g)(2) a notice that the proposed rule has been posted for comment and that a hard copy of the proposal is available on request.

(Subd (g) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (h); relettered effective July 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2003.)

(h) Periodic review

Each court must periodically review its local rules and repeal rules that have become outdated, unnecessary, or inconsistent with statewide rules or statutes.

Subd (h) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (g); relettered effective July 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2003.)

(i) Alternative effective date

A court may adopt a rule to take effect on a date other than as provided by Government Code section 68071 if:

- (1) The presiding judge submits to the Judicial Council the proposed rule and a statement of reasons constituting good cause for making the rule effective on the stated date;
- (2) The Chair of the Judicial Council authorizes the rule to take effect on the date proposed; and
- (3) The rule is made available for inspection as provided in (b) on or before the effective date.

(Subd (i) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (j) effective January 1, 1993; relettered effective July 1, 1999; previously amended effective July 1, 2001.)

(j) Limitation

Except for (i), this rule does not apply to local rules that relate only to the internal management of the court.

(Subd (j) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective July 1, 1999; previously amended effective July 1, 2001.)

Rule 10.613 amended effective January 1, 2009; adopted as rule 981 effective July 1, 1991; previously amended effective January 1, 1993, July 1, 1999, July 1, 2001, and January 1, 2003; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.614. Local court forms

Local forms must comply with the following:

- (1) Each form must be on paper measuring no more than 8½ by 11 inches and no less than 8½ by 5 inches.
- (2) The court must make copies of its forms available in the clerk's office. A court may, as an alternative, make its forms available in a booklet from which photocopies of the forms may be made. The court may charge for either copies of forms or the booklet of forms.
- (3) The court must assign to each form a unique designator consisting of numbers or letters, or both. The designator must be positioned on the form in the same manner as the designator on a Judicial Council form.
- (4) The effective date of each form must be placed on the form in the same manner as the effective date on a Judicial Council form, and each form must state whether it is a "Mandatory Form" or an "Optional Form" in the lower left corner of the first page.
- (5) Each court must make available a current list of forms adopted or approved by that court. The list must include, for each form, its name, number, effective date, and whether the form is mandatory or optional. There must be two versions of the list, one organized by form number and one organized by form name. The court must modify its lists whenever it adopts, approves, revises, or repeals any form.
- (6) Each form must be designed so that no typing is required on it within 1 inch of the top or within ½ inch of the bottom.
- (7) All forms presented for filing must be firmly bound at the top and must contain two prepunched, normal-sized holes centered 2½ inches apart and 5/8 inch from the top of the form.
- (8) If a form is longer than one page, the form may be filed on sheets printed on only one side even if the original form has two printed sides to a sheet. If a form is filed on a sheet printed on two sides, the reverse side must be rotated 180 degrees (printed head to foot).

Rule 10.614 amended effective January 1, 2014; adopted as rule 201.3 effective January 1, 2003; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.620. Public access to administrative decisions of trial courts

(a) Interpretation

The provisions of this rule concern public access to administrative decisions by trial courts as provided in this rule. This rule does not modify existing law regarding public access to the judicial deliberative process and does not apply to the adjudicative functions of the trial courts or the assignment of judges.

(b) Budget priorities

The Administrative Director may request, on 30 court days' notice, recommendations from the trial courts concerning judicial branch budget priorities. The notice must state that if a trial court is to make recommendations, the trial court must also give notice, as provided in (g), that interested members of the public may send input to the Judicial Council.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2005, and January 1, 2007.)

(c) Budget requests

Before making recommendations, if any, to the Judicial Council on items to be included in the judicial branch budget that is submitted annually to the Governor and the Legislature, a trial court must seek input from the public, as provided in (e), on what should be included in the recommendations.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Other decisions requiring public input

Each trial court must seek input from the public, as provided in (e), before making the following decisions:

- (1) A request for permission from Judicial Council staff to reallocate budget funds from one program component to another in an amount greater than $400,000 or 10 percent of the total trial court budget, whichever is greater.
- (2) The execution of a contract without competitive bidding in an amount greater than $400,000 or 10 percent of the total trial court budget, whichever is greater. This subdivision does not apply to a contract entered into between a court and a county that is provided for by statute.
- (3) The cessation of any of the following services at a court location:
 - (A) The Family Law Facilitator; or

(B) The Family Law Information Center.

(e) Manner of seeking public input

When a trial court is required to seek public input under this rule, it must provide public notice of the request at least 15 court days before the date on which the decision is to be made or the action is to be taken. Notice must be given as provided in (g). Any interested person or entity who wishes to comment must send the comment to the court in writing or electronically unless the court requires that all public comment be sent either by e-mail or through a response system on the court's Web site. For good cause, in the event an urgent action is required, a trial court may take immediate action if it (1) gives notice of the action as provided in (f), (2) states the reasons for urgency, and (3) gives any public input received to the person or entity making the decision.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(f) Information about other trial court administrative matters

A trial court must provide notice, not later than 15 court days after the event, of the following:

- (1) Receipt of the annual allocation of the trial court budget from the Judicial Council after enactment of the Budget Act.
- (2) The awarding of a grant to the trial court that exceeds the greater of $400,000 or 10 percent of the total trial court budget.
- (3) The solicitation of proposals or the execution of a contract that exceeds the greater of $400,000 or 10 percent of the trial court budget.
- (4) A significant permanent increase in the number of hours that a court location is open during any day for either court sessions or filing of papers. As used in this paragraph, a significant increase does not include an emergency or one-time need to increase hours.
- (5) The action taken on any item for which input from the public was required under (d). The notice must show the person or persons who made the decision and a summary of the written and e-mail input received.

(g) Notice

When notice is required to be given by this rule, it must be given in the following ways:

- (1) Posted on the trial court's Web site, if any.
- (2) Sent to any of the following persons or entities—subject to the requirements of (h)—who have requested in writing or by electronic mail to the court executive officer to receive such notice:
 - (A) A newspaper, radio station, and television station in the county;
 - (B) The president of a local or specialty bar association in the county;
 - (C) Representatives of a trial court employees organization;
 - (D) The district attorney, public defender, and county counsel;
 - (E) The county administrative officer; and
 - (F) If the court is sending notice electronically using the provisions of (h), any other person or entity that submits an electronic mail address to which the notice will be sent.
- (3) Posted at all locations of the court that accept papers for filing.

(Subd (g) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(h) Electronic notice

A trial court may require a person or entity that is otherwise entitled to receive notice under (g)(2) to submit an electronic mail address to which the notice will be sent.

(Subd (h) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(i) Materials

When a trial court is required to seek public input under (b), (c), or (d), it must also provide for public viewing at one or more locations in the county of any written factual materials that have been specifically gathered or prepared for the review at the time of making the decision of the person or entity making the decision. This subdivision does not require the disclosure of materials that are otherwise exempt from disclosure or would be exempt from disclosure under the state Public Records Act (beginning with Government Code section 6250). The materials must be mailed or otherwise be made available not less than five court days before the decision is to be made except if the request is made within the five court days before the decision is to be made, the materials must be mailed or otherwise be made available the next court day after the request is made. A court must either (1) provide copies to a person or entity that requests copies of these materials in writing or by electronic mail to the executive officer of the court or other person designated by the executive office in the notice, if the requesting person or entity pays all mailing and copying costs as determined by any mailing and copy cost recovery policies established by the trial court, or (2) make all materials available electronically either on its Web site or by e-mail. This subdivision does not require the trial court to prepare reports. A person seeking documents may request the court to hold the material for pickup by that person instead of mailing.

(j) Other requirements

This rule does not affect any other obligations of the trial court including any obligation to meet and confer with designated employee representatives. This rule does not change the procedures a court must otherwise follow in entering into a contract or change the types of matters for which a court may contract.

(Subd (j) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(k) Enforcement

This rule may be enforced under Code of Civil Procedure section 1085.

Rule 10.620 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.620 effective January 1, 2004; previously amended effective January 1, 2005; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.620 effective January 1, 2007.

Advisory Committee Comment

The procedures required under this rule do not apply where statutes specify another procedure for giving public notice and allowing public input. (See, e.g., Gov. Code, § 68106 [notice of reduced court services]; id., § 68511.7 [notice of proposed court budget plan].)

Rule 10.625. Certain demographic data relating to regular grand jurors

(a) Definitions

The following definitions apply under this rule:

- (1) “Regular grand jury” means a body of citizens of a county selected by the court to investigate matters of civil concern in the county, whether or not that body has jurisdiction to return indictments.

- (2) “Race or ethnicity” reflects the concept of race used by the United States Census Bureau and reflects self-identification by people according to the race or races with which they most closely identify. These categories are sociopolitical constructs and should not be interpreted as being scientific or anthropological in nature. The categories include both racial and national-origin groups.
- (3) “Prospective regular grand juror” means those citizens who (a) respond in person to the jury summonses or questionnaires from the court for the purposes of grand jury service and are eligible to serve as regular grand jurors, or (b) either submit applications, are recruited, or are nominated by judicial officers and are eligible to serve as regular grand jurors.
- (4) “Eligible to serve” means that the prospective regular grand juror meets each of the criteria set forth in Penal Code section 893(a) and is not disqualified by any factor set forth in section 893(b).

(b) Jury commissioner duties and responsibilities

- (1) The jury commissioner or designee must create a method to capture the following data from prospective regular grand jurors:
 - (A) Age range, specifically:
 - (i) 18–25
 - (ii) 26–34
 - (iii) 35–44
 - (iv) 45–54
 - (v) 55–64
 - (vi) 65–74
 - (vii) 75 and over
 - (B) Gender; and
 - (C) Race or ethnicity from the following categories (candidates may select more than one category):
 - (i) American Indian or Alaska Native
 - (ii) Asian

- (iii) Black or African American
- (iv) Hispanic/Latino
- (v) Native Hawaiian or other Pacific Islander
- (vi) White
- (vii) Other race or ethnicity (please state: _____)
- (viii) Decline to answer

- (2) Develop and maintain a database containing the following information regarding prospective regular grand jurors, the candidates who are ultimately selected by the court to serve as grand jurors, and any carry-over grand jurors: name, age range, occupation, gender, race or ethnicity, and the year(s) served on the regular grand jury. The database should indicate how the juror initially became a candidate (by random draw, application, or nomination).

(c) Annual summary

- (1) The court must develop and maintain an annual summary of the information in the database maintained under (b)(2). The summary must not include the names of the candidates and must be made available to the public.

Rule 10.625 adopted effective January 1, 2007.

Advisory Committee Comment

This rule is intended to facilitate the courts' continued efforts to achieve the goals stated in standard 10.50 [formerly section 17] of the Standards of Judicial Administration, which encourages courts to employ various methods of soliciting prospective candidates to serve on regular grand juries that reflect a representative cross-section of the community they serve. Those methods include obtaining recommendations for grand jurors who encompass a cross-section of the county's population base, solicited from a broad representation of community-based organizations, civic leaders, and superior court judges, referees, and commissioners subdivision (b)(2)); having the court consider carry-over grand jury selections under Penal Code section 901(b) to ensure broad-based representation (Subd (c)); and encouraging judges who nominate persons for grand jury service under Penal Code section 903.4 to select candidates from the list returned by the jury commissioner or otherwise employing a nomination procedure to ensure broad-based representation from the community.

This rule is also intended to assist the courts in establishing a formal mechanism whereby they can monitor the extent to which they achieve the goal of seating representative regular grand juries through a process comparable to that stated in Penal Code section 904.6(e), which requires that persons selected for the "criminal grand jury shall be selected at random from a source or sources reasonably representative of a cross section of the population which is eligible for jury service in the county.”

Rule 10.630. Reciprocal assignment orders

A “reciprocal assignment order” is an order issued by the Chief Justice that permits judges in courts of different counties to serve in each other’s courts.

Rule 10.630 amended effective July 1, 2015; adopted as rule 813 effective July 1, 1990; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.650. Court Employee Labor Relations Rules

Rules 10.651–10.659 in this chapter are referred to as the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules.

Rule 10.650 adopted effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.651. Purpose

The purpose of the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules is to extend to trial court employees the right, and to require trial courts, to meet and confer in good faith over matters that the court, as opposed to the county, has authority to determine that are within the scope of representation, consistent with the procedures stated in this division.

The adoption of the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules is not intended to require changes in existing representation units, memoranda of agreements, statutes, or court rules relating to trial court employees, except as they would otherwise normally occur as provided for in this division.

Rule 10.651 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2201 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.652. Definitions

As used in the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules:

- (1) “Court” means a superior court.
- (2) “Court employee” means any employee of a court, except those employees whose job classification confers safety retirement status.
- (3) “Meet and confer in good faith” means that a court or such representatives as it may designate, and representatives of recognized employee organizations, have the mutual obligation personally to meet and confer promptly on request by either party and to continue for a reasonable period of time in order to exchange freely information, opinions, and proposals, and to endeavor to reach agreement on matters within the scope of representation. The process should include adequate time for the resolution of impasses where specific procedures for such resolution are contained in this division or a local rule, regulation, or ordinance, or when such procedures are used by mutual consent.
- (4) “Recognized employee organization” means an employee organization that has been formally acknowledged by the county to represent court employees under the provisions of Government Code sections 3500–3510 or by the court under its rules or policies.

Rule 10.652 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2202 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.653. Right and obligation to meet and confer

(a) Recognized employee organization

A recognized employee organization has the right to represent its court employee members in their employment relations with a court as to matters covered by the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules. Nothing in these rules prohibits any court employee from appearing in his or her own behalf regarding employment relations with a court.

(b) Representatives of a court

Representatives of a court must meet and confer in good faith regarding matters within the scope of representation, as defined in the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules, with representatives of a recognized employee organization, and must consider fully such presentations as are made by the recognized employee organization on behalf of its members before arriving at a determination of policy or course of action. In meeting this obligation a court must also comply with the procedures and provisions stated in Government Code sections 3504.5, 3505.1, 3505.2, and 3505.3 applicable to a public agency.

(c) Joint negotiations and designations

In fulfilling the provisions of (b), the court and the county must consult with each other, may negotiate jointly, and each may designate the other in writing as its agent on any matters within the scope of representation.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Intimidation

A court or a recognized employee organization must not interfere with, intimidate, restrain, coerce, or discriminate against court employees because of their exercise of any rights they may have under the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules or Government Code sections 3500–3510.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.653 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2203 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.654. Scope of representation

(a) Matters included in the scope of representation

For purposes of the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules, the scope of representation includes all matters within the court’s authority to determine relating to employment conditions and employer-employee relations, including, but not limited to, wages, hours, and terms and other conditions of employment, except, however, that the scope of representation does not include consideration of the merits, necessity, or organization of any service or activity provided by law or executive order.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Matters outside the scope of representation

In view of the unique and special responsibilities of the courts in the administration of justice, decisions regarding the following matters are not included within the scope of representation:

- (1) The merits and administration of the court system;
- (2) Coordination, consolidation, and merger of trial courts and support staff;
- (3) Automation, including but not limited to fax filing, electronic recording, and implementation of information systems;
- (4) Design, construction, and location of court facilities;
- (5) Delivery of court services; and
- (6) Hours of operation of the courts and court system.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Impact

Impact from such matters as in (b) must be included within the scope of representation as those matters affect wages, hours, terms, and conditions of employment of court employees, to the extent such matters are within the court's authority to determine.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Assignments and transfers

The superior court continues to have the right to determine assignments and transfers of court employees, provided that the process, procedures, and criteria for assignments and transfers are included within the scope of representation.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.654 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2204 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.655. Governing court employee labor relations

(a) County rules and procedures

As they relate to court employees in their relations with the court, matters described in Government Code section 3507(a) through (d) are governed by any rules and administrative procedures and provisions adopted by the county under section 3507 that may apply to county employees generally, with the right of review by the appropriate Court of Appeal.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Court rules and policies

A court may adopt reasonable rules and policies after consultation in good faith with representatives of a recognized employee organization or organizations for the administration of employer-employee relations under this rule as to matters described in Government Code section 3507(e)–(i). The court and county jointly will establish procedures to determine the appropriateness of any bargaining unit of court employees. The court must consult with the county about any rules and policies that the court may adopt under this section. If the court does not adopt rules by January 1, 1998, the court is bound by existing county rules until the court adopts rules.

Rule 10.655 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2205 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.656. Transition provisions

(a) Court employee organization

On the effective date of the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules, the court must recognize the employee organization that represented its court employees at the time of adoption. The court and the recognized employee organization are bound by the terms of any memorandum of understanding or agreement to which the court is a party that is in effect as of the date of adoption of the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules for its duration, or until it expires or, before then, is replaced by a subsequent memorandum of understanding.

(b) Court personnel rules and policies

A court's local rules governing court employees and a court's personnel rules, policies, and practices in effect at the time of the adoption of the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules, to the extent they are not contrary to or inconsistent with the obligations and duties provided for in these rules, continue in effect until changed by the court. Before changing any rule, policy, or practice that affects any matter within the scope of representation as stated in these rules, the court must meet and confer in good faith with the recognized employee organization as provided for in these rules.

(c) County employee representation units

Nothing contained in these rules is intended to preclude court employees from continuing to be included in representation units that contain county employees.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.656 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2206 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.657. Construction

The enactment of the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules is not to be construed as making the provisions of Labor Code section 923 applicable to court employees.

Rule 10.657 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2207 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.658. Interpretation

Where the language of the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules is the same or substantially the same as that contained in Government Code sections 3500 to 3510, it must be interpreted and applied in accordance with judicial interpretations of the same language.

Rule 10.658 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2208 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.659. Other provisions

(a) Mediation

If, after a reasonable period of time, representatives of the court and the recognized employee organization fail to reach agreement, the court and the recognized employee organization or recognized employee organizations together may agree on the appointment of a mediator mutually agreeable to the parties. Costs of mediation are to be divided one-half to the court and one-half to the recognized employee organization or recognized employee organizations.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Submission for dispute resolution

In the absence of local procedures and provisions for resolving disputes on the appropriateness of a unit of representation, on the request of any of the parties, the dispute must be submitted to the Division of Conciliation of the Department of Industrial Relations for mediation or for recommendation for resolving the dispute.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Dues deduction

Nothing in the Court Employee Labor Relations Rules affects the right of a court employee to authorize a dues deduction from his or her salary or wages under Government Code sections 1157.1, 1157.2, 1157.3, 1157.4, 1157.5, or 1157.7.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Applicability of Government Code section 3502.5

The procedures and provisions stated in Government Code section 3502.5 are applicable to court employees.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.659 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 2209 effective January 1, 1998, the effective date of Stats. 1997, ch. 850.

Rule 10.660. Enforcement of agreements—petitions (Gov. Code, §§ 71639.5, 71825.2)

(a) Application

This rule applies to petitions filed under Government Code sections 71639.5 and 71825.2.

(Subd (a) amended effective October 24, 2008; previously amended effective December 10, 2004, and January 1, 2007.)

(b) Assignment of Court of Appeal justice to hear the petition

- (1) The petition must state the following on the first page, below the case number, in the statement of the character of the proceeding (see rule 2.111(6)): “Petition filed under Government Code sections 71639.5 and 71825.2—Assignment of Court of Appeal justice required.”
- (2) When the petition is filed, the clerk of the court must immediately request of the Judicial Council’s Assigned Judges Program the assignment of a hearing judge from the panel established under (e).

- (3) The judge assigned to hear the petition in the superior court must be a justice from a Court of Appeal for a district other than the district for that superior court.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective December 10, 2004, and January 1, 2007.)

(c) Superior court hearing

- (1) The superior court must hear and decide the petition on an expedited basis and must give the petition priority over other matters to the extent permitted by law and the rules of court.
- (2) The petition must be heard by a judge assigned by the Chief Justice from the panel of hearing judges established under (e).

(d) Appeal

An appeal of the superior court decision must be heard and decided on an expedited basis in the Court of Appeal for the district in which the petition was heard and must be given priority over other matters to the extent permitted by law and the rules of court. The notice of appeal must state the following on the first page, below the case number, in the statement of the character of the proceeding (see rule 2.111(6)): “Notice of Appeal on Petition filed under Government Code sections 71639.5 and 71825.2—Expedited Processing Requested.”

(e) Panel of hearing judges

The panel of judges who may hear the petitions in the superior court must consist of Court of Appeal justices selected by the Chief Justice as follows:

- (1) The panel must include at least one justice from each district of the Court of Appeal.
- (2) Each justice assigned to hear a petition under (c)(2) must have received training on hearing the petitions as specified by the Chief Justice.

Rule 10.660 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 2211 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.660 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective December 10, 2004, and October 24, 2008.

Article 2. Other Human Resources Rules

Rule 10.670. Trial court personnel plans

Rule 10.670. Trial court personnel plans

(a) Purpose

This rule establishes the authority and responsibility of the superior courts, on a countywide basis, to create and implement a system of personnel management designed to achieve lawful, uniform, and fair employment practices and procedures.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Countywide personnel plans

The superior court of each county must establish a single personnel plan on a countywide basis, consistent with applicable statutes, rules, and standards of judicial administration.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Provisions of a personnel plan

The personnel plan must ensure that treatment of employees complies with current law. The personnel plan should address the following issues:

- (1) A salary-setting procedure;
- (2) Regular review of job classifications and titles;
- (3) An equal employment opportunity policy applying to all employees in accordance with applicable state and federal law;
- (4) Recruitment, selection, and promotion policies;
- (5) A sexual harassment prevention policy;
- (6) A reasonable accommodation policy;
- (7) Grievance or complaint procedures covering, but not limited to, sexual harassment, discrimination, and denial of reasonable accommodation;

- (8) An employee benefits plan that includes health benefits, retirement benefits, workers' compensation benefits, disability leave, and paid and unpaid leave in compliance with state and federal law;
- (9) Timekeeping and payroll policies and procedures that comply with applicable state and federal law;
- (10) A records management policy, including confidentiality and retention of personnel records;
- (11) Job-related training and continuing education programs for all personnel concerning at least the following:
 - (A) Sexual harassment awareness;
 - (B) Discrimination and bias; and
 - (C) Safety;
- (12) A policy statement on professional behavior requiring that all employees conduct themselves in a professional manner at all times and refrain from offensive conduct or comments that reflect bias or harassment;
- (13) A policy regarding conflicts of interest and incompatible activities;
- (14) Procedures for discipline and discharge; and
- (15) A labor policy consistent with rules 10.653–10.659.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Optional provisions

A personnel plan may contain additional provisions, including the following:

- (1) Criteria and schedules for performance evaluations for all levels of employees;
- (2) Job-related training and continuing education programs for all personnel as appropriate, with provisions for both paid and unpaid educational leave concerning:
 - (A) Career development, including basic and managerial skills; and
 - (B) Equal employment opportunity concepts and recruitment methods.
- (3) An employee benefit plan that may include:

- (A) Flex-time, part-time, job-sharing, and other alternative work schedules;
- (B) Cafeteria options to use pretax dollars for dependent care and medical care and for sick leave for the care of dependents;
- (C) An employee assistance program; and
- (D) A deferred compensation plan.

(e) Submission of personnel plans

The superior court of each county must submit to the Judicial Council a personnel plan in compliance with these provisions by March 1, 1999. The superior court of each county must submit to the Judicial Council any changes to this plan by March 1 of every following year. If requested by a superior court, Judicial Council staff must review the court's personnel plan and provide the court with technical assistance in preparing the plan.

Rule 10.670 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 2520 effective July 1, 1998; previously renumbered as rule 6.650 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.670 effective January 1, 2007.

Chapter 3. Subordinate Judicial Officers

Rule 10.700. Role of subordinate judicial officers

Rule 10.701. Qualifications and education of subordinate judicial officers

Rule 10.702. Subordinate judicial officers: practice of law

Rule 10.703. Subordinate judicial officers: complaints and notice requirements

Rule 10.700. Role of subordinate judicial officers

(a) Application

This rule applies to all subordinate judicial officers except those acting as child support commissioners under Family Code section 4251.

(b) Role of subordinate judicial officers

The primary role of subordinate judicial officers is to perform subordinate judicial duties. However, a presiding judge may assign a subordinate judicial officer to sit as a temporary judge where lawful, if the presiding judge determines that, because of a shortage of judges, it is necessary for the effective administration of justice.

Rule 10.700 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.609 effective July 1, 2002.

Rule 10.701. Qualifications and education of subordinate judicial officers

(a) Definition

For purposes of this rule, “subordinate judicial officer” means a person appointed by a court to perform subordinate judicial duties as authorized by article VI, section 22 of the California Constitution, including a commissioner, a referee, and a hearing officer.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Qualifications

Except as provided in (d), a person is ineligible to be a subordinate judicial officer unless the person is a member of the State Bar and:

- (1) Has been admitted to practice law in California for at least 10 years or, on a finding of good cause by the presiding judge, for at least 5 years; or
- (2) Is serving as a subordinate judicial officer in a trial court as of January 1, 2003.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Education

A subordinate judicial officer must comply with the education requirements of any position to which he or she is assigned, even if it is not his or her principal assignment. Such requirements include the following, as applicable: rules 5.30, 5.340, and 10.462 of the California Rules of Court, and Welfare and Institutions Code section 304.7.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2017; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Juvenile referees and hearing officers

A person appointed as a juvenile referee or as a hearing officer under Welfare and Institutions Code sections 255 or 5256.1 must meet the qualification requirements established by those sections. Such a person is ineligible to exercise the powers and perform the duties of another type of subordinate judicial officer unless he or she meets the qualifications established in (b).

Rule 10.701 amended effective January 1, 2017; adopted as rule 6.660 effective January 1, 2003; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective July 1, 2008.

Rule 10.702. Subordinate judicial officers: practice of law

A subordinate judicial officer may practice law only to the extent permitted by the Code of Judicial Ethics.

Rule 10.702 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.665 effective January 1, 2003.

Rule 10.703. Subordinate judicial officers: complaints and notice requirements

(a) Intent

The procedures in this rule for processing complaints against subordinate judicial officers do not:

- (1) Create a contract of employment;
- (2) Change the existing employee-employer relationship between the subordinate judicial officer and the court;
- (3) Change the status of a subordinate judicial officer from an employee terminable at will to an employee terminable only for cause; or
- (4) Restrict the discretion of the presiding judge in taking appropriate corrective action.

(b) Definitions

Unless the context requires otherwise, the following definitions apply to this rule:

- (1) “Subordinate judicial officer” means an attorney employed by a court to serve as a commissioner, referee, or hearing officer, whether the attorney is acting as a commissioner, referee, hearing officer, or temporary judge. The term does not include any other attorney acting as a temporary judge.

- (2) “Presiding judge” includes the person or group the presiding judge designates to perform any duty required by this rule to be performed by a presiding judge.
- (3) “Commission” means the Commission on Judicial Performance. The commission exercises discretionary jurisdiction over the discipline of subordinate judicial officers under article VI, section 18.1 of the California Constitution.
- (4) “Written reprimand” means written disciplinary action that is warranted either because of the seriousness of the misconduct or because previous corrective action has been ineffective.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(c) Application

- (1) A court that employs a subordinate judicial officer must use the procedures in this rule for processing complaints against the subordinate judicial officer if the complaint alleges conduct that if alleged against a judge would be within the jurisdiction of the commission under article VI, section 18 of the California Constitution.
- (2) If a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer as described in (f) does not allege conduct that would be within the jurisdiction of the commission, the local procedures adopted under rule 10.603(c)(4)(C) apply. The local process may include any procedures from this rule for the court’s adjudication of the complaint other than the provisions for referring the matter to the commission under (g) or giving notice of commission review under (k)(2)(B).
- (3) A court may adopt additional policies and procedures for the adjudication of complaints against subordinate judicial officers not inconsistent with this rule.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective July 1, 2002 and January 1, 2007.)

(d) Promptness required

The presiding judge must ensure that the court processes each complaint promptly. To the extent reasonably possible, the court must complete action on each complaint within 90 days after the complaint is submitted.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Confidentiality

- (1) All proceedings by a presiding judge under this rule must be conducted in a manner that is as confidential as is reasonably possible consistent with the need to conduct a thorough and complete investigation and the need for proper administration of the court.
- (2) This rule does not prohibit access by the commission to any information relevant to the investigation of a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer.

(f) Written complaints to presiding judge

- (1) A complaint about the conduct of a subordinate judicial officer must be in writing and must be submitted to the presiding judge.
- (2) Persons who are unable to file a written complaint because of a disability may present an oral complaint, which the presiding judge must commit to writing.
- (3) The presiding judge has discretion to investigate complaints that are anonymous.
- (4) The presiding judge must give written notice of receipt of the complaint to the complainant, if known.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(g) Initial review of the complaint

- (1) The presiding judge must review each complaint and determine if the complaint:
 - (A) May be closed after initial review;
 - (B) Requires investigation by the presiding judge; or
 - (C) Should be referred to the commission or to the presiding judge of another court for investigation or for investigation and adjudication.
- (2) A presiding judge may request that the commission investigate and adjudicate the complaint if a local conflict of interest or disqualification prevents the court from acting on the complaint.

- (3) In exceptional circumstances, a presiding judge may request the commission or the presiding judge of another court to investigate a complaint on behalf of the court and provide the results of the investigation to the court for adjudication.
- (4) The court must maintain a file on every complaint received, containing the following:
 - (A) The complaint;
 - (B) The response of the subordinate judicial officer, if any;
 - (C) All evidence and reports produced by the investigation of the complaint, if any; and
 - (D) The final action taken on the complaint.

(h) Closing a complaint after initial review

- (1) After an initial review, the presiding judge may close without further action any complaint that:
 - (A) Relates to the permissible exercise of judicial or administrative discretion by the subordinate judicial officer; or
 - (B) Does not allege conduct that if alleged against a judge would be within the jurisdiction of the commission under article VI, section 18 of the California Constitution.
- (2) If the presiding judge decides to close the complaint under (h)(1), the presiding judge must notify the complainant in writing of the decision to close the complaint. The notice must include the information required under (k).
- (3) The presiding judge may, in his or her discretion, advise the subordinate judicial officer in writing of the decision to close the complaint.

(Subd (h) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(i) Complaints requiring investigation

- (1) If after an initial review of the complaint the presiding judge finds a basis for further inquiry, the presiding judge must conduct an investigation appropriate to the nature of the complaint.
- (2) The investigation may include interviews of witnesses and a review of court records.
- (3) The presiding judge may give the subordinate judicial officer a copy of the complaint or a summary of its allegations and allow him or her an opportunity to respond to the allegations during the investigation. The presiding judge must give the subordinate judicial officer a copy of the complaint or a summary of its allegations and allow the subordinate judicial officer an opportunity to respond to the allegations before the presiding judge decides to take any disciplinary action against the subordinate judicial officer.
- (4) After completing the investigation, the presiding judge must, in his or her discretion:
 - (A) Close action on the complaint if the presiding judge finds the complaint lacks merit; or
 - (B) Impose discipline; or
 - (C) Take other appropriate corrective action, which may include, but is not limited to, oral counseling, oral reprimand, or warning of the subordinate judicial officer.
- (5) If the presiding judge closes action on the complaint under (i)(4)(A) and the presiding judge is aware that the subordinate judicial officer knows of the complaint, the presiding judge must give the subordinate judicial officer written notice of the final action taken on the complaint.
- (6) If the presiding judge decides to impose discipline or take other appropriate corrective action under (i)(4)(B) or (C), within 10 days after the completion of the investigation or as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible, the presiding judge must give the subordinate judicial officer the following in writing:
 - (A) Notice of the intended final action on the complaint; and
 - (B) The facts and other information forming the basis for the proposed action and the source of the facts and information.
- (7) The notice of the intended final action on the complaint in (i)(6)(A) must include the following advice:

- (A) The subordinate judicial officer may request an opportunity to respond to the intended final action within 10 days after service of the notice; and
 - (B) If the subordinate judicial officer does not request an opportunity to respond within 10 days after service of the notice, the proposed action will become final.
- (8) If the subordinate judicial officer requests an opportunity to respond, the presiding judge must allow the subordinate judicial officer an opportunity to respond to the notice of the intended final action, either orally or in writing as specified by the presiding judge, in accordance with local rules.
 - (9) Within 10 days after the subordinate judicial officer has responded, the presiding judge must give the subordinate judicial officer written notice of the final action taken on the complaint.
 - (10) If the subordinate judicial officer does not request an opportunity to respond, the presiding judge must promptly give written notice of the final action to the complainant. The notice must include the information required under (k).

(Subd (i) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2006 and January 1, 2007.)

(j) Notice to the Commission on Judicial Performance

- (1) If a court disciplines a subordinate judicial officer by written reprimand, suspension, or termination for conduct that, if alleged against a judge, would be within the jurisdiction of the commission under article VI, section 18 of the California Constitution, the presiding judge must promptly forward to the commission a copy of the portions of the court file that reasonably reflect the basis of the action taken by the court, including the complaint or allegations of misconduct and the subordinate judicial officer's response. This provision is applicable even when the disciplinary action does not result from a written complaint.
- (2) If a subordinate judicial officer resigns (A) while an investigation under (i) is pending concerning conduct that, if alleged against a judge, would be within the jurisdiction of the commission under article VI, section 18 of the California Constitution, or (B) under circumstances that would lead a reasonable person to conclude that the resignation was due, at least in part, to a complaint or allegation of misconduct that, if alleged against a judge, would be within the jurisdiction of the commission under article VI, section 18 of the California Constitution, the presiding judge must, within 15 days of the resignation or as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible, forward to the commission the entire court file on any pending complaint about or allegation of misconduct committed by the subordinate judicial officer.

- (3) On request by the commission, the presiding judge must forward to the commission any requested information regarding a complaint about or allegation of misconduct committed by a subordinate judicial officer.

(Subd (j) relettered and amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as subd (k); previously amended effective January 1, 2007 and July 1, 2010.)

(k) Notice of final court action

- (1) When the court has completed its action on a complaint, the presiding judge must promptly notify the complainant, if known, of the final court action.
- (2) The notice to the complainant of the final court action must:
- (A) Provide a general description of the action taken by the court consistent with any law limiting the disclosure of confidential employee information; and
- (B) Include the following statement:

If you are dissatisfied with the court's action on your complaint, you have the right to request the Commission on Judicial Performance to review this matter under its discretionary jurisdiction to oversee the discipline of subordinate judicial officers. No further action will be taken on your complaint unless the commission receives your written request within 30 days after the date this notice was mailed. The commission's address is:

Commission on Judicial Performance
455 Golden Gate Avenue, Suite 14400
San Francisco, California 94102-3660

(Subd (k) relettered and amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as subd (l); previously amended effective April 29, 1999 and January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.703 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.655 effective November 20, 1998; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective April 29, 1999, July 1, 2002, January 1, 2006, and July 1, 2010.

Chapter 4. Referees [Reserved]

Chapter 5. Temporary Judges

Rule 10.740. Responsibilities of the trial courts for temporary judge programs

Rule 10.741. Duties and authority of the presiding judge

Rule 10.742. Use of attorneys as court-appointed temporary judges

Rule 10.743. Administrator of temporary judges program

Rule 10.744. Application procedures to serve as a court-appointed temporary judge

Rule 10.745. Performance

Rule 10.746. Complaints

Rule 10.740. Responsibilities of the trial courts for temporary judge programs

Each trial court that uses temporary judges must develop, institute, and operate—by itself or in collaboration with another court or courts—a program to recruit, select, train, and evaluate attorneys qualified to serve as temporary judges.

Rule 10.740 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.740 effective July 1, 2006.

Rule 10.741. Duties and authority of the presiding judge

(a) General duties

The presiding judge is responsible for the recruitment, selection, training, appointment, supervision, assignment, performance, and evaluation of court-appointed temporary judges. In carrying out these responsibilities, the presiding judge is assisted by the Temporary Judge Administrator as provided in rule 10.743.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Publicizing the opportunity to serve as a temporary judge

- (1) Except for those courts that have nine or fewer authorized judge positions or use only research attorneys as temporary judges, each trial court that uses court-appointed temporary judges must publicize the opportunity to serve as a temporary judge whenever the court seeks to add attorneys to its pool of temporary judges or within a reasonable time before conducting its mandatory training for temporary judges but, in any case, no less than once every three years.
- (2) Courts must publicize this opportunity in a manner that maximizes the potential for a diverse applicant pool, which includes publicizing the opportunity to legal communities and organizations, including all local bar associations, in their geographical area. This publicity should encourage and must provide an equal opportunity for all eligible individuals to seek positions as court-appointed temporary judges and not exclude individuals based on their gender, race, ethnicity, disability, religion, sexual orientation, age, or other protected class.

(c) Nondiscrimination in application and selection procedure

Each trial court that uses court-appointed temporary judges must conduct an application and selection procedure for temporary judges that ensures the most qualified applicants for appointment are selected and must not reject applicants who otherwise meet the requirements for appointment based on their gender, race, ethnicity, disability, religion, sexual orientation, age, or other protected class. Among the qualifications to be considered in the selection procedure are the applicant's exposure to and experience with diverse populations and issues related to those populations.

(Subd (c) adopted effective July 1, 2012.)

(d) Authority to remove or discontinue

The presiding judge has the discretion to remove a court-appointed temporary judge or to discontinue using an attorney as a court-appointed temporary judge at any time.

(Subd (d) relettered effective July 1, 2012; adopted as subd (b).)

Rule 10.741 amended effective July 1, 2012; adopted as rule 6.741 effective July 1, 2006; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (b). This subdivision is intended to offer all attorneys who satisfy the requirements for appointment under rule 2.812 the opportunity to serve as temporary judges and to expand the size and diversity of the pool of eligible candidates. Pursuant to the rule, courts that do not use temporary judges, that have nine or fewer authorized and funded judge positions, or that only use their research attorneys as temporary judges are exempt from the requirement to publicize the opportunity to serve as a temporary judge. Courts that use temporary judges may publicize the opportunity in a manner they determine to be most effective, given their individual circumstances. In attempting to broaden the diversity of the temporary judge applicant pool, courts also have the flexibility to widen the geographical areas in which they publicize the opportunity. Thus, courts are not limited to publicizing their temporary judge program through the local or state bar associations. However, they must include all local bar associations when they do so. Further, the method of publication is purposefully left to the court's discretion. No-cost methods exist, such as email, use of the court's public website, and oral announcements at local bar association or legal organization events. Publicizing this opportunity no less than once every three years should increase the potential for greater diversity among the temporary judges who serve the courts.

Subdivision (c). This subdivision emphasizes that the selection and appointment process must be devoid of discrimination. These provisions are intended to discourage favoritism in the appointment process and permit the courts to consider, as an additional qualification, an attorney's exposure to and experience with the diverse populations and issues unique to that population in the county where they are seeking appointment. "Exposure to and experience with diverse populations” includes work, social interaction, educational experiences, or community involvement with individuals or groups from diverse communities that may appear in court.

Rule 10.742. Use of attorneys as court-appointed temporary judges

(a) Responsibility of the presiding judge

The presiding judge of the trial court is responsible for determining whether that court needs to use attorneys as temporary judges and, if so, the specific purposes for which attorneys are to be appointed as temporary judges.

(b) Conditions for the use of court-appointed temporary judges

The presiding judge may appoint an attorney as a court-appointed temporary judge only if all the following circumstances apply:

- (1) The appointment of an attorney to serve as a temporary judge is necessary to fill a judicial need in that court;
- (2) The attorney serving as a temporary judge has been approved by the court where the attorney will serve under rule 2.810 et seq.;
- (3) The appointment of the attorney as a temporary judge does not result in any conflict of interest; and
- (4) There is no appearance of impropriety resulting from the appointment of the attorney to serve as a temporary judge.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.742 amended effective January 1, 2017; adopted as rule 6.742 effective July 1, 2006; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.742 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2016.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivisions (a)–(b). These subdivisions provide that the presiding judge in each court is responsible for determining whether court-appointed temporary judges need to be used in that court, and these subdivisions furnish the criteria for determining when their use is proper. Under (b)(1), the use and appointment of court-appointed temporary judges must be based on judicial needs. Under (b)(3), an attorney serving as a temporary judge would have a conflict of interest if the disqualifying factors in the Code of Judicial Ethics exist. Under (b)(4), the test for the appearance of impropriety is whether a person aware of the facts might entertain a doubt that the judge would be able to act with integrity, impartiality, and competence. In addition to the disqualifying factors listed in the Code of Judicial Ethics, an appearance of impropriety would be generated if any of the limitations in family law, unlawful detainer, and other cases identified in the Code of Judicial Ethics are present.

Rule 10.743. Administrator of temporary judges program

(a) Administrator

The presiding judge who appoints attorneys as temporary judges must designate a clerk, executive officer, or other court employee knowledgeable about temporary judges to serve as the Temporary Judge Administrator in that court.

(b) Duties of administrator

Under the supervision of the presiding judge, the Temporary Judge Administrator is responsible for the management of the temporary judges program in the court. The administrator's duties include:

- (1) Receiving and processing applications from attorneys to serve as temporary judges with the court;
- (2) Verifying the information on the applications;
- (3) Assisting the presiding judge in the recruitment and selection of attorneys to serve as temporary judges, as provided in rule 10.741;
- (4) Administering the court's program for the education and training of temporary judges;
- (5) Maintaining records of attendance and completion of required courses by all attorneys serving as temporary judges in the court;
- (6) Determining that attorneys have satisfied all the conditions required to be appointed as a temporary judge in that court, including continuing education requirements;
- (7) Maintaining a list of attorneys currently appointed and qualified to serve as temporary judges in the court;
- (8) Managing support services for temporary judges, such as providing mentoring programs and reference materials;
- (9) Receiving and processing complaints and other information concerning the performance of attorneys serving as temporary judges;
- (10) Assisting the presiding judge in identifying judicial needs that require the use of temporary judges and in addressing these needs; and

- (11) Maintaining records, gathering statistics, and preparing and transmitting quarterly reports on the court's use of temporary judges as required under rule 10.742(c).

Rule 10.743 amended effective July 1, 2012; adopted as rule 6.743 effective July 1, 2006; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Advisory Committee Comment

The goal of this rule is to ensure the effective and efficient administration of the courts' use of temporary judges. The rule should be applied flexibly. In courts with large temporary judge programs, the court may want to designate a full-time administrator, and some of the administrator's duties may be delegated to other individuals. On the other hand, in courts that use only a few temporary judges, the Temporary Judge Administrator position may consume only part of the administrator's time and be combined with other duties. Also, courts that use only a small number of temporary judges may work with other courts, or may cooperate on a regional basis, to perform the functions and duties prescribed under this rule.

Rule 10.744. Application procedures to serve as a court-appointed temporary judge

(a) Application

Every attorney who applies for appointment as a temporary judge in a trial court must complete an application to serve as a temporary judge.

(b) Information required

The attorney must provide all applicable information requested on the application. This information must include:

- (1) The attorney's name and contact information as required by the court;
- (2) The attorney's State Bar number;
- (3) The date of the attorney's admission to the State Bar of California and the dates of his or her admissions to practice in any other state;
- (4) Length of membership in the State Bar of California and of practice in any other state;
- (5) Whether the attorney is in good standing with the State Bar of California and in good standing as an attorney in any other state where the attorney has been admitted to practice;

- (6) Whether the attorney has ever been disciplined, or is the subject of a pending disciplinary proceeding, by the State Bar of California or by any other state bar association or court of record; and, if so, an explanation of the circumstances;
- (7) The areas of specialization for which the attorney has been certified in California or in any other state;
- (8) The attorney's major area or areas of practice;
- (9) Whether the attorney holds himself or herself out publicly as representing exclusively one side in any of the areas of litigation in which the attorney practices;
- (10) Whether the attorney represents one side in more than 90 percent of all cases in any areas of litigation in which the attorney specializes or concentrates his or her practice;
- (11) The location or locations in which the attorney principally practices;
- (12) How often the attorney appears in the court where he or she is applying to serve as a temporary judge;
- (13) A list of the attorney's previous service as a temporary judge in the court where the attorney is applying and in any other court;
- (14) Whether the attorney has ever been removed as a temporary judge by any court;
- (15) The types of cases on which the attorney is willing to serve as a temporary judge;
- (16) Whether the attorney has ever been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor, or is a defendant in any pending felony or misdemeanor proceeding, and, if so, a statement about the conviction or pending proceeding;
- (17) Whether the attorney has been a party in any legal proceeding and, if so, a brief description of the proceedings;
- (18) Information concerning any circumstances or conditions that would adversely affect or limit the attorney's ability to serve as a temporary judge;
- (19) Any facts concerning the attorney's background that may reflect positively or negatively on the attorney or that should be disclosed to the court; and
- (20) Such additional information as the court may require.

(c) Continuing duty to disclose

An attorney appointed by a court to serve as a temporary judge has a continuing duty to disclose to the court any material changes in facts or circumstances that affect his or her ability to serve as a temporary judge. The attorney must disclose the changes to the court before the next time the attorney is assigned to serve as a temporary judge.

(d) Review of application

The presiding judge, assisted by the Temporary Judge Administrator, must review all applications and determine whether each applicant is qualified, has satisfied the requirements of rule 2.812, and should be appointed as a temporary judge. The presiding judge may delegate this task to another judge or a committee of judges, assisted by the Temporary Judge Administrator. In appointing attorneys as temporary judges, the presiding judge may go beyond the minimum qualifications and standards required under the California Rules of Court. The decision whether to appoint, use, retrain, remove, or discontinue using any particular attorney as a temporary judge is at the sole discretion of the presiding judge.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.744 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.744 effective July 1, 2006.

Rule 10.745. Performance

(a) Review required

The court must review on a regular basis the performance of temporary judges appointed by that court.

(b) Monitoring performance

In monitoring and reviewing the performance of court-appointed temporary judges, the court may use direct observation, audiotaping of hearings, reports by court staff, comments from mentor judges, and such other means as may be helpful.

Rule 10.745 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.745 effective July 1, 2006.

Rule 10.746. Complaints

Each court must have procedures for receiving, investigating, and resolving complaints against court-appointed temporary judges.

Rule 10.746 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 6.746 effective July 1, 2006.

Chapter 6. Court Interpreters

Rule 10.761. Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committees

Rule 10.762. Cross-assignments for court interpreter employees

Rule 10.761. Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committees

(a) Creation

Government Code sections 71807–71809 establish four Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committees. Each committee has the authority, for spoken language court interpreters within its region as defined under Government Code section 71807(a), to:

- (1) Set the terms and conditions of employment for court interpreters, subject to meet and confer in good faith, as authorized by Government Code section 71808;
- (2) Adopt reasonable rules and regulations for the administration of employer-employee relations with recognized employee organizations, as authorized by Government Code section 71823(a); and
- (3) Act as the representative of the superior courts within the region in bargaining with a recognized employee organization as authorized by Government Code section 71809.

(b) Membership

- (1) Each Regional Court Interpreter Employment Committee consists of one representative from each superior court that has at least one interpreter employed as a court interpreter as defined by Government Code section 71806 and not excluded by section 71828(d).
- (2) The following regions are established by Government Code section 71807:
 - (A) Region 1: Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, and San Luis Obispo Counties.
 - (B) Region 2: Counties of the First and Sixth Appellate Districts, except Solano County.
 - (C) Region 3: Counties of the Third and Fifth Appellate Districts.
 - (D) Region 4: Counties of the Fourth Appellate District.

- (3) The court executive officer of each superior court may appoint the court's representative, under rule 10.610, which authorizes the court executive officer, acting under the direction of the presiding judge, to oversee the management and administration of the nonjudicial operations of the court.
- (4) Each Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committee may appoint a chief negotiator to bargain with recognized employee organizations. The chief negotiator may be Judicial Council staff.
- (5) Any superior court that is not entitled to appoint a representative under this rule, including the superior courts of Ventura and Solano Counties, may appoint an advisory member to the committee for its region.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2006, and January 1, 2007.)

(c) Rules of procedure

Each Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committee may adopt its own rules of procedure, including the procedure for selecting its chair, advisory members, and chief negotiator.

(d) Voting

- (1) Each representative of a superior court has a number of votes equal to the number of court interpreter employees in that trial court as defined by Government Code section 71806 and not excluded by section 71828(d).
- (2) On July 1, 2004, and annually thereafter each Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committee must recalculate the number of votes of each representative of a superior court to equal the number of court interpreter employees in that court.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2006.)

(e) Judicial Council staff

Judicial Council staff will assist each Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committee in performing its functions.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

Rule 10.761 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.661 effective March 1, 2003; previously amended effective January 1, 2006; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.761 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.762. Cross-assignments for court interpreter employees

(a) Purpose

This rule implements a process for cross-assignment of a court interpreter employed by a superior court under Government Code section 71810(b).

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Definitions

As used in this rule:

- (1) “Home court” means the superior court in which the court interpreter is an employee. An employee’s home court includes all locations of a superior court within a county.
- (2) “Away court” means the superior court to which the court interpreter is temporarily cross-assigned.
- (3) “Cross-assignment” means any assignment to perform spoken language interpretation for a superior court other than the interpreter’s home court.
- (4) “Regional court interpreter coordinator” means a Judicial Council employee whose duty it is to locate, assign, and schedule available court interpreter employees for courts within and across regions, which are described under Government Code section 71807(a).
- (5) “Local court interpreter coordinator” means an employee of a superior court whose duty it is to locate, assign, and schedule available court interpreter employees for his or her court.

(c) Procedure for cross-assignments

- (1) Under Government Code section 71804.5(b) a court interpreter employed by a superior court is not permitted to be an employee of more than one superior court. A court interpreter employed by a superior court may not contract with another court, but may accept appointments to provide services to more than one court through cross-assignments.
- (2) A superior court may attempt to fill an interpreting assignment with the employee of another court before hiring an independent contract court interpreter.

- (3) If a superior court wants to fill an interpreting assignment with the employee of another court, the court must notify the regional court interpreter coordinator to locate an employee of a court within or across regions.
- (4) Each local court interpreter coordinator must provide the schedule of each court interpreter employee available for cross-assignment to the regional court interpreter coordinator.
- (5) A superior court may adopt additional internal procedures for cross-assigning a court interpreter employee that are not inconsistent with Government Code section 71810 and this rule.
- (6) A Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committee may approve alternative procedures for cross-assigning a court interpreter employee that permit the interpreter to directly arrange cross-assignments with an “away” court, provided that the procedures require notice to the regional coordinator.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Payment for cross-assignments

The home court must issue payment to the court interpreter for all cross-assignments, including per diem compensation and mileage reimbursement. Judicial Council staff will administer funding to the home court for payments associated with cross-assignments.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Duties of a court interpreter on cross-assignment

A court interpreter who accepts a cross-assignment is responsible for following the personnel rules of the home court while performing services for the away court.

(f) Superior courts of Ventura and Solano Counties

The superior courts of Ventura and Solano Counties may participate in the procedure for cross-assignments as follows:

- (1) The Superior Court of Ventura County may accept or provide interpreters on cross-assignment under the procedures established in Region 1, as defined by Government Code section 71807.
- (2) The Superior Court of Solano County may accept or provide interpreters on cross-assignment under the procedures established in Region 2, as defined by Government Code section 71807.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.762 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.662 effective March 1, 2003; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.762 effective January 1, 2007.

Chapter 7. Qualifications of Court Investigators, Probate Attorneys, and Probate Examiners

Chapter 7 adopted effective January 1, 2008.

Rule 10.776. Definitions

Rule 10.777. Qualifications of court investigators, probate attorneys, and probate examiners

Rule 10.776. Definitions

As used in the rules in this chapter, the following terms have the meanings stated below:

- (1) A “court investigator” is a person described in Probate Code section 1454(a) employed by or under contract with a court to provide the investigative services for the court required or authorized by law in guardianships, conservatorships, and other protective proceedings under division 4 of the Probate Code;
- (2) A “probate examiner” is a person employed by a court to review filings in probate proceedings in order to assist the court and the parties to get the filed matters ready for consideration by the court in accordance with the requirements of the Probate Code, title 7 of the California Rules of Court, and the court’s local rules;
- (3) A “probate attorney” is an active member of the State Bar of California who is employed by a court to perform the functions of a probate examiner and also to provide legal analysis, recommendations, advice, and other services to the court pertaining to probate proceedings;
- (4) “Probate proceedings” are decedents’ estates, guardianships and conservatorships under division 4 of the Probate Code, trust proceedings under division 9 of the Probate Code, and other matters governed by provisions of that code and the rules in title 7 of the California Rules of Court;
- (5) An “accredited educational institution” is a college or university, including a community or junior college, accredited by a regional accrediting organization recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation.

Rule 10.776 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2008.

Rule 10.777. Qualifications of court investigators, probate attorneys, and probate examiners

(a) Qualifications of court investigators

Except as otherwise provided in this rule, a person who begins employment with a court or enters into a contract to perform services with a court as a court investigator on or after January 1, 2008, must:

- (1) Have a bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degree in a science, a social science, a behavioral science, liberal arts, or nursing from an accredited educational institution; and
- (2) Have a minimum of two years' employment experience performing casework or investigations in a legal, financial, law enforcement, or social services setting.

(b) Qualifications of probate attorneys

Except as otherwise provided in this rule, a person who begins employment with a court as a probate attorney on or after January 1, 2008, must:

- (1) Be an active member of the State Bar of California for:
 - (A) A minimum of five years; or
 - (B) A minimum of two years, plus a minimum of five years' current or former active membership in the equivalent organization of another state or eligibility to practice in the highest court of another state or in a court of the United States; and
- (2) Have a minimum of two years' total experience, before or after admission as an active member of the State Bar of California, in one or more of the following positions:
 - (A) Court-employed staff attorney;
 - (B) Intern, court probate department (minimum six-month period);
 - (C) Court-employed probate examiner or court-employed or court-contracted court investigator;
 - (D) Attorney in a probate-related public or private legal practice;
 - (E) Deputy public guardian or conservator;

- (F) Child protective services or adult protective services worker or juvenile probation officer; or
- (G) Private professional fiduciary appointed by a court or employee of a private professional fiduciary or bank or trust company appointed by a court, with significant fiduciary responsibilities, including responsibility for court accountings.

(c) Qualifications of probate examiners

Except as otherwise provided in this rule, a person who begins employment with a court as a probate examiner on or after January 1, 2008, must have:

- (1) A bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degree from an accredited educational institution and a minimum of two years' employment experience with one or more of the following employers:
 - (A) A court;
 - (B) A public or private law office; or
 - (C) A public administrator, public guardian, public conservator, or private professional fiduciary; or
- (2) A paralegal certificate or an Associate of Arts degree from an accredited educational institution and a minimum of a total of four years' employment experience with one or more of the employers listed in (1); or
- (3) A juris doctor degree from an educational institution approved by the American Bar Association or accredited by the Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California and a minimum of six months' employment experience with an employer listed in (1).

(d) Additional court-imposed qualifications and requirements

The qualifications in (a), (b), and (c) are minimums. A court may establish higher qualification standards for any position covered by this rule and may require applicants to comply with its customary hiring or personal-service contracting practices, including written applications, personal references, personal interviews, or entrance examinations.

(e) Exemption for smaller courts

The qualifications required under this rule may be waived by a court with eight or fewer authorized judges if it cannot find suitable qualified candidates for the positions covered by this rule or for other grounds of hardship. A court electing to waive a qualification under this subdivision must make express written findings showing the circumstances supporting the waiver and disclosing all alternatives considered, including those not selected.

(f) Record keeping and reporting

The Judicial Council may require courts to report on the qualifications of the court investigators, probate attorneys, or probate examiners hired or under contract under this rule, and on waivers made under (e), as necessary to ensure compliance with Probate Code section 1456.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

Rule 10.777 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2008.

Chapter 8. Alternative Dispute Resolution Programs

Chapter 8 renumbered effective January 1, 2008; adopted as Chapter 7 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.780. Administration of alternative dispute resolution (ADR) programs

Rule 10.781. Court-related ADR neutrals

Rule 10.782. ADR program information

Rule 10.783. ADR program administration

Rule 10.780. Administration of alternative dispute resolution (ADR) programs

The rules in this chapter concern alternative dispute resolution (ADR) programs administered by the trial courts. General provisions concerning ADR are located in title 3, division 8.

Rule 10.780 amended effective January 1, 2008; adopted effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.781. Court-related ADR neutrals

(a) Qualifications of mediators for general civil cases

Each superior court that makes a list of mediators available to litigants in general civil cases or that recommends, selects, appoints, or compensates mediators to mediate any general civil case pending in the court must establish minimum qualifications for the mediators eligible to be included on the court's list or to be recommended, selected, appointed, or compensated by the court. A court that approves the parties' agreement to use a mediator who is selected by the parties and who is not on the court's list of mediators or that memorializes the parties' agreement in a court order has not thereby recommended, selected, or appointed that mediator within the meaning of this rule. In establishing these qualifications, courts are encouraged to consider the Model Qualification Standards for Mediators in Court-Connected Mediation Programs for General Civil Cases issued by the Judicial Council staff.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2011.)

(b) Lists of neutrals

If a court makes available to litigants a list of ADR neutrals, the list must contain, at a minimum, the following information concerning each neutral listed:

- (1) The types of ADR services available from the neutral;
- (2) The neutral's resume, including his or her general education and ADR training and experience; and
- (3) The fees charged by the neutral for each type of service.

(Subd (b) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2011; adopted as subd (a); amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Requirements to be on lists

In order to be included on a court list of ADR neutrals, an ADR neutral must sign a statement or certificate agreeing to:

- (1) Comply with all applicable ethics requirements and rules of court and;
- (2) Serve as an ADR neutral on a pro bono or modest-means basis in at least one case per year, not to exceed eight hours, if requested by the court. The court must establish the eligibility requirements for litigants to receive, and the application process for them to request, ADR services on a pro bono or modest-means basis.

(Subd (c) relettered effective January 1, 2011; adopted as subd (b); previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Privilege to serve as a court-program neutral

Inclusion on a court list of ADR neutrals and eligibility to be recommended, appointed, or compensated by the court to serve as a neutral are privileges that are revocable and confer no vested right on the neutral.

(Subd (d) relettered effective January 1, 2011; adopted as subd (c) effective July 1, 2009.)

Rule 10.781 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 1580.1 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.781 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective July 1, 2009, and January 1, 2011.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (c). A court has absolute discretion to determine who may be included on a court list of ADR neutrals or is eligible to be recommended, selected, appointed, or compensated by the court to serve as a neutral (except as otherwise expressly provided by statute or rule of court).

Rule 10.782. ADR program information

(a) Report to Judicial Council

Each court must report information on its ADR programs to the Judicial Council, as requested by Judicial Council staff.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Parties and ADR neutrals to supply information

Subject to applicable limitations, including the confidentiality requirements in Evidence Code section 1115 et seq., courts must require parties and ADR neutrals, as appropriate, to supply pertinent information for the reports required under (a).

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.782 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 1580.2 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.783. ADR program administration

(a) ADR program administrator

The presiding judge in each trial court must designate the clerk or executive officer, or another court employee who is knowledgeable about ADR processes, to serve as ADR program administrator. The duties of the ADR program administrator must include:

- (1) Developing informational material concerning the court's ADR programs;
- (2) Educating attorneys and litigants about the court's ADR programs;
- (3) Supervising the development and maintenance of any panels of ADR neutrals maintained by the court; and

- (4) Gathering statistical and other evaluative information concerning the court's ADR programs.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2004.

(b) ADR committee

(1) Membership in courts with 18 or more authorized judges

In each superior court that has 18 or more authorized judges, there must be an ADR committee. The members of the ADR committee must include, insofar as is practicable:

- (A) The presiding judge or a judge designated by the presiding judge;
- (B) One or more other judges designated by the presiding judge;
- (C) The ADR program administrator;
- (D) Two or more active members of the State Bar chosen by the presiding judge as representatives of those attorneys who regularly represent parties in general civil cases before the court, including an equal number of attorneys who represent plaintiffs and who represent defendants in these cases;
- (E) One or more members of the court's panel of arbitrators chosen by the presiding judge; and
- (F) If the court makes available to litigants a list of any ADR neutrals other than arbitrators, one or more neutrals chosen by the presiding judge from that list.

(2) Additional members

The ADR committee may include additional members selected by the presiding judge.

(3) ADR committee in other courts

Any other court may by rule establish an ADR committee as provided in (b)(1). Otherwise, the presiding judge or a judge designated by the presiding judge must perform the functions and have the powers of an ADR committee as provided in these rules.

(4) Term of membership

ADR committee membership is for a two-year term. The members of the ADR committee may be reappointed and may be removed by the presiding judge.

(5) Responsibilities of ADR committee

The ADR committee is responsible for overseeing the court's alternative dispute resolution programs for general civil cases, including those responsibilities relating to the court's judicial arbitration program specified in rule 3.813(b).

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

Rule 10.783 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 1580.3 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2004.

Chapter 9. Trial Court Budget and Fiscal Management

Chapter 9 renumbered effective January 1, 2008; adopted as Chapter 3 effective July 1, 1998; previously renumbered as Chapter 8 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.800. Superior court budgeting

Rule 10.801. Superior court budget procedures

Rule 10.803. Information access disputes—writ petitions (Gov. Code, § 71675)

Rule 10.804. Superior court financial policies and procedures

Rule 10.805. Notice of change in court-county relationship

Rule 10.810. Court operations

Rule 10.811. Reimbursement of costs associated with homicide trials

Rule 10.815. Fees to be set by the court

Rule 10.820. Acceptance of credit cards by the superior courts

Rule 10.821. Acceptance of checks and other negotiable paper

Rule 10.830. Disposal of surplus court personal property

Rule 10.800. Superior court budgeting

(a) Purpose

This rule provides for local authority and accountability for development of budget requests and management of court operations within the authorized funding level. Superior courts must manage their budgets in a manner that is responsive to local needs, ensures equal access to justice, is consistent with Judicial Council policy and legislative direction, and does not exceed the total allocated budget.

(b) Development of budget requests

Each superior court must prepare and submit to the Judicial Council a budget according to the schedule and procedures established by the council.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2002, and January 1, 2007.)

(c) Allocation of funding

- (1) The funding allocation to each superior court is based on the amounts incorporated for that court in budget change proposals that have been funded through the Budget Act, except as otherwise ordered by the Judicial Council. The superior court of each county may distribute and periodically redistribute its annual allocation between programs, locations, and line items as needed, within the parameters of the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual and consistent with council policy direction, to promote accessible justice and the effective, efficient, and accountable operation of the courts. The Judicial Council may make additional allocations as it deems appropriate.
- (2) Each superior court is accountable for achieving the expected outcomes of the programs funded for that year. If a court is unable to do so, it must report the reasons to the Judicial Council.

Rule 10.800 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 2530 effective July 1, 1998; renumbered as rule 6.700 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2002; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.800 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.801. Superior court budget procedures

(a) Adoption of budget procedures by Judicial Council staff

Judicial Council staff must adopt superior court budget procedures to be included in the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual, the annual Baseline Budget Development Package, and the annual Budget Change Request Package. These procedures include the following:

- (1) Procedures permitting the superior courts to comment on the proposed budget procedures;

- (2) Procedures for budget development, submission, and appeal;
- (3) Procedures for budget implementation, including expenditure and revenue reporting;
- (4) Reasonable time frames to comply with requirements or changes in the budget procedures;
- (5) Procedures to ensure the reporting to the Judicial Council of relevant information on the implementation of programs funded;
- (6) Procedures for providing timely management information to the Judicial Council on the baseline budget, revenues, and expenditures.
- (7) An annual budget development and implementation calendar;
- (8) Procedures for a superior court to follow if it projects that its budget will be exhausted before the end of the fiscal year, preventing the court from meeting its financial obligations or continuing operations; and
- (9) Procedures governing the transfer of funds between individual programs and operations of expenditure.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2002, and January 1, 2007.)

(b) Technical assistance

Judicial Council staff, on request, provide technical assistance and ongoing training in budget development and implementation to the superior courts.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2002, and January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.801 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 2531 effective July 1, 1998; renumbered as rule 6.701 effective January 1, 1999; previously amended effective January 1, 2002; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.801 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.803. Information access disputes—writ petitions (Gov. Code, § 71675)

(a) Availability

This rule applies to petitions filed under rule 10.500(j)(1) and Government Code section 71675(b).

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2010; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Assignment of Court of Appeal justice to hear the petition

- (1) The petition must state the following on the first page, below the case number, in the statement of the character of the proceeding (see rule 2.111(6)):

“Writ petition filed under rule 10.500(j)(1) and Government Code section 71675—Assignment of Court of Appeal justice required.”
- (2) When the petition is filed, the clerk of the court must immediately request of the Chief Justice the assignment of a hearing judge from the panel established under (e).
- (3) If an assignment is made, the judge assigned to hear the petition in the superior court must be a justice from a Court of Appeal for a district other than the district for that superior court.

(c) Superior court hearing

- (1) The superior court must hear and decide the petition on an expedited basis and must give the petition priority over other matters to the extent permitted by law and the rules of court.
- (2) The petition must be heard by a judge assigned by the Chief Justice from the panel of hearing judges established under (e).

(d) Appeal

An appeal of the superior court decision must be heard and decided on an expedited basis in the Court of Appeal for the district in which the petition was heard and must be given priority over other matters to the extent permitted by law and rules of court. The notice of appeal must state the following on the first page, below the case number, in the statement of the character of the proceeding (see rule 2.111(6)):

“Notice of Appeal on Writ Petition filed under rule 10.500(j)(1) and Government Code section 71675—Expedited Processing Requested.”

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2010; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Panel of hearing judges

The panel of judges who may hear the petitions in the superior court must consist of Court of Appeal justices selected by the Chief Justice as follows:

- (1) The panel must include at least one justice from each district of the Court of Appeal.
- (2) Each justice assigned to hear a petition under (c)(2) must have received training on hearing the petitions as specified by the Chief Justice.

Rule 10.803 amended effective January 1, 2010; adopted as rule 6.710 effective October 15, 2004; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.804. Superior court financial policies and procedures

(a) Adoption

As part of its responsibility for regulating the budget and fiscal management of the trial courts, the Judicial Council adopts The Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual. The manual contains regulations establishing budget procedures, recordkeeping, accounting standards, and other financial guidelines for superior courts. The manual sets out a system of fundamental internal controls that will enable the trial courts to monitor their use of public funds, provide consistent and comparable financial statements, and demonstrate accountability.

(Subd (a) amended effective August 26, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007, and July 1, 2015.)

(b) Amendments

- (1) Before making any substantive amendments to the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual, the Judicial Council must make the amendments available to the superior courts, the California Department of Finance, and the State Controller's Office for 30 days for comment.
- (2) The Judicial Council delegates to the Administrative Director, under article VI, section 6 of the California Constitution and other applicable law, the authority to make technical changes and clarifications to the manual, provided the changes and clarifications are consistent with council policies.

(Subd (b) amended effective August 26, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007, and July 1, 2015.)

(c) Date of adherence

Superior courts must adhere to the requirements contained in the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual, except as otherwise provided in the manual. Superior courts must not be required to adhere to any substantive amendment to the manual sooner than 60 days after the amendment is adopted.

(Subd (c) amended effective August 26, 2016; previously amended January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.804 amended effective August 26, 2016; adopted as rule 6.707 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously effective July 1, 2015.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (a). Procurement and contracting policies and procedures for judicial branch entities, including superior courts, are addressed separately in the Judicial Branch Contracting Manual, which the Judicial Council adopted under Public Contract Code section 19206.

Subdivision (b)(2). Technical changes and clarifications include clarifying language that (1) does not change any substantive requirement imposed on courts; and (2) corrects typographical errors or citations, or makes reimbursement rate adjustments and other changes that result from changes in federal, state, or local rules, regulations or applicable law.

Rule 10.805. Notice of change in court-county relationship

If, under Government Code section 77212, the county gives notice to the superior court that the county will no longer provide a specific county service or the court gives notice to the county that the court will no longer use a specific county service, the court must, within 10 days of receiving or giving such notice, provide a copy of this notice to the Judicial Council's Finance office.

Rule 10.805 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.705 effective January 1, 2000; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.805 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.810. Court operations

(a) Definition

Except as provided in subdivision (b) and subject to the requirements of subdivisions (c) and (d), "court operations" as defined in Government Code section 77003 includes the following costs:

- (1) (judicial salaries and benefits) salaries, benefits, and public agency retirement contributions for superior and municipal court judges and for subordinate judicial officers;
- (2) (nonjudicial salaries and benefits) salaries, benefits, and public agency retirement contributions for superior and municipal court staff whether permanent, temporary, full- or part-time, contract or per diem, including but not limited to all municipal court staff positions specifically prescribed by statute and county clerk positions directly supporting the superior courts;

- (3) salaries and benefits for those sheriff, marshal, and constable employees as the court deems necessary for court operations in superior and municipal courts and the supervisors of those sheriff, marshal, and constable employees who directly supervise the court security function;

Rule 10.810 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 810 effective July 1, 1988; previously amended effective July 1, 1989, July 1, 1990, July 1, 1991, and July 1, 1995.

Advisory Committee Comment

Rule 10.810 is identical to former rule 810, except for the rule number. All references in statutes or rules to rule 810 apply to this rule.

Rule 10.811. Reimbursement of costs associated with homicide trials

(a) Intent

This rule permits courts that meet certain criteria to request reimbursement of extraordinary costs of homicide trials.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Criteria

A court that requests reimbursement of extraordinary costs of a homicide trial must meet all the following criteria:

- (1) Be located in a county with a population of 300,000 or less;
- (2) Have incurred extraordinary costs of a homicide trial; and
- (3) Demonstrate an actual need for reimbursement.

(c) Submission

A request for reimbursement must be submitted by the court's presiding judge or executive officer to Judicial Council staff. All requests for reimbursement must comply with guidelines approved by the Judicial Council and include a completed Request for Reimbursement of Extraordinary Homicide Trial Costs form.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

Rule 10.811 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.711 effective January 1, 2005; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.811 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.815. Fees to be set by the court

(a) Authority

Under Government Code section 70631, a superior court may charge a reasonable fee for a service or product not to exceed the costs of providing the service or product, if the Judicial Council approves the fee.

(b) Approved fees

The Judicial Council authorizes courts to charge a reasonable fee not to exceed costs for the following products and services unless courts are prohibited by law from charging a fee for, or providing, the product or service:

- (1) Forms;
- (2) Packages of forms;
- (3) Information materials;
- (4) Publications, including books, pamphlets, and local rules;
- (5) Compact discs;
- (6) DVDs;
- (7) Audiotapes;
- (8) Videotapes;
- (9) Microfiches;
- (10) Envelopes;
- (11) Postage;
- (12) Shipping;
- (13) Off-site retrieval of documents;

- (14) Direct fax filing under rule 2.304 (fee per page);
- (15) Returning filed-stamped copies of documents by fax to persons who request that a faxed copy be sent to them;
- (16) Training programs for attorneys who serve as court-appointed temporary judges, including the materials and food provided to the participants; and
- (17) Other training programs or events, including materials and food provided to the participants.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective July 1, 2006.)

(c) Guidelines for determining costs

The fee charged for any product or service listed in (b) may not exceed the court's cost in providing the product or service. In determining the costs of a product or service, the court must:

- (1) Identify the specific product or service; and
- (2) Prepare an analysis of the direct and indirect costs on which the fee is based.

(d) Reasonableness

In deciding what specific fee or fees, if any, to charge for a product or service under (b), the court must determine that the fee charged is reasonable considering relevant factors such as the benefits to the court and the public from providing the product or service and the effects of charging the fee on public access to the court.

(e) Reporting requirement

Each court that charges a fee under this rule must provide Judicial Council staff with a description of the fee, how the amount of the fee was determined, and how the fee is applied.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(f) Public notice

The court must notify the public of any fee that it charges under this rule by providing information concerning the fee in a conspicuous place such as the court's fee schedule.

(g) Procedure for adoption of fee

If a court proposes to change any fee authorized under (b) that it is already charging or to charge any new fee authorized under (b), the court must follow the procedures for adopting or amending a local rule under rule 10.613 of the California Rules of Court.

(Subd (g) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective July 1, 2006.)

Rule 10.815 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.712 effective January 1, 2006; previously amended effective July 1, 2006; amended and renumbered as rule 10.815 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.820. Acceptance of credit cards by the superior courts

(a) Delegation of authority to Administrative Director

The Administrative Director is authorized, under rule 10.80, to approve on behalf of the Judicial Council requests from the superior courts to accept credit cards for the payment of court fees or to impose a charge for the use of credit cards. The authority is given to the Judicial Council by Government Code section 6159.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Standards for use of credit cards

The Administrative Director is authorized to approve requests under (a) for acceptance of credit cards if all of the following are true:

- (1) The court (A) imposes a fee for the use of the credit card, or (B) demonstrates that the cost of acceptance of credit cards is not greater than the cost of acceptance of other means of payment of fees, or (C) demonstrates that it can absorb the cost of the acceptance of the credit card;
- (2) The court has obtained a credit card acceptance contract that is competitive with other possible contracts the court could obtain; and
- (3) The court provides alternative means for a person to pay court fees.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Standards for charge for the use of credit cards

The Administrative Director is authorized to approve requests under (a) for the imposition of a charge for the use of credit cards if both of the following are true:

- (1) The proposed fee is not greater than the cost for acceptance of a credit card; and
- (2) The proposed fee would not result in an undue hardship on people wishing to use credit cards for payment of fees.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Referral to Judicial Council

The Administrative Director may refer any request under (a) to the Judicial Council for its action.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Existing approvals ratified

The approval of any board of supervisors for any superior court to accept credit cards or charge a fee for the use of credit cards that was effective as of December 31, 1999, is ratified by the council as of January 1, 2000.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2009; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.820 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.703 effective January 1, 2000; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.820 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2009.

Rule 10.821. Acceptance of checks and other negotiable paper

(a) Conditions for acceptance

A personal check, bank cashier's check, money order, or traveler's check tendered in payment of any fee, fine, or bail deposit under Government Code section 71386 or Vehicle Code section 40510 or 40521 must be accepted by the court:

- (1) If the personal check is drawn on a banking institution located in California by a person furnishing satisfactory proof of residence in California, is payable to the court without a second party endorsement, and is in an amount not exceeding the amount of the payment and is not postdated or staledated, unless the person drawing the check is known to have previously tendered worthless checks; or

- (2) If the bank cashier's check or money order is drawn on a banking institution located in the United States and is in an amount not exceeding the amount of the payment; or
- (3) If the person presenting the traveler's check shows satisfactory identification.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Requiring satisfactory proof of good credit

Except for checks tendered under the conditions specified in Vehicle Code section 40521(a), a court may require that a person drawing a personal check furnish satisfactory proof of good credit by showing a valid recognized credit card or by any other reasonable means.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Written policy for acceptance or rejection

A court may accept or reject any check or money order not meeting the requirements of this rule, under a written policy adopted by the court under Government Code section 71386(a).

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.821 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 805 effective July 1, 1981.

Rule 10.830. Disposal of surplus court personal property

(a) Disposal of surplus property

Except as provided in (b), a superior court may:

- (1) Sell, at fair market value, any personal property of the court that is no longer needed for court use;
- (2) Trade or exchange any surplus personal property of the court, according to such terms and conditions as are agreed on, for personal property of another court, the state, a county, a city, a federal agency, a community redevelopment agency, a housing authority, a community development commission, a surplus property authority, a school district, or any irrigation, flood control, county board of education, or other special district, if the property to be acquired by the court is needed for court use;
- (3) Donate, sell at less than fair market value, or otherwise transfer to another court, the state, a county, a city, a federal agency, a community redevelopment agency, a housing authority, a community development commission, a surplus property authority, a school district, or any irrigation, flood control, county board of education, or other special district, according to such terms and conditions as are agreed on, any personal property of the court that is no longer needed for court use; and

- (4) Dispose of any personal property of the court that is no longer needed for court use, and that has negligible or no economic value, in any manner the court deems appropriate.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Exception for disposal of technology equipment acquired on or after July 1, 2000

A superior court that wishes to dispose of surplus technology equipment to which the court acquired title on or after July 1, 2000 must provide a written description of such technology equipment to the Administrative Director. If, within 60 days of receipt of the description, the Administrative Director determines that another court of record of the State of California is in need of the surplus technology equipment, the court holding title to the equipment must donate it to the court determined to be in need. If the Administrative Director determines that no other court needs the equipment or makes no determination within 60 days of receiving the written description of it, the court holding title to the equipment may dispose of it as provided in (a), (c), and (d). The Administrative Director must provide to the courts a definition of the term “technology equipment” as used in this rule and must provide 30 days’ notice of any amendment to the definition.

(c) Notice of disposal

Unless the property to be transferred under this rule is valued at $500 or less or the entity to which the property is to be transferred is another court of record of the State of California, the transferring superior court must, at least one week before the transfer, place a notice of its intended action:

- (1) In three public places; or
- (2) On the court’s Web site; or
- (3) In a newspaper of general circulation published in the county.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Proceeds of disposal

Any proceeds of a sale or other transfer under this rule must be deposited in the superior court's operations fund.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.830 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as rule 6.709 effective January 1, 2001; previously amended and renumbered as rule 10.830 effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.851. Court indexes—automated maintenance

Rule 10.854. Standards and guidelines for trial court records

Rule 10.855. Superior court records sampling program

Rule 10.856. Notice of superior court records destruction

Rule 10.850. Trial court records

Unless otherwise provided, “court records” as used in this chapter consist of the records as defined in Government Code section 68151(a).

Rule 10.850 adopted effective January 1, 2011.

Rule 10.851. Court indexes—automated maintenance

(a) Authorized media

The clerk of each trial court may create, maintain, update, and make accessible the indexes required by law by photographic, microphotographic, photocopy, mechanical, magnetic, or electronic means. The clerk must make provision for preserving the information on a medium that will ensure its permanence and protect it from loss or damage arising from electronic failure or mechanical defect.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as unlettered subd; previously relettered and amended effective January 1, 2001.)

(b) Alphabetic index

A single alphabetic index may be maintained so long as the plaintiff-defendant distinction is retained.

(Subd (b) adopted effective January 1, 2001.)

(c) Public access

The indexes maintained under automated procedures must be accessible for public examination and use.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as part of unlettered subd; previously lettered and amended effective January 1, 2001.)

Rule 10.851 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 1010 effective January 1, 1975; renumbered as rule 999 effective January 1, 2003; amended and renumbered as rule 6.751 effective January 1, 2001.

Rule 10.854. Standards and guidelines for trial court records

(a) The standards and guidelines

Judicial Council staff, in collaboration with trial court presiding judges and court executives, must prepare, maintain, and distribute a manual providing standards and guidelines for the creation, maintenance, and retention of trial court records (the Trial Court Records Manual), consistent with the Government Code and the rules of court and policies adopted by the Judicial Council. The manual should assist the courts and the public to have complete, accurate, efficient, and accessible court records. Before the manual is issued, it must be made available for comment from the trial courts.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(b) Contents of the Trial Court Records Manual

The Trial Court Records Manual must provide standards and guidelines for the creation, maintenance, and retention of trial court records. These standards and guidelines must ensure that all court records subject to permanent retention are retained and made available to the public in perpetuity as legally required.

(c) Updating the manual

Judicial Council staff, in collaboration with trial court presiding judges and court executives, must periodically update the Trial Court Records Manual to reflect changes in technology that affect the creation, maintenance, and retention of court records. Except for technical changes, corrections, or minor substantive changes not likely to create controversy, proposed changes in the manual must be made available for comment from the courts before the manual is updated or changed. Courts must be notified of any changes in the standards or guidelines, including all those relating to the permanent retention of records.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

(d) Adherence to standards and guidelines

Trial courts must adhere to the requirements contained in the Trial Court Records Manual, except as otherwise provided in the manual.

Rule 10.854 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2011.

Rule 10.855. Superior court records sampling program

(a) Purpose

This rule establishes a program to preserve in perpetuity for study by historians and other researchers all superior court records filed before 1911 and a sample of superior court records filed after December 31, 1910, to document the progress and development of the judicial system, and to preserve evidence of significant events and social trends. This rule is not intended to restrict a court from preserving more records than the minimum required.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Scope

“Records” of the superior court, as used in this rule, does not include records of limited civil, small claims, misdemeanor, or infraction cases.

(Subd (b) adopted effective January 1, 2001.)

(c) Comprehensive and significant records

Each superior court must preserve forever comprehensive and significant court records as follows:

- (1) All records filed before 1911;
- (2) If practicable, all records filed after 1910 and before 1950;
- (3) All case indexes; and
- (4) All noncapital cases in which the California Supreme Court has issued a written opinion.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 1, 2016; adopted as subd (b); previously amended and relettered effective January 1, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Sample records

If a superior court destroys court records without preserving them in a medium described in (g), the court must preserve forever a sample of court records as provided by this rule of all cases, including sealed, expunged, and other confidential records to the extent permitted by law.

(Subd (d) amended effective July 1, 2016; adopted as subd (c); relettered effective January 1, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Court record defined

The “court record” under this rule consists of the following:

- (1) All papers and documents in the case folder; but if no case folder is created by the court, all papers and documents that would have been in the case folder if one had been created; and
- (2) The case folder, unless all information on the case folder is in papers and documents preserved in a medium described in (g); and
- (3) If available, corresponding depositions, daily transcripts, and tapes of electronically recorded proceedings.

(Subd (e) amended effective July 1, 2016; adopted as subd (d); previously amended and relettered effective January 1, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(f) Sampling technique

Three courts assigned in rotation by the Judicial Council must preserve the following:

- (1) A random sample of 25 percent of their court records for a calendar year, with the exception of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, which must preserve a random sample of 10 percent of its court records for a calendar year.
- (2) All judgment books, minute books, and registers of action if maintained separately from the case files, for the calendar year.

(Subd (f) amended effective July 1, 2016; adopted as subd (e); repealed, amended, and relettered effective January 1, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(g) Preservation medium

- (1) Comprehensive and significant court records under (c) filed before 1911 must be preserved in their original paper form unless the paper is not available.

- (2) Comprehensive and significant court records under (c) filed after 1910 and sample records under (d) must be retained permanently in accord with the requirements of the Trial Court Records Manual.

(Subd (g) amended and relettered effective July 1, 2016; adopted as subd (h); previously amended effective January 1, 2001, January 1, 2007, and January 1, 2011.)

(h) Access

The court must ensure the following:

- (1) The comprehensive, significant, and sample court records are made reasonably available to all members of the public.
- (2) Sealed and confidential records are made available to the public only as provided by law.
- (3) If the records are preserved in a medium other than paper, equipment is provided to permit public viewing of the records.
- (4) Reasonable provision is made for duplicating the records at cost.

(Subd (h) amended and relettered effective July 1, 2016; adopted as subd (j); previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(i) Storage

- (1) Until statewide or regional archival facilities are established, each court is responsible for maintaining its comprehensive, significant, and sample court records in a secure and safe environment consistent with the archival significance of the records. The court may deposit the court records in a suitable California archival facility such as a university, college, library, historical society, museum, archive, or research institution whether publicly supported or privately endowed. The court must ensure that the records are kept and preserved according to commonly recognized archival principles and practices of preservation.
- (2) If a local archival facility is maintaining the court records, the court may continue to use that facility's services if it meets the storage and access requirements under (h) and (i)(1). If the court solicits archival facilities interested in maintaining the comprehensive, significant, and sample court records, the court must follow the procedures specified under rule 10.856, except that the comprehensive, significant, and sample court records must not be destroyed. Courts may enter into agreements for long-term deposit of records subject to the storage and access provisions of this rule.

(Subd (i) amended and relettered effective July 1, 2016; adopted as subd (k); previously amended effective January 1, 1994, January 1, 2001, and January 1, 2007.)

(j) Application

The sampling program provided in this rule, as amended effective July 1, 2016, applies retroactively to all superior courts.

(Subd (j) relettered effective January 1, 2018; adopted as subd (k) effective July 1, 2016.)

Rule 10.855 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted as rule 243.5 effective July 1, 1992; previously amended and renumbered as rule 6.755 effective January 1, 2001, and as rule 10.855 January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 1994, January 1, 1995, January 1, 2011, July 1, 2013, and July 1, 2016.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (c)(4). Capital cases are excluded under subdivision (c)(4) because these cases have an automatic right of appeal to the California Supreme Court, and trial court records are retained permanently under Government Code section 68152(c)(1) if the defendant is sentenced to death. Each year, the Judicial Council will make available to the superior courts a list of all noncapital cases in which the California Supreme Court has issued a written opinion.

Subdivision (j). Because the destruction of court records is discretionary, all courts may elect to apply the rule retroactively and destroy court records that are not required to be preserved under subdivisions (c), (d), and (f), but they are not required to do so.

Superior courts that destroyed court records under the prior sampling rule may have preserved only 10 percent of their records (formerly known as the “systematic sample”) for the year that they are now assigned to preserve the sample defined in subdivision (f). Except for the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, these courts would not be able to meet the requirement in subdivision (f)(1). So long as these courts continue preserving the 10-percent sample for their assigned year, they will be deemed to have satisfied subdivision (f)(1).

Rule 10.856. Notice of superior court records destruction

(a) Scope

“Records” of the superior court, as used in this rule, do not include records of limited civil, small claims, misdemeanor, or infraction cases.

(Subd (a) adopted effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Notice

The superior court must give 30 days’ written notice of its intent to destroy court records open to public inspection to entities maintained on a master list by the Judicial Council and to any other entities that have informed the court directly that they wish to be notified.

(Subd (b) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (a); previously amended effective January 1, 2001, and July 1, 2001.

(c) Transfer to requesting entity

Records scheduled for destruction must be permanently transferred to the entity requesting possession of the records on written order of the presiding judge unless the request is denied for good cause shown. The cost of transferring the records must be paid by the requesting party.

(Subd (c) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (b); previously amended effective January 1, 2001.)

(d) Request by two or more entities

If two or more entities request the same records, the presiding judge must order the transfer of those records to the entity that shows the greatest capability of caring for and preserving the records according to commonly recognized archival principles and practices of preservation and access, and that provides the greatest likelihood of making them available for historical or research purposes.

(Subd (d) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (c); previously amended effective January 1, 2001.)

(e) Public access

No entity may receive the records unless the entity agrees to make the records reasonably available to all members of the public. Provision must be made for duplicating the records at cost.

(Subd (e) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (d); previously amended effective January 1, 2001.)

(f) Destruction

If after 30 days no request for transfer of records scheduled for destruction has been received by the court, the clerk may destroy the records not designated for the historical and research program under rule 10.855, under a written order of the presiding judge of the court and in accordance with provisions of the Government Code.

(Subd (f) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (e); previously amended effective January 1, 2001.)

(g) Extension of time

The time for retention of any of the court records specified in the notice may be extended by order of the court on its own motion, or on application of any interested member of the public for good cause shown and on such terms as are just. No fee may be charged for making the application.

(Subd (g) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (f); previously amended effective January 1, 2001.)

(h) Forms

The court must use the following forms to implement the requirements of this rule:

- (1) Notice of Intent to Destroy Superior Court Records; Offer to Transfer Possession (form REC-001(N), with a form on the reverse titled Request for Transfer or Extension of Time for Retention of Superior Court Records (form REC-001(R)), for optional use by the recipient of the notice; and
- (2) Notice of Hearing on Request for Transfer or Extension of Time for Retention of Superior Court Records; Court Order; Release and Receipt of Superior Court Records (form REC-002(N)).

(Subd (h) amended effective July 1, 2010; adopted as subd (g); previously amended effective January 1, 2001; previously amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.856 amended effective July 1, 2010; adopted as rule 243.6 effective January 1, 1994; previously amended effective July 1, 2001; previously amended and renumbered as rule 6.756 effective January 1, 2001, and as rule 10.856 effective January 1, 2007.

Chapter 11. Trial Court Automation

Rule 10.901. Internal management procedures

Rule 10.910. Assigned cases to be tried or dismissed—notification to presiding judge

Rule 10.900. Case management and calendaring system

Each superior court must adopt a case management and calendaring system for general civil cases that will advance the goals stated in standard 2.1 of the California Standards of Judicial Administration.

Rule 10.900 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 204.1 effective July 1, 2002.

Rule 10.901. Internal management procedures

Each court must:

- (1) Maintain a calendar and caseload management system that will ensure that a sufficient number of cases are set for trial, based on the court's experience, so that all departments will be occupied with judicial business;
- (2) Adopt for judges and court personnel an internal operations manual of policies and procedures necessary for the efficient operation and management of the court;
- (3) Maintain and periodically review for accuracy written local court procedures, policies, and operating practices not contained in local rules for quick, accurate, and complete reference; and
- (4) Ensure that calendaring functions are performed as directed by the court and that personnel rendering direct and immediate service to the court are within its administrative control to the maximum extent consistent with the existing organizational structures.

Rule 10.901 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 208 effective January 1, 1985; previously amended and renumbered as rule 204.2 effective July 1, 2002.

Rule 10.910. Assigned cases to be tried or dismissed—notification to presiding judge

(a) Assignment of cases for trial

In a court employing the master calendar, each case transferred to a trial department must be tried, ordered off the calendar, or dismissed unless, for good cause arising after the commencement of the trial, the judge of the trial department continues the case for further hearing or, with the consent of the judge supervising the master calendar, reassigns the case to the judge supervising the master calendar for further disposition.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as untitled subd effective January 1, 1985; previously amended and lettered effective July 1, 2002.)

(b) Notification to presiding judge

A judge who has finished or continued the trial of a case or any special matter must immediately notify the judge supervising the master calendar. The judge to whose department a cause is assigned for trial or for hearing must accept the assignment unless disqualified or, for other good cause stated to the judge supervising the master calendar, the judge supervising the master calendar determines that in the interest of justice the cause should not be tried or heard before the judge. When the judge has refused a cause and is not disqualified, the judge must state the reasons in writing unless the judge supervising the master calendar has concurred.

(Subd (b) amended and lettered effective July 1, 2002; adopted as untitled subd effective January 1, 1985.)

Rule 10.953. Procedures for disposition of cases before the preliminary hearing

Rule 10.950. Role of presiding judge, supervising judge, criminal division, and master calendar department in courts having more than three judges

The presiding judge of a court having more than three judges may designate one or more departments primarily to hear criminal cases. Two or more departments so designated must be the criminal division. The presiding judge may designate supervising judges for the criminal division, but retains final authority over all criminal and civil case assignments.

Rule 10.950 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 227.1 effective January 1, 1985.

Rule 10.951. Duties of supervising judge of the criminal division

(a) Duties

In addition to any other duties assigned by the presiding judge or imposed by these rules, a supervising judge of the criminal division must assign criminal matters requiring a hearing or cases requiring trial to a trial department.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Arraignments, pretrial motions, and readiness conferences

The presiding judge, supervising judge, or other designated judge must conduct arraignments, hear and determine any pretrial motions, preside over readiness conferences, and, where not inconsistent with law, assist in the disposition of cases without trial.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Mental health case protocols

The presiding judge, supervising judge, or other designated judge, in conjunction with the justice partners designated in rule 10.952, is encouraged to develop local protocols for cases involving offenders with mental illness or co-occurring disorders to ensure early identification of and appropriate treatment for offenders with mental illness or co-occurring disorders with the goals of reducing recidivism, responding to public safety concerns, and providing better outcomes for those offenders while using resources responsibly and reducing costs.

(Subd (c) adopted effective January 1, 2014.)

(d) Additional judges

To the extent that the business of the court requires, the presiding judge may designate additional judges under the direction of the supervising judge to perform the duties specified in this rule.

(Subd (d) relettered effective January 1, 2014; adopted as subd (c).)

(3) Courts without supervising judge

In a court having no supervising judge, the presiding judge performs the duties of a supervising judge.

(Subd (e) relettered effective January 1, 2014; adopted as subd (d); previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.951 amended effective January 1, 2014; adopted as rule 227.2 effective January 1, 1985; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2008.

Rule 10.952. Meetings concerning the criminal court system

The supervising judge or, if none, the presiding judge must designate judges of the court to attend regular meetings to be held with the district attorney; public defender; representatives of the local bar, probation department, parole office, sheriff department, police departments, and Forensic Conditional Release Program (CONREP); county mental health director or his or her designee; county alcohol and drug programs director or his or her designee; court personnel; and other interested persons to identify and eliminate problems in the criminal court system and to discuss other problems of mutual concern.

Rule 10.952 amended effective January 1, 2015; adopted as rule 227.8 effective January 1, 1985; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2014.

Rule 10.953. Procedures for disposition of cases before the preliminary hearing

(a) Disposition before preliminary hearing

Superior courts having more than three judges must, in cooperation with the district attorney and defense bar, adopt procedures to facilitate dispositions before the preliminary hearing and at all other stages of the proceedings. The procedures may include:

- (1) Early, voluntary, informal discovery, consistent with part 2, title 6, chapter 10 of the Penal Code (commencing with section 1054); and
- (2) The use of superior court judges as magistrates to conduct readiness conferences before the preliminary hearing and to assist, where not inconsistent with law, in the early disposition of cases.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective June 6, 1990, and January 1, 1991.)

(b) Case to be disposed of under rule 4.114

Pleas of guilty or no contest resulting from proceedings under (a) must be disposed of as provided in rule 4.114.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective July 1, 2001.)

Rule 10.953 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 227.10 effective January 1, 1985; previously amended effective June 6, 1990, January 1, 1991, and July 1, 2001.

Chapter 14. Management of Self-Help Centers

Chapter 14 adopted effective July 1, 2008.

Rule 10.960. Court self-help centers

Rule 10.960. Court self-help centers

(a) Scope and application

This rule applies to all court-based self-help centers whether the services provided by the center are managed by the court or by an entity other than the court.

(b) Purpose and core court function

Providing access to justice for self-represented litigants is a priority for California courts. The services provided by court self-help centers facilitate the timely and cost-effective processing of cases involving self-represented litigants and improve the delivery of justice to the public. Court programs, policies, and procedures designed to assist self-represented litigants and effectively manage cases involving self-represented litigants at all stages must be incorporated and budgeted as core court functions.

(c) Staffing

Court self-help centers provide assistance to self-represented litigants. A court self-help center must include an attorney and other qualified staff who provide information and education to self-represented litigants about the justice process, and who work within the court to provide for the effective management of cases involving self-represented litigants.

(d) Neutrality and availability

The information and education provided by court self-help centers must be neutral and unbiased, and services must be available to all sides of a case.

(e) Guidelines and procedures

The Advisory Committee on Providing Access and Fairness must recommend to the council updates to the Guidelines for the Operation of Self-Help Centers in California Trial Courts as needed. It should, in collaboration with judges, court executives, attorneys, and other parties with demonstrated interest in services to self-represented litigants, develop and disseminate guidelines, procedures and best practices for the operation of court self-help centers. The guidelines and procedures must address the following topics:

- (1) Location and hours of operation;
- (2) Scope of services;
- (3) Attorney qualifications;
- (4) Other staffing qualifications and supervision requirements;
- (5) Language access;
- (6) Contracts with entities other than the court that provide self-help services;
- (7) Use of technology;
- (8) Ethics;
- (9) Efficiency of operation; and
- (10) Security.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2015; previously amended effective February 20, 2014.)

(f) Budget and funding

A court must include in its annual budget funding necessary for operation of its self-help center. In analyzing and making recommendations on the allocation of funding for a court self-help center, Judicial Council staff will consider the degree to which individual courts have been successful in meeting the guidelines and procedures for the operation of the self-help center.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2016.)

Rule 10.960 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted effective January 1, 2008; previously amended effective February 20, 2014, and January 1, 2015.

Division 5. Appellate Court Administration

Chapter 1. Rules Relating to the Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal

Rule 10.1000. Transfer of causes

Rule 10.1004. Court of Appeal administrative presiding justice

Rule 10.1008. Courts of Appeal with more than one division

Rule 10.1012. Supervising progress of appeals

Rule 10.1016. Notice of failure to perform judicial duties

Rule 10.1017. Notification to State Bar of attorney misconduct

Rule 10.1020. Reviewing court clerk/administrator

Rule 10.1024. Court of Appeal minutes

Rule 10.1028. Preservation and destruction of Court of Appeal records

Rule 10.1030. Local rules of Courts of Appeal

Rule 10.1000. Transfer of causes

(a) Transfer by Supreme Court

- (1) The Supreme Court may transfer a cause:
 - (A) To itself from a Court of Appeal;
 - (B) From itself to a Court of Appeal;
 - (C) Between Courts of Appeal; or
 - (D) Between divisions of a Court of Appeal.
- (2) The clerk of the transferee court must promptly send each party a copy of the transfer order with the new case number, if any.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Transfer by a Court of Appeal administrative presiding justice

- (1) A Court of Appeal administrative presiding justice may transfer causes between divisions of that court as follows:
 - (A) If multiple appeals or writ petitions arise from the same trial court action or proceeding, the presiding justice may transfer the later appeals or petitions to the division assigned the first appeal or petition.
 - (B) If, because of recusals, a division does not have three justices qualified to decide a cause, the presiding justice may transfer it to a division randomly selected by the clerk.

- (2) The clerk must promptly notify the parties of the division to which the cause was transferred.

Rule 10.1000 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 47.1 effective January 1, 2003.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (a). Subdivision(a)(1) implements article VI, section 12(a) of the Constitution. As used in article VI, section 12(a) and in the rule, the term “cause” is broadly construed to include “all cases, matters, and proceedings of every description” adjudicated by the Courts of Appeal and the Supreme Court. (In re Rose (2000) 22 Cal.4th 430, 540, quoting In re Wells (1917) 174 Cal. 467, 471.)

Rule 10.1004. Court of Appeal administrative presiding justice

(a) Designation

- (1) In a Court of Appeal with more than one division, the Chief Justice may designate a presiding justice to act as administrative presiding justice. The administrative presiding justice serves at the pleasure of the Chief Justice for the period specified in the designation order.
- (2) The administrative presiding justice must designate another member of the court to serve as acting administrative presiding justice in the administrative presiding justice’s absence. If the administrative presiding justice does not make that designation, the Chief Justice must do so.
- (3) In a Court of Appeal with only one division, the presiding justice acts as the administrative presiding justice.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Responsibilities

The administrative presiding justice is responsible for leading the court, establishing policies, promoting access to justice for all members of the public, providing a forum for the fair and expeditious resolution of disputes, and maximizing the use of judicial and other resources.

(c) Duties

The administrative presiding justice must perform any duties delegated by a majority of the justices in the district with the Chief Justice’s concurrence. In addition, the administrative presiding justice has responsibility for the following matters:

(1) Personnel

The administrative presiding justice has general direction and supervision of the clerk/executive officer and all court employees except those assigned to a particular justice or division;

(2) Unassigned matters

The administrative presiding justice has the authority of a presiding justice with respect to any matter that has not been assigned to a particular division;

(3) Judicial Council

The administrative presiding justice cooperates with the Chief Justice and any officer authorized to act for the Chief Justice in connection with the making of reports and the assignment of judges or retired judges under article VI, section 6 of the California Constitution;

(4) Transfer of cases

The administrative presiding justice cooperates with the Chief Justice in expediting judicial business and equalizing the work of judges by recommending, when appropriate, the transfer of cases by the Supreme Court under article VI, section 12 of the California Constitution;

(5) Administration

The administrative presiding justice supervises the administration of the court's day-to-day operations, including personnel matters, but must secure the approval of a majority of the justices in the district before implementing any change in court policies;

(6) Budget

The administrative presiding justice has sole authority in the district over the budget as allocated by the Chair of the Judicial Council, including budget transfers, execution of purchase orders, obligation of funds, and approval of payments; and

(7) Facilities

The administrative presiding justice, except as provided in (d), has sole authority in the district over the operation, maintenance, renovation, expansion, and assignment of all facilities used and occupied by the district.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2018; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Geographically separate divisions

Under the general oversight of the administrative presiding justice, the presiding justice of a geographically separate division:

- (1) Generally directs and supervises all of the division's court employees not assigned to a particular justice;
- (2) Has authority to act on behalf of the division regarding day-to-day operations;
- (3) Administers the division budget for day-to-day operations, including expenses for maintenance of facilities and equipment; and
- (4) Operates, maintains, and assigns space in all facilities used and occupied by the division.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.1004 amended effective January 1, 2018; repealed and adopted as rule 75 effective January 1, 2005; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.1008. Courts of Appeal with more than one division

Appeals and original proceedings filed in a Court of Appeal with more than one division, or transferred to such a court without designation of a division, may be assigned to divisions in a way that will equalize the distribution of business among them. The clerk/executive officer of the Court of Appeal must keep records showing the divisions in which cases and proceedings are pending.

Rule 10.1008 amended effective January 1, 2018; repealed and adopted as rule 47 effective January 1, 2005; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.1012. Supervising progress of appeals

(a) Duty to ensure prompt filing

The administrative presiding justices of Courts of Appeal with more than one division in the same city and the presiding justices of all other Courts of Appeal are generally responsible for ensuring that all appellate records and briefs are promptly filed. Staff must be provided for that purpose, to the extent that funds are appropriated and available.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Authority

Notwithstanding any other rule, the administrative presiding justices and presiding justices referred to in (a) may:

- (1) Grant or deny applications to extend the time to file records, briefs, and other documents, except that a presiding justice may extend the time to file briefs in conjunction with an order to augment the record;
- (2) Order the dismissal of an appeal or any other authorized sanction for noncompliance with these rules, if no application to extend time or for relief from default has been filed before the order is entered; and
- (3) Grant relief from default or from a sanction other than dismissal imposed for the default.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.1012 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; repealed and adopted as rule 77 effective January 1, 2005.

Rule 10.1016. Notice of failure to perform judicial duties

(a) Notice

- (1) The Chief Justice or presiding justice must notify the Commission on Judicial Performance of a reviewing court justice's:
 - (A) Substantial failure to perform judicial duties, including any habitual neglect of duty; or
 - (B) Disability-caused absences totaling more than 90 court days in a 12-month period, excluding absences for authorized vacations and for attending schools, conferences, and judicial workshops.
- (2) If the affected justice is a presiding justice, the administrative presiding justice must give the notice.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Copy to justice

The Chief Justice, administrative presiding justice, or presiding justice must give the affected justice a copy of any notice under (a).

Rule 10.1016 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; repealed and adopted as rule 78 effective January 1, 2005.

Rule 10.1017. Notification to State Bar of attorney misconduct

(a) Notification by justice

When notification to the State Bar is required under Business and Professions Code section 6086.7, the senior justice issuing the order or the justice authoring the opinion that triggers the notification requirement under section 6086.7 is responsible for notifying the State Bar. The justice may direct the Clerk to notify the State Bar.

(b) Contents of notice

The notice must include the State Bar member's full name and State Bar number, if known, and a copy of the order or opinion that triggered the notification requirement.

(c) Notification to attorney

If notification to the State Bar is made under this rule, the person who notified the State Bar must also inform the attorney who is the subject of the notification that the matter has been referred to the State Bar.

Rule 10.1017 adopted effective January 1, 2014.

Advisory Committee Comment

Business and Professions Code section 6086.7 requires a court to notify the State Bar of any of the following: (1) a final order of contempt imposed on an attorney that may involve grounds warranting discipline under the State Bar Act; (2) a modification or reversal of a judgment in a judicial proceeding based in whole or in part on the misconduct, incompetent representation, or willful misrepresentation of an attorney; (3) the imposition of any judicial sanctions on an attorney of $1,000 or more, except sanctions for failure to make discovery; or (4) the imposition of any civil penalty on an attorney under Family Code section 8620. If the notification pertains to a final order of contempt, Business and Professions Code section 6086.7(a)(1) requires the court to transmit to the State Bar a copy of the relevant minutes, final order, and transcript, if one exists. This rule is intended to clarify which justice has the responsibility of notifying the State Bar under section 6086.7 and the required contents of the notice.

In addition to the requirements stated in Business and Professions Code section 6086.7, judges are subject to canon 3D(2) of the California Code of Judicial Ethics, which states: "Whenever a judge has personal knowledge, or concludes in a judicial decision, that a lawyer has committed misconduct or has violated any provision of the Rules of Professional Conduct, the judge shall take appropriate corrective action, which may include reporting the violation to the appropriate authority." The Advisory Committee Commentary states: "Appropriate corrective action could include direct communication with the judge or lawyer who has committed the violation, other direct action, such as a confidential referral to a judicial or lawyer assistance program, or a report of the violation to the presiding judge, appropriate authority, or other agency or body. Judges should note that in addition to the action required by Canon 3D(2), California law imposes mandatory additional reporting requirements on judges regarding lawyer misconduct. See Business and Professions Code section 6068.7.”

Rule 10.1020. Reviewing court clerk/executive officer

(a) Selection

A reviewing court may employ a clerk/executive officer selected in accordance with procedures adopted by the court.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2018.)

(b) Responsibilities

Acting under the general direction and supervision of the administrative presiding justice, the clerk/executive officer is responsible for planning, organizing, coordinating, and directing, with full authority and accountability, the management of the office of the clerk/executive officer and all nonjudicial support activities in a manner that promotes access to justice for all members of the public, provides a forum for the fair and expeditious resolution of disputes, and maximizes the use of judicial and other resources.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2018.)

(c) Duties

Under the direction of the administrative presiding justice, the clerk/executive officer has the following duties:

(1) Personnel

The clerk/executive officer directs and supervises all court employees assigned to the clerk/executive officer or by the administrative presiding justice and ensures that the court receives a full range of human resources support;

(2) Budget

The clerk/executive officer develops, administers, and monitors the court budget and develops practices and procedures to ensure that annual expenditures are within the budget;

(3) Contracts

The clerk/executive officer negotiates contracts on the court's behalf in accord with established contracting procedures and applicable laws;

(4) Calendar management

The clerk/executive officer employs and supervises efficient calendar and caseload management, including analyzing and evaluating pending caseloads and recommending effective calendar management techniques;

(5) Technology

The clerk/executive officer coordinates technological and automated systems activities to assist the court;

(6) Facilities

The clerk/executive officer coordinates facilities, space planning, court security, and business services support, including the purchase and management of equipment and supplies;

(7) Records

The clerk/executive officer creates and manages uniform record-keeping systems, collecting data on pending and completed judicial business and the court's internal operation as the court and Judicial Council require;

(8) Recommendations

The clerk/executive officer identifies problems and recommends policy, procedural, and administrative changes to the court;

(9) Public relations

The clerk/executive officer represents the court to internal and external customers—including the other branches of government—on issues pertaining to the court;

(10) Liaison

The clerk/executive officer acts as liaison with other governmental agencies;

(11) Committees

The clerk/executive officer provides staff for judicial committees;

(12) Administration

The clerk/executive officer develops and implements administrative and operational programs and policies for the court and the office of the clerk/executive officer; and

(13) Other

The clerk/executive officer performs other duties as the administrative presiding justice directs.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2018; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Geographically separate divisions

Under the general oversight of the clerk/executive officer, an assistant clerk/executive officer of a geographically separate division has responsibility for the nonjudicial support activities of that division.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2018.)

Rule 10.1020 amended effective January 1, 2018; repealed and adopted as rule 76.1 effective January 1, 2005; amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 10.1024. Court of Appeal minutes

(a) Purpose

Court of Appeal minutes should record the court's significant public acts and permit the public to follow the major events in the history of cases coming before the court.

(b) Required contents of minutes

The minutes must include:

- (1) The filing date of each opinion, showing whether it was ordered published;
- (2) Orders granting or denying rehearings or modifying opinions;
- (3) Orders affecting an opinion's publication status, if issued after the opinion was filed;
- (4) Summaries of all courtroom proceedings, showing at a minimum:

- (A) The cases called for argument;
 - (B) The justices hearing argument;
 - (C) The name of the attorney arguing for each party; and
 - (D) Whether the case was submitted at the close of argument or the court requested further briefing;
- (5) The date of submission, if other than the date of argument;
 - (6) Orders vacating submission, including the reason for vacating and the resubmission date;
 - (7) Orders dismissing appeals for lack of jurisdiction;
 - (8) Orders consolidating cases;
 - (9) Orders affecting a judgment or its finality date; and
 - (10) Orders changing or correcting any of the above.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Optional contents of minutes

At the court's discretion, the minutes may include such other matter as:

- (1) Assignments of justices by the Chief Justice;
- (2) Reports of the Commission on Judicial Appointments confirming justices; and
- (3) Memorials.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.1024 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as rule 71 effective January 1, 2005.

Rule 10.1028. Preservation and destruction of Court of Appeal records

(a) Form or forms in which records may be preserved

- (1) Court of Appeal records may be created, maintained, and preserved in any form or forms of communication or representation, including paper or optical, electronic, magnetic, micrographic, or photographic media or other technology, if the form or forms of representation or communication satisfy the standards or guidelines for the creation, maintenance, reproduction, and preservation of court records established under rule 10.854.

- (2) If records are preserved in a medium other than paper, the following provisions of Government Code section 68150 apply: subdivisions (c)–(l), excluding subdivision (i)(1).

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2013.)

(b) Methods for signing, subscribing, or verifying documents

Any notice, order, ruling, decision, opinion, memorandum, certificate of service, or similar document issued by an appellate court or by a judicial officer of an appellate court may be signed, subscribed, or verified using a computer or other technology in accordance with procedures, standards, and guidelines established by the Judicial Council. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, all notices, orders, rulings, decisions, opinions, memoranda, certificates of service, or similar documents that are signed, subscribed, or verified by computer or other technological means under this subdivision shall have the same validity, and the same legal force and effect, as paper documents signed, subscribed, or verified by an appellate court or a judicial officer of the court.

(Subd (b) adopted effective January 1, 2013.)

(c) Permanent records

The clerk/executive officer of the Court of Appeal must permanently keep the court’s minutes and a register of appeals and original proceedings.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted as subd (b); previously relettered effective January 1, 2013.)

(d) Time to keep other records

- (1) Except as provided in (2), the clerk/executive officer may destroy all other records in a case 10 years after the decision becomes final, as ordered by the administrative presiding justice or, in a court with only one division, by the presiding justice.
- (2) In a criminal case in which the court affirms a judgment of conviction, the clerk/executive officer must keep the original reporter’s transcript or a true and correct electronic copy of the transcript for 20 years after the decision becomes final.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted as subd (c); previously relettered as subd (d) effective January 1, 2013; previously amended effective January 1, 2017.)

Rule 10.1028 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted as rule 70 effective January 1, 2005; previously renumbered effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 2013, and January 1, 2017.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (d). Subdivision (d) permits the Court of Appeal to keep an electronic copy of the reporter's transcript in lieu of keeping the original. Although subdivision (a) allows the Court of Appeal to maintain its records in any format that satisfies the otherwise applicable standards for maintenance of court records, including electronic formats, the original of a reporter's transcript is required to be on paper under Code of Civil Procedure section 271(a). Subdivision (d) therefore specifies that an electronic copy may be kept, to clarify that the paper original need not be kept by the court.

Rule 10.1030. Local rules of Courts of Appeal

(a) Publication

- (1) A Court of Appeal must submit any local rule it adopts to the Reporter of Decisions for publication in the advance pamphlets of the Official Reports.
- (2) As used in this rule, "publication" means printing in the manner in which amendments to the California Rules of Court are printed.

(Subd (a) relettered effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Effective date

A local rule cannot take effect sooner than 45 days after the publication date of the advance pamphlet in which it is printed.

(Subd (b) relettered effective January 1, 2007.)

Rule 10.1030 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; repealed and adopted as rule 80 effective January 1, 2005.

Chapter 2. Rules Relating to the Superior Court Appellate Division

Title 10, Judicial Administration Rules—Division 5, Appellate Court Administration—Chapter 2, Rules Relating to the Superior Court Appellate Division adopted effective January 1, 2009.

Rule 10.1100. Assignments to the appellate division

Rule 10.1104. Presiding judge

Rule 10.1108. Sessions

Rule 10.1100. Assignments to the appellate division

(a) Goal

In making assignments to the appellate division, the Chief Justice will consider the goal of promoting the independence and the quality of the appellate division.

(b) Factors considered

Factors considered in making the assignments may include:

- (1) Length of service as a judge;
- (2) Reputation in the judicial community;
- (3) Degree of separateness of the appellate division work from the judge's regular assignments; and
- (4) Any recommendation of the presiding judge.

(c) Who may be assigned

Judges assigned may include judges from another county, judges retired from the superior court or a court of higher jurisdiction, or a panel of judges from different superior courts who sit in turn in each of those superior courts.

(d) Terms of service

In specifying terms of service to the appellate division, the Chief Justice will consider the needs of the court.

Rule 10.1100 adopted effective January 1, 2009.

Advisory Committee Comment

The Chief Justice is responsible for assigning judges to the appellate division as provided in article VI, section 4 of the California Constitution and by statute.

Rule 10.1104. Presiding judge

(a) Designation of acting presiding judge

- (1) The presiding judge of the appellate division must designate another member of the appellate division to serve as acting presiding judge in the absence of the presiding judge. If the presiding judge does not make that designation, the appellate division judge among those present who has the greatest seniority in the appellate division must act as presiding judge. When the judges are of equal seniority in the appellate division, the judge who is also senior in service in the superior court must act as presiding judge.

- (2) As used in these rules, “presiding judge” includes acting presiding judge.

(b) Responsibilities

The presiding judge of the appellate division may convene the appellate division at any time and must supervise the business of the division.

Rule 10.1104 adopted effective January 1, 2009.

Advisory Committee Comment

Under Code of Civil Procedure section 77(a), the Chief Justice is responsible for designating one of the judges of each appellate division as the presiding judge.

Rule 10.1108. Sessions

The appellate division of each superior court must hold a session at least once each quarter unless there are no matters set for oral argument that quarter. The time and place of any session is determined by the presiding judge of the appellate division.

Rule 10.1108 adopted effective January 1, 2009.

Standards of Judicial Administration

Title 1. Standards for All Courts [Reserved]

Title 2. Standards for Proceedings in the Trial Courts

Standard 2.1. Case management and delay reduction—statement of general principles

Standard 2.2. Trial court case disposition time goals

Standard 2.10. Procedures for determining the need for an interpreter and a preappearance interview

Standard 2.11. Interpreted proceedings—instructing participants on procedure

Standard 2.20. Trial management standards

Standard 2.25. Uninterrupted jury selection

Standard 2.30. Judicial comment on verdict or mistrial

Standard 2.1. Case management and delay reduction—statement of general principles

(a) Elimination of all unnecessary delays

Trial courts should be guided by the general principle that from the commencement of litigation to its resolution, whether by trial or settlement, any elapsed time other than reasonably required for pleadings, discovery, preparation, and court events is unacceptable and should be eliminated.

(Subd (a) amended and lettered effective January 1, 2004; adopted as part of unlettered subdivision effective July 1, 1987.)

(b) Court responsible for the pace of litigation

To enable the just and efficient resolution of cases, the court, not the lawyers or litigants, should control the pace of litigation. A strong judicial commitment is essential to reducing delay and, once achieved, maintaining a current docket.

(Subd (b) amended and lettered effective January 1, 2004; adopted as part of unlettered subdivision effective July 1, 1987.)

(c) Presiding judge's role

The presiding judge of each court should take an active role in advancing the goals of delay reduction and in formulating and implementing local rules and procedures to accomplish the following:

- (1) The expeditious and timely resolution of cases, after full and careful consideration consistent with the ends of justice;

- (2) The identification and elimination of local rules, forms, practices, and procedures that are obstacles to delay reduction, are inconsistent with statewide case management rules, or prevent the court from effectively managing its cases;
- (3) The formulation and implementation of a system of tracking cases from filing to disposition; and
- (4) The training of judges and nonjudicial administrative personnel in delay reduction rules and procedures adopted in the local jurisdiction.

(Subd (c) amended and lettered effective January 1, 2004; adopted as part of unlettered subdivision effective July 1, 1987.)

Standard 2.1 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 2 effective July 1, 1987; previously amended effective January 1, 1994, and January 1, 2004.

Standard 2.2. Trial court case disposition time goals

(a) Trial Court Delay Reduction Act

The recommended goals for case disposition time in the trial courts in this standard are adopted under Government Code sections 68603 and 68620.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective July 1, 1987; relettered effective January 1, 1989; previously amended effective January 1, 2004.)

(b) Statement of purpose

The recommended time goals are intended to guide the trial courts in applying the policies and principles of standard 2.1. They are administrative, justice-oriented guidelines to be used in the management of the courts. They are intended to improve the administration of justice by encouraging prompt disposition of all matters coming before the courts. The goals apply to all cases filed and are not meant to create deadlines for individual cases. Through its case management practices, a court may achieve or exceed the goals stated in this standard for the overall disposition of cases. The goals should be applied in a fair, practical, and flexible manner. They are not to be used as the basis for sanctions against any court or judge.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective July 1, 1987, as (1); relettered effective January 1, 1989; previously amended effective January 1, 2004.)

(c) Definition

The definition of “general civil case” in rule 1.6 applies to this section. It includes both unlimited and limited civil cases.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(d) Civil cases—processing time goals

The goal of each trial court should be to process general civil cases so that all cases are disposed of within two years of filing.

(Subd (d) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2004; adopted effective July 1, 1987, as (2); previously amended effective July 1, 1988; amended and relettered as subd (c) effective January 1, 1989.)

(e) Civil cases—rate of disposition

Each trial court should dispose of at least as many civil cases as are filed each year and, if necessary to meet the case-processing goal in (d), dispose of more cases than are filed. As the court disposes of inactive cases, it should identify active cases that may require judicial attention.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective July 1, 1987, as (3); previously amended effective July 1, 1988; previously amended and relettered as subd (d) effective January 1, 1989, and as subd (e) effective January 1, 2004.)

(f) General civil cases—case disposition time goals

The goal of each trial court should be to manage general civil cases, except those exempt under (g), so that they meet the following case disposition time goals:

(1) Unlimited civil cases:

The goal of each trial court should be to manage unlimited civil cases from filing so that:

- (A) 75 percent are disposed of within 12 months;
- (B) 85 percent are disposed of within 18 months; and
- (C) 100 percent are disposed of within 24 months.

(2) Limited civil cases:

The goal of each trial court should be to manage limited civil cases from filing so that:

- (A) 90 percent are disposed of within 12 months;

(B) 98 percent are disposed of within 18 months; and

(C) 100 percent are disposed of within 24 months.

(3) Individualized case management

The goals in (1) and (2) are guidelines for the court's disposition of all unlimited and limited civil cases filed in that court. In managing individual civil cases, the court must consider each case on its merits. To enable the fair and efficient resolution of civil cases, each case should be set for trial as soon as appropriate for that individual case consistent with rule 3.729.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (g) effective July 1, 1987; relettered as subd (h) effective January 1, 1989; amended effective July 1, 1991; previously amended and relettered as subd (f) effective January 1, 2004.)

(g) Exceptional civil cases

A general civil case that meets the criteria in rules 3.715 and 3.400 and that involves exceptional circumstances or will require continuing review is exempt from the time goals in (d) and (f). Every exceptional case should be monitored to ensure its timely disposition consistent with the exceptional circumstances, with the goal of disposing of the case within three years.

(Subd (g) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(h) Small claims cases

The goals for small claims cases are:

(1) 90 percent disposed of within 75 days after filing; and

(2) 100 percent disposed of within 95 days after filing.

(Subd (h) adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(i) Unlawful detainer cases

The goals for unlawful detainer cases are:

(1) 90 percent disposed of within 30 days after filing; and

(2) 100 percent disposed of within 45 days after filing.

(Subd (i) adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(j) Felony cases—processing time goals

Except for capital cases, all felony cases disposed of should have a total elapsed processing time of no more than one year from the defendant's first arraignment to disposition.

(Subd (j) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(k) Misdemeanor cases

The goals for misdemeanor cases are:

- (1) 90 percent disposed of within 30 days after the defendant's first arraignment on the complaint;
- (2) 98 percent disposed of within 90 days after the defendant's first arraignment on the complaint; and
- (3) 100 percent disposed of within 120 days after the defendant's first arraignment on the complaint.

(Subd (k) adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(l) Felony preliminary examinations

The goal for felony cases at the time of the preliminary examination (excluding murder cases in which the prosecution seeks the death penalty) should be disposition by dismissal, by interim disposition by certified plea of guilty, or by finding of probable cause, so that:

- (1) 90 percent of cases are disposed of within 30 days after the defendant's first arraignment on the complaint;
- (2) 98 percent of cases are disposed of within 45 days after the defendant's first arraignment on the complaint; and
- (3) 100 percent of cases are disposed of within 90 days after the defendant's first arraignment on the complaint.

(Subd (l) adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(m) Exceptional criminal cases

An exceptional criminal case is not exempt from the time goal in (j), but case progress should be separately reported under the Judicial Branch Statistical Information System (JBSIS) regulations.

(Subd (m) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(n) Cases removed from court's control excluded from computation of time

If a case is removed from the court's control, the period of time until the case is restored to court control should be excluded from the case disposition time goals. The matters that remove a case from the court's control for the purposes of this section include:

(1) Civil cases:

- (A) The filing of a notice of conditional settlement under rule 3.1385;
- (B) An automatic stay resulting from the filing of an action in a federal bankruptcy court;
- (C) The removal of the case to federal court;
- (D) An order of a federal court or higher state court staying the case;
- (E) An order staying the case based on proceedings in a court of equal standing in another jurisdiction;
- (F) The pendency of contractual arbitration under Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.4;
- (G) The pendency of attorney fee arbitration under Business and Professions Code section 6201;
- (H) A stay by the reporting court for active military duty or incarceration; and
- (I) For 180 days, the exemption for uninsured motorist cases under rule 3.712(b).

(2) Felony or misdemeanor cases:

- (A) Issuance of warrant;
- (B) Imposition of a civil assessment under Penal Code section 1214.1;
- (C) Pendency of completion of diversion under Penal Code section 1000 et seq.;
- (D) Evaluation of mental competence under Penal Code section 1368;

- (E) Evaluation as a narcotics addict under Welfare and Institutions Code sections 3050 and 3051;
- (F) 90-day diagnostic and treatment program under Penal Code section 1203.3;
- (G) 90-day evaluation period for a juvenile under Welfare and Institutions Code section 707.2;
- (H) Stay by a higher court or by a federal court for proceedings in another jurisdiction;
- (I) Stay by the reporting court for active military duty or incarceration; and
- (J) Time granted by the court to secure counsel if the defendant is not represented at the first appearance.

(Subd (n) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

(o) Problems

A court that finds its ability to comply with these goals impeded by a rule of court or statute should notify the Judicial Council.

(Subd (o) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 2004.)

Standard 2.2 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 2.1 effective July 1, 1987; previously amended effective January 1, 1988, July 1, 1988, January 1, 1989, January 1, 1990, July 1, 1991, and January 1, 2004.

Standard 2.10. Procedures for determining the need for an interpreter and a preappearance interview

(a) When an interpreter is needed

An interpreter is needed if, after an examination of a party or witness, the court concludes that:

- (1) The party cannot understand and speak English well enough to participate fully in the proceedings and to assist counsel; or
- (2) The witness cannot speak English so as to be understood directly by counsel, court, and jury.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) When an examination is required

The court should examine a party or witness on the record to determine whether an interpreter is needed if:

- (1) A party or counsel requests such an examination; or
- (2) It appears to the court that the party or witness may not understand and speak English well enough to participate fully in the proceedings.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Examination of party or witness

To determine if an interpreter is needed, the court should normally include questions on the following:

- (1) Identification (for example: name, address, birthdate, age, place of birth);
- (2) Active vocabulary in vernacular English (for example: “How did you come to the court today?” “What kind of work do you do?” “Where did you go to school?” “What was the highest grade you completed?” “Describe what you see in the courtroom.” “What have you eaten today?”). Questions should be phrased to avoid “yes” or “no” replies;
- (3) The court proceedings (for example: the nature of the charge or the type of case before the court, the purpose of the proceedings and function of the court, the rights of a party or criminal defendant, and the responsibilities of a witness).

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Record of examination

After the examination, the court should state its conclusion on the record. The file in the case should be clearly marked and data entered electronically when appropriate by court personnel to ensure that an interpreter will be present when needed in any subsequent proceeding.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Good cause for preappearance interview

For good cause, the court should authorize a preappearance interview between the interpreter and the party or witness. Good cause exists if the interpreter needs clarification on any interpreting issues, including: colloquialisms, culturalisms, dialects, idioms, linguistic capabilities and traits, regionalisms, register, slang, speech patterns, or technical terms.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 2.10 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; repealed and adopted as sec. 18 effective January 1, 1999.

Standard 2.11. Interpreted proceedings—instructing participants on procedure

(a) Instructions to interpreters

The court or the court's designee should give the following instructions to interpreters, either orally or in writing:

- (1) Do not discuss the pending proceedings with a party or witness.
- (2) Do not disclose communications between counsel and client.
- (3) Do not give legal advice to a party or witness. Refer legal questions to the attorney or to the court.
- (4) Inform the court if you are unable to interpret a word, expression, special terminology, or dialect, or have doubts about your linguistic expertise or ability to perform adequately in a particular case.
- (5) Interpret all words, including slang, vulgarisms, and epithets, to convey the intended meaning.
- (6) Use the first person when interpreting statements made in the first person. (For example, a statement or question should not be introduced with the words, "He says. . . .")
- (7) Direct all inquiries or problems to the court and not to the witness or counsel. If necessary, you may request permission to approach the bench with counsel to discuss a problem.
- (8) Position yourself near the witness or party without blocking the view of the judge, jury, or counsel.
- (9) Inform the court if you become fatigued during the proceedings.
- (10) When interpreting for a party at the counsel table, speak loudly enough to be heard by the party or counsel but not so loudly as to interfere with the proceedings.

- (11) Interpret everything, including objections.
- (12) If the court finds good cause under rule 2.893(e), hold a preappearance interview with the party or witness to become familiar with speech patterns and linguistic traits and to determine what technical or special terms may be used. Counsel may be present at the preappearance interview.
- (13) During the preappearance interview with a non-English-speaking witness, give the witness the following instructions on the procedure to be followed when the witness is testifying:
 - (A) The witness must speak in a loud, clear voice so that the entire court and not just the interpreter can hear.
 - (B) The witness must direct all responses to the person asking the question, not to the interpreter.
 - (C) The witness must direct all questions to counsel or to the court and not to the interpreter. The witness may not seek advice from or engage in any discussion with the interpreter.
- (14) During the preappearance interview with a non-English-speaking party, give the following instructions on the procedure to be used when the non-English-speaking party is not testifying:
 - (A) The interpreter will interpret all statements made in open court.
 - (B) The party must direct any questions to counsel. The interpreter will interpret all questions to counsel and the responses. The party may not seek advice from or engage in discussion with the interpreter.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Instructions to counsel

The court or the court's designee should give the following instructions to counsel, either orally or in writing:

- (1) When examining a non-English-speaking witness, direct all questions to the witness and not to the interpreter. (For example, do not say to the interpreter, "Ask him if. . .")
- (2) If there is a disagreement with the interpretation, direct any objection to the court and not to the interpreter. Ask permission to approach the bench to discuss the problem.

- (3) If you have a question regarding the qualifications of the interpreter, you may request permission to conduct a supplemental examination on the interpreter's qualifications.

Standard 2.11 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; repealed and adopted as sec. 18.1 effective January 1, 1999.

Standard 2.20. Trial management standards

(a) General principles

The trial judge has the responsibility to manage the trial proceedings. The judge should take appropriate action to ensure that all parties are prepared to proceed, the trial commences as scheduled, all parties have a fair opportunity to present evidence, and the trial proceeds to conclusion without unnecessary interruption. When the trial involves a jury, the trial judge should manage proceedings with particular emphasis on the needs of the jury.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Techniques of trial management

The trial judge should employ the following trial management techniques:

- (1) Participate with trial counsel in a trial management conference before trial.
- (2) After consultation with counsel, set reasonable time limits.
- (3) Arrange the court's docket to start trial as scheduled and inform parties of the number of hours set each day for the trial.
- (4) Ensure that once trial has begun, momentum is maintained.
- (5) Be receptive to using technology in managing the trial and the presentation of evidence.
- (6) Attempt to maintain continuity in days of trial and hours of trial.
- (7) Schedule arguments on legal issues at the beginning or end of the day so as not to interrupt the presentation of evidence.
- (8) Permit sidebar conferences only when necessary, and keep them as short as possible.
- (9) In longer trials, consider scheduling trial days to permit jurors time for personal business.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 2.20 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec 8.9 effective July 1, 1997.

Standard 2.25. Uninterrupted jury selection

When practical, the trial judge, with the cooperation of the other judges of the court, should schedule court business to allow for jury selection uninterrupted by other court business.

Standard 2.25 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 8.6 effective July 1, 1990.

Standard 2.30. Judicial comment on verdict or mistrial

At the conclusion of a trial, or on declaring a mistrial for failure of a jury to reach a verdict, it is appropriate for the trial judge to thank jurors for their public service, but the judge's comments should not include praise or criticism of the verdict or the failure to reach a verdict.

Standard 2.30 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 14 effective January 1, 1976.

Title 3. Standards for Civil Cases

Standard 3.1. Appearance by telephone

Standard 3.10. Complex civil litigation

Standard 3.25. Examination of prospective jurors in civil cases

Standard 3.1. Appearance by telephone

(a) Recommended criteria for telephone equipment

Each court should have adequate telephone equipment for use in hearings at which counsel may appear by telephone. This equipment should:

- (1) Permit each person participating in the hearing, whether in person or by telephone, to hear all other persons;
- (2) Handle at least three incoming calls at one time and place those calls into a conference call in a simple and quick manner;
- (3) Have a silent (visible) ringer;

- (4) Be simple to learn and use;
- (5) Be reasonable in cost; and
- (6) Have full-duplex, simultaneous bidirectional speaker capability.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Optional features for telephone equipment

It is desirable if the telephone equipment can:

- (1) Dial previously stored telephone numbers;
- (2) Record conversations;
- (3) Be moved easily from location to location; and
- (4) Automatically queue incoming calls.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Types of matters desired to be heard by telephone

Each court should specify, by local court rule or uniform local written policy, the types of motions and hearings it considers particularly suitable for hearing by telephone appearance. The rule or policy should encourage appearance by telephone in nonevidentiary civil matters if appearance of counsel in person would not materially assist in a determination of the proceeding or in settlement of the case.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 1, 1992.)

(d) Award of attorney's fees

A court should consider, in awarding attorney's fees under any applicable provision of law, whether an attorney is claiming fees for appearing in person in a proceeding in which that attorney could have appeared by telephone.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Local procedures for telephone appearance

Each court should adopt a local rule or uniform local written policy specifying the following:

- (1) Whether the court or the attorney initiates the telephone call for a telephone appearance;
- (2) Whether the court sets a specified time for a telephone appearance or a time range; and
- (3) How the parties are notified, in advance of the hearing, of the time or time range of the telephone appearance. In those courts using a tentative ruling recording system, that notice should be part of the tentative ruling recording.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 3.1 amended effective January 1, 2007; repealed and adopted as sec. 21 effective January 1, 1989; previously amended effective July 1, 1992.

Standard 3.10. Complex civil litigation

(a) Judicial management

In complex litigation, judicial management should begin early and be applied continuously and actively, based on knowledge of the circumstances of each case.

(b) All-purpose assignment

Complex litigation should be assigned to one judge for all purposes. If such an assignment is not possible, a single judge should be assigned to hear law and motion matters and discovery matters.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (d) effective July 1, 1982; previously relettered effective January 1, 2000.)

(c) Selection of judges for complex litigation assignments

In selecting judges for complex litigation assignments, the presiding judge should consider the needs of the court and the judge's ability, interest, training, experience (including experience with complex civil cases), and willingness to participate in educational programs related to the management of complex cases. Commissioners should not be employed in any phase of complex litigation, except under the judge's direct supervision to assist in the management of the case.

(Subd (c) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2000; adopted as subd (e) effective July 1, 1982.)

(d) Establishing time limits

Time limits should be regularly used to expedite major phases of complex litigation. Time limits should be established early, tailored to the circumstances of each case, firmly and fairly maintained, and accompanied by other methods of sound judicial management.

(Subd (d) relettered effective January 1, 2000; adopted as subd (f) effective July 1, 1982.)

(e) Preparation for trial

Litigants in complex litigation cases should be required to minimize evidentiary disputes and to organize efficiently their exhibits and other evidence before trial.

(Subd (e) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (i) effective July 1, 1982; previously relettered as subd (g) effective January 1, 2000.)

(f) Dilatory tactics

Judges involved in complex litigation should be sensitive to dilatory or abusive litigation tactics and should be prepared to invoke disciplinary procedures for violations.

(Subd (f) relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (j) effective July 1, 1982; previously relettered as subd (h) effective January 1, 2000.)

(g) Educational programs

Judges should be encouraged to attend educational programs on the management of complex litigation.

(Subd (g) relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (k) effective July 1, 1982; previously amended and relettered as subd (i) effective January 1, 2000.)

(h) Staff assignment

Judges assigned to handle complex cases should be given research attorney and administrative staff assistance when possible.

(Subd (h) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (j) effective January 1, 2000.)

Standard 3.10 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 19 effective July 1, 1982; previously amended effective January 1, 1995, and January 1, 2000.

Standard 3.25. Examination of prospective jurors in civil cases

(a) In general

(1) Methods and scope of examination

The examination of prospective jurors in a civil case may be oral, by written questionnaire, or by both methods, and should include all questions necessary to ensure the selection of a fair and impartial jury. The Juror Questionnaire for Civil Cases (form MC-001) may be used. During any supplemental examination conducted by counsel for the parties, the trial judge should permit liberal and probing examination calculated to discover possible bias or prejudice with regard to the circumstances of the particular case.

(2) Examination by counsel

When counsel requests to be allowed to conduct a supplemental voir dire examination, the trial judge should permit counsel to conduct such examination without requiring prior submission of the questions to the judge unless a particular counsel has demonstrated unwillingness to avoid the type of examination proscribed in (f). In exercising his or her sound discretion as to the form and subject matter of voir dire questions, the trial judge should consider, among other criteria: (1) any unique or complex elements, legal or factual, in the case, and (2) the individual responses or conduct of jurors that may evince attitudes inconsistent with suitability to serve as a fair and impartial juror in the particular case. Questions regarding personal relationships of jurors should be relevant to the subject matter of the case.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 1974, July 1, 1993, and January 1, 2004.)

(b) Pre-voir dire conference

Before the examination the trial judge should, outside the prospective jurors' hearing and with a court reporter present, confer with counsel, at which time specific questions or areas of inquiry may be proposed that the judge in his or her discretion may inquire of the jurors. Thereafter, the judge should advise counsel of the questions or areas to be inquired into during the examination and voir dire procedure. The judge should also obtain from counsel the names of the witnesses whom counsel then plan to call at trial and a brief outline of the nature of the case, including any alleged injuries or damages and, in an eminent domain action, the respective contentions of the parties concerning the value of the property taken and any alleged severance damages and special benefits.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 1974.)

(c) Examination of jurors

Except as otherwise provided in (d), the trial judge's examination of prospective jurors should include the following areas of inquiry and any other matters affecting their qualifications to serve as jurors in the case:

- (1) To the entire jury panel after it has been sworn and seated:

I am now going to question the prospective jurors who are seated in the jury box concerning their qualifications to serve as jurors in this case. All members of this jury panel, however, should pay close attention to my questions, making note of the answers you would give if these questions were put to you personally. If and when any other member of this panel is called to the jury box, the member will be asked to give his or her answers to these questions.

- (2) In the trial of this case the parties are entitled to have a fair, unbiased, and unprejudiced jury. If there is any reason why any of you might be biased or prejudiced in any way, you must disclose such reason when you are asked to do so. It is your duty to make this disclosure.

- (3) In lengthy trials:

This trial will likely take _____ days to complete, but it may take longer. Will any of you find it difficult or impossible to participate for this period of time?

- (4) The nature of this case is as follows: (Describe briefly, including any alleged injuries or damages and, in an eminent domain action, the name of the condemning agency, a description of the property being acquired, and the particular public project or purpose of the condemnation.)
- (5) The parties to this case and their respective attorneys are: (Specify.) Have you heard of or been acquainted with any of these parties or their attorneys?
- (6) During the trial of this case, the following witnesses may be called to testify on behalf of the parties. These witnesses are: (Do not identify the party on whose behalf the witnesses might be called.) Have any of you heard of or been otherwise acquainted with any of the witnesses just named? The parties are not required and might not wish to call all of these witnesses, and they may later find it necessary to call other witnesses.
- (7) Have any of you heard of, or have you any knowledge of, the facts or events in this case? Are any of you familiar with the places or property mentioned in this case?
- (8) Do any of you believe that a case of this nature should not be brought into court for determination by a jury?
- (9) Do any of you have any belief or feeling toward any of the parties, attorneys, or witnesses that might be regarded as a bias or prejudice for or against any of them? Do you have any interest, financial or otherwise, in the outcome of this case?

- (10) Have any of you served as a juror or witness involving any of these parties, attorneys, or witnesses?
- (11) Have any of you served as a juror in any other case? (If so, was it a civil or criminal case?) You must understand that there is a basic difference between a civil case and a criminal case. In a criminal case a defendant must be found guilty beyond a reasonable doubt; in a civil case such as this, you need only find that the evidence you accept as the basis of your decision is more convincing, and thus has the greater probability of truth, than the contrary evidence.

In the following questions I will be using the terms “family,” “close friend,” and “anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship.” The term “anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship” means a domestic partner, life partner, former spouse, or anyone with whom you have an influential or intimate relationship that you would characterize as important.

- (12) If a corporation or “company” is a party:
 - (A) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever had any connection with, or any dealings with, the _____ corporation (or company)?
 - (B) Are any of you or them related to any officer, director, or employee of this corporation (or company) to your knowledge?
 - (C) Do you or they own any stock or other interest in this corporation (or company) to your knowledge?
 - (D) Have you or they ever done business as a corporation (or company)?
 - (E) The fact that a corporation (or company) is a party in this case must not affect your deliberations or your verdict. You may not discriminate between corporations (or companies) and natural individuals. Both are persons in the eyes of the law and both are entitled to have a fair and impartial trial based on the same legal standards. Do any of you have any belief or feeling for or against corporations (or companies) that might prevent you from being a completely fair and impartial juror in this case?

- (13) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever sued anyone, or presented a claim against anyone in connection with a matter similar to this case? (If so, did the matter terminate satisfactorily so far as you were concerned?)
- (14) Has anyone ever sued you, or presented a claim against you or, to your knowledge, against any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship, in connection with a matter similar to this case? (If so, did the matter terminate satisfactorily so far as you were concerned?)
- (15) Are you or, to your knowledge, is any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship presently involved in a lawsuit of any kind?
- (16) When appropriate:

It may appear that one or more of the parties, witnesses, or attorneys come from a particular national, racial, or religious group (or may have a lifestyle different than your own). Would this in any way affect your judgment or the weight and credibility you would give to their testimony or to their contentions?

- (17) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship had any special training in: (Describe briefly the fields of expertise involved in the case, such as law, medicine, nursing, or any other branch of the healing arts.)
- (18) In personal injury or wrongful death cases:
- (A) You may be called on in this case to award damages for personal injury, pain, and suffering. Do any of you have any religious or other belief that pain and suffering are not real or any belief that would prevent you from awarding damages for pain and suffering if liability for them is established?
- (B) Are there any of you who would not employ a medical doctor?
- (C) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever engaged in investigating or otherwise acting on claims for damages?

- (D) Have you or they, to your knowledge, ever been in an accident with the result that a claim for personal injuries or for substantial property damage was made by someone involved in that accident, whether or not a lawsuit was filed?
 - (E) Have you or they, to your knowledge, ever been involved in an accident in which someone died or received serious personal injuries, whether or not a lawsuit was filed?
 - (F) Are there any of you who do not drive an automobile? (If so, have you ever driven an automobile, and if you have, give your reason for not presently driving.) Does your spouse or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship drive an automobile? (If that person does not drive but did so in the past, why did that person stop driving?)
 - (G) Plaintiff (or cross-complainant) _____ is claiming injuries. (Describe briefly the general nature of the alleged injuries.) Do you or, to your knowledge, does any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship suffer from similar injuries? Have you or they, to your knowledge, suffered from similar injuries in the past? (If so, would that fact affect your point of view in this case to the extent that you might not be able to render a completely fair and impartial verdict?)
- (19) It is important that I have your assurance that you will, without reservation, follow my instructions and rulings on the law and will apply that law to this case. To put it somewhat differently, whether you approve or disapprove of the court's rulings or instructions, it is your solemn duty to accept as correct these statements of the law. You may not substitute your own idea of what you think the law ought to be. Will all of you follow the law as given to you by me in this case?
- (20) Each of you should now state your:
- (A) Name;
 - (B) Children's ages and the number of children, if any;
 - (C) Occupation;
 - (D) Occupational history; and
 - (E) Present employer;

And for your spouse or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship, their:

- (F) Names;
- (G) Occupations;
- (H) Occupational histories; and
- (I) Present employers.

Please begin with juror number one.

- (21) Do you know of any other reason, or has anything occurred during this question period, that might make you doubtful you would be a completely fair and impartial juror in this case? If there is, it is your duty to disclose the reason at this time.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 1972; previously amended effective January 1, 1974, and January 1, 2004.)

(d) Examination of jurors in eminent domain cases

In eminent domain cases, the trial judge's examination of prospective jurors should include, in the areas of inquiry in (c)(1) through (c)(12), the following matters, and any other matters affecting their qualifications to serve as jurors in the case:

- (1) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever had any connection with, or dealings with, the plaintiff agency? Are you or any of them related to any officer or employee of the plaintiff agency?
- (2) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever been involved in an eminent domain proceeding such as this or are you or they likely to become involved in such a proceeding in the future?
- (3) To your knowledge, do you have relatives, close friends, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship who has been or will be affected by the proposed project or a similar public project? (If so, who and how affected?)
- (4) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever sold property to a public agency having the power of eminent domain?
- (5) Are you or, to your knowledge, is any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship presently involved in a lawsuit of any kind? (If so, does the lawsuit involve a public agency?)

- (6) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever been involved in a lawsuit involving a public agency?

- (7) When appropriate:

It may appear that one or more of the parties, witnesses, or attorneys come from a particular national, racial, or religious group (or may have a lifestyle different from your own). Would this in any way affect your judgment or the weight and credibility you would give to their testimony or contentions?

- (8) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship had any special training in: (Describe briefly the fields of expertise involved in the case, such as law, real estate, real estate appraising, engineering, surveying, geology, etc.)

- (9) Have you, has your spouse, or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever been engaged in any phase of the real estate business including:

(A) Acting as a real estate agent, broker, or salesperson;

(B) Acting as a real estate appraiser;

(C) Dealing in trust deeds;

(D) Buying or selling real property as a business;

(E) Owning or managing income property; or

(F) Engaging in the construction business?

- (10) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever studied or engaged in: (State type of business, if any, conducted on subject property.)

- (11) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship ever been engaged in any work involving the acquisition of private property for public purposes? Or involving the zoning or planning of property?

(12) Under the law of this state, all private property is held subject to the necessary right of eminent domain, which is the right of the state or its authorized agencies to take private property for public use whenever the public interest so requires. The right of eminent domain is exercised through proceedings commonly called a condemnation action. This is a condemnation action.

(13) The Constitution of this state requires that a property owner be paid just compensation for the taking (or damaging) of his or her property for public use. It will be the duty of the jury ultimately selected in this case to determine the just compensation to be paid.

(14) If no claim of severance damages:

In order to find the amount of just compensation in this case, the jury will be called on to determine the fair market value of the real property being acquired.

(15) If severance damages are claimed:

In order to find the amount of just compensation in this case, the jury will be called on to determine the following:

(A) The fair market value of the real property being acquired.

(B) Severance damages, if any, to the defendant's remaining real property; that is, the depreciation in market value by reason of the severance of the part taken, or by the construction of the improvements in the manner proposed by the plaintiff, or both.

(C) When applicable: Special benefits, if any, to the defendant's remaining real property. (The trial judge on request may advise the jury on the concept of special benefits.)

(16) Just compensation is measured in terms of fair market value as of (date), the date of value in this case.

(17) I will give you more specific instructions on the issues and determinations to be made in this case at the conclusion of all the evidence. However, I will now advise you of the definition of fair market value: (See CACI 350I.)

(18) Private ownership of property:

(A) Do you have any objection to the concept of private ownership of property?

- (B) Do you have any objection to the right of the owner of private property to develop or use that property in whatever lawful way its owner sees fit?
- (19) Do you have any objection to the plaintiff acquiring private property for a public use as long as just compensation is paid for the property?
- (20) Do you have any objection to the defendant(s) seeking just compensation in these proceedings in the form of the fair market value of the subject property (and the damages that the defendant(s) contend will be caused to the remaining property)?
- (21) Do you have any objection to the particular public project involved in this proceeding, previously referred to as the (name of project)?
- (22) Are you or, to your knowledge, is any member of your family, a close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship a member of any organization that is opposed to such public projects?
- (23) Do you have any objection to the concept that just compensation is measured by fair market value as I have defined that term for you earlier?
- (24) Do you have any feeling that, because the plaintiff needs the property for public purposes, it should pay anything other than its fair market value?
- (25) In these cases, the evidence of value is introduced for the most part by what the courts sometimes refer to as expert testimony. This expert testimony frequently is introduced through appraisers or real estate brokers. Do you have any prejudice against real estate brokers or appraisers, or that type of testimony?
- (26) In a condemnation case the property owner produces all of his or her evidence of value first, then the government calls its witnesses. Having this in mind, will you keep your mind open throughout all the case and not determine the matter in your mind until all of the evidence is in?
- (27) It is important that I have your assurance that you will, without reservation, follow my instructions and rulings on the law and will apply that law to this case. To put it somewhat differently, whether you approve or disapprove of the court's rulings or instructions, it is your solemn duty to accept as correct these statements of the law. You may not substitute your own idea of what you think the law ought to be. Will all of you follow the law as given to you by me in this case?
- (28) Each of you should now state your:

- (A) Name;
- (B) Children's ages and number of children, if any;
- (C) Occupation;
- (D) Occupational history; and
- (E) Present employer;

And for your spouse or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship, their:

- (F) Names;
- (G) Occupations;
- (H) Occupational histories; and
- (I) Present employers.

Please begin with juror number one.

- (29) Each of you should now state whether you, your spouse, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship owns or has an interest in any real property and, if so, whether its value or use is affected by the public project involved in this case.

We will again start with juror number one.

- (30) Do you know of any other reason, or has anything occurred during this question period, that might make you doubtful you would be a completely fair and impartial juror in this case? If there is, it is your duty to disclose the reason at this time.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 1974; previously amended effective January 1, 1989, and January 1, 2004.)

(e) Subsequent conference and examination

On completion of the initial examination and on request of counsel for any party that the trial judge put additional questions to the jurors, the judge should, outside the jurors' hearing and with a court reporter present, confer with counsel, at which time additional questions or areas of inquiry may be proposed that the judge may inquire of the jurors.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 1974.)

(f) Improper questions

When any counsel examines the prospective jurors, the trial judge should not permit counsel to attempt to precondition the prospective jurors to a particular result or allow counsel to comment on the personal lives and families of the parties or their attorneys. Nor should the trial judge allow counsel to question the jurors concerning the pleadings, the applicable law, the meaning of particular words and phrases, or the comfort of the jurors, except in unusual circumstances, where, in the trial judge's sound discretion, such questions become necessary to insure the selection of a fair and impartial jury.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 1974.)

Standard 3.25 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as Sec. 8 effective January 1, 1972; previously amended effective January 1, 1974, January 1, 1989, July 1, 1993, and January 1, 2004.

Title 4. Standards for Criminal Cases

Standard 4.10. Guidelines for diversion drug court programs

Standard 4.15. Vacatur relief under Penal Code section 236.14

Standard 4.30. Examination of prospective jurors in criminal cases

Standard 4.35. Court use of risk/needs assessments at sentencing

Standard 4.40. Traffic infraction procedures

Standard 4.41. Courtesy notice—traffic procedures [Repealed]

Standard 4.42. Traffic infraction trial scheduling

Standard 4.10. Guidelines for diversion drug court programs

(a) Minimum components

The components specified in this standard should be included as minimum requirements in any pre-plea diversion drug court program developed under Penal Code section 1000.5.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Early entry

Eligible participants should be identified early and enter into a supervision and treatment program promptly.

- (1) A declaration of eligibility should be filed by the district attorney no later than the date of the defendant's first appearance in court.
- (2) Participants designated as eligible by the district attorney should be ordered by the assigned drug court judge to report for assessment and treatment supervision within five days of the first court appearance.

(c) Treatment services

Participants should be given access to a continuum of treatment and rehabilitative services.

- (1) The county drug program administrator should specify and certify appropriate drug treatment programs under Penal Code section 1211.
- (2) The certified treatment programs should provide a minimum of two levels of treatment services to match participants to programs according to their needs for treatment, recognizing that some divertees may be at the stage of experimenting with illicit drugs while others may be further along in the addiction's progression.
- (3) Each treatment level should be divided into phases in order to provide periodic reviews of treatment progress. Each phase may vary in length. It should be recognized that a participant is expected to progress in treatment but may relapse. Most participants, however, should be able to successfully complete the treatment program within 12 months.
- (4) Each pre-plea diversion drug court program should have an assessment component to ensure that participants are initially screened and then periodically assessed by treatment personnel to ensure that appropriate treatment services are provided and to monitor the participants' progress through the phases.
- (5) Treatment services should include educational and group outpatient treatment. Individual counseling, however, should be made available in special circumstances if an assessment based on acceptable professional standards indicates that individual counseling is the only appropriate form of treatment. Referrals should be made for educational and vocational counseling if it is determined to be appropriate by the judge.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Monitoring

Abstinence from and use of drugs should be monitored by frequent drug testing.

- (1) Alcohol and other drug (AOD) testing is essential and should be mandatory in each pre-plea diversion drug court program to monitor participant compliance.
- (2) Testing may be administered randomly or at scheduled intervals, but should occur no less frequently than one time per week during the first 90 days of treatment.
- (3) The probation officer and court should be immediately notified when a participant has tested positive, has failed to submit to AOD testing, or has submitted an adulterated sample. In such cases, an interim hearing should be calendared and required as outlined in (e)(4).
- (4) Participants should not be considered to have successfully completed the treatment program unless they have consistently had negative test results for a period of four months.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Judicial supervision

There should be early and frequent judicial supervision of each diversion drug court participant.

- (1) Each participant should appear in court before a specifically assigned diversion drug court judge within 30 days after the first court appearance. At this time the participant should provide proof of registration, proof of completion of assessment, proof of entry into a specific treatment program, and initial drug test results.
- (2) The second drug court appearance should be held no later than 30 days after the first drug court appearance. The third drug court appearance should be held no later than 60 days after the second drug court appearance.
- (3) A final drug court appearance should be required no sooner than 12 months from entry into treatment unless continued treatment is found to be appropriate and necessary.
- (4) Interim drug court appearances should be required within one week of the following: positive drug test results, failure to test, adulterated test, or failure to appear or participate in treatment.
- (5) At each drug court appearance, the judge should receive a report of the participant's progress in treatment and drug test results and should review, monitor, and impose rewards and sanctions based on the participant's progress or lack of progress.

(f) Sanctions and incentives

The drug court responds directly to each participant's compliance or noncompliance with graduated sanctions or incentives.

- (1) A clear regimen of incentives and sanctions should be established and implemented at each court hearing.
- (2) The suggested range of incentives should be as follows:
 - (A) Encouragement;
 - (B) Advancement to next treatment phase;
 - (C) Reduction in diversion program fees (other than state-mandated fees);
 - (D) Completion of treatment and required court appearances and shortening of the term of diversion; and
 - (E) Other incentives the court may deem necessary or appropriate.
- (3) The suggested range of sanctions should be as follows:
 - (A) Demotion to earlier treatment phase;
 - (B) Increased frequency of testing, supervision, or treatment requirements;
 - (C) Graduated length of incarceration for violating diversion order to abstain from use of illegal drugs and for nonparticipation in treatment; and
 - (D) Reinstatement of criminal proceedings.
- (4) A participant should be terminated from the pre-plea diversion drug court, and criminal proceedings reinstated, if the drug court judge, after a hearing, makes a final and specific finding and determination at any time during the period of diversion that the participant has:
 - (A) Not performed satisfactorily in treatment;
 - (B) Failed to benefit from education, treatment, or rehabilitation;
 - (C) Been convicted of a misdemeanor that reflects the participant's propensity for violence; or

- (D) Engaged in criminal conduct rendering him or her unsuitable for continued treatment.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(g) National standards

In addition to meeting the minimum guidelines provided in this standard, courts are encouraged to look to the nationally accepted guidelines, Defining Drug Courts: The Key Components, developed by the National Association of Drug Court Professionals in cooperation with the Department of Justice, for further and detailed guidance in developing an effective diversion drug court program.

(Subd (g) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 4.10 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 36 effective January 1, 1998.

Standard 4.15. Vacatur relief under Penal Code section 236.14

(a) Request to consolidate hearings for arrests and convictions that occurred in the same county

- (1) The court should allow the filing of a single petition requesting vacatur relief under Penal Code section 236.14(a) for multiple arrests and convictions that occurred in the same county.
- (2) The court should favor consolidating hearings for multiple arrests and convictions that occurred in the same county.
- (3) The court may require the following documentation before granting a request to consolidate hearings:
 - (A) An agreement between the petitioner and all of the involved state or local prosecutorial agencies, as defined in Penal Code section 236.14(c), to consolidate the hearings;
 - (B) Documentation that states whether any of the involved state or local prosecutorial agencies, as defined in Penal Code section 236.14(c), intend to file an opposition to the petition; and
 - (C) Proof of service of the request to consolidate hearings on all of the involved state or local prosecutorial agencies, as defined in Penal Code section 236.14(c).
- (4) The court should consider the following nonexclusive list of factors when deciding whether to consolidate hearings:

- (A) The common questions of fact or law, if any;
- (B) The convenience of parties, witnesses, and counsel;
- (C) The efficient utilization of judicial facilities and staff resources;
- (D) The calendar of the court; and
- (E) The disadvantages of duplicative and inconsistent orders.

(b) Confidentiality

- (1) The court should designate the petition and related filings and court records as confidential.
- (2) At the hearing or any other proceeding accessible to the public, the court should consider implementing procedures consistent with Penal Code section 236.14(q), such as ordering the identity of the petitioner to be either “Jane Doe” or “John Doe.”

(c) Initial court review and orders

- (1) After 45 days from the filing of the petition, the court should conduct an initial review of the case. Concurrent with granting or denying a request to consolidate hearings, the court should:
 - (A) Grant relief without a hearing when the prosecuting agency files no opposition within 45 days from the date of service and the court finds that the petitioner meets the requirements for relief;
 - (B) Set a hearing date if an opposition is filed or a hearing is otherwise warranted; or
 - (C) Deny the petition without prejudice if the petitioner fails to provide the information required by Penal Code section 236.14(b).

(d) Notification

- (1) The court should timely notify the petitioner and prosecuting agency of its decisions under subdivision (c)(1).
- (2) The court should timely notify the relevant probation department of any decision to terminate probation.

(e) Additional relief

When granting the petition for vacatur relief under Penal Code section 236.14(a), the court should consider ordering the following additional relief, including, but not limited to:

- (1) Sealing or destruction of probation or other postconviction supervision agency records related to the conviction;
- (2) Expungement of DNA profiles and destruction of DNA samples, if they qualify under Penal Code section 299;
- (3) Recall or return of court fines and fees, if paid;
- (4) Sealing of the court file, if warranted under the factors in rule 2.550(d); and
- (5) Additional relief that will carry out the purposes of Penal Code section 236.14.

Standard 4.15 adopted effective January 1, 2020.

Standard 4.30. Examination of prospective jurors in criminal cases

(a) In general

- (1) This standard applies in all criminal cases.
- (2) The examination of prospective jurors in a criminal case should include all questions necessary to insure the selection of a fair and impartial jury.
- (3) The court may consider conducting sequestered voir dire on issues that are sensitive to prospective jurors, on questions concerning media reports of the case, and on any other issue that the court deems advisable.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective January 1, 1988, January 1, 1990, June 6, 1990, and January 1, 2006.)

(b) Examination of jurors

The trial judge's examination of prospective jurors in criminal cases should include the areas of inquiry listed below and any other matters affecting their qualifications to serve as jurors in the case. The trial judge may want to use the Juror Questionnaire for Criminal Cases (form MC-002) to assist in the examination of prospective jurors. Form MC-002 is an optional form and is not intended to constitute the complete examination of prospective jurors. Form MC-002 is a tool for trial judges to use to make the initial examination of prospective jurors more efficient. If the court chooses to use form MC-002, its use and any supplemental questions submitted by counsel must be discussed at the pre–voir dire conference required by rule 4.200. Excusing jurors based on questionnaire answers alone is generally not advisable.

(1) Address to entire jury panel:

Do any of you have any vision, hearing, or medical difficulties that may affect your jury service? (Response.)

(2) In particular, for lengthy trials. Address to entire jury panel:

This trial will likely take _____ days to complete, but it may take longer. (State the days and times during the day when the trial will be in session.)

Will any of you find it difficult or impossible to participate for this period of time? (After the entire panel has been screened for time hardships, direct the excused jurors to return to the jury assembly room for possible reassignment to other courtrooms for voir dire.)

(3) At this point the court may wish to submit any juror questionnaire that has been developed to assist in voir dire. The court should remind panel members that their answers on the questionnaire are given under penalty of perjury. In addition, if a questionnaire is used, the court and counsel may wish to question individual prospective jurors further based on their responses to particular questions, and a procedure for doing so should be established at the pre–voir dire conference. Therefore, it may not be necessary to ask all of the prospective jurors questions 5 through 25 that follow, although the text may assist the court with following up with individual jurors about answers given on the questionnaire.

To the entire jury panel:

I am now going to question the prospective jurors who are seated in the jury box concerning their qualifications to serve as jurors in this case. All the remaining members of this jury panel, however, should pay close attention to my questions, making note of the answers you would give if these questions were put to you personally. If and when any other member of this panel is called to the jury box, he or she will be asked to answer these questions.

(4) To the prospective jurors seated in the jury box:

In the trial of this case each side is entitled to have a fair, unbiased, and unprejudiced jury. If there is any fact or any reason why any of you might be biased or prejudiced in any way, you must disclose such reasons when you are asked to do so. It is your duty to make this disclosure.

- (5) To the prospective jurors seated in the jury box:

Do any of you know anyone else on this jury panel? (Response.)

- (6) Ladies and gentlemen of the jury: This is a criminal case entitled The People of the State of California v. _____. The (defendant is)(defendants are) seated _____.
- (A) (Mr.)(Ms.)(defendant), please stand and face the prospective jurors in the jury box and in the audience seats. (Defendant complies.) Is there any member of the jury panel who is acquainted with the defendant or who may have heard (his)(her) name before today? If your answer is yes, please raise your hand.
- (B) The defendant, _____, is represented by (his)(her) attorney, _____, who is seated _____. (Mr.)(Ms.)(defense attorney), would you please stand? Is there any member of the jury panel who knows or who has seen (Mr.)(Ms.) _____ before today?
- (C) (If there is more than one defendant, repeat (a) and (b) for each codefendant.)
- (7) The People are represented by _____, Deputy District Attorney, who is seated _____. (Mr.)(Ms.)(district attorney), would you please stand? Is there any member of the jury panel who knows or who has seen (Mr.)(Ms.) _____ before today?
- (8) The defendant is charged by an (information)(indictment) filed by the district attorney with having committed the crime of _____, in violation of section _____ of the _____ Code, it being alleged that on or about _____ in the County of _____, the defendant did (describe the offense). To (this charge)(these charges) the defendant has pleaded not guilty, and the jury will have to decide whether the defendant's guilt has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt. Having heard the charge(s) that (has)(have) been filed against the defendant, is there any member of the jury panel who feels that he or she cannot give this defendant a fair trial because of the nature of the charge(s) against (him)(her)?
- (9) Have any of you heard of, or have you any prior knowledge of, the facts or events in this case?
- (10) Do any of you have any ethical, religious, political, or other beliefs that would prevent you from serving as a juror in this case?

(11) During the trial of this case, the following persons may be called as witnesses to testify on behalf of the parties or their names may be mentioned in evidence: _____ (Do not identify the side on whose behalf the witness might be called.) Have any of you heard of or otherwise been acquainted with any of the witnesses just named? You should note that the parties are not required and might not wish to call all of these witnesses, and they may later find it necessary to call other witnesses.

(12) Do any of you have any financial or personal interest in the outcome of this case?

(13) How many of you have served previously as jurors in a criminal case?

To each person whose hand is raised:

(A) (Mr.)(Ms.) _____ (or Juror ID number), you indicated you have been a juror in a criminal case. What were the charges in that case? (Response.)

(B) Do you feel you can put aside whatever you heard in that case and decide this case on the evidence to be presented and the law as I will state it to you? (Response.)

(14) May I see the hands of those jurors who have served on civil cases, but who have never served on a criminal case? (Response.) You must understand that there are substantial differences in the rules applicable to the trial of criminal cases from those applicable to the trial of civil cases. This is particularly true respecting the burden of proof that is placed on the People. In a civil case we say that the plaintiff must prove (his) (her) case by a preponderance of the evidence. In a criminal case, the defendant is presumed to be innocent, and before (he)(she) may be found guilty, the People must prove (his)(her) guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. If the jury has a reasonable doubt, the defendant must be acquitted. Will each of you be able to set aside the instructions that you received in your previous cases and try this case on the instructions given by me in this case?

(15) The fact that the defendant is in court for trial, or that charges have been made against (him)(her), is no evidence whatever of (his)(her) guilt. The jurors are to consider only evidence properly received in the courtroom in determining whether the defendant's guilt has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt. The defendant has entered a plea of "not guilty," which is a complete denial, making it necessary for the People, acting through the district attorney, to prove beyond a reasonable doubt the case against the defendant. If the evidence does not convince you of the truth of the charges beyond a reasonable doubt, the defendant is entitled to a verdict of not guilty.

In the following questions I will be using the terms “relative,” “close friend,” and “anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship.” The term “anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship” means a domestic partner, life partner, former spouse, or anyone with whom you have an influential or intimate relationship that you would characterize as important.

- (16) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any relative, close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship, ever been the victim of any crime? (Response.)
- (17) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any relative, close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship, ever had any contact with law enforcement, including being: (a) stopped by the police? (b) accused of misconduct, whether or not it was a crime? (c) investigated as a suspect in a criminal case? (d) charged with a crime? or (e) a criminal defendant? (Response.)
- (18) Have you or, to your knowledge, has any relative, close friend, or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship, had any law enforcement training or experience or been a member of or been employed by any law enforcement agency? By law enforcement agency, I include any police department, sheriff’s office, highway patrol, district attorney’s office, city attorney’s office, attorney general’s office, United States attorney’s office, FBI, and others. (If so, elicit the details of the experience or connection.)
- (19) Would you be able to listen to the testimony of a police or other peace officer and measure it the same way you would that of any other witness?
- (20) When appropriate:

It may appear that one or more of the parties, attorneys, or witnesses come from a particular national, racial, or religious group (or may have a lifestyle different from your own). Would this in any way affect your judgment or the weight and credibility you would give to their testimony?
- (21) It is important that I have your assurance that you will follow my instructions and rulings on the law and will apply that law to this case. To put it somewhat differently, whether you approve or disapprove of the court’s rulings or instructions, it is your solemn duty to accept as correct these statements of the law. You must accept and follow my instructions even if you disagree with the law. You may not substitute your own idea of what you think the law ought to be. Will all of you follow the law as given to you by me in this case?

(22) Each of you should now state your:

- (A) (Name) (or juror ID number);
- (B) Children's ages and the number of children, if any;
- (C) Occupation;
- (D) Occupational history; and
- (E) Present employer;

And for your spouse or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship, their:

- (F) Occupations;
- (G) Occupational histories; and
- (H) Present employers;

And for your adult children, their:

- (I) Occupations;
- (J) Occupational histories; and
- (K) Present employers.

Please begin with juror number one.

(23) Do you know of any other reason, or has anything occurred during this question period, that might make you doubtful you would be a completely fair and impartial juror in this case or why you should not be on this jury? If there is, it is your duty to disclose the reason at this time.

(24) After the court conducts the initial examination, Code of Civil Procedure section 223 allows counsel to ask supplemental questions for the purposes of uncovering possible bias or prejudice relevant to challenges for cause. The court may, in the exercise of its discretion, limit the oral and direct questioning of prospective jurors by counsel. The court may specify the maximum amount of time that counsel for each party may question an individual juror, or may specify an aggregate amount of time for each party, which can then be allocated among the prospective jurors by counsel.

- (25) After the conclusion of counsel questioning, the court asks each side to exercise any challenges for cause.
- (26) After ruling on challenges for cause, if any, the court calls on each side, alternately, to exercise any preemptory challenges.
- (27) If a new prospective juror is seated, the court should ask him or her:
 - (A) Have you heard my questions to the other prospective jurors?
 - (B) Have any of the questions I have asked raised any doubt in your mind as to whether you could be a fair and impartial juror in this case?
 - (C) Can you think of any other reason why you might not be able to try this case fairly and impartially to both the prosecution and defendant, or why you should not be on this jury?
 - (D) Give us the personal information requested concerning your occupation, that of your spouse or anyone with whom you have a significant personal relationship, that of your adult children, and your prior jury experience.

(Thereupon, as to each new juror seated, the court must permit counsel to ask supplemental questions, and proceed with challenges as above.)

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (c) effective July 1, 1974; amended and relettered effective June 6, 1990; previously amended effective January 1, 1997, January 1, 2004, and January 1, 2006.)

(c) Improper questions

When any counsel examines the prospective jurors, the trial judge should not permit counsel to attempt to precondition the prospective jurors to a particular result or allow counsel to comment on the personal lives and families of the parties or their attorneys.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2006; adopted as subd (e) effective July 1, 1974; previously amended and relettered as subd (d) effective June 6, 1990; relettered as subd (c) effective January 1, 1997.)

Standard 4.30 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 8.5 July 1, 1974; previously amended effective January 1, 1988, January 1, 1990, June 6, 1990, January 1, 1997, January 1, 2004, and January 1, 2006.

Standard 4.35. Court use of risk/needs assessments at sentencing

(a) Application and purpose

- (1) This standard applies only to the use of the results of risk/needs assessments at sentencing.
- (2) The use of the results of risk/needs assessments at sentencing is intended to:
 - (A) Prevent biases in sentencing;
 - (B) Reduce the risk of recidivism by focusing services and resources on medium- and high-risk offenders, who are most likely to reoffend;
 - (C) Reduce a defendant's risk of future recidivism by targeting that defendant's needs with appropriate intervention services through community supervision programs demonstrated to reduce recidivism; and
 - (D) Advance the legislative directive to improve public safety outcomes by routing offenders into community-based supervision informed by evidence-based practices.

(b) Definitions

- (1) "Risk" refers to the likelihood that a person will reoffend without regard, unless otherwise specified, to the nature of the original offense or the nature of the reoffense.
- (2) "Risk factors" refers to the "static" and "dynamic" factors that contribute to the risk score.
- (3) "Static risk factors" refers to those risk factors that cannot be changed through treatment or intervention, such as age or prior criminal history.
- (4) "Dynamic risk factors," also known as "needs," are factors that can be changed through treatment or intervention.
- (5) "Results of a risk/needs assessment" refers to both a risk score and an assessment of a person's needs.
- (6) A "risk score" refers to a descriptive evaluation of a person's risk level as a result of conducting an actuarial assessment with a validated risk/needs assessment instrument and may include such terms as "high," "medium," or "low" risk.
- (7) "Amenability" or "suitability" refers to the likelihood that the person can be safely and effectively supervised in the community and benefit from supervision services that are informed by evidence-based practices that have been demonstrated to reduce recidivism.

- (8) A “validated risk/needs assessment instrument” refers to a risk/needs assessment instrument demonstrated by scientific research to be accurate and reliable in assessing the risks and needs of the specific population on which it was validated.
- (9) “Supervision” includes all forms of supervision referenced in Penal Code section 1203.2(a).

(c) Validation

The risk/needs assessment instrument should be validated.

(d) Proper uses of the results of a risk/needs assessment at sentencing

- (1) The results of a risk/needs assessment should be considered only in context with all other information considered by the court at the time of sentencing, including the probation report, statements in mitigation and aggravation, evidence presented at a sentencing proceeding conducted under section 1204, and comments by counsel and any victim.
- (2) The results of a risk/needs assessment should be one of many factors that may be considered and weighed at a sentencing hearing. Information generated by the risk/needs assessment should be used along with all other information presented in connection with the sentencing hearing to inform and facilitate the decision of the court. Risk/needs assessment information should not be used as a substitute for the sound independent judgment of the court.
- (3) Although they may not be determinative, the results of a risk/needs assessment may be considered by the court as a relevant factor in assessing:
 - (A) Whether a defendant who is presumptively ineligible for probation has overcome the statutory limitation on probation;
 - (B) Whether an offender can be supervised safely and effectively in the community; and
 - (C) The appropriate terms and conditions of supervision and responses to violations of supervision.
- (4) If a court uses the results of a risk/needs assessment, it should consider any limitations of the instrument that have been raised in the probation report or by counsel, including:

- (A) That the instrument’s risk scores are based on group data, such that the instrument is able to identify only groups of high-risk offenders, for example, not a particular high-risk individual;
 - (B) Whether the instrument’s proprietary nature has been invoked to prevent the disclosure of information relating to how it weighs static and dynamic risk factors and how it determines risk scores;
 - (C) Whether any scientific research has raised questions that the instrument unfairly classifies offenders by gender, race, or ethnicity; and
 - (D) Whether the instrument has been validated on a relevant population.
- (e) Improper uses of the results of a risk/needs assessment at sentencing
- (1) The results of a risk/needs assessment should not be used to determine:
 - (A) Whether to incarcerate a defendant; or
 - (B) The severity of the sentence.
 - (2) The results of a risk/needs assessment should not be considered by the court for defendants statutorily ineligible for supervision.
- (f) Amenability to or suitability for supervision
- (1) A court should not interpret a “high” or “medium” risk score as necessarily indicating that a defendant is not amenable to or suitable for community-based supervision. Community-based supervision may be most effective for defendants with “high” and “medium” risk scores. A “low” risk score often, but not necessarily, indicates that a defendant is amenable to or suitable for community-based supervision. Risk scores must be interpreted in the context of all relevant sentencing information received by the court.
 - (2) Ordinarily a defendant’s level of supervision should correspond to his or her level of risk of recidivism. In most cases, a court should order that a low-risk defendant receive less supervision and a high-risk defendant more.
 - (3) A court should order services that address the defendant’s needs.
- (g) Education regarding the nature, purpose, and limits of risk/needs assessment information is critical to the proper use of such information. Education should include all justice system partners.

Standard 4.35 adopted effective January 1, 2018.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (d)(1)–(2). Although the results of risk/needs assessments provide important information for use by the court at sentencing, they are not designed as a substitute for the exercise of judicial discretion and judgment. The information should not be used as the sole basis of the court’s decision, but should be considered in the context of all of the information received in a sentencing proceeding. If justified by the circumstances of the case, it is appropriate for the court to impose a disposition not supported by the results of a risk/needs assessment. (See State v. Loomis (2016) 371 Wis.2d 235, 266 [“Just as corrections staff should disregard risk scores that are inconsistent with other factors, we expect that . . . courts will exercise discretion when assessing a . . . risk score with respect to each individual defendant”].)

Subdivision (d)(4). Court and justice partners should understand any limitations of the particular instrument used to generate the results of a risk/needs assessment. (See State v. Loomis, supra, 371 Wis.2d at p. 264 [requiring presentence investigation reports to state the limitations of the instrument used, including the proprietary nature of that instrument, any absence of a cross-validation study for relevant populations, and any questions raised in studies about whether the instrument disproportionately classifies minority offenders as having a higher risk of recidivism].) The Wisconsin court also required that all presentence investigation reports caution that risk/needs assessment tools must be constantly monitored and renormed for accuracy because of changing populations and subpopulations. (Ibid.) California courts should similarly consider any such limitations in the accuracy of the particular instrument employed in the case under review. (See ibid. [“Providing information to sentencing courts on the limitations and cautions attendant with the use of . . . risk assessments will enable courts to better assess the accuracy of the assessment and the appropriate weight to be given to the risk score”].)

Subdivision (d)(4)(D). Validating a risk/needs assessment instrument will increase its accuracy and reliability. Validation on a relevant population or subpopulation is recommended to account for differences in local policies, implementation practices, and offender populations. Ongoing monitoring and renorming of the instrument may be necessary to reflect changes in a population or subpopulation. Revalidation of the instrument is also necessary if any of its dynamic or static risk factors are modified.

Subdivision (e). When the court is considering whether to place a person on supervision at an original sentencing proceeding or after a violation of supervision, the results of a risk/needs assessment may assist the court in assessing the person’s amenability to supervision and services in the community. But when the person is ineligible for supervision, or the court has otherwise decided not to grant or reinstate probation, the results of a risk/needs assessment should not be used in determining the period of incarceration to be imposed. (See State v. Loomis, supra, 371 Wis.2d at p. 256 [holding that risk/needs assessments should not be used to determine the severity of a sentence or whether a defendant is incarcerated]; Malenchik v. State (Ind. 2010) 928 N.E.2d 564, 573 [“It is clear that [risk/needs assessment instruments are neither intended] nor recommended to substitute for the judicial function of determining the length of sentence appropriate for each offender”].)

Subdivision (f). Risk/needs assessment instruments generally produce a numerical or descriptive “risk score” such as “high,” “moderate,” or “low” risk. It is critical that courts and justice partners understand the meaning and limitations of such designations. First, because risk assessments are based on group data, they are able to identify groups of high-risk offenders, not a particular high-risk individual. Second, in some assessment instruments, “risk” refers only to a generalized risk of committing a new offense, not to the seriousness of the subsequent offense (e.g., violent, sex, drug, or theft). Nor does “high risk” necessarily mean “highly dangerous.” A high-risk drug offender, for example, may present a high risk that he or she will use drugs again, but does not necessarily present a high risk to commit a violent felony. Third, scientific research indicates that medium- and high-risk offenders may most benefit from evidence-based supervision and programs that address critical risk factors. Courts and probation departments should also consider how presentence investigation reports present risk assessment information. A report that merely refers to the defendant as “high risk” may incorrectly imply that the defendant presents a great danger to public safety and must therefore be incarcerated. Conversely, “low risk” does not necessarily mean “no risk.”

Subdivision (g). An instrument’s accuracy and reliability depend on its proper administration. Training and continuing education should be required for anyone who administers the instrument. Judges with sentencing assignments should receive appropriate training on the purpose, use, and limits of risk/needs assessments. (See Guiding Principle 4, Stakeholder Training, in Pamela M. Casey et al., Using Offender Risk and Needs Assessment Information at Sentencing: Guidance for Courts from a National Working Group (National Center for State Courts, 2011) pp. 21–22.)

Standard 4.40. Traffic infraction procedures

To insure the prompt and efficient disposition of traffic infraction cases, each court should:

- (1) Authorize the clerk, within limits set by the court, to grant defendants extensions of time for the posting of bail and payment of fines.
- (2) Authorize the clerk or other court official to accept offers of proof of correction or compliance in accordance with the bail schedule without the necessity of a court appearance.

Standard 4.40 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 10.5 effective July 1, 1977.

Standard 4.41. Courtesy notice—traffic procedures [Repealed]

Standard 4.41 repealed effective January 1, 2017; adopted as sec. 10.6 effective January 1, 1987; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Standard 4.42. Traffic infraction trial scheduling

(a) Review of procedures

Courts should adopt and periodically review procedures governing the scheduling of traffic infraction trials that minimize appearance time and costs for defendants, witnesses, and law enforcement officers.

(Subd (a) amended and lettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as part of unlettered subdivision effective January 1, 1987.)

(b) Meetings

Courts should hold periodic meetings with representatives from local law enforcement agencies, the prosecution and defense bars, and other interested groups as appropriate in an effort to achieve this goal.

(Subd (b) amended and lettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as part of unlettered subdivision effective January 1, 1987.)

Standard 4.42 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 10.7 effective January 1, 1987.

Title 5. Standards for Cases Involving Children and Families

Standard 5.20. Uniform standards of practice for providers of supervised visitation

5.30. Family court matters

Standard 5.40. Juvenile court matters

Standard 5.45. Resource guidelines for child abuse and neglect cases

Standard 5.20. Uniform standards of practice for providers of supervised visitation

(a) Scope of service

This standard defines the standards of practice, including duties and obligations, for providers of supervised visitation under Family Code sections 3200 and 3200.5. Unless specified otherwise, the standards of practice are designed to apply to all providers of supervised visitation, whether the provider is a friend, relative, paid independent contractor, employee, intern, or volunteer operating independently or through a supervised visitation center or agency. The goal of these standards of practice is to assure the safety and welfare of the child, adults, and providers of supervised visitation. Once safety is assured, the best interest of the child is the paramount consideration at all stages and particularly in deciding the manner in which supervision is provided. Each court is encouraged to adopt local court rules necessary to implement these standards of practice.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Definition

Family Code section 3200 defines the term “provider” as including any individual or supervised visitation center that monitors visitation. Supervised visitation is contact between a noncustodial party and one or more children in the presence of a neutral third person.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Type of provider

Who provides the supervision and the manner in which supervision is provided depends on different factors, including local resources, the financial situation of the parties, and the degree of risk in each case. While the court makes the final decision as to the manner in which supervision is provided and any terms or conditions, the court may consider recommendations by the attorney for the child, the parties and their attorneys, Family Court Services staff, evaluators, and therapists. As specified in Family Code section 3200.5, in any case in which the court has determined that there is domestic violence or child abuse or neglect, as defined in section 11165.6 of the Penal Code, and the court determines supervision is necessary, the court must consider whether to use a professional or nonprofessional provider based on the child's best interest.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2015; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(d) Qualifications of nonprofessional providers

- (1) A "nonprofessional provider" is any person who is not paid for providing supervised visitation services. Unless otherwise ordered by the court or stipulated by the parties, the nonprofessional provider must:
 - (A) Have no record of a conviction for child molestation, child abuse, or other crimes against a person;
 - (B) Have proof of automobile insurance if transporting the child;
 - (C) Have no current or past court order in which the provider is the person being supervised; and
 - (D) Agree to adhere to and enforce the court order regarding supervised visitation.
- (2) Unless otherwise ordered by the court or stipulated by the parties, the nonprofessional provider should:
 - (A) Be 21 years of age or older;
 - (B) Have no record of conviction for driving under the influence (DUI) within the last 5 years;
 - (C) Not have been on probation or parole for the last 10 years;

(D) Have no civil, criminal, or juvenile restraining orders within the last 10 years; and

(E) Not be financially dependent on the person being supervised.

(Subd (d) relettered and amended effective January 1, 2015; adopted as part of subd (c).)

(e) Qualifications of professional providers

A “professional provider” is any person paid for providing supervised visitation services, or an independent contractor, employee, intern, or volunteer operating independently or through a supervised visitation center or agency. The professional provider must:

- (1) Be 21 years of age or older;
- (2) Have no record of conviction for driving under the influence (DUI) within the last 5 years;
- (3) Not have been on probation or parole for the last 10 years;
- (4) Have no record of a conviction for child molestation, child abuse, or other crimes against a person;
- (5) Have proof of automobile insurance if transporting the child;
- (6) Have no civil, criminal, or juvenile restraining orders within the last 10 years;
- (7) Have no current or past court order in which the provider is the person being supervised;
- (8) Be able to speak the language of the party being supervised and of the child, or the provider must provide a neutral interpreter over the age of 18 who is able to do so;
- (9) Agree to adhere to and enforce the court order regarding supervised visitation;
- (10) Meet the training requirements stated in (f); and
- (11) Sign a declaration or Declaration of Supervised Visitation Provider (form FL-324) stating that all requirements to be a professional provider have been met.

(Subd (e) relettered and amended effective January 1, 2015; adopted as part of subd (c).)

(f) Training for providers

- (1) Each court is encouraged to make available to all providers informational materials about the role of a provider, the terms and conditions of supervised visitation, and the legal responsibilities and obligations of a provider under this standard.
- (2) In addition, professional providers must receive 24 hours of training that includes the following subjects:
 - (A) The role of a professional provider;
 - (B) Child abuse reporting laws;
 - (C) Record-keeping procedures;
 - (D) Screening, monitoring, and termination of visitation;
 - (E) Developmental needs of children;
 - (F) Legal responsibilities and obligations of a provider;
 - (G) Cultural sensitivity;
 - (H) Conflicts of interest;
 - (I) Confidentiality;
 - (J) Issues relating to substance abuse, child abuse, sexual abuse, and domestic violence; and
 - (K) Basic knowledge of family and juvenile law.

(Subd (f) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (d) effective January 1, 2007.)

(g) Safety and security procedures

All providers must make every reasonable effort to assure the safety and welfare of the child and adults during the visitation. Professional providers should establish a written protocol, with the assistance of the local law enforcement agency, that describes the emergency assistance and responses that can be expected from the local law enforcement agency. In addition, the professional provider should:

- (1) Establish and state in writing minimum security procedures and inform the parties of these procedures before the commencement of supervised visitation;

- (2) Conduct comprehensive intake and screening to understand the nature and degree of risk for each case. The procedures for intake should include separate interviews with the parties before the first visit. During the interview, the provider should obtain identifying information and explain the reasons for temporary suspension or termination of a visit under this standard. If the child is of sufficient age and capacity, the provider should include the child in part of the intake or orientation process. Any discussion should be presented to the child in a manner appropriate to the child's developmental stage;
- (3) Obtain during the intake process:
 - (A) Copies of any protective order;
 - (B) Current court orders;
 - (C) Any Judicial Council form relating to supervised visitation orders;
 - (D) A report of any written records of allegations of domestic violence or abuse; and
 - (E) An account of the child's health needs if the child has a chronic health condition; and
- (4) Establish written procedures that must be followed in the event a child is abducted during supervised visitation.

(Subd (g) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (d) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (e) effective January 1, 2007.)

(h) Ratio of children to provider

The ratio of children to a professional provider must be contingent on:

- (1) The degree of risk factors present in each case;
- (2) The nature of supervision required in each case;
- (3) The number and ages of the children to be supervised during a visit;
- (4) The number of people, as provided in the court order, visiting the child during the visit;
- (5) The duration and location of the visit; and
- (6) The experience of the provider.

(Subd (h) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (e) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (f) effective January 1, 2007.)

(i) Conflict of interest

All providers should maintain neutrality by refusing to discuss the merits of the case or agree with or support one party over another. Any discussion between a provider and the parties should be for the purposes of arranging visitation and providing for the safety of the children. In order to avoid a conflict of interest, the professional provider should not:

- (1) Be financially dependent on the person being supervised;
- (2) Be an employee of the person being supervised;
- (3) Be an employee of or affiliated with any superior court in the county in which the supervision is ordered unless specified in the employment contract; or
- (4) Be in an intimate relationship with the person being supervised.

(Subd (i) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (f) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (g) effective January 1, 2007.)

(j) Maintenance and disclosure of records for professional providers

- (1) Professional providers must keep a record for each case, including the following:
 - (A) A written record of each contact and visit;
 - (B) Who attended the visit;
 - (C) Any failure to comply with the terms and conditions of the visitation; and
 - (D) Any incidence of abuse as required by law.
- (2) Case recordings should be limited to facts, observations, and direct statements made by the parties, not personal conclusions, suggestions, or opinions of the provider. All contacts by the provider in person, in writing, or by telephone with either party, the children, the court, attorneys, mental health professionals, and referring agencies should be documented in the case file. All entries should be dated and signed by the person recording the entry.

- (3) If ordered by the court or requested by either party or the attorney for either party or the attorney for the child, a report about the supervised visit must be produced. These reports should include facts, observations, and direct statements and not opinions or recommendations regarding future visitation. The original report must be sent to the court if so ordered, or to the requesting party or attorney, and copies should be sent to all parties, their attorneys, and the attorney for the child.
- (4) Any identifying information about the parties and the child, including addresses, telephone numbers, places of employment, and schools, is confidential, should not be disclosed, and should be deleted from documents before releasing them to any court, attorney, attorney for the child, party, mediator, evaluator, mental health professional, social worker, or referring agency, except as required in reporting suspected child abuse.

(Subd (j) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (g) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (h) effective January 1, 2007.)

(k) Confidentiality

Communications between parties and providers of supervised visitation are not protected by any privilege of confidentiality. Professional providers should, whenever possible, maintain confidentiality regarding the case except when:

- (1) Ordered by the court;
- (2) Subpoenaed to produce records or testify in court;
- (3) Requested to provide information about the case by a mediator or evaluator in conjunction with a court-ordered mediation, investigation, or evaluation;
- (4) Required to provide information about the case by Child Protective Services;
or
- (5) Requested to provide information about the case by law enforcement.

(Subd (k) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (h) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (i) effective January 1, 2007.)

(l) Delineation of terms and conditions

The provider bears the sole responsibility for enforcement of all the terms and conditions of any supervised visitation. Unless otherwise ordered by the court, the provider should implement the following terms and conditions:

- (1) Monitor conditions to assure the safety and welfare of the child;

- (2) Enforce the frequency and duration of the visits as ordered by the court;
- (3) Avoid any attempt to take sides with either party;
- (4) Ensure that all contact between the child and the noncustodial party is within the provider's hearing and sight at all times, and that discussions are audible to the provider;
- (5) Speak in a language spoken by the child and the noncustodial party;
- (6) Allow no derogatory comments about the other parent, his or her family, caretaker, child, or child's siblings;
- (7) Allow no discussion of the court case or possible future outcomes;
- (8) Allow neither the provider nor the child to be used to gather information about the other party or caretaker or to transmit documents, information, or personal possessions;
- (9) Allow no spanking, hitting, or threatening the child;
- (10) Allow no visits to occur while the visiting party appears to be under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs;
- (11) Allow no emotional, verbal, physical, or sexual abuse;
- (12) Allow no contact between the custodial and noncustodial parents unless ordered by the court; and
- (13) Ensure that the parties follow any additional rules stated by the provider or the court.

(Subd (1) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (i) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (j) effective January 1, 2007.)

(m) Safety considerations for sexual abuse cases

In cases where there are allegations of sexual abuse, in addition to the requirements of (l), the provider should comply with the following terms and conditions, unless otherwise ordered by the court:

- (1) Allow no exchanges of gifts, money, or cards;
- (2) Allow no photographing, audiotaping, or videotaping of the child;

- (3) Allow no physical contact with the child such as lap sitting, hair combing, stroking, hand holding, hugging, wrestling, tickling, horseplaying, changing diapers, or accompanying the child to the bathroom;
- (4) Allow no whispering, passing notes, hand signals, or body signals; and
- (5) Allow no supervised visitation in the location where the alleged sexual abuse occurred.

(Subd (m) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (j) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (k) effective January 1, 2007.)

(n) Legal responsibilities and obligations of a provider

All nonprofessional providers of supervised visitation should, and all professional providers must:

- (1) Advise the parties before commencement of supervised visitation that no confidential privilege exists;
- (2) Report suspected child abuse to the appropriate agency, as provided by law, and inform the parties of the provider's obligation to make such reports; and
- (3) Suspend or terminate visitation under (p).

(Subd (n) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (k) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (l) effective January 1, 2007.)

(o) Additional legal responsibilities of professional providers

In addition to the legal responsibilities and obligations required in (n), professional providers must:

- (1) Prepare a written contract to be signed by the parties before commencement of the supervised visitation. The contract should inform each party of the terms and conditions of supervised visitation; and
- (2) Review custody and visitation orders relevant to the supervised visitation.

(Subd (o) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (l) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (m) effective January 1, 2007.)

(p) Temporary suspension or termination of supervised visitation

- (1) All providers must make every reasonable effort to provide a safe visit for the child and the noncustodial party.

- (2) However, if a provider determines that the rules of the visit have been violated, the child has become acutely distressed, or the safety of the child or the provider is at risk, the visit may be temporarily interrupted, rescheduled at a later date, or terminated.
- (3) All interruptions or terminations of visits must be recorded in the case file.
- (4) All providers must advise both parties of the reasons for interruption of a visit or termination.

(Subd (p) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (m) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (n) effective January 1, 2007.)

(q) Additional requirements for professional providers

Professional providers must state the reasons for temporary suspension or termination of supervised visitation in writing and provide the written statement to both parties, their attorneys, the attorney for the child, and the court.

(Subd (q) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2015; adopted as subd (n) effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and relettered as subd (o) effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 5.20 amended effective January 1, 2015; adopted as sec. 26.2 effective January 1, 1998; previously amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Standard 5.30. Family court matters

(a) Judicial assignments to family court

In a court with a separate family court, the presiding judge of the superior court should assign judges to the family court to serve for a minimum of three years. In selecting judges for family court assignments, the presiding judge should consider, in addition to rule 10.603(c)(1)(A) of the California Rules of Court, the judge's prior experience in family law litigation and mediation, as well as whether the judge prefers to serve in a family law department.

(b) Case assignment to same department

To the extent possible, family law actions related to the same family should be assigned to the same judicial officer for all purposes, so that all decisions that are made in a case through final judgment are issued by the same judicial officer.

(c) Importance of family court

The supervising judge in the family court, in consultation with the presiding judge of the superior court, should:

- (1) Motivate and educate other judges regarding the significance of family court; and
- (2) Work to ensure that sufficient judicial officers, court staff, family law facilitators, child custody mediators and evaluators, interpreters, financial resources, and adequate facilities are assigned to the family court to allow adequate time to hear and decide the matters before it.

(d) Compensation for court-appointed attorneys

The supervising judge of the family court should ensure that court-appointed attorneys in the family court are compensated at a level equivalent to attorneys appointed by the court in comparable types of cases.

(e) Training and education

Family court law is a specialized area of the law that requires dedication and study. The supervising judge of the family court has a responsibility to maintain high-quality services in family court. The quality of services provided by judicial officers and court staff depends, in significant part, on appropriate training and education, from the beginning of the family court assignment and on a continuing basis thereafter.

- (1) Family court judicial officers, family law facilitators, child custody mediators and evaluators, interpreters, other court staff, and court-appointed attorneys should have sufficient training to perform their jobs competently.
- (2) The supervising judge of the family court should promote access to printed, electronic, Internet, and other family law resources.

(f) Unique role of a family court

Under the direction of the presiding judge of the superior court, the family court, to the extent that it does not interfere with the adjudication process or violate any ethical constraints, is encouraged to:

- (1) Provide active leadership within the community in determining the needs of, and obtaining and developing resources and services for children and families who participate in the family law court system;
- (2) Investigate and determine the availability of specific prevention, intervention, and treatment services in the community for families who come before the family courts;

- (3) Take an active role in helping the court develop rules and procedures that will result in the ordering of appropriate treatment and services for children and families;
- (4) Exercise a leadership role in the development and maintenance of services for self-represented and financially disadvantaged litigants;
- (5) Take an active part in the formation of a community-wide network to promote and coordinate private- and public-sector efforts to focus attention and resources on the needs of family law litigants;
- (6) Educate the community and its institutions, including the media, concerning the role of the family court in meeting the complex needs of families;
- (7) Encourage the development of community services and resources to assist families and children in the family court system, including self-help information; supervised visitation; substance abuse and drug prevention, intervention, and treatment; services for families with domestic violence issues; counseling; parenting education; vocational training; mediation; alternative dispute resolution options; and other resources to support families;
- (8) Manage cases more efficiently and effectively to avoid conflicting orders;
- (9) Take an active role in promoting completion of cases in a timely manner;
- (10) Appoint counsel for children in appropriate family law custody cases; and
- (11) Ensure that the best interest of children is served throughout the family court process.

(g) Appointment of attorneys and other persons

A court should follow the guidelines of standard 10.21 of the California Standards of Judicial Administration when appointing attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons.

Standard 5.30 adopted effective January 1, 2007.

Advisory Committee Comment

Standard 5.30. Family court matters include proceedings under the Family Code for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, legal separation, custody and support of minor children; or actions under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act, the Uniform Parentage Act, the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act, Domestic Partner Registration Act, and the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act; local child support agency actions under the Family Code; and contempt proceedings relating to family law or local child support agency actions.

Subdivision (a). This subdivision implements the legislative mandate of Family Code section 2330.3(b) requiring the Judicial Council to adopt a standard of judicial administration prescribing a minimum length of a judge's family law assignment. Standard 5.30 sets a standard in family court that is similar to the juvenile court standards stated in standard 5.40, Juvenile Court Matters.

Family law is complex and constantly evolving. The laws concerning child custody, support, domestic violence, and property division are always changing. Not only does the family law judge have to understand family law and procedure but also issues that involve bankruptcy, estate planning, insurance, state and federal tax law, business, immigration, and criminal law, which can frequently arise in the context of a family law case. Because of the complexity and long-range impact of the judicial determinations, the presiding judge should strive to place experienced judges in family law assignments.

Considering the constantly evolving changes in the law, as well as the unique nature of the proceedings in family court, the family court judge should be willing to commit to a minimum tenure of three years. Not only does this tenure afford the judge the opportunity to become well acquainted with the complexity of the family court process, but it also provides continuity to a system that demands it.

Subdivision (b) This subdivision implements the legislative mandate of Family Code section 2330.3(a), which requires that dissolution actions, to the greatest extent possible, be assigned to the same superior court department for all purposes, so that all decisions in a case are made by the same judicial officer. This subdivision expands the Legislature's requirement by including other related family court matters, such as those filed under the Uniform Parentage Act, Domestic Violence Prevention Act, in recognition that the same families may enter the family court through a variety of actions.

The committee recognizes that having the same judicial officer hear all actions involving the same family may not be practical in all cases for reasons that include funding limitations, assignment rotations, illness, vacations, and retirements. In some courts, one judge does not hear all aspects of a family's legal problems because of multiple courthouse locations or specifically designated funding of certain issues (e.g., Title IV-D child support issues). However, the committee agrees with the legislative intent in enacting section 2330.3(a), which was to expedite and simplify the dissolution process, reduce the litigation expenses and costs, and encourage greater judicial supervision of cases involving dissolution of marriage. Family law actions often involve a succession of hearings to resolve the various issues that arise. A single judge's involvement over this period of time allows the judge to be more familiar with the particular actions and issues, which creates judicial efficiencies that expedite their handling. One judge hearing all actions involving a family also helps avoid conflicting orders, alleviates the need to hold multiple hearings on the same issue, improves the court process, promotes consistency, and enhances fairness in family proceedings.

Subdivision (c). The family court is an integral part of the justice system. Decisions made by family law judges can have significant and lasting impacts on the lives of the parties and their children. The work of the family court has a significant impact on the health of families and ultimately on the strength of the community. The parties deserve to have adequate time to present their cases, and the judges should have the resources they need to enable them to make informed decisions. It is only through the constant exertion of pressure to maintain resources and the continuous education of court-related personnel and administrators that the historic trend to give less priority and provide fewer resources to the family court can be changed.

Subdivision (d). Fees paid to court-appointed attorneys who represent children in family court are sometimes less than the fees paid attorneys doing other comparable legal work thereby demeaning the work of the family court and leading many to believe that such work is less important. It may also discourage attorneys from accepting these appointments. Compensation for legal work in the family court should reflect the importance of the work.

Subdivision (e)(2). A significant barrier to having well-trained attorneys and educated self-represented litigants is a lack of current educational materials relating to family court practice. Law libraries, law offices, and court systems traditionally have not devoted adequate resources to purchase such educational materials. With advances in technology, resources can be accessed, shared, developed, or made available through electronic/computer-based, online, and multimedia means, audiotape and videotape, DVD, CD, Web-based audiocasts and videocasts, and other media to supplement print materials.

Subdivision (f). In addition to the traditional role of fairly and efficiently resolving disputes before the court, a family court judge occupies a unique position within California's judiciary. California law empowers the family court judge not only to order relief related to the needs of families under its jurisdiction but also to enforce and review the compliance with such orders. This oversight function includes the obligation to understand and work with those public and private agencies that provide services for families. As such, the family court assignment requires a dramatic shift in emphasis from judging in the traditional sense. Active and public judicial support and encouragement of programs serving children and families in family court poses no conflict with traditional concepts of judicial ethics and is an important function of the family court judge. These efforts enhance the overall administration of justice for families.

Standard 5.40. Juvenile court matters

(a) Assignments to juvenile court

The presiding judge of the superior court should assign judges to the juvenile court to serve for a minimum of three years. Priority should be given to judges who have expressed an interest in the assignment.

(b) Importance of juvenile court

The presiding judge of the juvenile court, in consultation with the presiding judge of the superior court, should:

- (1) Motivate and educate other judges regarding the significance of juvenile court.
- (2) Work to ensure that sufficient judges and staff, facilities, and financial resources are assigned to the juvenile court to allow adequate time to hear and decide the matters before it.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Standards of representation and compensation

The presiding judge of the juvenile court should:

- (1) Encourage attorneys who practice in juvenile court, including all court-appointed and contract attorneys, to continue their practice in juvenile court for substantial periods of time. A substantial period of time is at least two years and preferably from three to five years.
- (2) Confer with the county public defender, county district attorney, county counsel, and other public law office leaders and encourage them to raise the status of attorneys working in the juvenile courts as follows: hire attorneys who are interested in serving in the juvenile court for a substantial part of their careers; permit and encourage attorneys, based on interest and ability, to remain in juvenile court assignments for significant periods of time; and work to ensure that attorneys who have chosen to serve in the juvenile court have the same promotional and salary opportunities as attorneys practicing in other assignments within a law office.
- (3) Establish minimum standards of practice to which all court-appointed and public office attorneys will be expected to conform. These standards should delineate the responsibilities of attorneys relative to investigation and evaluation of the case, preparation for and conduct of hearings, and advocacy for their respective clients.
- (4) In conjunction with other leaders in the legal community, ensure that attorneys appointed in the juvenile court are compensated in a manner equivalent to attorneys appointed by the court in other types of cases.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective July 1, 1992.)

(d) Training and orientation

The presiding judge of the juvenile court should:

- (1) Establish relevant prerequisites for court-appointed attorneys and advocates in the juvenile court.
- (2) Develop orientation and in-service training programs for judicial officers, attorneys, volunteers, law enforcement personnel, court personnel, and child advocates to ensure that all are adequately trained concerning all issues relating to special education rights and responsibilities, including the right of each child with exceptional needs to receive a free, appropriate public education and the right of each child with educational disabilities to receive accommodations.

- (3) Promote the establishment of a library or other resource center in which information about juvenile court practice (including books, periodicals, videotapes, and other training materials) can be collected and made available to all participants in the juvenile system.
- (4) Ensure that attorneys who appear in juvenile court have sufficient training to perform their jobs competently, as follows: require that all court-appointed attorneys meet minimum training and continuing legal education standards as a condition of their appointment to juvenile court matters; and encourage the leaders of public law offices that have responsibilities in juvenile court to require their attorneys who appear in juvenile court to have at least the same training and continuing legal education required of court-appointed attorneys.

(e) Unique role of a juvenile court judge

Judges of the juvenile court, in consultation with the presiding judge of the juvenile court and the presiding judge of the superior court, to the extent that it does not interfere with the adjudication process, are encouraged to:

- (1) Provide active leadership within the community in determining the needs of and obtaining and developing resources and services for at-risk children and families. At-risk children include delinquents, dependents, and status offenders.
- (2) Investigate and determine the availability of specific prevention, intervention, and treatment services in the community for at-risk children and their families.
- (3) Exercise their authority by statute or rule to review, order, and enforce the delivery of specific services and treatment for at-risk children and their families.
- (4) Exercise a leadership role in the development and maintenance of permanent programs of interagency cooperation and coordination among the court and the various public agencies that serve at-risk children and their families.
- (5) Take an active part in the formation of a communitywide network to promote and unify private and public sector efforts to focus attention and resources for at-risk children and their families.
- (6) Maintain close liaison with school authorities and encourage coordination of policies and programs.

- (7) Educate the community and its institutions through every available means, including the media, concerning the role of the juvenile court in meeting the complex needs of at-risk children and their families.
- (8) Evaluate the criteria established by child protection agencies for initial removal and reunification decisions and communicate the court's expectations of what constitutes "reasonable efforts" to prevent removal or hasten return of the child.
- (9) Encourage the development of community services and resources to assist homeless, truant, runaway, and incorrigible children.
- (10) Be familiar with all detention facilities, placements, and institutions used by the court.
- (11) Act in all instances consistent with the public safety and welfare.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective July 1, 1989; previously relettered effective July 1, 1992.)

(f) Appointment of attorneys and other persons

For the appointment of attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons, each court should follow rule 10.611 and the guidelines of standard 10.21.

(Subd (f) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 1999.)

(g) Educational rights of children in the juvenile court

The juvenile court should be guided by certain general principles:

- (1) A significant number of children in the juvenile court process have exceptional needs that, if properly identified and assessed, would qualify such children to receive special education and related services under federal and state education law (a free, appropriate public education) (see Ed. Code, § 56000 et seq. and 20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.);
- (2) Many children in the juvenile court process have disabilities that, if properly identified and assessed, would qualify such children to receive educational accommodations (see § 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 [29 U.S.C. § 794; 34 C.F.R. § 104.1 et seq.]);
- (3) Unidentified and unremediated exceptional needs and unaccommodated disabilities have been found to correlate strongly with juvenile delinquency, substance abuse, mental health issues, teenage pregnancy, school failure and dropout, and adult unemployment and crime; and

- (4) The cost of incarcerating children is substantially greater than the cost of providing special education and related services to exceptional needs children and providing educational accommodations to children with disabilities.

(Subd (g) adopted effective January 1, 2001.)

(h) Role of the juvenile court

The juvenile court should:

- (1) Take responsibility, with the other juvenile court participants at every stage of the child's case, to ensure that the child's educational needs are met, regardless of whether the child is in the custody of a parent or is suitably placed in the custody of the child welfare agency or probation department and regardless of where the child is placed in school. Each child under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court with exceptional needs has the right to receive a free, appropriate public education, specially designed, at no cost to the parents, to meet the child's unique special education needs. (See Ed. Code, § 56031 and 20 U.S.C. § 1401(8).) Each child with disabilities under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court has the right to receive accommodations. (See § 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 [29 U.S.C. § 794; 34 C.F.R. § 104.1 et seq. (1980)].) The court should also ensure that each parent or guardian receives information and assistance concerning his or her child's educational entitlements as provided by law.
- (2) Provide oversight of the social service and probation agencies to ensure that a child's educational rights are investigated, reported, and monitored. The court should work within the statutory framework to accommodate the sharing of information between agencies. A child who comes before the court and is suspected of having exceptional needs or other educational disabilities should be referred in writing for an assessment to the child's school principal or to the school district's special education office. (See Ed. Code, §§ 56320–56329.) The child's parent, teacher, or other service provider may make the required written referral for assessment. (See Ed. Code, § 56029.)
- (3) Require that court reports, case plans, assessments, and permanency plans considered by the court address a child's educational entitlements and how those entitlements are being satisfied, and contain information to assist the court in deciding whether the right of the parent or guardian to make educational decisions for the child should be limited by the court under Welfare and Institutions Code section 361(a) or 726(b). Information concerning whether the school district has met its obligation to provide educational services to the child, including special educational services if the child has exceptional needs under Education Code section 56000 et seq., and to provide accommodations if the child has disabilities as defined in section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. § 794; 34 C.F.R. § 104.1 et seq. (1980)) should also be included, along with a recommendation for disposition.

- (4) Facilitate coordination of services by joining the local educational agency as a party when it appears that an educational agency has failed to fulfill its legal obligations to provide special education and related services or accommodations to a child in the juvenile court who has been identified as having exceptional needs or educational disabilities. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, §§ 362(a), 727(a).)
- (5) Make appropriate orders limiting the educational rights of a parent or guardian who cannot be located or identified, or who is unwilling or unable to be an active participant in ensuring that the child's educational needs are met, and appoint a responsible adult as educational representative for such a child or, if a representative cannot be identified and the child may be eligible for special education and related services or already has an individualized education program, use form JV-535 to refer the child to the local educational agency for special education and related services and prompt appointment of a surrogate parent. (Welf. & Inst. Code, §§ 361, 726; Ed. Code, § 56156.)
- (6) Ensure that special education, related services, and accommodations to which the child is entitled are provided whenever the child's school placement changes. (See Ed. Code, § 56325.)

(Subd (h) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted effective January 1, 2001; previously amended effective January 1, 2004.)

Standard 5.40 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 24 effective January 1, 1989; previously amended effective July 1, 1992, January 1, 1999; January 1, 2001, and January 1, 2004.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (a). Considering the constantly evolving changes in the law, as well as the unique nature of the proceedings in juvenile court, the juvenile court judge should be willing to commit to a tenure of three years. Not only does this tenure afford the judge the opportunity to become well acquainted with the total juvenile justice complex, but it also provides continuity to a system that demands it.

Dependency cases under Welfare and Institutions Code section 300 for the most part last 18 months. The juvenile court judge has a responsibility to oversee these cases, and a single judge's involvement over this period of time is important to help ensure positive results. The ultimate goal should be to perfect a system that serves the needs of both recipients and providers. This can only be done over time and with constant application of effective energy.

Subdivision (b)(2). The juvenile court is an integral part of the justice system. It is only through the constant exertion of pressure to maintain resources and the continuous education of court-related personnel and administrators that the historic trend to minimize the juvenile court can be contained.

Subdivision (c)(4). The quality of justice in the juvenile court is in large part dependent on the quality of the attorneys who appear on behalf of the different parties before the court. The presiding judge of the juvenile court plays a significant role in ensuring that a sufficient number of attorneys of high quality are available to the parties appearing in juvenile court.

Juvenile court practice requires attorneys who have both a special interest in and a substantive understanding of the work of the court. Obtaining and retaining qualified attorneys for the juvenile court requires effective recruiting, training, and employment considerations.

The importance of juvenile court work must be stressed to ensure that juvenile court assignments have the same status and career enhancement opportunities as other assignments for public law office attorneys.

The presiding judge of the juvenile court should urge leaders of public law offices serving the juvenile court to assign experienced, interested, and capable attorneys to that court, and to establish hiring and promotional policies that will encourage the development of a division of the office dedicated to working in the juvenile court.

National commentators are in accord with these propositions: “Court-appointed and public attorneys representing children in abuse and neglect cases, as well as judges, should be specially trained or experienced. Juvenile and family courts should not be the ‘training ground’ for inexperienced attorneys or judges.” (Metropolitan Court Judges Committee, National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, Deprived Children: A Judicial Response—73 Recommendations (1986) p. 14.)

Fees paid to attorneys appearing in juvenile court are sometimes less than the fees paid attorneys doing other legal work. Such a payment scheme demeans the work of the juvenile court, leading many to believe that such work is less important. It may discourage attorneys from selecting juvenile court practice as a career option. The incarceration of a child in a detention facility or a child’s permanent loss of his or her family through a termination of parental rights proceeding is at least as important as any other work in the legal system. Compensation for the legal work in the juvenile court should reflect the importance of this work.

Subdivision (d)(4). Juvenile court law is a specialized area of the law that requires dedication and study. The juvenile court judge has a responsibility to maintain high quality in the practice of law in the juvenile court. The quality of representation in the juvenile court depends in good part on the education of the lawyers who appear there. In order to make certain that all parties receive adequate representation, it is important that attorneys have adequate training before they begin practice in juvenile court and on a continuing basis thereafter. The presiding judge of the juvenile court should mandate such training for all court-appointed attorneys and urge leaders of public law offices to provide at least comparable training for attorneys assigned to juvenile court.

A minimum of six hours of continuing legal education is suggested; more hours are recommended. Education methods can include lectures and tapes that meet the legal education requirements.

In addition to basic legal training in juvenile dependency and delinquency law, evidentiary issues, and effective trial practice techniques, training should also include important related issues, including child development, alternative resources for families, effects and treatment of substance abuse, domestic violence, abuse, neglect, modification and enforcement of all court orders, dependency, delinquency, guardianships, conservatorships, interviewing children, and emancipation. Education may also include observational experience such as site visits to institutions and operations critical to the juvenile court.

A significant barrier to the establishment and maintenance of well-trained attorneys is a lack of educational materials relating to juvenile court practice. Law libraries, law offices, and court systems traditionally do not devote adequate resources to the purchase of such educational materials.

Effective January 1, 1993, guidelines and training material will be available from Judicial Council staff.

Subdivision (e)(11). A superior court judge assigned to the juvenile court occupies a unique position within California's judiciary. In addition to the traditional role of fairly and efficiently resolving disputes before the court, the juvenile court judge is statutorily required to discharge other duties. California law empowers the juvenile court judge not only to order services for children under its jurisdiction, but also to enforce and review the delivery of those services. This oversight function includes the obligation to understand and work with the public and private agencies, including school systems, that provide services and treatment programs for children and families. As such, the juvenile court assignment requires a dramatic shift in emphasis from judging in the traditional sense.

The legislative directive to juvenile court judges to "improve system performance in a vigorous and ongoing manner" (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 202) poses no conflict with traditional concepts of judicial ethics. Active and public judicial support and encouragement of programs serving children and families at risk are important functions of the juvenile court judge that enhance the overall administration of justice.

The standards in (e) are derived from statutory requirements in the following sections of the Welfare and Institutions Code as well as the supplementary material promulgated by the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges and others: (1) Welfare and Institutions Code, sections 202, 209, 300, 317, 318, 319, 362, 600, 601, 654, 702, 727; (2) California Code of Judicial Conduct, canon 4; (3) Metropolitan Court Judges Committee, National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, Deprived Children: A Judicial Response—73 Recommendations (1986), Recommendations 1–7, 14, 35, 40; and (4) National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, Child Welfare League of America, Youth Law Center, and the National Center for Youth Law, Making Reasonable Efforts: Steps for Keeping Families Together pp. 43–59.

Standard 5.45. Resource guidelines for child abuse and neglect cases

(a) Guidelines

To improve the fair and efficient administration of child abuse and neglect cases in the California juvenile dependency system, judges and judicial officers assigned to the juvenile court, in consultation with the presiding judge of the juvenile court and the presiding judge of the superior or consolidated court, are encouraged to follow the resource guidelines of the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court

Judges, titled “Resource Guidelines: Improving Court Practice in Child Abuse & Neglect Cases.” The guidelines are meant to be goals to help courts achieve, among other objectives, the following:

- (1) Adherence to statutory timelines;
- (2) Effective calendar management;
- (3) Effective representation by counsel;
- (4) Child-friendly court facilities;
- (5) Timely and thorough reports and services to ensure informed judicial decisions, including reasonable efforts findings; and
- (6) Minimum time allocations for specified hearings.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Distribution of guidelines

Judicial Council staff will distribute a copy of the resource guidelines to each juvenile court and will provide individual copies to judicial officers and court administrators on written request.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2016; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 5.45 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as sec. 24.5 effective July 1, 1997; previously amended and renumbered as standard 5.45 effective January 1, 2007.

Advisory Committee Comment

Child abuse and neglect cases impose a special obligation on juvenile court judges to oversee case progress. Case oversight includes monitoring the agency’s fulfillment of its responsibilities and parental cooperation with the case plan. Court involvement in child welfare cases occurs simultaneously with agency efforts to assist the family. Federal and state legal mandates assign to the juvenile court a series of interrelated and complex decisions that shape the course of state intervention and determine the future of the child and family.

Unlike almost all other types of cases in the court system, child abuse and neglect cases deal with an ongoing and changing situation. In a child welfare case, the court must focus on agency casework and parental behavior over an extended period of time. In making a decision, the court must take into account the agency’s plan to help the family and anticipated changes in parental behavior. At the same time, the court must consider the evolving circumstances and needs of each child.

The purpose of these resource guidelines is to specify the essential elements of properly conducted court hearings. The guidelines describe the requirements of juvenile courts in fulfilling their oversight role under federal and state laws, and they specify the necessary elements of a fair, thorough, and speedy court process in child abuse and neglect cases. The guidelines cover all stages of the court process, from the initial removal hearing to the end of juvenile court involvement. These guidelines assume that the court will remain involved until after the child has been safely returned home, has been placed in another permanent home, or has reached adulthood.

Currently, juvenile courts in California operate under the same juvenile court law and rules, and yet the rules are implemented with considerable variation throughout the state. In part, this is due to the lack of resource guidelines. The adoption of the proposed resource guidelines will help encourage more consistent juvenile court procedures in the state.

The guidelines are meant to be goals, and, as such, some of them may appear out of reach because of fiscal constraints or lack of judicial and staff resources. The Judicial Council Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee and Judicial Council staff are committed to providing technical assistance to each juvenile court to aid in implementing these goals.

Title 6. [Reserved]

Title 7. Standards for Probate Proceedings

Standard 7.10. Settlements or judgments in certain civil cases involving minors or persons with disabilities

Standard 7.10. Settlements or judgments in certain civil cases involving minors or persons with disabilities

In matters assigned to or pending in civil departments of the court where court approval of trusts that will receive proceeds of settlements or judgments is required under Probate Code section 3600, each court should develop practices and procedures that:

- (1) Provide for determination of the trust issues by the probate department of the court or, in a court that does not have a probate department, a judicial officer who regularly hears proceedings under the Probate Code; or
- (2) Ensure that judicial officers who hear these matters are experienced or have received training in substantive and technical issues involving trusts (including special needs trusts).

Title 8. Standards for the Appellate Courts

Standard 8.1. Memorandum opinions

Standard 8.1. Memorandum opinions

The Courts of Appeal should dispose of causes that raise no substantial issues of law or fact by memorandum or other abbreviated form of opinion. Such causes could include:

- (1) An appeal that is determined by a controlling statute which is not challenged for unconstitutionality and does not present any substantial question of interpretation or application;
- (2) An appeal that is determined by a controlling decision which does not require a reexamination or restatement of its principles or rules; or
- (3) An appeal raising factual issues that are determined by the substantial evidence rule.

Standard 10.5. The role of the judiciary in the community

(a) Community outreach an official judicial function

Judicial participation in community outreach activities should be considered an official judicial function to promote public understanding of and confidence in the administration of justice. This function should be performed in a manner consistent with the California Code of Judicial Ethics.

(Subd (a) lettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as part of unlettered subdivision effective April 1, 1999.)

(b) Encouraged outreach activities

The judiciary is encouraged to:

- (1) Provide active leadership within the community in identifying and resolving issues of access to justice within the court system;
- (2) Develop local education programs for the public designed to increase public understanding of the court system;
- (3) Create local mechanisms for obtaining information from the public about how the court system may be more responsive to the public's needs;
- (4) Serve as guest speakers, during or after normal court hours, to address local civic, educational, business, and charitable groups that have an interest in understanding the court system but do not espouse a particular political agenda with which it would be inappropriate for a judicial officer to be associated; and
- (5) Take an active part in the life of the community where the participation of the judiciary will serve to increase public understanding and promote public confidence in the integrity of the court system.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 10.5 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 39 effective April 1, 1999.

Standard 10.16. Model code of ethics for court employees

Each trial and appellate court should adopt a code of ethical behavior for its support staff, and in doing so should consider rule 10.670(c)(12) of the California Rules of Court, and the model Code of Ethics for the Court Employees of California approved by the Judicial Council on May 17, 1994, and any subsequent revisions. The approved model code is published by the Judicial Council.

Standard 10.16 amended effective January 1, 2016; adopted as sec. 35 effective July 1, 1994; previously amended and renumbered as standard 10.16 effective January 1, 2007; previously amended effective July 1, 2008.

Standard 10.17. Trial court performance standards

(a) Purpose

These standards are intended to be used by trial courts, in cooperation with the Judicial Council, for purposes of internal evaluation, self-assessment, and self-improvement. They are not intended as a basis for cross-court comparisons, nor are they intended as a basis for evaluating the performance of individual judges.

(Subd (a) lettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as part of unlettered subdivision effective January 25, 1995.)

(b) Standards

The standards for trial court performance are as follows:

(1) Access to justice

- (A) The court conducts its proceedings and other public business openly.
- (B) Court facilities are safe, accessible, and convenient to use.
- (C) All who appear before the court are given the opportunity to participate effectively without undue hardship or inconvenience.
- (D) Judges and other trial court personnel are courteous and responsive to the public and accord respect to all with whom they come into contact.
- (E) The costs of access to the trial court's proceedings and records—whether measured in terms of money, time, or the procedures that must be followed—are reasonable, fair, and affordable.

(2) Expedition and timeliness

- (A) The trial court establishes and complies with recognized guidelines for timely case processing while, at the same time, keeping current with its incoming caseload.
- (B) The trial court disburses funds promptly, provides reports and information according to required schedules, and responds to requests for information and other services on an established schedule that assures their effective use.

- (C) The trial court promptly implements changes in law and procedure.

(3) Equality, fairness, and integrity

- (A) Trial court procedures faithfully adhere to relevant laws, procedural rules, and established policies.
- (B) Jury lists are representative of the jurisdiction from which they are drawn.
- (C) Trial courts give individual attention to cases, deciding them without undue disparity among like cases and on legally relevant factors.
- (D) Decisions of the trial court unambiguously address the issues presented to it and make clear how compliance can be achieved.
- (E) The trial court takes appropriate responsibility for the enforcement of its orders.
- (F) Records of all relevant court decisions and actions are accurate and properly preserved.

(4) Independence and accountability

- (A) A trial court maintains its institutional integrity and observes the principle of comity in its governmental relations.
- (B) The trial court responsibly seeks, uses, and accounts for its public resources.
- (C) The trial court uses fair employment practices.
- (D) The trial court informs the community of its programs.
- (E) The trial court anticipates new conditions or emergent events and adjusts its operations as necessary.

(5) Public trust and confidence

- (A) The trial court and the justice it delivers are perceived by the public as accessible.

- (B) The public has trust and confidence that the basic trial court functions are conducted expeditiously and fairly and that its decisions have integrity.
- (C) The trial court is perceived to be independent, not unduly influenced by other components of government, and accountable.

(Subd (b) lettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as part of unlettered subdivision effective January 25, 1995.)

Standard 10.17 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 30 effective January 25, 1995.

Standard 10.20. Court’s duty to prevent bias

(a) Statement of purpose

The California judicial branch is committed to ensuring the integrity and impartiality of the judicial system and to court interactions free of bias and the appearance of bias. Consistent with this commitment, each court should work within its community to improve dialogue and engagement with members of various cultures, backgrounds, and groups to learn, understand, and appreciate the unique qualities and needs of each group.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2022; previously amended effective January 1, 1994, January 1, 1998, and January 1, 2007.)

(b) Duty to ensure integrity and impartiality of the judicial system

Each court, its judicial officers, and its employees have the duty to ensure the integrity and impartiality of the judicial system.

(1) Refrain from and prevent biased conduct

In all court interactions, each court, its judicial officers, and its employees should refrain from engaging in conduct and should take action to prevent others from engaging in conduct that exhibits bias, including but not limited to bias based on age, ancestry, color, ethnicity, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, marital status, medical condition, military or veteran status, national origin, physical or mental disability, political affiliation, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, and any other classification protected by federal or state law, including Government Code section 12940(a) and Code of Judicial Ethics, canon 3(B)(5), whether that bias is directed toward counsel, court staff, witnesses, parties, jurors, or any other person. The court, judicial officers, and court employees may consider such classifications only if necessary or relevant to the proper exercise of their adjudicatory or administrative functions.

(2) Ensure fairness

Each judicial officer should ensure that courtroom interactions are conducted in a manner that is fair and impartial to all persons.

(3) Ensure unbiased decisions

Each judicial officer should ensure that all orders, rulings, and decisions are based on the sound exercise of judicial discretion and the balancing of competing rights and interests and are not influenced by stereotypes or biases.

(Subd (b) adopted effective January 1, 2022.)

(c) Creation of local or regional committees on bias courts should collaborate with local bar associations to establish a local or regional committee. Trial courts may choose to form a regional committee. Appellate courts may choose to form separate or joint appellate court committees or join a trial court committee or regional committee formed by or composed of trial courts within the appellate courts' districts. Each committee should:

- (1) Be composed of representative members of the court community, including but not limited to judicial officers, lawyers, court administrators, and individuals who interact with the court and reflect and represent the diverse and various needs and viewpoints of court users;
- (2) Sponsor or support educational programs designed to eliminate unconscious and explicit biases within the court and legal communities. Education is critical to developing an awareness of the origins of bias and the impact of bias on individuals, culture, and society. Education should include:
 - (A) Information as to bias based on the protected classifications listed in (b)(1);
 - (B) Information regarding how unconscious and explicit biases based on these classifications develop, how to recognize unconscious and explicit biases, and how to address and eliminate unconscious and explicit biases; and
 - (C) Other topics on bias relevant to the local community informed by the committee's independent assessment of the unique educational needs in that community.

- (3) Engage in regular outreach to the local community to learn about issues of importance to court users. Specifically, committee members should be encouraged to:
 - (A) Inform local community groups regarding the committee's activities; and
 - (B) Seek information from the local community regarding concerns as to bias in court interactions and how the court can address those concerns.

(Subd (c) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2022; adopted as Subd (b) effective January 1, 1994; previously amended effective January 1, 1998, and January 1, 2007.)

(d) Information regarding complaint procedures

Each court should effectively communicate to its court users regarding existing procedures to submit complaints of bias in court interactions based on protected classifications, as listed in (b)(1). This should include information regarding how to submit complaints about court employees directly to the court and how to submit complaints about judicial officers either directly to the court or to the Commission on Judicial Performance. Possible methods of communication include providing this information on the court website, including the information in the court's local rules, displaying the information in courthouses, or any other similar method to ensure that courts are providing complaint procedure information to court users in a meaningful and accessible manner.

(Subd (d) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2022; adopted as Subd (c) effective January 1, 1994; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Application of local rules

The existence of the local committee, and its purpose should be memorialized in the applicable local rules of court.

(Subd (e) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2022; adopted as Subd (d) effective January 1, 1994; previously amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(f) Implementation

All courts should implement the recommendations of this standard as soon as possible.

(Subd (f) adopted effective January 1, 2022.)

Standard 10.20 amended effective January 1, 2022; adopted as sec. 1 effective January 1, 1987; previously amended effective January 1, 1994, and January 1, 1998; amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (b). An earlier version of this standard referred to the “court’s duty to prohibit bias.” The word “prohibit” has been replaced with “prevent” in the title of the standard and in subdivision (b), such that the standard now asks courts, judicial officers, and court employees to take actions to prevent bias rather than prohibit bias. This change reflects a more comprehensive approach in how courts are to combat bias, focusing on understanding the many forms, causes, and impacts of bias rather than simply forbidding it. Preventing bias may include, for example, prohibiting bias; encouraging judicial officers, employees, and court users to report bias; being open to discussing and learning from real misunderstandings and instances of unconscious bias; and focusing on robust education regarding how unconscious and explicit biases develop, how to recognize them, and how to address and eliminate bias.

The judicial officer duties stated in this subdivision are consistent with the California Code of Judicial Ethics, which addresses judicial officer responsibilities for performing judicial duties without bias, prejudice, or harassment (canon 3(B)(5)); for requiring attorneys in proceedings before the judicial officer to refrain from manifesting bias, prejudice, or harassment (canon 3(B)(6)); for discharging judicial administrative duties without bias or prejudice (canon 3(C)(1)); and for requiring staff and court personnel under the judicial officer’s control to refrain from manifesting bias, prejudice, or harassment in the performance of their duties (canon 3(C)(3)).

An earlier version of this standard applied solely to judges and referred to “courtroom proceedings.” “Judge” has been expanded to “judicial officers,” which includes all judges as defined by California Rules of Court, rule 1.6, and all appellate and Supreme Court justices. The expanded phrase broadly covers any judge, justice, subordinate judicial officer, or temporary judge who might conduct a courtroom proceeding. Additionally, in subdivision (b)(1), “courtroom proceedings” has been changed to “court interactions” to expand the scope of proceedings and actions covered by this standard to include not only proceedings occurring in courtrooms but also interactions in other areas of the court, including in the clerk’s office and at public counters.

Subdivision (d). An earlier version of this standard encouraged local bias committees to create informal complaint procedures for court users and members of the public to submit complaints regarding bias in court proceedings. The recommendation that local bias committees create informal complaint procedures has been eliminated in large part because of the many existing and updated avenues for making complaints regarding bias in court interactions, and to avoid creating conflicts between those procedures. For example, the authority and procedures for addressing complaints concerning judicial officers and subordinate judicial officers are outlined in rules 10.603 and 10.703 of the California Rules of Court and canon 3(D) of the California Code of Judicial Ethics. Similarly, rules 10.351 and 10.610 of the California Rules of Court, as well as Government Code section 71650 et seq., include authority and complaint resolution processes for addressing complaints against court employees. In practice, courts have developed robust procedures for addressing such complaints against judicial officers, subordinate judicial officers, and court employees, and the Commission on Judicial Performance provides detailed information on its website at cjp.ca.gov about how to file complaints and the procedures it employs for addressing such complaints.

In addition to the concerns regarding duplicative and conflicting complaint procedures, the recommendation that local bias committees adopt informal complaint procedures created additional concerns. For example, the earlier version of the standard envisioned using informal complaint procedures to resolve incidents that do not warrant formal discipline; however, it is often difficult to determine at the outset if a complaint is disciplinary in nature or can be ameliorated by education. Other due process concerns were raised that local committees were not necessarily resourced to make these determinations, and may not have had the expertise to investigate and resolve these complaints. Additional concerns were raised that having local committees oversee complaints against judicial officers and court employees created privacy and confidentiality concerns for both complainants and respondents because any inquiry by a local bias committee would be known and resolved by a group of local attorneys, judicial officers, and other committee members who would necessarily need to know the particular facts of the complaint, thereby significantly expanding the number of local individuals who were aware of the existence or details of the complaint. Ethical concerns were also raised for judicial officers who were members of the local bias committees because judicial officers who become aware of complaints against other judicial officers may have ethical obligations that require them to take appropriate corrective action, which may include reporting the information to the presiding judge or justice or the Commission on Judicial Performance. Finally, there were concerns that local bias committee complaint procedures would conflict with existing personnel policies and labor relations agreements if the local committee attempted to resolve complaints against court employees outside of the procedures outlined in these policy documents.

This standard does not prevent courts and local or regional bias committees from choosing to create informal complaint resolution procedures. Some local bias committees have established effective informal complaint resolution procedures for resolving complaints against judicial officers, and each local court and local or regional bias committee should work to find solutions that work best for that local community. If so, they should fully consider how best to address the above concerns. Because of the specific labor and employment laws governing courts and court employees, including the direction provided in rule 10.351 of the California Rules of Court, and the fact that courts already have personnel policies and memorandums of understanding that govern complaints against court employees, having local or regional bias committees resolve complaints against court employees is not recommended.

Standard 10.21. Appointment of attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons

(a) Nondiscrimination in appointment lists

In establishing and maintaining lists of qualified attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons who are eligible for appointment, courts should ensure equal access for all applicants regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, or age.

(b) Nondiscrimination in recruitment

Each trial court should conduct a recruitment procedure for the appointment of attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons appointed by the court (the “appointment programs”) by publicizing the existence of the appointment programs at least once annually through state and local bar associations, including specialty bar associations. This publicity should encourage and provide an opportunity for all eligible individuals, regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, or age, to seek positions on the rosters of the appointment programs. Each trial court also should use other methods of publicizing the appointment programs that maximize the opportunity for a diverse applicant pool.

(c) Nondiscrimination in application and selection procedure

Each trial court should conduct an application and selection procedure for the appointment programs that ensures that the most qualified applicants for an appointment are selected, regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, or age.

(Subd (c) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 10.21 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 1.5 effective January 1, 1999.

Standard 10.24. Children's waiting room

Each court should endeavor to provide a children's waiting room located in the courthouse for the use of minors under the age of 16 who are present on court premises as participants or who accompany persons who are participants in court proceedings. The waiting room should be supervised and open during normal court hours. If a court does not have sufficient space in the courthouse for a children's waiting room, the court should create the necessary space when court facilities are reorganized or remodeled or when new facilities are constructed.

Standard 10.24 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 1.3 effective January 1, 1987.

Standard 10.25. Reasonable accommodation for court personnel

At least to the extent required by state and federal law, each court should evaluate existing facilities, programs, and services available to employees to ensure that no barriers exist to prevent otherwise-qualified employees with known disabilities from performing their jobs or participating fully in court programs or activities.

Standard 10.25 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 1.4 effective January 1, 1998.

Standard 10.31. Master jury list

The jury commissioner should use the National Change of Address System or other comparable means to update jury source lists and create as accurate a master jury list as reasonably practical.

Standard 10.31 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 4.6 effective July 1, 1997.

Standard 10.41. Court sessions at or near state penal institutions

(a) Provision of adequate protection

Facilities used regularly for judicial proceedings should not be located on the grounds of or immediately adjacent to a state penal institution unless the location, design, and setting of the court facility provide adequate protection against the possible adverse influence that the prison facilities and activities might have on the fairness of judicial proceedings.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(b) Factors to be considered

In determining whether adequate protection is provided, the following factors should be considered:

- (1) The physical and visual remoteness of the court facility from the facilities and activities of the prison;
- (2) The location and appearance of the court facility with respect to the adjacent public areas through which jurors and witnesses would normally travel in going to and from the court;
- (3) The accessibility of the facility to the press and the general public; and
- (4) Any other factors that might affect the fairness of the judicial proceedings.

(Subd (b) lettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as part of subd (a) effective July 1, 1975.)

(c) Compelling reasons of safety or court convenience

Unless the location, design, and setting of the facility for conducting court sessions meet the criteria in (a) and (b):

- (1) Court sessions should not be conducted in or immediately adjacent to a state penal institution except for compelling reasons of safety or convenience of the court; and
- (2) Court sessions should not be conducted at such a location when the trial is by jury or when the testimony of witnesses who are neither inmates nor employees of the institution will be required.

(Subd (c) amended and relettered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as subd (b) effective July 1, 1975.)

Standard 10.41 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 7.5 effective July 1, 1975.

Standard 10.50. Selection of regular grand jury

(a) Definition

“Regular grand jury” means a body of citizens of a county selected by the court to investigate matters of civil concern in the county, whether or not that body has jurisdiction to return indictments.

(b) Regular grand jury list

The list of qualified candidates prepared by the jury commissioner to be considered for nomination to the regular grand jury should be obtained by one or more of the following methods:

- (1) Names of members of the public obtained at random in the same manner as the list of trial jurors. However, the names obtained for nomination to the regular grand jury should be kept separate and distinct from the trial jury list, consistent with Penal Code section 899.
- (2) Recommendations for grand jurors that encompass a cross-section of the county’s population base, solicited from a broad representation of community-based organizations, civic leaders, and superior court judges, referees, and commissioners.
- (3) Applications from interested citizens solicited through the media or a mass mailing.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(c) Carryover grand jurors

The court is encouraged to consider carryover grand jury selections under Penal Code section 901(b) to ensure broad-based representation.

(d) Nomination of grand jurors

Judges who nominate persons for grand jury selection under Penal Code section 903.4 are encouraged to select candidates from the list returned by the jury commissioner or to otherwise employ a nomination procedure that will ensure broad-based representation from the community.

(Subd (d) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

(e) Disfavored nominations

Judges should not nominate to the grand jury a spouse or immediate family member (within the first degree of consanguinity) of any superior court judge, commissioner, or referee; elected official; or department head of any city, county, or governmental entity subject to grand jury scrutiny.

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2007.)

Standard 10.50 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 17 effective July 1, 1992.

Standard 10.51. Juror complaints

Each court should establish a reasonable mechanism for receiving and responding to juror complaints.

Standard 10.51 renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 4.5 effective July 1, 1997.

Standard 10.55. Local program on waste reduction and recycling

Each court should adopt a program for waste reduction and recycling or participate in a county program.

Standard 10.55 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 17.5 effective January 1, 1991.

Standard 10.70. Implementation and coordination of mediation and other alternative dispute resolution (ADR) programs

(a) Implementation of mediation programs for civil cases

Superior courts should implement mediation programs for civil cases as part of their core operations.

(Subd (a) adopted effective January 1, 2006.)

(b) Promotion of ADR programs

Superior courts should promote the development, implementation, maintenance, and expansion of successful mediation and other alternative dispute resolution (ADR) programs, through activities that include:

- (1) Establishing appropriate criteria for determining which cases should be referred to ADR, and what ADR processes are appropriate for those cases. These criteria should include whether the parties are likely to benefit from the use of the ADR process;

- (2) Developing, refining, and using lists of qualified ADR neutrals;
- (3) Adopting appropriate criteria for referring cases to qualified ADR neutrals;
- (4) Developing ADR information and providing educational programs for parties who are not represented by counsel; and
- (5) Providing ADR education for judicial officers.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2007; adopted as unlettered subdivision effective July 1, 1992; lettered and amended effective January 1, 2006.)

(c) Coordination of ADR programs

Superior courts should coordinate ADR promotional activities and explore joint funding and administration of ADR programs with each other and with professional and community-based organizations.

(Subd (c) adopted effective January 1, 2006.)

Standard 10.70 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 32 effective July 1, 1992; previously amended effective January 1, 2006.

Standard 10.71. Alternative dispute resolution (ADR) committees

Courts that are not required and that do not elect to have an ADR administrative committee as provided in rule 10.783 of the California Rules of Court should form committees of judges, attorneys, alternative dispute resolution (ADR) neutrals, and county ADR administrators, if any, to oversee the court's ADR programs and panels of neutrals for general civil cases.

Standard 10.71 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 32.1 effective January 1, 2006.

Standard 10.72. ADR committees and criteria for referring cases to dispute resolution neutrals

(a) Training, experience, and skills

Courts should evaluate the ADR training, experience, and skills of potential ADR neutrals.

(Subd (a) amended effective January 1, 2006.)

(b) Additional considerations for continuing referrals

After a court has sufficient experience with an ADR neutral, the court should also consider indicators of client satisfaction, settlement rate, continuing ADR education, and adherence to applicable standards of conduct in determining whether to continue referrals to that neutral.

(Subd (b) amended effective January 1, 2006.)

Standard 10.72 amended and renumbered effective January 1, 2007; adopted as sec. 33 effective July 1, 1992; previously amended effective January 1, 2006.

Advisory Committee Comment

Although settlement rate is an important indicator of a neutral's effectiveness, it should be borne in mind that some disputes will not resolve, despite the best efforts of a skilled neutral. Neutrals should not feel pressure to achieve a high settlement rate through resolutions that may not be in the interest of one or more parties. Accordingly, settlement rate should be used with caution as a criterion for court referral of disputes to neutrals.

Ethics Standards for Neutral Arbitrators in Contractual Arbitration

The Ethics Standards for Neutral Arbitrators in Contractual Arbitration were adopted by the Judicial Council effective July, 2002, and further substantially amended and reorganized effective January 1, 2003.

Standard 1. Purpose, intent, and construction

Standard 2. Definitions

Standard 3. Application and effective date

Standard 4. Duration of duty

Standard 5. General duty

Standard 6. Duty to refuse appointment

Standard 7. Disclosure

Standard 8. Additional disclosures in consumer arbitrations administered by a provider organization

Standard 9. Arbitrators' duty to inform themselves about matters to be disclosed

Standard 10. Disqualification

Standard 11. Duty to refuse gift, bequest, or favor

Standard 12. Duties and limitations regarding future professional relationships or employment

Standard 13. Conduct of proceeding

Standard 14. Ex parte communications

Standard 15. Confidentiality

Standard 16. Compensation

Standard 17. Marketing

Standard 1. Purpose, intent, and construction

- (a) These standards are adopted under the authority of Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.85 and establish the minimum standards of conduct for neutral arbitrators who are subject to these standards. They are intended to guide the conduct of arbitrators, to inform and protect participants in arbitration, and to promote public confidence in the arbitration process.
- (b) For arbitration to be effective there must be broad public confidence in the integrity and fairness of the process. Arbitrators are responsible to the parties, the other participants, and the public for conducting themselves in accordance with these standards so as to merit that confidence.

- (c) These standards are to be construed and applied to further the purpose and intent expressed in subdivisions (a) and (b) and in conformance with all applicable law.
- (d) These standards are not intended to affect any existing civil cause of action or create any new civil cause of action.

Comment to Standard 1

Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.85 provides that, beginning July 1, 2002, a person serving as a neutral arbitrator pursuant to an arbitration agreement shall comply with the ethics standards for arbitrators adopted by the Judicial Council pursuant to that section.

While the grounds for vacating an arbitration award are established by statute, not these standards, an arbitrator's violation of these standards may, under some circumstances, fall within one of those statutory grounds. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 1286.2.) A failure to disclose within the time required for disclosure a ground for disqualification of which the arbitrator was then aware is a ground for vacatur of the arbitrator's award. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 1286.2(a)(6)(A).) Violations of other obligations under these standards may also constitute grounds for vacating an arbitration award under section 1286.2(a)(3) if "the rights of the party were substantially prejudiced" by the violation.

While vacatur may be an available remedy for violation of these standards, these standards are not intended to affect any civil cause of action that may currently exist nor to create any new civil cause of action. These standards are also not intended to establish a ceiling on what is considered good practice in arbitration or to discourage efforts to educate arbitrators about best practices.

Standard 2. Definitions

As used in these standards:

(a) Arbitrator and neutral arbitrator

- (1) "Arbitrator" and "neutral arbitrator" mean any arbitrator who is subject to these standards and who is to serve impartially, whether selected or appointed:
 - (A) Jointly by the parties or by the arbitrators selected by the parties;
 - (B) By the court, when the parties or the arbitrators selected by the parties fail to select an arbitrator who was to be selected jointly by them; or
 - (C) By a dispute resolution provider organization, under an agreement of the parties.

- (2) Where the context includes events or acts occurring before an appointment is final, “arbitrator” and “neutral arbitrator” include a person who has been served with notice of a proposed nomination or appointment. For purposes of these standards, “proposed nomination” does not include nomination of persons by a court under Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.6 to be considered for possible selection as an arbitrator by the parties or appointment as an arbitrator by the court.

(Subd (a) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

- (b) “Applicable law” means constitutional provisions, statutes, decisional law, California Rules of Court, and other statewide rules or regulations that apply to arbitrators who are subject to these standards.
- (c) “Conclusion of the arbitration” means the following:
 - (1) When the arbitrator is disqualified or withdraws or the case is settled or dismissed before the arbitrator makes an award, the date on which the arbitrator’s appointment is terminated;
 - (2) When the arbitrator makes an award and no party makes a timely application to the arbitrator to correct the award, the final date for making an application to the arbitrator for correction; or
 - (3) When a party makes a timely application to the arbitrator to correct the award, the date on which the arbitrator serves a corrected award or a denial on each party, or the date on which denial occurs by operation of law.
- (d) “Consumer arbitration” means an arbitration conducted under a predispute arbitration provision contained in a contract that meets the criteria listed in paragraphs (1) through (3) below. “Consumer arbitration” excludes arbitration proceedings conducted under or arising out of public or private sector labor-relations laws, regulations, charter provisions, ordinances, statutes, or agreements.
 - (1) The contract is with a consumer party, as defined in these standards;
 - (2) The contract was drafted by or on behalf of the nonconsumer party; and
 - (3) The consumer party was required to accept the arbitration provision in the contract.

- (e) “Consumer party” is a party to an arbitration agreement who, in the context of that arbitration agreement, is any of the following:
- (1) An individual who seeks or acquires, including by lease, any goods or services primarily for personal, family, or household purposes including, but not limited to, financial services, insurance, and other goods and services as defined in section 1761 of the Civil Code;
 - (2) An individual who is an enrollee, a subscriber, or insured in a health-care service plan within the meaning of section 1345 of the Health and Safety Code or health-care insurance plan within the meaning of section 106 of the Insurance Code;
 - (3) An individual with a medical malpractice claim that is subject to the arbitration agreement; or
 - (4) An employee or an applicant for employment in a dispute arising out of or relating to the employee’s employment or the applicant’s prospective employment that is subject to the arbitration agreement.
- (f) “Dispute resolution neutral” means a temporary judge appointed under article VI, section 21 of the California Constitution, a referee appointed under Code of Civil Procedure section 638 or 639, an arbitrator, a neutral evaluator, a special master, a mediator, a settlement officer, or a settlement facilitator.
- (g) “Dispute resolution provider organization” and “provider organization” mean any nongovernmental entity that, or individual who, coordinates, administers, or provides the services of two or more dispute resolution neutrals.
- (h) “Domestic partner” means a domestic partner as defined in Family Code section 297.
- (i) “Financial interest” means a financial interest within the meaning of Code of Civil Procedure section 170.5.
- (j) “Gift” means a gift as defined in Code of Civil Procedure section 170.9(l).
- (k) “Honoraria” means honoraria as defined in Code of Civil Procedure section 170.9(h) and (i).
- (l) “Lawyer in the arbitration” means the lawyer hired to represent a party in the arbitration.

- (m) “Lawyer for a party” means the lawyer hired to represent a party in the arbitration and any lawyer or law firm currently associated in the practice of law with the lawyer hired to represent a party in the arbitration.
- (n) “Member of the arbitrator’s immediate family” means the arbitrator’s spouse or domestic partner and any minor child living in the arbitrator’s household.
- (o) “Member of the arbitrator’s extended family” means the parents, grandparents, great-grandparents, children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, siblings, uncles, aunts, nephews, and nieces of the arbitrator or the arbitrator’s spouse or domestic partner or the spouse or domestic partner of such person.

(Subd (o) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(p) Party

- (1) “Party” means a party to the arbitration agreement:
 - (A) Who seeks to arbitrate a controversy pursuant to the agreement;
 - (B) Against whom such arbitration is sought; or
 - (C) Who is made a party to such arbitration by order of a court or the arbitrator upon such party’s application, upon the application of any other party to the arbitration, or upon the arbitrator’s own determination.
- (2) “Party” includes the representative of a party, unless the context requires a different meaning.
- (q) “Party-arbitrator” means an arbitrator selected unilaterally by a party.
- (r) “Private practice of law” means private practice of law as defined in Code of Civil Procedure section 170.5.
- (s) “Significant personal relationship” includes a close personal friendship.

Standard 2 amended effective July 1, 2014.

Comment to Standard 2

Subdivision (a). The definition of “arbitrator” and “neutral arbitrator” in this standard is intended to include all arbitrators who are to serve in a neutral and impartial manner and to exclude unilaterally selected arbitrators.

Subdivisions (l) and (m). Arbitrators should take special care to note that there are two different terms used in these standards to refer to lawyers who represent parties in the arbitration. In particular, arbitrators should note that the term “lawyer for a party” includes any lawyer or law firm currently associated in the practice of law with the lawyer hired to represent a party in the arbitration.

Subdivision (p)(2). While this provision generally permits an arbitrator to provide required information or notices to a party’s attorney as that party’s representative, a party’s attorney should not be treated as a “party” for purposes of identifying matters that an arbitrator must disclose under standards 7 or 8, as those standards contain separate, specific requirements concerning the disclosure of relationships with a party’s attorney.

Other terms that may be pertinent to these standards are defined in Code of Civil Procedure section 1280.

Standard 3. Application and effective date

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this standard and standard 8, these standards apply to all persons who are appointed to serve as neutral arbitrators on or after July 1, 2002, in any arbitration under an arbitration agreement, if:

- (1) The arbitration agreement is subject to the provisions of title 9 of part III of the Code of Civil Procedure (commencing with section 1280); or
- (2) The arbitration hearing is to be conducted in California.

(b) These standards do not apply to:

- (1) Party arbitrators, as defined in these standards; or
- (2) Any arbitrator serving in:
 - (A) An international arbitration proceeding subject to the provisions of title 9.3 of part III of the Code of Civil Procedure;
 - (B) A judicial arbitration proceeding subject to the provisions of chapter 2.5 of title 3 of part III of the Code of Civil Procedure;

- (C) An attorney-client fee arbitration proceeding subject to the provisions of article 13 of chapter 4 of division 3 of the Business and Professions Code;
- (D) An automobile warranty dispute resolution process certified under California Code of Regulations title 16, division 33.1 or an informal dispute settlement procedure under Code of Federal Regulations title 16, chapter 1, part 703;
- (E) An arbitration of a workers' compensation dispute under Labor Code sections 5270 through 5277;
- (F) An arbitration conducted by the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board under Labor Code section 5308;
- (G) An arbitration of a complaint filed against a contractor with the Contractors State License Board under Business and Professions Code sections 7085 through 7085.7;
- (H) An arbitration conducted under or arising out of public or private sector labor-relations laws, regulations, charter provisions, ordinances, statutes, or agreements; or
- (I) An arbitration proceeding governed by rules adopted by a securities self-regulatory organization and approved by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission under federal law.

(Subd (b) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

- (c) The following persons are not subject to the standards or to specific amendments to the standards in certain arbitrations:
 - (1) Persons who are serving in arbitrations in which they were appointed to serve as arbitrators before July 1, 2002, are not subject to these standards in those arbitrations.
 - (2) Persons who are serving in arbitrations in which they were appointed to serve as arbitrators before January 1, 2003, are not subject to standard 8 in those arbitrations.
 - (3) Persons who are serving in arbitrations in which they were appointed to serve as arbitrators before July 1, 2014, are not subject to the amendments to standards 2, 7, 8, 12, 16, and 17 that took effect July 1, 2014 in those arbitrations.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

Standard 3 amended effective July 1, 2014.

Comment to Standard 3

With the exception of standard 8 and the amendments to standards 2, 7, 8, 12, 16, and 17 that took effect July 1, 2014, these standards apply to all neutral arbitrators appointed on or after July 1, 2002, who meet the criteria of subdivision (a). Arbitration provider organizations, although not themselves subject to these standards, should be aware of them when performing administrative functions that involve arbitrators who are subject to these standards. A provider organization's policies and actions should facilitate, not impede, compliance with the standards by arbitrators who are affiliated with the provider organization.

Subdivision (b)(2)(I) is intended to implement the decisions of the California Supreme Court in Jevne v. Superior Court ((2005) 35 Cal.4th 935) and of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in Credit Suisse First Boston Corp. v. Grunwald ((9th Cir. 2005) 400 F.3d 1119).

Standard 4. Duration of duty

- (a) Except as otherwise provided in these standards, an arbitrator must comply with these ethics standards from acceptance of appointment until the conclusion of the arbitration.
- (b) If, after the conclusion of the arbitration, a case is referred back to the arbitrator for reconsideration or rehearing, the arbitrator must comply with these ethics standards from the date the case is referred back to the arbitrator until the arbitration is again concluded.

Standard 5. General duty

An arbitrator must act in a manner that upholds the integrity and fairness of the arbitration process. He or she must maintain impartiality toward all participants in the arbitration at all times.

Comment to Standard 5

This standard establishes the overarching ethical duty of arbitrators. The remaining standards should be construed as establishing specific requirements that implement this overarching duty in particular situations.

Maintaining impartiality toward all participants during all stages of the arbitration is central to upholding the integrity and fairness of the arbitration. An arbitrator must perform his or her duties impartially, without bias or prejudice, and must not, in performing these duties, by words or conduct manifest partiality, bias, or prejudice, including but not limited to partiality, bias, or prejudice based upon race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, or the fact that a party might select the arbitrator to serve as an arbitrator in additional cases. After accepting appointment, an arbitrator should avoid entering into any relationship or acquiring any interest that might reasonably create the appearance of partiality, bias, or prejudice. An arbitrator does not become partial, biased, or prejudiced simply by having acquired knowledge of the parties, the issues or arguments, or the applicable law.

Standard 6. Duty to refuse appointment

Notwithstanding any contrary request, consent, or waiver by the parties, a proposed arbitrator must decline appointment if he or she is not able to be impartial.

Standard 7. Disclosure

(a) Intent

This standard is intended to identify the matters that must be disclosed by a person nominated or appointed as an arbitrator. To the extent that this standard addresses matters that are also addressed by statute, it is intended to include those statutory disclosure requirements, not to eliminate, reduce, or otherwise limit them.

(b) General provisions

For purposes of this standard:

(1) Collective bargaining cases excluded

The terms “cases” and “any arbitration” do not include collective bargaining cases or arbitrations conducted under or arising out of collective bargaining agreements between employers and employees or between their respective representatives.

(2) Offers of employment or professional relationship

(A) Except as provided in (B), if an arbitrator has disclosed to the parties in an arbitration that he or she will entertain offers of employment or of professional relationships from a party or lawyer for a party while the arbitration is pending as required by subdivision (b) of standard 12, the arbitrator is not also required under this standard to disclose to the parties in that arbitration any such offer from a party or lawyer for a party that he or she subsequently receives or accepts while that arbitration is pending.

- (B) In a consumer arbitration, if an arbitrator has disclosed to the parties that he or she will entertain offers of employment or of professional relationships from a party or lawyer for a party while the arbitration is pending as required by subdivision (b) of standard 12 and has informed the parties in the pending arbitration about any such offer and the acceptance of any such offer as required by subdivision (d) of standard 12, the arbitrator is not also required under this standard to disclose that offer or the acceptance of that offer to the parties in that arbitration.

(3) Names of parties in cases

When making disclosures about other pending or prior cases, in order to preserve confidentiality, it is sufficient to give the name of any party who is not a party to the pending arbitration as “claimant” or “respondent” if the party is an individual and not a business or corporate entity.

(Subd (b) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(c) Time and manner of disclosure

(1) Initial disclosure

Within 10 calendar days of service of notice of the proposed nomination or appointment, a proposed arbitrator must disclose to all parties in writing all matters listed in subdivisions (d) and (e) of this standard of which the arbitrator is then aware.

(2) Supplemental disclosure

If an arbitrator subsequently becomes aware of a matter that must be disclosed under either subdivision (d) or (e) of this standard, the arbitrator must disclose that matter to the parties in writing within 10 calendar days after the arbitrator becomes aware of the matter.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(d) Required disclosures

A proposed arbitrator or arbitrator must disclose all matters that could cause a person aware of the facts to reasonably entertain a doubt that the arbitrator would be able to be impartial, including, but not limited to, all of the following:

(1) Family relationships with party

The arbitrator or a member of the arbitrator's immediate or extended family is:

- (A) A party;
- (B) The spouse or domestic partner of a party; or
- (C) An officer, director, or trustee of a party.

(2) Family relationships with lawyer in the arbitration

(A) Current relationships

The arbitrator, or the spouse, former spouse, domestic partner, child, sibling, or parent of the arbitrator or the arbitrator's spouse or domestic partner is:

- (i) A lawyer in the arbitration;
- (ii) The spouse or domestic partner of a lawyer in the arbitration; or
- (iii) Currently associated in the private practice of law with a lawyer in the arbitration.

(B) Past relationships

The arbitrator or the arbitrator's spouse or domestic partner was associated in the private practice of law with a lawyer in the arbitration within the preceding two years.

(3) Significant personal relationship with party or lawyer for a party

The arbitrator or a member of the arbitrator's immediate family has or has had a significant personal relationship with any party or lawyer for a party.

(4) Service as arbitrator for a party or lawyer for party

(A) The arbitrator is serving or, within the preceding five years, has served:

- (i) As a neutral arbitrator in another prior or pending noncollective bargaining case involving a party to the current arbitration or a lawyer for a party.
- (ii) As a party-appointed arbitrator in another prior or pending noncollective bargaining case for either a party to the current arbitration or a lawyer for a party.
- (iii) As a neutral arbitrator in another prior or pending noncollective bargaining case in which he or she was selected by a person serving as a party-appointed arbitrator in the current arbitration.

(B) Case information

If the arbitrator is serving or has served in any of the capacities listed under (A), he or she must disclose:

- (i) The names of the parties in each prior or pending case and, where applicable, the name of the attorney representing the party in the current arbitration who is involved in the pending case, who was involved in the prior case, or whose current associate is involved in the pending case or was involved in the prior case.
- (ii) The results of each prior case arbitrated to conclusion, including the date of the arbitration award, identification of the prevailing party, the amount of monetary damages awarded, if any, and the names of the parties' attorneys.

(C) Summary of case information

If the total number of the cases disclosed under (A) is greater than five, the arbitrator must provide a summary of these cases that states:

- (i) The number of pending cases in which the arbitrator is currently serving in each capacity;
- (ii) The number of prior cases in which the arbitrator previously served in each capacity;
- (iii) The number of prior cases arbitrated to conclusion; and

- (iv) The number of such prior cases in which the party to the current arbitration, the party represented by the lawyer for a party in the current arbitration or the party represented by the party-arbitrator in the current arbitration was the prevailing party.

(5) Compensated service as other dispute resolution neutral

The arbitrator is serving or has served as a dispute resolution neutral other than an arbitrator in another pending or prior noncollective bargaining case involving a party or lawyer for a party and the arbitrator received or expects to receive any form of compensation for serving in this capacity.

(A) Time frame

For purposes of this paragraph (5), “prior case” means any case in which the arbitrator concluded his or her service as a dispute resolution neutral within two years before the date of the arbitrator’s proposed nomination or appointment.

(B) Case information

If the arbitrator is serving or has served in any of the capacities listed under this paragraph (5), he or she must disclose:

- (i) The names of the parties in each prior or pending case and, where applicable, the name of the attorney in the current arbitration who is involved in the pending case, who was involved in the prior case, or whose current associate is involved in the pending case or was involved in the prior case;
- (ii) The dispute resolution neutral capacity (mediator, referee, etc.) in which the arbitrator is serving or served in the case; and
- (iii) In each such case in which the arbitrator rendered a decision as a temporary judge or referee, the date of the decision, the prevailing party, the amount of monetary damages awarded, if any, and the names of the parties’ attorneys.

(C) Summary of case information

If the total number of cases disclosed under this paragraph (5) is greater than five, the arbitrator must also provide a summary of the cases that states:

- (i) The number of pending cases in which the arbitrator is currently serving in each capacity;
- (ii) The number of prior cases in which the arbitrator previously served in each capacity;
- (iii) The number of prior cases in which the arbitrator rendered a decision as a temporary judge or referee; and
- (iv) The number of such prior cases in which the party to the current arbitration or the party represented by the lawyer for a party in the current arbitration was the prevailing party.

(6) Current arrangements for prospective neutral service

Whether the arbitrator has any current arrangement with a party concerning prospective employment or other compensated service as a dispute resolution neutral or is participating in or, within the last two years, has participated in discussions regarding such prospective employment or service with a party.

(7) Attorney-client relationship

Any attorney-client relationship the arbitrator has or has had with a party or lawyer for a party. Attorney-client relationships include the following:

- (A) An officer, a director, or a trustee of a party is or, within the preceding two years, was a client of the arbitrator in the arbitrator's private practice of law or a client of a lawyer with whom the arbitrator is or was associated in the private practice of law;
- (B) In any other proceeding involving the same issues, the arbitrator gave advice to a party or a lawyer in the arbitration concerning any matter involved in the arbitration; and
- (C) The arbitrator served as a lawyer for or as an officer of a public agency which is a party and personally advised or in any way represented the public agency concerning the factual or legal issues in the arbitration.

(8) Employee, expert witness, or consultant relationships

The arbitrator or a member of the arbitrator's immediate family is or, within the preceding two years, was an employee of or an expert witness or a consultant for a party or for a lawyer in the arbitration.

(9) Other professional relationships

Any other professional relationship not already disclosed under paragraphs (2)–(8) that the arbitrator or a member of the arbitrator's immediate family has or has had with a party or lawyer for a party.

(10) Financial interests in party

The arbitrator or a member of the arbitrator's immediate family has a financial interest in a party.

(11) Financial interests in subject of arbitration

The arbitrator or a member of the arbitrator's immediate family has a financial interest in the subject matter of the arbitration.

(12) Affected interest

The arbitrator or a member of the arbitrator's immediate family has an interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the arbitration.

(13) Knowledge of disputed facts

The arbitrator or a member of the arbitrator's immediate or extended family has personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts relevant to the arbitration. A person who is likely to be a material witness in the proceeding is deemed to have personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding.

(14) Membership in organizations practicing discrimination

The arbitrator is a member of any organization that practices invidious discrimination on the basis of race, sex, religion, national origin, or sexual orientation. Membership in a religious organization, an official military organization of the United States, or a nonprofit youth organization need not be disclosed unless it would interfere with the arbitrator's proper conduct of the proceeding or would cause a person aware of the fact to reasonably entertain a doubt concerning the arbitrator's ability to act impartially.

(15) Any other matter that:

- (A) Might cause a person aware of the facts to reasonably entertain a doubt that the arbitrator would be able to be impartial;
- (B) Leads the proposed arbitrator to believe there is a substantial doubt as to his or her capacity to be impartial, including, but not limited to, bias or prejudice toward a party, lawyer, or law firm in the arbitration; or
- (C) Otherwise leads the arbitrator to believe that his or her disqualification will further the interests of justice.

(Subd (d) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(e) Other required disclosures

In addition to the matters that must be disclosed under subdivision (d), a proposed arbitrator or arbitrator must also disclose:

(1) Professional discipline

- (A) If the arbitrator has been disbarred or had his or her license to practice a profession or occupation revoked by a professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board, whether in California or elsewhere. The disclosure must specify the date of the revocation, what professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board revoked the license, and the reasons given by that professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board for the revocation.
- (B) If the arbitrator has resigned his or her membership in the State Bar or another professional or occupational licensing agency or board, whether in California or elsewhere, while public or private disciplinary charges were pending. The disclosure must specify the date of the resignation, what professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board had charges pending against the arbitrator at the time of the resignation, and what those charges were.
- (C) If within the preceding 10 years public discipline other than that covered under (A) has been imposed on the arbitrator by a professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board, whether in California or elsewhere. “Public discipline” under this provision means any disciplinary action imposed on the arbitrator that the professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board identifies in its publicly available records or in response to a request for information about the arbitrator from a member of the public. The disclosure must specify the date the discipline was imposed, what professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board imposed the discipline, and the reasons given by that professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board for the discipline.

(2) Inability to conduct or timely complete proceedings

- (A) If the arbitrator is not able to properly perceive the evidence or properly conduct the proceedings because of a permanent or temporary physical impairment; and
- (B) Any constraints on his or her availability known to the arbitrator that will interfere with his or her ability to commence or complete the arbitration in a timely manner.

(Subd (e) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(f) Continuing duty

An arbitrator's duty to disclose the matters described in subdivisions (d) and (e) of this standard is a continuing duty, applying from service of the notice of the arbitrator's proposed nomination or appointment until the conclusion of the arbitration proceeding.

Standard 7 amended effective July 1, 2014.

Comment to Standard 7

This standard requires proposed arbitrators to disclose to all parties, in writing within 10 days of service of notice of their proposed nomination or appointment, all matters they are aware of at that time that could cause a person aware of the facts to reasonably entertain a doubt that the proposed arbitrator would be able to be impartial as well as those matters listed under subdivision (e). This standard also requires that if arbitrators subsequently become aware of any additional such matters, they must make supplemental disclosures of these matters within 10 days of becoming aware of them. This latter requirement is intended to address both matters existing at the time of nomination or appointment of which the arbitrator subsequently becomes aware and new matters that arise based on developments during the arbitration, such as the hiring of new counsel by a party.

Timely disclosure to the parties is the primary means of ensuring the impartiality of an arbitrator. It provides the parties with the necessary information to make an informed selection of an arbitrator by disqualifying or ratifying the arbitrator following disclosure. See also standard 12, concerning disclosure and disqualification requirements relating to concurrent and subsequent employment or professional relationships between an arbitrator and a party or attorney in the arbitration. A party may disqualify an arbitrator for failure to comply with statutory disclosure obligations (see Code Civ. Proc., § 1281.91(a)). Failure to disclose, within the time required for disclosure, a ground for disqualification of which the arbitrator was then aware is a ground for vacatur of the arbitrator's award (see Code Civ. Proc., § 1286.2(a)(6)(A)).

The arbitrator's overarching duty under subdivision (d) of this standard, which mirrors the duty set forth in Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.9, is to inform parties about matters that could cause a person aware of the facts to reasonably entertain a doubt that the arbitrator would be able to be impartial. While the remaining subparagraphs of subdivision (d) require the disclosure of specific interests, relationships, or affiliations, these are only examples of common matters that could cause a person aware of the facts to reasonably entertain a doubt that the arbitrator would be able to be impartial. The fact that none of the interests, relationships, or affiliations specifically listed in the subparagraphs of (d) are present in a particular case does not necessarily mean that there is no matter that could reasonably raise a question about the arbitrator's ability to be impartial and that therefore must be disclosed. Similarly, the fact that a particular interest, relationship, or affiliation present in a case is not specifically enumerated in one of the examples given in these subparagraphs does not mean that it must not be disclosed. An arbitrator must make determinations concerning disclosure on a case-by-case basis, applying the general criteria for disclosure under subdivision (d): is the matter something that could cause a person aware of the facts to reasonably entertain a doubt that the arbitrator would be able to be impartial?

Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.85 specifically requires that the ethics standards adopted by the Judicial Council address the disclosure of interests, relationships, or affiliations that may constitute conflicts of interest, including prior service as an arbitrator or other dispute resolution neutral entity. Section 1281.85 further provides that the standards "shall be consistent with the standards established for arbitrators in the judicial arbitration program and may expand but may not limit the disclosure and disqualification requirements established by this chapter [chapter 2 of title 9 of part III, Code of Civil Procedure, sections 1281–1281.95]."

Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.9 already establishes detailed requirements concerning disclosures by arbitrators, including a specific requirement that arbitrators disclose the existence of any ground specified in Code of Civil Procedure section 170.1 for disqualification of a judge. This standard does not eliminate or otherwise limit those requirements; in large part, it simply consolidates and integrates those existing statutory disclosure requirements by topic area. This standard does, however, expand upon or clarify the existing statutory disclosure requirements in the following ways:

- Requiring arbitrators to make supplemental disclosures to the parties regarding any matter about which they become aware after the time for making an initial disclosure has

- expired, within 10 calendar days after the arbitrator becomes aware of the matter (subdivision (c)).
- Expanding required disclosures about the relationships or affiliations of an arbitrator's family members to include those of an arbitrator's domestic partner (subdivisions (d)(1) and (2); see also definitions of immediate and extended family in standard 2).
 - Requiring arbitrators, in addition to making statutorily required disclosures regarding prior service as an arbitrator for a party or attorney for a party, to disclose both prior service as a neutral arbitrator selected by a party arbitrator in the current arbitration and prior compensated service as any other type of dispute resolution neutral for a party or attorney in the arbitration (e.g., temporary judge, mediator, or referee) (subdivisions (d)(4)(A)(iii) and (5)).
 - If a disclosure includes information about five or more cases, requiring arbitrators to provide a summary of that information (subdivisions (d)(4)(C) and (5)(C)).
 - Requiring the arbitrator to disclose if he or she or a member of his or her immediate family is or, within the preceding two years, was an employee, expert witness, or consultant for a party or a lawyer in the arbitration (subdivision (d)(8)).
 - Requiring the arbitrator to disclose if he or she or a member of his or her immediate family has an interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the arbitration (subdivision (d)(12)).
 - Requiring arbitrators to disclose membership in organizations that practice invidious discrimination on the basis of race, sex, religion, national origin, or sexual orientation (subdivision (d)(14)).
 - Requiring the arbitrator to disclose if he or she was disbarred or had his or her license to practice a profession or occupation revoked by a professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board, resigned membership in the State Bar or another licensing agency or board while disciplinary charges were pending, or had any other public discipline imposed on him or her by a professional or occupational disciplinary agency or licensing board within the preceding 10 years (subdivision (e)(1)). The standard identifies the information that must be included in such a disclosure; however, arbitrators may want to provide additional information to assist parties in determining whether to disqualify an arbitrator based on such a disclosure.
 - Requiring the arbitrator to disclose any constraints on his or her availability known to the arbitrator that will interfere with his or her ability to commence or complete the arbitration in a timely manner (subdivision (e)(2)).
 - Clarifying that the duty to make disclosures is a continuing obligation, requiring disclosure of matters that were not known at the time of nomination or appointment but that become known afterward (subdivision (f)).

It is good practice for an arbitrator to ask each participant to make an effort to disclose any matters that may affect the arbitrator's ability to be impartial.

Standard 8. Additional disclosures in consumer arbitrations administered by a provider organization

(a) General provisions

(1) Reliance on information provided by provider organization

Except as to the information in (c)(1), an arbitrator may rely on information supplied by the administering provider organization in making the disclosures required by this standard only if the provider organization represents that the information the arbitrator is relying on is current through the end of the immediately preceding calendar quarter or more recent. If the information that must be disclosed is available on the Internet, the arbitrator may comply with the obligation to disclose this information by providing in the disclosure statement required under standard 7(c)(1) the Internet address of the specific web page at which the information is located and notifying the party that the arbitrator will supply hard copies of this information upon request.

(2) Reliance on representation that not a consumer arbitration

An arbitrator is not required to make the disclosures required by this standard if he or she reasonably believes that the arbitration is not a consumer arbitration based on reasonable reliance on a consumer party's representation that the arbitration is not a consumer arbitration.

(Subd (a) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(b) Additional disclosures required

In addition to the disclosures required under standard 7, in a consumer arbitration as defined in standard 2 in which a dispute resolution provider organization is coordinating, administering, or providing the arbitration services, a proposed arbitrator who is nominated or appointed as an arbitrator on or after January 1, 2003 must disclose the following within the time and in the same manner as the disclosures required under standard 7(c)(1):

(1) Relationships between the provider organization and party or lawyer in arbitration

Any significant past, present, or currently expected financial or professional relationship or affiliation between the administering dispute resolution provider organization and a party or lawyer in the arbitration. Information that must be disclosed under this standard includes:

- (A) The provider organization has a financial interest in a party.
- (B) A party, a lawyer in the arbitration, or a law firm with which a lawyer in the arbitration is currently associated is a member of or has a financial interest in the provider organization.
- (C) Within the preceding two years the provider organization has received a gift, bequest, or favor from a party, a lawyer in the arbitration, or a law firm with which a lawyer in the arbitration is currently associated.
- (D) The provider organization has entered into, or the arbitrator currently expects that the provider organization will enter into, an agreement or relationship with any party or lawyer in the arbitration or a law firm with which a lawyer in the arbitration is currently associated under which the provider organization will administer, coordinate, or provide dispute resolution services in other noncollective bargaining matters or will provide other consulting services for that party, lawyer, or law firm.
- (E) The provider organization is coordinating, administering, or providing dispute resolution services or has coordinated, administered, or provided such services in another pending or prior noncollective bargaining case in which a party or lawyer in the arbitration was a party or a lawyer. For purposes of this paragraph, “prior case” means a case in which the dispute resolution neutral affiliated with the provider organization concluded his or her service within the two years before the date of the arbitrator’s proposed nomination or appointment, but does not include any case in which the dispute resolution neutral concluded his or her service before July 1, 2002.

(2) Case information

If the provider organization is acting or has acted in any of the capacities described in paragraph (1)(E), the arbitrator must disclose:

- (A) The names of the parties in each prior or pending case and, where applicable, the name of the attorney in the current arbitration who is involved in the pending case or who was involved in the prior case;
- (B) The type of dispute resolution services (arbitration, mediation, reference, etc.) coordinated, administered, or provided by the provider organization in the case; and

- (C) In each prior case in which a dispute resolution neutral affiliated with the provider organization rendered a decision as an arbitrator, a temporary judge appointed under article VI, § 4 of the California Constitution, or a referee appointed under Code of Civil Procedure sections 638 or 639, the date of the decision, the prevailing party, the amount of monetary damages awarded, if any, and the names of the parties' attorneys.

(3) Summary of case information

If the total number of cases disclosed under paragraph (1)(E) is greater than five, the arbitrator must also provide a summary of these cases that states:

- (A) The number of pending cases in which the provider organization is currently providing each type of dispute resolution services;
- (B) The number of prior cases in which the provider organization previously provided each type of dispute resolution services;
- (C) The number of such prior cases in which a neutral affiliated with the provider organization rendered a decision as an arbitrator, a temporary judge, or a referee; and
- (D) The number of prior cases in which the party to the current arbitration or the party represented by the lawyer in the current arbitration was the prevailing party.

(Subd (b) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(c) Relationship between provider organization and arbitrator

If a relationship or affiliation is disclosed under subdivision (b), the arbitrator must also provide information about the following:

- (1) Any financial relationship or affiliation the arbitrator has with the provider organization other than receiving referrals of cases, including whether the arbitrator has a financial interest in the provider organization or is an employee of the provider organization;
- (2) The provider organization's process and criteria for recruiting, screening, and training the panel of arbitrators from which the arbitrator in this case is to be selected;

- (3) The provider organization's process for identifying, recommending, and selecting potential arbitrators for specific cases; and
- (4) Any role the provider organization plays in ruling on requests for disqualification of the arbitrator.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(d) Effective date

The provisions of this standard take effect on January 1, 2003. Persons who are serving in arbitrations in which they were appointed to serve as arbitrators before January 1, 2003, are not subject to this standard in those pending arbitrations.

Standard 8 amended effective July 1, 2014.

Comment to Standard 8

This standard only applies in consumer arbitrations in which a dispute resolution provider organization is administering the arbitration. Like standard 7, this standard expands upon the existing statutory disclosure requirements. Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.95 requires arbitrators in certain construction defect arbitrations to make disclosures concerning relationships between their employers or arbitration services and the parties in the arbitration. This standard requires arbitrators in all consumer arbitrations to disclose any financial or professional relationship between the administering provider organization and any party, attorney, or law firm in the arbitration and, if any such relationship exists, then the arbitrator must also disclose his or her relationship with the dispute resolution provider organization. This standard requires an arbitrator to disclose if the provider organization has a financial interest in a party or lawyer in the arbitration or if a party or lawyer in the arbitration has a financial interest in the provider organization even though provider organizations are prohibited under Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.92 from administering any consumer arbitration where any such relationship exists.

Subdivision (b). Currently expected relationships or affiliations that must be disclosed include all relationships or affiliations that the arbitrator, at the time the disclosure is made, expects will be formed. For example, if the arbitrator knows that the administering provider organization has agreed in concept to enter into a business relationship with a party, but they have not yet signed a written agreement formalizing that relationship, this would be a "currently expected" relationship that the arbitrator would be required to disclose.

Standard 9. Arbitrators' duty to inform themselves about matters to be disclosed

(a) General duty to inform him or herself

A person who is nominated or appointed as an arbitrator must make a reasonable effort to inform himself or herself of matters that must be disclosed under standards 7 and 8.

(b) Obligation regarding extended family

An arbitrator can fulfill the obligation under this standard to inform himself or herself of relationships or other matters involving his or her extended family and former spouse that are required to be disclosed under standard 7 by:

- (1) Seeking information about these relationships and matters from the members of his or her immediate family and any members of his or her extended family living in his or her household; and
- (2) Declaring in writing that he or she has made the inquiry in (1).

(c) Obligation regarding relationships with associates of lawyer in the arbitration

An arbitrator can fulfill the obligation under this standard to inform himself or herself of relationships with any lawyer associated in the practice of law with the lawyer in the arbitration that are required to be disclosed under standard 7 by:

- (1) Informing the lawyer in the arbitration, in writing, of all such relationships within the arbitrator's knowledge and asking the lawyer if the lawyer is aware of any other such relationships; and
- (2) Declaring in writing that he or she has made the inquiry in (1) and attaching to this declaration copies of his or her inquiry and any response from the lawyer in the arbitration.

(d) Obligation regarding service as a neutral other than an arbitrator before July 1, 2002

An arbitrator can fulfill the obligation under this standard to inform himself or herself of his or her service as a dispute resolution neutral other than as an arbitrator in cases that commenced prior to July 1, 2002 by:

- (1) Asking any dispute resolution provider organization that administered those prior services for this information; and

- (2) Declaring in writing that he or she has made the inquiry in (1) and attaching to this declaration copies of his or her inquiry and any response from the provider organization.

(e) Obligation regarding relationships with provider organization

An arbitrator can fulfill his or her obligation under this standard to inform himself or herself of the information that is required to be disclosed under standard 8 by:

- (1) Asking the dispute resolution provider organization for this information; and
- (2) Declaring in writing that he or she has made the inquiry in (1) and attaching to this declaration copies of his or her inquiry and any response from the provider organization.

Comment to Standard 9

This standard expands arbitrators existing duty of reasonable inquiry that applies with respect to financial interests under Code of Civil Procedure section 170.1(a)(3), to require arbitrators to make a reasonable effort to inform themselves about all matters that must be disclosed. This standard also clarifies what constitutes a reasonable effort by an arbitrator to inform himself or herself about specified matters, including relationships or other matters concerning his or her extended family and relationships with attorneys associated in the practice of law with the attorney in the arbitration (such as associates encompassed within the term “lawyer for a party”).

Standard 10. Disqualification

(a) An arbitrator is disqualified if:

- (1) The arbitrator fails to comply with his or her obligation to make disclosures and a party serves a notice of disqualification in the manner and within the time specified in Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.91;
- (2) The arbitrator complies with his or her obligation to make disclosures within 10 calendar days of service of notice of the proposed nomination or appointment and, based on that disclosure, a party serves a notice of disqualification in the manner and within the time specified in Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.91;
- (3) The arbitrator makes a required disclosure more than 10 calendar days after service of notice of the proposed nomination or appointment and, based on that disclosure, a party serves a notice of disqualification in the manner and within the time specified in Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.91; or

- (4) A party becomes aware that an arbitrator has made a material omission or material misrepresentation in his or her disclosure and, within 15 days after becoming aware of the omission or misrepresentation and within the time specified in Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.91(c), the party serves a notice of disqualification that clearly describes the material omission or material misrepresentation and how and when the party became aware of this omission or misrepresentation; or
 - (5) If any ground specified in Code of Civil Procedure section 170.1 exists and the party makes a demand that the arbitrator disqualify himself or herself in the manner and within the time specified in Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.91(d).
- (b) For purposes of this standard, “obligation to make disclosure” means an arbitrator’s obligation to make disclosures under standards 7 or 8 or Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.9.
- (c) Notwithstanding any contrary request, consent, or waiver by the parties, an arbitrator must disqualify himself or herself if he or she concludes at any time during the arbitration that he or she is not able to conduct the arbitration impartially.

Comment to Standard 10

Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.91 already establishes requirements concerning disqualification of arbitrators. This standard does not eliminate or otherwise limit those requirements or change existing authority or procedures for challenging an arbitrator’s failure to disqualify himself or herself. The provisions of subdivisions (a)(1), (2), and (5) restate existing disqualification procedures under section 1281.91; (b) and (d) when an arbitrator makes, or fails to make, initial disclosures or where a section 170.1 ground exists. The provisions of subdivisions (a)(3) and (4) clarify the requirements relating to disqualification based on disclosure made by the arbitrator after appointment or based on the discovery by the party of a material omission or misrepresentation in the arbitrator’s disclosure.

Standard 11. Duty to refuse gift, bequest, or favor

- (a) An arbitrator must not, under any circumstances, accept a gift, bequest, favor, or honoraria from a party or any other person or entity whose interests are reasonably likely to come before the arbitrator in the arbitration.
- (b) From service of notice of appointment or appointment until two years after the conclusion of the arbitration, an arbitrator must not, under any circumstances, accept a gift, bequest, favor, or honoraria from a party or any other person or entity whose interests have come before the arbitrator in the arbitration.

- (c) An arbitrator must discourage members of his or her family residing in his or her household from accepting a gift, bequest, favor, or honoraria that the arbitrator would be prohibited from accepting under subdivisions (a) or (b).
- (d) This standard does not prohibit an arbitrator from demanding or receiving a fee for services or expenses.

Comment to Standard 11

Gifts and favors do not include any rebate or discount made available in the regular course of business to members of the public.

Standard 12. Duties and limitations regarding future professional relationships or employment

(a) Offers as lawyer, expert witness, or consultant

From the time of appointment until the conclusion of the arbitration, an arbitrator must not entertain or accept any offers of employment or new professional relationships as a lawyer, an expert witness, or a consultant from a party or a lawyer for a party in the pending arbitration.

(b) Offers for employment or professional relationships other than as a lawyer, expert witness, or consultant

- (1) In addition to the disclosures required by standards 7 and 8, within ten calendar days of service of notice of the proposed nomination or appointment, a proposed arbitrator must disclose to all parties in writing if, while that arbitration is pending, he or she will entertain offers of employment or new professional relationships in any capacity other than as a lawyer, expert witness, or consultant from a party or a lawyer for a party, including offers to serve as a dispute resolution neutral in another case.
- (2) If the arbitrator discloses that he or she will entertain such offers of employment or new professional relationships while the arbitration is pending:
 - (A) In consumer arbitrations, the disclosure must also state that the arbitrator will inform the parties as required under (d) if he or she subsequently receives an offer while that arbitration is pending.

- (B) In all other arbitrations, the disclosure must also state that the arbitrator will not inform the parties if he or she subsequently receives an offer while that arbitration is pending.
- (3) A party may disqualify the arbitrator based on this disclosure by serving a notice of disqualification in the manner and within the time specified in Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.91(b).

(Subd (b) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(c) Acceptance of offers under (b) prohibited unless intent disclosed

If an arbitrator fails to make the disclosure required by subdivision (b) of this standard, from the time of appointment until the conclusion of the arbitration the arbitrator must not entertain or accept any such offers of employment or new professional relationships, including offers to serve as a dispute resolution neutral.

(Subd (c) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

(d) Required notice of offers under (b)

If, in the disclosure made under subdivision (b), the arbitrator states that he or she will entertain offers of employment or new professional relationships covered by (b), the arbitrator may entertain such offers. However, in consumer arbitrations, from the time of appointment until the conclusion of the arbitration, the arbitrator must inform all parties to the current arbitration of any such offer and whether it was accepted as provided in this subdivision.

- (1) The arbitrator in a consumer arbitration must notify the parties in writing of any such offer within five days of receiving the offer and, if the arbitrator accepts the offer, must notify the parties in writing within five days of that acceptance. The arbitrator's notice must identify the party or attorney who made the offer and provide a general description of the employment or new professional relationship that was offered including, if the offer is to serve as a dispute resolution neutral, whether the offer is to serve in a single case or multiple cases.
- (2) If the arbitrator fails to inform the parties of an offer or an acceptance as required under (1), that constitutes a failure to comply with the arbitrator's obligation to make a disclosure required under these ethics standards.

- (3) If an arbitrator has informed the parties in a pending arbitration about an offer as required under (1):
 - (A) Receiving or accepting that offer does not, by itself, constitute corruption in or misconduct by the arbitrator;
 - (B) The arbitrator is not also required to disclose that offer or its acceptance under standard 7; and
 - (C) The arbitrator is not subject to disqualification under standard 10(a)(2), (3), or (5) solely on the basis of that offer or the arbitrator's acceptance of that offer.
- (4) An arbitrator is not required to inform the parties in a pending arbitration about an offer under this subdivision if:
 - (A) He or she reasonably believes that the pending arbitration is not a consumer arbitration based on reasonable reliance on a consumer party's representation that the arbitration is not a consumer arbitration;
 - (B) The offer is to serve as an arbitrator in an arbitration conducted under or arising out of public or private sector labor-relations laws, regulations, charter provisions, ordinances, statutes, or agreements; or
 - (C) The offer is for uncompensated service as a dispute resolution neutral.

(Subd (d) adopted effective July 1, 2014.)

(e) Relationships and use of confidential information related to the arbitrated case

An arbitrator must not at any time:

- (1) Without the informed written consent of all parties, enter into any professional relationship or accept any professional employment as a lawyer, an expert witness, or a consultant relating to the case arbitrated; or
- (2) Without the informed written consent of the party, enter into any professional relationship or accept employment in another matter in which information that he or she has received in confidence from a party by reason of serving as an arbitrator in a case is material.

(Subd (e) relettered effective July 1, 2014; adopted as subd (d).)

Standard 12 amended effective July 1, 2014.

Comment to Standard 12

Subdivision (d)(1). A party may disqualify an arbitrator for failure to make required disclosures, including disclosures required by these ethics standards (see Code Civ. Proc., § 1281.91(a) and standard 10(a)). Failure to disclose, within the time required for disclosure, a ground for disqualification of which the arbitrator was then aware is also a ground for vacatur of the arbitrator's award (see Code Civ. Proc., § 1286.2(a)(6)(A)).

Subdivision (d)(4)(B). The arbitrations identified under this provision are only those in which, under Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.85(b) and standard 3(b)(2)(H), the ethics standards do not apply to the arbitrator.

Standard 13. Conduct of proceeding

- (a) An arbitrator must conduct the arbitration fairly, promptly, and diligently and in accordance with the applicable law relating to the conduct of arbitration proceedings.
- (b) In making the decision, an arbitrator must not be swayed by partisan interests, public clamor, or fear of criticism.

Comment to Standard 13

Subdivision (a). The arbitrator's duty to dispose of matters promptly and diligently must not take precedence over the arbitrator's duty to dispose of matters fairly.

Conducting the arbitration in a procedurally fair manner includes conducting a balanced process in which each party is given an opportunity to participate. When one but not all parties are unrepresented, an arbitrator must ensure that the party appearing without counsel has an adequate opportunity to be heard and involved. Conducting the arbitration promptly and diligently requires expeditious management of all stages of the proceeding and concluding the case as promptly as the circumstances reasonably permit. During an arbitration, an arbitrator may discuss the issues, arguments, and evidence with the parties or their counsel, make interim rulings, and otherwise to control or direct the arbitration. This standard is not intended to restrict these activities.

The arbitrator's duty to uphold the integrity and fairness of the arbitration process includes an obligation to make reasonable efforts to prevent delaying tactics, harassment of any participant, or other abuse of the arbitration process. It is recognized, however, that the arbitrator's reasonable efforts may not successfully control all conduct of the participants.

For the general law relating to the conduct of arbitration proceedings, see chapter 3 of title 9 of part III of the Code of Civil Procedure, sections 1282–1284.2, relating to the conduct of arbitration proceedings. See also Code of Civil Procedure section 1286.2 concerning an arbitrator’s unreasonable refusal to grant a continuance as grounds for vacatur of the award.

Standard 14. Ex parte communications

- (a) An arbitrator must not initiate, permit, or consider any ex parte communications or consider other communications made to the arbitrator outside the presence of all of the parties concerning a pending or impending arbitration, except as permitted by this standard, by agreement of the parties, or by applicable law.
- (b) An arbitrator may communicate with a party in the absence of other parties about administrative matters, such as setting the time and place of hearings or making other arrangements for the conduct of the proceedings, as long as the arbitrator reasonably believes that the communication will not result in a procedural or tactical advantage for any party. When such a discussion occurs, the arbitrator must promptly inform the other parties of the communication and must give the other parties an opportunity to respond before making any final determination concerning the matter discussed.
- (c) An arbitrator may obtain the advice of a disinterested expert on the subject matter of the arbitration if the arbitrator notifies the parties of the person consulted and the substance of the advice and affords the parties a reasonable opportunity to respond.

Comment to Standard 14

See also Code of Civil Procedure sections 1282.2(e) regarding the arbitrator’s authority to hear a matter when a party fails to appear and 1282.2(g) regarding the procedures that must be followed if an arbitrator intends to base an award on information not obtained at the hearing.

Standard 15. Confidentiality

- (a) An arbitrator must not use or disclose information that he or she received in confidence by reason of serving as an arbitrator in a case to gain personal advantage. This duty applies from acceptance of appointment and continues after the conclusion of the arbitration.
- (b) An arbitrator must not inform anyone of the award in advance of the time that the award is given to all parties. This standard does not prohibit an arbitrator from providing all parties with a tentative or draft decision for review or from providing an award to an assistant or to the provider organization that is coordinating, administering, or providing the arbitration services in the case for purposes of copying and distributing the award to all parties.

Standard 16. Compensation

- (a) An arbitrator must not charge any fee for services or expenses that is in any way contingent on the result or outcome of the arbitration.
- (b) Before accepting appointment, an arbitrator, a dispute resolution provider organization, or another person or entity acting on the arbitrator's behalf must inform all parties in writing of the terms and conditions of the arbitrator's compensation. This information must include any basis to be used in determining fees; any special fees for cancellation, research and preparation time, or other purposes; any requirements regarding advance deposit of fees; and any practice concerning situations in which a party fails to timely pay the arbitrator's fees, including whether the arbitrator will or may stop the arbitration proceedings.

(Subd (b) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

Standard 16 amended effective July 1, 2014.

Comment to Standard 16

This standard is not intended to affect any authority a court may have to make orders with respect to the enforcement of arbitration agreements or arbitrator fees. It is also not intended to require any arbitrator or arbitration provider organization to establish a particular requirement or practice concerning fees or deposits, but only to inform the parties if such a requirement or practice has been established.

Standard 17. Marketing

- (a) An arbitrator must be truthful and accurate in marketing his or her services. An arbitrator may advertise a general willingness to serve as an arbitrator and convey biographical information and commercial terms of employment but must not make any representation that directly or indirectly implies favoritism or a specific outcome. An arbitrator must ensure that his or her personal marketing activities and any activities carried out on his or her behalf, including any activities of a provider organization with which the arbitrator is affiliated, comply with this requirement.

(Subd (a) amended effective July 1, 2014.)

- (b) An arbitrator must not solicit business from a participant in the arbitration while the arbitration is pending.
- (c) An arbitrator must not solicit appointment as an arbitrator in a specific case or specific cases.

(Subd (c) adopted effective July 1, 2014.)

- (d) As used in this standard, “solicit” means to communicate in person, by telephone, or through real-time electronic contact to any prospective participant in the arbitration concerning the availability for professional employment of the arbitrator in which a significant motive is pecuniary gain. The term solicit does not include: (1) responding to a request from all parties in a case to submit a proposal to provide arbitration services in that case; or (2) responding to inquiries concerning the arbitrator’s availability, qualifications, experience, or fee arrangements.

(Subd (d) adopted effective July 1, 2014.)

Standard 17 amended effective July 1, 2014.

Comment to Standard 17

Subdivision (b) and (c). Arbitrators should keep in mind that, in addition to these restrictions on solicitation, several other standards contain related disclosure requirements. For example, under standard 7(d)(4)-(6), arbitrators must disclose information about their past, current, and prospective service as an arbitrator or other dispute resolution for a party or attorney in the arbitration. Under standard 8(b)(1)(C) and (D), in consumer arbitrations administered by a provider organization, arbitrators must disclose if the provider organization has coordinated, administered, or provided dispute resolution services, is coordinating, administering, or providing such services, or has an agreement to coordinate, administer, or provide such services for a party or attorney in the arbitration. And under standard 12 arbitrators must disclose if, while an arbitration is pending, they will entertain offers from a party or attorney in the arbitration to serve as a dispute resolution neutral in another case.

These provisions are not intended to prohibit an arbitrator from accepting another arbitration from a party or attorney in the arbitration while the first matter is pending, as long as the arbitrator complies with the provisions of standard 12 and there was no express solicitation of this business by the arbitrator.

APPENDIX A

Judicial Council Legal Forms List

Under Government Code section 68511, the Judicial Council may “prescribe” certain forms. Use of prescribed forms is mandatory. Under rule 1.31, each mandatory Judicial Council legal form is identified as mandatory by an asterisk (*) on the list of Judicial Council legal forms published in this appendix. Mandatory forms bear the word “adopted” in the lower left corner of the first page.

Optional forms bear the word “approved” in the lower left corner of the first page. Use of an approved (optional) form is not mandatory, but the form must be accepted by all courts in appropriate cases (rule 1.35(a)).

A local court may not reject any Judicial Council form, optional or mandatory, for any of the reasons listed in rule 1.42.

The forms are available on the California Courts Web site in both a fillable and a PDF format at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.htm.

Appendix B of the California Rules of Court is amended, effective July 1, 2019, to read:

Appendix B
Liability Limits of a Parent or Guardian Having Custody and Control of a Minor for the Torts of a Minor (Civ. Code, § 1714.1)

Formula

Pursuant to Civil Code section 1714.1, the joint and several liability limit of a parent or guardian having custody and control of a minor under subdivisions (a) and (b) for each tort of the minor shall be computed and adjusted as follows:

$$\text{Adjusted limit} = \left[\frac{\text{Current CCPI} - \text{January 1, 1995, CCPI}}{\text{January 1, 1995, CCPI}} + 1 \right] \times \text{January 1, 1995, limit}$$

Definition

“CCPI” means the California Consumer Price Index, as established by the California Department of Industrial Relations.

July 1, 2019, calculation and adjustment

The joint and several liability of a parent or guardian having custody and control of a minor under Civil Code section 1714.1, subdivision (a) or (b), effective July 1, 2019, shall not exceed $45,000 for each tort.

The calculation is as follows:

$$\text{$44,968.65} = \left[\frac{272.51 - 151.5}{151.5} + 1 \right] \times $25,000$$

Under section 1714.1, subdivision (c), the adjusted limit is rounded to the nearest hundred dollars, so the dollar amount of the adjusted limit is rounded to $45,000.

Appendix C

Guidelines for the Operation of Family Law Information Centers and Family Law Facilitators Offices

(1) Independence and integrity

An attorney and other staff working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office should, at all times, uphold the independence and integrity of the center or office in conjunction with its role within the court and the legal system.

(2) Role as representative of the court

An attorney and other staff working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office should recognize that they are representatives of the court and, as such, should avoid all acts of impropriety and the appearance of impropriety at all times.

(3) Impartiality and diligence

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office should perform his or her duties impartially and diligently. Impartiality means delivering services to all eligible litigants in a neutral manner. Diligence requires that the attorney provide the litigants with pertinent information to allow them to bring their matter before the court. This may include appropriate referrals to other resources as well as direct information and assistance at the center or office. The attorney should require similar conduct of all personnel.

(4) Respect and patience

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office should be aware of the social and economic differences that exist among litigants and maintain patience with and respect for the litigants who seek the services of the center or office. The attorney should require similar conduct of all personnel. However, if a litigant becomes unruly or disruptive, the attorney may ask the litigant to leave the center or office.

(5) Bias and prejudice

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office should assist the litigants who seek assistance without exhibiting bias or prejudice based on race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, or other similar factors, and should require similar conduct of all personnel.

(6) Competent legal information

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office and his or her staff should provide the litigants who seek assistance with procedural and legal information and education so that the litigants will have increased access to the court. Family law information centers and family law facilitator offices are not intended to replace private counsel.

(7) Full notification of limits of service

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office should ensure that conspicuous notice is given, as set forth in Family Code section 10013, that no attorney-client relationship exists between the center or office, or its staff, and the family law litigant. The notice should include the advice that the absence of an attorney-client relationship means that communications between the party and the family law information center or family law facilitator office are not privileged and that the services may be provided to the other party. Additionally, the family law information center must use Family Law Information Center Disclosure (form FL-945) or provide similar notice. The family law facilitator office must use Office of the Family Law Facilitator Disclosure (form FL-940) or provide similar notice of the warnings set forth in Family Code section 10015.

(8) Public comment

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office and his or her staff must at all times comply with Family Code section 10014, and must not make any public comment about the litigants or about any pending or impending matter in the court.

(9) Gifts or payments

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office and his or her staff should not accept any gifts, favors, bequests, or loans from the litigants whom they assist, since this may give the appearance of impropriety or partiality—except for nominal gifts such as baked goods, as allowed by local rules.

(10) Communications with bench officer

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office and his or her staff should avoid all ex parte communications with a bench officer, except as provided in accordance with Family Code section 10005. In addition, an attorney should avoid all communications with a bench officer in which he or she offers an opinion on how the bench officer should rule on a pending case. Communications about purely procedural matters or the functioning of the court are allowed and encouraged.

(11) Communications with represented litigants

An attorney working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office and his or her staff should not assist a litigant who is represented by an attorney unless the litigant’s attorney consents or the court has referred the litigant for assistance.

Advisory Committee Comment

These guidelines are promulgated as directed by former Family Code section 15010(f). They are intended to guide the attorneys providing assistance in family law information centers and family law facilitator offices created by Family Code sections 10000–10015.

These guidelines are not intended to be exclusive. Attorneys who work in the family law information centers and family law facilitator offices are also bound by the State Bar Act, the Rules of Professional Conduct, local and state court employee rules, and relevant opinions of the California courts to the extent that they apply.

The authorities that govern attorney conduct in California apply to all California attorneys regardless of the capacity in which they are acting in a particular matter. (Libarian v. State Bar 25 Cal.2d. 314 (1944).) “Permission” not to comply with these authorities may not be given by the State Bar. (Sheffield v. State Bar 22 Cal.2d. 627 (1943).)

Thus, California attorneys, regardless of the capacity in which they are performing in a particular matter, must conform their conduct to the governing California authorities. However, because the disciplinary authorities are activity-specific, not all authorities apply in all instances. For example, a transactional attorney who never appears in court is not likely to be at risk of violating the rules that govern court appearances. The transactional attorney is not immune from those rules; the nature of his or her practice simply minimizes the impact of those rules upon the services he or she performs. Thus, although center and facilitator attorneys will not be immune from the governing authorities, certain rules and requirements will apply more directly to the nature of the services being provided than will others.

Just as the Rules of Professional Conduct are activity-specific in general professional practice, so are center and facilitator office attorneys. Although the Rules of Professional Conduct and related authorities will apply generally, and will apply directly when the attorney is representing clients in an attorney-client relationship, they will not directly be invoked when a center or facilitator attorney provides assistance to a nonclient in a court-based program that does not, by definition, represent “clients.”

To the extent that the above-mentioned Family Code sections establish by law that there is no attorney-client relationship or privilege for services provided by a family law information center or family law facilitator office, the Rules of Professional Conduct that specifically address the attorney-client relationship and the conduct of that relationship would not be invoked if the attorney were providing services within the scope of those sections. However, the Rules of Professional Conduct would govern attorneys employed by centers or facilitator offices who also continued to maintain a law practice and worked with actual clients in an attorney-client relationship.

Although center and facilitator office attorneys are not exempt from the Rules of Professional Conduct, the employing court may promulgate guidelines for the services provided by a center or facilitator office that are more applicable to the center or office than are some of the Rules of Professional Conduct, however, any such restrictions must still be fully consistent with the Rules of Professional Conduct. The principles set forth in the California Code of Judicial Ethics are often more applicable to the centers and facilitator offices and are consistent with the Rules of Professional Conduct. Those principles form the basis for the guidelines contained in these standards. The court may enforce these guidelines through its employee disciplinary process for court employees. Following are the areas of the Rules of Professional Conduct where these guidelines provide standards that are more applicable to the role of the family law information center or family law facilitator office as an entity of the court.

Rule 2-100 (Communication With a Represented Party)—see proposed guideline 11 (Communication with represented litigants).

Rule 2-400 (Prohibited Discriminatory Conduct in a Law Practice)—see proposed guideline 5 (Bias and prejudice);

Rule 3-110 (Failing to Act Competently)—see proposed guidelines 3 (Impartiality and diligence) and 6 (Competent legal information);

Rule 3-120 (Sexual Relations With Client)—see proposed guideline 2 (Role as representative of the court);

Rule 3-200 (Prohibited Objectives of Employment)—see proposed guideline 2 (Role as representative of the court);

Rule 3-210 (Advising the Violation of Law)—see proposed guideline 2 (Role as representative of the court);

Rule 3-320 (Relationship With Other Party’s Lawyer)—see proposed guideline 2 (Role as representative of the court);

Rule 4-300 (Purchasing Property at a Foreclosure or a Sale Subject to Judicial Review)—see proposed guideline 2 (Role as representative of the court);

Rule 4-400 (Gifts From Client)—see proposed guideline 9 (Gifts or payments);

Rule 5-120 (Trial Publicity)—see proposed guideline 8 (Public comment);

Rule 5-220 (Suppression of Evidence)—see proposed guideline 2 (Role as representative of the court);

Rule 5-300 (Contact With Officials)—see proposed guideline 10 (Communications with bench officers);

Rule 5-310 (Prohibited Contact With Witnesses)—see proposed guideline 2 (Role as representative of the court); and Rule 5-320 (Contact With Jurors)—see proposed guideline 2 (Role as representative of the court).

Judicial Council Governance Policies

APRIL 16, 2020

OF CALIFORNIA

Judicial Council Governance Policies

The Judicial Council is the policymaking body of the California courts, the largest court system in the nation. Under the leadership of the Chief Justice and in accordance with the California Constitution, the council is responsible for ensuring the consistent, independent, impartial, and accessible administration of justice. Members of the council are appointed by the Chief Justice. Appointees by the State Bar Board of Trustees and both houses of the Legislature also serve as members of the council. Together the members serve to carry out judicial branch goals. Judicial Council staff implements the council's policies, and the goals and priorities of the council are set forth in Justice in Focus: The Strategic Plan for California's Judicial Branch 2006–2016:

- I. Access, Fairness, and Diversity
- II. Independence and Accountability
- III. Modernization of Management and Administration
- IV. Quality of Justice and Service to the Public
- V. Education for Branchwide Professional Excellence
- VI. Branchwide Infrastructure for Service Excellence
- VII. Adequate, Stable, and Predictable Funding for a Fully Functioning Branch

GOVERNANCE PROCESS

1. Responsibilities of the Council

The council establishes goals and policies for California's judicial branch of government. The council is directly responsible for the following:

- a. Establishing broad goals and policies that set the direction and priorities for the continuous improvement of California's system for the administration of justice. These goals and policies include fundamental goals such as promoting public access to the justice system, increasing responsiveness to the needs of court users of diverse backgrounds, and upholding the rule of law and impartiality of judges as constitutional officers.
- b. Establishing standards for performance and accountability of the administrative operations and procedures of the branch. These standards address the diverse needs of court users, employ modern management practices that implement and sustain innovative ideas and effective practices, and report on judicial branch performance to the public, Legislature, Governor, and the courts.
- c. Developing and maintaining administrative, technological, and physical infrastructures, including court facilities, which enhance accessibility to the courts and support the needs of the people of California and the judicial branch.

- d. Taking all appropriate steps to develop and establish the judicial branch's fiscal priorities, secure appropriate funding for the judicial branch, establish fiscal and budget policies for the branch, allocate branch appropriations to the courts and the council, and ensure accountability through reporting on the use of its public resources to the legislative and executive branches of state government and to the public.
- e. Sponsoring and taking positions on pending legislation consistent with the council's established goals and priorities to support consistent, effective, statewide programs and policies that provide for the highest quality of administration of justice, and that promote an impartial judiciary.
- f. Developing high-quality education and professional development opportunities for all judicial branch personnel to meet public needs and to enhance public trust and confidence in the courts.
- g. Communicating with and reporting to the legislative and executive branches of state government to advance judicial branch goals, and account for the use of public funds and resources.

2. Council Policymaking

The Judicial Council establishes judicial branch policy for the improvement of an independent and impartial justice system that meets public needs, and enhances public trust and confidence in the courts. It develops policy in consultation with the people of California, court leadership, judicial officers, Judicial Council advisory bodies, employees in the judicial branch, the State Bar, advocacy groups, the Legislature, the Governor, and other government entities and justice system partners.

The principal focus of the Judicial Council is to establish policies that emphasize long-term strategic leadership and that align with judicial branch goals. Council policymaking is focused on the beneficiaries of the policy, the results to be achieved, the costs to be incurred, and the corresponding judicial branch goals.

To enable the council to make well-informed strategic decisions, all policy proposals submitted for council consideration by internal committees, advisory bodies, the Administrative Director, and staff should address the following:

- Beneficiaries of the policy;
- Results to be achieved;
- Costs to be incurred;
- Each corresponding judicial branch goal, objective, and anticipated outcome;
- Previous council action on the issue or policy;
- Comments from interested parties;

- Analysis of the benefits and risks of the proposals; and
- Analysis of the strengths and weaknesses of alternative options and an explanation of their implications.

3. Maintenance of Governance Policies and Principles

On an annual basis, the chair of the Executive and Planning Committee discusses the governance policies and principles at a council meeting to orient new members and review council governance with continuing members. Every three years, the Judicial Council conducts a review of its governance policies and principles and determines whether any revisions are needed. The Executive and Planning Committee monitors the regular implementation of the governance policies and principles.

In order to ensure that new council members have the knowledge and understanding needed to perform their duties effectively, they are oriented to the council's governance policies and principles as well as the council's history of policymaking on key topics, such as court facilities, fiscal appropriations, and infrastructure initiatives.

4. Council-Staff Relationship

Officially passed motions of the council, and decisions and instructions of the Chief Justice, are binding on the Administrative Director. Decisions or instructions of individual council members or internal and advisory bodies are binding on the Administrative Director if the council or its chair has specifically delegated such exercise of authority.

The Administrative Director has sole authority to assign, supervise, and direct staff. The Administrative Director is responsible for ensuring the completeness and quality of reports and other work product presented to the council. Council members may from time to time request information or assistance from staff, unless in the Director's opinion such requests require an unreasonable amount of staff time or become disruptive. Council members and advisory body members may individually provide information to the Administrative Director on the performance of staff or staff agency to the council.

The Administrative Director, as secretary to the council, may attend and participate in the meetings of each internal committee.

5. Internal Committees

a. Executive and Planning Committee

The Executive and Planning Committee under California Rules of Court, rule 10.11 makes regular reports to the full council on its actions. Its responsibilities include those described below.

Together with the chairs of the other internal committees, the Executive and Planning Committee is responsible for developing and implementing a branchwide plan for general communications between the council and the judicial branch. This responsibility may address such matters as reporting through judicial branch communication channels to the courts and branch stakeholders on Judicial Council meetings and policy actions; communications with the media; communications through Judicial Council members' participation in court site visits, regional meetings, and new judge meetings; and communications from the judicial branch to the Judicial Council through meetings, advisory bodies, public comment processes, and other communication methods.

b. Rules Committee

The Rules Committee under California Rules of Court, rule 10.13 makes regular reports to the full council on its actions. Its responsibilities are described below.

- i. Identifies the need for new rules, standards, and forms;
- ii. Establishes and publishes procedures for the proposal, adoption, and approval of rules of court, forms, and standards of judicial administration that ensure that relevant input from the public is solicited and considered;
- iii. Reviews proposed rules, standards, and forms, and circulates those proposals for public comment in accordance with its procedures and guidelines.
- iv. Provides guidelines for the style and format of rules, forms, and standards and ensures that proposals are consistent with the guidelines;
- v. Ensures that proposals for new or amended rules, standards, and forms do not conflict with statutes or other rules; and
- vi. Determines whether proposals for new or amended rules, standards, or forms have complied with its procedures.

c. Legislation Committee

The Legislation Committee under California Rules of Court, rule 10.12 makes regular reports to the full council on its actions. Its responsibilities include those described below.

The committee represents the Judicial Council's position with other agencies and entities, such as the Legislature, the Governor's Office, the State Bar of California, local government, local bar associations, and other court-related professional associations; reviews and makes recommendations on proposals for Judicial Council-sponsored legislation; reviews pending bills; determines positions consistent with the council's previous policy decisions; and oversees advocacy for those positions.

d. Judicial Council Technology Committee

The Judicial Council Technology Committee under California Rules of Court, rule 10.16 makes regular reports to the full council on its actions. Its responsibilities include those described below.

The committee oversees the council's policies concerning technology and is responsible in partnership with the courts for coordinating with the Administrative Director and all internal committees, advisory committees, commissions, working groups, task forces, justice partners, and stakeholders on technological issues relating to the branch and the courts. It is responsible for ensuring that council policies are complied with, and that specific projects proceed on schedule and within scope and budget. The committee seeks reports and recommendations from the Administrative Director, the courts, and stakeholders on technology issues. It ensures that technology reports to the council are clear, comprehensive, and provide relevant options so that the council can make effective final technology policy decisions. The committee reports on technology affecting the branch and courts at each Judicial Council meeting.

e. Judicial Branch Budget Committee

The Judicial Branch Budget Committee under California Rules of Court, rule 10.101 makes regular reports to the full council on its actions. Its responsibilities include those described below.

- i. Reviewing budget change proposals for the judicial branch, coordinating these budget change proposals, and ensuring that they are submitted to the council in a timely manner;
- ii. Reviewing and making recommendations on the use of statewide emergency funding for the judicial branch;
- iii. Reviewing and making recommendations on court innovations grant funding;
- iv. Endeavoring to promote the efficient, fiscally prudent, effective, and fair allocation of branch resources so as to advance statewide judicial branch interests; and
- v. Performing such additional tasks as may be assigned to the committee.

f. Litigation Management Committee

The Litigation Management Committee under California Rules of Court, rule 10.14 makes regular reports to the full council on its actions. Its responsibilities include those described below.

- i. The committee oversees litigation and claims against trial and appellate courts, the Judicial Council, and employees of those bodies that seek recovery of $100,000 or more, or raise important policy issues.
- ii. Important policy or court operations issues may include whether to initiate litigation on behalf of a court, when to defend a challenged court practice, or how to resolve disputes where the outcome might have statewide implications.

6. Role of Advisory Committees

Advisory committees under California Rules of Court, rule 10.34\(a\) are standing committees created by rule of court or the Chief Justice to make recommendations and offer policy alternatives to the Judicial Council for improving the administration of justice within their designated areas of focus by doing the following:

- i. Identifying issues and concerns affecting court administration and recommending solutions to the council;
- ii. Proposing necessary changes to rules, standards, forms, and jury instructions;
- iii. Reviewing pending legislation and making recommendations to the Legislation Committee on whether to support or oppose it;
- iv. Recommending new legislation to the council;
- v. Recommending to the council pilot projects and other programs to evaluate new procedures or practices;
- vi. Acting on assignments referred by the council or an internal committee; and
- vii. Making other appropriate recommendations to the council.

APPENDIX

The Operating Standards for Judicial Council Advisory Bodies (operating standards) is appended to the Judicial Council Governance Policies. The operating standards support the general parameters within which Judicial Council advisory bodies operate under the direction and oversight of the Chief Justice and the Judicial Council. They guide the work of advisory body chairs and Judicial Council staff relative to annual agendas, staffing, committee membership, reporting to the council, and public access.

OPERATING STANDARDS FOR JUDICIAL COUNCIL ADVISORY BODIES

California Rules of Court, rules 10.30–10.34, 10.70, and 10.75 specify the general parameters within which Judicial Council advisory bodies operate under the direction and oversight of the Chief Justice and the Judicial Council.

- Rule 10.30. Judicial Council advisory bodies
- Rule 10.31. Advisory Committee membership and terms
- Rule 10.32. Nominations and appointments to advisory committees
- Rule 10.33. Advisory committee meetings
- Rule 10.34. Duties and responsibilities of advisory committees
- Rule 10.70. Task forces, working groups, and other advisory bodies
- Rule 10.75. Meetings of advisory bodies

The parameters set forth in the rules of court are supported by the following operating standards for Judicial Council advisory bodies. The operating standards guide the work of advisory body chairs and Judicial Council staff relative to annual agendas, staffing, Judicial Council membership, reporting to the council, and public access.

I. Definitions

The following definitions apply for purposes of these operating standards:

1. Internal committee
 - a. A committee comprised of Judicial Council members.
 - b. An “internal oversight committee” is an internal committee to which the Chief Justice has assigned oversight of a specific council advisory body.
2. Advisory body. Any multimember body created by the Judicial Council to review issues and report to the council, consistent with rule 10.75 of the California Rules of Court, other than a subcommittee or an internal committee as defined below.
3. Subcommittee
 - a. A subset of an advisory body.
 - b. Typically assists in completing a purpose or task for the parent body and may also advise the parent body.
 - c. Two or more advisory bodies may request approval from their internal oversight committee for the establishment of a joint subcommittee.

II. Annual Agendas and Staffing

1. Annual agendas

- a. Annual agenda template. An annual agenda is the mechanism by which an advisory body clarifies and documents its plan for addressing an annual scope of work consistent with its charge. It is through this process that advisory bodies receive input, guidance, and delegation from the council in order to provide the necessary information and recommendations to the council to address judicial branch business. Unless otherwise provided for by the assigned internal oversight committee, advisory body annual agendas should be completed using the annual agenda template.
- b. Agenda planning. Before developing the proposed annual agenda, the assigned internal oversight committee chair, advisory body chair, office head, and lead staff discuss the work completed during the prior annual agenda period; the potential activities or projects, timelines, and priorities for the upcoming annual agenda period; and Judicial Council staff resource needs. Agendas should be developed based on existing resources.
- c. Soliciting input from other advisory bodies. To avoid duplication of effort and ensure the availability of resources, advisory body chairs, office heads, and lead staff should solicit input on activities or projects from affected advisory bodies before or as annual agendas are first drafted. This early collaboration ensures that relevant feedback is received before recommendations are completed and submitted to the council.
- d. Executive and management review. Before the proposed final annual agenda is submitted to the assigned internal oversight committee for approval, the heads of all offices that staff advisory bodies meet to review all annual agendas, discuss resource needs, and ensure that the appropriate offices are aware of projects that may impact them. In addition, each office head reviews the proposed final annual agenda with the executive office before internal committee review. The office head discusses any concerns about resource needs with the responsible division chief before the annual agenda meeting. Resource concerns that cannot be resolved by the division chief should be raised with the Chief of Staff and the Administrative Director for further reconciliation with the chair of the appropriate internal oversight committee and for discussion with the advisory body chair.
- e. Annual agenda meeting. After consultation with the assigned internal oversight committee chair, the advisory body chair presents the proposed annual agenda to the full internal oversight committee for approval. The lead staff member to the advisory body, the office head, and the division chief also attend this meeting.
- f. Online posting of approved annual agendas. Upon completion and the approval of any changes requested by the internal oversight committees, all annual agendas are posted on the Advisory Bodies page of the California Courts website

(www.courts.ca.gov) under the relevant advisory body link. The advisory body chair should refer members to the approved agenda to guide the work of the group in the coming year.

2. Ongoing communications
3. Council and advisory body chairs. The internal oversight committee chair and the advisory body chair should strive to check in over the course of the year to review progress on annual agenda items, resource needs, and other relevant areas.
4. Advisory body chair and staff. The advisory body chair, office head, and lead staff member should be in contact at least twice a year to discuss progress on annual agenda items. In particular, any extraordinary changes in council priorities or additional resource needs that are identified after the internal oversight committee has approved an annual agenda should be discussed and communicated to the Chief of Staff for review with the chair of the assigned internal oversight committee.

Amending Annual Agendas

In the event it is determined that an advisory body's Annual Agenda needs to be updated or changed in the course of the year (for example, to address changes in council priorities or newly enacted laws), the chair of the body may request that the oversight committee amend the advisory body's Annual agenda for this purpose. The oversight committees have approved a process and a form for amending agendas.

5. Staff responsibilities
 - a. Staffing oversight. The Administrative Director and Chief of Staff have oversight responsibility and authority for directing staff support to the advisory bodies.
 - b. Lead staff. Each advisory body has a lead staff member assigned to assist the body in meeting its charge and completing the activities and projects identified on the annual agenda. The lead staff member is responsible for keeping his or her office head apprised of the activities of the advisory body, including resource issues. In addition, he or she is responsible for maintaining the accuracy of the advisory body member roster, which should be kept current and consistent between internal and public postings. The lead staff member is also responsible for communicating all membership changes within the advisory body to Judicial Council Support and to the Contact and Position System (CAPS) administrator. The CAPS administrator will ensure that the appropriate judicial experience of each advisory body member is reflected within CAPS, along with the member's correct location, address, phone number, and e-mail address.
 - c. Office heads. Office heads are required to proactively support the advisory body chairs and lead staff, work with the chairs and lead staff on sensitive issues, and communicate those issues to the responsible division chief.

OPERATING STANDARDS FOR JUDICIAL COUNCIL ADVISORY BODIES

- d. General duties. Judicial Council staff, under rule 10.34(e) of the California Rules of Court, support the planning, coordination, and ongoing implementation of the work of the council's advisory bodies by drafting annual agendas, managing budget and resources, providing legal and policy analysis, organizing and drafting reports, selecting and supervising consultants, providing technical assistance, and assisting chairs in presenting advisory body recommendations to the Judicial Council. Staff also organize meetings, provide information to members and to the public, ensure meeting notices are posted, facilitate advisory body nominations, and coordinate the work of the advisory body with related judicial branch work.
- e. Alternative analysis/recommendations. Under rule 10.34(e) of the California Rules of Court, staff may provide independent legal or policy analysis of issues that is different from the advisory body's position, if authorized to do so by the Administrative Director. The decisions or instructions of an advisory body or its chair are not binding on staff except in instances when the council or the Administrative Director has specifically authorized such exercise of authority.
- f. Addressing resource needs. Office heads are responsible for ensuring that resource needs are addressed, including discussing those needs with the advisory body chair and the responsible division chief before the annual agenda meeting. Ongoing resource issues brought to the office head's attention that are likely to impede progress or impact the outcome of approved activities or projects should be raised with the Chief of Staff and the Administrative Director for further reconciliation with the chair of the appropriate internal oversight committee and discussion with the advisory body chair. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.80(d).)

III. Membership and Duration

1. Composition. An advisory body and its chair may make recommendations to the Judicial Council and the Executive and Planning Committee about the composition of the advisory body's membership, including nominating members. An advisory body typically has between 12 and 18 members (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.31(a)); however, this may vary depending on the charge and the scope of work.
2. Subcommittees. An advisory body may propose the establishment of a subcommittee. A proposal for the establishment of a subcommittee should specify:
 - The purpose of, or charge for, the new subcommittee;
 - Whether standing or ad hoc, and if ad hoc, specify an end date; and
 - The timeline for the activity or project.

The chair of a standing subcommittee may request the appointment of a non-committee member to the subcommittee by completing the form Request for

Appointment to a Subcommittee and submitting it for consideration to the designated internal oversight committee.¹

3. Liaisons. Standing advisory committees may have liaisons to other advisory bodies to facilitate the accomplishment of their common projects and programs. For example, the Trial Court Presiding Judges Advisory Committee and the Court Executives Advisory Committee have liaisons to other advisory bodies to ensure that the trial court leadership perspective is received in a timely manner on matters under consideration. The liaison process helps to:
 - Facilitate an efficient and effective process for advisory bodies to seek and receive input from other advisory bodies that may have an interest in or be affected by its work; and
 - Provide an opportunity for liaisons to share input from their respective advisory bodies early in the process on matters being considered by other advisory bodies.

The advisory body chair may determine the selection process for naming a liaison from the advisory body that he or she chairs to another advisory body. Before confirming an appointment, the appointing chair should consult with the chair of the advisory body to which the liaison will be appointed. Where a member of the Trial Court Presiding Judges Advisory Committee or the Court Executives Advisory Committee is a member of another council advisory body, he or she should also serve as the liaison for his or her committee. The appointing advisory body is responsible for costs related to the liaison member fulfilling his or her liaison responsibilities.

4. Duration. Sunset dates are required for all advisory bodies other than standing advisory committees. Ad hoc advisory bodies typically are dissolved following the submission and/or consideration of their final reports. The Chief Justice may extend a sunset date.

IV. Meetings

1. Meeting notification. Each advisory body's public web page must provide notification of upcoming meetings as well as any meeting materials, consistent with rule 10.75 of the California Rules of Court.
2. Meeting frequency. To conserve judicial branch resources, an advisory body may meet in person no more than one time each annual committee cycle unless an internal oversight committee approves otherwise. Consideration should be given to ways to schedule in-person meetings so that same-day travel can be accommodated and overnights avoided unless necessary. If an additional in-person meeting is needed, the responsible office head will review the request with his or her division chief. Final approval of the request will be sought from the assigned internal oversight committee chair in consultation with the Chief of Staff.

3. Coordination with internal committee schedules. To ensure the timely submission and review of advisory body recommendations and materials to the council for its consideration, lead staff should coordinate advisory body meetings with the meeting schedule of the internal committee that receives the initial submission.
4. Minutes. Following the open meeting guidelines, minutes should contain a brief description of the proposal or other matter considered (e.g., a recommendation that the Judicial Council adopt a rule) and the action taken (e.g., the advisory body recommended that the rule be adopted by the Judicial Council, effective on a particular date). An advisory body may provide more detailed minutes, if necessary.

V. Reports and Recommendations to the Judicial Council

1. Report writing. The Judicial Council report writing manual, The ABC's of 21st Century Judicial Council Report Writing, specifies the proper format and content standards for all council reports.
2. Notification of Judicial Council agenda items. In an effort to assist the Executive and Planning Committee with its agenda-setting responsibilities, Judicial Council staff should submit a draft Judicial Council Agenda Request form to Judicial Council Support as early in the process as possible.
3. Report submission. Reports to the Judicial Council from an advisory body are first submitted to the Executive and Planning Committee for agenda setting through the approved process and format. Lead staff and report authors should be familiar with and adhere to the chart JC Report Deadlines and E&P Meeting Dates,² which details a process and timeline that allows the Executive and Planning Committee to consider the readiness and completeness of the report and, if necessary, to ask the advisory body for revisions.
4. Recommendations. Reports may reflect an advisory body's recommendations or provide options without a recommendation, allowing the council to weigh the policy considerations in making its decision. The advisory body should carefully consider the recommendations or options that it presents to the council to ensure that they are limited to a manageable number for implementation by the courts or by council staff within reasonable timeframes. This requires regular check-in on scope and expectations with the internal oversight committee chair and executive leadership throughout the process.
5. Fiscal considerations. Recommendations or options that may have a significant and unforeseen fiscal impact should be raised with the Administrative Director and the Chief of Staff. The Administrative Director and the Chief of Staff will consult the assigned internal oversight committee chair on financial impacts of concern before the recommendations or options are finalized and the council report is developed. Depending on the outcome of that review, the advisory body may need to conduct additional analysis of the recommendations or options.

VI. Public Access

1. Rule 10.75. Public access to advisory body meetings and meeting materials, and meeting minutes as official records, are addressed in rule 10.75 of the California Rules of Court and in the open meeting guidelines. The rule includes a list of advisory bodies that are exempt from the requirements.
2. Web page content. The lead staff to each advisory body is responsible for working with web content staff to maintain a public web page with information about the advisory body's charge and its membership and activities.
3. Member rosters. Rosters should be accurate and kept current and consistent between internal and public postings.

Appendix E

Guidelines for Determining Financial Eligibility for County Payment of the Cost of Counsel Appointed by the Court in Proceedings Under the Guardianship-Conservatorship Law

1. Purpose

These guidelines are adopted to implement Probate Code section 1470(c)(3), which provides that the Judicial Council shall adopt guidelines to assist in determining financial eligibility for county payment of all or part of the reasonable sum fixed by the court for compensation and expenses of counsel appointed by the court under chapter 4 of part 1 of division 4 of the Probate Code.

2. Persons responsible for payment of the cost of appointed counsel

Except to the extent that they are determined to be unable to pay for all or any portion of the cost of appointed counsel under paragraph 5 of these guidelines, the following persons or estates of persons (referred to collectively as the “responsible person”) are responsible for the payment of that cost:

- A. The estate of the ward or proposed ward in a guardianship proceeding under section 1470;
- B. The parent or parents of the ward or proposed ward in a guardianship proceeding under section 1470;
- C. The estate of a conservatee or proposed conservatee in a conservatorship proceeding under sections 1470–1472;
- D. The conservatee or proposed conservatee, if he or she has no estate, in a conservatorship proceeding under sections 1471–1472;
- E. The person alleged to lack legal capacity in a proceeding to authorize a particular transaction in community property under sections 1471–1472, to the extent the court does not order the cost paid from the proceeds of the transaction under section 1472(a)(3); and
- F. The health care patient in a proceeding to determine his or her capacity to make a health care decision under sections 1471–1472.

3. Cost of appointed counsel

1 The cost of appointed counsel is the reasonable sum fixed by the court after the 2 performance of legal services under Probate Code section 1470 or section 1472 for 3 the compensation and expenses of appointed counsel.

5 4. Presumed eligibility for county payment

7 Except as provided in paragraph 7, the person responsible for payment of the cost
8 of appointed counsel is presumed to be eligible for payment by the county of that 9 cost if the person satisfies one or more of the following three conditions:
10

11 A. The responsible person is eligible for:
12

- 13 (1) Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and State Supplementary
14 Payment (SSP);
15
- 16 (2) Medi-Cal;
17
- 18 (3) General Assistance or General Relief (GA/GR) Program (county 19 general relief);
20
- 21 (4) Cash Assistance Program for [aged, blind, and disabled legal]
22 Immigrants (CAPI);
23
- 24 (5) CalWORKs (California Work Opportunity and Responsibility to Kids)
25 or Tribal (Native American) TANF (Temporary Assistance for Needy
26 Families) grant program;
27
- 28 (6) CalFresh (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)) or 29 California Food Assistance Program (CFAP), a California program for 30 immigrants not eligible for federal SNAP; or 31
- 32 (7) In-Home Supportive Services (IHSS);
33

34 B. The responsible person's income is 125 percent or less of current federal 35 poverty guidelines, updated periodically in the Federal Register by the United 36 States Department of Health and Human Services; or 37

38 C. The responsible person, as individually determined by the court, cannot pay 39 the cost of appointed counsel without using funds that would be normally 40 used to pay for the common necessities of life for the responsible person and 41 his or her family.
42

1 5. Determination of responsible person’s obligation for the cost of appointed
2 counsel

4 If the court finds that the responsible person, including a responsible person
5 described in paragraph 4, can pay all or a portion of the cost of appointed counsel,
6 can pay those costs in installments, or can pay those costs under some other 7 equitable arrangement without using money that normally would pay for the 8 common necessities of life for the responsible person and the responsible person’s
9 family, the court may order the responsible person to pay appointed counsel 10 directly, reimburse the county for the costs of appointed counsel paid by the 11 county, or both, in part or on such other terms as the court determines are fair and 12 reasonable under the circumstances.

13
14 6. Apportionment

15
16 If the responsible person is the estate of a ward or proposed ward and one or both 17 of his or her parents, the court may allocate the amount determined to be payable 18 by the responsible person under paragraph 5 among them in any proportions the 19 court deems just.

20
21 7. Private appointed counsel for conservatee under section 1470

22
23 A conservatee or proposed conservatee for whom private counsel is appointed 24 under Probate Code section 1470 is ineligible for payment by the county of any 25 portion of the cost of appointed counsel.

26
27 8. Amount payable by the county

28
29 Except as provided in paragraph 7, the amount payable by the county for the cost of 30 appointed counsel is all or any part of the cost that the court determines that the 31 responsible person cannot pay under paragraph 5.

34
35 Advisory Committee Comment

36
37 The guidelines placed in Appendix E to the California Rules of Court are not rules of court. They 38 are based in part on the conditions for granting an initial court fee waiver under Government
39 Code section 68632(a)–(c). For the purposes of these guidelines as well as of that Government 40 Code section, the term “common necessities of life” has the same meaning it had in Code of 41 Civil Procedure section 706.051(c)(1) before the amendment of that section effective on January
42 1, 2012. (Assem. Bill 1388; Stats. 2011, ch. 694, § 1.)

1 The 2012 amendment of section 706.051(c)(1) completely eliminated “common necessities of
2 life” from that code section. The deleted phrase referred to an exception to the exemption
3 provided in the section from an earnings withholding order for amounts the debtor can prove are 4 necessary to support himself or herself and his or her family, often referred to as the support
5 exemption. In other words, under former section 706.051(c)(1), the support exemption of section
6 706.051(b) would not apply to shield the debtor from an earnings withholding order to collect a 7 debt incurred to purchase the “common necessities of life.”

9 The following appellate cases discussed the meaning of “common necessities of life” as that 10 phrase was used in section 706.051(c)(1) and predecessor code sections that used the phrase for 11 the same purpose:
12

- 13 • A debt for hospital services to defendant or his family was based on the common
14 necessities of life. (J. J. MacIntyre Co. v. Duren (1981) 118 Cal.App.3d Supp. 16.)
15
- 16 • The performance of legal services and the advancement of costs of litigation giving rise 17 to award to an attorney in marriage dissolution action qualified as “common necessities 18 of life” for the benefit of the debtor’s indigent wife, thereby permitting the attorney to 19 enforce the award by writ of execution on the husband’s earnings against his claim of the 20 support exemption. (In re Marriage of Pallesi (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 424.)
21
- 22 • “Common necessities of life,” in former section 690.11 (repealed) exempting debts
23 incurred for common necessities of life from a statute protecting all of a judgment
24 debtor’s earnings from execution or attachment if earnings were necessary for the support
25 of the debtor’s family, did not refer to “necessaries” in the broad sense, but meant things
26 that are ordinarily required for everyone’s sustenance. (Ratzlaff v. Portillo (1971) 14 27 Cal.App.3d 1013.)
28
- 29 • Attorney’s fees former wife incurred in obtaining divorce were not common “necessaries 30 of life” within the meaning of former section 690.11 (repealed). (Lentfoehr v. Lentfoehr
31 (1955) 134 Cal.App.2d Supp. 905.)
32
- 33 • “Common necessities of life,” as used in former section 690.11 (repealed), exempting all 34 of the earnings of a debtor if necessary for the use or support of debtor’s family residing 35 within the state, except as against the collection of debts incurred by debtor, his wife, or 36 family for common necessities of life—meant those things that are commonly required 37 by persons for their sustenance regardless of their employment or status. (Los Angeles
38 Finance Co. v. Flores (1952) 110 Cal.App.2d Supp. 850.)
39
- 40 • In proceedings supplemental to execution, the debtor was required to pay one-half of a 41 check for $47.50, which was in her possession, and which had been received as salary
42 from the Works Progress Administration, in partial satisfaction of a judgment based on a 43 necessary of life, although money may have been needed by debtor for the support of

1 herself and her family. (Medical Finance Association v. Short (1939)
2 36 Cal.App.2d Supp. 745.)

Appendix F.

Guidelines for the Juvenile Dependency Counsel Collections Program (JDCCP)

1. Legal Authority

These guidelines are adopted under the authority of section 903.47 of the Welfare and Institutions Code,¹ which mandates that the Judicial Council “establish a program to collect reimbursements from the person liable for the costs of counsel appointed to represent parents or minors pursuant to Section 903.1 in dependency proceedings.” (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 903.47(a).) As part of the program, the statute requires the council to “[a]dopt a statewide standard for determining [a responsible person’s] ability to pay reimbursements for counsel.” This standard must “at a minimum include the family’s income, their necessary obligations, the number of people dependent on this income, and the cost-effectiveness of the program.” (Ibid.) The statute also requires the council to “[a]dopt policies and procedures allowing a court to recover from the money collected the costs associated with implementing the reimbursements program.”² These policies and procedures must, in turn, “limit the amount of money a court may recover to a reasonable proportion of the reimbursements collected and provide the terms and conditions under which a court may use a third party to collect reimbursements.” (Ibid.)

Section 903.1 imposes liability on specified persons and estates for the cost of legal services provided to the child and directly to those persons in dependency proceedings. These responsible persons are jointly and severally liable for the cost of the child’s representation. If the petition is dismissed at or before the jurisdictional hearing, though, no liability attaches.

Section 904 authorizes the trial court to determine the cost of dependency-related legal services using methods or procedures approved by the Judicial Council.

Under section 903.47(b), the court may designate a court financial evaluation officer (FEO) or, with the consent of the county, a county financial evaluation officer (FEO) to determine a responsible person’s ability to pay the cost of court-appointed counsel. The court refers any responsible person to the designated FEO at the close of the dispositional hearing under section 903.45(b) unless that referral would not be cost-effective under section 903.47(a)(1)(A). The FEO then determines the responsible person’s ability to pay all or part of the cost of dependency-related legal services under the procedures and within the limits set by section 903.45(b). The statutory scheme, particularly sections 901 and 903, prohibits the assessed amount from exceeding the actual cost of the legal services.

² This section defines costs associated with implementing the reimbursements program as the “court costs of assessing a parent’s ability to pay for court-appointed counsel and the costs to collect delinquent reimbursements.”

Sections 903.1(c) and 903.47(a)(2) direct each court to deposit collected reimbursements in the same manner as it deposits revenue collected under section 68085.1 of the Government Code. The Judicial Council must then transfer the remitted reimbursements to the Trial Court Trust Fund (TCTF).

Except as otherwise authorized by law, the Judicial Council must allocate the funds collected through the reimbursement program to reduce court-appointed attorney caseloads to the Judicial Council–approved standard. In determining allocations, the council must give priority to courts with the highest attorney caseloads that also demonstrate the ability to immediately improve outcomes for parents and children as the result of lower caseloads.

2. Effective Date

These guidelines are effective for all dependency proceedings filed on or after January 1, 2013. Amendments adopted after that date will take effect as specified by the Judicial Council, but no sooner than 30 days after the council meeting at which they are adopted.

3. Responsible Person—Definition

“Responsible person,” as used in these guidelines, refers to the father, mother, spouse, or any other person liable for the support of a child; the estate of that person; or the estate of the child, as made liable under section 903.1(a) for the cost of dependency-related legal services rendered to the child or directly to that person.

4. No Liability

Under section 903.1(b), a responsible person is not liable for, and the court will not seek reimbursement of, the cost of legal services under section 903.1(a) if the dependency petition is dismissed at or before the jurisdictional hearing.

5. Determination of Cost of Legal Services

The court is charged with determining the cost of dependency-related legal services. In doing so, the court may adopt one of the three methods in (a)–(c). In no event will the court seek reimbursement of an amount that exceeds the actual cost of legal services already provided to the children and the responsible person in the proceeding. The court may update its determination of the cost of legal services on an annual basis, on the conclusion of the dependency proceedings in the juvenile court, or on the cessation of representation of the child or responsible person.

(a) Actual Cost

The court may determine the actual cost of the legal services provided to a child or responsible person in a dependency proceeding. The court should base this determination on the actual cost incurred per event in the proceeding, per hour billed, or per client represented.

(b) Cost Model

The court may determine the cost of legal services provided to a child or responsible person in a dependency proceeding by applying the Uniform Regional Cost Model available on serranus.courtinfo.ca.gov or from jdccp@jud.ca.gov. Use of the cost model as described in this section will ensure that the court seeks reimbursement of an amount that most closely approximates, but does not exceed, the actual cost incurred by the court.

(1) Time Allocated to Each Event per Attorney

The court will calculate the time allocated to each event in a local dependency proceeding by

- (A) Dividing the normative caseload of 141 clients per attorney by the actual caseload reported by the dependency attorneys in the county in which the court sits, and then
- (B) Multiplying the result by the number of hours allocated to the type of event in question by the Dependency Counsel Caseload Study.³

(2) Cost of Each Event per Attorney

The court will then calculate the cost of each type of event by multiplying the time allocated to the event by

- (A) The actual hourly rate billed to the court for the provision of dependency-related legal services, or
- (B) The lowest actual hourly rate billed for dependency-related legal services in the region⁴ in which the court is located as reported in the most recent survey of those rates, or
- (C) The approved hourly rate for the region in which the court is located as provided in the Caseload Funding Model (CFM) approved by the Judicial Council in October 2007 and June 2008.⁵

(3) Cost of Proceeding per Attorney

The court will then calculate the cost of the services provided by an attorney in a dependency proceeding by adding together the costs of each event that has occurred in the proceeding at issue.

³ See Center for Families, Children & Cts., Admin. Off. of Cts. Rep., Court-Appointed Counsel: Caseload Standards, Service Delivery Models, and Contract Administration (June 23, 2004), p. 3 & appen.

⁴ California trial courts are grouped into four regions based on parity in cost of living, attorney salaries, and other factors among counties in a given region. See Center for Families, Children & Cts., Admin. Off. of Cts. Rep., DRAFT Pilot Program and Court-Appointed Counsel (Oct. 26, 2007), pp. 7–8.

⁵ See id., at pp. 7–10; Trial Court Budget Working Group Rep., Court-Appointed Counsel Compensation Model and Workload-Based Funding Methodology (June 10, 2008).

(c) Flat Rate Fee Structure

The court may adopt a flat rate fee structure for the cost of legal services in a dependency proceeding as long as the fees charged do not exceed the actual cost of the services provided in that proceeding up to and including the date of the determination and assessment.

6. Determination of Ability to Pay; Financial Evaluation Officer; Statewide Standard

(a) Referral for Financial Evaluation

At the close of the dispositional hearing, the court will order any responsible person present at the hearing to appear before a designated financial evaluation officer (FEO) for a determination of the responsible person's ability to pay reimbursement of all or part of the cost of legal services for which he or she is liable under section 903.1(a), unless the court finds that, given the resources of the court, evaluation by an FEO would not be a cost-effective method of determining the responsible person's ability to pay.

(1) Responsible Person Not Present at Dispositional Hearing

If a responsible person is not present at the dispositional hearing, the court will issue proper notice and an order for him or her to appear before an FEO for determination of his or her ability to pay reimbursement of all or part of the cost of legal services for which he or she is liable under section 903.1(a) unless the court finds that evaluation by an FEO would not be a cost-effective method of determining the responsible person's ability to pay given the resources of the court.

To issue proper notice to a responsible person not present at the hearing at which appearance for a financial evaluation is ordered, the court should send Order to Appear for Financial Evaluation (form JV-131) or the equivalent local form by first-class mail to that person's mailing address of record.

(2) Alternative Methods

If the court finds that evaluation by an FEO is not cost-effective, it may take whatever steps it deems cost-effective to determine the responsible person's ability to pay.

(3) Failure to Appear for Financial Evaluation

If a responsible person is ordered to appear for financial evaluation, has received proper notice, and fails to appear as ordered, the FEO will recommend that the court order the responsible person to pay the full cost of legal services as determined under section 5 of these guidelines unless the next paragraph applies.

If a responsible person is not present at the hearing at which the order to appear for a financial evaluation is made, has received proper notice and an order to appear, and responds to the order by submitting a declaration that he or she is involuntarily confined and therefore not able to attend or reschedule the evaluation, the FEO or the court may presume that he or she is unable to pay reimbursement and is eligible for a waiver of liability at that time.

(4) Proper Notice

Proper notice to a responsible person will contain notice of all of the following:

- (A) His or her right to a statement of the costs as soon as it is available;
- (B) His or her procedural rights under section 27755 of the Government Code;
- (C) The time limit within which his or her appearance is required; and
- (D) A warning that if he or she fails to appear before the FEO, the officer will recommend that the court order him or her to pay the full cost of legal services, and that the FEO's recommendation will be a sufficient basis for the court to order payment of an amount up to the full cost.

(b) Financial Evaluation Officer

The court may either designate a court FEO to determine responsible persons' ability to reimburse the cost of legal services or, with the consent of and under terms agreed to by the county, designate a county FEO to determine responsible persons' ability to reimburse the cost of legal services.

(c) Authority of Financial Evaluation Officer

The designated FEO will conduct the evaluation under the procedures outlined in section 903.45(b). The FEO may determine a referred responsible person's ability to pay all or part of the cost of legal services for which he or she is liable, negotiate a plan for reimbursement over a set period of time based on the responsible person's financial condition, enter into an agreement with the responsible person regarding the amount to be reimbursed and the terms of reimbursement, petition the court for an order of reimbursement according to the terms agreed to with the responsible person, and refer the responsible person back to court for a hearing in the event of a lack of agreement.

(d) Standard for Determining Ability to Pay

The FEO will determine the responsible person's ability to reimburse the cost of legal services using the following standard:

- (1) Presumptive Inability to Pay; Waiver

If a responsible person receives qualifying public benefits or has a household income 125 percent or less of the threshold established by the federal poverty guidelines in effect at the time of the inquiry, then he or she is presumed to be unable to pay reimbursement and is eligible for a waiver of liability.

(A) Qualifying public benefits include benefits under any of the programs listed in Government Code section 68632(a).

(2) Further Inquiry

If the court has concluded as a matter of policy that further inquiry into the financial condition of persons presumed unable to pay would not be warranted or cost-effective, the inquiry may end at this point with a determination that the person is unable to pay.

If the court has concluded as a matter of policy that further inquiry into the financial condition of persons presumed unable to pay is warranted notwithstanding the presumption, the FEO may proceed to a detailed evaluation under (d)(3).

(3) Responsible Person's Financial Condition

The FEO may, at any time following the close of the dispositional hearing, make a detailed evaluation of a referred responsible person's financial condition at that time under section 903.45(b). Based on any relevant information submitted by the responsible person, including but not limited to a completed Financial Declaration—Juvenile Dependency (form JV-132) or the equivalent local form, the FEO will assess the responsible person's household income, household needs and obligations (including other court-ordered obligations), and the number of persons dependent on the household income and will determine the person's ability to pay all or part of the cost of legal services without using funds that would normally be used to pay for the common necessities of life.

When calculating a person's household income, the FEO must exclude from consideration any benefits received from a public assistance program that determines eligibility based on need.⁶

(e) Circumstances Requiring No Petition or Order for Reimbursement

Under section 903.45(b), the FEO may not petition the court to order reimbursement of the cost of legal services, and the court will not so order, if:

⁶ In re S.M. (2012) 209 Cal.App.4th 21, 28–31.

- (1) The responsible person has been reunified with any of the children under a court order and the FEO determines that requiring repayment would harm his or her ability to support the children;
- (2) The responsible person is currently receiving reunification services and the court or the FEO determines that requiring repayment will pose a barrier to reunification; or
- (3) The court determines that requiring repayment would be unjust under the circumstances of the case.

(f) Amount Assessed

The FEO may, consistent with the responsible person's ability to pay, assess any amount up to the full cost determined under section 5 of these guidelines, and may recommend reimbursement in a single lump sum or in multiple installments over a set period of time.

(g) Agreement; Petition

If the responsible person agrees in writing to the FEO's written determination of the amount that the responsible person is able to reimburse and the terms of reimbursement, the FEO will petition the court for an order requiring the responsible person to reimburse the court in a manner that is reasonable and compatible with the responsible person's financial condition.

(h) Dispute; Referral

If the responsible person disputes his or her liability for the cost of legal services, the amount of that cost, the FEO's determination of his or her ability to reimburse all or part of that cost, or the terms of reimbursement, the FEO will refer the matter, with his or her written determination, back to the juvenile court for a hearing.

7. Judicial Proceeding Following Determination of Ability to Reimburse Cost

On having made a determination of the responsible person's ability to reimburse all or part of the cost of legal services, the FEO will return the matter to the juvenile court as follows:

(a) Agreement; Order

If the responsible person agrees to reimburse the court as recommended by the FEO, the FEO will prepare an agreement to be signed by the responsible person. The agreement will reflect the amount to be reimbursed and the terms under which reimbursement will be paid. The juvenile court may order the responsible person to pay reimbursement under those terms without further notice to the responsible person.

(b) Dispute; Hearing

If the matter is deemed in dispute and the FEO has referred the matter back to the juvenile court under section 6(h), the court will set and conduct a hearing under section 903.45(b).

(c) Judicial Determination

If, at the conclusion of the hearing, the court determines that the responsible person is able to reimburse all or part of the cost of legal services—including the cost of any attorney appointed to represent the responsible person at that hearing—without using funds that would normally be used to pay for the common necessities of life, the court will set the amount to be reimbursed and order the responsible person to pay that amount to the court in a manner that the court believes reasonable and compatible with the responsible person’s financial condition.

8. Reevaluation of Ability to Pay

At any time before reimbursement is complete, a responsible person may petition the court to modify or vacate the reimbursement order based on a change in circumstances affecting his or her ability to pay. The court may deny the petition without a hearing if the petition fails to state a change of circumstances. The court may grant the petition without a hearing if the petition states a change of circumstances and all parties stipulate to the requested modification.

9. Frequency of Determination of Ability to Pay and Assessment

The initial evaluation and determination of a responsible person’s ability to pay reimbursement may be conducted at any time following the conclusion of the dispositional hearing. The court may order a reevaluation of a responsible person’s financial condition on an annual basis, on the conclusion of the dependency proceedings in the juvenile court, or on the cessation of court-appointed representation of the child or the responsible person.

If the FEO determines on reevaluation that the responsible person is able at that time to pay all or part of the cost of legal services, the FEO may, consistent with the responsible person’s ability to pay without using funds that would normally be used to pay for the common necessities of life, assess an amount up to the full cost, as determined under section 5, of any legal services provided to the child or the responsible person and may recommend reimbursement in a single lump sum or in multiple installments over a set period of time.

10. Collection Services

(a) Court-Based Collection Services

To the extent applicable and consistent with sections 903.1 and 903.47, a court should administer the collection, processing, and deposit of court-ordered reimbursement of the cost of dependency-related legal services under the procedures in policies FIN 10.01 and FIN 10.02 of the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual.

(b) Outside Collection-Services Providers

When appropriate and consistent with policy FIN 10.01, a court may use an outside collection-services provider.

(1) Collection Services Provided by County

If collection services are provided by the county, the agreement should be formalized by a memorandum of understanding (MOU) between the court and county. Judicial Council staff will provide a sample MOU on request. An electronic copy of the MOU, including a scanned copy of the completed signature page, must be sent to jdccp@jud.ca.gov.

(2) Collection Services Provided by Private Vendor

A court that uses a private collection service should use a vendor that has entered into a master agreement with the Judicial Council to provide comprehensive collection services. A court that uses such a vendor should complete a participation agreement and send it to Judicial Council staff via e-mail to jdccp@jud.ca.gov. A court may contract directly with a private vendor only on terms and conditions substantially similar to those set forth in the master agreements for comprehensive collection services available at <http://serranus.courtinfo.ca.gov/programs/collections/mva.htm>.

(3) Court Option for Judicial Council Agreement with Collection-Services Provider

At a court's request, the Judicial Council may directly enter into an MOU with the county or an agreement with a private collection-services vendor for services under this program.

(c) Agreements Between Courts

Nothing in this section is intended to preclude a court or courts from establishing an agreement with another court or courts for one or more courts to perform services under this program on behalf of other courts, or for one or more courts to combine collection efforts under this program.

11. Recovery of Program Implementation Costs

A court may recover, from the money it has collected, its eligible program implementation costs before remitting the balance of the collected funds to the state in the manner required by Government Code section 68085.1. Eligible costs are limited by statute to the cost of determining responsible persons' ability to repay the cost of court-appointed counsel and to the cost of collecting delinquent reimbursements. If a court's eligible costs in any given month exceed the amount of revenue it has collected in that month, the court may carry the excess costs forward within the same fiscal year until sufficient revenue is collected to recover the eligible costs in full. Any program costs recovered by the court must be documented by the court and reported monthly by e-mail to jdccp@jud.ca.gov in a format consistent with the Cost Recovery Template available on serranus.courtinfo.ca.gov or from jdccp@jud.ca.gov.

(a) Delinquent Reimbursement Defined

For purposes of this section, delinquent reimbursement means any reimbursement payment not received within one business day of the date it is due.

12. Remittance and Reporting of Collected Revenue

A court will remit collected revenue, less recovered costs, to the state in the same manner as required under Government Code section 68085.1 and will report this revenue on row 130 of Court Remittance Advice (form TC-145). The Judicial Council will deposit the revenue received through this program into the Trial Court Trust Fund as required by statute.

(a) Judicial Council Collections Agreement Option

Where the Judicial Council has entered into an MOU or an agreement with a county or a private collection-services vendor under section 10(b)(3) of these guidelines, funds will be remitted directly to the Judicial Council under the terms of the MOU or the agreement.

13. Program Data Reporting

Each court should report JDCCP data to Judicial Council staff to ensure implementation of the Legislature's intent by determining the cost-effectiveness of the program and confirming that efforts to collect reimbursement do not negatively impact reunification; to provide a basis for projecting the amount of future reimbursements; and to evaluate the JDCCP's effectiveness both statewide and at the local level.

(a) Ongoing Reporting Requirement

To support the amount remitted to the Trial Court Trust Fund, each court will report collections data annually on or before September 30, beginning September 30, 2013. The first report should cover the period from January 1, 2013, to June 30, 2013. Each court should submit its completed report attached to an e-mail message to jdccp@jud.ca.gov.

(1) Data Reporting

Judicial Council staff will provide a reporting template that solicits the following information:

- (A) Total number of responsible persons evaluated in the reporting period to determine their ability to pay
- (B) Number of persons in (A) found unable to pay

- (C) Number of persons in (A) found able to pay but not ordered to pay under section 6(e)
- (D) Number of open accounts at the beginning of the reporting period
- (E) Dollar amount in open accounts at the beginning of the reporting period
- (F) Number of new accounts opened in the reporting period
- (G) Dollar amount in accounts opened during the reporting period
- (H) Total dollar amount collected from all accounts in the reporting period
- (I) Number of accounts closed or discharged in the reporting period
- (J) Number of open accounts at the end of the reporting period
- (K) Dollar amount in open accounts at the end of the reporting period

(2) JDCCP Implementation Review

Within two years of the effective date of these guidelines and thereafter as needed, the Judicial Council will evaluate the progress of the JDCCP's statewide implementation and examine the impact of the program on court workload and finances. For this purpose, Judicial Council staff may survey the courts about their financial evaluation processes, including the time and resources needed to determine responsible persons' ability to pay, the number of such persons evaluated, the results of the evaluations as specified in 6(d)–(g), and the number of judicial hearings necessary under 7(b)–(c).

14. Allocation of Collected Funds to Trial Courts

(a) Eligibility for Allocation

A trial court is eligible to receive an allocation from the funds remitted through the JDCCP for the purpose of reducing its dependency-counsel caseload if it meets the following criteria.

(1) Participation

The court has demonstrated its participation in the JDCCP by

- (A) adopting a local rule or policy requiring the juvenile court to inquire at or before the close of each dispositional hearing about each responsible person's ability to pay reimbursement and
- (B) submitting annual reports under section 13.

(2) Funding Need

The court receives a base court-appointed counsel allocation that, viewed as a percentage of the available statewide funding, is less than its percentage share of the statewide court-appointed counsel funding need as estimated by the CFM.⁷

(b) Allocation Methodology

Remitted funds will be allocated annually, as part of the court-appointed counsel budget development process, to each eligible court in an amount equivalent to its need as a percentage of the estimated aggregate funding need of all eligible courts. Any allocation from the remitted funds is separate from, and in addition to, a court's allocation from the statewide court-appointed counsel funding base.

The Judicial Council provides a single funding allocation to the DRAFT program to support court-appointed counsel in participating courts. This funding is managed by the Judicial Council as part of the court-appointed counsel budget development and funding process. Collected reimbursements allocated to the DRAFT program will also be managed by the council through this process.

(c) Review of Determination of Funding Level

A court that believes that the amount of its allocation is due to an error in determining its funding need may request a review of that determination within 90 days. The request should clearly state the nature of the error.

The review will be conducted collaboratively by the court and the Judicial Council.

15. Technical Assistance

Judicial Council staff will provide technical assistance on request to courts that are in the process of implementing the JDCCP or that wish to coordinate collection efforts with other ⁷ In October 2007, the TCBWG developed and the Judicial Council approved a need-based compensation or caseload funding model (CFM) for court-appointed dependency counsel practicing in courts under the DRAFT program. (See Trial Court Budget Working Group Rep., supra note 5.) In June 2008, the council's Executive and Planning Committee extended that methodology to appointed dependency counsel in all juvenile courts statewide. The CFM uses the number of data-supported clients in a county to determine the number of FTE attorneys needed to serve that population at the Judicial Council–approved caseload standard of 188 clients per FTE attorney. (See id., at p. 4.) It then uses cost of living, county counsel salaries, and other economic factors to assign each court to one of four statewide groups. (See id., at p. 5.) To promote equity in attorney compensation, each group of courts is assigned an attorney salary level based on the prevailing county counsel salary range in that group. Each court's appointed-counsel salary needs are determined by multiplying the mid-tier salary level by the number of FTE attorneys needed to serve the client population at the approved caseload. The cost of benefits and overhead, including support staff, are calculated at assigned percentages of the attorney salaries. Adding these elements together yields a precise estimate of the funding needed for a court to ensure competent representation of all parties in juvenile dependency proceedings under sections 317(c) and 317.5, as well as rule 5.660(d) of the California Rules of Court.

courts. Courts may send requests by e-mail to jdccp@jud.ca.gov to receive technical assistance, which can include (but is not limited to) services such as:

- (a) Helping a court implement the reimbursement program within its current administrative structure;
- (b) Advising a court on the application of the Uniform Cost Model under section 5(b) of these guidelines;

Parliamentary Procedures for the Judicial Council of California

I. Introduction

These parliamentary procedures are a set of rules for conducting business at Judicial Council meetings.

II. Establishing a Quorum

A quorum is defined as the minimum number of members of the body who must be present at a meeting for business to be legally transacted. The Judicial Council abides by a rule providing that a quorum is one more than half the voting members. Because there are 21 voting members on the council, there must be 11 voting members present to legally transact business. Even if the council has a quorum to begin the meeting, it can lose the quorum during the meeting when a member departs. When that occurs, the council loses its ability to transact business until and unless a quorum is reestablished.

III. The Role of the Chair

While all members of the council should know and understand the rules of parliamentary procedure, it is the Chair who is charged with applying the rules in the conduct of the meeting. The Chair, for all intents and purposes, makes the final ruling on the rules every time he or she states an action. In fact, all decisions by the Chair are final unless overruled by the council itself.

Because the Chair conducts the meeting, normally the Chair will play a less active role in the debate and discussion than other members of the council. This does not mean that the Chair should not participate in the debate or discussion. The Chair as a member of the council has the full right to participate in the debate, discussion, and decision making of the council. However, the Chair should generally look to other council members to make or second motions.

IV. Voting Requirement for Judicial Council Action

To take any substantive action, a majority of all voting members of the Judicial Council must vote in favor of the action. (See Gov. Code, § 68508.) Because there are 21 voting members on the council, there must be a quorum of at least 11 members voting to take any action, and a vote on a substantive motion (as defined below) requires 11 affirmative votes to pass.

Advisory members of the council may make or second motions and may fully participate in discussion and debate, but are not counted for purposes of quorum, and may not vote. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.3(b).)

V. Motions in General

Motions are made in a simple two-step process. First, the Chair should recognize the council member. Second, the member makes a motion by preceding his or her desired approach with the words, “I move” A typical motion might be: “I move that we adopt the committee’s recommendation.”

The Chair usually initiates the motion by doing one of the following:

1. Inviting the council members to make a motion. “A motion at this time would be in order.”
2. Suggesting a motion to the members. “A motion would be in order that we adopt the committee’s recommendation.”
3. Making the motion. As noted, the Chair has every right as a council member to make a motion, but should normally do so only if he or she wishes to make a motion on an item but is convinced that no other member is willing to step forward to do so at a particular time.

After a vote is taken, the Chair should announce the result of the vote as well as the vote count. For example, the Chair might say: “The motion to create a five-member working group to develop parliamentary procedures for the council has passed. The vote was 11 in favor, 9 opposed, and 1 abstention.” By announcing the result and the vote count, the Chair clarifies what the council has done for the benefit of the council and the public. Rather than making the announcement, the Chair may ask the Secretary to announce the result of the vote as well as the vote count.

A. Substantive Motions

There are three substantive motions that are the most common and recur often at meetings:

The basic motion. The basic motion is the one that puts forward a decision for the council’s consideration. A basic motion might be: “I move that we create a five-member working group to develop parliamentary procedures for the council.”

The motion to amend. If a member wants to change a basic motion that is before the body, he or she would move to amend it. A motion to amend might be: “I move that we amend the motion to have a ten-member working group.” A motion to amend takes the basic motion that is before the council and seeks to change it in some way. The council would first vote on whether the motion should be amended. If that motion passes, the council would then vote on the motion itself as amended.

The substitute motion. If a member wants to completely do away with the basic motion that is before the council and put a new motion in its place, he or she would move to make a substitute motion. A substitute motion might be: “I move that we impose a moratorium against appointing new working groups.”

Motions to amend and substitute motions are often confused. But they are quite different, and their effect (if passed) is also quite different. A motion to amend seeks to retain the basic motion on the floor, but modify it in some way. A substitute motion seeks to throw out the basic motion on the floor and substitute a new and different motion for it. The decision on whether a motion is really a motion to amend or a substitute motion is left to the Chair. So if a member makes what that member calls a motion to amend, but the Chair determines that it is really a substitute motion, the Chair's designation governs.

The basic rule of substantive motions is that they are subject to discussion and debate. Accordingly, basic motions, motions to amend, and substitute motions are all eligible for full discussion by the council. The debate can continue as long as council members wish to discuss an item, subject to the decision of the Chair that it is time to move on and take action.

For a substantive motion to pass, it requires the affirmative concurrence of a majority of voting members of the council. In other words, 11 voting members of the council must vote in favor of a substantive motion for it to pass. An abstention does not constitute a vote in favor of a motion.

The order in which various motions are considered is addressed in section VI, Multiple Motions Before the Judicial Council, on pages 5–6.

B. Friendly Amendments

A “friendly amendment” is a practical parliamentary tool that is simple, informal, saves time, and avoids bogging down a meeting with numerous formal motions. It works as follows: During the discussion on a pending motion, it may appear that a change to the motion is desirable or may win support for the motion from some members. When that happens, a member who has the floor may simply say, “I would like to suggest a friendly amendment to the motion.” The member suggests the friendly amendment, and if the maker and the person who seconded the motion pending on the floor accept the friendly amendment, that now becomes the pending motion on the floor. If either the maker or the person who seconded rejects the proposed friendly amendment, the proposer can formally move to amend.

C. Procedural Motions

In contrast to the substantive motions described above, which result in the council voting whether to take action, there are several types of procedural motions. These motions differ from substantive motions in both the applicability of the rule of free and open debate on motions and in the number of votes required to pass the motions. The procedural motions, all of which indicate a desire of the council to move on, are not debatable. Thus, when the motion is made and seconded, the Chair must immediately call for a vote without debate on the procedural motion.

As for votes on these motions, while substantive motions require the concurrence of 11 voting members, procedural motions require either a majority or a two-thirds vote (depending on the motion) of voting members who are present. For example, if 15 voting members are present, 8 votes are required to pass a motion that requires a majority vote, and 10 votes are required to pass a motion that requires a two-thirds vote. (The counting of votes is discussed in greater detail in section VII, Counting Votes, on pages 7–8.)

Procedural motions that require a majority vote include:

Motion to adjourn. This motion, if passed, requires the council to immediately adjourn to its next regularly scheduled meeting. It requires a simple majority vote of those present and voting to pass.

Motion to recess. This motion, if passed, requires the council to immediately take a recess. Normally, the Chair determines the length of the recess, which may be a few minutes or an hour. It requires a simple majority vote of those present and voting to pass.

Motion to fix the time to adjourn. This motion, if passed, requires the council to adjourn the meeting at the specific time set in the motion. For example, the motion might be: “I move we adjourn this meeting at 5 p.m.” It requires a simple majority vote of those present and voting to pass.

Motion to table. This motion, if passed, requires discussion of the agenda item to be halted and the agenda item to be placed on “hold.” The motion can contain a specific time in which the item can come back to the council: “I move we table this item until our regular meeting in October.” Or the motion can contain no specific time for the return of the item, in which case a motion to take the item off the table and bring it back to the council will have to be taken at a future meeting. A motion to table an item (or to bring it back to the council) requires a simple majority vote of those present and voting to pass.

Procedural motions that require a two-thirds vote include:

Motion to object to consideration of an item. Normally, such a motion is unnecessary since the objectionable item can be tabled or simply defeated. However, when members of a body do not even want an item on the agenda to be considered, then such a motion is in order. It requires a two-thirds vote of those present and voting to pass.

Motion to limit debate. The most common form of this motion is to say: “I move the previous question” or “I move the question” or “I call the question” or simply “Question.” As a practical matter, when a member calls out one of these phrases, the Chair can expedite things by treating it as a “request” rather than as a formal motion. The Chair can then simply inquire, “Is there any further discussion?” If no one wishes to discuss it further, the Chair can proceed to a vote on the underlying matter. On the other hand, if even one council member wishes further discussion and debate on the underlying matter, the Chair must treat the “call for the question” as a motion and proceed accordingly.

When a council member makes such a motion, he or she is really saying, “I’ve had enough debate. Let’s get on with the vote.” When such a motion is made, the Chair should ask for a second, stop debate, and vote on the motion to limit debate. Note that a motion to limit debate could include a time limit. For example: “I move we limit debate on this agenda item to 15 minutes.” A motion to limit debate requires a two-thirds vote of those present and voting to pass.

D. Motions to Reconsider

There is a special and unique motion that requires a separate explanation: the motion to reconsider. A tenet of parliamentary procedure is finality. After vigorous discussion, debate, and a vote, there must be some closure to the issue. Thus, after a vote is taken, the matter is deemed closed, subject only to reopening if a proper motion to reconsider is made and passed.

A motion to reconsider is a procedural motion that requires only a majority vote of those voting members who are present to pass, but there are two special rules that apply only to the motion to reconsider.

First is the matter of timing. A motion to reconsider must be made at the meeting at which the item was first voted upon. A motion to reconsider made at a later time is untimely.

Second, a motion to reconsider may be made only by a member who voted in the majority on the original motion. If such a member has a change of heart, he or she may make the motion to reconsider. (Any other council member may second the motion.) If a member who voted in the minority seeks to make the motion to reconsider, it must be ruled out of order. The purpose of this rule is finality. If a member of the minority could make a motion to reconsider, the item could be brought back to the council again and again, which would defeat the purpose of finality.

If the motion to reconsider passes, then the original matter is back before the body, and a new original motion is in order. The matter may be discussed and debated as if it were on the floor for the first time.

VI. Multiple Motions Before the Judicial Council

There can be up to three motions on the floor at the same time. The Chair can reject a fourth motion until he or she has addressed the three that are on the floor and has resolved them. This rule has practical value. More than three motions on the floor at one time tends to be too confusing and unwieldy for most everyone, including the Chair.

When there are two or three motions on the floor (after motions and seconds) at the same time, the vote should proceed first on the last motion that was made. So, for example, assume the first motion is a basic motion to appoint a 5-member working group to develop parliamentary procedures for the council. During the discussion of this motion, a member might make a second motion to amend the basic motion so that a 10-member working group would be appointed instead of a 5-member working group. And perhaps, during that discussion, another member makes yet a third motion as a substitute motion to impose a moratorium against appointing new working groups. The proper procedure would be as follows:

First, the Chair would address the third (the last) motion on the floor, the substitute motion. After discussion and debate, a vote would be taken on the third motion. If the substitute motion passed, it would be a substitute for the basic motion and would eliminate it. The first motion would be moot, as would the second motion (which sought to amend the first motion), and the action on the agenda item would be completed on the passage by the council of the third motion (the substitute motion). No vote would be taken on the first or second motions.

Second, if the substitute motion failed, the Chair would address the second (now, the last) motion on the floor, the motion to amend. The discussion and debate would focus strictly on the amendment (whether the committee should be 5 members or 10 members). If the motion to amend passed, the Chair would now move to consider the main motion (the first motion) as amended. If the motion to amend failed, the Chair would now move to consider the main motion (the first motion) in its original format, not amended.

VII. Counting Votes

A. Number of Votes Needed to Take Action

As noted above, for substantive motions, a minimum of 11 voting members must be present to constitute a quorum, and a minimum of 11 votes are needed to pass such substantive motions. For procedural motions, a minimum of 11 voting members must be present to constitute a quorum, and there must be either a majority vote or a two-thirds vote of voting members, depending on the motion, to pass such procedural motions.

When a majority vote is needed to pass a motion, one vote more than 50 percent of those voting is required. If a two-thirds vote is needed to pass a motion, there is a formula to determine how many affirmative votes are required. The simple rule of thumb is to count the “no” votes and double that count to determine how many “yes” votes are needed to pass a particular motion. So, for example, if 6 members vote “no,” then the “yes” vote of at least 12 members is required to achieve a two-thirds majority vote to pass the motion.

In the event of a tie vote, the motion always fails because an affirmative vote is required to pass any motion. For example, if the vote is 10 in favor and 10 opposed, with 1 member absent, the motion is defeated.

B. Abstentions

Members sometimes prefer to abstain from voting. Members who abstain are counted for purposes of determining whether there is a quorum, but the abstention votes on the motion are treated as if they do not exist. In other words, an abstention is not treated as either a “yes” vote or a “no” vote.

C. Examples

Here are a few examples to illustrate vote-counting under different circumstances:

Majority Vote Counting

Assume that 21 voting members of the council are present to vote on a substantive motion, which requires 11 votes to pass. If the vote on the motion is 11 to 10, the motion passes. If the motion is 10 to 10 with 1 abstention, the motion fails because the abstention is not counted as a “yes” vote.

Assume that 18 members are present and voting on a procedural motion that requires only a majority vote to pass (as opposed to 11 votes). If the vote is 10 to 8, the motion passes. If the vote is 9 to 9, the motion fails. If the vote is 9 to 8 with 1 abstention, the motion fails because 10 votes are required for the motion to pass (one vote more than 50 percent). Once again, the abstention vote is counted only for the purpose of determining quorum, but on the actual vote on the motion, it is as if the abstention vote did not occur.

Two-Thirds Vote Counting

Assume 21 members are present and voting on a motion that requires a two-thirds vote to pass. If the vote is 11 to 10, the motion fails for lack of a two-thirds majority. If the vote is 18 to 3, the motion passes with a clear two-thirds majority. If the vote is 13 to 8, the motion fails. Using the formula discussed above, the “no” votes are counted and doubled to determine whether there are enough “yes” votes to constitute a two-thirds majority. If the vote is 13 to 6 with 2 abstentions, the motion passes because the abstentions are treated as if they don’t exist, and with 6 “no” votes, 12 votes are needed to pass the motion. Therefore, the motion passes with 13 votes.

Abstention

To cast an “abstention” vote, a member either votes “abstain” or says “I abstain.” However, if a member votes “present,” that is also treated as an abstention. The member is essentially saying, “Count me for purposes of a quorum, but my vote on the issue is abstain.” In fact, any manifestation of intention to vote neither “yes” nor “no” on the pending motion may be treated by the Chair as an abstention.

Absence

Can a member vote “absent” or “count me as absent?” The ruling on this is up to the Chair. The better approach is for the Chair to count this as a vote to abstain if the person does not actually leave the boardroom. If, however, the member leaves the boardroom and is actually absent, the Chair should count the member as absent. That, of course, may affect the quorum.

VIII. Alternative Methods of Voting

A. Voting by Proxy

Voting by proxy is not permitted. A Judicial Council member, therefore, may not authorize another person to vote on his or her behalf.

B. Attending Meetings and Voting by Telephone or Teleconference

Council members are permitted to attend meetings and vote by telephone or teleconference.

C. Early Voting

On occasion, a voting member of the Judicial Council may be unable to attend a council meeting or must depart before the presentation of a discussion item or the ensuing exchange is completed. Subdivision (c) of rule 10.5 (Notice and agenda of council meeting) defines the term “business meetings” as meetings “at which a majority of voting members are present to discuss and decide matters within the council’s jurisdiction.” The rule contemplates that members will be present for a discussion of the agenda item. Accordingly, a council member is not permitted to vote before the discussion about the agenda item has ended.

IX. Courtesy and Decorum

The rules of order are meant to create an atmosphere where council members and the public can attend to business efficiently, fairly, and with full participation. At the same time, it is up to the Chair and the council members to maintain common courtesy and decorum. It is always best for only one person at a time to have the floor, and it is always best for every speaker to be first recognized by the Chair before speaking.

The Chair should ensure that discussion and debate of an agenda item focuses on the item and the policy in question. The Chair has the right to cut off discussion that diverges from the agenda item.

Debate and discussion should be focused, but free and open. In the interest of time, the Chair may, however, limit the time allotted to speakers, including council members.

Council members should not interrupt the speaker. There are, however, exceptions. A speaker may be interrupted for the following reasons:

Privilege. The proper interruption would be to say, “Point of privilege.” The Chair would then ask the interrupter to “state your point.” Appropriate points of privilege relate to anything that would interfere with the normal comfort of the meeting. For example, the room may be too hot or too cold, or a blowing fan might interfere with a person’s ability to hear.

Order. The proper interruption would be to say, “Point of order.” Again, the Chair would ask the interrupter to “state your point.” Appropriate points of order relate to anything that would not be considered appropriate conduct of the meeting, such as the Chair moving on to a vote on a motion that permits debate without allowing that discussion or debate.

Appeal. If the Chair makes a ruling with which a member of the body disagrees, that member may appeal the ruling of the Chair. For example, if the Chair deems a motion to be a substitute motion and a member considers it to be a motion to amend, the member may appeal that ruling. If the motion is seconded and, after debate, it passes by a simple majority vote, the ruling of the Chair is deemed reversed. The motion to appeal the ruling of the Chair is considered a procedural motion.

Call for orders of the day. This is simply another way of saying, “Let’s return to the agenda.” If a member believes that the council has drifted from the agenda, such a call may be made. It does not require a vote. If the Chair discovers that the agenda has not been followed, the Chair simply reminds the council members to return to the agenda item properly before them. If the Chair fails to do so, the Chair’s determination may be appealed.

Withdraw a motion. During debate and discussion of a motion, the maker of the motion on the floor, at any time, may interrupt a speaker to withdraw his or her motion from the floor. The motion is immediately deemed withdrawn, although the Chair may ask the person who seconded the motion if he or she wishes to make the motion, and any other member may make the motion if properly recognized.

X. Recess and Adjournment

Unless there is an objection, the Chair may recess the council meeting for a definite period of time and may adjourn the meeting.

Appendix H

Amount of Civil Penalty to Cure Alleged Violation of Proposition 65 for Failure to Provide Certain Warnings (Health & Saf. Code, § 26249.7(k))

Formula

Under Health and Safety Code section 26249.7(k), the amount of civil penalty per facility or premises that an alleged violator may agree to pay within 14 days of service of a notice of violation under that section will be computed and adjusted as follows:

$$\text{Adjusted penalty amount} = \left[\frac{\text{annual CCPI (Dec. 2018)} - \text{annual CCPI (Dec. 2013)}}{\text{annual CCPI (Dec. 2013)}} + 1 \right] \times \text{Previous dollar amount}$$

Definition

“CCPI” means the California Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers, as established by the California Department of Industrial Relations.

Calculation and adjustment

Effective April 1, 2019, the amount of civil penalty that an alleged violator may agree to pay within 14 days of service of a notice of violation under Health and Safety Code section 26249.7(k)(2)(B)(ii) is $565 per facility or premises where the alleged violation occurred.

The calculation is as follows:

Under Health and Safety Code section 26249.7(k)(2)(B)(ii), the adjusted penalty amount is rounded to the nearest $5, so the dollar amount of the adjusted limit is rounded to $565.

Appendix H adopted effective April 1, 2019.

Appendix I
Emergency Rules Related to COVID-19

Emergency rule 1. Unlawful detainers

(a) Application

Notwithstanding any other law, including Code of Civil Procedure sections 1166, 1167, 1169, and 1170.5, this rule applies to all actions for unlawful detainer.

(b) Issuance of summons

A court may not issue a summons on a complaint for unlawful detainer unless the court finds, in its discretion and on the record, that the action is necessary to protect public health and safety.

(c) Entry of default

A court may not enter a default or a default judgment for restitution in an unlawful detainer action for failure of defendant to appear unless the court finds both of the following:

- (1) The action is necessary to protect public health and safety; and
- (2) The defendant has not appeared in the action within the time provided by law, including by any applicable executive order.

(d) Time for trial

If a defendant has appeared in the action, the court may not set a trial date earlier than 60 days after a request for trial is made unless the court finds that an earlier trial date is necessary to protect public health and safety. Any trial set in an unlawful detainer proceeding as of April 6, 2020 must be continued at least 60 days from the initial date of trial.

(e) Sunset of rule

This rule will remain in effect through September 1, 2020, or until amended or repealed by the Judicial Council. Notwithstanding Code of Civil Procedure section 1170.5 and this subdivision, any trial date set under (d) as of September 1, 2020, will remain as set unless a court otherwise orders.

1 (Subd (e) amended effective August 13, 2020.)

3 Emergency Rule 1 amended effective August 13, 2020.

6 Emergency rule 2. Judicial foreclosures—suspension of actions

8 Notwithstanding any other law, this rule applies to any action for foreclosure on a
9 mortgage or deed of trust brought under chapter 1, title 10, of part 2 of the Code of Civil 10 Procedure, beginning at section 725a, including any action for a deficiency judgment, and 11 provides that, through September 1, 2020, or until this rule is amended or repealed by the 12 Judicial Council:

- 13
14 (1) All such actions are stayed, and the court may take no action and issue no 15 decisions or judgments unless the court finds that action is required to further the 16 public health and safety.
17
18 (2) The period for electing or exercising any rights under that chapter, including 19 exercising any right of redemption from a foreclosure sale or petitioning the court
20 in relation to such a right, is extended.

21
22 Emergency Rule 2 amended effective August 13, 2020.

23
24 Advisory Committee Comment

25
26 The provision for tolling any applicable statute of limitations, in prior subdivision (2), has been 27 removed as unnecessary because the tolling provisions in emergency rule 9 apply to actions 28 subject to this rule.

29
30
31 Emergency rule 3. Use of technology for remote appearances

32
33 (a) Remote appearances

34
35 Notwithstanding any other law, in order to protect the health and safety of the 36 public, including court users, both in custody and out of custody defendants,
37 witnesses, court personnel, judicial officers, and others, courts must conduct 38 criminal proceedings and court operations as follows:

- 39
40 (1) Courts may require that criminal proceedings and court operations be 41 conducted remotely.
42

1 (2) In criminal proceedings, courts must receive the consent of the defendant to
2 conduct the proceeding remotely and otherwise comply with emergency rule
3 5. Notwithstanding Penal Code sections 865 and 977 or any other law, the 4 court may conduct any criminal proceeding remotely. As used in this rule, 5 “consent of the defendant” means that the consent of the defendant is 6 required only for the waiver of the defendant’s appearance as provided in 7 emergency rule 5. For good cause shown, the court may require any witness
8 to personally appear in a particular proceeding.

10 (3) Conducting criminal proceedings remotely includes, but is not limited to, the 11 use of video, audio, and telephonic means for remote appearances; the 12 electronic exchange and authentication of documentary evidence; e-filing and 13 e-service; the use of remote interpreting; and the use of remote reporting and 14 electronic recording to make the official record of an action or proceeding.
15

17

18 (b) Sunset of rule
19

20 This rule will remain in effect until 90 days after the Governor declares that the 21 state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic is lifted, or until amended or 22 repealed by the Judicial Council.
23

24 Emergency Rule 3 amended effective January 1, 2022.
25

26 Emergency rule 4. Emergency Bail Schedule [Repealed]

27 Emergency rule 4 repealed effective June 20, 2020.
28
29

30 Emergency rule 5. Personal appearance waivers of defendants during health
31 emergency
32

33 (a) Application
34

35 Notwithstanding any other law, including Penal Code sections 865 and 977, this 36 rule applies to all criminal proceedings except cases alleging murder with special
37 circumstances and cases in which the defendant is currently incarcerated in state
38 prison, as governed by Penal Code section 977.2.
39

40 (b) Types of personal appearance waivers
41

- (1) With the consent of the defendant, the court must allow a defendant to waive his or her personal appearance and to appear remotely, either through video or telephonic appearance, when the technology is available.
- (2) With the consent of the defendant, the court must allow a defendant to waive his or her appearance and permit counsel to appear on his or her behalf. The court must accept a defendant's waiver of appearance or personal appearance when:
 - (A) Counsel for the defendant makes an on the record oral representation that counsel has fully discussed the waiver and its implications with the defendant and the defendant has authorized counsel to proceed as counsel represents to the court;
 - (B) Electronic communication from the defendant as confirmed by defendant's counsel; or
 - (C) Any other means that ensures the validity of the defendant's waiver.

(c) Consent by the defendant

- (1) For purposes of arraignment and entry of a not guilty plea, consent means a knowing, intelligent, and voluntary waiver of the right to appear personally in court. Counsel for the defendant must state on the record at each applicable hearing that counsel is proceeding with the defendant's consent.
- (2) For purposes of waiving time for a preliminary hearing, consent also means a knowing, intelligent, and voluntary waiver of the right to hold a preliminary hearing within required time limits specified either in Penal Code section 859b or under emergency orders issued by the Chief Justice and Chair of the Judicial Council.
- (3) The court must accept defense counsel's representation that the defendant understands and agrees with waiving any right to appear unless the court has specific concerns in a particular matter about the validity of the waiver.

(d) Appearance through counsel

- (1) When counsel appears on behalf of a defendant, courts must allow counsel to do any of the following:
 - (A) Waive reading and advisement of rights for arraignment.

1 (B) Enter a plea of not guilty.

3 (C) Waive time for the preliminary hearing.

5 (2) For appearances by counsel, including where the defendant is either 6 appearing remotely or has waived his or her appearance and or counsel is 7 appearing by remote access, counsel must confirm to the court at each 8 hearing that the appearance by counsel is made with the consent of the 9 defendant.

10
11 (e) Conduct of remote hearings

- 12
13 (1) With the defendant's consent, a defendant may appear remotely for any 14 pretrial criminal proceeding.
15
16 (2) Where a defendant appears remotely, counsel may not be required to be 17 personally present with the defendant for any portion of the criminal 18 proceeding provided that the audio and/or video conferencing system or other 19 technology allows for private communication between the defendant and his 20 or her counsel. Any private communication is confidential and privileged 21 under Evidence Code section 952.

22
23 (f) Sunset of rule

24
25 This rule will remain in effect until 90 days after the Governor declares that the 26 state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic is lifted, or until amended or
27 repealed by the Judicial Council.
28
29

30 Emergency rule 6. Emergency orders: juvenile dependency proceedings

31
32 (a) Application

33
34 This rule applies to all juvenile dependency proceedings filed or pending until the 35 state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic is lifted.
36

37 (b) Essential hearings and orders

38
39 The following matters should be prioritized in accordance with existing statutory 40 time requirements.
41

- 42 (1) Protective custody warrants filed under Welfare and Institutions Code section 43 340.

- (2) Detention hearings under Welfare and Institutions Code section 319. The court is required to determine if it is contrary to the child's welfare to remain with the parent, whether reasonable efforts were made to prevent removal, and whether to vest the placing agency with temporary placement and care.
- (3) Psychotropic medication applications.
- (4) Emergency medical requests.
- (5) A petition for reentry of a nonminor dependent.
- (6) Welfare and Institutions Code section 388 petitions that require an immediate response based on the health and safety of the child, which should be reviewed for a prima facie showing of change of circumstances sufficient to grant the petition or to set a hearing. The court may extend the final ruling on the petition beyond 30 days.

(c) Foster care hearings and continuances during the state of emergency

- (1) A court may hold any proceeding under this rule via remote technology consistent with rule 5.531 and emergency rule 3.
- (2) At the beginning of any hearing at which one or more participants appears remotely, the court must admonish all the participants that the proceeding is confidential and of the possible sanctions for violating confidentiality.
- (3) The child welfare agency is responsible for notice of remote hearings unless other arrangements have been made with counsel for parents and children. Notice is required for all parties and may include notice by telephone or other electronic means. The notice must also include instructions on how to participate in the court hearing remotely.
- (4) Court reports
 - (A) Attorneys for parents and children must accept service of the court report electronically.
 - (B) The child welfare agency must ensure that the parent and the child receive a copy of the court report on time.

1 (C) If a parent or child cannot receive the report electronically, the child
2 welfare agency must deliver a hard copy of the report to the parent and 3 the child on time.

5 (5) Nothing in this subdivision prohibits the court from making statutorily
6 required findings and orders, by minute order only and without a court
7 reporter, by accepting written stipulations from counsel when appearances
8 are waived if the stipulations are confirmed on the applicable Judicial 9 Council forms or equivalent local court forms.
10

11 (6) If a court hearing cannot occur either in the courthouse or remotely, the 12 hearing may be continued up to 60 days, except as otherwise specified.
13

14 (A) A dispositional hearing under Welfare and Institutions Code section 15 360 should not be continued more than 6 months after the detention
16 hearing without review of the child's circumstances. In determining 17 exceptional circumstances that justify holding the dispositional hearing
18 more than 6 months after the child was taken into protective custody,
19 the impact of the state of emergency related to the COVID-19
20 pandemic must be considered.
21

22 i. If the dispositional hearing is continued more than 6 months after 23 the start date of protective custody, a review of the child must be 24 held at the 6-month date. At the review, the court must determine 25 the continued necessity for and appropriateness of the placement;
26 the extent of compliance with the case plan or available services
27 that have been offered; the extent of progress which has been
28 made toward alleviating or mitigating the causes necessitating
29 placement; and the projected likely date by which the child may 30 return home or placed permanently.
31

32 ii. The court may continue the matter for a full hearing on all 33 dispositional findings and orders.
34

35 (B) A judicial determination of reasonable efforts must be made within 12 36 months of the date a child enters foster care to maintain a child's 37 federal title IV-E availability. If a permanency hearing is continued 38 beyond the 12-month date, the court must review the case to determine 39 if the agency has made reasonable efforts to return the child home or 40 arrange for the child to be placed permanently. This finding can be 41 made without prejudice and may be reconsidered at a full hearing.
42

1 (7) During the state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic, previously
2 authorized visitation must continue, but the child welfare agency is to 3 determine the manner of visitation to ensure that the needs of the family are 4 met. If the child welfare agency changes the manner of visitation for a child
5 and a parent or legal guardian in reunification, or for the child and a
6 sibling(s), or a hearing is pending under Welfare and Institutions Code 7 section 366.26, the child welfare agency must notify the attorneys for the 8 children and parents within 5 court days of the change. All changes in 9 manner of visitation during this time period must be made on a case by case 10 basis, balance the public health directives and best interest of the child, and 11 take into consideration whether in-person visitation may continue to be held 12 safely. Family time is important for child and parent well-being, as well as 13 for efforts toward reunification. Family time is especially important during 14 times of crisis. Visitation may only be suspended if a detriment finding is 15 made in a particular case based on the facts unique to that case. A detriment 16 finding must not be based solely on the existence of the impact of the state of 17 emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic or related public health
18 directives.

20 (A) The attorney for the child or parent may ask the juvenile court to 21 review the change in manner of visitation. The child or parent has the 22 burden of showing that the change is not in the best interest of the child
23 or is not based on current public health directives.

24
25 (B) A request for the court to review the change in visitation during this 26 time period must be made within 14 court days of the change. In 27 reviewing the change in visitation, the court should take into 28 consideration the factors in (c)(7).

29
30 (d) Sunset of rule

31
32 This rule will remain in effect until 90 days after the Governor declares that the 33 state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic is lifted, or until amended or 34 repealed by the Judicial Council.

35
36 Advisory Committee Comment

37
38 When courts are unable to hold regular proceedings because of an emergency that has resulted in 39 an order as authorized under Government Code section 68115, federal timelines do not stop.
40 Circumstances may arise where reunification services to the parent, including visitation, may not 41 occur or be provided. The court must consider the circumstances of the emergency when deciding 42 whether to extend or terminate reunification services and whether services were reasonable given 43 the state of the emergency. (Citations: 42 U.S.C. § 672(a)(1)–(2), (5); 45 CFR § 1355.20; 45 CFR

Emergency rule 7. Emergency orders: juvenile delinquency proceedings

(a) Application

This rule applies to all proceedings in which a petition has been filed under Welfare and Institutions Code section 602 in which a hearing would be statutorily required during the state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

(b) Juvenile delinquency hearings and orders during the state of emergency

- (1) A hearing on a petition for a child who is in custody under Welfare and Institutions Code section 632 or 636 must be held within the statutory timeframes as modified by an order of the court authorized by Government Code section 68115. The court must determine if it is contrary to the welfare of the child to remain in the home, whether reasonable services to prevent removal occurred, and whether to place temporary placement with the probation agency if the court will be keeping the child detained and out of the home.
- (2) If a child is detained in custody and an in-person appearance is not feasible due to the state of emergency, courts must make reasonable efforts to hold any statutorily required hearing for that case via remote appearance within the required statutory time frame and as modified by an order of the court authorized under Government Code section 68115 for that proceeding. If a remote proceeding is not a feasible option for such a case during the state of emergency, the court may continue the case as provided in (d) for the minimum period of time necessary to hold the proceedings.
- (3) Without regard to the custodial status of the child, the following hearings should be prioritized during the state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic:
 - (A) Psychotropic medication applications.
 - (B) All emergency medical requests.

2 (C) A petition for reentry of a nonminor dependent.

4 (D) A hearing on any request for a warrant for a child.

6 (E) A probable cause determination for a child who has been detained but 7 has not had a detention hearing within the statutory time limits.

9 (4) Notwithstanding any other law, and except as described in (5), during the 10 state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic, the court may 11 continue for good cause any hearing for a child not detained in custody who 12 is subject to its juvenile delinquency jurisdiction until a date after the state of 13 emergency has been lifted considering the priority for continued hearings in 14 (d).

15
16 (5) For children placed in foster care under probation supervision, a judicial 17 determination of reasonable efforts must be made within 12 months of the 18 date the child enters foster care to maintain a child's federal title IV-E
19 availability. If a permanency hearing is continued beyond the 12-month date, 20 the court must nevertheless hold a review to determine if the agency has 21 made reasonable efforts to return the child home or place the child
22 permanently. This finding can be made without prejudice and may be 23 reconsidered at a full hearing.

24
25 (c) Proceedings with remote appearances during the state of emergency.

26
27 (1) A court may hold any proceeding under this rule via remote technology 28 consistent with rule 5.531 and emergency rule 3.

29
30 (2) At the beginning of any hearing conducted with one or more participants 31 appearing remotely, the court must admonish all the participants that the 32 proceeding is confidential and of the possible sanctions for violating 33 confidentiality.

34
35 (3) The court is responsible for giving notice of remote hearings, except for 36 notice to a victim, which is the responsibility of the prosecuting attorney or 37 the probation department. Notice is required for all parties and may include
38 notice by telephone or other electronic means. The notice must also include 39 instructions on how to participate in the hearing remotely.

40
41 (4) During the state of emergency, the court has broad discretion to take evidence 42 in the manner most compatible with the remote hearing process, including 43 but not limited to taking testimony by written declaration. If counsel for a child or the prosecuting attorney objects to the court's evidentiary procedures, that is a basis for issuing a continuance under (d).

(d) Continuances of hearings during the state of emergency.

Notwithstanding any other law, the court may for good cause continue any hearing other than a detention hearing for a child who is detained in custody. In making this determination, the court must consider the custody status of the child, whether there are evidentiary issues that are contested, and, if so, the ability for those issues to be fairly contested via a remote proceeding.

(e) Extension of time limits under Welfare and Institutions Code section 709

In any case in which a child has been found incompetent under Welfare and Institutions Code section 709 and that child is eligible for remediation services or has been found to require secure detention, any time limits imposed by section 709 for provision of services or for secure detention are tolled for the period of the state of emergency if the court finds that remediation services could not be provided because of the state of emergency.

(f) Sunset of rule

This rule will remain in effect until 90 days after the Governor declares that the state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic is lifted, or until amended or repealed by the Judicial Council.

Advisory Committee Comment

This emergency rule is being adopted in part to ensure that detention hearings for juveniles in delinquency court must be held in a timely manner to ensure that no child is detained who does not need to be detained to protect the child or the community. The statutory scheme for juveniles who come under the jurisdiction of the delinquency court is focused on the rehabilitation of the child and thus makes detention of a child the exceptional practice, rather than the rule. Juvenile courts are able to use their broad discretion under current law to release detained juveniles to protect the health of those juveniles and the health and safety of the others in detention during the current state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Emergency rule 8. Emergency orders: temporary restraining or protective orders

(a) Application

1 Notwithstanding any other law, this rule applies to any emergency protective order,
2 temporary restraining order, or criminal protective order that was requested, issued,
3 or set to expire during the state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic.
4 This includes requests and orders issued under Family Code sections 6250 or 6300,
5 Code of Civil Procedure sections 527.6 , 527.8, or 527.85, Penal Code sections
6 136.2, 18125 or 18150, or Welfare and Institutions Code sections 213.5, 304,
7 362.4, or 15657.03, and including any of the foregoing orders issued in connection
8 with an order for modification of a custody or visitation order issued pursuant to a
9 dissolution, legal separation, nullity, or parentage proceeding under Family Code
10 section 6221.

11
12 (b) Duration of orders

- 13
14 (1) Any emergency protective order made under Family Code section 6250 that 15 is issued during the state of emergency must remain in effect for up to 30
16 days from the date of issuance.
17
18 (2) Any temporary restraining order or gun violence emergency protective order
19 issued or set to expire during the state of emergency related to the COVID-19 20 pandemic must remain in effect for a period of time that the court determines 21 is sufficient to allow for a hearing on the long-term order to occur, for up to 22 90 days.
23
24 (3) Any criminal protective order, subject to this rule, set to expire during the 25 state of emergency, must be automatically extended for a period of 90 days, 26 or until the matter can be heard, whichever occurs first.
27
28 (4) Upon the filing of a request to renew a restraining order after hearing that is 29 set to expire during the state of emergency related to the COVID-19
30 pandemic, the current restraining order after hearing must remain in effect 31 until a hearing on the renewal can occur, for up to 90 days from the date of 32 expiration.
33

34 (Subd (b) amended effective April 20, 2020.)

35
36 (c) Ex parte requests and requests to renew restraining orders

- 37
38 (1) Courts must provide a means for the filing of ex parte requests for temporary 39 restraining orders and requests to renew restraining orders. Courts may do so 40 by providing a physical location, drop box, or, if feasible, through electronic 41 means.
42

1 (2) Any ex parte request and request to renew restraining orders may be filed
2 using an electronic signature by a party or a party's attorney.

4 (Subd (c) amended effective April 20, 2020.)

6 (d) Service of Orders

8 If a respondent appears at a hearing by video, audio, or telephonically, and the 9 court grants an order, in whole or in part, no further service is required upon the 10 respondent for enforcement of the order, provided that the court follows the 11 requirements of Family Code section 6384.
12

13 (e) Entry of orders into California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System
14

15 Any orders issued by a court modifying the duration or expiration date of orders
16 subject to this rule, must be transmitted to the Department of Justice through the 17 California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System (CLETS), as provided in 18 Family Code section 6380, without regard to whether they are issued on Judicial 19 Council forms, or in another format during the state of emergency.

22
23

24 Emergency rule 9. Tolling statutes of limitations for civil causes of action
25

26 (a) Tolling statutes of limitations over 180 days
27

28 Notwithstanding any other law, the statutes of limitations and repose for civil 29 causes of action that exceed 180 days are tolled from April 6, 2020, until October 30 1, 2020.
31

32 (Subd (a) amended effective May 29, 2020.)
33

34 (b) Tolling statutes of limitations of 180 days or less
35

36 Notwithstanding any other law, the statutes of limitations and repose for civil 37 causes of action that are 180 days or less are tolled from April 6, 2020, until August 38 3, 2020.

2 Emergency rule 13. Effective date for requests to modify support

4 (a) Application

6 Notwithstanding any other law, including Family Code sections 3591, 3603, 3653,
7 and 4333, this rule applies to all requests to modify or terminate child, spousal,
8 partner, or family support. For the purpose of this rule, “request” refers to Request
9 for Order (form FL-300), Notice of Motion (Governmental) (form FL-680), or 10 other moving papers requesting a modification of support.
11

12 (b) Effective date of modification

13
14 Except as provided in Family Code section 3653(b), an order modifying or 15 terminating a support order may be made effective as of the date the request and 16 supporting papers are mailed or otherwise served on the other party, or other
17 party’s attorney when permitted. Nothing in this rule restricts the court’s discretion
18 to order a later effective date.
19

20 (c) Service of filed request

21
22 If the request and supporting papers that were served have not yet been filed with 23 the court, the moving party must also serve a copy of the request and supporting 24 papers after they have been filed with the court on the other party, or other party’s
25 attorney when permitted. If the moving party is the local child support agency and 26 the unfiled request already has a valid court date and time listed, then subsequent 27 service of the request is not required.
28

29 (d) Court discretion

30
31 Nothing in this rule is meant to limit court discretion or to alter rule 5.92 or 5.260
32 regarding which moving papers are required to request a modification of support.
33

34 (e) Sunset of rule

35
36 This rule will remain in effect until 90 days after the Governor declares that the 37 state of emergency related to the COVID-19 pandemic is lifted, or until amended or 38 repealed by the Judicial Council.
