S075727

PEOPLE v. JOHNSON
(CEDRIC JEROME)

Rehearing denied; opinion modified

The opinion in this matter filed December 27, 2018, and appearing at 6 Cal.5th 541, is modified as follows:

1. On pages 572-573 of the opinion, in the paragraph that begins, “The legal principles governing a Marsden motion,” the third sentence that begins, “But the trial court has” is deleted along with the remainder of the paragraph. This text is inserted in its place: In People v. Sanchez (2011) 53 Cal.4th 80, we held that if a defendant requests substitute counsel “at any time during criminal proceedings,” the trial court must, under Marsden, “give the defendant an opportunity to state any grounds for dissatisfaction with the current appointed attorney.” (Id. at p. 90.) But when a defendant asks for new counsel, a trial court’s duty to undertake the Marsden inquiry “arises ‘only when the defendant asserts directly or by implication that his counsel’s performance has been so inadequate as to deny him his constitutional right to effective counsel.’ ” (People v. Leonard (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 776, 787.)

As modified, the new paragraph reads as follows:

The legal principles governing a Marsden motion are well settled. “ ‘ “When a defendant seeks to discharge his appointed counsel and substitute another attorney, and asserts inadequate representation, the trial court must permit the defendant to explain the basis of his contention and to relate specific instances of the attorney’s inadequate performance.” ’ ” (People v. Vines (2011) 51 Cal.4th 830, 878, italics added; cf. People v. Wharton (1991) 53 Cal.3d 522, 580 [“When the basis of a defendant’s dissatisfaction with counsel is set forth in a letter of sufficient detail, however, a full-blown hearing is not required”].) In People v. Sanchez (2011) 53 Cal.4th 80, we held that if a defendant requests substitute counsel “at any time during criminal proceedings,” the trial court must, under Marsden, “give the defendant an opportunity to state any grounds for dissatisfaction with the current appointed attorney.” (Id. at p. 90.) But when a defendant asks for new counsel, a trial court’s duty to undertake the Marsden inquiry “arises ‘only when the defendant asserts directly or by implication that his counsel’s performance has been so inadequate as to deny him his constitutional right to effective counsel.’ ” (People v. Leonard (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 776, 787.)

2. On page 573 of the opinion, in the paragraph that currently begins, “Defendant did not assert inadequate performance,” the first sentence and the final sentence of that paragraph are deleted. The following sentences are inserted in place of the original final sentence: Here, defendant failed to link his request to counsel's performance at that point or any earlier point in the proceedings. Particularly in light of defendant's repeated misconduct and disruptions, neither request directly or by implication sought to convey a genuine complaint about counsel's performance, rather than a generalized but persistent frustration with the court and the proceedings. (People v. Leonard, supra, 78 Cal.App.4th at p. 787; see People v. Martinez (2009) 47 Cal.4th 399, 421 ["we agree with the decisions of the Courts of Appeal holding specifically that the trial court is not required to conduct a Marsden hearing on its own motion"].)

As modified, the paragraph now reads as follows:

At the hearing on July 7, which began with defendant spitting on his attorney and included his repeated outbursts and copious profanity and insults directed at the court, defendant said "Fuck you" and then said, "I ask that I be allowed another attorney." When the court responded, "I am not getting you another attorney," defendant replied, "I'll get me one." At another status conference the following week, defendant interrupted the court to announce he "would like a continuance and another counsel. Under the Sixth Amendment-." The court said, "Denied," without specifying whether it was denying the motion on the ground that defendant had interrupted the court or was denying it as insufficient. Here, defendant failed to link his request to counsel's performance at that point or any earlier point in the proceedings. Particularly in light of defendant's repeated misconduct and disruptions, neither request directly or by implication sought to convey a genuine complaint about counsel's performance, rather than a generalized but persistent frustration with the court and the proceedings. (People v. Leonard (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 776, 787; see People v. Martinez (2009) 47 Cal.4th 399, 421 ["we agree with the decisions of the Courts of Appeal holding specifically that the trial court is not required to conduct a Marsden hearing on its own motion"].)

The modification does not affect the judgment. The petition for rehearing is denied.

Order to show cause issued, returnable in Superior Court

This petition for writ of habeas corpus was filed on April 2, 2013, before the effective date of Proposition 66, the “Death Penalty Reform and Savings Act of 2016.” (See Briggs v. Brown (2017) 3 Cal.5th 808, 862, reh’g. den. Oct. 25, 2017.) Under section 1509, subdivision (g) of the Penal Code, the court exercises its authority to retain this petition and decide it.

The Secretary of the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation is ordered to show cause in the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside, when the matter is placed on calendar, why the relief prayed for should not be granted on the grounds that: (1) Petitioner is actually innocent of the first degree murder of Martin Campos by personal use of a firearm, as alleged in Claim 1; and (2) There was jury misconduct at the guilt phase deliberations because members of the jury overtly appealed to race during deliberations, as alleged in a subclaim of Claim 7.

The return is to be filed on or before April 12, 2019.

All remaining claims are denied on the merits.

In addition, to the extent it does not allege ineffective assistance of counsel, Claim 4 is procedurally barred on the ground it could have been but was not raised on appeal. (In re Dixon (1953) 41 Cal.2d 756, 759.) Claim 8 is procedurally barred on the ground it could have been raised before the trial court but was not. (In re Seaton (2004) 34 Cal.4th 193, 201-203.) To the extent they do not allege ineffective assistance of counsel, the subclaims in Claim 11 alleging error during jury selection of the first jury are procedurally barred on the ground that they were raised and rejected on appeal. (In re Waltreus (1965) 62 Cal.2d 218, 225.) To the extent they do not allege ineffective assistance of counsel, the subclaims in Claim 11 alleging errors during jury selection of the penalty phase retrial jury are procedurally barred on the ground they could have been raised on appeal but were not. (Dixon, p. 759.)

This court retains jurisdiction over all matters concerning the appointment of counsel for petitioner.

S251879 WRIGHT (RODERICK DEVON) ON CLEMENCY

Order filed

The Governor's motion to file under seal is granted in part and denied in part.

With regard to the Direct Pardon Investigation Report found at pages 5 to 15 of the unredacted clemency record lodged by the Governor with this court on January 2, 2019, the summary criminal history information found at pages 60 to 67 of this record, and the probation notice found at page 70 of this record, the court finds that, in light of the specific facts and circumstances of this matter, the public right of access overcomes the justifications provided for nondisclosure. The Governor is ordered to file these documents with this court on or before March 20, 2019, redacting therefrom only confidential personal information (e.g., current home address, social security number), in a manner consistent with the redactions of similar information found elsewhere within the resubmitted record.

The motion is granted in all other respects. The court finds, as to the remaining subjects of the motion to seal, that on the facts of this case overriding interests exist that overcome the right of public access to these records, to wit, an interest in maintaining the confidentiality of specific personal information and attorney communications contained within the records; these overriding interests support sealing the records; a substantial probability exists that the overriding interests will be prejudiced if the records are not sealed; the proposed sealing is narrowly tailored; and no less restrictive means exist to achieve the overriding interests. (Cal. Rules of Court, rules 2.550(d)-(e), 8.46(d)(6).)

Subject to the other provisions of this order, the clerk of this court is directed to file under seal the unredacted clemency record lodged with this court on January 2, 2019.
